2. Hence alſo is it evident, that there muſt be two Natures in Chriſt; that of the Λόγος, which appeared from the beginning to the Patriarchs; and that which he received when as Man he was conceived in the Virgins Womb.

3. Hence it appears that this Nature, in which he appeared before his Conception in the Virgins Womb muſt be Divine. For what other Nature could appear in the form of God, and challenge to it ſelf the Glory which by the Jews was ſtill eſteemed a certain indication of the Divine Preſence, and in the New Teſtament is ſtiled the Glory of the Father? Eſpecially if we conſider, that he who thus appeared hath the incommunicable Name Jehovah ſo oft aſcribed to him, is ſtiled the Judge of the whole Earth, and either challengeth to himſelf the Divine Attributes, and Offices, or never doth refuſe them, when they are offered to him by Men. Moreover, where is the Humiliation, or the Exinanition here mentioned, in that Chriſt would not be, or appear as God in the World, if, having only an Human Nature, he could not do ſo without being Guilty of the Blaſphemy the Jews laid to his Charge, that he being a Man made himſelf God? whereas he differ'd in nothing from an ordinary Man, but only in the extraordinary Gifts conferred by God upon him. And if his Nature was Divine, it of neceſſity muſt be Eternal, ſince the Divine Nature can have no beginning of Exiſtence.

Ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἀνθρώπων γενόμενος, and being in the likeneſs of Man.] That our Lord had the Real Nature, and not only the outward Shape or Reſemblance of a Man; that he had a Body conſiſting of Fleſh, Blood, and Bones; a Soul and Spirit; and ſo all the conſtituent Parts of a Man, the Scripture plainly teſtifies. Nor doth this Phraſe, ἐν ὁμοιώματι, in the likeneſs of Man, contradict it, it being uſed of a real Likeneſs by the participation of the ſame Nature as to kind. Thus Adam is ſaid to beget a Son, ἐν ὁμοιώματι αὐτοῦ, in his own likeneſs, who yet was certainly of the ſame Nature with him. And Chriſt is ſaid ὁμοιωθῆναι to be made like to his Brethren by the participation of the Nature of Abraham, and his communion with them in the ſame Fleſh and Blood, Hebr. 2. 14, 16, 17. And 'twas both proper and elegant for the Apoſtle to uſe this expreſſion here, by reaſon of the oppoſition he deſigned to ſhew, betwixt Chriſt's former glorious, and his then preſent humble ſtate, he being then ἐν μορφῇ τοῦ Θεοῦ, in the form of God, now ἐν ὁμοιώματι τῶν ἀνθρώπων, in the likeneſs of a Man.

Μορφὴν δούλου λαβών, he took upon him the form of a Servant.] This Phraſe cannot import only his taking of the Human Nature, that being ſufficiently expreſſed, by ſaying that he was made in the likeneſs of Man; beſides, he ſtill retains the Humane Nature, but doth not now retain the form of a Servant, but of the Lord of all things. Nor are we to underſtand by it his outward Poverty which equall'd him to Servants, ſaith the Learned Grotius, as having nothing of his own; for that is not the ſtate of a Servant only, but of a Son in his minority, and of many unfortunate Perſons who were never Servants. Nor 3*ly*, muſt we underſtand by it, with the Socinians, his Submiſſion to be uſed as a Slave or Servant, by being whipt, and bound, and crucified; for that is the Humiliation which he ſuffered after he had taken upon him the form of a Servant, as theſe words plainly ſhew, He took upon him the form of a Servant, and being found in the faſhion of a Man, he became obedient to the death. Nor is this proper to a Servant, but to a Malefactor; for a Servant is not leſs a Servant when he is not whip'd, or ſcourged. He therefore may be rather ſaid to have taken upon him the form of a Servant, by miniſtring to Men, and being among them as one that ſerved, for as the buſineſs of a Servant is to do nothing for himſelf, but for the good of others, and to ſpend himſelf in miniſtring to their advantage; ſo the Son of Man came not to be miniſtred to, but to miniſter; and, at the cloſe of that Miniſtry, to give his Life a Ranſom for many.

Ver. 9. Wherefore God hath exalted him, (even as to his manhood,) and given him a Name (a Dignity and Majeſty which is) above every Name (of Majeſty, Eph. 1. 21. Hebr. 1. 4.)

Αὐτὸν ὑπερύψωσε, God hath exalted him.] The Fathers on this place adviſe us, εἰς τὴν ἀνθρωπότητα καὶ οὐκ εἰς τὴν θεότητα ταῦτα διανοεῖν, to refer theſe things, not to the Divine, but Human Nature, the Apoſtle not ſpeaking here of the exaltation of the Divine Nature of Chriſt by the manifeſtation of his concealed Glory and Power, but of the Exaltation of that Nature which had ſuffered; for this Exaltation is in Scripture repreſented as the Reward of our Lord's Salutary Paſſion; for we ſee him, ſaith the Apoſtle, who was made a little lower than the Angels for the ſuffering of death, crowned with glory and honour, Hebr. 2. 9. And again, The Elders about the Throne ſay, Worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain to receive power, and riches, and wiſdom, and ſtrength, and honour, and Glory, Apoc. 5. 12. 4. 11.

Moreover, St. John declares that this Dominion and Power was given to the Son of Man, becauſe he was ſo, John 5. 27. though it was given to the Man Chriſt Jeſus, becauſe the fulneſs of the Godhead dwelled in him.

Ver. 10. That at the Name of Jeſus every knee ſhould bow, (humbly acknowledging his Authority; even thoſe) of things in Heaven, (i.e. the holy Angels,) and things in Earth, (i.e. Men,) and things under the Earth, (the dead, who being raiſed by him, ſhall acknowledge his power; for to them the Apoſtle doth apply theſe very words of the Prophet Iſaiah, Rom. 14. 11, 12. Rev. 5. 13.

Ver. 11. And that every tongue, (i.e. Men of all Nations and Languages, Rev. 7. 13.) ſhould confeſs that Jeſus is the Lord, to the Glory of God the Father.

Εἰς δόξαν, to the glory.] He does not ſay, as the Socinians contend, that Chriſt is exalted, to the Glory of God the Father, though that be true of the advancement of his Human Nature; but he ſaith, that being thus exalted, he is to be acknowledged of all Tongues and Nations as their Lord, to the Glory of the Father; nothing more tending to his Glory, then that all Perſons owning Chriſt as their Lord, and yielding Obedience to him, ſhould abound in theſe Works of Righteouſneſs which are through Jeſus Chriſt to the Glory of God the Father, Chap. 1. 11. Eph. 1. 12. Moreover, ſeeing the Father thus exalted the Humanity of Chriſt, ſince he united the Λόγος to the Human Nature, for it pleaſed the Father, that in him ſhould all fulneſs dwell, what hinders that this Exaltation ſhould be ſaid to be to the Glory of God the Father, from whom he received even the Divine Nature?

Ver. 12. Wherefore beloved, (remembring the Dignity of Chriſt, and your Subjection to him,) as ye have always obeyed, not as in my preſence only, (when you had me to be your Monitor,) but much more now in my abſence, (which God by the workings of his holy Spirit ſupplies,) work out your own Salvation with fear and trembling.

Ver. 13. For it is God who (in my abſence, by his inward teachings) worketh in you, both to will and to do of his own good pleaſure.

Ἐν τῇ ἀπουσίᾳ μου, in my abſence.] i. e. When I was preſent with you, I by my Counſels and Exhortations ſtirred you up to deſire, and do what was according to the Mind of God. He, in my abſence is more immediately preſent with you by the inward Motions of his Holy Spirit, to excite you both to will, and do what is well pleaſing to him. Having therefore now all things adminiſtred more immediately by God, which are requiſite to make you willing, and able to perform your Duty, it doth more highly concern you to work out your Salvation. Thus (k) Ignatius ſaith, That he being now in Chains, and going to Rome to receive the Crown of Martyrdom, the Church of Syria had God, inſtead of him to be her Paſtor, and that Chriſt alone was to be over her; this ſenſe, I gather from theſe words, much more in my abſence; for what other reaſon can be offer'd of thoſe words then that which this Interpretation gives.

Hence it is evident that God worketh in us to will and to do, not by a Phyſical Operation, which makes it neceſſary for us to will, and to do what he would have us do; for why then doth the Apoſtle admoniſh his Philippians to work out their Salvation with fear and trembling? for what is more abſurd then to exhort another to do himſelf, what God doth for him without his concurrence; or to require him to will, what he cannot but will and do, for this reaſon, becauſe another renders it neceſſary for him ſo to will? and what ground of fear can there be, leaſt God ſhould fail in his work? That the word ἐνεργῶν doth not require this ſenſe, is evident, becauſe in Scripture it occurs very often, where it muſt be underſtood, not of a Phyſical, but only of a Moral operation; as when Satan is ſaid ἐνεργεῖν, to work in the Children of Diſobedience, Eph. 2. 2. and of the Myſtery of Iniquity that ἐνεργεῖ it now works, 2 Theſſ. 2. 7. 2*ly*, When it is attributed to thoſe Cauſes which produce not their Effects by any Phyſical, but only by a Moral Operation, as when the word is ſaid to be ἐνεργὴς, powerful, Heb. 4. 12. The Word, ὁ ἐνεργεῖ, which effectually works in them that believe, 1 Theſſ. 2. 13. that faith worketh by love, Gal. 5. 6. that Charity is ἐνεργὴς effectual, Philem. 6. and of Concupiſcence that ἐνεργεῖτο it worketh in our Members, Rom. 7. 5. 3*ly*, When it is aſcribed to God ſending upon Men ἐνέργειαν πλάνης, the efficacy of deceit, for ſurely God worketh no evil Phyſically. In a word, Did God thus work in us to to will and do, the Work would be no more aſcribed to us, than the Motion which was impreſs'd on the Body of Lazarus when he came out of the Grave, or upon Paul when wrapt up to the third Heaven, could be aſcribed to them; and the Will would not deſerve that Name, as being neither free, nor praiſe-worthy.

Ver. 14 (And) Do all things without murmurings and diſputings; (i. e. obey the Precepts of the Chriſtian Faith, and of your Spiritual Monitors chearfully, and without grudging, and readily, without exacting a reaſon of every Command they lay upon you.)

Ver. 15. That ye may be blameleſs, and harmleſs, (as becomes) the Sons of God, (being) without rebuke, in the midſt of a crooked and perverſe Nation, among whom ye ſhine as Lights in the World.

Ver. 16. Holding forth (ἐπέχοντες, holding faſt) the word of life (under all Perſecutions and Temptations,) that I may rejoyce in the day of Chriſt, that I have not run in vain, neither laboured in vain.

Ver. 17. And as for me a Priſoner, if I not only ſhould continue abſent from, ἀλλ' εἰ καὶ) But if I be (alſo) offered upon the Sacrifice and Service of your Faith, (i. e. that I may preſent you Gentiles an acceptable Sacrifice to God through Faith, and the Sanctification of the Holy Spirit, Rom. 15. 16.) I joy and rejoyce with you all, (I count theſe Sufferings the matter, not of my ſorrow, but my joy.)

Εἰ καὶ σπένδομαι, if I be offered.] The Apoſtle here hath an elegant Alluſion to the Jewiſh Sacrifices: They were prepared for the Altar on which they were to be offered by the Levites and the Prieſts, and this was their λειτουργία Service, and there was poured upon the Sacrifice Oil or Wine, which was the σπονδὴ or libation; if then, ſaith the Apoſtle, whilſt I am thus λειτουργῶν, wholly employed in rendring you Gentiles an acceptable Sacrifice to the Lord, my Blood ſhould be the libation to be poured out upon this Sacrifice, I ſhould rejoyce even thus to die in your Service, and for the confirmation of your Faith. See Rom. 15. 16.

Ver. 18. (And if this come to paſs,) For the ſame cauſe (or in the like manner) alſo do ye joy, and rejoyce with me.

Ver. 19. But (though I ſpeak thus) I truſt in the Lord Jeſus, (that he will work ſuch a deliverance for me, Chap. 1. 19, 25. as that not needing him ſo much here, I may be able) to ſend Timotheus ſhortly to you, that (whatever be my condition here) I alſo may, (or I may yet) be of good comfort, when I know your ſtate, (i. e. your ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith, and your Charity to one another.)

Ver. 20. (To ſend Timothy, I ſay,) For I have no man (with me) like-minded, who will (ſo) naturally (and with like affection) care for your eſtate.

Ver. 21. For all (here) ſeek their own (intereſts and ſafety,) and not the things which are Jeſus Chriſt; (that is, comparatively to Timothy and Epaphroditus, mentioned v. 25. for I find others too generally more concerned for their own ſafety, than for advancing the Kingdom of Chriſt with the hazard of their own lives and fortunes.)

Ver. 22. But ye know the proof, (ye have had experience) of him, that as a Son with the Father, he hath ſerved with me in the Goſpel; (yielding honour and obedience to me, and with the like ſpirit labouring to promote the affairs of the Goſpel.)

Ver. 23. Him therefore I hope to ſend (to you) preſently, ſo ſoon as I ſhall ſee how it will go with me, (i. e. what will be the iſſue of my bonds.)

Ver. 24. But I truſt (or I truſt alſo) in the Lord, that I my ſelf (being ſet at liberty) ſhall come ſhortly (to you.)

Ver. 25. Yet (being not hitherto able either to come my ſelf, or to ſend Timothy;) I ſuppoſed it neceſſary to ſend to you Epaphroditus my Brother and Companion in labour, and fellow Souldier, but your Meſſenger, and he that miniſtred to my wants.

Ὑμῶν δὲ Ἀπόστολον, your Apoſtle.] So they were uſually ſtiled who gathered Sacred Money, and carried it up to Jeruſalem. And ſo, ſay ſome, he calls Epaphroditus, becauſe he brought the Contributions of the Philippians to him at Rome. But the word Apoſtle is never uſed in the New Teſtament, but either of thoſe who were in the ſtrict ſenſe Apoſtles of the Lord, or elſe were eminent Miniſters and Preachers of the Goſpel; thus Titus, and the Brother of St. Paul, (which is the uſual Appellation of St. Timothy, ſee Note on Hebr. 13. 23.) are ἀπόστολοι, the Apoſtles of the Churches, 2 Cor. 8. 22, 23. and Andronicus and Junia, who had long preached the Goſpel, are ſtiled ἐπίσημοι ἐν τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις, eminent among the Apoſtles of Chriſt. I therefore conclude with Theodoret upon the place, and upon Chap. 1. 1. That (1) the Epiſcopal care of this Church was committed to him, And that this is the import of the word Apoſtle here.

Ver. 26. For he longed after you all, (i. e. deſired much to ſee you,) and was full of heavineſs, becauſe that ye had heard that he had been ſick, (as knowing your affection to him would render you full of ſorrow upon his account.)

Ver. 27. For (And) indeed he was ſick, nigh unto death, but God had mercy upon him, and not on him only, but on me alſo, leſt by his death I ſhould have ſorrow upon ſorrow.

Note. Here we find that Epaphroditus was not recovered by the Gift of Healing, then frequent in the Church, that Gift being not exerciſed, by them to whom it was imparted, at their own pleaſure; but as God was pleaſed by a ſpecial Inſtinct, and a ſtrong Faith to excite them to the exerciſe of it; theſe Gifts being therefore given for the ſake of Unbelievers, to convince them of the truth of the Chriſtian Faith, God thought not fit that it ſhould be ordinarily exerciſed upon Believers, leſt it ſhould be look'd upon not as a Gift, but as the Effect of Art or Skill, or a thing done among them by Confederacy.

Ver. 28. I ſent him therefore the more carefully, that when you ſee him again (recovered,) ye may rejoyce (on the account of it,) and that I alſo may be the leſs ſorrowful, (finding your ſorrow for him turned into joy.)

(1) Σαφῶς πάνυ ἐδίδαξεν, ὡς ἡ ἐπισκοπικὴ οἰκονομία αὐτὸς ἐπιτέτροφε, ἔχων Ἀποστόλου, φησὶ, τάξιν.

Ver. 29. Receive him therefore in the Lord (and for his ſake) with great gladneſs, and hold ſuch (as ſtand thus affected to his Service) in reputation.

Ver. 30. Becauſe for the work of Chriſt (i. e. the promotion of his Goſpel, and the miniſtration to me the Priſoner of the Lord,) he was nigh unto death, not regarding (but freely hazarding) his own life, to ſupply your lack of ſervice towards me.

Παραβολευσάμενος, not regarding his life.] Or as others read, Παραβολευσάμενος, or Παραβολευσάμενος, hazarding his life; that is, ſay the Greek Commentators, εἰς κίνδυνον ἑαυτὸν ἐμβαλὼν, he brought himſelf in danger of death; not by venturing on the Emperor's diſpleaſure, but by labouring ſo as to contract a dangerous Diſeaſe, (which he did, ſaith the Apoſtle, to ſupply your lack of ſervice towards me.) Which is not ſo to be underſtood, as if he charged them with any want of Service or Affection to him, (ſee Chap. 4. 10.) but thus, that Epaphroditus did this, being preſent with him, to ſupply that Service, which they, being abſent, were not in a capacity to perform.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. FInally (τὸ λοιπὸν, henceforth) my Brethren, rejoice in the Lord. To write the ſame things (which I have delivered to you by word of mouth) to me is not grievous, but (for) to you it is ſafe.

Ἀσφαλὲς, it is ſafe.] Viz. Becauſe things only delivered by word of mouth may ſlip out of memory, Litera ſcripta manet. Here is St. Paul's judgment againſt Oral Tradition.

Ver. 2. (I therefore exhort you again, to) Beware of dogs, beware of evil workers, beware of the conciſion.

Τὺς κύνας, Dogs.] It is the obſervation of the (a) Fathers, that the name of Dogs was anciently given to the Gentiles, as being without the Covenant, according to thoſe words of Chriſt, It is not meet to take the Childrens bread, and give it to dogs; but with the Things the Names are now changed, they being now without the Covenant, Apoc. 22, 15. and the believing Gentiles admitted to it, and therefore they are called the Children, but the Jews Dogs. And 'tis well noted by (b) Dr. Lightfoot, that our Lord uſed this Language, Matth. 15. 26. not to expreſs his own Sentiments of the Gentiles, but in compliance with the common Language of the Jews, who proverbially ſaid the Gentiles are likened to Dogs, whereas we are God's peculiar People, even his Sons and Daughters. Where alſo is obſerved by the ſame worthy Perſon, That even the Talmudiſts ſay of the Generation in which the Meſſiah, or the Son of David ſhould come, that the Synagogues ſhould become Stews, and the faces of that Generation ſhall be as Dogs.

Evil workers.] For they labour only to pull down God's Building, and to deſtroy the Church of Chriſt. Elſewhere he ſtiles them deceitful Workers, 2 Cor. 11. 13. not ſpeaking of the Gnoſticks, as ſome imagine, but of the Jews; for ſo it follows, Are they Hebrews? are they Iſraelites? ſo am I, v. 22.

Τὴν κατατομὴν, the Conciſion.] For Circumciſion being no longer a Rite of entring into Covenant with God, it is no better then a cutting off the Fleſh; and they who ſtill inſiſted on it as a thing neceſſary to Juſtification and Salvation, cut themſelves off from Chriſt, Gal. 5. 2, 3.

Ver. 3. For we are the (true and ſpiritual) Circumciſion, which worſhip God in the Spirit (of our mind, Eph. 4. 23.) and rejoyce in Chriſt Jeſus, and have no confidence in the (Circumciſion of) the fleſh, (as if that would commend us to God.)

No confidence in the fleſh.] That the Jews had a great confidence in the Merit of Circumciſion, ſee Note on Rom. 2. 13.

Ver. 4. Though, (were this any proper ground of confidence,) I might have alſo confidence in the fleſh, (as well as they who boaſt of this; for) if any other man think that he hath whereof he might truſt in the fleſh, I (have) more (reaſon ſo to do.)

Ver. 5. (For I was) Circumciſed the eighth day, (the very day preſcribed by the Law, Gen. 17. 12.) of the ſtock of Iſrael, (my Parents and Anceſtors being all of Iſrael,) of the Tribe of Benjamin, (that Tribe which cleaved to Judah, and revolted not with Jeroboam to the Worſhip of the Calves, 1 Kings 12. 21.) an Hebrew of the Hebrews, (both by Nation and Language,) 2 Cor. 11. 22. Περιτομὴ ὀκταήμερος, circumciſed the eighth day.] The Jews themſelves ſay, that Circumciſion before that time was no Circumciſion, and that after the time it was of leſſer value. See Buxtorf. Synag. Jud. cap. 4. p. 109. And (c) Origen informs us, that the Jews held that the Circumciſion performed on the eighth day was that which was chiefly intended, and that the performing it on any other day was only allowed in caſe of ſickneſs: Hence they thought it neceſſary to circumciſe a Child on the Sabbath day, though all manner of Work was forbidden on that day, rather then defer Circumciſion a day beyond the time, John 7. 22. and made it a Rule, that (d) the Reſt of the Sabbath gives place to Circumciſion. And this Opinion, as it agrees with the Text Gen. 17. 12. ſo it ſeems to have obtained long before our Saviour's time; for the Septuagint and the Samaritan Verſion read thus, The uncircumciſed Male, who is not circumciſed, τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῇ ὀγδόῃ, the eighth day, ſhall be cut off, he hath broken my Covenant, Gen. 17. 14

Ver. 6. Concerning zeal (for the Jewiſh Religion, I have ſhewed that above others, in) perſecuting the Church (of Chriſt; Acts 22. 3, 4. 26. 11.) touching the righteouſneſs which is in (and by) the Law, (I have lived) blameleſs (as to that, Acts 23. 1.)

Ver. 7. But what things (of this nature) were (then reputed) gain to me, thoſe I (have) accounted (as) loſs, for Chriſt (s ſake.)

Ver. 8. Yea doubtleſs, and I count all things (of this world) but loſs, for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord, for whom I have ſuffered the loſs of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Chriſt, (i. e. obtain an intereſt in him, and the bleſſings purchaſed by him.)

Ver. 9. And be found in him, not having my own righteouſneſs, which is of the Law, (which cannot juſtifie me, but leaves me ſtill under the Curſe of it, Rom. 3. 20. Gal. 3. 10) but that which is of the Faith of Chriſt, (viz.) the righteouſneſs which is (approved) of God, (i. e. the righteouſneſs which is) by faith (in Chriſt.)

Τὴν ἐκ Θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην, the righteouſneſs of God.] That the Righteouſneſs of God in St. Paul's ſtile, doth always ſignifie the Righteouſneſs by Faith in Jeſus Chriſt dying for us, See Note on Rom. 1. 17. And hence it is evident that the Apoſtle cannot here ſpeak of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed to us: For 1. he does not oppoſe to his own Righteouſneſs, which is of the Law, the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed to him, but his own faith in Chriſt imputed unto him for righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 5. 2*ly*, He ſpeaks of his Faith in Chriſt dying, and ſhedding his Blood for him, and therefore not of his Active Obedience, conſtituting us righteous as Chriſt was, but of his Paſſive Obedience, procuring for us Juſtification, or the Remiſſion of Sin.

Ver. 10. That I may know him, (to be the Meſſiah, and the Saviour of the World, which knowledge is neceſſary to Life Eternal, John 17. 3. 1 Cor. 2. 2.) and the power of his reſurrection, and the fellowſhip of his ſufferings, being made conformable to his death.

Καὶ τὴν δύναμιν, &c. the power of his Reſurrection.] i. e. The power exerciſed in his Reſurrection, by which we are begotten to a lively hope of an inheritance incorruptible, 1 Pet. 1. 3, 4. and are aſſured of our own Reſurrection, 2 Cor. 4. 14. Col. 2. 12. this being that knowledge he ſo earneſtly requeſts for his Epheſians, Chap. 1. 19, 20. And alſo the power of it to aſſure us of our Juſtification through Faith in him, Rom. 4. 24, 25. and of our freedom from Condemnation, Rom. 8. 34.

Τὴν κοινωνίαν, &c. the fellowſhip of his Sufferings.] By being conformed to his death; (1.) Spiritually by dying unto ſin, as knowing that if we be thus conformed to him in the likeneſs of his death, we ſhall be like unto him in his Reſurrection, and ſhall live with him, Rom. 6. 5, 8. And 2*ly*, by ſuffering and taking up the Croſs for his ſake, as knowing that if we thus ſuffer with him, we ſhall be alſo glorified with him, Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. 1 Pet. 4. 13.

Ver. 11. If by (theſe, or) any (other) means I might attain to the reſurrection of the dead, (promiſed by him to all his faithful Servants and Sufferers.)

Ver. 12. (For I can) not (look upon my ſelf) as though I had already attained, (or caught hold of the prize of my high calling, v. 14. the reſurrection of the dead, ver. 11.) or were already perfect, (i. e. crowned with it,) but I follow after, (or purſue it,) if that I may apprehend, (or reach) that (prize,) for (the obtaining of) which alſo I am apprehended of Chriſt Jeſus. (For when I fled from him he caught hold on me, converted me to the faith, that believing in him I might obtain life everlaſting, 1 Tim. 1. 15, 16. εἰ καὶ, if that, or that alſo. See Note on 1 Tim. 5. 10.)

Ver. 13. Brethren, I count not my ſelf to have apprehended, (i. e. caught hold of the prize,) but this one thing I do, forgetting (not looking after) thoſe things which are behind, and reaching forth to thoſe things which are before, for the (obtaining the) prize of the high calling of God in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 14. I preſs toward the mark (the Goal)

Ὡς ἐπὶ δρόμου τὰ πάντα λέγει.] He in theſe Verſes makes a continual alluſion to the race run in the Olympian Games, where he that ran was ſtill ἔμπροσθεν ἐκτεινόμενος upon the ſtretch, and preſſing forwards, without looking back to thoſe whom he had left behind, and purſuing the Goal, that coming firſt to it, he might catch hold of the Prize, and ſo be crowned with it. And two things are here noted by the Fathers worthy of our Obſervation, 1. That if this great Apoſtle, who had ſuffered ſo many things, and was in death often, and who had laboured ſo abundantly, οὔπω ἐδόκιμε περὶ τὴν ἀναστάσεως ἐκείνης, was not yet confident of a bleſſed reſurrection, but only ſtriving, if ſo be he might attain unto it, ſuch as we muſt have leſs ground of confidence. 2*ly*, What continual diligence and labour this purſuit requires; for you know, ſaith Chryſoſtom, with what great ſtretch the purſuer runs, he looks upon no Man, he throws out of the way every thing that might hinder him; he imploys his Body, Eye, Strength, Soul and Mind upon the work, πρὸς ἕτερον μὲν οὐδὲν ὁρῶν, πρὸς ἓν δὲ τὸ βραβεῖον μόνον, looking to nothing elſe, but only to the prize.

Ver. 15. Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, (or throughly inſtructed in our Chriſtian duty,) be thus minded (as I have told you I am, i.e. ſo as to believe the Circumciſion of the Spirit, not that of the Fleſh, and the Righteouſneſs which is of God by Faith, are the things eſpecially to be regarded for the obtaining of this prize;) and if in any thing ye be otherwiſe minded, (imagining the Judaical performances may alſo commend you to God,) God ſhall (in due time) reveal even this unto you, (i.e. he will convince you of the no neceſſity of theſe things in order to his favour.)

Ver. 16. Nevertheleſs (in the mean time) whereto we have already attained, (i.e. as far as we have attained to the knowledge of it,) let us walk by the ſame rule, (viz. that Circumciſion availeth nothing, but a new Creature, Gal. 6. 15, 16.) let us mind the ſame thing.

Τέλειοι, perfect.] That to be perfect, is to be ſufficiently inſtructed in the true Grounds and Principles of Chriſtian Faith, hath been ſhewed, Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6. and on Matth. 19. 21. And by comparing this Paſſage with the Diſcourſe of the ſame Apoſtle in his fifth and ſixth Chapters to the Galatians, we may learn what it is τῷ αὐτῷ στοιχεῖν κανόνι, to walk by the ſame rule; for as there he ſharply inveighs againſt the Galatians, for hearkning to the Teachers of the Neceſſity of Circumciſion, ſo here he warns his Philippians to beware of them and their Doctrine, from v. 2. to the 7th; as there he oppoſeth to Circumciſion the Croſs of Chriſt, in which alone he gloried, Gal. 6. 14. ſo here he oppoſeth to it the fellowſhip of his Sufferings, v. 8, 9. As there he ſays he is perſwaded of his Galatians, that εἰς ἄλλο οὐδὲν φρονήσουσιν, they will be no otherwiſe minded, Gal. 5. 10. ſo here he exhorts his Philippians τὸ αὐτὸ φρονεῖν, to mind the ſame thing, v. 16. As there he teaches them by his own example not to yield to thoſe who urged upon them Circumciſion, Gal. 2. 14, 20. ſo here he exhorts the Philippians to walk in this caſe, as they had him for an example, v. 17. which example he had laid before them, v. 4—9. And as there he promiſeth Mercy and Peace, τοῖς τῷ κανόνι τούτῳ στοιχήσουσιν, to them that walked by the Rule, or Canon, he had there laid down, Gal. 6. 15, 16. ſo here he admoniſheth the Philippians τῷ αὐτῷ στοιχεῖν κανόνι, to walk by the ſame Rule, this Rule muſt therefore be that which he there lays down, That in Chriſt Jeſus neither Circumciſion availeth any thing, nor Uncircumciſion, but a new Creature. Thoſe who are fully perſwaded of this, he ſtiles the perfect, requiring of them a Life exactly conformed to this Rule, from others only as far as they had attained to the knowledge of it, informing them that the time was at hand when God, by deſtroying the Jewiſh Temple, and diſcovering the Jewiſh Church and Oeconomy, would further reveal this truly to them, and convince them of the vanity of theſe Judaical Performances.

Ver. 17. Brethren, be ye followers of me (in this matter, who have renounced all my Jewiſh Priviledges, and mark them (for your Patterns) who walk ſo as he have us for an example, (of the ſpiritual Circumciſion, and of minding the prize of our high calling.)

Ver. 18. For many (Zealots for the Law, ſo) walk as I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the Enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt.

Ver. 19. Whoſe end is deſtruction, whoſe god is their belly, whoſe glory is in their ſhame, who mind earthly things.

Ὧν τὸ τέλος, whoſe end is deſtruction.] That the deſcription here given of theſe Men agrees well with the manners of the Gnoſticks, cannot be denied; but yet that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of them, but of the Jews, moſt Ancient and Modern Commentators do aſſert. And there ſeems reaſon to prefer this latter Expoſition, (1.) Becauſe he ſaith he had told his Philippians often of theſe Men; now v. 1. he informs them that he then writ to them of the ſame things which he had before ſpoken to them by word of mouth, viz. that they ſhould beware of thoſe Jews whom he there ſtiles Dogs, evil Workers, the Concision. 2*ly*, He oppoſes his own Example, who had renounced all his Jewiſh Priviledges, and the example of thoſe who worſhipped God in the Spirit, and rejoyced in Chriſt Jeſus, and had no confidence in the Fleſh, v. 3, 17. to the example of theſe Men. And (3*ly*,) the deſcription he gives of them is agreeable to what he elſewhere ſaith of the ſame Jews. For,

1. They

1. They were Enemies to the Croſs of Chriſt. That being not only a ſtumbling block to the unbelieving Jews, 1 Cor. 1.23. but being alſo overthrown by them who preached up the Neceſſity of Circumciſion, and of Legal Obſervations to Salvation; for hence, ſaith the Apoſtle, it follows, that Chriſt is dead in vain, Gal. 2. 21. that then the ſcandal of the Croſs is ceaſed, Gal. 5. 10. and that Chriſt would profit them nothing who were upon this account circumciſed, Gal. 5. 2. and that they were fallen from grace, v. 4. And from the Apoſtle's diſcourſe in the beginning of this Chapter, it appears, ſaith Eſthius, that he here ſpeaketh of theſe Men.

2. That their end was to be deſtruction, the Apoſtle teacheth in theſe words, Such are falſe Apoſtles, deceitful workers, whoſe end ſhall be according to their works, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 15. and this he ſpeaks of them who were Hebrews and Iſraelites, v. 22. as alſo here v. 4.

3. That their god was their belly; i. e. that they chiefly had regard to that, as we learn from the ſame Apoſtle, ſaying, Theſe ſerve not the Lord, but their own belly; which, ſaith Theodoret, he ſpeaks of the evil defenders of the Law. See Note on Rom. 16.18. that they were γαστέρες, ſlow bellies, or luxurious People, Tit. 1. 12. ſee Note there; they devoured thoſe they perverted, 2 Cor. 11. 20. Their glory was in their ſhame; that is, ſay the Ancient Fathers, in the Circumciſion of the ſhameful Member; ſay others, in thoſe evil works, v. 2. which ought to be the matter of their ſhame, they being ſuch as blaſphemed the Name of God among the Gentiles, Rom. 2.24. they minded earthly things, counting gain godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 5. Tit. 1. 11.

Ver. 20. (Imitate us, I ſay,) For our converſation (or our City) is in Heaven, from whence alſo we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ἡμῶν γὰρ τὸ πολίτευμα ἐν οὐρανοῖς, our Converſation is in Heaven.] So (e) Philo repreſents God's Prieſts and Prophets; for having ſaid of Men, οἱ μὲν γῆς, οἱ δ' οὐρανοῦ, ſome are of the Earth, ſome of Heaven, he adds, that of the latter ſort are the Prieſts and Prophets, who tranſcending all ſenſual things, would not be called κοσμοπολῖται, Citizens of the World, but tranſlating themſelves into the intellectual World dwell there, ἐγγραφέντες ἀφθάρτων ἀσωμάτων ἰδεῶν πολιτείᾳ, being enrolled in the polity of incorporeal and incorruptible beings. They, ſaith the Apoſtle, mind earthly things, and ſo are κοσμοπολῖται, Men who have this World for their City, (f) Nos autem Civitatem Cœlum habemus, but we have Heaven for our City, as living in expectation of a City whoſe builder and maker is God, Hebr. 11.10.

Ver. 21. Who ſhall change our vile Body (now ſubject to corruption, paſſions, and ſorrows,) that it may be faſhioned like unto his glorious Body, according to the working whereby he is able even to ſubdue all things to himſelf.

Τὸ σῶμα τῆς ταπεινώσεως ἡμῶν, our vile Body.] The Body of our Humiliation; that is, ſaith Methodius, our Body which ταπεινοῦται ἀπὸ σφάλματος, is humbled by the fall, and become mortal. That Body, ſaith (g) Irenæus, which is humbled by falling into the Earth, and which ſhall be transformed from a mortal and corruptible, into an immortal and incorruptible Body.

Note here, (1.) What a value is put upon the Reſurrection, and Redemption of the Body from Corruption, as if it were the chief thing which Chriſtians waited for, and expected from our Saviour at his coming, Rom. 8.23.

2. Note the Divine Power in Chriſt, to whom is here aſcribed that Reſurrection which is frequently made an Indication of the Godhead, it being God who raiſeth from the dead, Rom. 4. 17. Acts 26. 8. and which is aſcribed to the exceeding greatneſs, and to the energy of his mighty Power, Eph. 1. 19. and yet is here aſcribed to the energy of Chriſt. And

3*ly*, Note the pious obſervation of the Fathers, That their Folly can never be ſufficiently lamented who deprive themſelves of ſuch a glorious Reſurrection; ſo Oecumenius and Theophylact.

Note 4*ly*, That (h) Philo and the Platoniſts ſo call theſe Bodies, ὡς ταπεινοῦσιν ἐπάγοντα τῇ ψυχῇ, becauſe theſe earthly Tabernacles do humble and depreſs the Soul.

(e) Libro de Gigant. p. 227. E. (f) So Bud. renders theſe words.

(g) Quid eſt humilitatis corpus manifeſtum eſt, quod eſt corpus, quod eſt caro, quod & humiliatur cadens in terra, tranſfiguratio autem ejus, quoniam cum ſit mortalis & corruptibilis, immortalis fit, & incorruptibilis. L. 5. c. 13.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. WHerefore my Brethren, dearly beloved, and longed for, my joy and my crown, ſo ſtand faſt in the Lord; (as thoſe who do expect his coming to confer theſe bleſſings on you, 1 Cor. 15. 58. or ſo ſtand faſt in the liberty wherewith Chriſt has made you free, as I have taught you, Gal. 5. 1.)

Ver. 2. I beſeech Euodius, and beſeech Syntyche, to mind the ſame thing in (the concerns of) the Lord.

Τὸ αὐτὸ φρονεῖν, to mind the ſame thing] here, is not to be of the ſame Judgment in all things, for no Man can become of the ſame Judgment with another by entreaty, but only by conviction: The Exhortation therefore is, (1.) to have the ſame Love to one another, Chap. 2. 2. with the ſame Soul and Spirit to promote the Goſpel of Chriſt, Chap. 1. 27. to walk by the ſame Rule, as far as they have attained to the knowledge of it, Chap. 3. 16.

Ver. 3. And I entreat thee alſo, true yoke-fellow, help thoſe Women who labour'd with me in the (promotion of) the Goſpel, with Clemens alſo, and other my fellow labourers, whoſe names are written in the Book of Life.

Σύζυγε, yoke-fellow.] That this yoke-fellow cannot be St. Paul's Wife, is certain; (1.) Becauſe he declares himſelf an unmarried Man, 1 Cor. 7. 7. i. e. either a Virgin, or a Widower. (2*ly*,) Becauſe a Woman cannot be ſtiled γνήσιος, but γνησία σύζυγος. It is unlikely he ſhould mean Epaphroditus, he being not then at Philippi, but with him at Rome. v. 18. It may be therefore one of thoſe Rulers of the Church whom he ſaluted in the front of this Epiſtle.

Ἐν βίβλῳ ζωῆς, whoſe Names are written in the Book of Life.] This is a Judaical Phraſe, viz. They ſhall not be written in the Book of Eternal Life, which is written for the juſt of the Houſe of Iſrael, Targum in Ezek. 13. 9. and it doth not ſignifie the abſolute Election of any to Eternal Life, but only their preſent right to that Inheritance by virtue of the Obedience of Faith, Rev. 20. 15. 21. 27. For (1.) the Apoſtle declares of all the Jews to whom he writ, that they were come to the General Aſſembly of the Firſt-born, who were written in Heaven, Hebr. 12. 23. and yet he in the following Verſe ſaith to them, See that ye refuſe not him that ſpeaketh. (2.) Chriſt threatneth to ſome, that he would blot out their Names out of the Book of Life, Rev. 22. 19. and promiſeth to him that overcometh, that he would not blot his Name out of the Book of Life, Rev. 3. 5. and God himſelf ſaith to Moſes, Whoſoever hath ſinn'd againſt me, him will I blot out of the Book which I have written, Exod. 32. 32, 33. that is, out of the Book of the Juſt ſaith the Targum of Jonathan.

Ver. 4. Rejoyce in the Lord always, and again, I ſay, rejoyce.

Ver. 5. Let your moderation be known unto all men, (for) the Lord is at hand.

Τὸ ἐπιεικὲς, your Moderation.] Your Meekneſs and Patience under all your Trials. Be ye patient, ſaith St. James, for the coming of the Lord is at hand, Chap. 5. 8. See Hebr. 10. 36, 37. This is almoſt the conſtant ſenſe of the Greek word in the Septuagint, where it anſwers to the חנן and רחם and ſignifies to be gracious and propitious, 1 Sam. 12. 22. Ezra 9. 4. Pſal. 85. 4. Ἐπείνεσας εἰς ἡμᾶς μετὰ πάσης ἐπιεικείας σου, Thou haſt dealt with us according to all thy goodneſs, and thy great mercy. So Cant. puer. v. 18. Let us torture the juſt man, that we may know τὸ ἐπιεικὲς αὐτοῦ, his meekneſs, Wiſd. 2. 19. Thou judgeſt ἐν ἐπιεικείᾳ, with mildneſs, Chap. 12. 18. He will yield to your deſires, ἐπιεικῶς καὶ φιλανθρώπως, favourably and kindly, 2 Macc. 9. 27. So the Syriac and Arabick, who render it manſuetudo veſtra. So Phavorinus, ἐπιεικὴς, πρᾶος, πρὸς τὸ εἶκειν, τὸ ὑποχωρεῖν.

Ὁ Κύριος ἐγγύς, the Lord is at hand.] So the Apoſtles thought, ſaith Grotius upon the place; tacitly inſinuating that they were miſtaken in this matter: But this Expoſition reflecting very injuriouſly upon the Authority of the Apoſtles, and the Spirit by which they ſpake, and that of the Fathers, ὁ κύριος ἐγγὺς ἡ ἡμέρα ἐκείνη, the Day of Judgment is at hand, being found by Experience falſe, we of neceſſity muſt have recourſe to ſome other Expoſition of their words, when they ſo often tell the Chriſtians to whom they write, That the Lord is at hand; that he ſtands even at the door, James 5. 9. that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh, v. 8. that the end of all things is at hand, 1 Pet. 4. 7. that the day of the Lord is near, Hebr. 10. 25. that it is but a little while and ὁ ἐρχόμενος, he that is coming will come, and will not tarry. I ſay, we muſt of neceſſity, for Expoſition of theſe places, have recourſe to ſome other Advent of our Lord, for it is by no means to be granted, that the Apoſtles were miſtaken in their apprehenſions of this matter, and that they confidently aſſerted that the great Day of Judgment was then at hand, when after Sixteen hundred years it is yet far off, the Deſtruction of Antichriſt, the Calling of the Jews, and the Millenium ſucceeding theſe great Epochas being to precede that day. For this bold Conjecture ſhakes the Foundations of the Chriſtian Faith, it imputes not only Fallibility, but actual Falſhood to the Writers of theſe Epiſtles, and makes them guilty of Falſhood in the Promiſes of the New Teſtament, and in the Motives which they they uſed to encourage Believers to a Chriſtian Patience under the preſſures they endured, and renders them Deceivers of their Hopes. Let it be therefore noted,

1. That theſe Expreſſions are chiefly uſed in the Catholick Epiſtles, and the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, that is, in the Epiſtles directed to the Jewiſh Churches, who were no Strangers to theſe Phraſes, and who were well acquainted with a tremendous Advent of the Lord to puniſh the Rebellions and Infidelity of that Nation: So for inſtance, Joel 2.1. All the Inhabitants of the Land (of Judah) ſhall be confounded, διότι πάρεστιν ἡμέρα Κυρίου, ὅτι ἐγγύς, becauſe the Day of the Lord is at hand, a Day of Darkneſs and Gloominess, a Day of Clouds, and of thick Darkneſs. And v. 11. The Day of the Lord is great and very terrible, who can abide it? And v. 31. The Sun ſhall be turned into darkneſs, and the Moon into blood, before the great and terrible Day of the Lord come. Zach. 14. 1, 2. Behold, the Day of the Lord cometh, and I will gather all Nations againſt Jeruſalem to battle. Mal. 3. 2. Who may abide in the Day of his coming, and who ſhall ſtand when he appeareth? And Chap. 4. 1. Behold, the Day cometh that ſhall burn as an Oven.

2*ly*, There is alſo frequent mention of this Time and Day in the New Teſtament, when the Lord would come to deſtroy the unbelieving Jews, and alſo of the nearneſs of that Time; for the Baptiſt calls them to Repentance from this very Motive, that the Ax was then laid to the Root of the Tree, Matth. 3.10. That one was coming whoſe Fan was in his hand, v. 12. Our Saviour ſpends a whole Chapter in ſpeaking περὶ ὑμέρας ταύτης of that Day, Matth. 24. 36. and of the coming of the Son of Man to the deſtruction of that Nation, v. 27, 37. of the coming of the Lord, v. 42. of the Age in which he would thus come, v. 34. of the ſigns when his coming was ἐγγὺς near at hand. ἐπὶ θύραις, at the door, (which are the very words, both of St. Paul and of St. James,) when there would be a τέλος, an end of all things belonging to the Jewiſh Temple and Conſtitution, v. 14. Now to this coming of the Lord, foretold by his own ſelf in the very Expreſſions of the Prophets, and in the words uſed here by the Apoſtles in their writings to the Jewiſh Converts, we may very well refer the words fore-cited, and if there be any other of like nature.

And the fitneſs of theſe Exhortations to Meekneſs and Patience, on the account of the nearneſs of this Day, and Advent of the Lord to puniſh the Unbelieving Jews, will be apparent from this Conſideration, that they were the chief Perſecutors of thoſe of their own Nation who embraced the Chriſtian Faith, Rom. 15. 31. 1 Theſſ. 2. 14. And they alſo ſent out their Meſſengers to other Nations to repreſent the Chriſtians to them as the worſt of Men, and to excite them to joyn with them in the Perſecution of them, as Juſtin M. doth inform us; and therefore it muſt be very acceptable to the poor perſecuted Chriſtian Jews, to hear that theſe Enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt, theſe Inſtigators of the Heathen to perſecute them, ſhould by the coming of our Lord to deſtroy their Church and Nation, be diſabled from doing them any farther Miſchief; and alſo that thoſe deceitful Workers of the ſame Nation, who troubled the Churches with preaching the Neceſſity of Circumciſion, and the obſerving the Law of Moſes, ſhould not be able long to inſtil thoſe Doctrines, their Church and Temple being to be ſhortly ruined, and they themſelves being no longer able to obſerve the Law.

Ver. 6. Be careful (anxiouſly ſollicitous) for nothing, but in every thing by Prayer and Supplication (Gr. deprecation) with Thankſgiving, let your requeſts be made known (i. e. preſented) unto God.

Ver. 7. And the Peace of God which paſſeth underſtanding, ſhall keep your hearts and minds (ſtedfaſt) in Chriſt Jeſus.

Εἰρήνη Θεοῦ, the peace of God.] As ἀγάπη Θεοῦ, and χάρις Θεοῦ, do generally ſignifie the Love and Favour of God to us, ſo εἰρήνη Θεοῦ, the peace of God moſt naturally imports the Peace and Reconciliation which we have with God thro' Faith in Chriſt, for being juſtified by Faith we have peace with God. Hence is the Goſpel, which proclaims this Pardon and Juſtification to Believers, ſtiled the Goſpel of Peace, Eph. 6. 15. the preaching peace by Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 10. 30. Eph. 2. 17. who is our peace, v. 14. and in the Preface to all the Epiſtles, the Apoſtle wiſheth to the Chriſtians χάρις ἐν εἰρήνῃ, Grace and Peace through God the Father and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. So that the ſenſe of theſe words ſeemeth to be this, the Senſe and Experience of the Divine Favour, and the inward Peace and Security which ariſeth from it, ſhall be ſufficient to keep you ſtedfaſt in the Faith of Chriſt. He promiſeth not deliverance from Calamities, but inward peace and tranquility of Mind under them, and that as the effect of conſtant Prayer, and a ſenſe of the Divine Favour to them.

Ver. 8. Finally, Brethren, whatſoever things are true, whatſoever things are honeſt, whatſoever things are juſt, whatſoever things are pure, whatſoever things are lovely, whatſoever things are of good report: if there be any vertue, if there be any (thing) praiſe (worthy,) think on theſe things (to do them.)

Hence two things may be noted, 1. That there are things naturally honeſt, juſt, lovely, and praiſe-worthy. 2. That there is no vertue, nothing praiſe-worthy, but what falls under the compaſs of this General Precept.

Ver. 9. Thoſe things which you have both learned, and received, and heard (from me,) and seen in me, do; and the God of peace, (the giver of internal peace,) shall be with you.

Ver. 10. But I rejoyced (ἐχάρην δὲ, for this cause I rejoyced) in the Lord greatly, that your care of me (i. e. to supply my wants,) hath flourished again, wherein you were also careful, but you lacked opportunity.

I rejoyced in the Lord.] i.e. In your Liberality, not as a thing tending only to supply my Wants, but as a thing highly acceptable to the Lord, v. 8. and as a fruit of your Affection to him, which he will reward, v. 17.

Ἐφ' ᾧ ἐφρονεῖτε, ἠκαιρεῖσθε δέ, of which thing you were still mindful, but you wanted ability.] οὐκ εἴχετε ἐν χερσὶν, καὶ ἐν ἀφθονίᾳ ἦτε, you had it not in your hands, you were not in a condition to help me, Theodoret, Chrysostom, Theophylact; though Oecumenius and Pharorinus render it, with our Translation, καιρὸν οὐκ εἴχετε, you lacked opportunity.

Ver. 11. I speak not this in respect of (any desire in me that you, or others should supply my) wants, for I have learnt in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content.

Ver. 12. I know how to be abased, and how to abound; every where, and in all things I am instructed both to be full, and to be hungry, both to abound, and to suffer need.

Ver. 13. I can do all (these, and other) things (required by Christianity) through Christ that strengthens me.

Hence the Fathers observe three things, (1.) That the Art of Contentment requires much Learning, Exercise, and Meditation. (2.) That it is as difficult to learn how to be full, as to be hungry; Abundance having destroyed more then Penury, and exposed them to more pernicious Lusts. (3.) That our Proficience in this, or any other Vertue, is to be ascribed, not to our selves, but to the Divine Assistance.

Ver. 14. (But) notwithstanding (this my proficiency) ye have done well, that ye did (thus) communicate with (me in) my affliction.

Ver. 15. Now, ye Philippians, know also, (for your honour,) that in the beginning of (my preaching) the Gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no Church communicated with me, as concerning giving and receiving, but you only, (i. e. I have received supplies from no other Church but yours.)

Ver. 16. (You indeed kindly did it,) For even when I was in Thessalonica ye sent once and again to (supply) my necessities.

Ver. 17. (And of this I remind you,) Not that I desire a (further) gift (for my own benefit,) but (because) I desire fruit that may abound to your account (in the day of the Lord, who will not then forget your labour of love, in ministring to his Saints, Hebr. 6. 10.)

Ver. 18. (I say, not that I desire any more,) For I have received all (that can be needful for me,) and abound, I am full, having received of Epaphroditus the things which were sent from you, (which are) an odor of a sweet smell, a sacrifice acceptable, and well pleasing to God.

There were two Altars, saith Dr. Hammond, in the Temple of the Jews, the Altar of Incense within the Temple, and that of Sacrifice without in the Court; on these two were offered all things that were offered to God; and under these two Heads, an Odor of Incense, and a Sacrifice, are Works of Charity here represented, as being the prime things now under the Gospel to obtain God's favour and acceptation.

Ver. 19. But (and) my God shall supply all your need, according to his riches in glory (i.e. his glorious riches) in Christ Jesus, (i.e. he shall return you a supply of your spiritual wants for your charity to me in temporals.)

Ver. 20. Now unto God, and (i. e. who is) our Father, be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

Ver. 21. Salute every Saint in Christ Jesus: the Brethren which are with me greet you.

Ver. 22. All the Saints salute you, chiefly they that are of Cesars household.

Ver. 23. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epiſtle to the COLOSSIANS.

THAT St. Paul writ this Epiſtle to the Coloſſians, when he had not yet ſeen them, is the Opinion of moſt of the Ancient Scholiaſts; This is confeſſed even by Theodoret, though he ſaith this doth not follow from the words cited to confirm this Opinion, but the contrary. The words are theſe; I would have you know what great ſollicitude I have for you, and for them of Laodicea, and for as many as have not ſeen my face in the fleſh, Col. 2. 1. which he renders thus, Not for you only, and for them of Laodicea, but alſo for them that have not ſeen my face in the fleſh: But the connective Particle being not ἀλλὰ, or ἀλλὰ καὶ, but alſo, but only καὶ, and, ſeems to favour our Tranſlation, and the Opinion of the (a) Ancients. He adds that the Apoſtle went from Phrygia, of which Coloſs was the Metropolis, whence he collects he muſt have preached there. But this will not follow; ſince the firſt time he only went through Phrygia en paſſant, Acts 16.6 and the ſecond time, Chap 18. 23. he only ſtaid to confirm the Brethren already converted, but that he came to Coloſs is not ſaid. The Arguments offered to prove he had not then ſeen them, ſeem ſtronger, as appears not only from the words now cited, but from other expreſſions in the ſame Epiſtle; for he intimates Chap. 1 4. that he had only heard of their Faith in Chriſt; and v. 7. that they had learned the Faith, not from him, but Epaphras, whom he ſtiles to them a faithful Miniſter of Jeſus Chriſt.

Note alſo, That this Epiſtle was writ at the ſame time with that to the Philippians, and ſo A. D. 62.

A Paraphraſe and Comment ON THE Epiſtle to the COLOSSIANS.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. PAul an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, by the will of God, and Timotheus our Brother.

Ver. 2. To the Saints and faithful Brethren in Chriſt, which are at Coloſs (writeth thus,) Grace be unto you, and Peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

To the Saints.] See Note on 1 Cor. 1.1.

Note that the Holy Ghoſt is not mention'd in theſe places, becauſe he is the Fountain of this Grace, and by him God the Father, and the Son dwelleth in us, John 14. 23. So that praying for this Grace, is praying for the Communion of the Holy Ghoſt.

Ver. 3. We give thanks to God, and (who is) the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, praying always for you.

Καὶ.] As the Hebrew ו, hath oft the import of id eſt in the Old Teſtament; ſee Noldius, p. 280. 27. ſo Matth. 23. 5. Thy King cometh ſitting upon an Aſs, καὶ πῶλον, i. e. a Colt the foal of an Aſs; ſee Matth. 11. 2, 7. Luke 19. 30, 35. John 12. 14, 15. and frequently it ſignifies nempe, to wit; ſo that Mountain, הר לבנון to wit, Lebanon, Deut. 3. 26. So Judg. 6. 25. 2 Sam. 20. 14. Jer. 21. 7. ſo John 12. 23. We ſtone thee for Blaſphemy, καὶ ὅτι, to wit, becauſe thou being a Man, makeſt thy ſelf God, 1 Cor. 15. 24. That with one mouth ye may glorifie God, καὶ πατέρα, who is the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. So Gal. 1. 4. Phil. 4. 20. Coloſſ. 2. 2. James 7. 3, 9. As therefore God, who is the God of Iſrael, was the Characteriſtick of the true God to the Jewiſh Nation: So God, who is the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, is the Characteriſtick of the ſame God to the Chriſtians, who worſhip him under that Title, as being the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and in him our Father, we being the Sons of God through Faith in him, and deriving all our Bleſſings from the Father through him.

Ver. 4. Since we heard of your faith in Chriſt Jeſus, and of the love which ye have to all the Saints, (which love is ſtill the fruit of a true faith, 1 Cor. 13. 2. Gal. 5. 6.)

Ἀκούσαντες, hearing.] From this verſe, and from Chap. 2. 1. it is evident that St. Paul did not in perſon preach to the Coloſſians, and indeed that he never had ſeen them, they being converted by Epaphras, Chap. 1. 7, 23. and perhaps alſo by the means of Timothy, who therefore is mention'd in the beginning of this Epiſtle as ſaluting them together with Paul.

Ver. 5. (We give thanks, I ſay,) for the hope (of an eternal Inheritance, 1 Pet. 1. 3.) which is laid up for you in Heaven, whereof ye heard before (from Epaphras) in the word of the truth of the Goſpel (preached by him.)

Ver. 6. Which (Goſpel) is come to you, as it is (alſo heard of) in all the world, and bringeth forth fruit (in them,) as it doth alſo in you, ſince the day ye (firſt) heard of it, and knew (ἐπέγνωτε, acknowledg'd,) the grace (and favour) of God (to you,) in truth (and ſincerity.)

Ἐν παντὶ τῷ κόσμῳ, In all the World.] And which is preached to every Creature under Heaven, v. 23. This by an uſual Hyperbole is to be underſtood of the moſt noted Parts of the World, from which the reſt might hear of it. In which ſenſe Cyrus ſaith, that God had given him all the Kingdoms of the Earth, Ezra 1. 2. And God, ſaith Jeremiah, will call for a Sword upon all the Inhabitants of the Earth, Jer. 25. 29. i. e. of the whole Kingdom of Babylon, and the ſlain of the Lord ſhall be from one end of the Earth to the other, v. 26. over all the Kingdoms of the World, v. 26. Ver. 7. As ye (have) alſo learned of Epaphras our dear fellow ſervant, who is for you a faithful Miniſter of Chriſt.

Ver. 8. Who alſo declared to us your love (to me) in the Spirit: (your ſpiritual and affectionate love to me, wrought in you by that Spirit, whoſe fruit is love.)

Ver. 9. For this cauſe we alſo, ſince the day we heard of it, (i. e. this your affection to us,) do not ceaſe to pray for you, and to deſire (of God,) that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will, (advancing) in all (the gifts of) wiſdom, and ſpiritual underſtanding.)

Ἐν πάσῃ σοφίᾳ, in all wiſdom.] Among the Spiritual Gifts vouchſafed for the Edification of the Church, are reckoned the Word of Wiſdom, and of Knowledge, 1 Cor. 12.8. whereby they are enabled through the Spirit to know the things which were given them of God, 1 Cor. 2.12. and to compare Spiritual Things with Spiritual, v. 13. For the abundance of theſe Gifts vouchſafed to the Churches, he ſometimes gives thanks, as 1 Cor. 1. 4, 5, 7. Eph. 1. 3. And for the increaſe of them he ſometimes prays, as here, and Eph. 1. 17.

Ver. 10. That (having thus attain'd to the knowledge of the things of God,) ye might walk worthy of the Lord to all well-pleaſing, (i. e. ſo as to pleaſe him in all things,) being fruitful in every good work, and increaſing (ſtill more) in the knowledge of God.

Ver. 11. (That knowing the hope of the Calling, and the riches of the Glory of the Inheritance of the Saints, Eph. 1.19. Rom. 15. 13. ye may be) Strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all patience, and long ſuffering with joyfulneſs, (*Eph.*3.16.) (i.e. that through the ſpirit of glory and power, 1 Pet. 4. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 7. given to you, you may be enabled conſtantly to ſuffer all afflictions you endure for the ſake of Chriſt, and of the glory he hath promiſed, with patience and joy.)

Ver. 12. Giving thanks to the Father, who hath (thus prepared, and) made us meet, to be partakers of the Inheritance of the Saints in light, (for which we ſuffer, 2 Theſſ. 1.5.)

Ἱκανώσαντι ἡμᾶς εἰς τὴν μερίδα τοῦ κλήρου τῶν ἁγίων ἐν φωτί, who has made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the Saints in light.] The other reading, viz. καλέσαντι, who hath called you, for ἱκανώσαντι, who hath made you meet, is contrary to all the old Verſions, the Syriack, Arabick, and Vulgar, and all the Greek Scholiaſts, and therefore not to be admitted as a various Lection, but only as the Miſtake of ſome Copyeſt. Note alſo that here is an Alluſion to the Inheritance of the Jews in Canaan, ſtiled ſo oft the Land of their Inheritance, for it was divided into ſo many μερίδες, or places meaſured out by Line, to be poſſeſſed by the ſeveral Tribes, excepting that of Levi, and then by Lot aſſigned to every reſpective Tribe, Joſh. 13. according to God's Commandment, *Numb.*26.55. 33.54 and that Diviſion which thus came to any of them by Lot, was his μερὶς κλήρου, the Portion which by Lot befel him; but ſaith the Apoſtle, we are made meet not for an earthly Inheritance, as that was in Canaan, but for that heavenly Portion God hath allotted us in Heaven, the Region of Light and Happineſs, we being already tranſlated into the Kingdom of his Son Chriſt, become his Subjects, and ſo under his Care, and Conduct, and Protection, Ruled by his Word, which is the Word of Life, and by his Spirit, the earneſt of his Inheritance, and ſhall hereafter be advanced by him into his heavenly Kingdom.

Ver. 13. Who hath delivered us from the power of darkneſs, and hath tranſlated us into the Kingdom of his dear Son, (or the Son of his love.)

Ἐκ τῆς ἐξουσίας τοῦ σκότους, the power of darkneſs.] That Darkneſs ſignifies the ſtate of Heathen Ignorance, ſee Note on Rom. 12.2. The Power of it is that power which Satan the Prince of Darkneſs had over the Heathen World to keep them in Idolatry, and brutiſh Luſts, Eph. 2.2. Hence the Apoſtle ſaith he was ſent unto the Gentiles, to turn them from darkneſs to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, Acts 26.17. See Luke 22. 53.

Ver. 14. In whom we have redemption through his Blood, even the redemption of (our) ſins. (See Note on Eph. 1. 7.)

Ver. 15. Who is the image (and repreſentation to us) of the inviſible God, the firſtborn (or Lord) of every Creature.

Εἰκὼν τοῦ Θεοῦ, the Image of the inviſible God.] The Socinians contend that Chriſt is here ſtiled the Image of the Inviſible God, becauſe he by his Goſpel hath made known the Will of God unto us; in this ſenſe, ſay they, he is ſtiled the Image of God, 2 Cor. 4. 3. and in this ſenſe he ſaith to Philip, He that hath ſeen me hath ſeen the Father. Schlictingius notes that he is called the Image of God, now that he is in Heaven, and ſo not according to any thing appertaining to him which is inviſible, but according to ſomething by which he may be ſeen and known, i. e. ſaith he, as he hath made himſelf known to us in the Goſpel.

But the more natural import of the Phraſe ſeems to be this, That Chriſt is the Image of God, as making him who is inviſible in his Eſſence, conſpicuous to us by the Divine Works he wrought, they being ſuch as plainly ſhewed, that in him dwelt the fulneſs of the Godhead bodily; for an inviſible God can only be ſeen by his Effects of Power, Wiſdom, and Goodneſs, by which, ſaith the Apoſtle, from the Creation of the World the inviſible things of God, to wit, his Power and God head, have been made known by the things that are made, Rom. 1. 20. He therefore, who in the Works both of the Old and New Creation, hath given us ſuch clear declarations of the Divine Power, and Wiſdom, and Goodneſs, is upon this account as much an Image of God as any thing can be; to this ſenſe the Image of God here ſeems neceſſarily reſtrained by the connective Particle ὅτι, he is the Image of God, for by him all things were created. Moreover, that this place is parallel to that in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, the words ſufficiently declare; here he is the image of God, there the brightneſs of his glory, and the expreſs image of his Perſon; here he is the firſt-born, or Lord of every Creature, there the heir of all things; here it is ſaid that all things were created by him, there that he made the World; here that by him all things do conſiſt, and there that he ſupporteth all things by the word of his power; now that there he is ſtiled the image of Gods Glory, and the Character of his Perſon, by reaſon of that Divine Power, Wiſdom, and Majeſty which ſhin'd forth in his Actions, Schlictingius is forc'd to confeſs. It is not therefore to be doubted that he is here ſtiled the image of God in the ſame ſenſe. And it is highly probable that he is called the Image of the inviſible God, as appearing to the Patriarchs, and repreſenting to them that God, who lives in light inacceſſible, to which no mortal Eye can approach, according to theſe frequent Deſcants of the (a) Anti-Nicene Fathers, That God the Father being inviſible, one whom no Man hath ſeen, or can ſee, he appear'd to the Patriarchs by his Son. And that in this ſenſe Chriſt ſaith to Philip, He that hath ſeen me hath ſeen the Father, he himſelf intimates, by adding, That the Father abiding in him did the works he perform'd, John 14. 9, 10, 11. and that they ought to believe that he was in the Father, and the Father in him for the works ſake. And in the Epiſtle to the Corinthians he is plainly ſtiled the image of God for the like reaſon, viz. becauſe that God, who at firſt created light out of darkneſs, had ſhin'd upon the Gentiles, to make known to them the glory of God, in the Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt. Now this Glory of God is Chap. 3. thoſe miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, by which the Goſpel was confirm'd, and Chap. 4. 7. ἡ ὑπερβολὴ τῆς δυνάμεως τοῦ Θεοῦ, the excellency of the Power of God.

Πρωτότοκος πάσης κτίσεως, the firſt-born of every Creature.] Since therefore, ſay the Socinians, the Firſt-born is of the order and number of thoſe things of which he is the Firſt-born; therefore Chriſt being here ſtiled the Firſt-born of every Creature, muſt be in the order, and of the number of Creatures. But this Inference is neither conſiſtent with their own Principles, nor with the words of the Apoſtle: Not with their own Principles, for in what rank of Creatures will they place Chriſt? if among the old, then they muſt allow him an Exiſtence before the beginning of the World, which yet they peremptorily deny: if among the new, they muſt confeſs he had a Nature which wanted to be renew'd, chang'd and reform'd; that in him, as well as in us, though in him before us, all old things paſſed away, and all things became new; ſince otherwiſe he cannot be of the order and number of them who underwent this change.

2*ly*, This Opinion cannot conſiſt with the words of the Apoſtle, who ſtiles Chriſt the firſt-born of every Creature, becauſe by him all things were created, ὅτι ὃς πρωτότοκος πάσης κτίσεως, ὅτι ἐν αὐτῷ ἐκτίσθη τὰ πάντα. Now he who is therefore the Firſt-born of the whole Creation, becauſe he created all things, cannot himſelf be any part of the Creation, either in Heaven or Earth, or be numbred amongſt his Creatures; Chriſt therefore, ſaith our excellent Primate, is here ſtiled ὁ πρωτότοκος, as being the Lord of all things. For firſt, 'tis reaſonable to conceive that ὁ πρωτότοκος πάσης κτίσεως, the firſt-born of every Creature, ſhould be the ſame in ſenſe with that of the ſame Apoſtle in the parallel place, where he is ſtiled ὁ κληρονόμος πάντων, Heir of all things. Now thus it will ſignifie in this ſenſe, according to that of Juſtinian, To act as an Heir, is to act as a Lord; for the Ancients uſed the word Heir for a Lord. Pro Hærede ſe gerere eſt pro Domino gerere; veteres enim Hæredes pro Dominis appellabant. Inſtit. l. 2. Tit. 19. § 6.

2. In this ſenſe is the word primogenium uſed in the Scriptures, for becauſe the Dominion and Principality anciently followed the primogeniture, according to thoſe words, He gave the dominion to Joram, ὅτι ἦν ὁ πρωτότοκος, becauſe he was the firſt-born, 2 Chron. 21. 3. it came in common uſe to ſignifie that Dominion. So of David, ſaith God, I will give him to be בכור, πρωτότοκον, the firſt-born, high above the Kings of the Earth. I will give him τὴν βασιλέων ἁπάντων τὴν ὑπεροχίαν power over all Kings, ſaith (*) Aquilus. I will ſet him ὑπέρτατον τῶν βασιλέων τῆς γῆς, the Supream over the Kings of the Earth; So Symmachus. No, ſaith Mr. C. this doth not ſignifie a Lord over other Kings, but a moſt excellent and glorious King. But for this we ſhall not acquieſce in his bare word againſt the Opinion of all the Ancient Commentators on the place, ſeeing the foregoing words, v. 26. I will ſet his hand in the Sea, and his right hand in the River, are equivalent to theſe, I will give him power over the Kings of the Philiſtins, on the one hand, See

2 Sam. 8. 12. and over the Syrians on the other, v. 6. He shall have, saith the Chaldee, שולטנותי, his Empire over the Kings of the Earth. I will elevate him over them, saith the Syriack; and so accordingly we find he did, exalting him over the Syrians, who were Tributaries to him, 2 Sam. 8. 6. and over all the Kings which were Servants to Hadarezer, 2 Sam. 10. 19. And this was necessary to be done, to render him a fit Type of that Son of David, who was to be King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. And thus he is also πρωτότοκος ἐκ τῶν νεκρῶν, the first born from the dead, v. 18. as being Lord over the dead, since for this cause he died, and rose again, ἵνα κυριεύσῃ, that he might be Lord over the dead, and over the living, Rom. 14. 9. and so might be ἐν πᾶσιν πρωτεύων, primus tenens p. imperium habens in omnibus, præ-eminent in all things. Since then the First-born is naturally the Heir, and so the Lord of the Family, and therefore the word Heir amongst the Ancients did signifie Lord; seeing St. Paul, who here stiles him the first-born, doth in a place parallel to this, stile him the Heir of all things, why may we not conceive the Person of whom David was a Type, may be also here stiled the first-born, as being Prince over, and high above all Creatures, they being all the work of his hands? For so the Reason follows:

Ver. 16. For by him (who is the first-born of every Creature) were all things created that are in Heaven, and that are in Earth, visible (the Sun, Moon, and Stars,) and invisible, (the whole Host of Angels,) whether they be (named) Thrones or Dominions, Principalities or Powers, all things were created by him, (as the Cause,) and for him, (as the end of their Creation.)

[Ἐν αὐτῷ ἐκτίσθη τὰ πάντα τὰ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, καὶ τὰ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, all things were created by him that are in Heaven, and that are in the Earth.] The Glosse of the (b) Socinians, and of (c) Grotius who here follows them, runs thus; That so Christ is here ascribed, not the Creation of the old World, and all things that are in it; but only the Creation, that is, the Renovation of all things under the Gospel state, or the Reformation of Mankind by Jesus Christ, and the Gospel preached to them, and the Reconciliation of Angels to Men. But this Interpretation is so forced, and remote from the most usual sense of the words; and 'tis so flat and mean, to say that Jesus Christ was before every new Creature, that is to say, before the Renovation made by himself, or rather by his Apostles after his Exaltation, and to prove this by that very Renovation, that even Mr. Cl. is forced to reject it as evidently false, which it will certainly appear to be from these Considerations.

1*st*, That the Apostle speaks here of the Creation of such things as are not capable of this Moral Creation, viz. the Creation πάντων τῶν ὁρατῶν ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, of all things visible upon Earth: Now the τὰ ὁρατὰ, Rom. 1. 20. and the τὰ βλεπόμενα, Hebr. 11. 3. i. e. the things which are made, and seen, comprise the whole visible Creation, all things without Life, Metals, Stones, Elements, all Vegetables, and all Beasts, and did the Gospel come to make a Moral Renovation among these? Did Christ, and his Apostles preach to Stones or Trees? 2*ly*, Under all things in Heaven, and all things invisible, must be comprised all the good Angels, which are therefore elsewhere stiled κυριότητες, ἀρχαὶ, καὶ ἐξουσίαι, Eph. 1. 21. 3. 10. 1 Pet. 3. 22. Now they cannot be proper Subjects of this new Creation, or Moral Renovation; for of this new Creation the Scripture never speaks but in relation to an old, which was to be abolished, changed, and done away by it; for in them who are made καινὴ κτίσις, a new Creation, all old things are past away, and all things are become new in them, 2 Cor. 5. 17. They put off the old Man, and put on the new, which is created after God in righteousness and holiness, Eph. 4. 22, 24. Col. 3. 9, 10. Now it is manifest that nothing of all this can agree to the good Angels, and much less to the evil Angels, who are still Creatures, and therefore not to be excluded from Expressions so general as these are.

2*ly*, The words in this sense were far from being true when the Apostle spake them, for a very small Remnant of the Jews were then converted to the Christian Faith, and of the Gentiles few, in comparison of those multitudes which afterwards embraced the Faith; and yet the Apostle plainly speaks of a Creation wholly past already, using the Aorist in those words, ἐν αὐτῷ ἐκτίσθη τὰ πάντα, by him have all things been created; and the Perfect Tense in these words δι' αὐτοῦ τὰ πάντα ἔκτισται, by him all things were created.

3*ly*, Though the Socinians may be able to produce some few Instances where the word κτίσις and κτίζειν are to be taken in a Moral Sense, yet cannot they shew one Instance where the Creation of all things in Heaven and in Earth, visible and invisible, is ever used in a Moral Sense, or concerning any other Creation then that of which Moses speaks, saying, Thus the Heaven and the Earth were made, and all the Host of them, Gen. 2. 1.

4*ly*, The Apostle afterwards begins his Discourse of this Moral Creation or Reconciliation of the World to God by Christ, and the Renovation of his Church in these words, v. 18, 19, 20 And he is the Head of the Body the Church, &c. For it pleased the Father— by him to reconcile all things to himself, whether they be things in Earth, or things in Heaven. Ver. 21. And you that were sometimes alienated, and enemies in your minds by wicked works, yet now hath he reconciled in the Body of his Flesh by death, to present you holy, and unblameable, and unreprovable in his sight. Now these things being thus connected by the Particle γὰρ, to what he had before said of the Creation of all things by Christ, demonstratively shew that he was not then speaking of that Renovation, which he begins to speak of in these following words.

5*ly*, This Exposition of this place touching a true, a proper Creation of all things by Jesus Christ, is by the (d) Fathers, from the beginning, laid down as a Rule to which the Orthodox keeping close, might easily shew that the Hereticks, who held the World was created by Angels, deviated from the Truth. Now this was the Heresie of (e) Simon Magus and Cerinthus, as Irenæus there informs us.

Ver. 17. And he is before all things (as to his being,) and by him all things consist.

Ver. 18. And he is the Head of the Body the Church, (Gr. of the Church as to government and causal influence,) who is the beginning (of the Christian Church,) the first-born from the dead, that in all things he might have the preeminence.

Ver. 19. For it pleased the Father that in him should all fulness (of Divine Power) dwell, (all fulness of power to create, redeem, preserve and raise the Church, which is his Body).

For Explication of these words it is to be noted, That the great end of our Saviour's Sufferings was to rescue our Bodies, condemned for Sin to death, from that mortality, and to bestow on all, whom God should give him, Eternal Life, by raising of their Bodies to a state of Incorruption; for because the Children were partakers of Flesh and Blood, and thereby subject to Mortality, he also took part of the same, that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is the Devil, and might deliver them, who through the fear of death, were all their lives time subject to bondage, Hebr. 2. 14,15.

That therefore the Church, which is his Body, is represented as the Church of the first-born, enrolled in the Heavens, Hebr. 12. 23. a Church against which the Gates of Hades, or of Death, shall not prevail to hinder their Enjoyment of this Resurrection to a Life of Happiness; they are the Sons of God, and therefore Children of the Resurrection, Luke 21. 36. therefore Heirs of God, joynt Heirs with Christ, who shall be glorified with him, Rom. 8. 17. shall be delivered from the Bondage of Coruption, into the glorious Liberty of the Sons of God, v. 21. shall have the Adoption, to wit the Redemption of the Body, v. 23. and they are also represented as Persons fore-ordained to be conformed to the Image of Christ, by having their vile Bodies changed into the likeness of Christ's glorious Body, v. 29.

Note 2*ly*, That to this end was Christ raised, that he the first-born from the dead, might raise up his whole Body from the dead, he being raised from the dead as the first-fruits of them that slept, 1 Cor. 15. 20. for to this end Christ both died and rose again, that he might be Lord both of the dead, and of the living, Rom. 14. 9. and God hath therefore exalted him, that at the Name (i.e. the power) of Jesus, every Knee should bow, of things in Heaven, in the Earth, and under the Earth, Philip. 2. 10. that is, the Bodies of the dead; for by this Argument, and from these very words, the Apostle proves the Resurrection, and a future Judgment, Rom. 14. 10, 11, 12. He is therefore so the first-born of the dead, as to be the Lord of them, according to our former Interpretation of the word first-born, and as to have power to raise them up who sleep in him, and bring them with him, 1 Thess. 4. 14. to give Eternal Life unto them, and raise them up at the last day, John 5. 28, 29. 17. 2. And thus hath he the preeminence in all things, being Lord of all Creatures, dead and living, and giving both their first and their new Being to them, and rendring his Members conformable to his glorious Image, that so they may be joynt Heirs with him in Glory. And this is the constant Doctrine of (f) Irenæus, who informs us that Christ died, that he might be the first-born from the dead, and the Prince of Life. (g) That the death of this juſt Man gave him the principality of things under the Earth, he having before the principality in heavenly things, that they who denied the Reſurrection of the Fleſh, contradicted the ſalvation of that for which the whole diſpenſation of the Son of God was deſign'd, that he died that exiled Man might be deliver'd from condemnation, and might return without fear to his Inheritance.

Ver. 20. And having made peace through the blood of his Croſs by him who reconciled all things to himſelf, (Gr. and by him to make all things friendly in him, making peace betwixt them by the Blood of his Croſs,) by him, I ſay, (did he thus reconcile all things,) whether they be things in earth, or things in heaven.

Ἀποκαταλλάξαι, to reconcile.] This word, ſay Heſychius, Suidas, and Phavorinus, ſignifies φιλοποιῆσαι, to make friends, or to reduce Perſons to their former amity. This by the Fathers is thus explain'd, That whilſt Man continued in his Obedience to God, Angels and Men were in a perfect Friendſhip, but when Men became diſobedient to their Sovereign Lord, the Angels became averſe to them (h), becauſe their Lord was diſhonoured by them: But God being reconciled unto us by the death of his Son, they alſo became Friends and miniſtring Spirits to us, and we became of the ſame Church and Body with them, under the ſame head Chriſt Jeſus, Hebr. 12. 22. And ſo all things in Heaven and Earth were gathered into one Chriſt. Eph. 1. 10.

Εἰς ἑαυτὸν, to himſelf.] This I would render in him, for ſo the parallel place requires, where it is ſaid, that God did recapulate all things ἐν Χριστῷ in Chriſt, Eph. 1. 10. and ſo εἰς frequently imports, it being uſually put with an Accuſative Caſe, inſtead of ἐν with a Dative; ſo Pſal. 16. 10. Thou wilt not leave my Soul εἰς Ἅιδου in Hell. Matth. 2. 23. He dwelt εἰς πόλιν in a City. Chap. 10. 14. εἰς ὄνομα προφήτου, in the name of a Prophet. So εἰς τὸν ἀγρὸν ὤν, he that is in the field, Mark 13. 16. is Mat. 24. 18. Luke 17. 31. ἐν τῷ ἀγρῷ. So Luke 11. 7. My Children are with me, εἰς τὴν κοίτην, in the Bed. John 1. 18. He that is εἰς τὸν κόλπον in the boſom of the Father. Acts 23. 11. As thou haſt been witneſs of me εἰς Ἰερουσαλὴμ in Jeruſalem, ſo muſt thou do alſo εἰς Ῥώμην in Rome.

Ver. 21. And you (Gentiles) that were ſometimes alienated (from the life of God, Eph. 4. 18.) and enemies in your mind (to him) by wicked works, yet now hath he reconciled (to the Father.)

Ver. 22. In the body of his fleſh through death, to preſent you (to the Father) holy, and unblameable, and unreproveable in his ſight, Eph. 1. 4. 5. 27.

Ver. 23. (As you will be) if you continue in the faith grounded and ſettled (in it,) and be not moved away (by the floods of affliction, or by the blaſts of perſecution which may come upon you, Matth. 7. 24, 25.) from the hope of the Goſpel, (i. e. the hope laid up for you in heaven, v. 5) which you have heard (of from Epaphras, viz. the hope) preached to every Creature under Heaven, (i. e. Gentile as well as Jew,) whereof I Paul am a Miniſter.

Note. Hence it follows, that they who have true faith, and juſt ground of hope, may fall away from them.

Ver. 24. Who now rejoyce in my ſufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Chriſt in my fleſh, for his bodies ſake which is the Church.

Τῶν θλίψεων τοῦ Χριστοῦ, the afflictions of Chriſt.] Chriſt having told us, that what is done to his Members is done to him, Matth. 25. 40, 45. The Afflictions of his Members are ſtiled the Perſecutions and Afflictions of Chriſt, Acts 9. 4, 5. Now the Jews ſpeak much of the Afflictions of Chriſt, and his Diſciples, comprehending both under the name of חבלי המשיח (i) the afflictions of the Meſſiah, dividing them into three parts, of which, ſay they, the Fathers and the preceding Generation ſuffered one part; another part was ſuffered by the Generation of deſtruction, or by the Jews deſtroy'd by Titus; and a third by the Generation of the Meſſiah, or by his Diſciples. Of theſe Afflictions of Chriſt, I, ſaith the Apoſtle, have already had a ſhare, and I go on to fill up the reſidue of theſe my Sufferings in the Fleſh, which I am to bear in the diſcharge of my Miniſtry for the benefit of his Church. And ſutable to this Interpretation is that of Lyranus on the place, Paſſiones Chriſti dupliciter accipiuntur, uno modo pro illis, quas ſuſtinuit in corpore proprio, & ſic nihil ibi reſtat adimplendum, alio modo pro illis quas in finem uſque ſeculi patietur in corpore myſtico, & ſic reſtant multarum paſſionum reliquiæ adimplendæ.

Ver. 25. Whereof I am made a Miniſter according to the diſpenſation of God, which is given to me for you (Gentiles,) to fulfil (πληρῶσαι, fully to preach) the word of God.

Ver. 26. Even the myſtery (of the calling of

Ver. 27. To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this myſtery among the Gentiles, (Eph. 3. 8, 9.) which is Chriſt (preached to, and received) in (i. e. among) you, (as) the hope of glory.

Ver. 28. Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all (ſpiritual) wiſdom, that (ſo) we may preſent every man perfect (i. e. fully inſtructed, See Note on Eph. 4. 13.) in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 29. Whereunto (εἰς ὃ, for which thing) I alſo labour (earneſtly,) ſtriving according to his working, who worketh in me mightily, (i. e. according to the mighty power of God aſſiſting me, to confirm the Doctrine of Chriſt by ſigns and miracles and mighty deeds, Rom. 15. 19.)

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. (I Say, I labour ἀγωνιζόμενος ſtriving to make every man perfect in Chriſt Jeſus,) For I would have you know what conflict (ἡλίκον ἀγῶνα, with contention in prayer, Chap. 4. 2.) I have for you, and for them at Laodicea, and for as many as have not ſeen my face in the fleſh.

Ver. 2. (Praying) that their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in (mutual) love, and (that they may advance) unto all riches of full aſſurance of underſtanding to the acknowledgment of the myſtery of God, and (i. e.) of the Father, and of Chriſt.

Εἰς ἐπίγνωσιν, for ἐν ἐπιγνώσει, in the knowledge.] See Note on Chap. 1. 20.

Τοῦ μυστηρίου τοῦ Θεοῦ, the myſtery of God even the Father, and of Chriſt.] i. e. The Diſpenſation of the Divine Grace of God in offering Salvation to the Gentiles by Chriſt, and conferring on them, equally with the Jews, the Bleſſings of the Goſpel. This is the Myſtery which, ſaith he, in the former Ages was hid, but now is manifeſted to the Saints, to whom God would make known what was the riches of the glory of this myſtery among the Gentiles, which is Chriſt (preached) among you (as) the hope of glory, v. 26, 27. This, ſaith he, is the myſtery which from the beginning hath been hid in God, Eph. 3. 9. the myſtery of God, and of Chriſt, v. 3, 4, 5. That the Gentiles ſhould be fellow heirs (with the believing Jews,) and of the ſame body, and partakers (with them) of his promiſes in Chriſt by the Goſpel, v. 6. See alſo Rom 16. 25, 26. Col, 4. 3. And that the Gentiles might have a perfect knowledge of this Myſtery, and to the Riches of Divine Grace, and Love to them in it, is the Apoſtle's Prayer, Eph. 3. 16, 17, 18, 19. But whereas Crellius and Schlictingius here note, that the Article καὶ and, added to the word Chriſt, diſtinguiſhes him as well from God, as from the Father. It doth no ſuch matter; but only diſtinguiſheth the Myſtery of the Father ſending his Son into the World to be a Saviour to the Gentiles, from the myſtery of Chriſt procuring this Salvation for them by his Blood. The Eccleſiaſtical Tradition, ſaith (a) Irenæus, teacheth us to believe in God the Father Omnipotent, who made Heaven and Earth, and in one Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God, incarnate for our Salvation, our Lord, God Saviour, and King. And ſo theſe words may be conſtrued the Myſtery of both the Father and Chriſt. See Note on Chap. 1. 3.

Ver. 3. In whom are hid all the Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge.

Ἐν ᾧ.] Some make theſe words relate to the Myſtery mention'd in the foregoing Verſe. But it ſeems rather to reſpect the Perſon of Chriſt as Mediator, the knowledge of whom, ſaith the Apoſtle, hath an excellency beyond all other knowledge, Philip. 3. 8. for ἐν ᾧ καὶ ἐπεριτμήθητε in whom you are circumciſed, v. 11. and ἐν ᾧ in whom you are riſen again, v. 12. plainly relate to Chriſt's Perſon and his Performances as Mediator; and the whole following Chapter ſpeaketh of him, and of the Benefits we have received ἐν αὐτῷ by him. The Apoſtle alſo doth apply this to him by ſaying, v. 6. as you have received the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, ſo walk in him; and by warning us againſt the deceit of vain Philoſophy, becauſe in him dwelleth all the fulneſs of the Godhead. But yet ſeeing theſe hid Treaſures of Chriſt's Wiſdom are reveal'd to us by his Goſpel only, and thence alone we obtain all our knowledge of him as our Mediator, and of all the Offices he ſuſtains as ſuch, there ſeemeth to be no great difference betwixt referring this to his Perſon, and referring it to his Doctrine.

Ver. 4. And this I ſay, leſt any Man ſhould beguile you with enticing words. (See Note on v. 8.)

Ver. 5. For though I be abſent (from you) in the fleſh, yet am I preſent with you in the Spirit, (by which I diſcern your affairs, as Eliſha did his Servant, 2 Kings 5. 26. See 1 Cor. 5. 3.) joying, and beholding (beholding with joy) your order, and ſtedfaſtneſs in the faith of Chriſt.

Τὴν τάξιν ὑμῶν, your order.] As to walk diſorderly in the Apoſtle's ſtile, is not to walk according to the Traditions they had received from the Apoſtles, or Preachers of the Goſpel, 2 Theſſ. 3. 6. So their order may import their compliance with them in Manners, Diſcipline, and Union. And therefore it follows, Ver. 6. As ye have therefore received Chriſt Jeſus the Lord, (by the teaching of Epaphras, Chap. 1. 7.) ſo walk ye (ſtedfaſtly) in him.

Ver. 7. Rooted and built up in him, and eſtabliſhed in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thankſgiving (to him who called you to it.)

Ver. 8. Beware leſt any man ſpoil you (or make a prey of you) through (Heathen) Philoſophy and vain deceit, (leading you) after the traditions of men, (or) after the rudiments of the world, (the Jewiſh Rudiments and Traditions, Gal. 4. 3.) and not after (the Doctrine) of Chriſt.

Διὰ τῆς φιλοσοφίας, by Philoſophy, &c.] What is the παραλογία, the enticing ſpeech, v. 4. and the Philoſophy, and vain deceit, which the Apoſtle warns them againſt, is not ſo eaſie to determine. Some good Interpreters refer what follows in this Chapter to the Hereſie of Simon Magus and the Gnoſticks, to which many paſſages in this Chapter may be well applyed. Others refer them to the Jewiſh Doctors, who had then mixed the Philoſophy of the Heathens with their Ceremonial Worſhip, and had thence learned to allegorize it, and others do divide the matter betwixt Jew and Gentile. For that the Jewiſh Doctors are very much concerned in this Chapter, we learn from v. 14, 15, 16. and the Rudiments of the World relate to their Legal Obſervations, as being common to them with the Gentile World, ſee Note on Gal. 4. 8. The Commandments of Men, or their Traditions, may alſo have reſpect to them who were the zealous Aſſertors of them, Matth. 15. Acts 21. 21. And indeed this Verſe ſeems to be the Key to, or the Foundation of all that follows in this Chapter. Ranking the Diſcourſe of the Apoſtle under theſe two Heads, viz. Cautions againſt the Seductions of the Jews zealous for obſervation of their Rites and Ceremonies, and againſt the Seductions of Heathens by their vain Philoſophy dreſs'd up by them anew, both as to its Doctrines and Morals, and ſet off with the moſt ſpecious pretences, ſtiled here παραλογία, enticing ſpeech.

Ver. 9. (Of which Philoſophy you can have no need.) For in him dwelleth all the fulneſs of the Godhead bodily.

Πᾶν τὸ πλήρωμα τῆς θεότητος, all the fulneſs of the Godhead.] This fulneſs, according to the Gnoſticks, was made up of their thirty Æones. The Heathens, beſides the Supream God, owned many other local Gods preſiding over Nations, and ſo made up the plenitude of the Godhead of them all, as of ſo many partial Deities. Againſt ſuch Opinions the Apoſtle here aſſerts that the whole fulneſs of the Godhead dwelt in Chriſt, and that bodily, i. e. in his Body, as its Temple. And, ſay the Fathers, as the Soul dwelleth in the Body; ſay others, bodily, that is, eſſentially. The Apoſtle doth not roundly ſay that Chriſt is God, but expreſſes his Divine Nature thus, partly to repreſent to the Jews the Divinity of Chriſt, with alluſion to the God of Iſrael dwelling in the Temple, partly to oppoſe him to the πλήρωμα of the Gnoſticks, and to the partial Deities of the Heathens. Here therefore it is to be obſerved,

1. That the Apoſtle doth not here ſay that the Divinity is aſſiſtant to Chriſt, but that the fulneſs of it doth κατοικεῖν reſide in him, which is never ſaid in Scripture of any other Perſon, but of him alone, who having ſtiled his Body a Temple, John 2. 19, 21. the fulneſs of the Deity may be properly ſaid to dwell in him bodily, as it dwelt ſymbolically in the Ark. Note

2*ly*, That Chriſt is not here ſaid to be filled with the fulneſs of God, as the Church is by reaſon of the Gifts with which ſhe was repleniſhed, and the Doctrine ſhe had received from God, Eph. 1. 23. But the whole fulneſs of the Godhead is here ſaid to reſide in him. Now θεότης and τὸ θεῖον doth never ſignifie the Gifts of God, or the Doctrine of the Goſpel, but the Divine Nature only; nor can the Will, or Revelation of God, be ſaid to dwell bodily in any Perſon. I conclude therefore that (b) the Body born of the Virgin, receiving the whole fulneſs of the Godhead bodily, was immutably united to the Divinity, and deified, which made the ſame Perſon, Jeſus Chriſt, both God and Man.

Ver. 10. And ye are compleat in him, (as to all ſaving knowledge and vertue, 1 Cor. 1. 30.) who is the Head of all Principality and Power, (Eph. 1. 20.)

Κεφαλὴ πάσης ἀρχῆς καὶ ἐξουσίας, the Head of all

(b) Τὸ ἐκ τῆς παρθένου Σῶμα Χορηγὸν πᾶν τὸ πλήρωμα τῆς θεότητος σωματικῶς, τῇ θεότητι ἀτρέπτως ἡνῶσθαι, καὶ τεθεοποιῆσθαι, ἓν χάριν ὁ αὐτὸς Θεὸς καὶ Ἄνθρωπος Ἰησοῦς Χριστός. Concil. Antioch. ad Paulum Samoſat. Tom 1. p. 848.

Principality and Power.] (c) Epiphanius informs us that Simon Magus deviſed ſome Names of Principalities and Powers, ſaying, That none could be ſaved who learnt not the Sacred Diſcipline, and how to offer his Sacrifices to the Father of all things, by theſe Principalities and Powers. In oppoſition to theſe things, ſay ſome, the Apoſtle aſſerts that Chriſt created all theſe Principalities and Powers, Chap. 1. 15. and was the Head, and Lord of them, and ſo in him, without their aſſiſtance, the Coloſſians were compleat, and fully inſtructed to Salvation.

Or elſe theſe things may be refer'd to Cerinthus and his Followers. For

1. He lived in the Apoſtle's times, and was a great Oppoſer of the Truth of the Goſpel, and particularly an Enemy to (d) St. Paul, becauſe he contended it was not neceſſary for the Jews, nor lawful for the Gentiles to obſerve the Law of Moſes, for which Cerinthus was a Zealot. And he, ſaith the ſame (e) Epiphanius, reprov'd St. Peter for going in to the Uncircumciſed, and raiſed the Tumult in Antioch about Circumciſion.

2*ly*, He liv'd long in (f) Egypt, and was inſtructed in Philoſophical Sciences; and from thence went and ſet up his Sect in Aſia the leſs, and Syria, ſay (g) Theodoret and Epiphanius. Being therefore skill'd in Philoſophy, and ſetting up his Hereſie in Aſia minor, where Coloſs was, he may well be here reflected on by St. Paul, eſpecially if we conſider how much his Opinions agreed with thoſe which are here cenſured by him. For

3*ly*, He was zealous for Circumciſion, and other Obſervances of the Law of Moſes, and ſo concern'd in what is here ſaid v. 11, 14, 15, 16, 17. 2*ly*, He ſaid (h), the World was made by Angels, or inferiour Virtues, and not by the Supream God; and that he himſelf received his Doctrine by the Revelation of Angels. 3*ly*, He held Jeſus to be born of Joſeph and Mary as other Men, and Chriſt to have deſcended upon him, and at his Paſſion to have return'd to his Pleroma. And St. John refuted him, ſaith Irenæus, by eſtabliſhing the Principle of one God Omnipotent, who made all things viſible and inviſible by his word, which is the very thing the Apoſtle in this Chapter doth aſſert.

Ver. 11. In whom alſo ye are circumciſed with the Circumciſion not made with hands, (as that of the Jews is, but conſiſting) in putting off the body of the ſins of the fleſh, (which is done) by the (ſpiritual) Circumciſion of Chriſt, (and ſo ye need not any Legal Rites to make you compleat Chriſtians.)

Ver. 12. (We being) buried with him in Baptiſm, (the outward Symbol of our Spiritual Circumciſion, and ſo dead unto Sin, Rom. 6. 3, 4) wherein we are alſo riſen with him (to newneſs of life, Rom. 6. 4. and to the expectation of a future life with him, v. 8.) through the faith of the operation of God, who raiſed him from the dead, (by which faith we believe that he will raiſe us alſo from the dead, Eph. 1. 19, 20. 1 Theſſ. 4. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 3.

Τῇ ἀπεκδύσει, &c. the putting off the body of the ſins of the fleſh.] Thus (i) Philo informs us, That Circumciſion imports the cutting off our ſinful pleaſures and paſſions, and our impious opinions. See Rom. 2. 28, 29.

The Apoſtle here plainly diſcourſeth againſt thoſe Hereticks, or falſe Apoſtles, who laboured to introduce the Neceſſity of Circumciſion. Now that Cerinthus was one who pleaded for the Neceſſity of it, Epiphanius, St. Auſtin, and others do inform us; but that Simon Magus did ſo, I find not in Church Hiſtory. The (k) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions ſpeak of ſome falſe Apoſtles who held it neceſſary περιτέμνεσθαι νομίμως to circumciſe Men

according to the Law, but then they are diſtinguiſhed from the impure Hereſie of Simon Magus, who was ſo far from contending for the obſervation of the Law and Prophets, that he taught his Followers (l) νόμῳ καὶ προφήταις μὴ χρῆσθαι, not to regard them; (m) μηδὲ φρίττειν, nor to fear the threats of the Law, as being not the Law of God, ἀλλ' ἀφισταμένης δυνάμεως, of ſome evil power, ſaith Theodoret; and declaring, ſaith (n) Epiphanius, that whoſoever believed the Old Teſtament incurred death. Note

2*ly*, That the Apoſtle ſpeaking here of the Circumciſion made without hands, and of the Circumciſion made in Baptiſm, and conſiſting in the putting off the Sins of the Fleſh, cannot by the Circumciſion of Chriſt, mean his own Perſonal Circumciſion which was made with hands, but that which he hath inſtituted in the room of it, viz. Baptiſm. Note

3*ly*, That Baptiſm therefore is a Rite of Initiation to the Chriſtians, as Circumciſion was to the Jews; for by virtue of our Spiritual Circumciſion in Baptiſm, he proves we have no need of the outward Circumciſion to be a Type of the Purity obtained by Baptiſm.

3*ly*, Hence I infer that Baptiſm is Chriſt's Ordinance for Infants of believing Parents, as Circumciſion was of old for the Infants of the Jews; for if it had been otherwiſe, and Infants under Chriſtianity had not been received by any fœderal Rite into Covenant with God, the objection of the Neceſſity of Circumciſion as to them, would have ſtill held, they entring into Covenant by no other Rite, and ſo remaining Strangers from the Church of Chriſt, and as much alien from the Adoption, the Covenant, and Promiſes, as the Gentiles were; which ſure the Jews would have objected, if truly they could have done it, to the reproach of Chriſtianity. That Inſtitution therefore muſt, for the Comfort and Satisfaction of their Parents, afford ſome way of Sanctifying theſe Infants, or of Admitting them among the number of God's Children, which being confeſſedly no other then that of Baptiſm, it muſt be ſuppoſed to allow that to them, that by it, in the Phraſe of (o) Irenæus, Infantes & parvuli renaſcantur in Deum, Infants and little Children may be regenerated.

Ver. 13. And you (Gentiles) being dead (before) in your ſins, and (by reaſon of) the uncircumciſion of the fleſh, hath he (God, v. 12. quickned together with him (by his Spirit,) having forgiven you (through faith) all (your former) treſpaſſes.

Καὶ τῇ ἀκροβυστίᾳ τ σαρκὸς, and the Circumciſion of the fleſh.] By the defect of Circumciſion they being, ſaith the parallel place on that account without Chriſt, being Aliens from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, and Strangers from the Covenant of Promiſe, Eph. 2. 11, 12.

Ver. 14. (And) blotting out the hand writing of (Legal) Ordinances that was againſt us, which was contrary to us, and (doing this, ſo that he) took it out of the way, nailing it to his Croſs.

Χειρόγραφον τοῖς δόγμασιν, the hand-writing of Ordinances] Δόγμα is a Reſcript or Ordinance concerning any thing, a Royal or Imperial Decree, Dan. 2. 13. 3. 10, 12, 29. 6 8, 10, 13, 15, 26. Luke 2. 1. Acts 17. 7. Hence Ritual Preſcriptions ars called δόγματα, Ezek. 20. 26. The hand-writing of Ordinances, in the parallel Epiſtle, Eph. 2.15. is the Law of Commandments ἐν δόγμασι in Ritual Ordinances, or the Ceremonial Law; and it is ſaid here to be againſt, and contrary to the Gentiles, as being a middle wall of partition, hindring them from coming to God, and putting an enmity betwixt them and God's People, v. 14, 15. which Chriſt hath taken away by aboliſhing and diſſolving the Obligation of it, and admitting the Gentiles fellow-heirs of the ſame Promiſes and Bleſſings with the Jews without it; or it is contrary to us, as being the miniſtration of death and condemnation, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 9.

Ver. 15. And having ſpoiled Principalities and Powers, he made a ſhew of them openly (thus deſpoiled of their Authority,) triumphing over them in it, (i.e. by virtue of the ſame Croſs.)

Ἐν αὐτῷ, in it.] 'Tis certain that (p) Origen, and others of the Ancients, read ἐν ξύλῳ, on the wood; ſo did the Arabick Verſion; others read ἐν ἑαυτῷ, in himſelf; but ſeeing that Reading, as St. Jerom teſtifies, is only of the Latin Copies, and ſince Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact read as we, and moſt Copies do, without taking notice of any other Reading, we may rely ſecurely on it.

Τὰς ἀρχὰς καὶ ἐξουσίας.] The Principalities and Powers here mentioned, are the Powers of Wickedneſs, the Spirits of Satan, who is ſtiled ἡ ἐξουσία τῦ σκότους, the power of darkneſs, Luke 22. 53. and of the air, Eph. 2. 2. ὁ ἀρχὼν, the Prince of this World, John 12. 31. 14. 30. whoſe Emiſſaries are the the Principalities and Powers, the Rulers of the darkneſs of this World, the ſpiritual wickedneſſes in high places againſt which we wreſtle, Eph. 6. 12. Theſe Powers Chriſt deſtroyed by his Croſs, becauſe, as the Apoſtle ſaith, through death he deſtroyed him that had the power of death, that is, the Devil, and delivered them who, through the fear of death, were all their lives ſubject to bondage, Hebr. 2.14,15. Moreover, the Heathens lay under two great Inſelicities, (1.) That they were Aliens from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, and Strangers from the Covenant of Promiſe, and without God in the World; the Remedy which Divine Wiſdom found out, and our Lord's Salutary Paſſion effected with reſpect to this, is diſcourſed of in the preceding Verſe. 2*ly*, That they were ſubject to the power and deluſions of Evil and Apoſtate Spirits, walking according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience. Theſe Principalities and Powers Chriſt diſpoiled on the Croſs, by the Name of a crucified Jeſus, and by the very ſign of the Croſs, caſting out the Prince of the World from his Dominions, Temples, Oracles, and from thoſe Humane Bodies he poſſeſſed, and ſo openly convincing the Heathens that the Deities they ſo long worſhipped, were evil Spirits, and by the Miracles wrought in his Name, drawing them from their Heathen Worſhip to him: And this Expoſition is confirmed from theſe words, He made a ſhew of them openly, which plainly ſeemeth to refer to this conqueſt over them. Moreover, it may be noted that Simon and Cerinthus held (q), τὸν μὲν τὸν ἀπὸ ἀρχῶν τούτων, καὶ ἐξουσιῶν καὶ κακίας κατασκευασμένον, that the World was made by theſe evil Spirits, and Men were ſubject to the power of them; and were (r) per eum & Helenam ſuam ex illis Angelicis poteſtatibus liberandos, to be delivered by Simon and his Hellen from them. This, ſaith our Apoſtle, our Lord hath fully done upon the Croſs, and ſo we need no aſſiſtance of Simon or Cerinthus to perform this work; and much leſs need we the aſſiſtance of thoſe Dæmons which the Heathens worſhipped as good Angels, who had the government of the inferiour World committed to them, Chriſt having triumphed over them, and wholly ſpoiled them of that power. And from theſe Heathen Deities he paſſes on again to the Rudiments of the Jews, making this Inference from what had been diſcourſed from v. 11. to the 14*th.*

Ver. 16. Let no man therefore judge (or condemn) you in (not obſerving a diſtinction in) meat, or in drink, or in reſpect of (your neglect of) a (Jewiſh) holy day, or of the new Moons, or of the Sabbath days (obſerved by them).

Ver. 17. Which are (all but) a ſhadow of things to come, but the body (and ſubſtance of thoſe ſhadows) is of Chriſt, (and exhibited by him.)

Σκία τῶν μελλόντων, a ſhadow of things to come.] Dr. Spencer well obſerves, that there is no neceſſity from theſe words of aſſerting that theſe, and all the Ritual Conſtitutions of the Law of Moſes, ſhadowed forth ſome Chriſtian Myſtery, but only that they were but as meer ſhadows, compared to that ſolid and ſubſtantial Truth Chriſt by his Goſpel hath diſcovered to us; as Joſephus, ſpeaking of Archelaus, who exerciſed the Kingly Power without the Title of it, ſaith, ἦκεν παρὰ τὸν Καίσαρα σκιὰν αἰτησόμενος Βασιλείας, ἧς ἥρπασεν ἑαυτῷ τὸ Σῶμα, He came to requeſt of Cæſar the ſhadow of that Kingdom, the Body of which he had uſurped, or ſnatched to himſelf before, De Bello Jud. l. 2. c. 4. p. 777.

Note 2*ly*, That ἐν μέρει ἑορτῆς is well rendred in reſpect, or on account of a Feaſt; as when the Apoſtle ſaith, That which was made glorious, was not glorious ἐν μέρει τούτῳ in this reſpect, 2 Cor. 3. 10. and I have ſent the Brethren, leſt our boaſting of you ſhould be found vain ἐν τούτῳ μέρει in this reſpect, Chap. 9. 3. And when St. Peter ſaith, If any man ſuffer as a Chriſtian, let him glorifie God ἐν τούτῳ μέρει on this account. So 2 Maccab. 15. 18. The care they took for their Wives and Children ἐν τούτῳ μέρει was in leaſt account with them, their chief care being for the Temple. How hence to make out the Argument againſt the Sabbatarians, Note

1. That the hand-writing of Ordinances here mentioned reſpecteth Ceremonial Ordinances; for of them only can it be truly ſaid, they were againſt us, and were contrary to us, they were blotted out, and nailed to the Croſs of Chriſt, and were ſhadows of, or in reſpect of things to come.

2*ly*, That when it is ſaid, Let no man judge you in reſpect of theſe things; the meaning is, let no Man cenſure or condemn the Chriſtian for not obſerving theſe New Moons, Feaſts, or Sabbaths.

3*ly*, That the Apoſtle here by Sabbath does not mean the firſt and laſt days of the great Jewiſh Feaſts which were by them obſerved as Sabbaths, or the Sabbath of the ſeventh Year, or of the Year of Jubilee, but only, or chiefly the weekly Sabbaths of the Jews.

1*ſt*, Becauſe the Apoſtle having ſaid before, Let no man condemn you for not obſerving the Jewiſh Feſtivals, or any part of them, cannot be rationally ſuppoſed in the words following to condemn only the ſame thing.

2*ly*, In the New Teſtament the word Sabbath, or Sabbaths, is uſed above ſixty times; and in fifty ſix of thoſe places, it doth unqueſtionably ſignifie the Jewiſh weekly Sabbaths, and in the other, the whole Week. Since then the Sabbath in the New Teſtament is never uſed for the firſt or laſt days of the Jewiſh Feaſts, but is there ordinarily uſed for their weekly Sabbath, we ought in reaſon to conclude it here imports that Seventh-day Sabbath which it doth uſually import in other places, and not thoſe Solemn days of the Jewiſh Feaſts, thoſe Jubilees or Seven years Sabbaths, which it doth never elſewhere

ſignifie in the New Teſtament.

3*ly*, Wherever the word Sabbath is mentioned in the Old Teſtament in conjunction with New Moons or Jewiſh Feaſts, it doth import the Seventh-day Sabbath diſtinctly from all others, as will appear from the peruſal of all the places where theſe things are jointly mentioned, as 2 Kings 4. 23. Iſa. 1. 13. 66. 23. Lam. 2. 6. Ezek. 45. 17. 46. 1. Hoſ. 2. 2. Amos 8. 5. being then here mentioned with new Moons and Jewiſh Feaſts, it is reaſonable to conceive it ſignifies the Seventh-day Sabbath.

4*ly*, The Sabbath Day in the Old Teſtament is often contra-diſtinguiſh'd to all other Solemn Feaſts, and more particularly to New Moons and Anniverſary Feaſts, and therefore being here mentioned with them, we may preſume it cannot ſignifie them, or any portion of them, but rather that it doth import that Jewiſh Sabbath, which in other places is put in oppoſition to them, as 1 Chron. 23. 31. 2 Chron. 2. 4. 31. 3. Neh. 10. 32, 33. Seeing then the word Sabbath, wherever it is uſed in conjunction with New Moons or Feaſts in Scripture, ſtill ſignifies the Jewiſh weekly Sabbath, we cannot doubt but in conjunction with them here it ſignifies the ſame, ſeeing the word is often put in oppoſition to New Moons and Solemn Feaſts indefinitely taken, what reaſon have we to conceive that in this place it ſhould be taken for any part or portion of them? Hence then I argue thus,

No Man ought to condemn the Chriſtian for not obſerving the Jewiſh Sabbath, becauſe Chriſt hath blotted out the hand-writing of Ceremonial Ordinances which was againſt them; therefore the Jewiſh Sabbath was a Ceremonial Ordinance, therefore 'tis blotted out, therefore the Chriſtian is not obliged to obſerve it. Again, that which is joyned with Meats and Drinks, and with New Moons, which are things confeſſedly Ceremonial, no difference at all being obſerved by the Apoſtle, as to their being named hand-writings, things cancell'd, ſhadows, and the like, that muſt be Ceremonial: Laſtly, that which is a ſhadow of, or in reſpect of things to come, of which Chriſt by his Advent exhibited the Body, that muſt be Ceremonial, that muſt be cancell'd, and aboliſhed by Chriſt, and then the Jewiſh Sabbath muſt be ſo.

Ver. 18. Let no man beguile you of (damniſie you as to) your reward in a voluntary humility, (Gr. pleaſing himſelf in, or affecting humility,) and upon that account) worſhipping of Angels, intruding (or ſearching) into thoſe things (by the ſtrength of his natural reaſon,) which he hath not ſeen, (being) vainly puffed up by his fleſhy mind, (as if he were able by it to know the nature, and the offices of Angels.)

Καταβραβευέτω.] Let no man beguile you of your reward.] So Suidas. Παραλογιζέσθω, Let no man put a cheat upon you, ſo Phavorinus. Ἐπηρεαζέτω, Let no man damage you, ſo Chryſoſtom and Theophylact.

Θέλων ἐν ταπεινοφροσύνῃ, pleaſing himſelf in his humility.] Or affecting it, and ſo not addreſſing to God immediately, but by Angels; for the word θέλειν anſwers to the Hebrew Chaphetz, which imports pleaſing or delighting our ſelves in any thing. So 1 Sam. 18. 12. Θέλει ἐν σοὶ ὁ Βασιλεὺς, the King is pleaſed with thee. 2 Sam. 15. 26. If he ſay οὐκ ἠθέλησα ἐν σοὶ, I am not pleaſed with thee. Matth. 20. 26, 27. ὃς ἂν θέλῃ ἐν ὑμῖν, Who among you affects to be great, or firſt. And Chap. 27. 43. Let him deliver him εἰ θέλει αὐτὸν if he delighteth in him. As for the Perſons here referred to, Note

1. That the Greek Commentators affirm generally that the Apoſtle doth through this whole Epiſtle oppoſe himſelf to ſome falſe Chriſtians, who held δεῖν σωπᾶσθαι ἡμᾶς περὶ τὸν Πατέρα διὰ τῶν ἁγίων Ἀγγέλων, that we ought to addreſs to the Father by the holy Angels. But then ſome of them add, That the pretence of Humility was this, (s) that it was too much for us to come to God immediately by Chriſt, this being above our infirmity. But this, though it agrees well with the Humility here mentioned, it ſeems not to accord either with the Principles of Simon Magus, who held himſelf to be both the Father, and the Son; or of Cerinthus, who held Chriſt was only a Man, born after the common way of Generation, and ſo could not exalt him thus above the Angels; and much leſs doth it accord with the Sentiments of the Heathens. Oecumenius ſaith the Apoſtle ſpeaketh here of them who did τὰς νομικὰς παρατηρήσεις τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ ἐπιμιγνύειν mix Legal obſervances with the Goſpel; and Theophylact, that he ſpeaks περὶ τῶν Ἰουδαϊζόντων of the Judaizers. And Theodoret (t) explains this more fully thus, They who were zealous for the Law, perſwaded men to worſhip Angels, becauſe, ſay they, the Law was given by them; this they adviſed men to do, pretending humility, and ſaying, That the God of all things was inviſible, and inacceſſible, and incomprehenſible, and that it was fit we ſhould procure the Divine Favour by the means of Angels. Now if this be ſo, this paſſage cannot well agree to Simon Magus and his Followers; for though they worſhipped Angels, as

(u) Irenæus,

(u) Irenæus, (x) Tertullian, (y) Epiphanius, and (z) Theodoret note, and held that their Proarche or Propater was ſo inacceſſible and incomprehenſible, yet did they not ſeem to worſhip God by Angels, but rather to perform their Magical Operations by invoking them. He alſo, and his Followers, as hath been ſhewn, were great Enemies to the Law, and ſo could not introduce the Worſhip of good Angels upon this account that the Law was given by them.

But then as for Cerinthus, and other falſe Apoſtles of the Jews, they owned Chriſt Jeſus as the Meſſiah, and yet were ſtiff Aſſertors of the Obligation of the Law, and they by their Philoſophy had introduced the worſhip of Angels after the Heathen manner. For Epiphanius informs us of Cerinthus, that he ſaid, (a) The Law and the Prophets came from the Angels, and that he who gave the Law was one of the Angels that made the World. They had imbibed the Philoſophy of (b) Plato, which ſaith, The Demons are of a middle Nature betwixt the Gods and Mortals, that they brought our Prayers and Offerings to them, and their Commands to us, and were to be worſhipped and invoked upon that account. That God had no immediate Commerce with Men, but all his Converſe with us was by the mediation of theſe Demons. And ſutably to this Philoſophy we find the Angel, Tobit.12.12, 15. ſaying that he was one of the ſeven Angels οἱ προσαναφέρουσι τὰς προσευχὰς τῶν ἁγίων, who offered up the Prayers of the Saints. And that when Tobit and Sarah prayed, he brought the Memorial of their Prayer before the holy One. And (c) Philo in ſeveral places declares, that as the Philoſophers ſaid of their Demons and Heroes, ſo Moſes introduces the Angels πρεσβευομένους doing the office of Ambaſſadors, καὶ διαγγελλούσας τὰ τε παρὰ τοῦ ἡγεμόνος τοῖς ὑπηκόοις ἀγαθὰ, καὶ τῷ Βασιλεῖ ὅ εἰσιν ὑπήκοοι χρεῖοι, and being Meſſengers of good things from God to his Subjects, and carrying back to God their wants. In his Book of the (d) Gyants, he ſtiles them Ambaſſadors of good Communications of Men to God, and of God again to Men. And in his Book (e) de Somniis, he repreſents them as the Ears and Eyes of the great King, ſeeing and hearing all things; for, ſaith he, they bring the Commands of the Father to his Children, and the Needs of the Children to the Father; not that God needs their miniſtry, but that it is very needful and beneficial for us frail Men to have ſuch Mediators, as being unable, not only to receive God's Chaſtiſements, but even his very Benefits, ſhould he immediately confer them on us by himſelf. If Cerinthus had imbibed this Philoſophy, which had then obtained among the Jews, and was ſo well known in the World, that one ſo much inſtructed in it as Theodoret ſaith he was, could not well be ignorant of it, here is a ſufficient Foundation for his introducing the Worſhip of thoſe Angels which gave the Law under pretence of Humility. (f) Philo declaring that when the Law was firſt given, the People deſired it might be ſo, and requeſted of God theſe Mediators; ſaying, Speak thou to us, and let not God ſpeak to us, leaſt we die.

Ἃ μὴ ἑώρακεν ἐμβατεύων, intruding into thoſe things he hath not ſeen.] This did the Philoſophers and thoſe Chriſtians which embraced their Sentiments, in all their Inducements to worſhip theſe Angels and inferiour Spirits. As v. g.

1*ſt*, In their pretence that (g) the Divine Nature could not immediately be converſed with, but that all the intercourſe betwixt God and Men was by the intermediation of theſe Demons, it being a debaſing of the Divine Nature to think we could converſe with him without their intervention.

And ſo do alſo the Romaniſts, in ſaying, that Saints and Angels ſee all things, or perceive our Prayers by ſeeing him who ſeeth all things; that they are worſhipped by the Divine Law and Counſel; and that by invoking them, we do a thing grateful to him, it being certain that nothing of this nature can be proved from Scripture, or from Primitive Tradition.

Moreover, Theodoret and Oecumenius here obſerve, that this Worſhip of Angels continued long in Piſidia, Phrygia, and Laodicea near to Coloſs, where they had (k) εὐκτήρια τοῦ ἁγίου Μιχαὴλ, Oratories of St. Michael, the Captain of the Lords Hoſt, as he is called Joſh. 5. 14. which leads us to the very riſe of this Worſhip both among Jews and Chriſtians. For the Jews generally held, that he who is ſtiled the Captain of the Lords Hoſt was the Angel Michael. They

They therefore ſeem to me to have been partly the Eſſens, and partly the Pythagorean Philoſophers. For,

1. Of the Eſſens, Joſephus ſaith, that ὅτε γαμετὰς εἰσάγονται, &c. they (t) neither would have Wives, nor Servants, as thinking Servitude an injury to our common Nature, or tending to Injuſtice, and Marriage to Sedition. And again, (u) γάμε μὲν ὑπεροψία παρ' αὐτοῖς, they contemn Marriage, not becauſe they would have Marriage taken away, or the Succeſſion of Mankind to ceaſe; but to avoid the intemperance of Women, and becauſe they think none of them can keep their Faith to one. (x) Philo ſays they have Women with them, but they are only ſuch as are γηραιαὶ old Women, or παρθένοι ἢ ἀγνείας, Virgins as to their Chaſtity, not out of Neceſſity, but διὰ ζῆλον καὶ πόθον σοφίας, from their Zeal to, and deſire of Wiſdom. He adds, οἴνου δὲ πολυτελὲς εἶδὸς ἄλλα ἄρτον ἁλιτὸν καὶ ὄψον ἅλας, &c. (y) They eat nothing that is delicate, having only mean Bread and Salt for their Meat, and if they be delicate, Hyſſop for their Sauce, and River-water for their Drink. (z) They uſe no Wine in their Feaſts, οἶνον μὲν καὶ ἀφροσύνης φάρμακον, for Wine, ſay they, is the incentive to madneſs. He goes on, τραπέζα καθαρὰ τῶν ἐναίμων, their Table is pure from all things that have blood in them, or from the fleſh of living Creatures; for ſuch things, ſay they, irritate Concupiſcence. And of this Abſtinence from certain Meats they are ſo tenacious, ſaith (a) Joſephus, that they will rather endure all ſorts of Torments, ἢ φαγεῖν τι τῶν ἀσεμίτων, then eat any thing they were not accuſtomed to eat. Moreover, there were ſome things they muſt not touch, (b) as Oyl, for καὶ δοκεῖ ἀποκαθαίρεσθαι τὸ ἔλαιον, they look on Oyl as a defilement; ſo that if any of them be unwillingly anointed with it, he muſt waſh it off from his Body. The younger among them muſt not touch the Elders (c), ὥστε εἰ ψαύσειαν αὐτῶν ἑαυτῶν ἁλείφεσθαι καθάπερ ἀλλοφύλῳ συμφέροντας, and if they touched them the Elders waſhed themſelves, as if they had touched an Alien. They were ſuch ſtrict Obſervers of the Sabbath, that they would provide no Meat for themſelves, nor go to ſtool on that day. They had alſo (d) τὰ τῶν Ἀγγέλων ὀνόματα, certain Names of Angels which they held in veneration; and alſo proper δόγματα Opinions or Decrees which they ſwore never to deliver to others otherwiſe then as they had received them. And thus they dogmatized. And laſtly, all this was the effect καὶ τῆς φιλοσοφίας ὁρμῆς, of their Paſſion for Philoſophy, of which (e) Philo ſo often ſpeaks in his deſcription of them. So great reaſon is there to conceive they may be concerned in this Chapter.

2*ly*, Theſe things being introduced as the Rudiments of the World, and living according to theſe δόγματα Preſcriptions, being living as in the World, I chiefly incline to refer theſe things to the abſtinence from Touching, and Taſting, Fleſh, and Wine, and handling Women, and from all the Objects which gratifie the Senſes, the Taſte, the Eye, the Touch, taught by the Followers of Pythagoras and Empedocles, and defended with ſuch variety of Learning by Porphyry, the very title of whoſe Book is De abſtinentia ab eſu animalium, of abſtinence from eating the Fleſh of any living Creature. This he founds upon this Principle, that τὸ ζῆν καλὰ ἢ νῦν, (f) to live the intellectual life, and to enjoy the Contemplation of the moſt perfect Being, it is neceſſary that we ſhould abſtract our Minds, as much as is poſſible, from all ſenſual Objects; from the Pleaſures which ariſe διὰ γεύσεως from the taſte, particularly of Wine; and from the touch, for, ſaith he, ἁφαὶ, the ſenſual Objects which we touch are not only σωματῶσαι ἢ ψυχὴν ſuch as transform the Soul into the Body, but alſo ſuch as ſtir up ſwarms of Paſſions and Luſts in it. Hence he infers, that all theſe things are τὰ αἰσχρὰ, filthy and polluting, and ſuch as hinder ἢ ψυχῆς καθαρὰν ἐνέργειαν, the pure Operations of the Soul, therefore he that would have the intellectual Life, muſt abſtain (g) not only from the uſe of Women, but from all Senſual things, they being ſuch as do defile the Soul. Moreover, what the Apoſtle ſpeaks of the deceit of Philoſophy, exactly agrees with the Sentiments of thoſe Men. Doth he ſay that it is καλὰ ἢ παράδοσιν ἀνθρώπων, i. e. according to the Tradition of Men? This Abſtinence is ſtiled by Porphyry (h) νόμῳ ἀγγεφῳ καὶ θείῳ, a Divine, but unwritten Law. Doth he ſay of them, δογματίζονται, they make Decrees and Ordinances? this Opinion is by Porphyry ſtiled (i) δόγμα παλαιὸν καὶ θεοῖς φίλον, an ancient Decree, and acceptable to the Gods, and τὸ διοριζόμενον, a Conſtitution, or a thing defined? Does the Apoſtle ſtile it ἐθελοθρησκεία will-worſhip? 'tis alſo by (k) Heraclides Ponticus ſtiled δεισιδαιμονία Superſtition, and ſaid by Porphyry eſpecially to be done on the account of Wiſdom, and the ſubduing of the Body; ſo full an Agreement is there betwixt this Philoſophy, and that which the Apoſtle hath here ſaid concerning it.

They

They therefore seem to me to have been partly the Essens, and partly the Pythagorean Philosophers. For,

1. Of the Essens, Josephus saith, that ὅτε γαμετὰς οὐκ ἄγουσι, &c. they (t) neither would have Wives, nor Servants, as thinking Servitude an injury to our common Nature, or tending to Injustice, and Marriage to Sedition. And again, (u) γάμε μὲν ὑπεροψία παρ' αὐτοῖς, they contemn Marriage, not because they would have Marriage taken away, or the Succession of Mankind to cease; but to avoid the intemperance of Women, and because they think none of them can keep their Faith to one. (x) Philo says they have Women with them, but they are only such as are γηραιαὶ old Women, or παρθένοι ἡ ἀγνείας, Virgins as to their Chastity, not out of Necessity, but διὰ ζῆλον καὶ πόθον σοφίας, from their Zeal to, and desire of Wisdom. He adds, σιτοῦσι δὲ πολυτελὲς οὐδὲν ἀλλὰ ἄρτον ἐψητὸν καὶ ὄψον ἅλας, &c. (y) They eat nothing that is delicate, having only mean Bread and Salt for their Meat, and if they be delicate, Hyssop for their Sauce, and River-water for their Drink. (z) They use no Wine in their Feasts, οἶνον μὲν γὰρ ἀφροσύνης φάρμακον, for Wine, say they, is the incentive to madness. He goes on, τραπέζα καθαρὰ τῶν ἐναίμων, their Table is pure from all things that have blood in them, or from the flesh of living Creatures; for such things, say they, irritate Concupiscence. And of this Abstinence from certain Meats they are so tenacious, saith (a) Josephus, that they will rather endure all sorts of Torments, ἢ φαγοσί τι τῶν ἀπαγορευομένων, then eat any thing they were not accustomed to eat. Moreover, there were some things they must not touch, (b) as Oyl, for παῖδα ἀναλαμβάνουσιν τὸ ἔλαιον, they look on Oyl as a defilement; so that if any of them be unwillingly anointed with it, he must wash it off from his Body. The younger among them must not touch the Elders (c), ὥστε εἰ ψαύσειαν αὐτῶν ἑαυτὸν ἀπολούεσθαι καθάπερ ἀλλοφύλῳ συμφέροντας, and if they touched them the Elders washed themselves, as if they had touched an Alien. They were such strict Observers of the Sabbath, that they would provide no Meat for themselves, nor go to stool on that day. And lastly, all this was the effect τῆς περὶ φιλοσοφίας ὁρμῆς, of their Passion for Philosophy, of which (e) Philo so often speaks in his description of them. So great reason is there to conceive they may be concerned in this Chapter.

2*ly*, These things being introduced as the Rudiments of the World, and living according to these δόγματα Prescriptions, being living as in the World, I chiefly incline to refer these things to the abstinence from Touching, and Tasting, Flesh, and Wine, and handling Women, and from all the Objects which gratifie the Senses, the Taste, the Eye, the Touch, taught by the Followers of Pythagoras and Empedocles, and defended with such variety of Learning by Porphyry, the very title of whose Book is De abstinentia ab esu animalium, of abstinence from eating the Flesh of any living Creature. This he founds upon this Principle, that τὸ ζῆν καλὰ ἡ νῦν, (f) to live the intellectual life, and to enjoy the Contemplation of the most perfect Being, it is necessary that we should abstract our Minds, as much as is possible, from all sensual Objects; from the Pleasures which arise διὰ γεύσεως from the taste, particularly of Wine; and from the touch, for, saith he, ἁφαὶ, the sensual Objects which we touch are not only σωματῶσαι ἡ ψυχὴν such as transform the Soul into the Body, but also such as stir up swarms of Passions and Lusts in it. Hence he infers, that all these things are τὰ αἰσχρὰ, filthy and polluting, and such as hinder τὴν ψυχῆς καθαρὰν ἐνέργειαν, the pure Operations of the Soul, therefore he that would have the intellectual Life, must abstain (g) not only from the use of Women, but from all Sensual things, they being such as do defile the Soul. Moreover, what the Apostle speaks of the deceit of Philosophy, exactly agrees with the Sentiments of those Men. Doth he say that it is καλὰ ἡ παράδοσιν ἀνθρώπων, i. e. according to the Tradition of Men? This Abstinence is stiled by Porphyry (h) νόμῳ ἀγγέλῳ καὶ θεῷ, a Divine, but unwritten Law. Doth he say of them, δογματίζον, they make Decrees and Ordinances? this Opinion is by Porphyry stiled (i) δόγμα παλαιὸν καὶ θεοῖς φίλον, an ancient Decree, and acceptable to the Gods, and τὸ διοικούμενον, a Constitution, or a thing defined? Does the Apostle stile it ἐθελοθρησκεία will-worship? 'tis also by (k) Heraclides Ponticus stiled δεισιδαιμονία Superstition, and said by Porphyry especially to be done on the account of Wisdom, and the subduing of the Body; so full an Agreement is there betwixt this Philosophy, and that which the Apostle hath here said concerning it.

Verſe 1. IF ye then be riſen with Chriſt (through Faith, Chap. 2. 12. and by newneſs of life, Rom. 6. 4, 5.) ſeek thoſe things which are above, where Chriſt (now raiſed from the dead,) ſitteth on the right hand of God.

Ver. 2. Set your affections on things above, and not on things on the Earth.

Τὰ ἄνω ζητεῖτε, v. 1. φρονεῖτε, v. 2.] Theſe Phraſes ſeem to import, 1. That we ſhould put the higheſt eſtimate and value upon things above. 2. That we ſhould have them fixed on our Spirits, and familiarly occurring to our thoughts by fervent Meditations, and ſerious Reflections on them. 3. That we ſhould have our Wills inclin'd to them, and our Affections poſſeſs'd with frequent Love, and paſſionate Deſires of them; for φρονεῖν is, ſaith Phavorinus, λογίζεσθαι, καὶ ἐνθυμεῖσθαι, σπεύγειν καὶ ὀρέγεσθαι. 4. That we ſhould employ our Faculties and Members in purſuit of them with diligence and conſtancy; for ζητεῖν is niti, curare, ſummo ſtudio quærere, as ζητῶ ποιῆσαι in Demoſthenes, ζητῶ ἁρπάσαι nitor auferre. Plutarch.

Ver. 3. For ye are dead with Chriſt (to ſin, Rom. 6. 6, 7, 8. and to the world, Gal. 6. 14. and from the rudiments of it, Chap. 2. 20.) and your (future) life is hid with Chriſt in God.

Ἡ ζωὴ ὑμῶν ἐν τῷ Θεῷ.] i. e. Your true Life, which conſiſts in fruition of God, and which you ſhall live for ever with him, is hid with Chriſt, who is now removed from your ſight, and plac'd at the right hand of God; for it doth not yet appear what we ſhall be, 1 John 3. 2.

Ver. 4. When Chriſt, who is (the Author and Purchaſer of) our life ſhall appear, then ſhall ye alſo appear with him in glory.

Note. Hence we learn that Chriſtians are not to expect to reign with Chriſt on Earth a thouſand years, becauſe they are not to mind, or ſeek τὰ ἐπὶ γῆς the things upon Earth, but only thoſe above, where Chriſt ſitteth at the right hand of God. Whereas, were this Life on Earth a Bleſſing and Reward which God had promiſed to them for their Sufferings, they might mind it, and ſet their Affections on it; as alſo from all thoſe places where the Hope, Reward, Inheritance of Chriſtians is ſaid to be reſerv'd in the Heavens for them; for as Oecumenius notes, εἰ ἐν οὐρανοῖς ἡ κληρονομία, μυθώδης ἡ χιλιοέτης ἀποκάτασις, if our inheritance be in Heaven, the ſuppoſed Millennium on Earth muſt be but a Fable. Great is your reward in Heaven, ſaith Chriſt to the Chriſtian Sufferer, Matth. 5. 12. Luke 6. 23. Your hope is laid up for you in Heaven, Coloſſ. 1. 5. See 1 Pet. 1. 4.

Ver. 5. Mortifie therefore (in order to the injoyment of this Life with God) your Members that are upon the Earth, (i. e. your earthly carnal Members, viz.) Fornication, Uncleanneſs, inordinate Affection, evil Concupiſcence, and Covetouſneſs which is Idolatry.

Νεκρώσατε οὖν, mortifie therefore your earthly Members.] There being in us naturally the old man, v. 9. Eph. 4. 22. and the body of ſin, the inordinate affections, and luſtings of it, are ſtiled the Members of that Body; partly becauſe they exert themſelves by the Members of the Natural Body; and partly becauſe, as the Members of the Body are employ'd to fulfil and accompliſh the Deſires of the Natural Body, ſo theſe Affections are employ'd to gratifie the Deſires of the Body of Sin, theſe Members are ſtiled Earthly Members, becauſe they reſpect only earthly things; they fix our hearts upon, and employ our minds about them; to mortifie them is to reſiſt, and to ſuppreſs their motions, that we do not obey them, or gratifie them in their inordinate deſires and affections, but carefully ſhun all the occaſions of ſin, and uſe thoſe means which tend to the ſubduing of it. And this Exhortation being directed to Believers, ſhews, that as they are by Profeſſion and by Baptiſmal Obligation dead to ſin, ſo have they continual need to proceed in the practice of this Duty, that they be not overcome by the deceitfulneſs of ſin, by their fleſhly Luſts, which tend to Fornication and Uncleanneſs; their deſires of worldly Honours and vain Glory, which are evil Concupiſcences, and by the inordinate Love of the World, which is ſtiled Covetouſneſs.

Ἥτις ἐστὶν εἰδωλολατρεία, Covetouſneſs which is Idolatry.] Becauſe as Heathens place their confidence in Idols, even ſo the Avaritious Man doth place his confidence in Gold and Silver, which are the Matter of their Idols, he chiefly doth purſue them, and for their ſakes only doth other matters. And that ſuch Actions do partake of the true Nature of Idolatry, Reaſon as well as Scripture will evince; for Reaſon ſhews that Love, Hope, Truſt, Obedience, are parts of that Internal Worſhip which we owe to God in the moſt excellent degrees, and which he more regards than building Temples, or erecting Altars, the bending of the Knee or Body, or any other Act of outward Worſhip, and therefore in thoſe Acts doth more eſpecially conſiſt God's Worſhip; and therefore he that doth confer them upon any Creature in that degree, or in thoſe actions in which they only ought to be aſcribed to God, muſt be as truly an Idolater, as he that payeth to a Creature any outward Act of Religious and Divine Worſhip; and as the covetous Perſon, tho' he doth not indeed believe his Money or his Riches to be a God, yet by loving, and ſo truſting in them, as God only ought to be loved and truſted in, he is as truly guilty of Idolatry, as if he ſo believed; ſo though the Roman Catholicks do not believe their (a) Saints and Angels to be God, yet by addreſſing to them even Mental Prayers, and giving the inward Worſhip of the Soul, which, as (b) St. Auſtin well obſerves, The Catholick Church always reſerv'd to God, they are as guilty of Idolatry as if they did believe them to be Gods, ſince thereby they aſcribe to them the knowledge of the heart, and of the inward motions of the Soul, which only doth belong to God.

Ver. 6. For which things (done by them) the wrath of God cometh upon (men, as being) the children of diſobedience, (or upon thoſe who obey not the commands of God, to abſtain from them.)

Ver. 7. In the which you (of Coloſs) alſo walked ſometimes when ye lived in them.

The Coloſſians dwelling in Phrygia celebrated the Sacra of (c) Bacchus, and of the Mother of the Gods, called therefore Phrygia Mater, and doubtleſs comply'd with all the Luxury of Aſia minor, of which they were a part.

Ver. 8. But now you alſo put off all theſe (following Vices, viz.) Anger, Wrath, Malice, Blaſphemy, (i. e. evil ſpeaking,) and filthy Communication (or reproachful words which ariſe from wrath) out of your mouth.

Αἰσχρολογίαν, filthy Communication.] This is uſually referr'd to obſcene and impure words. But Heſychius, Phavorinus, and J. Pollux l. 2. c. 4. have inform'd us that the word ſignifies reproachful words, ſuch as tend to put a Man to ſhame; and to this ſenſe the words preceding make it moſt proper to refer it, Wrath, Anger, and Malice, or evil Machinations of the heart, being the inward diſpoſitions which render us diſaffected to, and prone to do evil to others; railing and opprobrious Speeches, which tend to render our Brother infamous to others, being the uſual Effects of theſe evil diſpoſitions.

Ver. 9. (And) lie not one to another, ſeeing ye have put off the old man with his deeds. (See Note on Eph. 4. 21.)

Hence it appears, that to be addicted to lying, is an evidence that we have not yet put off the old man.

Ver. 10. And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge, (or by the acknowledgment of the truth, Eph. 4. 22.) after the image of him that created him, (in righteouſneſs and holineſs of truth, Eph. 4. 24.)

Εἰς ἐπίγνωσιν, in knowledge.] The Chriſtian Faith being the knowledge of the truth which is after godlineſs, Tit. 1. 1. it being that by which we eſcape the pollutions of the world through luſt, 2 Pet. 2. 20. and recover out of the ſnare of Satan, 2 Tim. 2. 25, 26. that by which we have all things given us which appertain to life and godlineſs, 2 Pet. 1. 3. and that, ſaith the Apoſtle here, by which we are enabled to walk worthy of the Lord unto all well-pleaſing, being fruitful in every good work, and increaſing in them, as we increaſe εἰς ἐπίγνωσιν τοῦ Θεοῦ in the knowledge of God. The being renewed in this knowledge, may well import our being renewed in righteouſneſs and true holineſs, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Eph. 4. 24. eſpecially if we conſider that whilſt the Judgment ſtill continues to approve the things which are moſt excellent, the Will ſtill chuſes, and the inferiour Faculties will be imploy'd in proſecution of them.

Ver. 11. Where (or under which Oeconomy) there is neither (reſpect had to any man, as being) Greek or Jew, (of the) Circumciſion or Uncircumciſion, (as being) Barbarian, Scythian, bond or free, but (his belonging to) Chriſt is all in all.

Ver. 12. Put on therefore, as (becometh new Creatures, and) the elect of God, (or perſons choſen to be his Church and People,) holy and beloved (of him,) bowels of mercy, kindneſs, humbleneſs of mind, meekneſs, long-ſuffering.

Ὡς ἐκλεκτοὶ τοῦ Θεοῦ, as the elect of God.] That the Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of any abſolute Election of ſome particular Perſons to Eternal Life, but of their being choſen out of the Heathen World to be his Church and People, is evident, becauſe he ſpeaks to the whole Church in general; and yet to theſe Elect he promiſeth the Bleſſings of Chriſtianity only, if they continue in the faith rooted and grounded, and be not moved away from the hope of the Goſpel, Chap. 1. 23. Chap. 2. 2, 4, 18. expreſſing his care and fear, leſt they ſhould be deceived, and rob'd of their Rewards.

Ver. 13. Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any of you have (ground of) quarrel againſt any, even as Chriſt (freely) forgave you (the greateſt ſins out of meer grace and mercy,) ſo alſo do ye (to others.)

Ver. 14. And above all theſe things put on Charity, which is the bond of perfectneſs,

(a) Qui dicit ſtultum eſſe (Sanctis) in Cœlo regnantibus voce vel mente ſupplicare Anathema ſit. Concil. Trid. Seſſ. 25. cap. 1.

Ver. 15. And let the peace of God, to which alſo you are called in one body, (by being all made Members of one Body, Eph. 4. 4.) rule (or be the Umpire) in your hearts, and be ye thankful (unto him that hath called you to peace, 1 Cor. 7. 15.)

Βραβευέτω, rule.] Μεσιδιάτω, ἰθυνάτω, ſaith Phavorinus, i. e. Let that peaceable diſpoſition, which God requires from all Chriſtians, be the Umpire and Director to compoſe all Differences among you, for Peace hath God for its Author. He hath called us to it, he hath made us all one Body, and nothing is more unſeemly or pernicious, then that the Members ſhould be at diſcord with each other. In (d) Joſephus it ſignifies, let him have the chief place; thus of Jehoſaphat he ſaith, he did βραβεύειν, ἅπασι ἴσον excel, as being equal to them all.

Ver. 16. Let the word of Chriſt dwell richly in you, in all wiſdom, (ſo that you may be employ'd in your Aſſemblies by virtue of this Gift of Wiſdom, (this word of wiſdom and of knowledge) in) teaching and admoniſhing one another in Pſalms, and Hymns, and ſpiritual Songs, ſinging with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

Ὁ λόγος τοῦ Χριστοῦ, the word of Chriſt.] The Word dictated by the Holy Spirit, is therefore the Word of Chriſt, becauſe the Spirit is the Spirit of Chriſt, 1 Pet. 1. 11. as proceeding both from the Father and the Son.

Ἐν χάριτι, ſinging with grace.] That is, ſay ſome Interpreters, χαριέντως, בהוד, ſo as that their Hymns may be grateful to others, and be received by them with ſpiritual delight; which is, ſay they, the import of the Phraſe, Eph. 4. 29. Col. 4. 6. But this ſeems rather to depend on others, than our ſelves: Say others, he exhorts them to ſing with a grateful mind, full of the ſenſe of Divine Goodneſs, in which ſenſe χάρις τοῦ Θεοῦ is often uſed, ſee 1 Cor. 15. 27. 2 Cor. 2. 14. But according to the Ancients, he exhorts them ἀπὸ χαρίσματος ᾄδειν to ſing by the Gifts given them by the Holy Ghoſt, of which one is the Word of Wiſdom; and this Expoſition is confirmed by the parallel place, Eph. 5. 18, 19. Be ye filled with the Spirit, ſpeaking to one another in Pſalms, Hymns, and ſpiritual Songs. Now theſe Gifts being chiefly exerciſed in their Aſſemblies, where eſpecially they did ψάλλειν τῷ Πνεύματι, ſing in the Spirit, 1 Cor. 14, 15, 16. and every one had his Pſalm, and his διδαχὴ v. 26. I conceive theſe Spiritual Songs, in which they were to teach and to admoniſh one another, may refer chiefly to their Aſſemblies, then managed by their Prophets, in which they met together for that end. So Pliny doth inform us, that the Chriſtians uſed to meet together on a certain day, Carmenque Chriſto quaſi Deo dicere ſecum invicem, Lib. 10. Ep. 97.

Ver. 17. And whatſoever you do in word or deed, do all in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, giving Thanks to God and (or who is) the Father by him.

Ἐν ὀνόματι Κυρίου, in the Name of the Lord.] To do all in the Name of the Lord, is, firſt, To have reſpect in all things to his Will, as knowing we are obliged to live to him, 2 Cor. 5. 14. to the honour of his Name and Doctrine. 2. To be deſirous that our Actions may be well-pleaſing to him, 2 Cor. 5. 8, 9. 3. To expect acceptance of our Actions, Prayers, John 14. 13, 14, 15, 16. and Praiſes through him, Hebr. 13. 15. and a Recompence of them from him hereafter, Eph. 6. 8. (here v. 24.)

Πατρὶ δι' αὐτοῦ, to the Father by him.] It is the manner of the Scripture, ſaith Biſhop Davenant, to refer our Prayers and Praiſes to the Perſon of the Father, becauſe he is the Fountain of the Deity; add, And becauſe they are to find acceptance through the Interceſſion of, and the preſenting of them by the Son, Rev. 8. 3, 4. Our Prayers muſt be offered up to the Father in his Name, John 16. 23. and yet the Bleſſing asked to be given by him, John 15. 16. that the Father may be glorified in the Son, John 14. 13, 14. Our Praiſes muſt be offered up to the Father in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Eph. 5. 20. by him we muſt offer the Sacrifice of Praiſe to God continually, Hebr. 13. 15. Theſe Spiritual Sacrifices being acceptable to God through Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Pet. 2. 5. And 'tis very frequent in theſe Epiſtles to pray as well to our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, as to God the Father. See Note on Rom. 10. 13. and in the Revelations to give Praiſe and Glory to him, Chap. 4. 9, 11. 5. 12, 13. But 'tis eſpecially to be noted, that all the Greek Interpreters here obſerve, that this is ſpoken againſt the Worſhip of Angels, or Demons, which the Philoſophers, and eſpecially the Platoniſts, had introduced, as thinking them the Perſons who carried up all our Prayers and Praiſes to God, and convey'd down all his Bleſſings to us. Becauſe they, ſaith Theodoret, commanded us to worſhip Angels, he on the contrary commands us to adorn all our Words and Actions with the Memory of our Lord Chriſt, and to offer up our (e) Thankſgivings by him to God the Father, and not by the Angels. It is the Devil that brought in the Worſhip of Angels, ſaith (f) St. Chryſoſtom.

Lord

Ver. 18. Wives ſubmit your ſelves (or be ſubject) to your own Husbands, (in the Offices belonging to that Relation,) as it is fit (for them to do that are) in the Lord, (that the Name of the Lord may not be blaſphemed by your pretending a Chriſtian Liberty from the Obſervances of the Duty of a Wife, Tit. 2. 5. but that by the greater exactneſs in it you may commend Chriſtianity to others, 1 Pet. 3. 5. or in obedience to the Lords requiring this ſubjection, Eph. 6. 6.

Ver. 19. Husbands love your Wives, and be not bitter againſt them, (in the aſperity of words, the ſeverity of your actions, the alienation of your affections from them.)

Ἀγαπᾶτε, love your Wives.] Delighting in their Converſation, Prov. 5. 18, 19. deſiring to promote their welfare, both Temporal and Eternal; for this is ſurely comprehended in loving her as we do our ſelves, Eph. 5. 33. providing for her all things neceſſary to the happineſs and comfort of her life; for this is loving her as Chriſt did love his Church, v. 25. This, ſay the very Heathens, is the property of a (g) ſincere Affection in the general, and therefore much more of that Affection which we are to bear to our own Fleſh and Body, as the Wife is to be eſteemed, Eph. 5. 28, 29.

Καὶ μὴ πικραίνεσθε πρὸς αὐτάς, and be not bitter againſt them.] For as St. Ambroſe ſaith, Non es Dominus ſed Maritus, non Ancillam ſortitus es, ſed Uxorem, Gubernatorem voluit te eſſe Deus ſexus inferioris, non Tyrannum. Hexam. 5. 7. Hence they who ſacrificed to Juno Nuptialis, ſaith (h) Plutarch, did ſeparate the Gall from the Sacrifice, and throw it away; ſignifying τὸ μηδέποτε δεῖν χόλῳ μηδὲ ὀργῇ πικρὸν μῆλον παρεῖναι, that there ſhould be no bitterneſs or wrath betwixt thoſe that were married.

Ver. 20. Children obey your Parents in all (lawful) things, for this is well pleaſing to the Lord. (And in all things to which the power of the Parent reaches; for if he commands him not to marry when he cannot contain, or to marry one he cannot love, he exceeds his Paternal Authority.

Ver. 21. Fathers (whoſe names ſpeaks clemency and kindneſs) provoke not your Children, (irritate them not with ſowerneſs and hard uſage, immoderate or undeſerved ſtripes,) leſt they be diſcouraged, (i.e. deſpair of pleaſing you.)

Ver. 22. Servants obey in all (i) (lawful) things (thoſe who are) your Maſters according to the fleſh, not only (as thoſe who do buſineſs) with eye-ſervice, as (being) men-pleaſers, but in ſingleneſs of heart (as perſons) fearing God. (See the reaſon of this Precept, Note on v. 25.)

Ver. 23. And whatſoever you do, do it heartily as to the Lord, and not unto men, (having reſpect to his glory, and his recompence; See Notes on Eph. 6. from v. 1. to v. 9.)

Ver. 24. Knowing that of the Lord you ſhall receive the reward, for ye ſerve the Lord Chriſt.

Note. We are, ſaith Schlictingius a Socinian, to ſerve Chriſt as our heavenly Lord, which, ſaith he, (k) comprehends faith in him, obedience to him, and worſhip and adoration of him, the giving him the honour which agrees to him, and the invocation of him. Now ſaith Chriſt, Thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him only ſhalt thou ſerve, Matth. 4. 10. and God alone is worthy of religious Invocation from all Chriſtians, as being only Omniſcient, Omnipreſent, and the Searcher of all Hearts; Chriſt therefore muſt be truly God. Moreover, the Apoſtle reckons it part of the Idolatry of the Heathen, that they ſerved or paid Religious Worſhip to them which by nature were no Gods, Gal. 4. 8. The Socinians therefore, either muſt confeſs Chriſt is by Nature, as well as by Office, God, or elſe acknowledge that they are guilty of Idolatry in giving this Religious Worſhip to him.

Ver. 25. But he (of you) that doth wrong (to his Maſter,) ſhall receive (of the Lord puniſhment) for the wrong he hath done, and (ϗ, for) there is no reſpect of perſons with him.

Προσωποληψία.] Chriſt in judging Men at the laſt Day, will have no reſpect to the Quality or External Condition of any Mans Perſon; but whether he be bond or free, he ſhall receive recompence for the good that he hath done in obedience to him, whether he be Maſter or Servant, he ſhall be puniſhed for the wrong that he doth in thoſe relations.

It

It being certain from the ſecond Chapter, that the Judaizers were got into the Church of Coloſs, and that many of them denied that Jews ought to be Servants to any, and that the Eſſenes thought all Servitude unlawful. (See Note on 1 Pet. 2. 15. 1 Tim. 6. 1, 2.) This might be the reaſon why here, and Titus 2. the Apoſtle is ſo large in charging this Duty upon Servants.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. MAſters give unto your Servants that which is juſt and equal, knowing that you alſo have a Maſter in Heaven, (who with what meaſure you mete to others, will mete to you again, Matth. 7. 2. and deal with you his Servants as you deal with yours.)

Τὸ δίκαιον, what is juſt and equal.] Hence it is evident, that Juſtice is to be obſerved towards Servants, and that there be Offices of Humanity and Charity which are due to them: As, (1.) That we do not look upon them as vile Perſons, but as partakers of the ſame Grace and Nature with us; and ſo not only as Servants, but as Brethren, Philem. 16. (2.) That we do not always puniſh all their Miſcarriages, but ſometimes do remit the Puniſhments which in our Anger we threatned to inflict, Eph. 6. 9. (3.) That we do not make them ſerve with rigour; Thou ſhalt not rule over him with rigour, καὶ κατατενεῖς αὐτὸν ἐν τῷ μόχθῳ, Thou ſhalt not oppreſs, afflict, or wear him out with labour, but ſhalt fear the Lord, Lev. 25. 43. (4.) That we permit them to plead their Cauſe, and to defend their Right, provided they do it with Humility, not contradicting or ſpeaking againſt the Commands of their Maſters, Tit. 2. 9. If I did deſpiſe the cauſe of my Man-ſervant, or Maid-ſervant, when they contended with me, what then ſhall I do when God riſeth up, and when he viſiteth, what ſhall I anſwer him? Job 31. 13, 14. (5.) That to well deſerving Servants, we give ſomething even above their Wages, and after a long and profitable Service, we do not ſuffer them to go empty from us: When thou ſendeſt him out free from thee, thou ſhalt not let him go away empty; thou ſhalt furniſh him liberally out of thy Flock, and out of thy Floor, and out of thy Wine-preſs, of that wherewith the Lord thy God hath bleſſed thee, thou ſhalt give unto him, Deut. 15. 13, 14. Theſe things the Lord commanded under the Old Teſtament, becauſe their Servants were his Servants alſo, redeemed by him out of Egypt, Lev. 25. 15. Deut. 15. 15. And therefore they ſeem as ſtrongly to oblige under that Oeconomy, where we are all the Servants of Chriſt, our common Lord, and redeemed by his precious Blood, Eph. 6. 6. 1 Cor. 7. 22, 23.

Ver. 2. Continue (inſtant) in Prayer, and watch in the ſame (γρηγορῦντες, being vigilant in it) with Thanſgiving, (for the Mercies you have already received.)

Ver. 3. Withal praying for us, that God would open to us a door of utterance (by enabling us) to ſpeak (with freedom) the myſtery of Chriſt, for which I am alſo (now) in bonds. (See Note on Eph. 6. 19, 20.)

Ver. 4. That I may make it manifeſt, as I ought to ſpeak it.

Περὶ ἡμῶν, praying for us.] Thus this Apoſtle, who ſo paſſionately writes to Chriſtians, deſiring that they would ſtrive together with him in their prayers to God, Rom. 15. 30, 31. that they would always with all perſeverance pray for him; that they would continue in prayer that God would open to him a door of utterance to ſpeak the myſtery of Chriſt, Eph. 6. 18, 19. Col. 4. 2, 3. and that he might be delivered from unreaſonable and wicked men, 1 Theſſ. 5. 25. 2 Theſſ. 3. 1, 2. ſhould never pray to the Virgin Mary, and to Angels, or to Saints departed; for any of theſe things is an evidence that he approved not of thoſe Prayers.

Ver. 5. Walk in wiſdom (or diſcretion) towards them that are without (the Church, that is, the Heathens, 1 Theſſ. 4. 12.) redeeming the time, (i. e. endeavouring to avoid as much as you are able, by careful circumſpection, and inoffenſive carriage, the dangers you may be expoſed to from them. See Note on Eph. 5. 15.)

Ver. 6. Let your ſpeech be always with grace, (mild and courteous,) ſeaſoned with Salt, (wiſe and diſcreet,) that ye may know how ye ought to anſwer every man, (ſo as conduceth to the credit of Chriſtianity, 1 Pet. 3. 15. and to your own ſafety in theſe evil times, Eph. 5. 16, 17.)

Ἐν χάριτι, with grace.] i. e. With ſweetneſs and courteouſneſs, ſaith Theodoret, that it may be acceptable to the hearers. Ἵνα αὐτοὺς μετρίους ἐργάζηται, that it may render you gracious to, and favour'd by them; So Theophylact, Seaſon'd with Salt. Salt is the Symbol of Wiſdom; and in this ſenſe the word is uſed Matth. 5. 13. Mark 9. 15. Have, ſaith Theodoret, σωφρονικὸν καὶ μαλακὸν, ſpiritual wiſdom, that ye may know, &c.

Ver. 7. And as for what concerns me,) all my ſtate ſhall Tychicus declare unto you, who is a beloved Brother, and faithful Miniſter, and fellow-ſervant in the (work of) the Lord.

Τυχικὸς

Τυχικὸς.] That this Epiſtle was writ at the ſame time with that to the Epheſians, is pleaded from this, that it was ſent by the ſame perſon Tychicus, with the very ſame words contained in this, and the following Verſe, Eph. 6. 21, 22.

Ver. 8. Whom I have ſent unto you for the ſame purpoſe, that he might know your ſtate, and comfort your hearts (under your preſſures.)

Ver. 9. (And) with him (I have ſent) Oneſimus a faithful and beloved Brother, who is one of you, (being ſervant to Philemon a chief man in Coloſs.) they ſhall make known unto you all things (that are done here at Rome.)

Oneſimus.] Of whom (a) St. Jerom ſaith, we read that of a Servant he was made a Deacon.

Ver. 10. Ariſtarchus my fellow Priſoner ſalluteth you, and Marcus ſiſters ſon to Barnabas, concerning whom (i. e. which Marcus) you received commands, if he come to you (to) receive him (kindly.)

Μάρκος.] It ſeems hence that St. Paul's diſpleaſure againſt him, mentioned Acts 15. 38. laſted not long; for he deſires Timothy to bring him with him, as being profitable to him for the Miniſtry, 2 Tim. 4. 11. and ſtiles him his fellow labourer, Philem. 24.

Ver. 11. And Jeſus, who is called Juſtus, (Acts 18. 5, 6, 7.) who are of the Circumciſion. Theſe only (of the Jews) are my fellow-workers to (the promotion of) the Kingdom of God, which have been a comfort to me.

Ver. 12. Epaphras, who is one of you, (a Citizen of Coloſs. ſee v. 9.) a Servant of Chriſt, ſaluteth you, always labouring fervently for you in Prayers, that ye may ſtand perfect and compleat in all the will of God.

Ver. 13. For I bear him record, that he hath a great zeal for you, and for them that are in Laodicea and in Hierapolis, (two other Cities of Phrygia.)

Ἐπαφρᾶς.] That Epaphras was about this time Priſoner at Rome, is concluded very probably by Philemon 23. where he is ſtiled by St. Paul his fellow Priſoner, for that the Epiſtle to Philemon and this were written at the ſame time, may be conjectur'd by the naming Timothy at the beginning; and all the ſame Perſons, ſave only Juſtus, viz. Epaphras, Marcus, Ariſtarchus, Demas, Lucas at the end of both of them; but that he was Biſhop of Coloſs is not ſaid by any of the Greek Commentators on the place, he might have this zeal for them mention'd in theſe two Verſes, either as being one of them, v. 12. or as being employ'd in preaching the Goſpel to them.

Ver. 14. Luke the beloved Phyſitian, and Demas greet you.

Ver. 15. Salute the Brethren which are in Laodicea, and Nymphas, and the Church which is in his houſe, (i. e. his Chriſtian houſhold, for all the Brethren are mention'd before. (So Theodoret, Oecumenius, St. Chryſoſtom and Theophylact note, that τὸν οἶκον αὐτῦ πάντα πιστὸς ἔχων, ὥστε καὶ ἐκκλησίαν καλεῖσθαι, he had made his whole Family Chriſtians, ſo as to be called a Church.)

Ver. 16. And when this Epiſtle is read amongſt you, cauſe it to be read alſo in the Church of the Laodiceans, and (ſee) that ye likewiſe read the Epiſtle from Laodicea.

Καὶ τὴν ἐκ Λαοδικείας, and that from Laodicea.] Some conjecture that the Epiſtle here mentioned as from Laodicea, was the firſt Epiſtle of St. Paul to Timothy, becauſe the Poſtſcript ſaith it was written from Laodicea; but that Subſcription is eaſily confuted, both from this conſideration, that the firſt Epiſtle to Timothy was two or three years after this; ſee the Preface to it; and from this very Epiſtle, in which the Apoſtle mentions them of Laodicea among thoſe who had not ſeen his face in the fleſh, Chap. 2. 1. St. Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact underſtood by it ſome Epiſtle writ by them of Laodicea to St. Paul. But the Apoſtle doth not ſay, read the Epiſtle ſent to me from Laodicea; nor doth he mention one word of ſuch an Epiſtle ſent from them to him here, or elſewhere; nor is it to be doubted but he would have anſwer'd their Epiſtle, had they ſent any, as he did that which the Church of Corinth ſent to him. Others underſtand this of an Epiſtle ſent by St. Paul to them, which is now loſt; but all the Ancients are not only ſilent in this matter, but ſome of them expreſly do explode this imagination, obſerving that the Apoſtle propoſes to their reading, not τὴν πρὸς Λαοδικέας, ἀλλὰ τὴν ἐκ Λαοδικείας γραφεῖσαν, an Epiſtle writ to the Laodiceans, but only from Laodicea to be ſent to Coloſs. I therefore acquieſce in their Opinion, who underſtand this of the Epiſtle to the Epheſians, ſent by the admonition of St. Paul, from Epheſus the Metropolis of Laodicea ſubject to it, as the Epiſtles to the Church of Corinth belong'd to all the Churches of Achaia, 2 Cor. 1. 1. For (b) Tertullian witneſſeth that this Epiſtle to the Epheſians was by Marcion ſtiled the Epiſtle to the Laodiceans; and the place which Marcion cites from (c)

(a) Legimus Oneſimum inter Pauli renatum vincula Diaconum eſſe cæpiſſe de ſervo. Contr. Error. Joh. Hieroſ.

(c) Ἐποιήσατο δὲ καὶ τὴν ἰδίαν Ἀποστολικὴν καλυμβήν, ἣν ἐπέγραψε καλυμβήτην πρὸς Λαοδικέας, εἰς κύριον, μία πίστις, &c. Epiph. Hær. 42. p. 374. B.

Epiphanius, as from the Epiſtle to the Laodiceans, is in the Epiſtle to the Epheſians, Chap. 4, 5, 6. viz. There is one Lord, one Faith, one Baptiſm, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. Moreover, the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians, as I have ſhew'd, and Theodoret notes, was writ ſoon after that to the Epheſians, and ſent to them both by the hands of Tychicus; and there is a great reſemblance obſervable betwixt them both in the Doctrines and Exhortations, and in the very Expreſſions; ſo that it is not to be wondred that the Apoſtle would have that Epiſtle alſo read to the Coloſſians, to let them ſee that he writ the ſame Doctrine, and gave the ſame Inſtructions to other Churches of the Saints.

Ver. 17. And ſay to Archippus, Take heed to the Miniſtry which thou haſt received in the Lord, that thou fulfil it.

Ἀρχίππῳ, Archippus.] That this Archippus ſhould be then Biſhop of Coloſs, as St. Jerom on the Epiſtle to Philemon thinks, and that St. Paul ſhould not write one word, or ſend one Salutation to him, but ſend to the People of Coloſs to admoniſh him of his Duty, is not very credible in it ſelf, nor do the Ancients teſtifie that he bore that Character.

Ver. 18. The Salutation (written) by the hand of me Paul, (is in token that this is my Epiſtle, 2 Theſſ. 3. 17.) remember my (bonds in) bonds, (ſo as to pray for my deliverance, ver. 3. and to prepare for patient Suffering by my Example.) Grace be with you. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE First Epistle of St. PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

THAT St. Paul laid the foundation of the Gospel among the Thessalonians, (a) ἀνπλεχόντων μὲν Ἰουδαίων, the Jews contradicting, and openly contending against it, we learn from the History of the Acts; and this Church consisting, as (b) Oecumenius notes, partly of Jews, and partly of Gentiles, they were persecuted both by the unbelieving Jews and Gentiles; the Jews exciting the Gentiles to this Persecution, Acts 17. 5. The Apostle therefore writes to confirm them in the Faith, and to prevent their being shaken by these Persecutions, informing them that it was nothing strange they should thus suffer from these Jews, who had killed the Lord Jesus, and had persecuted both the Apostles, and their own Prophets, or that they should suffer from their own Country-men, as the Jews in Judea did from theirs, Chap. 2. 14.

Moreover, concerning this Epistle, the first note of the Fathers is this, (c) Thessalonica was the Metropolis of Macedonia, whence we may certainly conclude that Philippi was not so.

This Epistle must be written after the Council held at Jerusalem, A.D. 49. from thence Paul goes to Antioch, Acts 15. 30. stays there some considerable time, v. 35. from thence goes thro' Syria and Cilicia, confirming the Brethren, v. 41. thence to Derbe and Lystra, Chap. 16. 1. thro' Phrygia and Galatia, v. 6. then to Troas, v. 8. to Samothracia and Neapolis, v. 11. and so to Philippi, v. 12. then to Amphipolis and Apollonia, and so to Thessalonica, Chap. 17. 1. there planting the Gospel; thence they are expell'd by the Jews and Gentiles, and go to Berœa, v. 10. thence to Athens, v. 15. and from thence to Corinth, Chap. 18. 1. where Timotheus coming to him, and giving him a comfortable account of their Faith and Constancy, he writes this Epistle to them, Chap. 3. 6. Whence it appears that it could not be written in less time then a year or two after that Council, and that the Inscription of it running thus, Paul and Sylvanus, and Timotheus, to the Church of the Thessalonians, it must be written after their return to him, and so not from Athens, as the Subscription hath it, but from Corinth, Acts 18. 1, 5. A.D. 51. or 52. for it was written after he had been separated from them but a little while, Chap. 1. 17.

A
Paraphraſe and Comment
ON THE
Firſt Epiſtle of St. PAUL
TO THE THESSALONIANS.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. (I) Paul (the Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt) and Sylvanus, and Timotheus (my fellow Labourers, write) to the Church of the Theſſalonians, (eſtabliſhed) in (the knowledge and worſhip of) God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. (Wiſhing) Grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and (from) the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 2. (And advertiſing you that) we give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers.

Τῇ Ἐκκλησίᾳ Θεσσαλονικέων, to the Church of the Theſſalonians.] He names not the Presbyters and Deacons, ſaith Grotius, becauſe the Church was newly planted, and had not received its full form. And yet in his Note on thoſe words, Chap. 5. 12. I entreat you, Brethren, know them that labour among you, and are over you in the Lord. He ſaith, οἱ κοπιῶντες, the Labourers, are the Princes of the Aſſembly called Biſhops; οἱ προϊσταμένοι, they that are over you, are the Presbyters. But againſt this ſee the Note there.

Ver. 3. Remembring without ceaſing your work of faith, your labour of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (v. 10. when we appear) before God, and (even) our Father.

Ἀδιαλείπτως μνημονεύοντες, remembring without ceaſing.] i. e. As often as we appear before God our Father, thankfully remembring your faith fruitful in good works, your love to the Saints, making you laborious to promote their good, and your hope in the Lord Jeſus, v. 10. rendring you patient in all your tribulations for his ſake, Chap. 5. 17. See the Note there.

Ἀπὸ Θεῷ Πατρὶ, from God the Father, v. 1. and before God even our Father, v. 3.] The Spirit of God vouchſafed under the Goſpel, enables us to cry Abba, Father, i. e. to come to God with the aſſurance of his Fatherly Affection to us, as being now the Sons of God through Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, on which account is God our Father, or the Father of us Chriſtians, Eph. 3. 15. ſo often mentioned for their Conſolation in thoſe Times of Peril.

Ver. 4. (As) knowing, Brethren, beloved, (by your proficiency in theſe Chriſtian vertues,) your election of God.

Ver. 5. For our Goſpel came not to you in word only, but alſo in (the) power (of miracles,) and in (or with) the (diſtributions of) the Holy Ghoſt, and in much aſſurance, (or full conviction both to you of the truth of our Doctrine, and to us, that God hath choſen you to be his Church and People,) as you know what manner of Men we were among you for your ſakes, (or how we were enabled by thoſe things to give full proof of our Miniſtry.)

Τὴν ἐκλογὴν ὑμῶν, your election of God.] The Goſpel came to ſome in word only, i. e. they heard the ſound of it, but did not believe, and obey it, and ſo the Word did not profit them, not being mixed with Faith in them that heard it, Hebr. 4. 2. and theſe were only κλητοὶ called, but not ἐκλεκτοὶ choſen. Matth. 22. 14.

2. 14. To others the preaching of the Apoſtles was attended with a greater power of Miracles, and extraordinary Effuſions of the Holy Ghoſt prevailing on many to embrace it as the Word of God; ſo that from hence the Apoſtles had full aſſurance that it was the good Pleaſure of God to gather a Church of Believers and faithful People there; and theſe were called the Elect, ἐκλογὴ Θεοῦ, the Election of God, the Election of Grace, i. e. Men choſen to be partakers of the Bleſſings of the Goſpel, and to be God's peculiar Church and People. For the Apoſtle doth not here ſpeak of any abſolute Election of the whole Church of the Theſſalonians to Eternal Life, becauſe he could have no certain knowledge of it; or, if he had, he could not have been under any juſt grounds of Fear, as we find he was, Leſt by ſome means the Tempter ſhould have tempted them, and his labour be in vain among them, Chap. 3. 5. Moreover, the reaſon of his Knowledge here aſſigned, viz. the Miracles and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, with which his preaching was attended, gave him a certain knowledge that God deſign'd to gather there a Church of Chriſtians; but 'twas no certain Indication of their Election to Eternal Life, ſeeing the Apoſtle informs us that they who had taſted of theſe powers of the world to come, and received theſe Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, might fall away, ſo as not to be renewed to repentance, Hebr. 6. 4,5,6. and many of the converted Jews actually did ſo afterwards.

Ver. 6. And ye became Followers of us, and of the (Lord, in your Sufferings for his ſake,) having received the word in much affliction, (Acts 17. 5. and yet) with joy of the Holy Ghoſt.

μετὰ χαρᾶς, with joy of the Holy Ghoſt.] In the foregoing Verſe he lays before them the outward Teſtimonies of the Truth of Chriſtianity from the Miracles wrought, and the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt exerciſed among them; here he appeals alſo to the inward teſtimonies they had received of it, even a ſtrong Spiritual Joy wrought in them by the Holy Ghoſt, under the ſharpeſt Sufferings, according to thoſe words of St. Peter, If ye ſuffer for the ſake of righteouſneſs, and be reproached for Chriſt's ſake, happy are ye, for the Spirit of Glory and of God reſts upon you, 1 Pet. 4. 14.

Ver. 7. So that ye were Examples (of Faith and Patience) to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia.

Ver. 8. For from you ſounded out the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, (and ſo they could not be ignorant of your faith and good works,) but alſo in every place (the fame of) your faith to God-ward is ſpread abroad, (or hath gone forth,) ſo that we need not ſpeak any thing (to others of the Grace of God given us towards you, Eph. 3. 7. Col. 1. 25.)

Ver. 9. For they themſelves ſhew of us what manner of entring in we had unto you, (i. e. with what power and aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt we preached the Goſpel to you, v. 5.) and how (thereupon) ye turned from Idols to ſerve the living and true God.

Theſe words, ſaith (a) Theodoret, teach us how to expound our Saviour's words, This is Life eternal, to know thee the only true God, teaching us that he is ſo ſtiled, in oppoſition not to Jeſus Chriſt, but to Idols only.

Ver. 10. And to wait for (the coming of) his Son from Heaven, (to be glorified in his Saints, 2 Theſſ. 1. 10.) whom he hath (already) raiſed from the dead, even Jeſus, who (by his death hath) delivered us from the wrath to come.

(a) Οὐ γὰρ τῷ ὑῷ συγκείνων, ἀλλὰ τοῖς ἐκ τῶν Θεοῖς, τὸν ὄντα Θεὸν, Θεὸν ζῶντα, καὶ ἀληθινὸν αὐτὸν φησὶν εἶναι.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. WE need not, I ſay, ſpeak any thing farther of the effectual working of God with us in our entrance in unto you,) For your ſelves, Brethren, know that our entrance in to you was not in vain, (i. e. not without demonſtration of Divine aſſiſtance, Chap. 1. 5.)

Οὐ κενὴ, not vain.] I grant that the Apoſtle doth not intend to ſignifie by this Phraſe only that his word was not ineffectual among them, but alſo to declare the reaſon why it was not ſo; to wit, becauſe it wanted not a demonſtration of Divine Authority, and Power to confirm them in the Faith that heard it, and thoſe that preach'd it in their Expectations of Succeſs, and their Aſſurance that the Theſſalonians were by God deſigned to receive the Faith; as it would have been, had it come to them in word only, and not in Power, and the Holy Ghoſt, and much Aſſurance. For the word vain, when it is applied to God's Meſſage, ſignifies the not accompliſhing the great Ends for which it was deſigned. So Iſa. 55. 11. The Word that goeth out of my mouth ſhall not return to me in vain, but it ſhall accompliſh that which I pleaſe, and it ſhall proſper in the thing whereto I ſent it. And Jer. 8. 8. How do ye ſay we are wiſe, and the Law of the Lord is with us? no certainly in vain made he it, the Pen of the Scribes is in vain. And Jer. 2. 30. In vain have I ſmitten your Children, they have received no correction. Our entrance therefore to you was not in vain; that is, it was not without ſuch Divine Aſſiſtance as was ſufficient to work Conviction in you, and to engage you to embrace the Truth delivered to you.

Ver. 2. But (we had ſuch aſſurance of God's call to preach to you, that) even after that we had ſuffered before, and were ſhamefully entreated, as ye know at Philippi, (Acts 16. 23.) we were (ſtill) bold in (the ſtrength of) our God, to ſpeak unto you the Goſpel of God (though this we did) with much contention, (and oppoſition from the unbelieving Jews, Acts 17. 5.)

Ver. 3. For our Exhortation (made to you to embrace the Goſpel,) was not of deceit, or of covetouſneſs, or in guile, (as are the Exhortations of the Philoſophers among you, and the deceitful Workers of the Jewiſh Nation which endeavour to corrupt you.)

Ver. 4. But as we were allowed (Gr. have been approved) of God (as Perſons fit) to be put in truſt with the Goſpel, even ſo we ſpeak (the truth ſincerely,) not as pleaſing men, but (as approving our ſelves to that) God who trieth our hearts, (Gal. 1. 10.)

Ver. 5. For neither at any time uſed we flattering words, as ye know, nor a Cloak of Covetouſneſs, God is witneſs, (2 Cor. 2. 17.)

Ὁ λόγος κολακείας.] Here ſignifies flattering words, or words that are flattery, as λόγος ἀκοῆς, v. 13. is the word heard, and λόγος ἀληθείας, the Word which is the Truth, 2 Cor. 6. 7. Col. 1. 5. and πρόφασις πλεονεξίας is a pretence to gratifie their covetouſneſs; for that the Apoſtles never were under a defamation, or accuſation of theſe things, neither could the Theſſalonians know, nor was it a thing proper to call God to witneſs to; but that no ſuch guilt could truly be charged upon them, the Theſſalonians might know, and that they inwardly deſigned no ſuch thing, God only could be witneſs, as being alone the Searcher of the Heart.

Ver. 6. Nor of men ſought we glory, (or high eſtimation,) neither of you, nor yet of others (proviſions,) though we might (not only with a fair pretence, but with juſt reaſon) have been (thus) burthenſome, as being the Apoſtles of Chriſt.

Ἐν βάρει εἶναι, be burthenſome.] This ſeems not to refer to the Cenſures of the Church, but to the Apoſtles living at the charge of their Converts; for he ſaith v. 9. that he, and his Companions, laboured night and day, πρὸς τὸ μὴ ἐπιβαρῆσαί, that they might burthen none of them. So 2 Cor. 11. 9. other Churches ſupplied my wants, ſo that in all things I have kept my ſelf ἀβαρῆ, unburthenſome to you. And 1 Tim. 5. 16. if any man or woman that believeth hath widows, let them relieve them, &c. μὴ βαρείσθω ἡ Ἐκκλησία, and let not the Church be burthened with them.

Ver. 7. (I ſay we ſought not high eſteem, or rich proviſions,) But we were gentle, (meek and unburthenſome) among you, even as a Nurſe cheriſheth her Children, (bearing herſelf the burthen of them, and giving them her milk, as we diſpence to you the ſincere Milk of the Word freely.)

Ἤπιοι, meek.] If the various Lection noted by Theodoret, Oecumenius and Theophylact, who here read νήπιοι Children, were the original, the ſenſe would run thus, But we, O Children, were among you as a Nurſe that cheriſheth her Children. See v. 11.

Ver. 8. So (and) being (thus) affectionately deſirous of you (for good,) we were willing to have imparted to you, not the Goſpel of God only, but alſo our own Souls, (i. e. to have ſpent our lives in your ſervice,) becauſe we were dear to us.

Τὰς ἑαυτῶν ψυχὰς, our own Souls.] i. e. Our own lives; as when Chriſt is ſaid to give, τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ, his Life a ranſome for many, Matth. 20. 28. to lay down, τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ, his Life for the Sheep, John 10. 11, 15, 17. 15. 13. 1 John 3. 16. And when we are bid to lay down, τὰς ψυχὰς, our lives for the Brethren, 1 John 3. 16. to loſe, or gain, τὴν ψυχὴν, our life, Luke 9. 24. John 12. 25. See Acts 20. 10. Rom. 11. 3. 16. 4. 2 Cor. 12. 15. Philip. 2. 13. 1 Pet. 4. 19.

Ver. 9. (And of this affection you cannot well be ignorant,) For ye remember, Brethren, our labour and travel; for labouring night and day, becauſe we would not be chargeable to any of you, we preached to you (freely) the Goſpel of God.

It is the Opinion of Dr. Hammond, that the Apoſtle here from the third to the fourth Verſe, refers to the Gnoſticks, and clears himſelf from the vile Arts they uſed, and ill deſigns they had in promoting their Deluſions. But this Epiſtle being writ, ſaith the ſame Reverend Perſon, about the year Fifty, and whilſt Simon Magus was yet living, it cannot be proved that theſe Gnoſticks were then in being, much leſs that they ever were at Theſſalonica.

We read in Scripture of ſome Teachers of the Law, who gave heed to Fables, 1 Tim. 1. 4, 7. and who counted gain godlineſs, Chap. 6. 5. of ſome Jews who were deceitful Workers, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 22. 1 Cor. 4. 2. and had their παιπεργίαι, ſubtilties, 2 Cor. 11. 3. and who were given to Uncleanneſs, Rom. 2. 22. and taught unclean Doctrines, 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17. 8. Chap. 6. 13—19. 2 Cor. 12. 21. See the Note there. And it is likely the Apoſtle might in theſe words reſpect thoſe Deceivers.

Or we may refer theſe things to the Philoſophers of thoſe times, who did πλεονεκτεῖν, make a prey of Men by Philoſophy and vain

Deceit,

Deceit, Colos. 2. 8. who were, saith the Poet, in (a) Athanæus, μισγοπαιξαπάται, deceivers of young men, and δοξομαλαυδοφοι, desirous of vain glory, whose business it was (b) χαεσλογιαιτιν, to speak to please men, who taught only for stipends, or ἐργολαβίας ἕνεκεν, as (c) Diodorus Siculus saith, of the Grecian Philosophers, and τὰ καλὰ ἐργολαβίαν κέρδους σοφιζόμενοι, Philosophized, saith (d) Plato, out of love of gain, and who are every where represented as (e) given to impurity, and exercising the vilest Practises with those they taught their vain Philosophy. Whence they were sometimes banished from the places of their abode, saith (f) Athanæus, ὡς διαφθείροντες τὰς νέους, as Corrupters of the Youth, and did κυνικῶς ζῶν, lead the lives of Cynicks. And (g) Plato himself confesseth, that one reason why they were so generally decried, was this, that most of them were πανπόνηροι, the worst of men.

Ver. 10. Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily (towards God,) and how justly, and unblameably we behaved our selves, (whilst we conversed) among you that believe.

Ver. 11. As (and likewise) how we exhorted, and comforted, and charged every one of you, as a Father doth his Children, (Gr. how we loved every one of you as a Father doth his Children,) exhorting (you to the performance of your duty,) comforting (you under your tribulations,) and testifying.

Ver. 12. That ye would (ought to) walk worthy of God, who hath called you to his Kingdom and Glory.

Ἀξίως τοῦ Θεοῦ, worthy of God.] i. e. That you would walk 1. so as is best pleasing to him; 2. as becomes them who are called to enjoy a glorious Kingdom, 3. as most conduceth to his glory, and 4. so as to resemble his imitable Perfections in your Conversation.

Ver. 13. For this cause also (or, and for this thing) thank we God without ceasing, that when you received the word of God, (which you heard from us,) ye received it, not as the word of men, (speaking from their own humane wisdom,) but, as it is in truth, the word of God which effectually also worketh in you that believe (the Fruits of Christian Patience.)

Ὃς ἐνεργεῖται, which effectually worketh in you.] For, saith Theodoret, Πεφυλιχῆς καὶ αὖτὶ χάριτος ἀπολαύσασιν, καὶ προεφήτευον, καὶ γλώσσαις ἐλάλων, καὶ δυνάμεις ἐπετέλουν παραδόξους, They partaking of the Prophetical Grace, both prophesied, and spake with tongues, and did great miracles; for to those who in those times embraced the Gospel, were granted χαρίσματα καὶ ἐνεργήματα, the Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghost, 1 Cor. 12. 6, 10, 11. Eph. 3. 20. For as Satan was πνεῦμα ἐνεργὸν, a Spirit working in the Children of Disobedience, Eph. 2. 2. and they that were possessed by him, were stiled ἐνεργημένοι; so they who had the afflatus of the Holy Spirit, found him effectually working in them, James 5. 16. And as the Antichrists, or Adversaries of the Truth wrought lying wonders, κατ' ἐνέργειαν τοῦ Σατανᾶ, according to the deceitful working of Satan in, and by them, 2 Thess. 2. 9, 11. so had the Christians from the Holy Spirit their ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, miraculous operations by which they were enabled to confirm the Faith, and these Spiritual Gifts were to them strong Confirmations of the Faith, the Seals and Earnest of the Blessings promised, and that which did enable them not only to suffer patiently, but also to rejoyce in tribulations, Rom. 5. 3, 4, 5. 1 Thess. 1. 6. 2 Tim. 1. 7, 8. 1 Pet. 4. 14.

Ver. 14. For ye, Brethren, (in this) became Followers of the Churches of God, which in Judea are in Christ Jesus, for ye also have suffered (patiently) like things of your own Countrymen, even as they have of the Jews, (their Countrymen.)

Ver. 15. Who both killed the Lord Jesus, and (before him) their own Prophets, and have (since) persecuted us (his Apostles,) and are contrary to all men (who are not of their own Nation or Religion.)

Ver. 16. (And this they shew in) forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles, that they might be saved, (by the preaching of the Gospel,) to fill up their sins always, (i. e. which they are given up to do, to fill up the measure of their sins, which being thus disposed, and thus deserted by God, they will do;) for (the) wrath (of God) is come upon them to the uttermost.

Contrary to all Men.] Thus (h) Tacitus saith of them, Apud ipsos fides obstinata, misericordia in promptu, sed adversus omnes alios hostile odium; They have great fidelity and kindness to Men of their own Nation, but as great hatred to all others. But that which the Apostle chiefly here respects, was their fond imagination that God would grant no Salvation to the Gentiles upon any other terms than their being Circumcised, and Obedient to the Law of Moses; Acts 15. 1. on which account they became Enemies to the Gospel, and the Preachers of it, because they offered Salvation to the Gentiles through Faith in Christ, without observance of their Law, Rom. 11. 28. Gal. 4. 16. Hence also note, That none are greater Enemies to the good of Mankind, than they who do obstruct the preaching, and the propagating the Gospel thro' the World.

Ἀναπληρῶσαι, to fill up the measure of their sins.] Our Lord had said to them, Fill ye up the measure of your Fathers, by adding to the Murther of the Prophets, the Murther of me, and of thoſe Prophets, and wiſe Men I ſhall ſend to you, *Matth.*23. 32—35. that upon you of this Generation may come all the Blood ſhed from Abel to this preſent time, Luke 11.49,51. This Prediction, ſaith the Apoſtle, is now fulfilled, and they by fulfilling it, have filled up the meaſure of their ſins, and God's Wrath is ſo incenſed againſt them, that it will now deſtroy their Church and Nation, εἰς τέλος, to the uttermoſt; ſo that it ſhall not be now as formerly, when they were ſometimes in Bondage, and again in freedom from their Enemies; ſometimes were Captives, and then return'd again after Seventy years to their own Land; found God for a while Angry, and anon reconciled to them, but this Wrath ſhall now remain upon them to the uttermoſt, till the times of the Gentiles are come in, Luke 21. 24. See Note on Rom. 11. 25. or εἰς τέλος, till they be conſumed; ſo the Phraſe is uſed often in the Old Teſtament, as εἰς τέλος ἀπολέσαι ἡμᾶς, ſhall we be conſumed with dying, Numb. 17. 13. They fell by the Sword, εἰς τέλος, till they were conſumed, Joſ. 8. 24. ſlaying them, εἰς τέλος, till they were conſumed, Chap.10.20.

i. e. God's Wrath hath begun to fall upon them, and they will ſtill continue under it till they be conſumed by it.

Ver. 17. But we, Brethren, being (by their impatient malice) taken from you for a ſhort time, (Acts 17. 5, 10. and this) in preſence only, not in heart, endeavoured the more abundantly to ſee your face again with great deſire.

Ver. 18. Wherefore we would have come to you once and again, but Satan (by his Miniſters ſtill) hindred us.

Ὁ Σατανᾶς, Satan.] Hence note, That they who obſtruct the Progreſs of the Goſpel, and perſecute the Promoters of it, are the Miniſters of Satan, and therefore bear his Name. So Chap. 3. 5. 2 Cor. 11. 15. Rev. 2. 10.

Ver. 19. For what is our hope, or joy, and crown of rejoycing, are not even ye (Gr. ἢ οὐχὶ ὑμεῖς, will it not among others be you alſo, when we ſtand) in the preſence of our Lord Jeſus at his coming.

Ver. 20. For ye are (even at preſent) our glory and joy.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. WHerefore when we could no longer forbear, (μηκέτι στέγοντες, no longer enduring to want the certain knowledge of your Affairs, though we had given commandment to Timothy to come quickly to us to Athens, Acts 17. 15. yet as for me and Silas,) we thought it good to be left at Athens alone, (rather than to continue ignorant of the ſtate of your faith, v.5.)

Ver.2. And (therefore) ſent Timotheus our Brother (in Chriſt, Philem. 16. Hebr. 13. 23.) and (the) Miniſter of God, and our Fellow-labourer in (advancing) the Goſpel of Chriſt, to ſtabliſh you (in,) and to comfort you concerning your faith.

Στηρίξαι ὑμᾶς, to ſtabliſh you.] In it by conſideration of that miraculous Power, and thoſe Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt which accompanied our preaching, and your receiving of it, 1 Theſſ. 1. 5, 6. and which are ſtill exerciſed among you, Chap. 5. 19, 20. to comfort you concerning it, by the conſideration of the Joys of the Holy Ghoſt, which you have found already under your Afflictions, Chap. 1. 6. by the Salvation you are to obtain by Chriſt, the Life you ſhall for ever live with him in glory, Chap. 4. 17, 18. Chap. 5. 9, 10, 11. the Eternal Reſt you ſhall have, when the Lord Jeſus Chriſt ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, and of which your Conſtancy in the Faith under theſe Sufferings will make you be accounted worthy, 2 Theſſ. 1, 5, 6, 7, 10.

Ver. 3. That (ſo) no man ſhould (might) be moved (from his ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith) by theſe Afflictions, (and not you eſpecially,) for you know (from us) that we (Chriſtians) are appointed thereunto, (for hereunto are we called, 1 Pet. 2. 21.)

Ver. 4. For verily, when we were with you, we told you before (it came to paſs,) that we ſhould ſuffer tribulation, even as it (ſhortly after) came to paſs, (Acts 17. 5—10. and ye know (it did ſo.)

Ver. 5. For this cauſe, when I could no longer forbear, I ſent (κἀγὼ μηκέτι στέγων ἔπεμψα, I alſo not bearing any longer the uncertainty of your affairs, have ſent) to know (the ſtedfaſtneſs of) your faith, leſt by ſome means the Tempter (may) have tempted you, and (ſo) our labour (among you ſhould) be in vain.

Ὁ πειράζων.] Here note, 1. That the Perſecutions of the Saints are aſcribed to Satan the Tempter, who by his Miniſters endeavours to hinder the progreſs of the Goſpel, Chap. 2. 18. and by their Perſecutions to terrifie Men, and ſeduce them from the Profeſſion of it. See Rev. 2. 10.

2*ly*, That πειράζειν here doth ſignifie not barely to tempt, but to ſucceed in his Temptation, for otherwiſe the labour of the Apoſtle could not be rendred vain among them. See the Note on Gal. 6. 1.

Note 3*ly*, That it is hence evident that the Apoſtle did not think them ſecure from falling to so as that his labour might have been in vain among them, by the Election of them mentioned Chap. 1. v. 4. Note, 4*ly*. From Estius, That a faithful Person truly justified, may so fall from the Faith, as that it shall become in vain to him.

Ver. 6. But now when Timotheus came from you to us, and brought us good tidings of your Faith and Charity, and (in particular) that you have (still a) good remembrance of us always, desiring greatly to see us, as we also (do to see) you.

Ver. 7. Therefore (διὰ τοῦτο, by this) Brethren, we were comforted over you, (ἐφ' ὑμῖν, concerning you, or in you,) in all our affliction and distress, by (reason of) your (constancy in the) faith.

Ver. 8. For now we live (joyfully,) if ye stand fast in the Lord.

Νῦν ζῶμεν, now we live.] Ζῆν, saith Suidas, is to live μετὰ τρυφῆς, καὶ πολυτελείας, with delight, and magnificence, according to that of Horace, vivendum hodie, which is the frequent import of the Hebrew word Chajah; as in that wish, Let the King live, 1 Sam. 10. 24. 1 Kings 1. 25. 2 Kings 11. 12. i. e. let him have a prosperous and happy Reign: And in the words of the Psalmist, Psal. 16. 11. Thou wilst shew me the way of life, in thy presence is fulness of joy. Psal. 34. 13. He that would live, i. e. see good days. So Psal. 22. 26. 38. 19. Eccles. 6. 8. 7. 12. Our Masters teach, saith (a) Maimonides, that the just are called living even in their death, the wicked dead while they live; because the first are happy in their death, the second miserable in their life.

Ver. 9. For what (sufficient) thanks can we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your sakes before our God.

Ver. 10. Night and day (also) praying exceedingly that we might see your face, and might perfect that which is (yet) lacking in your faith, (by reason of our very small stay with you, Acts 17. 1—10.)

Estius observes from the ninth Verse, that both the Apostles joy, and their Faith and Constancy were the Gift of God, Nam gratiarum actio non est nisi de beneficiis acceptis; He might also have observed with others, the excellent Pattern the Apostle here gives to all the Bishops and Pastors of the Church, to be continually sollicitous to know of the welfare of their Flocks, incessantly praying for it, blessing God daily for it, and looking upon it as the very Felicity of their own lives.

Ver. 11. Now God himself, and (or, who is) our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, direct our way unto you.

Here the Note of Schlictingius runs thus, You see that our Lord Jesus takes care of our Affairs and Actions, and therefore we deservedly invoke him in our Necessities, as the Apostle again doth v. 12. But since this Invocation of him by all Christians, in all places, must suppose him Omniscient, Omnipresent, and the Searcher of the Heart; and these are Properties of God alone; it also must suppose him to be truly God.

Ver. 12. And the Lord make you to encrease, and abound in love one towards another, and towards all Men, even as we do (abound in love) towards you.

Ver. 13. To the end he may establish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, (τῷ Θεῷ καὶ Πατρὶ ἡμῶν, our God and Father,) at the (glorious) coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his Saints.

Ὑμᾶς ὁ ὁ Κύριος πλεονάσαι, καὶ περισσεύσαι.] These are optative Aorists, which signifie tranſitively; μελλητικῶς, say the Grammarians; and therefore are well rendred by our Translation, the Lord make you to encrease, and make you to abound. See Note on 2 Cor. 9. 8. Eccluſ. 45. 5.

And towards all Men] This, saith (b) Theophylact, is the Character of Divine Love to comprehend all; whereas Humane Love hath respect to one Man, and not to another.

Ἀμέμπτους, That he may stablish your hearts unblameable in holiness.] Hence note, That a general and abounding Charity to all Men, being that by which we become most like to God, and that which tends to cover our own sins, 1 Pet. 4. 8. especially if it be Charity to the Souls of Men, James 5. 20. tends to stablish your hearts unblameable before God in Love, and to procure our acceptance with him, at the Great Day of our Accounts, Matth. 25. 35, 36.

Note also, That to establish our Hearts unblameable in holiness at Christ's coming, is so to confirm us in holy living, that we may be found unblameable by him at that Day. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 8. 1 Thess. 5. 23. 2 Pet. 3. 14

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. FUrthermore then we beſeech you, Brethren, and exhort you by the Lord Jeſus, that as you have received of us (directions) how ye ought to walk, and to pleaſe God, ſo ye would abound more and more (in your care to conform your ſelves to them.)

Ver. 2. (In which thing you need no farther Inſtructions,) for ye know what (holy) Commandments we gave you by the Lord Jeſus.

Διὰ τῦ Κυρίυ.] Note hence, That the Inſtructions and Commandments which the Apoſtles gave to the Churches, are to be look'd upon as the Commandments of the Lord, and as the Will of God, they being dictated by his Spirit, v. 8. and delivered by his Authority, who ſaid, He that heareth you heareth me; and he that heareth me, heareth him that ſent me, Luke 10. 16.

Ver. 3. For (we have already told you, that) this is the will of God, even your ſanctification, (and this ſanctification requires) that ye ſhould abſtain from Fornication.

Ver. 4. (And) that every one of you ſhould know, how (much it is your duty) to poſſeſs his (body, which is the) veſſel (of the Holy Spirit,) in ſanctification and in honour, (i.e. free from thoſe luſts which are πάθη ἀτιμίας, Rom. 1. 26. diſhonourable paſſions.)

Ver. 5. Not in the luſts of Concupiſcence, even as the Gentiles (do) which know not God.

Here note, 1. That theſe Inſtructions were very neceſſary for the Theſſalonians, ἐκεῖ γὰρ πλείστη ἀτυξία, καὶ ἀκαθαρσία, for there was all manner of diſorder and impurity, ſaith (a) Socrates. And (b) Athenæus inform us, ἀπ' τύτων ἤρξω, that their Luxury invited the Perſians into Greece; that it was their cuſtom in their Banquets to bring in their (c) Wenches dancing naked, and afterwards they enjoyed them at their pleaſure.

2. Note alſo, That having mentioned Fornication, v. 3. he ſeems v. 4. and the 5th, to advance to other Heatheniſh Luſts, deſiring them to keep their Veſſels in Sanctification and Honour; 1. By preſerving their Bodies from unnatural Luſts, which are by the Apoſtle ſtiled πάθη ἀτιμίας, diſhonourable Paſſions; and their Matrimonial Bed from defilement by the uſe of other Women, Hebr. 13. 4. Accordingly theſe things in Scripture are expreſſed by Ignominy and Vileneſs, by the Septuagint, by τὸ ἄσχημα, things indecorous and diſhonourable; which word the Apoſtle applies to unnatural luſts, Rom. 1. 26. and in the Language of the Targum, and the Rabbins, they are ſtiled קלנא ignominy and vileneſs. Thus Sychem is ſaid to have wrought, קלנא ſaith the Chaldee, τὸ ἄσχημον, the Septuagint, i.e. ignomy in Iſrael, by knowing Dinah. This is the Name the Chaldee gives to the Adultery committed by the Men of Benjamin upon the Levite's Concubine, Judg. 19. 24. the Inceſt committed by Amnon upon his Siſter Thamar, 2 Sam. 13. 12. and in the (d) Rabbinical Language to abuſe Boys בקלון, is to uſe them to the ſatisfying of unnatural Luſts.

Καθάπερ τὰ ἔθνη, even as the Gentiles.] Among whom theſe Luſts abounded, and by whom they were allowed. For Whoredom was eſteemed no Crime; (e) they taught μὴ πάντως ἁμαρτάνειν τὸ καθῆκον τῦτο γίνεσθαι. Their (f) Orator ſpeak thus, Si quis eſt qui etiam meretriciis amoribus interdictum juventuti putet—abhorret non modo ab hujus ſeculi licentia, verum etiam à majorum conſuetudine atque conceſſis, quando enim hoc non factum eſt? quando reprehenſum! quando non permiſſum! quando denique fuit, ut quod licet, non liceret. (g) Epictetus adviſes them who cannot abſtain to uſe it only ὡς νομμόν ἔστι, as the Law allowed it. Now that, ſaith (h) Plato, was τῶν ἐλευθέρων γυναικῶν μὴ ἐρᾶν, but only Libertines and Servants, and thoſe that ſold themſelves to it. And (i) Demoſthenes declares of all the Græcians thus, Τὰς μὲν ἑταίρας ἡδονῆς ἕνεκα ἔχομεν, τὰς δὲ παλλακὰς τῦ καθ' ἡμέραν θεραπείυ, τὰς δὲ γυναῖκας τῦ παιδοποιεῖσθαι γνησίως.

The τὸ παρὰ φύσιν τόλμημα, as Plato ſtiles it, obtain'd in Greece without blame, ſaith (k) Bardeſanes, amonſt the Grecians and many Barbarians, ſaith (l) Plato; amongſt the Cretians and the Lacedæmonians, ſaith the ſame Plato. How prone the Romans, and other Nations were to it, Plautus, Petronius Arbiter, Ariſtophanes, and (m) Athenæus, ſufficiently informs us, as alſo that it was the Sin of the Philoſophers eſpecially.

Ver. 6. That no man go beyond (the bounds of Matrimony,) or defraud his Brother in any matter, *(*Gr. or exceed towards his Brother in this matter,) becauſe the Lord is the avenger of all ſuch, as we have alſo forewarned you, and teſtifie.

Scholaſtæ,

Scholiaſt, that this Verſe contains a Prohibition of Adultery, πλεονεξίαν ἐπλαῦσα ἢ μοιχείαν ἐκάλεσεν. By the word πλεονεξία he denotes Adultery, ſay Theodoret and Theophylact. God hath put bounds to this Appetite, ſay Oecumenius and Theophylact, by tying us to one Wife, ὅτι ἡ πρὸς ἑτέραν μίξις παράβασίς τις, καὶ πλεονεξία ἐστὶν: ſo that to be familiar with another, is exceſs and covetouſneſs, and when this is done to another Man's Wife, it is to exceed to the injury of his Brother. And as (h) St. Jerom hath obſerved, the words preceding, which ſpeak of abſtaining from Fornication, and keeping our Veſſels in Sanctification and Honour, and not in the Luſts of Concupiſcence, and the words following, which give this Reaſon of the Precept, that God hath not called us to uncleanneſs, but to holineſs, ſeem alſo plainly to inforce this ſenſe, which the Greek, in the Judgment of the forecited Fathers, will well bear. For

1. The words ὑπερβαίνειν and ὑπερβαίνειν, bear this ſenſe in other Authors. Thus (o) Philo ſpeaking of unnatural Luſts committed by Men, ſaith, ἄνδρες ὅρους ἄῤῥησιν ὑπερβαίνουσι. And (p) Plutarch ſaith of the Egyptians, that they call that Land which Nile aſcends, mixing, and engendring with it, the body of Iſis. And that when Nile is thus ὑπερβαλὼν καὶ πλεονάσας, filling and aſcending, they call this the joyning of Oſiris with Nephthe. So the Hebrew word גבא, from which Βῶ and Βάω, and from them βαίνω is derived, hath this ſignification, as Joſh. 23. 12. If you contract affinity with the Heathens, ובאתם בהם and go in unto them. Εἰ ἐπιμιξίας ποιήσῃ, καὶ συγκλαμυγῆτε αὐτοῖς, if you marry, and mix with them, ſaith the Septuagint, the Lord will not drive them out. And in the Miſnah הבא על אחותו is, He that reveals the nakedneſs of his ſiſter, and may be rendred ὑπερβαίνων ἢ ἀδελφὴν αὐτοῦ.

2. The word πλεονεξία bears the ſame ſenſe in that Verſe, in which Venus promiſes to him that finds, and brings her Cupid to her, Not a bare kiſs, but ſomething more; ſaying, ἀμοιβὴ τὸ φίλημά τοι δῶ ξένε, καὶ πλέον ἕξεις. And when (q) Socrates tells Callicles, pleading for thoſe Pleaſures, That Men ought not to be ἐπιθυμίας ἀκολάστους, of unbounded Luſts, σὺ δ' ἢ πλεονεξίαν οὐκ ἄλλην ἀγεῖν, but thou, ſaith he, thinkeſt that a Man may exceed in theſe matters. And in the Scholiaſt of (r) Ariſtophanes, theſe are put as words equivalent ὑπερπαίειν, ὑπερβαίνειν, πλεονάζειν.

And whereas againſt this Interpretation it is objected, That the words following, viz. in any matter, being general, will not admit of this reſtrained ſenſe.

I anſwer, That in the Greek the words are ἐν τῷ πράγματι, and may be rendred in this matter, or in the matter, viz. forementioned, or abſolutely in the matter, it being obſerved by (s) Phavorinus and Suidas, that the word πρᾶγμα is uſed by the Ancients in an evil ſenſe; as when the young Man ſaith in (t) Ariſtophanes to the old Hag that fed him with Meat and Money for her Luſt, that he loved all her matters. And the Apoſtolical Conſtitutions complain that the younger Widows marrying again, under pretence that they (u) could not contain, were engaged in an evil matter. So that I hope I have ſufficiently vindicated this Interpretation of Dr. Hammond, and the Ancients, from the Exceptions of Mr. Le Cl.

Ver. 7. (He is, I ſay, the Avenger of all ſuch Chriſtians, as acting oppoſitely to their holy Calling,) for God hath not called us (Chriſtians) to uncleanneſs, but unto holineſs.

Ver. 8. He therefore that deſpiſeth (this Commandment,) deſpiſeth not Man (only,) but God, who hath alſo given to us his holy Spirit.

Εἰς ἡμᾶς, to us.] To us Apoſtles, to enable us to give you theſe Commandments; and to us Chriſtians, to render us the Temples of the Holy Ghoſt, which Temple we corrupt by our uncleanneſs, 1 Cor. 3. 15, 16. Chap. 6. 15, 16, 17, 11, 19. 2 Cor. 6. 16.

Ver. 9. This I thought neceſſary to ſay to warn you againſt that uncleanneſs which ſo reigneth in the Heathen World, and to which you ſo ſtrongly were addicted, whilſt you were without knowledge of God in the World.] But as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write (ſo fully) to you, for ye your ſelves are taught of God to love one another.

Ver. 12. That (ſo) ye may walk honeſtly (εὐσχημόνως, decently, and in good behaviour,) towards them that are without, and that ye may have lack of nothing.

Καὶ μηδενὸς χρείαν ἔχητε, and that ye may have lack of nothing.] i. e. From the Heathens. So the Greek Scholiaſts: For, ſay they, if Chriſtians, ſeeing a Chriſtian beg when he is able to live by his work, are ſcandalized, how much more will Heathens be ſo. And indeed, this was one Objection of the Heathens againſt Chriſtians, that they were (y) infructuoſi in negotiis, uſeleſs Creatures. The Apoſtle therefore doth exhort them ſo to provide for their Neceſſities by their honeſt Labour, that they may not need the help of Infidels, and never may be forced by their Wants to ask it of them.

Ver. 13. But (eſpecially) I would not have you to be ignorant, Brethren, concerning (the ſtate of) them that are aſleep, that ye ſorrow not for them, even as others, (other Gentiles do,) which have no hope (of a Reſurrection of the Body.)

Ver. 14. For if we believe that Jeſus died, and roſe again, (as the firſt fruits of them that ſleep, 1 Cor. 15. 20.) even ſo (are we to believe that) them alſo which ſleep in Jeſus, will God bring with him, (when he comes to judge the World, and reward all his faithful Servants.)

Καθὼς οἱ λοιποὶ, as do others.] Though many Heathens believed the Mortality of the Soul, none of them had any expectation of the Reſurrection of the Body. This the Philoſophers, who ſtiled the Body the Priſon of the Soul, and thought it the great hinderance of Knowledge and of Vertue, repreſented as a very deſpicable thing (z), τὸ σῶμα δεσμωτήριον ψυχῆς ἀποτύλιγον ἅμα καὶ ἀδωσίαν. So Celſus; 'Tis vile, ſaith he, abominable, and impoſſible, σαπρὸν καὶ ἐλπὶς, a hope fitter for Worms then Men. And he confutes the poſſibility of it, not only from the repugnancy of the thing to Nature, but alſo from the vileneſs of it, declaring God therefore cannot do it, (a) becauſe as he will not do what is againſt Nature, ſo he cannot do what is vile. Plotinus ſaith, that ſuch a Reſurrection would only be ἀνάστασις εἰς ἄλλον ὕπνον, a Reſurrection to another ſleep. And all the other Heathens held it a thing impoſſible, and without example, and therefore made it matter of their ſport; it being, ſaith Origen, μυθικὸν γελώμενον ὑπὸ τῶν ἀπίστων. Τοὺς κοιμηθέντας διὰ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, thoſe that ſleep in or through Jeſus.] That the Martyrs are not here excluded, is certain; but I ſee no reaſon to grant that this Expreſſion ſhould peculiarly reſpect them. All the Greek Scholiaſts interpret the words generally; Chryſoſtom and Theophylact ſay, that they who ſleep in Jeſus are the Faithful in general; Oecumenius, Thoſe that ſleep in the Faith of Jeſus. The Apoſtle treating of this Subject, calls all the dead τοὺς κοιμηθέντας ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ, thoſe that ſleep in Chriſt, 1 Cor. 15. 18. and the Context here requires this ſenſe; for the Apoſtle ſpeaks, v. 13. of them that ſleep in general, and of the hope of the Reſurrection in the general. And when Chriſt comes to Judgment, he will not bring the Martyrs only, but all the Faithful with him. See v. 15, 16. where the ſame Perſons are the dead in Chriſt.

Ver. 15. For this we ſay unto you, (not from our ſelves, but) by the Word of the Lord, that we who are (then) alive, and remain unto the coming of the Lord, ſhall not prevent them which are aſleep, (ſo as to receive our happy change before their reſurrection.)

Ver. 16. For the Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from Heaven with a ſhout, with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trump of God, and (then) the dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt.

Ver. 17. Then we which are alive and remain (on the earth,) ſhall be caught up together with them in the Clouds, to meet the Lord in the Air, and ſo ſhall we ever be with the Lord.

observed by the Greek Scholiasts, that the Apostle speaks these words, οὐκ ἐπὶ τῶν καθ' ἑαυτὸν τοῦτο λέγων, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τῶν καὶ ἐκεῖνον τὸν καιρὸν περιόντων ἀνθρώπων, not of himself, but of the Christians that were to remain alive at the Day of Judgment; So Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact; for he well knew he was not personally to live till the Resurrection; yea, he himself expected a Resurrection; saying to the Corinthians, He that raised up the Lord Jesus, shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you, 2 Cor. 4. 14. He laboured, that he might attain to the resurrection of the dead, Philip. 3. 11. Yet there are some Divines who from this, and some other places in the Epistles, conceive that the Apostles sometimes thought, and declared to other Christians, that they themselves might live until the Resurrection; and that St. Paul afterward chang'd this Opinion, and admonished the Thessalonians of it, 2 Thess. 2. This I conceive to be a dangerous mistake, and highly prejudicial to the Christian Faith, and the Authority of the Apostles; for if the Churches of Christ had once received this Doctrine from them, and afterwards had understood, even from their own Confession, that it was a Mistake, this would have naturally led them to conceive, that they might be mistaken also in any other Doctrine contained in their Epistles, and to suspect the Certainty and Truth of all that was contained in their Epistles. And this the Apostle seemeth to insinuate in these words, 2 Thess. 2. 1, 2. I beseech you, Brethren, that you be not soon shaken in mind, or troubled either by word, or letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand: For these words seem plainly to import, that in the Apostle's own judgment, the Belief that the Apostles had taught by word, or by Epistle, this Doctrine, would tend to the unsetling of their Minds in the Faith.

But that St. Paul taught no such Doctrine in any of his Epistles to the Thessalonians, will be exceeding evident,

1. From the following words in that Chapter. For there, saith he, v. 3. Let no Man deceive you by any means; declaring them Deceivers, who either taught this Doctrine, or imposed it on them, as spoken or indited by them there, having said, in opposition to that vain Imagination, that Day was not to come till there was a falling away first, and the man of sin was revealed. He adds, Remember you not, that when I was yet with you, I told you these things, v. 5. He therefore had taught them the contrary, before he had endited either of these Epistles, and therefore in them cannot be rationally supposed to contradict himself.

2*ly*, From the very words used for proof of this Opinion; for they are introduced with this Solemnity, This we say unto you by the word of the the Lord, that we that are alive; in which words he most plainly voucheth the Authority of Christ Jesus for the Truth of what he saith; and therefore if he were mistaken, either our Lord himself must err with him, or the Apostle must vouch Christ's word, and his Authority, when Christ had spoken no such word, and given him no Authority to speak this Doctrine in his Name; both which Assertions overthrow the Certainty and Truth of all St. Paul's Epittles. Now hence it follows that the Apostle could not deliver this Assertion in any other of his Epistles; for all the Learned do agree in this, That these Epistles to the Thessalonians were the first Epistles St. Paul wrote; whence it must follow that he could not deliver in his following Writings to the Church of Corinth, or any other Churches, that Doctrine which he had so industriously before confuted, and declared very dangerous in his Epistle to the Church of Thessalonica.

The Truth seems therefore to be this, That as our Lord had told them, it was not for them to know the times and seasons, Acts 1.7. so were they left still in the dark touching the time of the General Judgment; and therefore they continually speak of it as a Day that was to come upon Men as a Thief in the night, ipsis insciis, as here, Chap. 5. 1. They perhaps did not know the contrary; but it might happen in an Age or two, but they say nothing at any time dogmatically, but only ἐνδιαιρέτως, and disjunctly, if we shall be found cloathed, and not naked; and here Chap. 5. 10. whether we sleep, or wake. Nor are these Sayings to be taken personally, as meant of the Apostles, but rather as spoken by them in the person of Christians in the general, some of which would be then surviving.

Σὺν Κυρίῳ, And so shall we be ever with the Lord.] From which words it may probably be collected, that even the Souls of the Faithful were not ever with the Lord, or in his Celestial Presence before the Resurrection.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. BUT of the (exact) times and (critical) ſeaſons (when this coming of the Lord ſhall happen) you have no need that I ſhould write unto you.

Ver. 2. For you your ſelves know perfectly, (from what I taught when preſent with you,) that the day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night, (of the time of whoſe coming the maſter of the houſe can have no certain knowledge,) Matth. 24. 42, 43. 25. 13. Mark 13. 33. Luke 12. 39, 40. 21. 36.

That all this, to the Twelfth Verſe, doth evidently belong only to the deſtruction of the perſecuting Jews, and Gnoſticks, at the time of Chriſt's coming to deſtroy the Jewiſh Church and Nation, is confidently aſſerted by a Reverend and Learned Commentator on this place, but is not once hinted by the Ancients, who all interpret theſe words, περὶ τῆς κοινῆς σωτηρίας, of Chriſt's general Advent. Nor do his Arguments prove his Aſſertion. For, Argument 1. Firſt, Whereas he ſaith ἡμέρα Χριστοῦ, the day of Chriſt, here mentioned, is without queſtion the ſame which is ſo often called the Coming of Chriſt for the deſtroying of the Enemies of Chriſtianity.

Anſwer. 'Tis certain that this day of Chriſt in the Epiſtles doth almoſt generally ſignifie the day of our Lord's coming to the final Judgment, as in the following words; He ſhall confirm you, to the end that you may be blameleſs in the day of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Cor. 1. 8. That the Spirit may be ſaved in the Day of the Lord Jeſus, 1 Cor. 5. 5. You are our rejoycing in the Day of the Lord Jeſus, 2 Cor. 1. 14. He that hath begun a good work in you, ſhall perfect it to the Day of the Lord Jeſus, Philip. 1. 6. That ye may be ſincere, and blameleſs, until the day of Jeſus Chriſt, v. 10. That I may rejoyce in the Day of Chriſt, Philip. 2. 16. See 2 Tim. 1. 12, 18. 4. 8.

Arg. 2. Secondly, Whereas he adds, That this cannot belong to the laſt coming of Chriſt to judgment, becauſe the Apoſtle had made that the ſubject of his former Diſcourſe, Chap. 4. and enters upon this as a diſtinct matter with a περὶ δὲ, &c.

Anſw. It is granted that the time when this Judgment ſhall be, is a diſtinct Matter from the Judgment it ſelf, which is all that this Argument proves.

Arg. 3. Thirdly, Whereas he argues this from the end of this Diſcourſe, which is to comfort the Chriſtians which were under perſecution, and give them patience and conſtancy, for which this was a fit conſideration, that this Judgment of God would come ſuddenly, and when it was leaſt expected, and ſo would ſurprize them if they were not watchful, all which belong'd peculiarly to this doom upon the Jews, and not to the General Judgment which thoſe who then lived were not concerned in.

Anſw. Firſt, It is certain that the Apoſtle, both in this Epiſtle, Chap. 4. 18. and in his other Epiſtle, Chap. 1. doth comfort his Theſſalonians under their Perſecutions from the conſideration of Chriſt's coming to reward them at the Day of Judgment.

Secondly, It is alſo certain that Chriſt, and his Apoſtles, exhort Chriſtians to be watchful, that they may not be ſurprized at the Day of Judgment; ſo doth Chriſt, Matth. 25. 13. Luke 12. 35—40. ſo doth St. Paul, 2 Cor. 5. 9, 10. ſo doth St. Peter, 2 Pet. 3. 11, 12, 14. as being that which all Men, who muſt die, and after that be judged according to what they have done in the fleſh, muſt be as well concerned to prepare for by watchfulneſs, as if it were to come while they were living; and upon this account it is that the Apoſtle in this Chapter, v. 23. and in the forecited places, prays ſo oft that Chriſtians may be confirmed, and kept blameleſs to the Day of the Lord Jeſus.

Let it be then obſerved, That the Apoſtle had ſpoken, Chap. 1. 10. of their waiting for the coming of the Lord from Heaven, Chap. 3. 13. Of his coming with all his Saints, Chap. 4. 16. Of his coming with the voice of the Arch-Angel, and of the Trump of God. He had alſo hinted, Chap. 2. 16. that the unbelieving Jews were, by their oppoſition to the Goſpel preached to the Gentiles, and by their Perſecutions of them who had embraced it, filling up the meaſure of their ſins, and drawing down that Day of Wrath upon them which is mentioned, Matth. 24. I therefore ſhall deſcant on theſe words, as relating to both theſe Days of Judgment.

Ver. 3. For when they (they of the Jewiſh Nation then, and the wicked at the great Day of Wrath,) ſhall ſay peace and ſafety, (expecting no ſuch thing as Wrath and Judgment,) then ſudden deſtruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child, and they ſhall not eſcape (it.)

(a) Joſephus informs us, That when the Tumults foretold by our Saviour were begun, the Jews were expecting σημεῖα ἐλευθερίας Signs from God of their Liberty; and that after all the clear Signs God had given of their approaching ruine, and when it was even accompliſhed, they were confidently expecting (b) ἀπὸ Θεοῦ βοήθειαν, the Divine Aid: And which is more remarkable, that the promise of a Messiah, which their Sacred Books declared, was to come κατὰ τὸν καιρὸν ἐκεῖνον, about that time, was (c) τὸ ἐπέχον αὐτοὺς μάλιστα πρὸς πόλεμον, that which chiefly incited them to the War.

Ver. 4. But ye, Brethren, are not (as formerly) in (a state of) darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief, or come upon you unexpected, or unprepared for it.)

Ver. 5. Ye are all (by virtue of your Faith, and Knowledge, and your Profession of Christianity,) the Children of light, as having the Light, and believing in it, John 12. 36. Eph. 5. 8.) and the Children of the day (of Grace, Rom. 13. 12, 13. and of Salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2.) we are not of the night, nor of darkness, (as the Jewish Nation at present is, upon whom the darkness is come, John 12. 35. and who are cast out into outer darkness. See Note on Matth. 8. 12. and as the Heathens always were. See Note on Rom. 13. 12.)

Ver. 6. Therefore let us not sleep as do others, (securely in their sins, without expecting judgment, or preparing for it, Matth. 24. 38. Luke 17. 26—30.) but let us watch, and be sober, (that that day do not come upon us unawares, nor find us overcharged with surfetting and drunkenness, Luke 21, 34, 36. this being only proper to them who are of the night.)

Ver. 7. For they that sleep, sleep in the night, and they that are drunken are drunken in the night.

Note. O the sad dissoluteness of the manners of the Christians of our Age, who frequently are guilty of that Drunkenness in the day time, which Heathens only practised in the night.

Ver. 8. But let us, who are (Children) of the day, be sober (and vigilant, 1 Pet. 4. 7. 5. 8.) putting on the Breast-plate of Faith and love, (that firm assurance of Faith, which will not suffer us to doubt of the Divine Assistance, and that Love which casts out fear of any thing we may suffer for the Cause of Christ,) and for an Helmet (to your Head,) the hope of Salvation.

θώρακα, the breast-plate of faith, &c.] This Metaphor, relating to our Christian Warfare, is taken from Souldiers who anciently watched, or kept sentinel in their Armour, having especially their Helmet and Breast-plate on; for, as (d) Livy notes, Scuto præ se erecto stabant Galeati, they stood with their Shield before them, and their Helmet on their Heads. Whence he says of Paulus Æmilius, that Milites novo more scutum in vigiliam ferre vetuit. Now the Head and Heart being the two chief Fountains of Life and Sensation, the preserving them safe, is in effect the preserving the whole Man.

Ver. 9. (Which hope of Salvation we Christians have,) for God hath not appointed us to wrath, (as he hath done the Heathen World, who are Children of Wrath, Eph. 2. 3. and the unbelieving Jews, who are Vessels of wrath, fitted for destruction, Rom. 9. 22. and upon whom Wrath is coming to the end, 1 Thess. 2. 16.) but to obtain Salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Ver. 10. Who died for us, that whether we wake or sleep, (i. e. whether he come in the night, and so find us taking our natural rest; or in the day, when we are waking,) we may live together with him (when he comes.)

Εἴτε γρηγορῶμεν, εἴτε καθεύδωμεν.] That is, say some, Whether we live, or die. And true it is, that Christians dying are said to fall asleep: So 1 Cor. 11. 30. κοιμῶνται ἱκανοί, some are fallen asleep, Chap. 15. 51. πάντες μὲν οὐ κοιμηθησόμεθα, we shall not all sleep. So here Chap. 4. 13. I would not have you ignorant, περὶ τῶν κεκοιμημένων, concerning them that are fallen asleep; and v. 14. τοὺς κοιμηθέντας, them that sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. But because in all these places the Greek word is never καθεύδειν, but always κοιμᾶσθαι, I prefer the Exposition of the Paraphrase.

But then that the hope of Salvation, v. 8. the περιποίησις σωτηρίας, the obtainment of Salvation by Christ Jesus, v. 9. the living with him, v. 10. should refer chiefly to the Purchase of Deliverance from Jewish Persecutions, and the enjoyment of this present Life, I can by no means grant; for the Christians hope is the hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 3. the hope of the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, Chap. 8. 23, 24. the hope which is laid up for us in Heaven, Col. 1. 5. the hope of glory, v. 27. a blessed hope, Tit. 2. 13. the hope of eternal life, Chap. 3. 7.

The Salvation purchased for us by Christ's Death, is not Deliverance from Persecutions, for all that will live godly in Christ Jesus must suffer Persecutions, 2 Tim. 3. 12. In these we are to be conformed to his death, Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 12. he having suffered, leaving us an example that we should follow his steps, 1 Pet. 2. 21.

And to live with Christ, is to live in a state of Glory with him, and be conformed to his Resurrection, Rom. 6. 8. 2 Tim. 2. 12. Col. 3. 3, 4. 1 Pet. 4. 13. And this is the Comfort which the Apostle had given them, Chap. 4. 18. and to which he now proceeds, saying, Ver. 11. Wherefore comfort your selves together (with this hope,) and edifie one another, as also you do.

Ver. 12. And we beſeech you, Brethren, to know, (and reverence) them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admoniſh you.

Ver. 13. And to eſteem them very highly in love for their works ſake, and be at peace among your ſelves.

Καὶ προϊσταμένους ὑμῶν.] That the Perſons here mentioned as labouring among them, and being over them in the Lord in the Plural, ſhould be the Biſhops of the Metropolis of Theſſalonica, ſeems very improbable, there being ſcarſly any ordinary fixed Officers then placed in the Church, Anno Chriſti 49. or 51. when this Epiſtle was written; and therefore the Learned (e) Mr. Dodwell, notwithſtanding theſe words, ſaith, Quod nulla ſit Rectorum mentio in utravis Epiſtolâ ad Theſſalonicenſes, That there is no mention of any fixed Rulers in either of the Epiſtles to the Theſſalonians. And (1.) we find no notice taken of them in the front of theſe Epiſtles, as there is of the Biſhops and Deacons, Philip. 1. 1. No Salutation of them in the Cloſe of theſe Epiſtles; the words of Salutation being only theſe, Salute all the Brethren with an holy kiſs. (2.) We find no Directions given to them in particular, but only to the Brethren in general, touching ſuch Matters as muſt have related to their Office only, or chiefly, had they been ſetled Rulers in the Church. The Charge in the very next Verſe runs thus; We exhort you, Brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feeble minded, ſupport the weak. In the Second Epiſtle, Chap. 3. 6. thus, We command you, Brethren, in the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that ye withdraw your ſelves from every Brother that walks diſorderly, and not according to the Tradition which ye received from us. And v. 13 and 14. And ye, Brethren,—if any Man obey not our word by this Epiſtle, note that Man, and have no company with him, that he may be aſhamed; yet count him not as an Enemy, but admoniſh him as a Brother. And laſtly, to theſe Brethren the Adjuration is here directed, v. 27. charging them by the Lord, that this Epiſtle be read to all the holy Brethren. 'Tis therefore to be noted, that the Apoſtles, Prophets, Teachers, Evangeliſts, who were all extraordinary Offices, are reckoned among thoſe whom God had ſettled in the Church, 1 Cor. 12. 24. and Chriſt aſcending up on high, had given for the Edification of his Body. Eph. 4. 11, 12. Some of theſe Prophets, and Teachers, were in many Churches, as at Antioch, Acts 13. 1. and officiated in them, v. 3. at Rome, Chap. 12. 6, 7. at Corinth, 1 Cor. 14. at Galatia. See Note on Chap. 6. 1. Some of them were Itinerants, ſent by the Apoſtles, or Prophets to teach other Churches, and by the Holy Spirit ſeparated to that work, Acts 13. 2, 3, 4. Exhorting and Confirming the Chriſtians where they came, as being Prophets authoriſed ſo to do, Acts 16. 32. and travelling up and down for the Converting and Eſtabliſhing of the Gentiles, 3 Epiſtle of St. John, v. 7, 8. See Note on 1 Cor. 12. 28. Of one of theſe two kinds of Prophets, and Teachers, and Spiritual Men, the Apoſtle may here be underſtood.

Ver. 14. Now (παρακαλοῦμεν δὲ, and) we exhort you, Brethren, warn them that are unruly, (as walking not according to the Doctrine they have received from us, 2 Theſſ. 3. 6, 14.) comfort the feeble minded, (who are of a wounded Spirit under Afflictions, ὀλιγόψυχοι, Prov. 18. 14. that are of a fearful ſpirit under them, Iſa. 35. 4. of a grieved ſpirit, Iſa. 54. 6. whoſe ſpirit fails under them, Iſa. 57. 16. whoſe hands hang down, and whoſe knees are feeble, Hebr. 12. 12.) ſupport the weak (in Faith, who are ſoon ſcandalized, and apt to periſh by it, Rom. 14. 1, 2, 21. 1 Cor. 8. 7, 9, 10, 11, 12.) be patient to all Men.

Ver. 15. See that none render evil for evil unto any man, (whatever may the provocation be, Rom. 12. 27.) but ever follow that which is good, both among your ſelves, and to all men, (even them that hate you.) Matth. 5. 44.

Ver. 16. Rejoice evermore.

Κὰν εἰς πειρασμὸς, κὰν εἰς λύπας ἐμπίπτῃ, Oecum. Though you fall into manifold Temptations, and Afflictions, James 1. 2. be brought into a very low Condition in this World, yet rejoice in the Lord always, Philip. 4. 4. Rejoice in the hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 3. and of that great Reward you ſhall receive for all your Sufferings, Matth. 5. 11, 12. Hebr. 10. 34. and in the Spiritual Fruits they work in you, Rom. 5. 4. James 1. 3.

Ver. 17. Pray without ceaſing.

Ἀδιαλείπτως.] To give once for all the true ſenſe of thoſe Injunctions, ſo frequent in the Scripture, to pray, and to give thanks always, and without ceaſing, Obſerve

1. That theſe Phraſes do in the mildeſt ſenſe import, that theſe ſhould be the Employment of every Day, our Morning and our Evening Sacrifice, that ſo beginning, and ending the Day with them, we may be, in the Scripture Language, ſaid to do them always. Thus St. Luke tells us, Chap. 24. 53. that the Apoſtles were continually in the Tem- ple,

ple, διαπαντὸς, praising God; that is, they were ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ, daily in the Temple, Acts 2. 46, 47. resorting thither at the third hour of the Morning, and at the ninth in the Evening Sacrifice, Acts 3. 1. The Sacrifice which was appointed to be thus offered daily at Morning and Evening, is in the Hebrew התמיד the continual Sacrifice, Dan. 8. 11. and accordingly is rendred by the Septuagint ἡ θυσία διαπαντὸς. Thus the Minchah which the High-Priest offered every day, half of it in the Morning, and half in the Evening, is stiled by them ἡ θυσία διαπαντὸς, the continual Sacrifice, Lev. 6. 20. The Burnt offering which was offered without intermission twice a day, is in the Hebrew עולת תמיד, and in the Seventy, ὁλοκαύτωμα τὸ διαπαντὸς, the continual Sacrifice, Numb. 28. 24, 31. And in allusion to it, the Author to the Hebrews saith of our High-Priest, By him let us offer up the Sacrifice of Praise to God continually. This therefore is the prime import of the Phrase.

2*ly*, These Phrases do import, that we should be employed in the performance of these Duties as Providence doth minister occasion for them. In this sense is the word always used twice, when our Lord saith, I was always in the Temple, whether the Jews always resort, John 18. 20. for neither did the Jews always resort unto the Temple, but only at the hours of Prayer; nor did Christ always teach in it, but only when he went up to Jerusalem. And thus the Holy Ghost in Scripture leads us to expound these Phrases, enjoyning us to abound always to every good work, 2 Cor. 9. 8. and elsewhere, to do good ὡς καιρὸν ἔχομεν, as we have occasion, Gal. 6. 10. So to pray always, Luke 18. 1. is to pray ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ, in every season, Chap. 21. 36. and to pray without ceasing here, is to pray ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ, in every opportunity, Eph. 6. 18. So 1 Maccab. 12. 11. ἡμεῖς ὧν ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ ἀδιαλείπτως, we at all times, without ceasing, both in our Feasts, and other convenient days, do remember you in the Sacrifices which we offer; i. e. we do it as oft as we have occasion to offer Sacrifice.

3*ly*, In reference to our Prayers particularly, it imports that we should not grow faint, and weary, when Providence seems for a season to defer the Blessing we implore, Luke 18. 1. but should still προσμένειν continue instant, and hold out in prayer, Rom. 12. 12. Col. 4. 2. προσμένειν, abide in Supplication, 1 Tim. 5. 5. and ἀγρυπνεῖν, watch unto it with all perseverance, Eph. 6. 18.

Ver. 18. In every thing give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.

Ἐν παντὶ, in every thing.] For sparing and preventing, for common and extraordinary, general and special, past and present, temporal and spiritual Mercies; not only for prosperous and grateful, but also for afflicting Providences, for Chastisements and seasonable Corrections, πάντα γὰρ ἐστὶ τὸ συμφέρον ποιεῖ ὁ Θεὸς, κἂν ἡμεῖς ἀγνοῶμεν αὐτῆς τὰς οἰκονομίας, for God designs them all for our good, though we at present see not how they tend unto it.

Ver. 19. Quench not the Spirit.

Τοῦτο, χάρισμα μὴ ἐκφαύσητε καὶ κωλύεσθε, τοῦ ἀποστρέφεσθαι, καὶ μὴ ἐᾶν λαλεῖν, that is, Hinder not the Gifts of the Spirit, by turning away from them that have them, and not suffering them to speak. These Gifts were signified by Strife, Emulation, Schisms, and Contention about them, 1 Cor. 3. 1, 3. 2*ly*, By a disorderly use of them, not to the Edification of the Church, but to vain Ostentation, Confusion in the Church, and the Scandal of Heathens, 1 Cor. 14. by a neglect to exercise them, 1 Tim. 4. 14. and by the Prohibition of them; Forbid not to speak with Tongues, 1 Cor. 15. 39.

Ver. 20. Despise not Prophesies.

Περφάσῃ τῶν ψευδοπροφητῶν, καὶ τὰς ἀληθεῖς δίωπνον, Oecum. Some of these false Prophets had crept into the Church of Thessalonica, as is hinted in those words, Be not troubled by (them who pretend a Revelation from the) Spirit, as if the Day of Christ were at hand. 2 Thess. 2. 2. Which made them less regardful of what was delivered by Men pretending to this Gift, and made it necessary for St. John to say, Believe not every Spirit, but try the Spirits, whether they be of God; for many false Prophets are gone out into the World. 1 John 4. 1. And to prevent the Mischief the Thessalonians might receive from them, the Apostle here adds, Ver. 21. Try all things (by the Spirit of Discretion which is in the Church, and the consonancy of their pretended Prophesies and Interpretations, with what we have delivered to you,) and (then) hold fast that which is good.

Δοκιμάζετε.] Note that the Apostle doth not here bid the Guides of the Church try all things, and the People hold fast that which they delivered to them; but gives an Injunction common to all Christians, having their Senses exercised to discern betwixt Good and Evil, to all who are obliged to hold fast that which is good, and not to believe false Prophets; which is a strong Argument for the perspicuity, and the sufficiency of Holy Scripture for this Work, and against the necessity of a living Judge; for he that must try all things, must also try the Doctrine of this living Judge; and therefore, till he hath made this trial, must not admit his Doctrine as an Article of Christian Faith, for these words plainly teach, that what we must hold fast, must be first tried. Those Hearers, saith St. Basil, who are instructed in the Scriptures, ought to try the things spoken by their Teachers. Καὶ τὰ μὲν σύμφωνα τοῖς γεγραμμένοις δέχεσθαι, τὰ δὲ ἀλλότρια ἐκβάλλειν, and receive those Doctrines which

Ver. 12. And we beſeech you, Brethren, to know, (and reverence) them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admoniſh you.

So to pray always, Luke 18. 1. is to pray ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ, in every season, Chap. 21. 36. and to pray without ceasing here, is to pray ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ, in every opportunity, Eph. 6. 18. So 1 Maccab. 12. 11. ἡμεῖς ἓν ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ ἀδιαλείπτως, we at all times, without ceasing, both in our Feasts, and other convenient days, do remember you in the Sacrifices which we offer; i. e. we do it as oft as we have occasion to offer Sacrifice.

Ἀπὸ παντὸς εἴδους πονηροῦ, from all kinds, or ſorts of evil.] So the Syriack doth render theſe words. So Chryſoſtom and Theophylact upon this place. St. Baſil and Leontius cited by Dr. Hammond, who deſcants thus upon the words, Fly not from this or that only, but from every ſin. Or 2ly, If the Apoſtle here exhorts us to abſtain from all appearance of evil, his meaning cannot be this, That we ſhould abſtain from what appears evil to others, it being in many Caſes, impoſſible to know what appears ſo, and impracticable to act by ſuch a Rule, becauſe it would deſtroy our Chriſtian Liberty in things indifferent, and create in our Minds continual Perplexities, there being ſcarcely any thing which may not appear evil to ſome or other of thoſe numerous Sects which ſwarm among us; he therefore only muſt enjoyn us to abſtain from that which, after trial, ſeems evil to our ſelves, and is judged by us ſo to be; for the Apoſtle makes theſe two things the holding that which is Good, and the abſtaining from all appearance of Evil, the Conſequent of trying all things. Now we try all things, that after trial we may hold what ſeemeth to us good, and abſtain from that which ſeemeth to us evil, not to abſtain from that which ſeemeth ſo to others only.

Ver. 23. And the very God of Peace ſanctifie you throughout; and I pray God that your whole Spirit, and Soul, and Body, be preſerved blameleſs to the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ὁλόκληρον ὑμῶν τὸ πνεῦμα, καὶ ἡ ψυχὴ, καὶ τὸ σῶμα, your whole Spirit, and Soul, and Body.] Here the Apoſtle juſtifies the ancient and true Philoſophy, That Man is, as Nemeſius ſtiles him, τριμερὴς ὑπόστασις, a compound of three differing parts. This was the Doctrine of the Pythagoreans, as we learn from (f) Jamblycus, who having told us that Man conſiſts of Soul and Body; adds, That the Soul conſiſts of two parts, one indued with Reaſon, and one without Reaſon. This alſo was the Philoſophy of the Platoniſts, as we learn from Nemeſius and (g) Saluſt, who informs us that there is in Man a Soul irrational, which follows the Affections of the Body, and a Mind which uſeth the Body as its Inſtrument, and fights againſt it. This alſo was the Doctrine of the Stoicks, whence Antoninus ſaith, the three conſtituent parts of Man are σῶμα, ψυχὴ, νοῦς, the Body, Soul, and Mind. Of the ſame Opinion are the Ancient Fathers; A perfect Man, ſaith (h) Irenæus, conſiſts of Fleſh, Soul, and Body. And (i) Clemens of Alexandria and (k) Origen ſay the ſame. Mr. Cl. here is very poſitive, that this Philoſophy is falſe, and that there is nothing in Man but his Body, and his reaſonable Soul. But he ſaith nothing to ſuſtain this Confidence, againſt thoſe two excellent Philoſophers (l) Gaſſendus and (m) Dr. Willis, who have eſtabliſhed this Philoſophy beyond all reaſonable contradiction: Nor can the Conflict betwixt the Mind and Spirit and the Fleſh, mentioned Rom. 7. from v. 14. to the 25th, and Gal. 5. 16, 17. be explained, nor can any Man tell what the τὸ ἡγεμονὸν, or ruling Principle in us, is to govern, without admitting this inferiour Soul as the Fountain of all our ſenſual Appetites, or even tell us what it is to die, unleſs it be to make this inferiour Soul, which conſiſts in the Motion of the Animal Spirits, and the Senſitive Appetites they produce in us, to ceaſe to act, or move as formerly. He will have ψυχὴ here to ſignifie Life, as indeed it doth in other places, but never where the conſtituent parts of Man are enumerated, as here it is; and ſeeing the Spirit, and the Body, are unqueſtionably the conſtituent parts of a Man, 'tis reaſonable to conceive that the ψυχὴ mentioned here muſt be ſo alſo, eſpecially ſince 'tis divided from the Spirit and the Body by the Particle καὶ. Moreover, by following the Motions of this brutiſh Appetite, is a Man ſtiled ψυχικὸς, the Animal Man, and by being animated and informed by this ψυχὴ, is the Body called σῶμα ψυχικὸν, an Animal Body, 1 Cor. 15. 44, 45. and by conveying of this ψυχὴ, or inferiour Soul, to his Poſterity, is the firſt Adam ſaid to be made εἰς ψυχὴν ζῶσαν, to convey this Animal Life to his Poſterity; though this at laſt may be only a ſtrife about words, the Animal Spirits being included in the Body.

That St. Paul did not judge all Judicial Oaths unlawful, for then he would not have laid this Oath upon his Theſſalonians. (2.) That Chriſt did not forbid Judicial, but only voluntary Oaths, becauſe it was not in the power of the Jews, to whom he ſpake, to avoid Judicial Oaths; nor would he then have anſwered to the Adjuration of the High-Prieſt.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epiſtle of St. PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

HAving offered a new Interpretation of the Second Chapter of this Epiſtle, which treateth of the Man of Sin, commonly called Antichriſt, there mentioned, I ſhall hear give the Reaſons why I could not acquieſce in any of the Expoſitions already given either by Proteſtants, or Papiſts, and anſwer ſome Objections againſt the Expoſition I have put upon the words of the Apoſtle in that Chapter. And § 1. Firſt, Whereas Mr. Obadiah Walker hath taken a great deal of pains to apply all that the Apoſtle ſaith to Mahomet and his Followers, that vain Conceit will be demonſtratively confuted from theſe Conſiderations.

1. That the Apoſtle here exhorts the Theſſalonians, Not to be ſhaken in mind, or troubled either by Spirit, or by Letter, or by Word, as from us, (the Apoſtles,) as if the Day of the Lord were at hand, v. 2. Now what day doth the Apoſtle mean? Surely that Day when the Lord ſhould conſume the wicked one by the breath of his mouth, and by the brightneſs of his coming, v. 8. Now ſure it is that Mahomet came not till 567. years after the writing this Epiſtle, viz. A. D. 608. nor is our Lord yet come to conſume him with the breath of his mouth, nor know we when he will do ſo. How therefore could it be, that they who were foretold ſo punctually of the Apoſtacy which ſhould introduce the Man of Sin, and what yet hindred the Revelation of him in his Seaſon, as the Theſſalonians were, v. 5, 6. ſhould think the Day of the Lord's coming to deſtroy Mahomet and his Followers was at hand? or that they ſhould be led into this apprehenſion by any Word, Epiſtle, or Revelation, made, ſpoken, or written by the Apoſtles or Prophetick Men concerning him? Could they then know from the mouth of St. Paul, that this Man of Sin was one Mahomet, who was not to appear till 567. years after his ſpeaking of him; and when he did appear was to continue above a thouſand years before the coming of our Lord to conſume him, and yet by any of his words be induced to conceive the Day of the Lord was at hand?

Moreover, If the coming of our Lord, here mentioned, was to conſume the Beaſt, or Roman Antichriſt, ſeeing this Beaſt was to ariſe out of the Ruins of the Roman Empire, and if St. Paul had told them any thing from Daniel of this matter, He muſt have let them know that this was ſo; and alſo that this Antichriſt, when riſen out of the Ruins of the Empire, was to continue for a time and times, and half a time, that is, 1260 years before the coming of our Saviour to deſtroy him. It is as difficult to conceive how, after this, the Theſſalonians could think Chriſt's coming to conſume the Beaſt could be then inſtant when this Epiſtle was endited.

§ 2. Arg. 2. I argue, ſecondly, againſt this Opinion, from thoſe words, Remember ye not that when I was with you, I told you of theſe things, v. 5, 6, 7. that is, I told you of the Apoſtacy that was to precede the Man of Sin; how he ſhould exalt himſelf above all that is called God, &c. and what it was that hindred his being revealed in his Seaſon? Now can any one believe that the Apoſtle, who was not with the Theſſalonians long enough to perfect what was lacking in their Faith, 1 Theſſ. 3. 10. ſhould yet employ his time in telling them a long ſtory of the Apoſtacy of the Arians and Neſtorians, Neſtorians, ſaith Mr. W. and of one Mahomet who ſhould thus exalt himſelf, and what then hindred his being revealed? Could he ſay that very Myſtery of Iniquity, this Mahomet was to bring into the World, then wrought, only becauſe there were ſome Hereticks already come, who confeſſed not that Jeſus Chriſt was come in the fleſh, though Mahomet confeſſed this very freely? As well may it be ſaid, That the Myſtery of Quakeriſm, wrought in the ſecond and third Centuries, becauſe ſome Hereticks of thoſe times, taught Doctrines like thoſe they now profeſs.

And ſince 'tis equally improbable the Apoſtle, in that little time, ſhould ſpeak to them of the Apoſtacy of the Church of Rome from the Faith, and how the Biſhop of Rome ſhould Lord it over Chriſtian Emperours, and over the Laws of God and Chriſt, and wear out the Saints of the moſt High for 1260 years? and is ſtill more improbable, that he ſhould ſay all this then to them, and here again bring the ſame thing to their remembrance, and yet that not the leaſt intimation of any thing of this nature ſhould appear in any Chriſtian Writers, on this Subject, for ſix following Centuries. This Argument muſt be of equal ſtrength againſt thoſe who conceive the Papal Antichriſt ſhould primarily and chiefly be intended here.

§ 3. Arg. 3. Thirdly, I argue againſt this Opinion from thoſe words, And then ſhall that wicked one be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall conſume with the breath of his Mouth, &c. v. 8. For hence it ſeems plain, this wicked one was to be deſtroyed by the coming of our Lord ſoon after the time of his Revelation, and not above a thouſand years after; as both the Opinion of thoſe Papiſts, who ſay that he is Mahomet, and of thoſe Proteſtants who ſay he is the Pope and his Clergy, muſt make the interval betwixt his Revelation, and Deſtruction be; for the ſame thing that hindred his Revelation, hindred the coming of our Lord to deſtroy him thus revealed; and theſe two things ſeem to be thus connected, The Day of the Lord will not come, till there come firſt an Apoſtacy, and by that a Revelation of the Man of Sin; when therefore this Apoſtacy, and this Revelation of the Man of Sin happeneth, then will Chriſt come to conſume him. And otherwiſe the Chriſtians of after Ages might have been ſubject, from the Apoſtle's words, to a like Miſtake to that here mentioned, ſeeing, to tell them they had no reaſon yet to expect this Day of the Lord, becauſe it was not to come till the Man of Sin was revealed, and to add, when that which hindred the Revelation of him in his Seaſon, was once taken away, then ſhould he alſo be revealed, whom the Lord ſhould conſume with the brightneſs of his coming, muſt fairly lead them to expect this Day ſoon after his Revelation, and not after he had been thus revealed above a thouſand years.

§ 4. Theſe Arguments are ſuch as equally confute the Opinion of thoſe Proteſtants who conceive the Apoſtle primarily to characteriſe the Pope and his Clergy, and of thoſe who apply theſe words to Mahomet.

Arg. 4. But fourthly, I argue againſt them who ſuppoſe Mahomet to be the Man here intended, from theſe words of the Apoſtle, That the coming of this wicked one ſhall be according to the working of Satan in all power, ſigns, and lying wonders, v. 9. for the words δυνάμεις, σημεῖα, τέρατα, powers, ſigns, and wonders, are never uſed in Scripture for any wonderful things done by God upon Men or any Extaſies or Conferences of Angels with them, but always for outward ſigns done by them upon other Things, or Perſons; ſuch as were the healing of the Sick, and Lame, the caſting out of Devils, the raiſing the Dead. See Note on Hebr. 2. 4. Now Mahomet every where profeſſeth that he came not with any ſuch Miracles, and therefore he could not be the Perſon here deſigned. For his Oppoſers demanded of him ſuch Miracles, ſaying, 'Moſes and Jeſus, according to thy own Doctrine, wrought Miracles to prove their Miſſion from God; and therefore if thou be a Prophet, and greater then any that were ever ſent before thee, as thou boaſteſt thy ſelf to be, do thou the like Miracles to manifeſt it to us; do thou make the Dead to riſe, the Deaf to ſpeak, the Dumb to hear, &c. and then we will believe in thy Word. 'This Objection, ſaith (a) Dr. Prideaux, he endeavoured to evade by ſeveral Anſwers; One while he tells them, he is only a Man ſent to preach to them the Rewards of Paradiſe, and the Puniſhments of Hell: At another time, that their Predeceſſors contemned the Miracles of Saleh, and the other Prophets, and that for this reaſon God would work no more among them: And a while after, that thoſe whom God had ordained to believe, ſhould believe without Miracles; and thoſe whom he had not ordained to believe, ſhould not be convinced, though all theſe Miracles ſhould be wrought in their ſight, which they required. But this not ſatisfying, as being a plain Confeſſion that he wanted that power of Miracles which all other Prophets had to prove their Miſſion, ſeveral of thoſe that were his Followers departed from him. Having therefore got the Sword into his Hand, and an Army to back his Cauſe, his Doctrine then was, that God had ſent Moſes and Jeſus with Miracles, and yet Men would not be obedient to their Word, and therefore he had now ſent him in the laſt place without 'Miracles, to force them by the power of the 'Sword to do his Will.

(a) Life of Mahomet, p. 30, 31, 32.

'How-

'However, saith he, it is not to be denied 'that there are several Miracles reckon'd up, 'which Mahomet is said to have wrought; as 'that he did cleave the Moon in two; that the 'Trees went forth to meet him; and that the 'Stones saluted him; which are the Miracles here mentioned by Mr. Walker. But then he adds, That 'they who relate them are only such 'as are reckoned among their fabulous, and le-'gendary Writers; their learned Doctors re-'nounce them all, as doth Mahomet himself, 'who in several places of his Alchoran, owns that he wrought no Miracles.

§ 5. Against the Opinion of Grotius, that Cajus Caligula was the Man of Sin, it is superfluous to say much, it being grounded upon an Error in Chronology, that St. Paul writ this Epistle A. D. 40 when Cajus appeared; whereas 'tis certain from 1 Thess. 1. 5. that Paul had been at Thessalonica before this Epistle was writ; for St. Paul went up to Jerusalem, say the best Chronologers, A. D. 49. and it is evident that then he had not been at Thessalonica, and so had writ no Epistle to them, it being writ after his entrance in to them, v. 9. after he had spoken to them the Gospel of God, Chap. 2. 2. after he had been taken from them for a short time, v. 17. Now that he had not been at Thessalonica before his going up to the Council at Jerusalem, appears from the History of the Acts, which saith, that after this Council he went to Antioch, Chap. 15. 30. then through Syria and Cilicia, v. 41. then to Derbe and Lystria, Chap. 16. 1, 2. then through Phrygia, Galatia, and Mysia, and so to Troas, v. 6, 7, 8. then to Samothracia, Neapolis, and Philippi, v. 11, 12. and having passed through Amphiolis and Apollonia, he came to Thessalonica, Chap. 17. 1. He therefore coming only thither eight years after the death of Cajus, and not writing this Epistle till after he had left them, could not then write of Cajus as the Man of Sin to be yet revealed.

§ 6. I pass on to the Interpretation of Dr. Hammond, which is this,

1. 'That the Man of Sin, the Son of Perdition, 'was Simon Magus, together with his Fol-'lowers the Gnosticks, designed for destruction. Paraph. on v. 3.

2. 'That Simon Magus setting himself in 'the head of them, Christ should destroy him by 'extraordinary means, the Preaching, and the 'Miracles of St. Peter, and the Gnosticks that 'adhered to him at the destruction of the un-'believing Jews. Paraph. on v. 8.

3. 'That the falling away first, must be a 'great departure, or defection from the Faith to 'the Heresie of the Gnosticks, or the Christi-'ans breaking off their compliance with the im-'penitent Jews, leaving them as obdurate, and 'departing avowedly to the Gentiles. Paraph. on v. 3.

4. 'That which withholdeth, and he that let-'teth, was the Apostles not giving over preach-'ing to the Jews as hopeless and refractory, and 'going to the Gentiles, Paraph. on v. 6. and 'the Christians walking warily, and doing no-'thing contrary to the Mosaical Law.

5. 'That the Mystery already working was 'this sort of Men already formed into a Sect, 'under their Ring-leaders Simon and Carpo-'crates. Paraph. on v. 7.

Now against this Opinion I argue,

1. From the Day of the Lord here mentioned v. 1, 2. for that indeed doth often signifie in Scripture the Day of the Lord's coming to the destruction of the Temple, City, and Nation of the Jews, which, saith the Reverend Dr. Hammond, is the true import of the Phrase here, but it never signifies his coming to destroy Simon Magus. Moreover, It's plain from the eighth Verse, that this coming of the Lord is to destroy the Man of Sin, he being to be destroyed by the brightness of his coming; how then can this Day be the time appointed for the destruction of Simon Magus, who perished some years before Christ's coming to the destruction of Jerusalem? For according to Valesius, (b) Eusebius, and Symeon Metaphrastes, Simon perished in the Reign of Claudius; he coming then to Rome, and St. Peter then also coming after him, to detect his Frauds, when he well argues, that (c) it is not probable he should long there insult over the Christian Faith, St. Peter being then present to oppose him. Now if this be true, he perished at the least 16 years before the destruction of Jerusalem, and Christ came to destroy him within four years after the writing this Epistle. If he perished, as others will have it, in the fourth of Nero, he must die twelve years before Christ came to destroy Jerusalem; or if he continued till the twelfth of Nero, opposing Christianity twelve years at Rome, under the very Nose of the two chief Apostles, which is not very probable, yet must he die four years before Christ's coming to the destruction of Jerusalem, and therefore could not be destroyed by the brightness of his coming.

Must we refer this then only to the destruction of his Followers the Gnosticks? That they were then in being, I could never yet see proved, and much less that any of them perished at the destruction of Jerusalem. I know the

Doctor

The Author cites (d) Eusebius, as saying that the Gnosticks, λέγων διὰπαντὸς εἰς τὸ παντελὲς ἀπαδήκασιν, in a moment were utterly extinct; whereas it is manifest Eusebius says this not of the Gnosticks, but the Nicolaitans; nor could he say it of them who flourished chiefly in the second Century, whence it is stiled Sæculum Gnosticum. Moreover, It is a plain flaw in this, or any like Interpretation, to make the Head of any Party, with his Followers, to be the Man of Sin to be consumed by the coming of our Lord, and yet to make the Ante-signanus perish before his coming, and his Followers only at it.

All to this, that the whole Foundation of this Opinion depends upon the (e) tale of Simon Magus's flying in the Air at Rome, and his falling down and breaking his bones at the Prayer of (f) St. Peter, which is a thing not only uncertain, but in the judgment of many learned Persons, absolutely false. Cotelerius, a Romanist, is forced ἐπίσχειν to suspend his judgment about it; 1. By reason of the Original of the Story, which, saith he, had its rise è libris Apocryphis & Pseudepigraphis, from (g) Apocryphal and Spurious Authours.

2ly, By reason of the great discrepancy to be found among them in their Relations of divers Circumstances of this Story. Some of them saying, that Simon Magus made himself (h) Wings to fly; some that he was held up by (i) two Devils; others that he made himself a (k) Chariot, or ascended in a fiery Chariot, drawn by four Horses; and all that he did this by the Art of Magick.

Again, They differ equally as to the Effects this fall had upon this Magician; some saying that he died by it, and was (l) seen dead upon the spot, that it (m) dasht out his Brains, (n) broke his whole Body, yea, brake it into (o) four parts. Others, that (p) Peter prayed he might not die, and so he only broke his thigh, say some; or his hands and feet, as others.

Some tell us this was done in the Reign of Claudius; and others, that it was done in the Reign of Nero; some that it was done by (q) Peter only, others, that it was done by (r) Peter and St. Paul; some that it was done by (r) Prayer, and others that they added Fasting to their Prayers; so little Agreement is there amongst them in any Circumstance of this Action. And 3ly, The Story may deserve to be suspected, by reason of the silence of all the Ancients of the three first Centuries, who speak much of his being at Rome, and of his being honoured with a Statue there, but say nothing of his flight or fall, by virtue of the Prayers of St. Peter, though they had just occasion to speak of it, had they believed the Story. For (s) Justin Martyr, in his Apology, speaks twice of this Statue, and desires the Emperour and Senate, that, learning the truth, they would abolish that Statue; but he saith not one word of this illustrious Combat, which was so admirable a conviction of his fraud. Clemens of (t) Alexandria saith, that Simon heard St. Peter preach a little while, but addeth not one word of what he

he ſuffered by St. Peter's Prayers. (n) Tertullian having noted, that after the coming of the Goſpel Magicians were always puniſhed, ſpeaks only of Simon Magus, as ejected out of the Church, though he obſerves that Elymas was ſtruck blind. And that in the Acts of the Apoſtles (x) he received a juſt Sentence, and worthy of himſelf, from the Apoſtle Peter, but addeth not one word of what he ſuffered from St. Peter at Rome. (y) Origen proves that there was οὐδὲν θεῖον, nothing Divine in Simon from the Nature of his Doctrine which made Idolatry a thing indifferent, and from the Succeſs of it, it being in his time almoſt extinct, and that he periſhed with his Silver; but adds not a hint of his periſhing by the Prayers of the Apoſtles, which was the ſtrongeſt proof againſt his pretenſions that he was the power of God. (z) Euſebius declares how the Devil raiſed up Simon as the great Adverſary to the Apoſtles, and how the Divine Grace, by their appearance and preſence, extinguiſhed that flame; and how the Providence of God ſent Peter after him to Rome in the days of Claudius, to ſet himſelf againſt him, and how he prevailed by cauſing the Light of the Goſpel to ſhine there; but gives not the leaſt hint of his being thus overcome, or thrown down by the Prayers of Peter. The Biſhops of Rome, who, ſaith Cotelerius, ſua tacere non ſolent, uſe not to be ſilent in matters relating to themſelves, ſay nothing of it. Nor is it credible, ſaith (a) Hornius, Scriptores Romanos tam memorabilem rem præterituros fuiſſe, that all the Roman Writers of thoſe times, Suetonius, Tacitus, Pliny, &c. ſhould paſs over ſo memorable a thing in ſilence; eſpecially if Simon was ſo honoured by Claudius, and beloved by Nero, as ſome Authors of this Story ſay he was. It ſeems inconſiſtent, ſaith Valeſius, with that other Story of Simon's being honoured at Rome as a God by the Emperor, Senate, and the People, and the continuance of his Statue there in Juſtin Martyr's days; which ſure it would not have done, had he been ſo remarkably defeated or deſtroyed before their eyes. And laſtly, (b) St. Auſtin freely owns, that at Rome this Story was by moſt People deemed falſe. And is ſuch a Tale fit to be laid as the foundation of the Interpretation of this Chapter?

§ 7. Arg. 2. This Opinion may alſo be confuted from thoſe words, This day ſhall not come unleſs there be an Apoſtacy firſt, and the Man of Sin be revealed. For,

1. It is intolerable to think that Act, which was ſo neceſſary for the promotion of the Goſpel among the Gentiles, viz. the not impoſing on them Circumciſion, and the Jewiſh yoke, and the ceaſing to preach in their Synagogues, was the Apoſtacy intended by the Apoſtle in theſe words. The Zealots among the Jews might ſay of Paul, Thou teacheſt Apoſtacy from the Law of Moſes; for afterwards the (c) Ebionites rejected all his Epiſtles, Ἀποστάτην αὐτὸν τοῦ νόμου, calling him an Apoſtate from the Law; but that St. Paul himſelf ſpeaking to the Gentiles, ſhould call this his own practice, an Apoſtacy is incredible.

Moreover, What advantage would it do them in this matter, to tell them of an Apoſtacy which had hapned before their Converſion, Acts 13.46. Lo we turn unto the Gentiles, for ſo hath the Lord commanded us, and happened again about the time of writing this Epiſtle, Acts 19.9. and finally, ſaith the Doctor, was compleated when St. Paul came to Rome, about five or ſeven years after at the moſt? might not the coming of the Lord be at hand, though an Apoſtacy ſo near to be compleated, were to go before it? See James 5.8, 9. 1 Pet. 4.7.

2ly, As for the Apoſtacy of a conſiderable part of Chriſtians to the abominable impiety of the Gnoſticks, I have all along in the Interpretation of theſe Epiſtles conſidered that, and find no reaſon to aſſert it, nor any thing that favours it, till we come to the 2 Pet. 2. 20, 21. 'Tis true indeed, as (d) Juſtin Martyr and Euſebius teſtifie, that moſt of the Samaritans worſhipped Simon as the chief God; but ὀλίγοι ἐν ἄλλοις ἔθνεσιν, few in other Nations, ſay they, did it; but that one ſingle Perſon fell off from Chriſtianity to him they ſay [illegible]

(e) Euſebius

(e) Eusebius is expres's, that neither the Heresie of Simon Magus, nor of others, had any prevalency in the times of the Apostles. The great Apostacy which after the writing this Epistle first appeared, and against which the Catholick Epistles of St. James, Peter, and St. John, and especially the Epistle to the Hebrews, was written, was that of the converted Jews to Judaism again; and to this Dr. Lightfoot probably refers the Apostacy here mentioned; our Lord having foretold that the Devil once cast out of them by the Gospel, should return to them with seven more evil Spirits than himself; and concluding that Parable with those words, so shall it be with this present Generation, *Matth.*12.43,44,45. Which Opinion is well consistent with my Interpretation of this Chapter, and may be embraced by them who like not my Notion of this Apostacy.

2ly, This Man of Sin was yet to be revealed, v. 3. and there was yet a season to come in which he was to be revealed, v. 6, 8. whereas by the Confession of Dr. Hammond, Simon Magus was revealed as an Opposer of Christ, and an Ἀντιχρ., or Antagonist, to the Apostles long before? for, he saith, that (f) being denied the power of working Miracles, which he would have bought of the Apostles, soon after he set up, and opposed himself against Christ, and accordingly is here called ὁ Ἀντικείμενος, the Adversary, or he that opposeth himself. Now the time when he would have bought of them this power of working Miracles was A.D.35. that is, fourteen years before S. Paul writ this Epistle; if then soon after he set up, and opposed himself against Christ, he must discover himself soon after the Year 35, and so before the writing this Epistle. He adds in the same Note, That Simon Magus came to Rome in the beginning of Claudius his Reign, and there did such Miracles by the help of the Devils, that he was taken for a God, and accordingly had a Statue erected to him with this Inscription, Simoni Deo Sancto. Eusebius there adds, That the Devil had set him up as the Great and Equal Antagonist of the Divine Apostles. (g) St. Jerom also saith, That in the second year of Claudius St. Peter came to Rome to oppose him. He therefore who was then set up as the great Adversary of the Apostles, and as such opposed by them in the second Year of Claudius, that is A. D. 42. must be discovered then, that is, 9 years before the writing this Epistle. Eusebius there adds, that the flame he had there raised, by the appearance and presence of the Apostles, i. e. of Peter, as the words following shew, ἣ παχὺ ἐσβέννυ, was soon extinguished; which seems to prove that Simon Magus his opposition to Christ was not only discovered, but even extinguished with his Person before the writing this Epistle. And indeed Irenæus, and almost all the Ancients agree in this, with Dr. Hammond, that Simon Magus having suffered this repulse from Peter at Samaria, began (h) to search still more into the depths of Magick, that he might be more able to contend with the Apostles; and that by this means he astonished many, was honoured by Claudius with a Statue, and glorified by many as a God: He soon returned, saith Theodoret, to his former Arts. Now, can we think that a Man, who designed to be reckoned μεγάς τις, some great one, and to seem glorious in the World, should pursue that design, by hiding, and not discovering himself about fifteen years.

In a word, It cannot reasonably be thought that almost all Samaria should worship him; that he should be honoured in the days of Claudius as a God at Rome, by the Emperor, the Senate, and the People; and that the Devil should set him up as the Great Adversary of the Apostles long before this time; and that the season of his being revealed should be yet to come.

§ 8. Arg. 3. 3ly, I argue against this Opinion from these words, he sitteth in the Temple of God, v. 4. for whether we interpret this of the Temple of Jerusalem, or of the Church of God, which are all the Interpretations known to the Ancient Fathers, or applied by them to these words, it is certain that neither Simon Magus, nor his Followers, sat in any of them. The (k) Doctor therefore is forced to say, this agrees to Simon, as being worshipped at Samaria, in those places which had been set apart to the worship of the True God, they worshipping him there θυμάμασι καὶ θυσίαις, καὶ σπονδαῖς, with all sorts of Sacrifices. But would St. Paul stile the Samaritan Temple, had it been then standing, as it was not, the Temple of God? Would he have done this after our Lord's declaration made against them that they worshipped they knew not what? The truth is, that the Temple built upon their holy Mountain, was long before deſtroyed by Hircanus, and that which Herod built them, they regarded not, as ſtanding not upon that Mountain. Where therefore was the Temple in which they offered all kind of Sacrifices to this Magician? Indeed, the Doctor uſeth too much Artifice in thus connecting theſe things; for that almoſt all the Samaritans did worſhip Simon Magus as the firſt or principal God, Euſebius doth ſay from Juſtin Martyr Hiſt. Eccl. 2. 13. but that they then worſhipped him with any kind of Sacrifices, he doth not ſay: But only that ſome of his Followers, who (l) pretended to embrace the Chriſtian Religion, (which Simon Magus then profeſſedly oppoſed,) fell back to the worſhip of Dæmons, and had got Images of Simon and Helen, which they thus worſhipped with Sacrifices.

§ 9. Arg. 4. Remember you not, ſaith the Apoſtle, that I told you of theſe things? Now is it probable, that in the ſhort time he ſtayed with them, he ſhould tell them how Simon Magus ſat in the Temple of God, and that Chriſt's coming was to deſtroy him; and that ſo ſoon as S. Paul ſhould leave off preaching in the Jewiſh Synagogues, S. Magus and his Followers would be revealed? Credat Judæus Apella; For the Myſtery of Iniquity doth already work, v. 7. that is, ſaith Dr. H. this ſort of Men are already formed into a Sect under their Ring-leaders, Simon and Carpocrates. Wonderful that Carpocrates, who, ſay (m) Clemens of Alexandria, Euſebius, and Theodoret, appeared only in the time of Hadrian, that is, A. D. 107. at the ſooneſt, ſhould be the Ring-leader of a Sect at the writing of this Epiſtle, that is, at leaſt, 56 years before he began his Hereſie.

It follows, v. 8. And then ſhall that wicked one be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall conſume with the Spirit of his Mouth, &c. that is, ſaith D. Hammond, then immediately ſhall ye ſee the Sect of the Gnoſticks ſhew it ſelf, joyn with, and ſtir up the Jews, and bring heavy Perſecutions upon the Chriſtians, and having this opportunity to calumniate them to the Jews, behave themſelves as their profeſſed Oppoſers. And Simon Magus ſhall ſet himſelf forth in the Head of them, whom, as a Profeſt Enemy of Chriſt, Chriſt ſhall deſtroy by extraordinary means, by the Preaching and Miracles of St. Peter; and for all the Apoſtatizing Gnoſticks that adhere to him, they ſhall be involved in the deſtruction of the Unbelieving Jews, with whom they have joyned againſt the Chriſtians. In which long Paraphraſe there is nothing certain, and nothing which can be confirmed, either from Scripture or Antiquity. That there were then any Gnoſticks in being, that they ever then did, or were in a capacity to perſecute the Chriſtians, that any ſingle Perſon of them periſhed at the fatal time of the deſtruction of the unbelieving Jews, I never yet ſaw proved. That Simon Magus ſhould ſet himſelf in the Head of theſe Gnoſticks, or of any other of his Followers, who was extant before they bore that Name, is not credible. That Followers, who pretended that Simon himſelf was the chief, or principal God, who worſhipped him, and the very Images of Simon and Helena, with all kind of Sacrifices, who held the Law and Prophets were not to be regarded, ſhould ingratiate themſelves, and joyn with the Jews, is ſtill more incredible. And laſtly, that Simon Magus periſhed by the Miracles of St. Peter, I have ſhewed to be improbable. And this I think ſufficient to be offered againſt this Interpretation.

§ 10. I ſhould proceed to thoſe Conſiderations which ſeem to lye againſt that Opinion, which holds that the Apoſtle primarily intends the Papal Antichriſt, but I have already done this, both in this Preface, and in the following Annotations; and therefore ſhall at preſent only add, that this Man of Sin is to ſit in the Temple of God, and probably to do it then when the Apoſtle writ; for he gives it as a Character, by which the Theſſalonians, to whom he writ, might know him, and then he could be no other than the Jewiſh Doctors. Moreover, this Temple of God muſt either be the Temple of God, properly ſo called, which was deſtroyed by Titus, A. D. 70. and then again, The Man of Sin, who was to ſit in it, muſt denote the ſame Perſons, or as ſome of the moſt Ancient Fathers; (n) Irenæus, (o) Hippolitus, (p) St. Cyril, and (q) St. Ambroſe thought, either the Ruins of that Temple, or another to be built by Antichriſt in behalf of the Jews, and then as it is not reaſonable to think the Apoſtle would abſolutely ſtile that the Temple of God which had never been ſo, and which was only built by one who magnified himſelf againſt, and openly blaſphemed the true God; ſo is it more unreaſonable to think the Pope and his Clergy ſhould ſit in it. They therefore who think that they are here eſpecially intended, embrace the Sentiments of the Fathers of the Fifth, and the following Centuries, viz. of (r) Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, St. Auſtin, and St. Jerom, that by the Temple of God, we are to underſtand the Chriſtian Church. But this Interpretation is liable to this Objection, That 'tis not reaſonable to conceive the Holy Spirit, without any mark of diſtinction, would give that name to the Apoſtate Church, in which the Beaſt and the falſe Prophet did preſide, ſhe being by the ſame Spirit, when he ſpeaks more unqueſtionably of her, ſtill repreſented as Spiritual Sodom and Egypt, Myſtical Babylon, and the Mother of Fornications and Abominations, Rev. 11. 8. 17. 5. Hence (s) Bellarmine makes this Inference from the Interpretation of the Proteſtants, That if it be true, the Roman Church, in which the Pope preſides, muſt be the Church of God. To this our Writers anſwer, That this Name was given to the Church of Rome becauſe ſhe once was ſo. But when was that? Was it not before the Man of Sin ſate in her, and exalted himſelf above God and Chriſt? and can he properly be ſaid to ſit in the Church of God, who whilſt he ſitteth in it, is not the Man of Sin, nor does thoſe things which belong to him; and when he is the Man of Sin, ſitteth no longer in the Church of God, but in Spiritual Egypt, the Oppreſſor of God's People, in Myſtical Babylon the Mother of Idolatry, and the Great Enemy of the Church of God, and in the Synagogue of Satan?

Sentiments

But that I may not wholly differ from my Brethren in this matter, I grant theſe words may, in a ſecondary ſenſe, be attributed to the Papal Antichriſt, or Man of Sin, and may be ſignally fulfilled in him, in the deſtruction of him by the Spirit of Chriſt's Mouth, he being the Succeſſor to the Apoſtate Jewiſh Church, to whom theſe Characters agree, as well as to her; and therefore in the Annotations I have ſtill given a place to this Interpretation alſo.

§ 11. Laſtly, As for the Objections which may be raiſed againſt the ſenſe which I have put upon theſe words, I have already anſwered moſt of them in the Annotations, only two ſtill remain to be more fully anſwered, viz.

Object. 1. That all the Fathers and ancient Interpreters, ſeem not only ſilent as to the import of theſe words, but generally ſeem to refer the τὸ κατέχον, that which witheld this Revelation of the Man of Sin to the Roman Empire.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, (1.) That this Objection may be retorted upon all the other Opinions with equal ſtrength; for what is there ſaid by any of the Fathers, or Eccleſiaſtical Writers, for ſix hundred years, whence it may be concluded that either Mahomet, or the Pope of Rome, were the Man of Sin here mentioned? What hint hath any Commentator, Greek or Latin, in his Notes upon this Chapter, for a thouſand years, given, that the Pope and his Clergy were the Perſons here intended?

If it be here replied, That they do conſequentially overthrow this Opinion, by making the Roman Empire to be the τὸ κατέχον, that which witheld. I anſwer, That they more fully overthrow the Opinion, which ſaith the Papal Government is Antichriſt, or the Man of Sin.

1. By ſaying that (t) Antichriſt was coming, and at hand, long before the appearance of the little Horn, which ſprung up only from the Ruins of the Roman Empire, which happned A. D. 475.

2ly, By teaching, ſo generally as they did, that Antichriſt being once revealed, was to continue not 1260 years, but only three years and an half. See Note on v. 8.

3ly, That he was to be of the Jewiſh Extract, one (u) of the Tribe of Dan, who alſo was to be Circumciſed. And 4ly, That he ſhould be an Enemy to (x) Idolatry and Image Worſhip, as Irenæus, Hippolytus, Cyrillus Hieroſ. St. Chryſoſtom, and Theodoret ſay.

In a word, they generally held, as I have ſhewed Note on v. 10. that Antichriſt was to come with Signs and Wonders to deceive the Jews, that they might be puniſhed for their Infidelity. All which things muſt be manifeſtly inconſiſtent with the common Notion, that the Pope's Hierarchy muſt be the Man of Sin here primarily intended by St. Paul.

3ly, I anſwer, that though the Fathers do not expreſly ſay the Jewiſh Nation was the Man of Sin which the Apoſtle here intended, yet many of them have ſaid thoſe things on which this our Interpretation doth depend; as v. g. that this Man of Sin was to be of Jewiſh Extract, that he was to ſit in the Temple of Jeruſalem, and that he was to come chiefly to deceive the unbelieving Jews, that ſo they might be puniſhed for their Infidelity. And Laſtly, As to the τὸ κατέχον, or rather ὁ κατέχων, he that letteth, I only in this differ from them, that whereas they refer this to the Roman Empire, I do refer it to a Roman Emperor; and as ſome of them held that (y) Nero was this Antichriſt, and Man of Sin, and others that he was (z) Domitian, ſo do I hold that Claudius, the Predeceſſor of that Nero, was the Perſon that withheld.

§ 12. Object. 2. It farther is objected, That the Jews were long before revealed to be the great Oppoſers of Chriſtianity, and the Scribes and Phariſees had long ſate in the Temple of God; wherefore the Revelation of the Man of Sin, being only to take place for ſome conſiderable time after the writing this Epiſtle, the Jewiſh Nation cannot be reaſonably deemed the Man of Sin.

Anſw. I have already anſwered this Objection in the Paraphraſe, by ſhewing that theſe are the Deſcriptions of the Man of Sin, by which the Theſſalonians, and others, might then know him; and that they were all ſpoken in the Preſent Tenſe; ſhewing what he already did, and that he was yet more fully to be revealed, either by his actual Apoſtacy from the Roman Government, which happned in the Twelfth of Nero, or by the great Apoſtacy of the Believers of that Nation from the Faith.

2ly, I add, That the Jewiſh Nation not only had a great Opinion of their dearneſs to the God of Heaven, but were alſo look'd upon by their Proſelytes, and others, as God's peculiar and beloved People, and therefore ſuch a change of Providence as made it appear to all Men they were become the Generation of his Wrath, muſt alſo be a Revelation of them as the greateſt of Sinners. And ſince this came upon them after they had rejected our Meſſiah, and crucified the Lord of Life, it muſt be a diſcovery that they became Sons of Perdition upon this account; and in this ſenſe the renewing that which letted, muſt make way for the Revelation of that wicked one whom the Lord would conſume with the breath of his Mouth. As then the Roman Church, though ſhe is thought by us to be the Antichriſt here ſpoken of, and the Beaſt mentioned in the Revelations, is yet by many other Chriſtian Churches in the Weſt, thought to be the true Catholick Church of Chriſt, and her Biſhop to be the Vicar of Chriſt, the Succeſſor of Peter, and the Head of the Univerſal Church, and ſo will only be revealed to them to be what we now deem her, when ſhe ſhall go into deſtruction, and be deſtroyed by the Sword of Chriſt, and by the Breath of his Mouth, ſo was the Church of Jeruſalem then only fully revealed to Jew and Gentile, and to the Judaizing Chriſtians, to be not what they did erroniouſly think her, but what the Apoſtle here doth repreſent her, when our Lord did thus conſume her by the Breath of his Mouth, and God ſo ſignally demonſtrated ſhe was a Veſſel of his Wrath fitted for deſtruction.

This Epiſtle ſeems to be written ſoon after the firſt, and as Biſhop Pearſon probably conjectures, in the ſame year, Sylvanus and Timotheus being ſtill with him when he writ it, as they were at the writing of the firſt Epiſtle, 2 Theſſ. 1.1. Now St. Paul ſtaid at Corinth only a year and ſix months, Acts 18.11. and there he had preached a conſiderable time, every Sabbath day, before they came to him, Acts 18.45. and ſo before he writ his firſt Epiſtle, it being written after that Timothy was come to him, 1 Theſſ. 3. 6. and they ſeem to be gone from him before he left Corinth, to go to Syria, for then he had only with him Priſcilla and Aquila, Acts 18. 18. ſo that the Interval betwixt theſe two Epiſtles could not be above a year.

A Paraphraſe and Comment ON THE Second Epiſtle of St. PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. PAUL and Silvanus, and Timotheus (write) to the Church of the Theſſalonians, (eſtabliſhed) in (the knowledge and worſhip of) God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 2. Wiſhing.] Grace to you, and peace from God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 3. We are bound to thank God always for you, Brethren, as it is meet (for us to do,) becauſe that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all towards each other aboundeth.

Ver. 4. So that we our ſelves glory in you, (or boaſt of you,) in the Churches of God, for your patience, and (for your) faith (which produceth this patience,) in all your perſecutions and tribulations which you endure.

Ver. 5. Which (diſpenſation of Divine Wiſdom appointing you to ſuffer, 1 Theſſ. 3. 3. and permitting others thus to perſecute you,) is a manifeſt token of the righteous judgment of God, (theſe Sufferings befalling you,) that you may be accounted worthy of the (Celeſtial) Kingdom of God, for which you alſo ſuffer, (and ſo are an aſſurance of a day when God will thus reward you.)

Ver. 6. Seeing it is a righteous thing, with (that) God (to whom belongeth recompenſe, Rom. 12. 19. and who will avenge his Elect that cry unto him day and night, Luke 18. 7.) to recompenſe tribulation to them that trouble you.

Ver. 7. And to you who are troubled, (as we are) reſt with us, (which reſt we both compleatly ſhall enjoy,) when the Lord Jeſus ſhall be revealed from Heaven, (attended) with his mighty Angels, (as he ſhall be at the laſt day, 1 Theſſ. 4. 16. when he will come to give every one according to his works, Matth. 16. 27. Mark 8. 38. and gather all the Nations of the World before him, Matth. 25. 32. Jude 14, 15.)

Τῆς δικαίας κρίσεως, of the righteous judgment of God, &c.] This place, ſaith (a) Æſtius, proves againſt the Hereticks, that Life Eternal is not ſo to be aſcribed to the Grace of God, as not to be attributed alſo to the worth and merits of Men proceeding from the Grace of God.

But the true import of theſe words will be ſufficiently contained in theſe following Particulars:

1. That the Juſtice of God obligeth him to recompenſe the Obedience and Sufferings of his faithful Servants, either in this, or in the Life to come; ſince were it otherwiſe, we could have no ſufficient Motive to Perſeve-

rance in Obedience to him, or Suffering for his ſake; and therefore this, by the Apoſtle, is laid as the Foundation of all the Service which we pay unto him, even the firm belief that God is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him, Hebr. 11. 6.

2. That ſince God doth not, and according to the nature of the thing he cannot recompenſe them in this Life, who ſuffer all Calamities and Loſes they can endure here, and even Death it ſelf for his ſake, his Juſtice will oblige him to do it in the next. Hence the Apoſtle ſaith of himſelf, and all his fellow Sufferers, If in this Life only we have hope in Chriſt, we are of all men the moſt miſerable, 1 Cor. 15. 19. and puts the queſtion thus, If the dead riſe not at all—why ſtand we in jeopardy every hour? v. 29, 30. But

3*ly*, That this Reward ſhould be for kind ſo excellent, as is the Beatifick Viſion, the being Heirs of God, joynt Heirs with Chriſt, the being like to him in glory; and for duration ſhould be eternal; can never be on the account of that ſtrict Juſtice which rendreth to every one his due, ſeeing there can be no proportion betwixt a finite Action, or Paſſion, and an infinite Reward; and therefore the ſame Apoſtle who ſaith here, ἀξιωθῆναι ὑμᾶς, we for theſe Sufferings are accounted worthy of this Kingdom, doth elſewhere poſitively declare the Sufferings of this preſent Life, οὐκ ἄξια, not worthy of the Glory which ſhall hereafter be revealed, Rom. 8. 18. Nor can the Grace of God vouchſafed to enable us thus to perſeverance in Sufferings, enhance the Merit of thoſe Sufferings, or make the Reward in juſtice due unto us; ſince if it be of Grace that we thus ſuffer, then is it not of Debt that we are thus rewarded; God being not in a ſtrict juſtice obliged to reward his own free Gifts and Graces he confers upon us. But

4*ly*, Even this Eternal Recompenſe being promiſed to thoſe who ſuffer for the ſake of Chriſt, by him who hath ſaid, Be thou faithful to the death, and I will give thee a crown of life, Rev. 2. 10. and propounded this as the chief Encouragement, thus to endure with patience to the end, becauſe great is our reward in Heaven, Matth. 5. 12. it may be ſaid, by virtue of that Promiſe to be in juſtice due to them who do thus ſuffer for it, it being a part of juſtice to perform our Promiſes, and to be faithful to our Words. This therefore is a faithful ſaying, If we ſuffer with him, we endure, we ſhall live, and reign with him, 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. And we may reſt aſſured, that God the righteous Judge will give the Crown of Righteouſneſs to us at that day, 2 Tim. 4. 8. that being approved, we ſhall receive the Crown of Life which the Lord hath promiſed to them that love him, James 1. 12. But then God being not obliged in ſtrict juſtice to promiſe ſo great a Recompenſe, he cannot be ſaid to confer it ex dignitate, merito, aut æqualitate Rei, by reaſon of the dignity or worth of theſe our Sufferings, or becauſe the Reward is only equal to the Merit of them, but only ex juſtitia pacti, becauſe his Promiſe hath made it juſt and equal for him ſo to do.

Ver. 8. (When he ſhall come, I ſay,) in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them (among the Heathens) who know not God, and (of thoſe Jews and Gentiles) who (having heard) obey not the Goſpel of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 9. Who ſhall be puniſhed with everlaſting deſtruction from the preſence of the Lord, (from whoſe bliſsful preſence they ſhall for ever be excluded, Matth. 25. 41, 46.) and (and ſhall find that deſtruction inflicted on them) by the glory of his power, (this being the time when God will make known his power, upon the Veſſels of Wrath fitted for deſtruction, Rom. 9. 23.

Ver. 10. (And it is alſo a righteous thing with him then to recompenſe to you eternal reſt,) when he ſhall come to be glorified in (his dealings with) his Saints, and to be admired (for his great love) in (and by) all them that believe, (and particularly by you,) becauſe our teſtimony was believed by you in that day.

Ver. 11. Wherefore alſo we pray always for you, that our God would count you worthy (ἀξιώσῃ τῆς κλήσεως, would make you worthy, v. 5.) of this calling (to his Kingdom and Glory,) and fulfil all the good pleaſure of his goodneſs (in you,) and the work of faith with power.

Ver. 12. That the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt may be glorified in you, (by your continuance in your faith,) and ye in him, (or by him,) according to the grace of our God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (by which you are enabled to continue in the faith, and fulfil the good pleaſure of his will.)

A DISCOURSE BY WAY OF APPENDIX TO THIS CHAPTER,

SHEWING

That the Endleſs Miſeries or Torments of the Wicked is well conſiſtent, both with the Juſtice, and the Goodneſs of God.

THE Apoſtle in this Chapter ſeems plainly to aſſert that wicked Perſons ſhall be puniſhed with everlaſting Deſtruction, and alſo to reſolve this Puniſhment into the δικαιοκρισία, or juſt Judgment of God.

Whereas it is pretended, That 'it is contrary 'to the Juſtice of God to puniſh Temporary 'Crimes with Eternal Puniſhments, becauſe 'Juſtice always obſerves a proportion be-'tween Offences and Puniſhments; but be-'tween Temporary Sins and Eternal Puniſh-'ments there is no proportion. And if it be 'hard to reconcile this with Divine Juſtice, it 'will be much more ſo to ſhew how it com-'ports with that great Goodneſs we ſuppoſe 'to be in God.

They who aſſert the Eternity of Future Torments inflicted on the Wicked, abiding in a ſtate of Miſery, attempt by ſeveral ways to anſwer this Objection. I ſhall begin with thoſe Anſwers, which to me ſeem not ſatisfactory, and briefly ſhew the Reaſons why I think they are not ſo, and then return that Anſwer which I think fully clears the Juſtice and the Goodneſs of God in this Diſpenſation from the ſtrength of this Objection. And

§ 1. 1*ſt*, Some make out the proportion thus, That 'becauſe Sin is infinite in reſpect 'of the Object againſt which it is committed, 'therefore it deſerves an infinite Puniſhment, 'now becauſe a finite Creature cannot ſuffer a 'Puniſhment which is infinite as to intention, 'therefore he ſuffers that which is infinite as 'to Extenſion or Duration.

But to this it is replied, That if all Sins be for this reaſon infinite as to demerit, then the demerit of all ſins muſt neceſſarily be equal, and ſo there muſt be equal reaſon for the pardon of all Sins; for the demerit of no Sin can be more then infinite. 2. Hence it will follow that God cannot render unto every Man according as his works ſhall be, becauſe though they commit innumerable ſins, he can only lay upon them the Puniſhment due to one only, becauſe he cannot lay upon them a Puniſhment which is more than infinite.

§ 2. 2*ly*, Others ſay, That 'if wicked Men 'lived for ever in this World, they would ſin 'for ever, and therefore they deſerve to be 'puniſhed for ever. But

1. Who can be certain of this, ſince, whilſt we live in this World, we are in a ſtate of a trial, and ſo may be in a poſſibility of repenting and growing better.

2. God hath expreſly declared that Men ſhall

ſhall be judged hereafter, not according to what they would have done had they lived longer, but according to what they actually have done in this preſent Life, according to their Works done in the Body; and ſo he hath ſufficiently declared, he doth not puniſh them for what they would have done had they lived longer, but for what they actually had done whilſt they lived. So that this Anſwer recoils thus, Wicked men, by God's declaration, are only to be puniſhed for what they did whilſt they lived here; now they did not live here for ever in a ſtate of Sin, therefore they are not to live for ever hereafter in a ſtate of Puniſhment.

§ 3. 3ly, Others ſay, That 'God having 'ſet before the Sinner Life and Death; and 'having ſo expreſly forewarned him, this 'would be the certain Conſequence of his Iniquity, he cannot charge God with Injuſtice 'in allotting to him the portion which he 'choſe, and would incur after all Admonitions 'to the contrary.

But though this may be ſufficient to ſtop the Sinner's mouth, it will do little to ſtop the mouth of Infidels, becauſe it ſeemeth not to anſwer the Objection ariſing from the diſproportion between the Fault and the Puniſhment, for it renders not the Fault leſs finite, or the Puniſhment leſs infinite, and ſo it doth not render it leſs inconſiſtent with Divine Equity and Goodneſs to threaten ſo to puniſh finite Crimes, and execute that Puniſhment upon the Sinner.

§ 4. A very great and learned Perſon hath attempted a Solution to this Objection from theſe Conſiderations.

Firſt, That 'the meaſure of Penalties is not 'to be taken from any ſtrict proportion betwixt Crimes and Puniſhments, but from 'one great end and deſign of Government, 'which is to ſecure the Obſervation of wholeſome and neceſſary Laws, and conſequently 'whatever Penalties are proper and neceſſary 'to this end, are not unjuſt.

Secondly, That 'whoſoever conſiders how 'ineffectual the threatning, even of Eternal 'Torments, is to the greateſt part of Sinners, 'will ſoon be ſatisfied that a leſs Penalty 'then that of Eternal Suffering would, to the 'far greateſt part of Mankind, have been, in 'all probability, of little or no force, and that 'if any thing more terrible could have been 'threatned to the Workers of Iniquity, it had 'not been unreaſonable, becauſe it would all 'have been little enough to deter Men effectually from ſin. But then he adds, Thirdly, That 'after all, he that threatneth 'hath ſtill the power of Execution in his own 'hands; for there is this remarkable difference betwixt Promiſes and Threatnings, 'that he who promiſeth paſſeth over a Right 'to another, and thereby ſtands obliged to him 'in juſtice and faithfulneſs to make good his 'Promiſe; but in Threatnings it is quite otherwiſe, he that threatens keeps the Right 'of Puniſhing in his own hand, and is not 'obliged to execute what he hath threatned, 'any farther than the Reaſons and Ends of 'Government do require; and he may without any injury to the Party threatned, remit 'and abate as much as he pleaſeth of the Puniſhment that he hath threatned; and becauſe in ſo doing he is not worſe, but better 'than his word, no body can find fault, or 'complain of any wrong or injuſtice thereby 'done to him.

'Nor is this any impeachment of God's 'Truth and Faithfulneſs, any more than it is 'eſteemed among Men a piece of Falſhood 'not to do what they have threatned.

But here, with ſubmiſſion to better Judgments, I conceive are many things propounded which are not exactly true, or reach not the Objection, ſince that relates not to God's Threats of Puniſhment, but to his Execution of the threatned Puniſhment.

And 1ſt, When it is ſaid that what proportion ought to be appointed betwixt Crimes and Penalties, is not ſo properly a conſideration of Juſtice, as of Prudence in the Law-giver; and thence inferr'd, that whatever the diſproportion may be between Temporary Sins, and Eternal Puniſhments, Juſtice cannot be ſaid to be concerned in it;

It is owned, That by the Sanctions annexed to his Laws, the Law-giver deſigns the preſervation of his Laws from being violated, which is an effect of Prudence, but ſtill of Prudence tempered with Equity, not unregardleſs of it, ſince it cannot be Prudence to threaten what I know I cannot juſtly execute; for this in Humane Laws doth null the Penalty; and could it be ſuppoſed in Divine, would even fruſtrate the end of all God's Threats, ſince every Body would reſt aſſured that a juſt God would never execute them.

But 2ly, The Execution of the threatned Judgment, which is the only thing againſt which the Objection lies, is certainly an act of diſtributive Juſtice, and is ſo repreſented in the Holy Scriptures, when it is ſaid to be done according to our works, and according as our works ſhall be, Rom. 2. 16. 2 Cor. 5. 10. Rev. 22. 12. Matth. 16. 27. And when it is declared to be δικαιοκρισία, the juſt Judgment of God, and δίκαιον παρὰ τῷ Θεῷ juſt with God to render this vengeance to thoſe that obey not the Goſpel, which conſiſts in their everlaſting deſtruction, 2 Theſſ. 1. 6, 8, 9. So that though Prudence was properly concerned in promulging the Penalty, becauſe 'tis Prudence which directs us to chooſe the Means moſt proper to the End we aim at, yet ſeeing the primary end of the Law-giver, i. e. the preventing the tranſgreſſing of his

Law

Law is wholly loſt, and entirely defeated before this Puniſhment comes to be executed, Juſtice alone can be concerned in the Execution of it; and if the continuance of the Sinner under Miſery for ever, be the Execution of the threatned Puniſhment, Juſtice alone can be concerned in the ſubjection of the Sinner to that Puniſhment; ſo far is it from being true, that if Prudence be requiſite for the proportioning Penalties to Crimes, Juſtice cannot be concerned in the diſproportion that may be between them, and much leſs that it cannot be concerned in executing a Penalty which bears ſo great a diſproportion to the Crime.

I confeſs alſo, that in Humane Governments, Prudence may fitly be call'd in to deliberate; not whether it be lawful, but whether it be expedient to execute the threatned Penalty; as when the Government is feeble, and the Multitude, or Power of Offenders, may render it hazardous to do Juſtice on them; but nothing of this nature can happen in Theocracy, where there can neither be a want of Wiſdom in appointing, or Equity in proportionating the Penalty to the Offences, and much leſs want of Power to execute what in his Equity and Wiſdom he ſaw fit to threaten.

2*ly*, When it is ſaid, That a leſs Penalty then Eternal Sufferings would not have been ſufficient to deter Men from ſin, and therefore it could not be unreaſonable, but rather ſuitable to Divine Prudence to threaten theſe Eternal Miſeries.

I am not willing to admit that God ſhould threaten what he knows he cannot, with conſiſtence to his Juſtice, or his Goodneſs, Execute; this being in effect to threaten in this wiſe, If you will do to me what you in juſtice ought not to do, I will execute upon you what I in juſtice ought not to do to you. 'Tis alſo to inſinuate, that an All-wiſe God could not ſo well provide for Humane Government, or carry on his great Deſigns without abuſing Mens credulity, and ſcaring them with dreadful Expectations of what he never did intend to execute. Laſtly, This ſeemeth even to inſinuate, that Prudence in God may act without regard to Equity and Goodneſs, and even be ſeparated from them, as it muſt be in appointing, and even proportionating thoſe Penalties to Crimes, which it is not conſiſtent with his Equity or Goodneſs to inflict.

3*ly*, When it is added, That God is not obliged to execute what he hath threatned, any farther than the Reaſons and the Ends of Government do require, and that he may, without any injury to the Party threatned, remit and abate as much as he pleaſeth of the Puniſhment that he hath threatned, and that without any Impeachment of his Truth and Faithfulneſs.

This I allow of in the Caſe of Temporal Puniſhments in this World deſigned not for Exciſion, but the Amendment of the Sinner; becauſe there may be a juſt ground for the Remiſſion of ſuch threatned Penalties, even the Repentance and Reformation of the Sinner, by which the primary end of all God's Threats in ſome good meaſure is obtained. And alſo becauſe theſe Threats, in what Expreſſions ſoever they are made, if they be only Threats, are ſtill conditional, the meaning of them being only this, I will inflict this Judgment if you repent not of your evil ways; For at what inſtant I ſhall ſpeak, ſaith God, againſt a Nation, and concerning a Kingdom, to pluck up, to pull down, and to deſtroy it, if that Nation againſt which I have pronounced theſe things, turn from their evil ways, I will repent me of the evil which I thought to do unto them, Jer. 18. 7, 8. And again, When I ſay unto the Wicked, O wicked Man, thou ſhalt ſurely die, if he do not turn from his way he ſhall die in his iniquity. Say therefore, to them, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, I have no pleaſure in the death of him that dieth, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; wherefore turn your ſelves, and live ye, Ezek. 18. 32. 33. 8, 9, 11. 3*ly*, Becauſe God threatneth Judgments, not that he takes any pleaſure in his Puniſhments, but rather to awaken and reform the Sinner: When therefore by his Comminations he hath wrought this good Effect upon him, it is not to be wondred that he doth not proceed to execute that Judgment which hath already done its work by being threatned. And all this well comports, not only with Divine Juſtice, but alſo with his Immutability and Truth, becauſe this Reformation and Repentance changes the ſubject of the Threat; the change in every inſtance of this nature being not in God, but Man. Thus v. g. we cannot charge God with Mutability, becauſe he doth not execute the threatned Judgment on repenting Nineveh, becauſe it was impenitent, and not repenting Niniveh he threatned; nor with Injuſtice, becauſe 'twas only her Impenitence which rendred her the proper Object of vindictive Juſtice.

But then this Notion ſeems to be ſtretched too far when 'tis extended to God's Threats of Future and Eternal Puniſhments to be inflicted upon thoſe who die in an impenitent and unreformed eſtate. For righteous Judgment, God will give to every one according to his works; to them that obey not the truth, but obey unrighteouſneſs, indignation, and wrath, Rom. 2. 5, 6, 7, 8. to them that obey not the Goſpel, everlaſting deſtruction. Theſe Threats are plainly made to thoſe who die in their impenitence and diſobedience, by that God who will judge every Man according to his works, declaring that in the Day of the Revelation of his Wrath and righteous Judgment, they ſhall periſh everlaſtingly, becauſe through the hardneſs and impenitency of their hearts they have treaſured up Wrath againſt the Day of Wrath, and rendred themſelves Veſſels of his Wrath, fitted for deſtruction. Can it be reaſonably ſaid then, becauſe God does them no injury if he do not execute this Wrath upon them, that though they do not repent, they may not periſh; that Indignation and Wrath may not be the Portion of the Diſobedient, and that this righteous Judge may not give to them according to their Works? May we not rather ſay unto them, as doth this very Perſon in another place, (a) If thou continueſt impenitent, however he may defer the execution of Temporal Evils, his Truth and Veracity is concerned to inflict Eternal Puniſhments upon thee?

2*ly*, God's Threats of Everlaſting Miſeries have for their Object the Impenitent, and therefore do exclude the Suppoſition of any change in them, which may induce God to remit, or to rebate the threatned Judgment: If then this Puniſhment may be remitted to them, either in part, or in whole, it muſt be either by a change in God, or by a ſecret intention in him, not to inflict what he thus threatneth. That there was in God no ſuch ſecret Intention, this learned Perſon thus declares, by ſaying, (b) When God did threaten, he ſpake what he did really purpoſe and intend, if ſomething did not intervene to prevent the Judgment threatned. And indeed, theſe Threats declaring what the righteous God will do, and what they who are finally impenitent and diſobedient ſhall ſuffer, ſuch a Secret will muſt plainly be repugnant to his revealed Will, and therefore muſt ſuppoſe in God two contrary Wills. Moreover, to ſay that ſuch a Secret Intention may be in God, notwithſtanding theſe Declarations to the contrary, is in great meaſure to enervate even the primary Intention of theſe Threats, viz. the deterring the Sinner, by the greatneſs and duration of them, from a continuance in his Sin; for this Intention, if it may be in God, it follows that it may be his Will not to inflict what he hath threatned to the Sinner; now ſo much hopes as you give the impenitent Sinner that he may eſcape Eternal Puniſhment, ſo much encouragement you give him to continue ſtill in his Impenitence. Now (c) the belief of the Threatnings of God in their utmoſt extent, is of ſo great moment to a good Life, and ſo great a diſcouragement to Sin, ſaith this Reverend Perſon, that if Men were once ſet free from the fear and belief of this, the moſt powerful Reſtraint from Sin would be taken away.

That this cannot be expected by reaſon of any change in God, this excellent Perſon thus declares, and evinceth: (d) 'Let but 'the Sinner conſider what God is, and his 'unchangeable Nature muſt needs terrifie 'him; he is an Holy God, who therefore 'hateth all the Workers of Iniquity. A juſt 'God, who will by no means clear the guilty, 'nor let the Sinner go unpuniſhed. He is alſo 'Omnipotent, and able to execute the Ven'geance threatned againſt Sinners. And, 'which gives a ſad Accent to all this, he 'that is thus Holy, and Juſt, and Powerful, 'continues ever the ſame; he will never 'ceaſe to hate Iniquity, and to be an implacable Enemy to all Impenitent Sinners.—— 'Let (then) all obſtinate Sinners hear this, 'and tremble; you cannot be more obſtinately bent to continue in your ways, than 'God is peremptorily reſolved to make you 'miſerable; if you be determined on a ſinful Courſe, God is alſo determined how 'he will deal with you; that he will not 'ſpare, but that his Anger and Jealouſie ſhall 'ſmoke againſt you; and that all the Curſes 'which are written in this Book ſhall light 'upon you. 'He hath ſworn in his Wrath, 'that unbelieving and impenitent Sinners 'ſhall not enter into his Reſt; and for the 'greater aſſurance of the thing, and that we 'may not think that there is any Condition 'implied in theſe Threatnings, he hath confirmed them by an Oath, that by this immutable Sign, in which it is impoſſible for 'God to lie, Sinners might have ſtrong Terrors, and not be able to flie to any hopes of 'Refuge.

3*ly*, Either God may in Juſtice inflict upon the Wicked theſe Puniſhments which he hath threatned, or elſe it is unjuſt in God to execute upon them the Judgment written, i.e. the Puniſhment which he hath threatned to them in the Word of Truth. If it be ſaid it is unjuſt in God to execute them on the Sinner dying in his Impenitence, either we cannot be obliged to believe that Word in which theſe Threats are contained; or elſe an Obligation muſt lie upon us to believe that God will act unjuſtly. If, to avoid this, it be ſaid theſe Threats do not diſcover certainly what God will do, but only what the Sinner doth deſerve to ſuffer, read them once more, and you will find that they expreſly ſay of thoſe who ſhall be at the Great Day condemned, That they ſhall go away into Eternal Puniſhment, Matth. 25. 46. That they ſhall be puniſhed with Eternal Deſtruction from the Preſence of the Lord, 2 Theſſ. 1. 8. And that they ſhall be tormented Day and Night for ever and ever, Rev. 14. 10,11. 20.10.

Moreover, when our Saviour argues thus to induce Men to cut off their offending Hands, and pluck out their offending Eyes; 'tis better to enter into Life halt, and maimed, then to be caſt into Eternal Fire, or into Hell, where the Worm dieth not, and where the Fire is not quenched, Matth. 18. 8, 9. doth he not ſufficiently inform us there is an abſolute neceſſity of doing the one, or ſuffering the other? When he ſaith, He that blaſphemeth againſt the Holy Ghoſt, ſhall never be forgiven in this, or in the World to come, but ſhall be obnoxious to Eternal Judgment, Matth. 12. 32. Mark 3. 29. doth he not inſinuate, that he who never is forgiven, muſt be for ever ſubject to this Judgment? It is therefore certain, that our Judge hath expreſly taught us, not only that the impenitent Sinner doth deſerve, but that he ſhall actually ſuffer the Worm that never dies, the Fire that ſhall not be quenched.

If God in juſtice may inflict upon the Wicked theſe Puniſhments which he hath threatned, then the Objection cannot need this Anſwer; yea, what can move him not to inflict what he by Threatning hath engaged his Truth to do? what, I ſay, can move him to do it, but an Act of Mercy exerciſed to them, of whom the Scripture ſaith, they ſhall have Judgment without Mercy, Jam. 2.13. what but remiſſion of that Sin, which, ſaith the Scripture, ſhall never be remitted? What but Mercy in the Day of Wrath and Judgment? What but Remiſſion exerciſed to the impenitent without an Intereſt in the Blood of our Redemption? to which Imaginations I conceive the Scripture give but little countenance.

Nor are we to conclude, That the Non-execution of theſe Threats lays no impeachment on God's Truth and Faithfulneſs, becauſe it is not eſteemed among Men a piece of falſhood not to do what they have threatned. For Men may reaſonably be moved to remit their Threatnings, becauſe they oft are made in Paſſion, or may exceed the Rules of Juſtice; but theſe are things not incident to an All-perfect God; or becauſe the Perſon threatned repents, begs pardon, and returns unto his Duty, which the damned cannot be ſuppoſed to do.

§ 5. It is farther ſaid, in anſwer to this Objection, that macula peccati eſt æterna, the ſtain of them, who die in their Impenitence, will be perpetual, and he that dies thus filthy, will be filthy ſtill; now it ſeems equitable, that, is qui nunquam deſinit eſſe malus, nunquam deſineret eſſe miſer, he who never ceaſes to be wicked, ſhould never ceaſe to be miſerable. Now this, rightly explained, affords a clear and ſatisfactory Anſwer to the Objection, as ſhewing that the Sinner becomes for ever miſerable, not by any poſitive Act of God inflicting everlaſting Stripes upon him, or loading him perpetually with freſh Torments, but wholly from his own Sin, which renders him uncapable of the enjoyment of an holy God, and ſo perpetually excluded from his bliſsful Preſence, which to a Soul that is immortal, and can never die, muſt be the Source of Everlaſting Torment, and, from the natural workings of its Faculties, will neceſſarily ſubject it to the Worm that never dies.

I own, and really believe, that poſitive Torments, ſuch as the Schools call Pœna ſenſus, ſhall be inflicted on the Body; but then I have inſinuated my preſent Notion of them to be this:

1ſt, That theſe Poſitive Torments on the Body are not to begin until the raiſing of the Body, when Chriſt ſhall come in flaming Fire to take vengeance on them who would not obey his Goſpel, the World that now is being reſerved to be ſet on fire, for the Day of Judgment, and Perdition of ungodly Men. At which time I conceive the Righteous ſhall be ſnatched up into the Air, and be for ever with the Lord, 1 Theſſ. 4. 17. and the Wicked ſhall be left to the devouring Flames. See for this, the Note on 2 Pet. 3. 7.

2ly, I alſo do conjecture that this Fire may be called Eternal, not that the Bodies of the Wicked ſhall be for ever burning in it, and never be conſumed by it, ſince this cannot be done without a conſtant Miracle; but becauſe it ſhall ſo entirely conſume their Bodies, as that they never ſhall ſubſiſt again, but ſhall periſh, and be deſtroyed for ever by it. In which ſenſe Sodom and Gomorrah were ſet forth for an Example, ſuffering the Vengeance of Eternal Fire. See the Note on Jude v. 7. And if ſo, this Puniſhment being only temporary, the Objection doth not lye againſt it, God being no more obliged either in juſtice, or in goodneſs, to ſnatch the Wicked out of theſe Flames when they thus kindle on them, then he was to ſnatch the Wicked of the old World out of that Deluge which overwhelm'd them. Theſe I call my Conjectures, or my private Sentiments. But then I add, as certain matter of my faith,

1*ſt*, That the Soul, even from the time of its ſeparation from the Body, in its impenitency, ſhall find it ſelf in ſuch a diſmal ſtate, as ſhall then fill it with perpetual horror, and dreadful expectation of the Puniſhment which God hath threatned to the Wicked. And thus it ſhall be like thoſe Devils which believe and tremble, James 2. 19. as knowing that there is reſerved for them a time of Torment, Matth. 8. 29.

2*ly*, That when the final Sentance ſhall be paſt upon the Wicked, and they ſhall be for ever ſeparated from the Preſence of the Lord, their Souls ſhall be perpetually ſubject to the height of Miſery, or to that Worm which never dies; and that this Miſery will be the natural, and the perpetual reſult of ſuch a Separation.

To explain this let it be conſidered,

1. That there is ſcarce any thing in which the Heathen Moraliſts ſo univerſally accord, as in this fixed Rule, μὴ καθαρῷ καθαρᾶς ἐπιπλέειν μὴ ἐ ἀμύητον, that an impure Soul can have no commerce with a pure God; and that it is not congruous to his Nature to admit ſuch Souls into his Preſence. And this Aſſertion is built upon a ſure and inconteſtible Foundation; for ſeeing God is abſolute in Holineſs, he cannot but retain the greateſt hatred to, and abhorrence of all Actions, and Perſons that are unrighteous, and impure; and ſince his Nature is immutable, his Holineſs unchangeable, he muſt for ever hate, with a moſt perfect hatred, whatſoever is unholy, and impure; and therefore to ſuppoſe an interruption of his hatred of evil doers, is to imagine he can ceaſe to be a pure and holy God. Conſider

2. That the Soul of wicked Men being immortal, muſt abide for ever, if it be not annihilated, and that God neither is obliged to annihilate it, nor hath he any where declared that he will do ſo.

I ſay, he is not obliged to annihilate the Souls of wicked men, for then it muſt be ſo on this account, becauſe he is obliged to put them out of that Miſery which they have brought upon themſelves by their own folly, and rebellions; and if ſo, ſince this muſt certainly be an act, not of ſtrict Juſtice, but of Grace and Favour, God muſt be bound to ſhew an act of Grace and Favour towards Men, purely becauſe they have provoked and rebell'd againſt him, i. e. becauſe they have done that which renders them the proper Objects of his hatred, and his indignation, and be obliged to ſave Men from that Miſery which by their ſtubborn diſobedience to all his Calls, and Admonitions, his Exhotrations, and all the gracious Methods his Providence had uſed to preſerve them from it, they willfully have brought upon themſelves. Whereas indeed the riches of his goodneſs being deſigned to lead Men to Repentance, or to encourage them in ways of Holineſs and Piety, hath only for its proper Object ſuch as are capable of being made the better by it, it cannot therefore be the Goodneſs and Mercy of a God to ſhew kindneſs to Perſons obſtinately and incorrigibly wicked, becauſe it cannot be the Goodneſs and Mercy of a Being infinitely juſt and holy; for ſeeing all the Divine Perfections muſt agree together, that cannot be a Divine Perfection which contradicts any other Perfection.

The original of our Miſtakes in Matters of this Nature, ſeems to ariſe from our own Imperfection, which naturally leads us to conſider of the Divine Attributes apart, and as it were in ſeparation from each other, and by ſo doing, to frame ſuch wide and large Notions of the one, as to exclude the other. Whereas indeed they ought to be conſidered as really they are in God himſelf, i. e. Goodneſs and Mercy joyned with infinite Holineſs and Juſtice; and as it is the Goodneſs and Mercy of a Law-giver, Governour, and Righteous Judge, which never regularly can be exerciſed without ſome proſpect of reclaiming, or doing good unto the Object of it. And thus 'tis well conſiſtent with the Prayer of David, Be not thou merciful to them that offend of malicious wickedneſs, Pſal. 59. 5.

§ 6. I add, That God hath not declared in Scripture that he will annihilate the Souls of wicked Men, or that this is the Puniſhment which he deſigneth to inflict upon them; this is generally ſaid to be the Doctrine of the Socinians; though (e) Crellius expreſly ſays, Animas impiorum Deum poſt judicium annihilaturum nec Scriptura aſſerit, nec ratio evincit, That neither Reaſon doth evince, or Scripture aſſert it, will be ſo. And Object. 1. 'Tis certain that this follows not from any of thoſe places of the Old Teſtament in which the Dead are ſaid to be no more, or not to be; as v. g. Let the Sinners be conſumed out of the Earth, and let the wicked be no more, Pſal. 104. 35. Our Fathers have ſinned, and are not, Lam. 5. 7. I have made Eſau bare —— his Seed is ſpoiled, and he is not, Jer. 49. 10. See Chap. 10. 20. 35. 15.

For (1.) If any of theſe places ſpeak of Annihilation, they muſt ſpeak of ſuch a one as was then paſs'd already, and ſo is inconſiſtent with the future Judgment of thoſe Perſons, becauſe it is not ſaid they ſhall not be, but they are not; they therefore cannot refer to any future Annihilation at the Day of Judgment.

2. Then muſt the Righteous be annihilated

as well as the Wicked; for of righteous Enoch it is ſaid, He walked before God, and was not, Gen. 5. 24. of Joſeph, One is not, Gen. 42. 13. and David, prays thus for himſelf, O ſpare me a little that I may recover my ſtrength, before I go hence and be not, Pſal. 39. 13. 'Tis therefore evident theſe places only were intended to import, thoſe Perſons were not in the Land of the Living.

Object. 2. But, 'tis objected, That the Wicked after the Reſurrection ſhall be puniſh'd with the ſecond Death, wherefore they cannot in any proper ſenſe be ſaid to live, and to ſubſiſt, and to have ſenſe of Pain, this being not conſiſtent with a ſtate of Death.

Anſw. I anſwer, 1. That this ſecond Death cannot conſiſt in the annihilation of the Wicked, or in their exemption from all ſenſe of Puniſhment, becauſe 'tis promiſed that He who overcometh ſhall not be hurt by the ſecond Death, Rev. 2.11. whence it is manifeſt that they who die this ſecond Death, ſhall be hurt by it; but were it to the Wicked, condemned to an Eternal Separation from God, and from all hopes of Happineſs, a Concluſion of their Being, and of all ſenſe of Miſery, it would be no more hurtful, but highly beneficial to them, as being a Concluſion of that Life which they muſt otherwiſe have ſpent in endleſs Miſery. Moreover, thoſe very Torments which the Damned ſuffer are declared to be the ſecond Death, and wicked Men are therefore ſaid to die the ſecond Death, becauſe they do endure Eternal Torments; for the fearful and unbelievers, &c. ſhall have their part in that Lake of Fire and Brimſtone which is the ſecond Death, Rev. 21. 8. This Death then, when it is threatned as the final Puniſhment of the Wicked, cannnot import a State of Non exiſtence, or Inſenſibility, but only an unhappy miſerable State, a Separation of the Soul from him who is the Fountain of our Life, and all our Comforts; an abſolute Excluſion from that Felicity which only renders Life a Bleſſing, and a Life of Infelicity and Miſery. To make this ſtill more evident, Conſider 2*ly*, That this is a Jewiſh Phraſe, uſed often by, and borrowed from the Ancient Hebrews, with whom it doth import the Puniſhment of damned Perſons in the Life to come. So Deut. 33. 6. Let Reuben live, and not die the ſecond death, ſaith the Targum of Onkelos; i. e. let him not die the death with the wicked: Die in the Age to come, ſaith the Targum of B. Uziel. Let him not die the ſecond death which the wicked die in the Age to come, ſaith the Jeruſalem Targum. Now that the death of the Wicked, in the Age to come, did really ſubject them to Eternal Torments, the Jews ſtill thought, as is apparent not only from the plain Teſtimony of (f) Joſephus, who ſaith the Phariſees aſſigned to the wicked εἱργμὸν ἀΐδιον, an Eternal Priſon, in which they were to be tormented, (g) αἰδίῳ τιμωρίᾳ, with Eternal Puniſhment; and from Philo, who ſaith, that ſome conceive Death to be the laſt of Puniſhments, whereas it ſcarcely deſerveth to be named the beginning of them, ſeeing the Puniſhment reſerved for the wicked Perſon is ζῶν ἀποθνήσκοντα ἀεὶ, ἀντὶ πρόσκαιρον τινα θάνατον ἀτέλευτον ἀτέλεστον, to live for ever in a dying ſtate, and ſuffer ſuch a death as hath no end; but alſo from the Apocryphal Books, which ſay, κλαύσονται ἐν αἰδίοις τοῖς αἰῶσιν, they ſhall feel them, and weep for ever, Judith 16. 17. So again, Iſa. 22. 14. This ſin ſhall not be forgiven till the ſecond death; that is, ſaith Kimchi, till the Soul dieth in the World to come. And Chap. 65. 5. 6, 15. of the ſame Perſons it is ſaid, God will kill them with the ſecond death, and he will deliver them up to the puniſhment of Hell, where the fire burneth all the day.

Object. It further is objected, That Eternal Life is ſaid to be peculiar to the Saints in Bliſs, whereas unto the Wicked it is threatned that they ſhall not ſee Life, John 3.36.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, That Life in Scripture, when it is mentioned as the End of our Faith, and the Reward of our Obedience, is not intended only to ſignifie our permanence in Being, but to aſſure us of our advancement to a ſtate of Happineſs, and is equivalent to Everlaſting Life. So to the Lawyer asking, What good thing ſhall I do that I may inherit eternal life? our Saviour anſwers, Do this, and thou ſhalt live, Luke 10. 25, 28. So Chriſt ſaith, He that eateth me ſhall live by me, John 6. 57. i. e He ſhall live for ever, v. 58. I came that my ſheep might have Life, John 10. 10. I give unto them life eternal, v. 28. And that this is the Life denied to the Wicked, John 3. 36 is evident from the precedent words of the ſame Verſe, He that believeth on the Son hath everlaſting life; but he that believeth not the Son, ſhall not ſee life. This is a Phraſe ſo known, and this uſe of it is ſo frequent, ſaith Maimonides, that hence our Maſters ſay, The juſt are ſtiled living in their death, becauſe they then are happy. And that the Phraſe, Not to ſee Life, cannot import a ſtate of Non-exiſtence, or Inſenſibility, is evident, becauſe 'tis ſaid of them who do not ſee Life, that the Wrath of God abideth on them, they therefore muſt abide under a ſenſe of it.

Obj. 4. Laſtly, It is objected, That the Wicked are in Scripture ſaid to periſh utterly, 2 Pet. 2. 12. and to be puniſhed with everlaſting deſtruction, now theſe Expreſſions ſeem to ſignifie a deprivation of all ſenſe and being.

Anſw.

Anſw. But nothing is more common, both in Greek and Latin, and in other Languages then to ſay, when we conceive our future Life is likely to be miſerable. ὄλλυμι, perij, I am undone, I periſh. See the Note of (i) Taubman upon thoſe words of Plautus, Qui per virtutem perit, is non interit. That only in this moral ſenſe the damned are in Scripture ſaid to periſh, viz. by having all their hopes of future Happineſs deſtroyed, and being ſentenced to thoſe Torments which are exceedingly more heavy than the loſs of Being, is evident, firſt, from the Scripture, which inform us, that to caſt the Soul and Body into Hell fire, is to deſtroy them, as is apparent from theſe two Expreſſions, Fear him who can deſtroy both Soul and Body in Hell fire, Matth. 10. 28. who after he hath killed, hath power to caſt into Hell, ſaith St. Luke, Chap. 12. 5. that is, into that place where the Worm dieth not, and where the Fire is not quenched. Moreover, the Devils put the queſtion to our Saviour thus, ἦλθες ἀπολέσαι ἡμᾶς, art thou come to deſtroy us before the time, Luke 4. 34. and yet that to deſtroy is only βασανίσαι to torment them, is evident from the ſame queſtion recited by St. Matthew thus, Art thou come to torment us before the time, Chap. 8. 29. And had the Devils thought, that at Chriſt's coming they might have been reduced into the ſtate of Non-exiſtence, or Inſenſibility, they could have had no reaſon to dread, or deprecate ſo vehemently that Perdition which would ſo long ago have freed them from that Horror which they ſtill endure.

Moreover, this Opinion is ſo far from being contained in the Holy Scripture, that it is plainly contrary to many things contained in Scripture: For, (1.) The Scripture plainly intimates, ſome in the other World ſhall ſuffer more, ſome leſs; for it ſhall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the Day of Judgment then for Capernaum, Matth. 11. 21—25. that ſome ſhall be be beaten with fewer, ſome with many ſtripes, Luke 12. 47, 48. ſome ſhall receive greater damnation than others, Matth. 23. 14. But if Annihilation only be the ſecond Death, the Puniſhment, and Perdition threatned to Sinners in the other World, they muſt all ſuffer equally, becauſe there no degrees of Annihalation, or not Being, then all will equally not be, or loſe their Being, and nothing by Annihilation can loſe more. 2*ly*, It is ſaid of the Wicked, that they ſhall be caſt into the place where their Worm dieth not; of them that ſhall not ſee Life, that the wrath of God abideth on them; of them that are caſt out into utter Darkneſs, that there is weeping and wailing. Now that of the Schools is abſolutely true, that non entis nullæ ſunt affectiones, that which is not, cannot be in Miſery; that which abides not, cannot abide under the wrath of God, that which ſo dieth, as to ceaſe to be, cannot be ſubject to a Worm that dieth not, whatever be the import of that Phraſe. Conſider

§ 7. 2*ly*, That we have two Paſſions of the Soul which are ſtill converſant about Good preſent, and to come, viz. deſire of the Good we want, and joy in that which we at preſent have. When therefore we are in a ſtate in which we cannot poſſibly enjoy the Good we above all things want, and naturally deſire, we muſt for ever lye under the torment of Diſſatisfaction and Deſpair; and when we fall into that ſtate in which we can enjoy no comfortable, or real Good, we never can have any joy. Again, we have two other Paſſions which are imployed about a preſent, or a future Evil; Fear that it may befal us, and Grief when it hath actually taken hold upon us. It therefore being natural to all Men to deſire to be freed from an afflictive Evil, when they lye under it without all hopes or proſpect of any end of, or deliverance from the worſt of Evils, they muſt be ſwallowed up of Grief; and when their Guilt hath rendred them ſtill obnoxious to the Divine Diſpleaſure, they muſt be ſubject to Eternal Fears. Conſider

3*ly*, That the proper Action of the Soul is Thought, and that whilſt ſhe continues, ſhe muſt be conſcious to her ſelf of her own Actions; when then the Soul hath nothing comfortable to imploy its Thoughts upon, but an Eternal Scene of Miſery, to which her wilful Sin and Folly hath everlaſtingly confined her, to be the doleful Subject of her continual Reflections, when ſhe hath nothing to divert her from theſe rueful Thoughts, ſhe muſt become an endleſs Torment to her ſelf. Now from theſe three Conſiderations it will demonſtrably follow, that the Soul which in this Life hath not been purged from the Dominion, or the Guilt of Sin, and therefore is excluded from a State of of Happineſs, and from Enjoyment of that God in whom its Happineſs conſiſts muſt be for ever miſerable.

For it muſt be perpetually tormented with the Thoughts of its Eternal Separation from God's bliſsful Preſence, and it's Excluſion from the State of Happineſs which Saints made perfect do enjoy. Now, as an Heathen (k) Plutarch puts the queſtion, Muſt it not be very ſad to be deprived of the hope of ever- laſting Bleſſings, and be excluded from the com-greateſt Happineſs? Were the damned obnoxious to no other Puniſhments beſides this loſs, even this would beget in them ſuch a Worm of Conſcience, as would perpetually ſubject them to the worſt of Miſeries: As will be evident if we conſider,

1. That the earneſt and impetuous deſire which is in all Men to be happy, is rooted in their very Nature, and therefore muſt continue as long as they retain that Nature, and yet it is impoſſible that this deſire ſhould in the leaſt be gratified, when we are once condemned to an Eternal Separation from the Place and Object of our Happineſs, there being no hopes that they ſhould ever ſee his Face, who at the coming of their Judge ſhall be puniſhed with everlaſting deſtruction from the preſence of the Lord. Now the Wiſeman tells us, that even hope deferr'd makes the heart ſick, Prov. 13. 12. Hope therefore irrecoverably diſappointed muſt create in it an exceſs of torment. A wicked Cain accounted it an unſupportable Calamity to be excluded from God's gracious Preſence here on Earth; My puniſhment, ſaith he, is greater than I am able to bear, for from thy face ſhall I be hid, Gen. 4. 13, 14. How dreadful therefore muſt that Sentence be, which doth eternally exclude us from his bliſsful Preſence, and force us to a continual deſpair of that which we moſt ardently deſire? For as it is one great Ingredient of our future Happineſs, that it is that which never can be loſt, ſo muſt it be a ſignal aggravation of our future Miſery, and loſs of Happineſs, to know it is irreparable.

2. This loſs will be enhanſed from the great Change the other World will make in our Condition. The Terrors of an awakened and guilty Conſcience, even in this Life, are very grievous; but here we may be able to mitigate the gripings of it by the Society of others, or by the Pleaſures of the World; we may deceive it with falſe Opinions, and flatter it with falſe Hopes and Promiſes of Reformation and Amendment; but when we are paſſed hence into another World, our vain Imaginations will be all confuted, our Hopes of Reformation will be at an end, and we ſhall be eternally deprived of all thoſe Enjoyments in which we once placed our Happineſs, and ſhall have nothing to divert us from our ſaddeſt Thoughts: Now, what Condition can be more deplorable than this, viz. to be deprived of all thoſe Comforts in which we placed our former Happineſs, and find it utterly impoſſible to purchaſe the leaſt glimpſe of real Happineſs, or to divert our Thoughts from a continual Remorſe for our irreparable loſs.

For 3*ly*, The Sinner's memory reflecting on this Puniſhment of loſs, will create freſh and never ceaſing Torments to him. It will torment him to remember what an ineſtimable Bleſſing he hath loſt, in loſing the Enjoyment of that God who is the chiefeſt Good, and of that Happineſs which paſſeth Underſtanding; for the greater ſtill we apprehend the Good to be, the greater will the Trouble we endure be, when we have wholly loſt the hopes of its Enjoyment. Again, It will add ſtill to the Torment of the Sinner, to conſider that he hath exchanged this exceeding, and eternal weight of Glory, for things of no intrinſick value and duration; that for the Pleaſures of a moment, which are now turned into Sadneſs, he ſhould forego thoſe Pleaſures which run at God's right hand for ever; that for a little fading Earth, which he ſoon left behind him, he ſhould deprive himſelf of an Inheritance incorruptible, reſerved in the Heavens for him. It alſo will Torment him to conſider in what a fair Capacity he was once placed of being happy; what frequent Calls and Invitations he hath had to be for ever ſo; what Importunity the God of Heaven uſed to bring him thither; and with what ſtiffneſs he reſiſted all theſe gracious Motions; Theſe, and ſuch like Conſiderations, will fill the miſerable Soul with conſtant Matter of moſt ſad Reflections. Note, ſaith the (1) Heathen Orator, ſuppoſe a Perſon ſubject to the extreameſt Miſeries which can be incident to Soul and Body, without all hope of the alleviation of this Miſery, or expectation of any future Good, and what can be imagined farther to compleat his Miſery?

And now to anſwer the Objection, by removing the foundation of it: Hence it is eaſie to demonſtrate, that all theſe Evils which the Soul ſuffers after Death, may rather be eſteemed the neceſſary Conſequents, than poſitive and formal Puniſhments of Sin by an immediate Hand of God. For inſtance, that Souls departed are deprived of the Love of God, are Objects of his Wrath, and are excluded from his Preſence, happeneth not meerly becauſe they are Souls ſeparated from the Body; for pious Souls, after their Separation, are entirely exempted from theſe Evils; but this ariſeth from the natural Purity and Holineſs of God, which renders it incongruous to him to admit ſuch only into his Preſence, and the defilement and impurity which theſe unhappy Souls lye under, and by which they are rendred unable to converſe with the God of Holineſs. The Worm of Conſcience, the Deſparation, the direful Expectations which follow from this ſenſe of Loſs, and the Divine Diſpleaſure are alſo the natural Reſults of the Soul's Separation in an impure and unſanctified Condition, and therefore being filthy ſtill. Moreover, it being natural to all Men, ſay the very (m) Heathens, to give good things to them they love, and in whom they delight, and to inflict evil things on thoſe to whom they ſtand affected contrariwiſe, How can it be, but that the Soul thus conſcious of thoſe abominable things which the Lord hates, and which moſt juſtly have incenſed this righteous Judge, ſhould live under moſt dreadful Expectations of his Wrath? Now, true is that of the Tragedian, Pœnas dat qui expectat, qui autem meruit expectat; He ſuffers whoſe Conſcience tells him he deſerves, and therefore cannot but expect to ſuffer. Laſtly, That he is thus to be eternally a Torment to himſelf, ariſeth from the Immortality of the Soul, which cannot ceaſe to be without an immediate Diſſolution from the Hand of God, and whilſt it doth continue, cannot ceaſe to be deſirous of that Happineſs from which it will for ever be excluded, or ceaſe to be tormented with the Thoughts of that ſtupendious Folly which did ſubject it to this heavy Doom.

Con-

And now what a poor comfort is it to the Sinner to laugh at what is ſaid touching Hell fire, and a Lake of Brimſtone, as unphiloſophical, and ſay that theſe are things improper to torment a Spiritual Soul, if undeniably it may be ſubject to the loſs of all that is deſirable to make it happy, to endleſs Grief, to remedileſs Remorſe, and dreadful Expectations of the Wrath of God, and a perpetual Deſpair of being ever freed from theſe tormenting Evils, which, as the Heathen hath obſerved, are πυρὸς καὶ σιδήρου βιαιότερα, more violent and inſupportable than any Puniſhment by Fire and Sword? What if the Fire in which the Bodies of the Wicked are to be tormented, ſhould not be kindled till our Saviour come in flaming Fire to take vengeance on them? what Comfort will this yield the Sinner, if, from the Day of its departure from the Body, his Soul will be obnoxious to this greater Miſery? What, laſtly, if that Fire of the damned, in which their Bodies are to be tormented, ſhould only be Eternal in that ſenſe in which St. Jude inform us that Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Cities round about them, have been ſet forth for an Example, ſuffering the vengeance of Eternal Fire, If this amazing Torment of the Soul, which in propriety of Speech is only capable of feeling torment, will be eternal in the higheſt and moſt extenſive import of that word?

If it be ſtill objected, That it ſeems not conſiſtent with Divine Goodneſs to have framed Man ſo, as that he ſhould be miſerable from himſelf, this at one blow cuts off both Heaven, and Hell; for it is to find fault with God, and repreſent him as leſs Good, for making any Beings capable of Vice, and Vertue. For all our Vertue in a ſtate of Trial, conſiſts in chuſing well when we had freedom, and ſome temptations to do otherwiſe; and all our Vice in chuſing to do ill, when we had Laws directing us to avoid the Evil, and to chuſe the Good, and had the higheſt Motives ſo to do. To ſay then, a good God could not create a Creature capable of Vice and Vertue, is in effect to ſay, 'tis inconſiſtent with Divine Goodneſs to create ſuch Creatures as ſhould be ſubject unto Government, ſince Government ſuppoſes Laws, and Laws muſt be attended with the Sanctions of Rewards and Puniſhments. Here then again the Miſtake lyes in ſeparating the Divine Goodneſs from his Holineſs and Juſtice, whereas Juſtice and Holineſs are as eſſential to the Notion of a God as Goodneſs; for 'tis impoſſible that Juſtice ſhould belong to the Idea of God, if it were irreconcileable with the Divine Goodneſs to make ſuch Creatures as may deſerve well or ill, i. e. to be rewarded, or puniſhed. And ſeeing the Holineſs of God renders it neceſſary for him to retain the greateſt hatred to, and abhorrence of incorrigible Sinners, if it be inconſiſtent with Divine Goodneſs to make any Creature which may deſerve to be the Object of his hatred, Goodneſs and Holineſs cannot both belong to the Idea of God.

If laſtly, it be ſtill enquired why Divine Goodneſs and Mercy doth not ſtill leave condemned Sinners in a Capacity of that Repentance and Reformation which might after a ſeaſon fit them for the Enjoyment of himſelf, and thereby put an happy end to all their Miſery?

I anſwer, That both the Chriſtians and Heathens do accord in this, that theſe Eternal Puniſhments ſhall only be inflicted (n), ἐπὶ τοῖς πάνυ πολλὰ μεμοχθηκόσιν ἐν τῇ ἀνιάτῳ κακίᾳ, on thoſe that are incurably wicked. And they who ſhall hereafter be found thus confirmed in wickedneſs, are by the (o) Heathens given up to Torments without end. Yea, (p) Celſus dogmatically ſays, That they judge rightly, who ſay, the juſt ſhall be happy, οἱ δ' ἄδικοι πάμπαν αἰωνίοις κακοῖς συνέξονται, But the unjuſt ſhall be always ſubject to eternal Evils. That this was the Opinion of the Heathens, as well as of the Chriſtians, and that no Man ought ever to depart from it. Now that which haply may render their ſtate incurable, may be

1. That their Day of Grace is paſt, and turn'd into a Day of Wrath; their Time of Trial and Probation is expired, and they are come to the time of Retribution. For as the Chriſtians teach that a Man cannot be truly good and holy without the aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit, ſo did the (q) Heathens teach, That there was an abſolute need of a Divine Aſſiſtus or Good aſſiſting Genius to preſerve them from Sin, and to advance them to a vertuous Life. Now, why is it unjuſt with God to ſay, his Spirit ſhall not always ſtrive with them who have ſo long reſiſted all his Motions, and hardned their Hearts againſt him? whom all the riches of his Goodneſs could not lead unto Repentance, or preſerve from treaſuring up Wrath againſt the Day of Wrath. Either the Day of Grace muſt never end, or there muſt be a time when they that are filthy will be filthy ſtill.

Moreover, To aſſert it is unjuſt with God, or inconſiſtent with his Goodneſs, to appoint a Day in which he will judge the World in Righteouſneſs, and render to Men according to their Works; as it ſeems plainly to border on a Contradiction in the Terms, ſo it cuts off all future Judgment, it being certain God neither will nor can do what is inconſiſtent with his Goodneſs to do ſo; and, according to this Hypotheſis, he muſt never paſs the final and decretory Sentence upon wicked Men.

2*ly*, The Place and Company to which the Damned ſhall be ſentenced, ſeems to render them incapable of growing better; for when they are once given up to the Tormentor, and kept in Chains of Darkneſs, what expectation can there be they ſhould grow better under this Enemy of God and Goodneſs? and yet that this is one Ingredient of their future ſtate, is not the Sentiment of Jews and Chriſtians only from the Holy Scripture, but alſo of the Heathens from the Tradition they had received, as is evident both (r) from their own words, and from their Adraſtia, Nemeſis, Alaſtores, Furies, their hurtful Dæmons, and their Evil Genius's.

3*ly*, The Alteration of their Condition, and their State ſeems to exclude all place for Reformation, and for the exerciſe of Piety and Vertue. For the Sentence of Condemnation and Excluſion from God's bliſsful Preſence being paſt upon them, they have no hope of being happy, or of eſcaping the Miſery to which they are expoſed, and ſo can have no Motive to be better, nor can they be in a capacity to love that God from whom they can expect no good. There alſo ſeems to be no place for Vertue in a future State; no room for Temperance, where there is no capacity of enjoying Meats, or Drinks, or any Pleaſures of the Fleſh; no place for Juſtice, where there is no Meum and Tuum; no poſſibility to kill, or maim, or to be cruel to another, when none can be defamed to their prejudice and hurt in their Concerns. Laſtly, No place for Charity, where there is either none that can want any thing, or none that can receive advantage by us.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. NOW we beſeech you, Brethren, by (or concerning) the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and our gathering together to him, (mentioned Matth. 24. 31.)

Ὑπὲρ τ παρουσίας τ̃ Κυρίυ.] That ὑπέρ with a Genitive Caſe ſignifies de, or circa, about, or concerning, cannot be doubted. It is rendred concerning, Rom. 9. 27. ſee 2 Cor. 12. 5, 8. It is thrice rendred of in the ſame import, as 2 Cor. 1. 8. our hope ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν of you is certain. Chap. 8. 23, Whether any enquire ὑπὲρ Τίτυ of Titus. And v. 24. Our boaſting ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν, i. e. concerning you. Philip. 1. 7. It is meet for me to think thus ὑπὲρ πάντων ὑμῶν of you all. Hence Phavorinus ſaith 'tis uſed ὁμοίως τῇ περὶ, See 2 Cor. 7. 4. 9. 3.

The coming of Chriſt is by the Reverend Dr. Hammond referred to Chriſt's coming to deſtroy the unbelieving Jews, and throw down their Temple, and their Worſhip which depended on it. This is the παρουσία τ̃ υἱ τ̃ ἀνθρώπυ, the coming of Chriſt, or of the Son of Man ſo often mentioned in our Lord's Prediction of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and of the Temple, Matth. 24. 3, 27, 37, 39. This is moſt certainly the import of the Phraſe in St. James twice, when he exhorts the Brethren to be patient, ἕως τ παρουσίας τ̃ Κυρίυ, till the coming of the Lord; adding that this παρουσία τ̃ Κυρίυ, coming of our Lord was at hand, and the Judge ſtood before the door, James 5. 7, 8, 9.

As for the Phraſe, Our gathering together to him, it ſeems parallel to the words of Chriſt, Matth. 24. 31. ἐπισωνάξυσι τὺς ἐκλεκτὺς ἀυτ̃, his Angels ſhall then gather his Elect. And to apply it to the Theſſalonians, let it be noted, that they were partly Converts of the Jews and Proſelytes. For the Converts made by St. Paul's preaching to them, were of the believing Jews, and the devout Greeks, Acts 17. 4. who, in expectation of our Lord's Prediction, as well as from their Obſervation of the Jewiſh Feſtivals, might be enclined to go up to Jeruſalem. Moreover, till the writing of this Epiſtle, if not long after, even till the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, the Jewiſh Converts kept up their Synagogue Worſhip, and many Proſelytes, and other Chriſtians, did not ſcruple to aſſemble with them; the Jewiſh Converts thought themſelves obliged to do it, they being all zealous of the Law, Acts 21. 20. and many of the Gentile Chriſtians complied with it at Corinth, Galatia, and Philippi; but after the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, there was an end of this Synagogue-Worſhip, the Day having revealed that God was no longer pleaſed with it, and then they met together ſtill as Churches of Chriſt; and this might be their ἐπισωναγωγὴ ἐφ' ἡμᾶς ἐπ' αὐτὸν, the gathering together to him here ſpoken of.

But yet, conſidering that this παρουσία, or coming of Chriſt in the former Epiſtle is uſed four times, with relation to Chriſt's coming at the Day of Judgment, viz. Chap. 2. 19. 3. 13. 4. 15. 5. 23. it may be thought more reaſonable to refer this Paſſage to the ſame Advent, and Paraphraſe it thus, I beſeech you, Brethren, by (the Bleſſing you expect at) the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and at our gathering together to him.

Ver. 2. That ye be not ſoon ſhaken in mind, (ἀπὸ τ νὸς, from the Sentence you formerly received from me,) or be troubled either by ſpirit, (i. e. by any pretended Revelation,) or by word (ſpoken by us, and by others miſunderſtood, 2 Pet. 3. 15, 16.) or by letter, (i. e. by any thing contained in our former Epiſtle, Chap. 4. 15. 5. 2. or rather in thoſe words, Chap. 2. 16. Wrath is come upon them εἰς τέλ⊙ to the uttermoſt, ſo) as (to conceive) that the day of the Lord is at hand.

Ἐνέστηκε, is, or hath been inſtant.] To conceive that ſignal Day of the deſtruction of their Enemies the Jews, and the deliverance of the Chriſtians mentioned Joel 2. 31, 32. Mal. 4. 1, 2. come, and find themſelves deceived in that Conception, might cauſe great trouble to them, and even ſhake their ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith.

Ver. 3. Let no man deceive you (with theſe pretences) by any means, for that day ſhall not come, except there be a falling away firſt (of the Jews from the Roman Empire, or from the Faith,) and (by that means) the Man of Sin be revealed, (who is) the Son of Perdition.

Ἀποσασία πρῶτον, a falling away firſt.] The Rebellion of the Jews againſt the Chaldeans was always ſtiled Apoſtacy, and the Jews upon that account Apoſtates. So Jeruſalem is repreſented as πόλις ἀποσάτις, a City that rebell'd againſt Kings, and in which ἀποσάσεις γίνον⊃, Rebellions were found, Ezra 4. 12, 15, 19. Thus Ezra 3. 2, 18, 22. they are ſtiled Ἰυδαῖοι ἀποσάται, Rebellious Jews; and v. 27. it is ſaid that they were given to Rebellion and War; See Neh. 2. 19. 6. 6. 1 Maccab. 13. 16. 2 Maccab. 5 11. And in like like manner their Revolt from the Roman Government, is by Joſephus generally expreſſed by the ſame word. Coming from Rome, ſaith he, in the time of Nero, when Felix was Procurator of Judea, I found then the beginnings of Innovations, (a) ἡ πολλὰς εἰς τὸ Ῥωμαίων ἀποστῆναι μέγα φρονήσας, and many much addicted to Apoſtacy from the Roman Government. One Juſtus, ſaith he, provoked the People (b) εἰς ἀποστασίαν to Rebellion, but John the Son of Levi ſeeing ſome of them διὰ τὴν ἀποστασίαν τὴν ἀπὸ Ῥωμαίων μέγα φρονήσας, prone to Apoſtacy from the Roman Government, endeavoured to keep them to their Duty.

But if any like not this Notion of Apoſtacy, they may underſtand theſe words of the great Apoſtacy of the Jews foretold by Chriſt, Matth. 24. 11, 12. and which hapned not only in Judea and Paleſtine, but throughout Aſia, 2 Tim. 1. 15. and in all other places where they had embraced the Goſpel. Of which Apoſtacy, Note

1*ſt*, That when the Apoſtle writ this Epiſtle it was yet to come; for though the Myſtery of Iniquity was already working in the Seductions of the falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers of the Jewiſh Nation, endeavouring to corrupt the minds of the Gentile Converts from the Simplicity that was in Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 3. and to bring them into Bondage to the Jewiſh Law, Gal. 2. 4. and ſo deprive them of that Liberty wherewith Chriſt had made them free, yet the great defection of the Jewiſh Converts to their old Judaiſm, ſeems to have had its riſe about Ten years after the writing this Epiſtle; for it is certain that A. D. 63. when the Apoſtle writ the Epiſtle to the Hebrews it was begun already, and many of the Jewiſh Converts then were in great danger of falling back unto Perdition, as appears from the vehement Admonitions and Exhortations of the Apoſtle to them to beware, leſt there ſhould be in any of them an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God, and to exhort one another daily to this ſtedfaſtneſs, as knowing we are only made partakers of Chriſt, if we hold the beginning of our confidence firm to the end, Chap. 3. 12, 13, 14. To labour to enter into that reſt Chriſt had prepared for them, leſt any man fall after the ſame example of unbelief, Chap. 4. 11. Not to forſake the aſſembling of themſelves together, as the manner of ſome was, Chap. 10. 25. Nor to caſt away their confidence, v. 35. To lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees, and make ſtrait Paths for their feet, leſt that which is lame be turned out of the way, and to look diligently leſt any man fail from the grace of God, Chap. 12. 12, 13, 15. As alſo from the Repreſentation of the dreadful ſtate of all who ſhould Apoſtatize after this manner: That 'twas impoſſible to renew them to repentance, Chap. 6. 4, 6. that they were nigh to curſing, and their end was to be burned, v. 8. that there was no more Sacrifice for their ſin, but a fearful looking for of deſtruction and fiery indignation, Chap. 10. 26, 27. and vengeance from the Living God, v. 30, 31. that it would certainly be a falling back to perdition, v. 38, 39. that there would be no eſcaping for them who turned away from him that ſpake to them from Heaven, Chap. 12. 25. The ſame we learn from the like Exhortations of St. James, to Joy and Patience under their Afflictions, Chap. 1. 1. to the 12th. Chap. 5. 7. to the 12th. of St. Peter, 1 Pet. 3. 14, 15. Chap. 4. 12. to the 19th. Chap. 5. 8, 9, 10. and from St. John's frequent Exhortation, to hold to that which they had received from the beginning, and to continue walking in the truth. Now the occaſions of this great Apoſtacy ſeem to have been theſe three:

1. Their Zeal for the obſervation of the Law, which they conceived to be of Eternal Obligation, eſpecially to the Jews to whom particularly it was given, and for the Covenant of Circumciſion, which they eſteemed highly meritorious, (See Note on Rom. 2. 13.) that which made them Perfect, gave them Life, and delivered them from Hell, according to theſe ſayings of theirs; (c) He that is Circumciſed is perfect; He that is Circumciſed ſhall not go to Gehinnom: And I ſaid unto thee in thy Blood, live, Ezek. 16 6. This is the Blood of the Circumciſion. This they endeavour'd to impoſe upon the Gentile Converts. And all the Myriads of Jewiſh Converts were all zealous for the obſervation of it by the Jews, and look'd upon it as downright Apoſtacy for them to forſake Moſes, or not to Circumciſe their Children, and walk according to their Cuſtoms received from Moſes, or from their Traditions, κατηχήσεις διδάσκεις ἀπὸ Μωσέως, Acts 21. 21. And this ſeems to be the Reaſon why St. Paul, in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, diſcourſeth ſo largely of the Neceſſity of the Change of the Law, viz. that by eſtabliſhing that Truth, he might put a ſtop to the Apoſtacy occaſioned by their contrary Perſwaſion.

2*ly*, Their beloved Dream of a Temporal Kingdom to be erected by their Meſſiah at his coming, the Halcyon days that were then to be expected by them, and the Dominion they ſhould then have over the Nations, who were not, according to their Sentiments, to come in to the Meſſiah, otherwiſe then as their Slaves, or Servants. How deeply this imagination was fixed, even in the hearts of Chriſt's Apoſtles, we learn, as from many other things, ſo eſpecially from their queſtion to him after his Reſurrection, Lord, wilt thou at this time reſtore the Kingdom unto Iſrael? Acts 1. 7. And becauſe our Lord gave this Anſwer to it, viz. It is not for you to know the times and ſeaſons which the Father hath put in his own hands, but ye ſhall receive power, the Holy Spirit coming upon you, and ye ſhall be my Witneſſes in Jeruſalem, and all Judea, and Samaria, and to the ends of the Earth, v. 7, 8. They were prone to think that at leaſt, after the Apoſtles had done this, they might expect our Lord ſhould come in the Clouds of Heaven to ſet up this Kingdom, they therefore believed in him rather as a Temporal, then a Spiritual King; they owned him rather as a true Prophet, to perſwade them to be Righteous, then as a Saviour to procure to them Remiſſion of Sins, and a New Covenant eſtabliſhed in his Blood. Hence (d) Origen ſpeaking of theſe words of Chriſt, If I ſay the truth, why do you not believe? which he conceives were ſpoken to thoſe Jews which believed, he ſaith, they might be ſaid to believe in one ſenſe, and not to believe in another. So v. g. they that believe in Jeſus Chriſt crucified in the days of Pontius Pilate, but believe him not to be born of the Virgin Mary, (i. e. the Ebionites,) believe in him, and do not believe in him. And again, (e) They who believe in Jeſus, who did in Judea the Signs and Wonders which were written of him, but believe him not to be the Son of that God who made Heaven and Earth, believe in him, and believe not in him; and this relateth to others of the Jews. And hence it ſeems to be, that the Apoſtle is ſo large in treating of the Sacerdotal Office of our Lord, and of the New Covenant eſtabliſhed in his Blood. Moreover, the Jews were generally poſſeſſed with this Opinion, that about that time their (f) Meſſiah ſhould ſet up this Temporal Kingdom, and they generally expected not a Meſſiah to ſuffer for their Sins, of whom they ſeem then to have had no notion, John 12. 34. but a (g) great King to ſubdue their Enemies under them. And this was their great ſtumbling block, that our Jeſus appeared not to be ſuch a one; and this was the great thing that animated them to the War. When therefore the Goſpel had been preached to the World, and there was no appearance of Chriſt's coming in the Clouds to be their King, and their Deliverer, but rather to deſtroy their Temple, and their Nation, they began to fall off from him, as not anſwering their Expectation, or the Predictions of their Prophets, and to give ear to their falſe Prophets, ſaying to them, Lo, here is Chriſt, and there is Chriſt, according to our Lord's Prediction, Matth. 24. 22. and promiſing freedom and deliverance, ſaith (h) Joſephus, to as many as ſhould follow them.

And laſtly, The great Cauſe of this Apoſtacy of which the Scriptures take a more eſpecial notice, was the grievous Perſecutions they ſuffered in all places from their fellow Jews, and from thoſe Heathens they had inſtigated againſt them; this by St. Paul is ſtiled a great fight of Afflictions, againſt which he deſires them to arm themſelves by Faith and Patience, and the Conſideration of the coming of their Lord, and by the Example of that Cloud of Witneſſes which he had ſet before them, Hebr. 10. 11, 12. by St. Peter it is ſtiled, The fiery trial which was come to try them, 1 Pet. 4. 12. and by which they were in heavineſs through manifold Tribulations, 1 Pet. 1. 6. and againſt which St. James endeavours to ſtrengthen them by the conſideration of the bleſſed Fruits and glorious Recompenſe their Patience under them would produce.

Chap.

Chap. 1. and of the Preſence of their Lord, who would ſhortly come to reſcue them, and give an happy Iſſue of them Chap 5. By reaſon of which Perſecutions ſome began to uſe great Compliances with the Jews to avoid their Rage; others to fall away from the Chriſtian Faith, hoping, perhaps, that they might ſtill obtain Salvation in that Religion in which they expected to find it before they embraced Chriſtianity.

And 3*ly*, Others, who refer this to the Church of Rome, underſtand by this Apoſtacy a falling away from the Doctrine, and the true Worſhip of God and Chriſt, by Idolatry in the Worſhip of a conſecrated Wafer, of Angels, Saints, and Images, and Reliques, on which account that Church is repreſented under the Characters of Spiritual Egypt, of Myſtical Babylon, and the Mother of Fornications, Rev. 11. 8. 17. 5.

ὁ ἀνθρωπος τῆς ἁμαρτίας, the Man of Sin.] If you read here ὁ ἀνθρωπος ἀνομίας, the Man of Diſobedience, who will not ſubmit to Law and Government, as do the Manuſcripts of Stephanus and Lincoln, nothing can more exactly agree to the Jewiſh Nation, which, in the times of (i) Joſephus, had this Character, that it was ἔθνος δύσαρκτον καὶ δυσπειθὲς φύσει πρὸς τὴν βασιλείαν, a Nation naturally averſe from ſubjection to Kings. If we retain the common Reading, no Nation under Heaven more deſerved to be ſtiled the Man of Sin then did the Jewiſh Nation, after the Spirit of Slumber and Blindneſs was come upon them, Rom. 11. 8. for the Rejection of the promiſed Meſſiah. Their own Joſephus ſaith, It is impoſſible to recount ſeverally the Particulars of their Wickedneſs; but in the general it may be ſaid, that never any City ſuffered ſuch Calamities, nor was ever any Generation ſince the memory of Man, more fruitful in Iniquity. See this more fully proved, Note on Rom. 2. 1. Then therefore more eſpecially was this Man of Sin revealed to be ſo. This Character doth alſo very well agree to the Beaſt mentioned in the Revelations, which being Spiritual Sodom and Egypt, Rev. 11. 8. the Mother of Fornications, and the Abominations of the Earth, Chap. 17. 5. may very well deſerve the Title of the Man of Sin.

Object. If here it be objected againſt the application of this Character to the Jewiſh Nation, that the Man of Sin ſeems to relate to ſome ſingle Perſon, and therefore cannot be interpreted of a whole Nation, eſpecially if they act not under ſome Head or other.

Anſw. I anſwer, that I have for this the Authority of the Prophet, cited here v. 8. who ſaith, He ſhall ſmite the Land, (That the Sinners of the Land,) with the Word of his Mouth, and with the Breath of his Lips, ימית רשע ἀνελεῖ ἀσεβῆ, He ſhall conſume the wicked One. Which wicked one, whether we underſtand it with the Fathers of Antichriſt, or with the Jews of Armillus the Romans, or with the Proteſtants of the Papal Polity, under the name of One, muſt comprehend all his Aſſociates and Followers, though they be many Nations. Thus alſo doth the Prophet Jeremiah ſpeak in the Perſon of the whole Jewiſh Nation, ſaying, I am the Man that have ſeen Affliction, Lam. 3. 1. and ſo on to v. 22. So in the Parable Matth. 22. 11. our Saviour repreſents the Jewiſh Nation from whom the Kingdom of God was to be taken away, and who were to be caſt out into outer darkneſs, v. 13. by the Man that had not his wedding Garment. So the two Witneſſes, Rev. 11. 3. and the Woman clothed with the Sun, Rev. 12. 1. repreſent the whole Body of true Chriſtians. And the Beaſt, Chap. 13. 1. the Woman arayed in Purple and Scarlet, Chap. 17. 4. and the great Whore, Chap. 19. 2. include all the Members of the Roman Church. And therefore it is evident, that this Objection of a ſingle Perſon ſeems equally to lye againſt all the other Hypotheſes. And as they had their Heads in which they were united, ſo had the Jewiſh Nation their High Prieſt and Sanhedrim, their Rulers of the People, their Scribes and Phariſees.

ὁ υἱὸς τῆς ἀπωλείας, the Son of Perdition.] This alſo perfectly agrees to the Jews, not only becauſe Chriſt was to ſmite them with the Breath of his Mouth, See Note on v. 8. and to ſmite the Land with a Curſe, Mal. 4. 6. but becauſe they are ſet forth as Veſſels of Wrath fitted εἰς ἀπώλειαν for deſtruction, Rom. 9. 22. as Men appointed to wrath, 1 Theſſ. 5. 9. to ſudden deſtruction, v. 4. as Men whoſe end is ἀπώλεια deſtruction, Philip. 3. 19. Note alſo that this agrees exactly to the Great Whore which is to go εἰς ἀπώλειαν into deſtruction, Rev. 17. 8, 11.

Ver. 4. Who oppoſeth himſelf (now to the Chriſtian Church,) and exalteth himſelf above all that is called God, or is worſhipped, (Gr. σέβασμα, or worſhip;) ſo that he, as God, ſitteth in the Temple of God, ſhewing himſelf that he is God.

ὁ Ἀντικείμενος, who oppoſeth himſelf.] This word in the Old Teſtament repreſents the Adverſaries of God, and his Church. So Iſa.

66. 6. The voice of the Lord rendring recompenſe τοῖς ἀντικειμένοις to his Enemies. And Eſth. 9. 2. they who ſought the hurt of the Jews are οἱ ἀντικείμενοι τοῖς Ἰουδαίοις. And in like manner in the New Teſtament, ὁ ἀντικείμενος is in the general the Adverſary of Chriſt, and of Chriſtianity; as in thoſe words, Give no occaſion τῷ ἀντικειμένῳ to the Adverſary to blaſpheme, 1 Tim. 5. 14. In particular the Jews, as they were οἱ ἀντικείμενοι τῷ χριστῷ, the Adverſaries of Chriſt, Luke 13. 17. So in our Lord's Diſcourſe on the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, they are ſtiled the Adverſaries of the Apoſtles in theſe words, I will give you a mouth, and wiſdom, which οἱ ἀντικείμενοι ὑμῖν your Adverſaries ſhall not be able to reſiſt, or gainſay, Luke 21. 15. They are the ἀντικείμενοι πολλοί, of which St. Paul ſpeaks, ſaying, A great door, and effectual is opened to me, in Epheſus; and there be many Adverſaries, 1 Cor. 16. 9. as you may learn from Acts 19. 9. where we find them ſpeaking evil of the way of Chriſtianity before the Multitude, and St. Paul ſeparating from them upon that account. And in thoſe words of St. Paul to the Philippians, Chap. 1. 28. In nothing be ye terrified by (the Malice and Perſecution of) your Adverſaries, ὑπὸ τῶν ἀντικειμένων, which Malice and Perſecution is to them, ἔνδειξις ἀπωλείας, an evident token of Perdition, but to you of Salvation. See 2 Theſſ. 1. 5. And with good reaſon is this Name given to them eſpecially, they being the Men who killed the Lord Jeſus, and perſecuted his Apoſtles; who pleaſed not God, and were Adverſaries to all Men; forbidding the Apoſtles to preach to the Gentiles, that they might be ſaved, 2 Theſſ. 2. 15, 16. When they began to preach the Word of Life, the High-Prieſt, the Captain of the Temple, and the Sadducees, Acts 4. 1. the whole Order of Prieſthood, v. 6. ſtiled τὸ συνέδριον, the Sanhedrim, v. 15. Command them not to ſpeak at all in the Name of Jeſus, v. 18. on which account theſe Rulers are ſaid to be aſſembled againſt the Lord, and againſt his Chriſt, v. 26. And the Apoſtles anſwer to them is, That God was rather to be obeyed than Man. After this, the High-Prieſt, and all his Aſſociates, place the Apoſtles ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ in the Sanhedrim, Acts 5. 17, 27. calling them to an account for diſobeying their Commands; and having received this Anſwer from the Apoſtles, That God muſt be obeyed rather than Man, they beat them in the Sanhedrim, and again command them not to ſpeak in the Name of Jeſus, v. 40, 41. Soon after we find Stephen brought before the Scribes, and Elders, εἰς τὸ συνέδριον, into the Sanhedrim, Chap. 6. 12. and the High-Prieſt, Chap. 7. 1. and they who ſat ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ in the Sanhedrim, having examined him, and the Witneſſes againſt him, they ſtoned Stephen, v. 59. which Death could only be inflicted on him by the Sanhedrim. After this Saul receives Letters from the High-Prieſt, Chap. 9. 1. and from all the Elders, Chap. 22. 5. to bind all Chriſtians, he could find in any of their Synagogues, and bring them to Jeruſalem, Acts 9. 2, 14. Yea, in the ſecond, or as Biſhop Pearſon ſaith, in the fourth Year of Nero, the High-Prieſts, ὅλον τὸ συνέδριον, and the whole Sanhedrim meet, Acts 22. 30. and Paul is brought before them, Chap. 23. 1. By all which Paſſages, as we ſee how they are ſtill ſhewing themſelves Adverſaries to Chriſt and his Diſciples, ſo we learn the falſhood of that Jewiſh Story, That Forty years before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem the Sanhedrim removed from thence to Joppa; which, ſaith (k) Mr. Selden, as I have never read any ſuch thing in the Ancients, ſo may it be confuted from the Life of Joſephus. It was this Sanhedrim that admitted that Publick Prayer againſt the Chriſtians, called ברכת המינים the Curſing of the Heretick. They therefore called Jeſus accurſed, 1 Cor. 12. 2. and ſo as (l) Juſtin Martyr ſaith, they diſhonoured Chriſt as much as they could, καταρώμενοι ἐν ταῖς συναγωγαῖς ὑμῶν τοὺς πεποιθότας ἐπὶ τὸν χριστόν, Curſing in their Synagogues thoſe that believe in him. Thus did they Crucifie afreſh the Son of God, and put him to an open ſhame; yea, ſaith the ſame (m) Juſtin, ἄνδρας ἐκλεκτοὺς ἀπὸ Ἱερουσαλὴμ ἐπιλεξάμενοι τότε, ἐξεπέμψατε εἰς πᾶσαν τὴν γῆν, they ſent choſen Men from Jeruſalem throughout the whole Earth, repreſenting the Chriſtians as an Atheiſtical Hereſie: Now this could be done only by the Sanhedrim. It was, laſtly, by the High-Prieſt and his Sanhedrim aſſembled at Jeruſalem, that (n) James the Brother of our Lord, with ſome other Chriſtians, is condemned to be ſtoned for Blaſphemy againſt the Law. Yea, when the War was begun, Affairs ſeem ſtill to be ordered by the High-Prieſt and Sanhedrim: For it was after the Flight of Ceſtius Gallius from Jeruſalem that (o) Joſephus was made Governour of Galilee, and thence he writes (p) τῷ συνεδρίῳ τῶν Ἱεροσολυμιτῶν to the Sanhedrim of Jeruſalem for Inſtruction. And Ananias the High-Prieſt acknowledges that they had engaged in the War againſt the Romans only (r) for their Liberty. So that things ſeem to have been managed to that time by the High-Prieſt and Sanhedrim, who appearing thus upon all occaſions with the utmoſt Rage againſt Chriſt and Chriſtians, might well be deemed not only ἀντικείμενοι, their Adverſaries, but even Antichriſts. But then the Roman Antichriſt being alſo to wear out the Saints of the moſt High, Dan. 7. 25. and caſt down ſome of the Hoſt of Heaven, Dan. 8. 10. the Beaſt being to ſlay the Witneſſes, Rev. 11. 7. to make War with the Saints, and overcome them, Chap. 13. 7. and even to be drunk with the Blood of the Saints, and of the Martyrs of Jeſus, Chap. 17. 6, 18, 24. She doubtleſs muſt emphatically deſerve this Title.

Ὑπεραιρόμενος ἐπὶ πάντα λεγόμενον θεὸν, ἢ σέβασμα, exalting himſelf above all that is called God, or is worſhipped.] The word λεγόμενος, called, ſhews the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of Magiſtrates who are called Gods in Scripture, Pſal. 82. 6. and particularly of the Roman Emperor, whoſe Title was σεβαστὸς, Auguſtus, and who are here ſignified by σέβασμα, as God is by the word θεὸν. And how the Jews exalted themſelves againſt every thing that is called God, or the Magiſtracy, we may obſerve, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, in ſuch Paſſages as theſe, 2 Pet. 2. 10. They deſpiſe Government. Jude 8. They deſpiſe Dominion, and ſpeak evil of Dignities, and in their own Stories to endleſs Examples. How they ſtood affected to them, we may learn from the queſtion they put to our Saviour, Shall we pay Tribute to Cæſar, or not? Matth. 22. 17. For had he anſwered No, they then thought they ſhould have ground to repreſent him as an Enemy to Cæſar; If Yea, to repreſent him to the People as a Betrayer of his Country's Liberty and Freedom; (s) τὸν ἐπιτίμιον εἶδον ἀλλὰ ἢ ἀνδραποδώδους δουλείας λέγοντες, they looking on the payment of this Tribute-Money as a Sign of Slavery. And from their Talmudical ſaying, We have no King but God; and from their imagination that it was a wicked thing (t) ἑαυτὸν θνητὸν δεσπότην, to own any Mortal Governor under God. See Note on 1 Pet. 2. 16. And that the Pope and his Church have thus exalted themſelves above Kings, and Emperors, Church Hiſtory and their own Canon Law will not ſuffer us to doubt. See Downham de Antichriſto, Lib. 4. Cap. 2, 3.

Ὥστε αὐτὸν εἰς τὸν ναὸν θεοῦ ὡς θεὸν καθίσαι, ſo that he ſitteth in the Temple of God, as God, ſhewing himſelf that he is God.] Only the Jewiſh Sanhedrim, their Prieſts and High-Prieſts, and Doctors or Expounders of the Law, ſat in the Temple of God then properly ſo called, and there the High-Prieſt and the Sanhedrim took upon them the power of judging them in Capital Cauſes: Thus they ſtoned Stephen, thus alſo they ſtoned James the Brother of our Lord, and others with him; and St. Paul proſecuted the Chriſtians, even to death, by their Authority, Acts 22. 4, 5. and thus they ſat in the Temple of God, as Gods. The Scribes and Phariſees alſo ſhewed themſelves as God, by ſetting up their Traditions above the Commandments of God, pretending to diſpenſe with them; and by ſo doing, ſaith our Saviour, ἀκυροῦν, ἀθετεῖν, ἀθετεῖν, to lay aſide, reject, and to make void the Commandments of God, Matth. 15. 6. Mark 7. 8, 9, 10, 13. to eſtabliſh their Traditions. And ſecondly, by preferring them to, and requiring greater Reverence to be given to their Traditions, and their Doctrines, than to the written Word of God; ſaying, That the Words of the Scribes are more amiable than the Words of the Law, and more weighty; that a Prophet was not to be believed without a Sign, or a Miracle; but they were to be believed without them; with other blaſphemous ſayings, cited by Dr. Lightfoot on Mat. 15. 2. and by (u) Dr. Pocock, who ſhews that they held their Vows ſo Sacred, that they were obliged to violate the Laws of God to keep them; and that in ſuch Caſes they could not obſerve God's Precepts without great Sin. And thirdly, this they did by taking to themſelves the Titles of Guide, and Father, which in our Saviour's Interpretation, belonged only to God, and Chriſt, Matth. 23. 8, 9, 10. And here let it be noted,

1*ſt*, That theſe are the Deſcriptions of the Man of Sin, by which the Theſſalonians might then know him, and they run all in the Preſent Tenſe, ſhewing what he already did; and therefore it is no Objection againſt my Interpretation of theſe words, that the Sanhedrim, the Scribes and Phariſees, had long ſat in the Temple of God, and done the things here attributed to the Man of Sin.

2*ly*, Let it be noted, that it is propheſied Dan. 11. 35, 36. that a King ſhall do according to his will, and ſhall exalt himſelf, and ſhall magnifie himſelf above every God; and that this, by St. Jerom and Theodoret upon the place, is interpreted concerning Antichriſt. And that the Pope of Rome hath manifeſtly, not only thus exalted himſelf above all that is called God, by uſurping a Power over

Kings and Emperors, as in the former Note; but alſo ſhewed himſelf in the Church as God, by claiming that Infallibility which is the Property of God, and by diſpenſing with his Laws, but alſo by equalling himſelf to Chriſt, who is God. See Downham de Antichriſto, l. 4. c. 5. And therefore, according to the Sentiments of all thoſe Fathers, who by the Temple do underſtand the Church of God, he hath by theſe things ſhew'd himſelf that he is God.

Ver. 5. Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, I told you of theſe things, (viz. of the Man of Sin to be revealed, and of theſe Characters of him.)

Ταῦτα ἔλεγον ὑμῖν, I told you of theſe things.] Theſe are the words which ſeem to me to ſettle my Interpretation of this Chapter. For of the Jews, and their oppoſing of themſelves to the Doctrine of Chriſtianity, and the Profeſſors of it, he told them in his firſt Epiſtle, Chap. 2. 15, 16. and when he was with them, the Perſecutions that both he and they ſuffered from them, Acts 17. 15, 16. gave him a juſt occaſion to ſpeak both of their Oppoſition to the Goſpel, and of the Deliverance they ſhortly might expect from ſuch enraged Perſecutors; this being hinted for the encouragement of Chriſtians in moſt of his Epiſtles; but that he ſhould tell them any thing of Mahomet, or of the Papal Antichriſt, who were not then in being, or to be known then to the Theſſalonians by any of the Characters here mentioned, is not ſo eaſie to conceive. Though ſince the Characters here referr'd to, are partly to be found Dan. 11. 35, 36. and that place by the (x) Ancients is thought to relate to Antichriſt, and to be here referred to by St. Paul, this is by ſome Expoſitors thought to refer to ſomething the Apoſtle might have taught them from the Prophet Daniel touching Antichriſt. See the Preface, Sect 1, 2, 3.

Ver. 6. And now ye know what withholdeth, that he might be revealed in his own ſeaſon.

Καὶ νῦν τὸ κατέχον οἴδατε, and now ye know what withholdeth.] Or rather, and ye know what now withholdeth; and according to this ſenſe of the words, that which hindred the full Revelation of this Man of Sin muſt be in being, and actually withholding when this Epiſtle was endited. Some of the Fathers have conjectured that the τὸ κατέχον, that which hindred was (y) the Giftes of the Holy Spirit then given to Believers, and exerciſed in the Aſſemblies of Chriſtians: but they more generally do refer this to the Roman Empire, ſaying, That the Apoſtle here teacheth that, (z) till that be taken away Antichriſt ſhall not come. This, ſay they, the Apoſtle here expreſſeth ſo covertly and obſcurely, that he might not (a) incenſe the Roman Emperors againſt the Chriſtians, as he muſt have done, had he openly and boldly ſaid, Antichriſt ſhall not come till the Roman Empire be deſtroyed. See Note on 1 Pet. 5. 13. What I conceive to be the τὸ κατέχον, ſee Note on the Verſe following.

Ἐν τῷ ἑαυτοῦ καιρῷ, in his ſeaſon.] i. e. in the time prefixed for the falſe Chriſts, and Antichriſts to come, Matth. 24. 5, 24. in the laſt hour of the Jewiſh Church and Oeconomy, according to theſe words of St. John, 1 John 2. 18. Little Children, it is the laſt hour, and as ye have heard (from Chriſt) that Antichriſt ſhall come, ſo now are there many Antichriſts, by which ye may know that this is the laſt hour.

They who refer this to the Papal Antichriſt, ſay that this ſeaſon relates to the tempus ſtatutum, the time prefixed, Dan. 11. 35. For Antichriſt, ſaith he, ſhall proſper till the indignation be accompliſhed, or till God's indignation againſt the Jewiſh Nation ceaſe. And to the time, times, and half a time, mentioned Dan. 7. 25. During which time the little Horn was to wear out the Saints of the moſt High; and to the 1260 days in which the Beaſt ſhould triumph, and the Witneſſes ſhould be clothed in Sackcloth, Rev. 11. 3. or to the time, times, and half a time, mentioned Rev. 12. 6, 14.

Ver. 7. For the myſtery of iniquity doth already work, (i. e. the Jews are already making ſome efforts towards this Apoſtacy,) only he who now letteth will let, (or only there is that withholdeth as yet, and will continue to do,) until he (or it) be taken away.

Τὸ γὰρ μυστήριον ἤδη ἐνεργεῖται τῆς ἀνομίας, for the Myſtery of Iniquity doth already work.] That is, the Jews have already imbibed their pernicious Principles, that 'tis not lawful to pay Tribute to Cæſar, or to be ſubject to any other Government under God: They have already made ſome ſeditious Attempts, not only in Babylon, but in Judea, under Theudas Galilæites, and alſo have been incited further ſo to do by one (b) Dortus, and his Aſſociates, who perſwaded the Multitude ἐπὶ τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἀποστάσει, to revolt from the Romans. (c) Joſephus alſo doth inform us, That before that time there were many Tumults in Judea, ἐν αἷς τότε βασιλεὺς ὁ καιρὸς ἐνίκησεν, and that the time prevailed with many to uſurp the Kingdom. This Myſtery was alſo working by the Falſe Apoſtles, and Deceitful Workers of the Jews, cauſing ſome of the Gentile Chriſtians to warp from the Simplicity of the the Faith to the Jewiſh Rites, to mix Judaiſm with Chriſtianity, and ſo to turn from him that called them to another Goſpel. The Fathers, Theodoret alone excepted, ſay this Myſtery of Iniquity was already working in (d) Nero the Fore-runner of Antichriſt, and the Calamities he brought upon the Chriſtians. On which account ſome of them taught that he was Antichriſt; and others, that he was to be raiſed again to be ſo. But this is an Extravagancy ſufficiently confuted from this one Obſervation, That theſe words were written in the Reign of Claudius, whereas the Perſecution of the Chriſtians happened only Twelve years after in the Reign of Nero. Others, who ſay this Myſtery was working in the falſe Prophets then in being, till they can ſhew us any falſe Prophets then in being, which were not of the Jewiſh Nation, do not contradict, but rather ſtabliſh our Aſſertion. And laſtly, others, though they do zealouſly contend againſt Dr. Hammond, that Simon Magus could not be the Man of Sin here mentioned, yet ſay, 'tis probable he was the Myſtery of Iniquity then working, and the Fore-runner of Antichriſt, becauſe he did ſet himſelf up as the Supream God, brought in the Invocation of Angels, and the Worſhip of Images, and taught Idolatry to be a thing indifferent, and was the Father, as the Beaſt is ſtiled the Mother of Abominations; but thus they ſeem to me to build up again what they had ſo induſtriouſly pulled down. For it is highly reaſonable to conceive the Myſtery of Iniquity then working, ſhould be that very Myſtery which after was to be compleated by a more full appearance of the Man of Sin, as will appear from the connexion of the words. Remember ye not, that when I was with you, I told you theſe things? (who was the Man of Sin to be revealed, and what were his Churches, v. 3, 4. and what it was that hindred at preſent the Revealing of him) For the Myſtery of Iniquity is already working, (i. e. he is doing that covertly, which when he is reveal'd he will do more openly,) only he that hinders (his full appearance,) will do ſo ſtill, he being taken away, and then ſhall this wicked one be reveal'd? Who ſees not now that all thoſe Interpretations muſt be falſe, which make the Myſtery of Iniquity to be one Perſon, or one kind of Perſons, and the Man of Sin, or Antichriſt another, as they muſt do who make the Myſtery of Iniquity to be Simon Magus, or the Falſe Prophets, or Hereticks in being when this Epiſtle was endited, and the Man of Sin the Pope of Rome, and his Clergy. This Myſtery of Iniquity, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, cannot be underſtood but of the Jewiſh Nation; and ſo it is explained again and again by St. John, ſaying, This is the laſt hour, and as you have heard that Antichriſt cometh, ſo now are there many Antichriſts, by which we know this is the laſt hour, 1 John 2. 18. And Chap. 43. Every ſpirit that confeſſeth not Jeſus Chriſt, who is come in the fleſh, is not of God; and this is the Spirit of Antichriſt; this is the Deceiver and the Antichriſt, Eph. 2. 7. Here therefore is a plain account of the working of the Myſtery of Iniquity in the falſe Chriſts and Prophets of the Jewiſh Nation, who alſo were the great Incendiaries to, and Agents in the Apoſtacy of that Nation from the Roman Government. See Note on v. 10.

Ὁ κατέχων, he that letteth.] Quis niſi Romanus Status? Who but the Roman State? ſaith (e) Tertullian; ſo many of the Fathers, as hath been noted on the foregoing Verſe. And whereas it may be objected againſt this ſenſe, that it ſeems plain from the word ὁ κατέχων, that he muſt be a Perſon, rather than a State; they who are of this Opinion anſwer, He is here ſpoken of as one ſingle Perſon, though the Government con-ſiſted of a Succeſſion of Emperors, becauſe one of them only reigned at a time, and the Goverment was diſſolved by the taking away of the laſt Governour. My Conjecture is this, He who now letteth, i. e. the Emperour Claudius will let till he be taken away; i. e. he will hinder the Jews from breaking out into an open Rebellion in his time, they being ſo ſignally, and ſo particularly obliged by him, that they cannot for ſhame think of revolting from his Government; for he had made two Edicts in their favour; the one concerning the Alexandrian Jews to this effect, That (f) the juſt Jews ſhould ſuffer nothing, becauſe of the madneſs of Cajus who would be worſhipped as a God, and that they ſhould have liberty to obſerve their own Laws and Cuſtoms. And that other Edict, in which he gives them liberty over his whole Empire, without moleſtation, (g) to obſerve their own Laws and Cuſtoms, declaring that he did it becauſe he judged them worthy of that Favour, for their Affection and Fidelity to the Roman Government.

After his death the Affairs of the Jews, ſaith Joſephus, became worſe and worſe, not only by reaſon ῥᾳόντων ἀνθρώπων οἱ τὸν ὄχλον ἐπάτων, of thoſe Magicians who deceived the People, and of thoſe Thieves who ſtirred them up to the War againſt the (h) Romans, μηδὲν ὑπακούειν αὐτοῖς λέγοντες, perſwading them not to be ſubject to them, but becauſe Nero in his Third year ſends his Letter to Porcius Feſtus, Governour of Judea, by which the Jews are deprived of their ἰσοπολιτεία, equal ſhare of Government in Cæſarea; whence, ſaith Joſephus, was the riſe of all our Calamities, the Jews perſiſting ſtill in Sedition, μέχρι δὴ τὸν πόλεμον ἐξῆψαν, till they broke out into the War. In the Seventh of Nero, Albinus ſucceeds Feſtus then dead, who, ſaith (i) Joſephus, was ὁ μάλιστα λυμαινόμενος τῷ χώρᾳ one who exceedingly waſted the Country, and laid the Seeds of their future Captivity. In the Tenth of Nero, Geſſius Florus ſucceeds him, who (k) πολλῶν ἀνέπλησε κακῶν Ἰουδαίους, brought many Calamities upon the Jews, ſaith Joſephus, which having Tragically repreſented, he concludes thus, What ſhall I ſay more, τὸν δὲ πρὸς Ῥωμαίους πόλεμον ὁ κλαυσιγέλως ἡμᾶς ἀναδῆσαι Φλῶρος, for it was this Florus who compell'd us to the War againſt the Romans, which began in the Twelfth of Nero.

Ἕως ἐκ μέσου γένηται, till he be taken away.] i. e. Say ſome, till the Roman Government be taken away, as it was by the Exile of Auguſtulus, A. D. 475. ſay I; till Claudius be taken away, as he was by Poyſon, ſaith Suetonius; for as tolli de medio among the Latins, ſo in the Greek ἐκ μέσου φέρεσθαι, imports, one to be taken away by death, and often times by a violent death; ſo ἐξαναλῶσαι ἐκ μέσου τῆς παρεμβολῆς is, to deſtroy them out of the middle of the Camp till they were conſumed; So of Core and his Company, it is ſaid, ἀπώλοντο ἐκ μέσου τῆς συναγωγῆς, they were deſtroyed from the midſt of the Congregation, Numb. 16. 33. Thus of the Righteous, ſaith the Prophet, ἦρται ἐκ μέσου, he is taken away, he reſts in his Grave, Iſa. 57. 2. So Jeremiah, ἐξῆρε ἐκ μέσου, The Lord hath taken away all my mighty Men from the midſt of me, Lam. 1. 15. And ſo God ſaith of the falſe Prophet, Ezek. 14, 8, 9. ἐξαρῶ αὐτὸν, ἐξαρῶ αὐτὸν ἐκ μέσου τοῦ λαοῦ μου, I will cut him off from the midſt of my People.

Ver. 8. And then ſhall the wicked one be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall conſume by the Spirit (or Breath) of his Mouth, and ſhall deſtroy by the brightneſs of his coming.

Ὁ ἄνομος, the wicked.] Who will not be ſubject to the Laws to which their Forefathers from the time of Pompey have ſubmitted.

Ἀποκαλυφθήσεται, ſhall be revealed.] Either by his actual Apoſtacy from the Roman Government, or by the great Apoſtacy of the believers of that Nation, of which ſee Note on v. 3.

Ὃν ὁ Κύριος ἀναλώσει τῷ πνεύματι τοῦ στόματος αὐτοῦ, whom the Lord ſhall conſume by the Spirit of his Mouth.] That the Apoſtle here refers to Iſaiah 10. 4. appears by his uſing the very words of the Prophet, which run thus, He ſhall ſmite the Land with the Rod of his Mouth, and with the Breath of his Lips ſhall he ſlay the wicked one. Now what is the Land there, is well expounded by Malachi in theſe words, Chap. 4. 6. Leſt he ſmite the Earth with a Curſe. Where both the Hebrew and the Greek uſe the ſame words. Now in Malachi it is evident, and confeſſed, that by the Earth, the Land of Judea muſt be meant, as it is uſually in the Book of Pſalms, Pſal. 16. 3. 25. 13. 37. 3, 9, 11, 22, 29, 34. Seeing to them alone the Prophet was then ſent to Prophecy, 'tis therefore reaſonable to conceive that the ſame Phraſe ſhould have the ſame import in the Prophet Iſaiah; to ſmite this Land with the Breath, or Spirit of his

Mouth,

Mouth, is to ſmite it in his Wrath and Indignation. So Job 4. 9. By the blaſt of God, by the breath of his Noſtrils, ἀπὸ πνεύματος ὀργῆς αὐτοῦ, or of his Anger, are they conſumed, and to conſume with his fiery Indignation: Thus Tophet is ordained of old, the Pile thereof is Fire and much Wood, the Breath of the Lord, πνεῦμα Κυρίου, the Indignation of the Lord, like a Stream of Brimſtone, doth kindle. So Pſal. 18. 8. A ſmoke aſcended in his anger, and fire out of his mouth devoured. And v. 15. At thy rebuke, O Lord, at the blaſt of the breath of thy noſtrils, ἀπὸ ἐμπνεύσεως πνεύματος ὀργῆς σου, by the breath of the wind of thine anger. This therefore again anſwers to the words of Malachi, Chap. 4. 1. Behold, the day cometh that ſhall burn as an Oven, and all the proud, and all that do wickedly ſhall be as ſtubble, and the day that cometh ſhall burn them up. And to that of the Baptiſt, Matth. 3. 10. And now the Ax is laid to the root of the Trees, every Tree therefore that bringeth not forth good fruit ſhall be hewed down, and caſt into the fire, which alſo evidently belongs to the Jewiſh Nation, which ſaid, We have Abraham for our Father, v. 9. and to whom alſo the Baptiſt is there ſpeaking. And again, 12. he ſaith of Chriſt, His fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly cleanſe his floor—and burn the chaff with unquenchable fire, plainly alluding to the words of Malachi, that all the World ſhould be as chaff, or ſtubble. This being ſo, the Earth to be ſmitten with the Rod of his Mouth, muſt be the People or Inhabitants of the Land, or as the Chaldee, the Sinners of the Earth; the Unbelievers and Wicked of Judea to be conſumed by that Indignation and Fire of the Lord, Mal. 4. 1. So ſaith Procopius on the place, Doth the Lord threaten to Judea, ὅτι τῇ καθ' ἑαυτὸν μητρὶ, for her contumely againſt him, ſaying, thy Houſe is left unto thee deſolate; and ἐγκαταλειφθεῖσα σκληρῷ καὶ πυρὶ διαπάντησαι, being left deſolate is conſumed by Sword and Fire.

That theſe words may have a more full compleſion in the deſtruction of the Beaſt, or Myſtical Babylon, which is alſo to be ſlain by the Sword proceeding from the mouth of Chriſt, and deſtroyed by the fierceneſs of his Wrath, and with the falſe Prophet to be caſt alive into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone, I deny not; but that this ſhould be the primary intent of the words of Iſaiah, and that he ſhould be there propheſying of the deſtruction of the Church of Rome, ſeems to me a Rabbinical Gloſs, not much to be inſiſted on, eſpecially ſince the Apoſtle, Rom. 15. 12. applies the tenth Verſe of this Chapter to the firſt Calling of the Gentiles.

Καὶ καταργήσει τῇ ἐπιφανείᾳ τῆς παρουσίας αὐτοῦ, and ſhall conſume with the brightneſs of his coming.] The Day of the Lord's Coming to deſtroy Jeruſalem, is ſtiled by Joel, Chap. 2. 31. ἡμέρα Κυρίου ἡ μεγάλη καὶ ἐπιφανὴς, the great and bright day of the Lord; and Mal. 4. 5. Behold, I ſend you Elias the Prophet. (i. e. the Baptiſt in the Spirit and Power of Elias, Luke 1. 17.) πρὸ τοῦ ἐλθεῖν τὴν ἡμέραν τοῦ Κυρίου τὴν μεγάλην καὶ ἐπιφανῆ, before the coming of the great and bright day of the Lord. And that our Lord's coming in his Day, after he had ſuffered, and been rejected of that Age or Generation in which he ſuffered, ſhould be as Lightning ſhining from one end of the Heaven to the other, he expreſly tells his Diſciples, Luke 17. 24, 25. And when this ἐπιφάνεια, καὶ παρουσία, brightneſs, and appearance of the Son of Man was to happen, he ſufficiently inſtructs them in theſe words, As the Lightning φαίνεται ſhineth from the Eaſt to the Weſt, οὕτως ἔσται καὶ ἡ παρουσία τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου, ſo ſhall the coming of the Son of Man be, ὅπου γάρ, for wherſoever the Carcaſs is, there ſhall the Eagles be gathered together, Luke 17. 24, 37. which ſenſibly applies the Matter to the deſtruction of the Jews by the Roman Army, whoſe Enſign was the Eagle. This therefore is a farther Confirmation of our Expoſition.

Laſtly, Obſerve the Connexion of theſe Verſes, there is a τὸ κατέχον νῦν, ſome Thing, or Perſon, that withholdeth now, and ὁ κατέχων ἄρτι, He that now withholdeth will do ſo till he be taken away, καὶ τότε, and then ſhall the wicked one be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall deſtroy. Now, would not any one here think, that if the Roman Government were that which withheld, Antichriſt ſhould preſently be revealed, and appear to the World to be ſo, (as all the (l) Fathers, who were of that Opinion, held) ſoon after the diſſolution of that Government, according to thoſe words of (m) St. Jerom, Qui tenebat, de medio fit, & non intelligimus Antichriſtum appropinquare, quem Dominus Ieſus Chriſtus interfecit Spiritu oris ſui. He that withheld is taken away, and do we not underſtand that Antichriſt is at hand? And again, would not any one hence be prone to think that the Lord ſhould be as quick to conſume him, when he was revealed, as all the (n) Fathers thought, allowing but Three years and an half for the whole Reign of Antichriſt, and declaring they had this not from Apocryphal Writings, but from the Holy Scriptures. And were it otherwiſe, thoſe Chriſtians which ſaw the Diſſolution of the Roman Empire, A. D. 475. might lye under the ſame Doubts as did the Theſſalonians here, touching the Man of Sin; for then they ſaw no Roman Antichriſt appearing, nor that Myſtery of Iniquity yet working, for the Pope and Clergy of Rome were then Orthodox, free from exalting themſelves above all that is called God, or from wearing out the Saints with Perſecution, till ſome Hundred years after. And if, after his appearing thus, he were to continue 1260 years before our Saviour's coming to deſtroy him, as he muſt do according to that Hypotheſis, might not the Chriſtians be tempted in that long Interval, to ſay, Where is the promiſe of his coming? This therefore ſeems to lye as a ſtrong Bar againſt that as the primary ſenſe and meaning of theſe words.

Ver 9. Even him, whoſe coming is after the working of Satan, with all power, and ſigns, and lying wonders.

Ἐν πάσῃ δυνάμει καὶ σημείοις, with all power and ſigns.] This our Lord foretold, that before his Advent to deſtroy Jeruſalem, there ſhould appear falſe Prophets, and falſe Chriſts, who ſhould deceive many, Matth. 24. 11. who ſhould ſhew ſigns and wonders to deceive, if it were poſſible, the very Elect, v. 24. Now that theſe falſe Prophets, v. 11. and 24. were the ſame we learn from St. Luke, who ſums both up in one, Chap. 21. 8. and from the work of both, which was to deceive many, that they were all to appear in the ſame Age in which his Diſciples, to whom he ſpake theſe words, lived, is alſo evident from Chriſt's caution to them in reſpect of both; See to it, leſt any Man deceive you, Matth. 24. 4. See to it, behold, I have foretold you all things, Mark 13. 23. Matth. 24. 25. It cannot then be doubted, but that there were ſuch Perſons as are here mentioned, which then aroſe among the Jews. Such were the Jews of whom St. Paul ſpeaks, comparing them to Jannes and Jambres, the celebrated Magicians of Egypt, becauſe of their Reſiſtance of the Truth of the Goſpel, as thoſe Magicians reſiſted Moſes, and whom he ſtiles πονηροὶ ἄνθρωποι καὶ γόητες, wicked Men and Juglers, 2 Tim. 3, 8, 13. or thoſe who did ſtrange things by Invocation of Devils, as the word imports, ſay Phavorinus and Suidas; the Magicians were Men of the ſame Art and Tricks. Now to theſe Joſephus doth aſcribe the beginning of the Apoſtacy from the Roman Government, and by them he inform us that it was carried on to the laſt; The Affairs of the Jews, ſaith he, became worſe daily, by reaſon (o) γόητων ἀνθρώπων ἐπὶ τὸν ὄχλον ἠπάτων, of theſe Impoſtors who deceive the People, of which he immediately gives an Inſtance in the Egyptian who ſet up for a Prophet. He adds, That (p) in the beginning of the Reign of Nero Impoſtors and Deceivers, under a Divine Impulſe, endevouring Innovations and Changes, made the People mad, and led them into the Wilderneſs, promiſing there to them Signs of Liberty from God. And that (r) γόητες πολλὸς εἰς ἀποστασίαν ἔπεισον, the Impoſtors prevailed with many to revolt. And even when their Temple was in flames, he ſaith, (s) There were many Prophets who encouraged them to expect τὴν παρὰ τοῦ Θεοῦ βοήθειαν help from God, and that they gave credit to them. Accordingly of the Dragon it is ſaid, That the unclean Spirits which went out of his mouth, were the Spirits of Devils working Miracles, Rev. 16. 13, 14. That the falſe Prophet wrought ſigns before the Beaſt, Rev. 19. 20. and that the Beaſt wrought great ſigns, ſo as to make Fire deſcend from Heaven, Rev. 13. 13. and that by theſe things they did πλανᾶν deceive the Inhabitants of the Earth, Rev. 13. 13, 14. 19. 20. 10. Of which Miracles done by the Members of the Roman Church, to ſtabliſh their Idolatry, and Superſtitions, ſee Doun. de Antichriſto, lib. 6. cap. 1.

Τὴν ἀγάπην τῆς ἀληθείας οὐκ ἐδέξαντο, they received not the love of the Truth.] From theſe words ſome conceive that Antichriſt, or the Man of Sin, muſt in Profeſſion be a Chriſtian, becauſe he is ſaid not to receive the love of the Truth only. But all the (t) Fathers, and many others ſay, not to receive the love of the Truth, is, not to receive the Truth which is worthy to be loved, and which would have taught them Charity to thoſe they perſecuted, it being the ſame with not believing the Truth, v. 12. And this emphatically belongeth to thoſe unbelieving Jews to whom St. Paul ſpeaks thus, It was neceſſary that the Word of God ſhould be firſt ſpoken to you, but ſince you thruſt it from you, and judge your ſelves unworthy of Eternal Life, lo we turn unto the Gentiles, Acts 13. 46. and to whom he applieth that of the Prophet, Behold, ye Deſpiſers and periſh, for I will work a work in your days which you will in no wiſe believe, v. 41. See Acts 28. 27. Hebr. 4. 2, 12. 1 Pet. 2. 7, 8. And all the (v) Fathers which ſpeak of Antichriſt, and the Man of Sin, not one of them excepted, declare that this, and the two following Verſes, belong to the unbelieving Jews, that he is thus to come with ſigns and wonders to deceive them, and that they who would not receive Chriſt confirming his Doctrine with true Miracles, ſhall be deceived by the lying Miracles of Antichriſt. And if this be ſo, that theſe things are intended of the unbelieving Jews, they can agree in the primary import of them to them only.

Ver. 11. And for this cauſe God ſhall ſend among them ſtrong delufions, (which will have this effect upon them,) that they ſhould (ſhall) believe a lye. (What ſtrong Deluſions the Jews then, and the Roman Catholicks do now lye under, the preceding Notes ſhew.)

Πέμψει αὐτοῖς ὁ Θεὸς, God ſhall ſend.] As he ſent a lying Spirit into the mouths of Ahab's Prophets, 1 Kings 22. 21, 22. by permitting the evil Spirit to go forth for that end, as he is ſaid to deceive his People, Jer. 4. 10. becauſe he ſuffered them to be deceived by falſe Prophets, Jer. 6. 14. And as he deceived the falſe Prophets, by giving them up unto a Spirit of Deluſion, Ezek. 14. 9. this muſt be the true Interpretation of all ſuch Paſſages as theſe. For

1*ſt*, God cannot ſecretly inſpire into us any Evil, or infuſe any evil Principle into our hearts; for Evil can never proceed immediately from him who hath an abſolute, and entire freedom from it; were it his off-ſpring it muſt ceaſe to bear that Name, his Works being all very good, and wrought in Righteouſneſs. Nor

2*ly*, Can he encline, excite, encourage, or entice to Sin; for then he muſt excite Men to perform the abominable thing which his Soul hates, to do that which is what is infinitely diſpleaſing to him, and muſt incline them ſecretly to that which he openly deters all perſons from; and then he cannot truly be offended with ſuch perſons, he cannot puniſh them for their Iniquities; or elſe he muſt be angry with them becauſe they do obey his Motions, and Sentence them to endleſs Miſery, becauſe they do comply with his own Inclinations. Nor

3*ly*, Can he neceſſitate any Man to ſin, for then he muſt by force compel them to it, and then the Action done by virtue of that Force cannot be theirs, but Gods; nor would our Conſciences condemn us for ſin, were we aſſured we could not help it.

Ver. 12. That they all might be damned (Gr. judged, and condemned,) who believed not the Truth, (the Goſpel preached to them; See Note on Rom. 2. 8.) but had pleaſure in unrighteouſneſs, (or falſhood, See Note on 1 Cor. 13. 6.)

Ver. 13. But we are bound to give thanks to God alway for you Brethren, becauſe God hath from the beginning (of our preaching to you ſhew'd, 1 Theſſ. 1. 4, 5. that be had) choſen you to ſalvation through ſanctification of the Spirit, (which gives the earneſt of it, and makes us meet for it,) and belief of the Truth (which promiſeth it.)

Ver. 15. Therefore, Brethren, ſtand faſt (in the Faith,) and hold the Traditions which you have been taught, whether by word, v. 5, 6.) or by (this) our Epiſtle.

Ver. 16. Now our Lord Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, and God even our Father, (through him) who hath loved us, and hath given us everlaſting conſolation, and good hope through Grace.

Ver. 17. Comfort your hearts, and ſtabliſh you in every good word and work.

Κρατεῖτε τὰς παραδόσεις, hold the Traditions which ye have been taught.] This Paſſage proves not in the leaſt that in the Judgment of St. Paul, there were any Traditions wholly extraſcriptural, that is, ſuch as were neither then committed, nor after to be committed to writing, by himſelf, or any other inſpired Perſon, but only that he himſelf had not writ all things to them by Epiſtle, being abſent, but had preached many things to them being preſent. Now that the word which St. Paul preached orally, was after written by St. Luke his (x) Amanuenſis and Companion, we learn from the Tradition of the Church of Chriſt, recorded by (y) Irenæus and Euſebius.

2. All that the Apoſtle here exhorts his Theſſalonians to do, is to retain the Traditions they had immediately received from the mouth of an Apoſtle, and which he perſonally had delivered to them, of which Traditions, when we know them to be ſuch, there is no doubt but they ought with all reverence to be received; when therefore the Church of Rome hath proved that the Traditions that ſhe obtrudes upon us were immediately received from the Mouth of an Apoſtle, then, and not till then, will this Text oblige us to receive them.

3*ly*, This Text is ſo far from being an Argument for receiving Doctrinal Traditions no where writ in Scripture upon the ſole Authority of the Church of Rome, or even of the Church Catholick, that it is rather a Demonſtration that ſhe is no ſure Preſerver of them, ſhe having actually loſt thoſe very Traditions touching the Man of Sin which are mentioned in this Chapter, and particularly referred to in this Text; I told you theſe things when I was with you, v. 8. and now ye know what letteth, v. 6 wherefore ſtand faſt, holding the Traditions (touching his coming, which when I was with you I delivered by words, and now hint to you by Epiſtle,) and which, as it appeareth by this Epiſtle, and his Exhortation, were of great moment to be known. Now hath this Tradition been preſerved by the Roman, or by the Catholick Church? Or muſt ſhe not confeſs with (z) Anſelm, and their own (a) Eſtius on the place, Truly the Theſſalonians knew what letted, but we know it not. So that the Tradition which the Church received from the Apoſtles touching this matter, is wholly loſt; how therefore can ſhe be relied on as a ſure Preſerver, and a true Teacher of Traditions, which hath confeſſedly loſt one of great moment, depoſited with the Theſſalonians, and the Primitive Church?

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. FInally, (τὸ λοιπὸν, furthermore, I entreat you Brethren to) pray for us (Apoſtles, and Miniſters of the Goſpel,) that the word of the Lord (preached by us) may have free courſe, (τρέχῃ, may run on freely too,) and be glorified (among other Gentiles,) even as (it hath been) among you.

Ver. 2. And (pray alſo) that we may be delivered from unreaſonable and wicked men, (ſuch as the unbelieving Jews, the great Oppoſers of our preaching to the Gentiles, are, 1 Theſſ. 2. 15, 16.) for all men have not faith.

Note. It is well known, and hath been often obſerved, That the unbelieving Jews were in all places bitter Enemies to the Preachers of the Goſpel, and ſent their Emiſſaries into all places to incite the Governours againſt them, and therefore, as here, ſo Rom. 15. 31. the Apoſtle intreats Chriſtians to contend with him in Prayer, that he might be delivered from the unbelievers in Judea; whereas Simon Magus and his Followers were a deſpicable Crew at the writing of this Epiſtle, and could have no power to perſecute the Apoſtles or Preachers of the Goſpel upon this account. And therefore (a) Euſebius informs us that his Hereſie prevailed little in the Apoſtles days, and that his power preſently was extinguiſhed with his perſon.

Ver. 3. But (though men may prove unfaithful,) the Lord is (always) faithful (to his promiſes,) who (therefore) ſhall (or will do all things requiſite on his part, to) ſtabliſh you, and keep you from evil.

Ver. 4. And (therefore) we are confident in the Lord, that ye (through his aſſiſtance) both do (at preſent,) and will (ſtill) do the things which we (by his authority) command you.

Ver. 5. And (that we may not be miſtaken in this confidence, we pray that) the Lord (would) direct your hearts into the love of God, (which will conſtrain you to this obedience, 2 Cor. 5. 14. and from which nothing ſhall ſeparate you, Rom. 8. 35—39. and into the patient waiting for of Chriſt (mentioned 1 Theſſ. 1. 10. 2 Theſſ. 1. 10. Philip. 3. 20.)

Or εἰς ὑπομονὴν τοῦ Χριστοῦ, into the patience of Chriſt.] i. e. Into an imitation of his Patience, in ſuffering the contradiction of ſinners againſt himſelf, that ye may run with patience the race which is ſet before you, looking unto Jeſus, &c. Hebr. 12. 1, 2.

Ver. 6. Now we (being thus confident of your obedience) command you, Brethren, in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that ye withdraw your ſelves from every Brother that walketh diſorderly, and not after the Tradition which he hath received of (i. e. from) us.

Κατὰ τὴν παράδοσιν.] The Tradition here mentioned is, ſay Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius and Theophylact, the Tradition which he delivered διὰ τῶν ἔργων by his works, in which he was an Example to them of Induſtry, and therefore he adds, Ver. 7. For you your ſelves know how you ought to follow us; for we behaved not our ſelves diſorderly among you.

Ver. 8. Neither did we eat any mans bread for nought; but wrought with labour and travel, (wearineſs and toil,) night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you.

Οὐκ ἠτακτήσαμεν, we behaved not our ſelves diſorderly.] That is, ſaith Theophylact, we were not idle; for God having ordered Man to labour, and fitted him with Members for that end, he that will not do ſo, ἐκλέλοιπε τὴν τάξιν, deſerts the Order in which God hath placed him, and ſo the Apoſtle expounds himſelf, v. 11.

Ver. 9. Not becauſe we have not power (to live of the Goſpel, for the Labourer is worthy of his hire, Luke 10. 7. and ſo hath the Lord appointed that they that preach the Goſpel ſhould live of the Goſpel, 1 Cor 9. 14.) but to make our ſelves an enſample for you to follow us (in this our induſtry; for if we, who might lawfully live upon other mens labours, chuſe rather to work for our own living, how much more ought you to do ſo?)

Ver. 10. (And this we formerly have taught,) For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any (being able) would not work, neither ſhould he eat.

Ver. 11. And of this we have cauſe to re- mind you,) For we hear that there are ſome who walk among you diſorderly, working not at all, but are buſie bodies, (medling with that which belongs not to them.)

Ver. 12. Now them that are ſuch, we command and exhort, by (the Authority, and in the Name of) the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that with quietneſs they work, and (ſo) eat their own bread.

Ver. 13. (Thus I hear it is with them,) But ye, Brethren, be not weary of well-doing, (let not their Example make you neglect your induſtry.)

Ver. 14. And if any man (among you) obey not our word by this Epiſtle, (in which we exhort, and command them thus to work,) note that man, and have no company with him, that he may be aſhamed, (being thus ſhun'd as unworthy of the Society of Chriſtians.)

Ver. 15. Yet count him not as an Enemy, but admoniſh him as a Brother.

Σημειῶσθε.] Moſt Interpreters ſay that the Apoſtle, v. 6. and here, requires the Church Governours to uſe the Cenſures of the Church upon theſe diſorderly walkers; but I have ſhewed it to be highly probable, that when this Epiſtle was writ, there were no ſuch Governours ſettled in this Church, See Note on 1 Theſſ. 5. 12.

2*ly*, Theſe Exhortations plainly are directed to all the Brethren in general; if therefore they relate to Excommunication, and ſuch like Cenſures, it will hence follow that the Power of the Keys belong to all the Brethren in general.

3*ly*, The Apoſtle exhorts them ſtill to own them as Chriſtian Brethren, which they at preſent are not who by Excommunication are excluded from the Church, and the Society of Chriſtians.

Ver. 16. Now the Lord of Peace himſelf give you Peace always, by all means. The Lord be with you all.

Ὁ Κύριος, the Lord.] Both here, and Chap. 2. v. 16. the Apoſtle prays to the Lord Jeſus Chriſt for peace, which in the Hebrew Phraſe, imports all Happineſs, and for eſtabliſhment in every good word and work, which is a ſtrong Argument for his Divinity, eſpecially conſidering that every good Work derives from God.

Ver. 17. The Salutation of (me) Paul with mine own hand, which is the token in every Epiſtle, (that it comes from me.)

Ὅ ἐστι σημεῖον ἐν πάσῃ ἐπιστολῇ, which is the token in every Epiſtle.] Hence Grotius concludes that this muſt be the firſt of his Epiſtles; for had he, ſaith he, writ any Epiſtle before, this Admonition had been needleſs. I ſhould rather think that this ſuppoſes he had writ ſome Epiſtle before, becauſe he ſaith not, this ſhall be, but this is the ſign in every Epiſtle. And this is evident, almoſt to a demonſtration, from theſe words, Chap. 2. 2. Be not troubled by Epiſtle as from us, as if the Day of the Lord were at hand. See the Note there; and from theſe words, v. 15. Hold the Traditions you have (formerly) received, whether by Word, or by our Epiſtle. To which words Grotius hath nothing to anſwer. Add to this the Note of the Learned (b) Mr. Dodwell, cited in the Margin.

Note, That the Salutation with his own Hand, reſpects his own writing, by which his Epiſtles were diſtinguiſhed from any Counterfeits.

Ver. 18. The Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE First Epiſtle of St. PAUL to TIMOTHY.

THAT this Epiſtle was written after St. Paul's Departure from Epheſus to Macedonia, ſome gather from theſe Words, When I went into Macedonia i beſought thee to abide at Epheſus, Ch. 1. 3. and that it was writ when he was in expectation of returning ſhortly thither, they conclude from theſe Words, I write to thee, hoping to come unto thee quickly, Chap. 3. 14. It therefore, ſay they, muſt be writ before he came to Miletus, Acts 20. 17. For then he, ſending for the Biſhops of Epheſus thither, ſpeaks thus to them, And now I know that all you, among whom I have gone preaching the Kingdom of God, ſhall ſee my Face no more, v. 25. For then he muſt have laid aſide all Thoughts of returning any more to Epheſus. It therefore muſt, ſay they, be written while he was in Macedonia, or thereabouts; and ſo A. D. 55. and the firſt of Nero, ſo Dr. Lightfoot.

Biſhop Pearſon grants that it was written after St. Paul was gone into Macedonia; but then he adds, that it was writ after his Enlargement from his Bonds at Rome, A. D. 65. that it could not be writ at any time of St. Paul's going to Macedonia, before his Journey to Jeruſalem, he proves, becauſe before that time, St. Paul could not have exhorted him to abide at Epheſus; for the firſt time he went to Macedonia by the Direction of the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 16. 9, 10. He had not ſeen Epheſus, for he came not thither till a long time after, Acts 19. 1. The ſecond time he came to Macedonia was after the Tumult which forc'd him to leave Epheſus, Acts 20. 1. when he could not exhort him to abide at Epheſus, for he had ſent him thence to Macedonia at that very time when that Tumult began, Acts 19. 22, 23. This Argument, I confeſs, is not very ſtrong, it being plain from his firſt Epiſtle writ to Corinth, while he was at Epheſus, 1 Cor. 16. 8, 10, 11. that he expected then his Return to him: But then it appears that Timothy was with him when he went firſt from Macedonia to Achaia, and at Corinth writ his Epiſtle to the Romans, Chap. 16. 21. and alſo when he returned from Achaia to Macedonia, for then he accompanied him from Achaia to Macedonia, and ſo to Aſia, and ſo he abode not then at Epheſus, Acts 20. 4. Now from thence St. Paul goes to Jeruſalem, and from thence bound to Rome, and ſo he could not after go to Macedonia till he was ſet at Liberty. This therefore, ſaith he, was done afterwards in the 10th. Year of Nero, A. D. 65. and ſoon after he writ this Epiſtle to him.

And whereas againſt this it is objected, that in this Epiſtle he ſpeaks twice of his coming to Epheſus, ſaying, I write unto thee, hoping to come to thee ſhortly, Chap. 3. 14. and till I come, give thy diligence to reading, Chap. 4. 13. whereas before his going up to Jeruſalem, he had expreſly ſaid to them of Epheſus, I know that all you ſhall ſee my face no more; whence it is gathered that this Epiſtle muſt be writ before that time.

To this I anſwer, That St. Paul ſaith plainly in this Epiſtle, that he purpoſed to come to him; but he ſaith not, that he purpoſed to come to him to Epheſus. If you reply, that in this Epiſtle he commands him to ſtay at Epheſus, and ſo muſt be ſuppoſed to ſpeak of coming thither to him, Ch. 1. 3. this I confeſs is true, according to our Verſion, which adds unto the Words ſo do; but if you read the Words thus, As I exhorted thee to abide (ſome time) at Epheſus, when I went into Macedonia, (ſo I did it) that thou mighteſt admoniſh ſome to teach no other Doctrine, it will be left uncertain whether he were at Epheſus, at the inditing this Epiſtle; for then having done the Work for which he was bid to ſtay at Epheſus, he might go on to other Places, doing the Work of an Evangeliſt, and ſettling ordinary Church Governors, Biſhops, Presbyters, and Deacons, where they were wanting, and doing all the other things mentioned in this Epiſtle, as things to be performed in the Church of God. For,

1*ſt*. 'Tis certain that when the ſecond Epiſtle was writ to Timothy, he was not at Epheſus, as I have there proved, Note on Chap. 4. 12. He therefore might have been gone thence alſo at the writing of this Epiſtle, to ſettle the Affairs of other Churches.

2*dly*, It is certain that this firſt Epiſtle was writ to him, that in St. Paul's Abſence he might know how to deport himſelf in the Church of God, eſpecially in reference to the Preſcriptions here laid down, Chap. 3. 15. Now there was little need that he ſhould ſtay there, to do the Great Work preſcribed in this Epiſtle, touching Biſhops and Deacons, they being ſettled among them by St. Paul himſelf before he left Epheſus; and they being after, in his Journey to Jeruſalem, ſummoned to Miletus, and taught how to demean themſelves in the reſpective Provinces committed to their Truſt, 'tis therefore highly probable that theſe Directions were given him in reference to other Churches to which this Evangeliſt was to travel, and in ſome of which he might then be. If this Conjecture may take place, the Difficulty is fully anſwered; if not, I muſt confeſs my ſelf unable to return any ſatisfactory Anſwer to it, and ſo leave the Reader to his Choice, whether he will follow the Opinion of Dr. Lightfoot, or Biſhop Pearſon, in this Matter.

But tho' there be ſo great a Difference as to the time of writing this Epiſtle; the Ancient Commentators all agree in this, (a) That St. Timothy was left at Epheſus to preſerve that Church from the Endeavours of the Judaizing Chriſtians to introduce Circumciſion, and the Obſervance of the Law, and to amuſe them with their Talmudical Fables, and with their Genealogies from Abraham, and the Patriarchs. A Reverend Perſon ſaith, 'It is evi- 'dent the Gnoſticks were now ſcattered in 'Aſia, and ſo characterized by the Apoſtle, 'Chap. 4. and 6. and there diſtinctly ſpecified 'under the Title of ψευδώνυμος γνῶσις, Science 'falſly ſo called, v. 20. they being the Men 'who aſſumed to themſelves the Names of 'Gnoſticks, or Knowing Men. And it muſt 'be confeſſed that (b) Theodoret accords with him in this Matter, ſaying, That the Apoſtle ſtiles the pretended Knowledge of the Gnoſticks, Science, falſly ſo called. And (c) Saint Chryſoſtom ſaith, Perhaps this was ſpoken by reaſon of ſome who were then called Gnoſticks. And (d) Theophylact, I think the Apoſtle ſpeaks this concerning ſome then called Gnoſticks. But yet there lies this ſtrong Objection againſt this Expoſition of this Phraſe, or the aſcribing of it to the Gnoſticks, That, according to all the Accounts we receive from the Ancients, theſe Gnoſticks were not then in Being, at leaſt under that Name; for whether, with Irenæus, we derive their Original from (e) Valentinus, or Carpocrates; or, with Clemens Alexandrinus, from Epiphanes, the Author of the Sect of the Carpocratians; or, as St. Jerom ſaith from (f) Baſilides. It is evident, and confeſs'd by all theſe Authors, That all theſe, and even Menander, whom Irenæus ſometimes makes the Father of the Gnoſticks, were long after the writing of this Epiſtle. Whereas the Judaizing Chriſtians were, ſaith Theodoret, μέγα φρονοῦντες ἐπὶ τῇ γνώσει, Great Boaſters of their Knowledge of the Law; and yet that their pretended Knowledge was falſe Knowledge, we learn from thoſe Words of the Apoſtle, That theſe Teachers of the Law knew not what they ſaid, or whereof they affirmed, 1 Tim. 1. 7. Hence is their Doctrine ſtiled, ματαιολογία, vain talking, v. 6. and here, κενοφωνία, empty babling; as alſo, 2 Tim. 2. 16. ἄνοια, fooliſhneſs, 2 Tim. 3. 9. and they are ſaid to be ματαιολόγοι, vain talkers, Tit. 1. 10. Men puffed up, and knowing nothing, but doting about queſtions, and ſtrife of words, 1 Tim. 6. See the Note on Chap. 6. 20. So that I can ſee no Objection againſt that Opinion which refers this Phraſe to thoſe Judaizers, whom the Apoſtle elſewhere ſtileth falſe Apoſtles and deceitful Workers.

A Paraphraſe with Annotations ON THE First Epiſtle of St. PAUL to TIMOTHY.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. PAUL, an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, by the Commandment (κατ' ἐπιταγὴν, according to the Appointment) of God our Saviour, (who called me to this Office by his Grace, Gal. 1. 15.) and (by the Appointment) of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who is our Hope (of Glory, Coloſſ. 1. 27.)

Ἀπόστολος, an Apoſtle, &c.] Thus he writes to Timothy and Titus, not to aſſert his Apoſtolical Authority to them who doubted not of it, but for their ſakes over whom they were to preſide, that they might not deſpiſe what they did, and enjoin'd by ſo great Authority.

Κατ' ἐπιταγὴν θεοῦ σωτῆρος ἡμῶν καὶ κυρίου, &c.] Some conſtrue theſe Words thus, According to the Commandment of Jeſus Chriſt, who is God our Saviour; but the Words τῆς ἐλπίδος ἡμῶν, our Hope, muſt be conſtrued with the Words Jeſus Chriſt: And this ſufficiently confutes that Verſion, which as none of the Ancients followed, ſo is it not ſupported by the Word Saviour added to God, that Epithete being twice applied to God the Father in this Epiſtle, viz. Ch. 2. 3. and 4. 10. and twice in the Epiſtle to Titus, viz. Ch. 1. 3. and 2. 10. Moreover ſome ancient Copies read τοῦ πατρὸς, of God our Father.

Ver. 2. To Timothy my own Son in the Faith (do I wiſh) Grace, Mercy, and Peace, from God the Father, and (from) the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Τιμοθέῳ γνησίῳ τέκνῳ ἐν πίστει, my own Son in the Faith.] This Phraſe compared with 1 Cor. 4. 14, 15. ſeems plainly to import, That Timothy was converted to the Chriſtian Faith by St. Paul; as alſo he ſeems to intimate when he ſaith, He ſerved with him in the Goſpel as a Son with the Father, Phil. 2. 22. and again calls him his beloved Son, 2 Tim. 1. 2. Nor find I any thing in Scripture to the contrary; for tho' it is ſaid that he had learned the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament from his Youth, 2 Tim. 3. 15. yet is that true alſo of St. Paul, when yet he was no Convert to the Chriſtian Faith, but a zealous Perſecutor of it. And tho' he was a Diſciple when Paul circumciſed him, and took him with him from Lyſtra, Act. 16. 1. that hinders not but that he might be made ſo by St. Paul himſelf.

Ver. 3. (Declaring that) As I beſought thee to abide ſtill at Epheſus, when I went into Macedonia, (Act. 20. 1. So I did it to this end) that thou mighteſt charge ſome (Judaizers there) to teach no other Doctrine (than that which is according to Godlineſs, Ch. 6. 3.)

Ver. 4. Neither give heed (or incline) to (Jewiſh) Fables and endleſs Genealogies, which miniſter Queſtions (or Diſquiſitions into Pedigrees) rather than godly edifying, which is in Faith, ſo do.

Μᾶλλον ἢ οἰκονομίαν θεοῦ τὴν ἐν πίστει, rather than godly edifying which is in Faith.] Here firſt the Grammarians note, That comparative Particles, and eſpecially this of μᾶλλον, rather, are often in Senſe negative, as Luke 18. 14. He went to his Houſe juſtified, ἢ ἐκεῖνος, rather than the other; i. e. the Publican, and not the Phariſee; 1 Pet. 3. 17. It is better to ſuffer for well doing than for evil doing; Joh. 3. 19. Men loved μᾶλλον τὸ σκότος ἢ φῶς, Darkneſs and not Light; 2 Tim. 3. 4. φιλήδονοι μᾶλλον ἢ φιλόθεοι, i. e. Lovers of Pleaſures and not of God: See Joh. 12. 43. Heb. 11. 25. The Edification in the Faith here mentioned is ſtiled the Edification of God, becauſe it hath God for its Object, and its End, as tending to the true Knowledge and right Worſhip of God; it is efficiently from him, (on which account Juſtification by Faith is ſtiled the Righteouſneſs of God,) and tendeth highly to his Glory.

Ver. 5. Now (for) the end of the Commandment is Charity out of a pure Heart, and a good Conſcience, and Faith unfeigned.

Τὸ τέλος τῆς παραγγελίας, The Scope of the Commandment.] This ſome refer to the Law, which, ſaith the Apoſtle, is fulfill'd by Love, Rom. 13. 10. but ἀγγελία, 1 Joh. 3. 11. παγγελία, 1 Theſſ. 4. 2. and v. 18. of this Chapter, and ἐπαγγελία being in the Epiſtles always uſed of the Goſpel, and the latter Word ſpoken of it in oppoſition to the Law, which, ſaith the Apoſtle, was not ἐξ ἐπαγγελίας, of Promiſe, Rom. 4. 13. Gal. 3. 18. I rather think it here refers unto the Goſpel, or to that Diſpenſation in which nothing availeth but Faith working by Love, Gal. 5. 6. and which requires fervent and unfeigned Love out of a pure Heart from all that do obey the Truth, 1 Pet. 1. 22.

Ver. 6. From which (Commandment) ſome having ſwerved, have turned unto vain janglings: (vain Diſcourſes of Talmudical Fables and endleſs Genealogies.)

Ver. 7. Deſiring to be Teachers of the Law, (and yet) underſtanding neither what they ſay (of it,) nor whereof they affirm, (i. e. neither the Senſe, Scope, or the true Meaning of that Law of which they ſpeak, nor having any Certainty of the Traditions of which they talk ſo confidently.)

Θέλοντες εἶναι νομοδιδάσκαλοι, deſiring to be Teachers of the Law.] That theſe Perſons were not Gnoſticks, but ἐξ Ἰουδαίων, the Jews, is manifeſt, ſay the Greek Commentators, from theſe Words. For the Gnoſticks were the greateſt Adverſaries of the Law and the Prophets; and even Rejecters of that God who gave the one, and inſpired the other. Simon Magus taught, That the (a) Prophets received their Propheſies only from Angels; and that therefore they that believed in him and his Selene, ſhould not regard them. Saturninus, That Chriſt came (b) to deſtroy the God of the Jews; which God Simon himſelf denied, ſaith the (c) Pſeud-Ignatius. They taught Men not (d) to uſe the Law and the Prophets, nor to fear their Threats. Now they who held and taught theſe things muſt be the greateſt Adverſaries to, and not the Teachers of the Law. Hence it follows,

1. That the Fables and Genealogies mentioned, v. 4. and the vain Janglings, v. 6. cannot relate to the Æones of the Gnoſticks, which ſeem not then to be hatch'd; but that the Apoſtle rather here reſpects, as Theodoret obſerves, τὴν Ἰουδαϊκὴν ἐρμηνείαν τὴν ὑπ' αὐτῶν κεκλεισμένην διυτέρωσιν, the vain Traditions, or talmudical Fables of the Jews, as the Apoſtle explains himſelf, when he inſtructs Titus to teach the Cretians μὴ προσέχειν Ἰουδαϊκοῖς μύθοις, not to give heed to the Jewiſh Fables of Men who turn from the Truth, Ch. 1. 14. eſpecially thoſe Traditions and Fables they had received of a Meſſiah B. Joſeph that was to ſuffer, and a Meſſiah B. David that was to triumph glorioufly, and abide for ever, Joh. 12. 34. and of the Golden Days, they were to have at the Coming of this Meſſiah; of which, Trypho, in his Dialogue with Juſtin, ſpeaks, p. 249. B. ſaying, That their Prieſts taught them ἔνδοξον καὶ μέγαν ἀναμένειν—παρουσίαν Χριστοῦ τὴν ἀιώνιον βασιλείαν, τῷ expect a great and glorious Meſſiah who ſhould have an endleſs Kingdom; and p. 306, 307. of the Happy Days they were to enjoy in Jeruſalem rebuilt at his Coming. The endleſs Genealogies are, ſay the Fathers, γενεαλογίαι τῶν ἐξ Ἀβραὰμ καὶ Δαβὶδ, their Genealogies from Abraham and David, which they were concerned for, that they might know they came from the promiſed Seed, or their Title to the Privileges belonging to the Children of Abraham. They were, ſaith Dr. Lightf. the long and intricate Pedigrees they ſtood upon to prove themſelves Prieſts, or Levites; for, as *Joſephus notes, they thought themſelves obliged to be very exact in that Affair, and therefore had Genealogies of them preſerved two thouſand Years. To theſe we may add the Genealogy and Pedigree of their Traditions which they derived from Joſhua in a long Line of Succeſſion to their Times. That they were Genealogies belonging to the Jews, we learn from Tit. 3. 9. where they are join'd with Strifes about the Law.

Ver. 8. But (tho' they are thus ignorant) we know that the Law (in it ſelf) is good, if a Man uſe it lawfully, (not as a Means of Juſtification, but as a Reſtraint from Sin, Gal. 3. 19. and as a Schoolmaſter, to bring him to Chriſt, the end of the Law, Gal. 3. 24. Rom. 10. 4.)

Ver. 9. Knowing this, that the Law is not made for a Righteous Perſon, (to condemn, or work Wrath to him, Rom. 4. 15. as failing in the ſtrict Obſervance of it;) but for (reſtraining and condemning) the Lawleſs and Diſobedient, for the Ungodly and for Sinners, for Unholy and Profane, for Murtherers of Fathers, and Murtherers of Mothers, for Manſlayers.

Ver. 10. For Whoremongers, for thoſe that defile themſelves with Mankind, for Men ſtealers, for Liars, for Perjur'd Perſons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to sound Doctrine.

Ver. 11. (That is the Doctrine which is) According to the Glorious Gospel of the Blessed God which was committed to my Trust.

Δικαίῳ νόμος οὐ κεῖται,] i. e. The Law was not made to condemn the just Man, for against such there is no Law, condemning them, Gal. 5. 23. ἀλλὰ τοῖς δὲ, but it lies against the Lawless, &c. to condemn them.

Ἀνόμοις, &c.] From this enumeration of Offenders against the Law, we learn that the Apostle is here speaking of the Moral Law contained in the Ten Commandments; for the Sins here mentioned respect them, the ungodly being Sinners against the first Commandment. The ἀσεβεσι, Sinners, (as that Word signifies the Idolatrous Gentiles, Gal. 2. 15.) the Transgressors of the second, the perjured Persons, of the third, the unholy and profane, of the fourth, the Murtherers of Fathers and Mothers, of the fifth, the Manslayers, of the sixth, the Fornicators and Defilers of themselves with Mankind, of the seventh, Menstealers, of the eighth, Liars, of the ninth, as also from the following Words, if there be any other thing contrary to the sound Doctrine of the Gospel. Note, 3dly, That Fornication is here reckoned among Sins committed against the Law of Nature, or the Moral Law; as it is also, Rom. 1. 29. and among the manifest Works of the Flesh, Gal. 5. 19. yea among the things for which the Wrath of God comes upon the Children of Disobedience or Unbelief, that is, the Heathens, Eph. 5. 5, 6. for which Men are to be excluded from the Kingdom of God, 1 Cor. 6. 10. Rev. 22. 15. and to be cast into the Lake of Fire and Brimstone, Rev. 21. 8. Whence it is to be wondred that this Sin should be so generally committed by some, and pleaded for by others, who are called Christians.

Ver. 12. And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who hath enabled me (by the Assistance of the Spirit of Power and Wisdom, who of myself was insufficient for this Work, 2 Cor. 3. 5, 6.) because he accounted me (one that would be) faithful (in the discharge of it,) putting me (therefore) into the Ministry.

Ὅτι πιστόν με ἡγήσατο, He accounted me faithful.] That St. Paul was a Vessel of Election to bear Christ's Name before the Gentiles, see Act. 9. 15. that in order thereunto he was by him to be filled with the Holy Ghost, v. 17. and so enabled to perform this Work with the Power of Signs and Wonders, and of the Spirit of God, see Rom. 15. 19. Christ also appeared to him for this very end, προχειρίσασθαι, to constitute him first, and set him apart, as it were, by laying Hands upon him, to make him a Minister and Witness of what he had seen and heard, Act. 26. 16. 22. 14, 15. and accordingly he sent him to the Gentiles, Act. 26. 17. and thus he put him into the Ministry. Christ did this because he accounted him one that would be faithful in the Discharge of his Duty, 1 Cor. 4. 2. and 7. 25. i. e. such a one, who, by the Consideration of so great Mercy, and abundant Grace, vouchsafed to one so unworthy, would patiently suffer for, Act. 9. 16. and labour more abundantly in Propagation of the Gospel, when thus assisted by the Grace and Spirit of Christ, 1 Cor. 15. 10. Whence 'tis observed by the Fathers here, That (a) there was not only something of God, but also something of himself, for which he was chosen to this Ministery; and that he so magnifies the Grace of God, as not to invalidate Man's Free Will.

Ver. 13. (Me, I say,) who was before (this gracious Call) a Blasphemer (of Christ, Act. 26. 11.) and a Persecutor (of his Servants, Act. 8. 3.) and injurious (to them;) but I obtained Mercy (from him) because I did it (not against Knowledge,) for I verily thought I ought to do many things against the Name of Jesus, (Act. 26. 9. but) ignorantly in unbelief.

Ὅτι ἀγνοῶν ἐποίησα ἐν ἀπιστίᾳ, I did it ignorantly.] Being an Unbeliever, as he might be under those many Prejudices the Learned Jews and zealous Assertors of their Traditions laboured under; for to this St. Peter doth ascribe their Crucifixion of our Lord, saying, I know you did it, κατ' ἄγνοιαν, through Ignorance, Act. 3. 17. and St. Paul saying they did it, τὸν ἀγνοήσαντες, not knowing him, Act. 13. 27. 1 Cor. 2. 8. and Christ himself, when he prays thus, Father, forgive them, they know not what they do, Luk 23. 34. giving the same Reason of his Prayer for their Forgiveness, as St. Paul here doth of his own actual Forgiveness; so that 'tis needless to endeavour, as some do, to wrest these Words to another Sense.

Ver. 14. And this Grace of God was exceedingly abundant (in its Power to enable me to promote the Faith, Rom. 15. 19.) through (that) Faith (in) and Love (I had) towards Christ Jesus.

Μετὰ πίστεως καὶ ἀγάπης, through Faith and Love.] Love constraining him to labour more abundantly, 2 Cor. 5. 14. and his strong Faith enabling him to do it in the Power of Signs and Wonders, and of the Holy Ghost, Rom. 15. 19.

Ver. 15. This (therefore) is a faithful Saying, and worthy of all Acceptation, that Christ

Jesus

Jeſus came into the World to ſave Sinners, of whom I am chief, (and ſo a great Example of this Truth.)

Ἁμαρτωλὸς σῶσαι, to ſave ſinners.] Hence Divines have well obſerved that if Man had not ſinned, Chriſt had not come into the world.

Εἰμὶ ἐγώ, I am.] He ſaith not I was, but I am, becauſe even when Sin is pardon'd, we ought to have the proſpect of it ſtill before our Eyes, to keep us humble and ſenſible of the great Grace of God to us.

Ver. 16. Howbeit for this cauſe (even) I (the chief of ſinners) obtained mercy, that in me firſt Jeſus Chriſt might ſhew forth all long-ſuffering, for a pattern (of it) to them which ſhould hereafter believe on him to life everlaſting.

Ver. 17. Now to the King eternal, immortal, inviſible, the only wiſe God, be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen.

Ver. 18. This charge (of remaining at Epheſus, for the benefit of the Churches there, v. 3.) I commit unto thee, ſon Timothy, according to the Prophecies that went before of thee, that thou, (encouraged and excited) by them mighteſt war a good warfare, (even that of Faith, Chap. 6. 12. fighting and ſuffering as a good Souldier of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Tim. 2. 3.)

Κατὰ τὰς προαγούσας ἐπὶ σε προφητείας, according to the foregoing Prophecies concerning thee.] So Chap. 4. v. 14. neglect not τὸ χάρισμα, the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt, which was given thee, διὰ προφητείας, according to Prophecy. I have ſhew'd, Note on 1 Cor. 12. 10. that among the Gifts of Prophecy, and diſcerning of Spirits, this was one, to foretel, and chuſe out Perſons meet to do God Service in the Miniſtery. Hence St. Paul charges the Biſhops of Epheſus to feed the Flock over which the Holy Ghoſt had made them Overſeers, or Biſhops, Acts 20. 28. And Clemens Romanus ſaith, the Apoſtles choſe Biſhops and Deacons, with full aſſurance of the Holy Ghoſt, πρόῤῥησιν εἰληφότες τελείαν, Ep. ad Cor. §. 42, 44. having a perfect Knowledge of them, and making tryal of them by the Spirit. So was it in the caſe of Timothy, ſay all the Greek Scholiaſts on the place. (a) St. Chryſoſtom ſaith he was choſen by Prophecy, that is, by the Spirit of God. (b) Theodoret, that He received Impoſition of Hands, not by Man's Calling, but by Divine Revelation. (c) Oecumenius, that by the Revelation of the Spirit he was both choſen by St. Paul to be a Diſciple, and was circumciſed, and ordained a Biſhop; and (d) Theophylact affirms the ſame. Being thus deſign'd and notified by the Spirit of Prophecy, they were by Prayer and Impoſition of Hands conſecrated to their Office. Thus when the Spirit in the Prophets had ſaid Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the Work of the Miniſtery, to which I have called them, Acts 13. 2, 3, 4. they prayed, and laid their Hands upon them, and ſent them away; and they are ſaid to be ſent forth by the Holy Ghoſt. And with this Impoſition of Hands they who had them not before, received χαρίσματα, Gifts anſwerable to their Calling. Thus St. Paul charges Timothy to ſtir up χάρισμα διὰ, the Gift of God that was in him, by the laying on of his Hands, 2 Tim. 1. 6. and Irenæus ſaith, l. 4. c. 33. that the Biſhops who ſucceeded the Apoſtles, with their Succeſſion into their Biſhopricks, received a certain Chariſma of Truth, according to the good pleaſure of the Father. See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 16. and on Chap. 12. 10. Vain therefore are they who pretending to an internal Call of the Spirit, which they cannot prove to others, think Impoſition of Hands, and Conſecration to the Work of the Miniſtery, unneceſſary to the performance of the Miniſterial Office.

Ἵνα στρατεύῃ τὴν καλὴν στρατείαν, that thou mayſt war a good warfare,] i. e. perform the Office of an Evangeliſt well, 2 Tim. 4. 5. ſo as to be a good Miniſter of Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Tim. 4. 6. Thus in the Old Teſtament the Levite that entred upon the Service of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, is in the Hebrew one that enters into the Hoſt, Num. 4. 3, 23, 30, 35, 39, 43. Chap. 8. 24. and goes צָבָא לִצְבֹּא, to war the warfare, i. e. to ſerve the ſervice, ſaith the Chaldee; and ſo the following words explain it; and to be ſuperannuated, and ſo to ceaſe from the work, is to return from the warfare, Ch. 8. 25. thus alſo in the New Teſtament, the Chriſtian Miniſter is a Souldier of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Tim. 2. 3. στρατιώτης, a Warriour; ver. 4. He hath the Weapons of his Warfare, 2 Cor. 10. 4. and ought to have his Wages, becauſe no Man goeth to warfare at his own Charge, 1. Cor. 9. 7.

Ver. 19. Holding faith and a good conſcience, which (laſt) ſome having put away, concerning the faith have made ſhipwrack.

Ver. 20. Of whom is Hymenæus (2 Tim. 2. 17.) and Alexander, (2 Tim. 4. 14.) whom I have delivered to Satan, (for the deſtruction of the fleſh, 1 Cor. 5. 5.) that they (by what they ſuffer) may learn not to blaſpheme, (or ſpeak evil of the Faith.)

Οὓς παρέδωκα τῷ Σατανᾷ, whom I have delivered to Satan.] I have ſhewed, Note on 1 Cor. 5. 5. that the Ancients ſay the Phraſe ſignified that ſome Diſeaſe was to be inflicted on them by Satan. Thus Theodoret, Chry- phan, and Oecumenius here say of these Men, (c) that being separated from the Church, they were cruelly chastised by the Adversary, falling into Diseases, and grievous Afflictions, and other Damages and Calamities; and this, in the forementioned place, is argued from the ends of this delivery to Satan, viz. for the destruction of the flesh there, that they might learn not to blaspheme that Doctrine which could so severely punish them that did so here. Note also, that Hymenæus and Alexander made shipwrack of the Faith, not by renouncing Christianity, for what have I to do, saith the Apostle, to judge them that are without, 1 Cor. 5. 12. but by maintaining such Doctrines as overthrew the Faith, i. e. by denying the Resurrection of the Body, as Hymenæus did, 2 Tim. 2. 18.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. I Exhort therefore, (in pursuance of the Design of Christ's coming to save Sinners, Ch. 1. 15. and here, v. 3, 4.) that first of all (Gr. first that) Supplications, Prayers, Intercessions, and giving of Thanks, be made for all Men.

Ver. 2. (Particularly) For Kings, and (for) all that are in Authority, that we (under their Government) may lead a peaceable and quiet Life, in all Godliness and Honesty.

δεήσεις, προσευχὰς, ἐντεύξεις, Prayers, Supplications, Intercessions.] Δεήσεις, are Deprecations for the Pardon of Sin, and the averting Divine Judgments. Προσευχαὶ, Prayers for the obtaining of all spiritual and temporal Blessings; and in this we have the Suffrage of the Greek Scholiasts, and Lexicographers: But as for the Word ἐντεύξεις, they almost unanimously say it is a Complaint or Accusation made to God against those who deal injuriously with them; and a Desire that he would avenge their Injuries; to which I cannot think the Apostle would so passionately exhort them. I therefore prefer the other Import of the Word mention'd in Pharorinus, that it is αἴτησις ὑπὲ τῦ προσαγομένη θεῷ περὶ σωτηρίας ἑτέρων, an Address presented to God for the Salvation of others. And by this Rule were the Devotions of the Church continually directed; for, saith the Author of the Book, De Vocatione Gentium, (a) the Devotion of all the Priests, and all the Faithful, doth so unanimously observe this Rule of Prayer, that there is no Part of the World in which the Christian People do not put up such Prayers as these; praying to God, not only for the Saints, but for Infidels, Idolaters, the Enemies of the Cross, and the Persecutors of Christ's Members, for Jews, Hereticks, and Schismaticks.

Ὑπὲρ βασιλέων, &c. for Kings and all that are in Authority.] So the Jews pray'd and offer'd Sacrifices for the Persian Kings, (b) and the Welfare of their Government, Ezra 6. 10. Thus Jeremy sends to them in their Captivity, to pray for the Peace of the City whither God had caused them to be carried Captive, Chap. 29. 7. and the Jews in Babylon send to those in Judæa to pray for the Life of Nebuchodonosor, King of Babylon; and for the Life of Belthasar his Son, that their Days may be upon Earth as the Days of Heaven, Baruch 1. 11. When they came under the Government of the Kings of Egypt, Eleazer their High Priest writes to King Ptolemy thus: We continually offer Sacrifice (c) for thee, thy Sister, thy Children, and Friends; and the People pray for thy happy Success in all things, and for the peaceable State of thy Kingdom. And so when they were under the Seleucidæ. And, lastly, when they came under the (d) Roman Government, this was their constant Practice, till they began that Rebellion under which their City, Country, Religion, and Nation was destroy'd. This being, saith Josephus, the Cause of the War, that the Seditious did θυσίαν τὴ καίσαρος ἀπειπεῖν, reject the Sacrifice offer'd for Cæsar, tho' the Priests and Nobles earnestly entreated them μὴ παραλιπεῖν τὸ ὑπὲρ τῶν ἐγκμίων ἔθος, not to desert the Custom concerning their Rulers, which always had obtain'd among them.

And

And that the Chriſtians, following their Examples, thus pray'd continually from the beginning, for their (e) Kings, we learn from (f) Polycarp, (g) Juſtin Martyr, (h) Tertullian, (i) St. Cyprian, (k) Origen, (l) Lactantius, and from all the Ancient Liturgies. And this it became them to do, that the Heathen Emperors finding them thus ſolicitous for the Welfare and Proſperity of their Government, might permit 'em quietly and peaceably to enjoy their Religion.

Ver. 4. Who will have all Men to be ſaved, and to come (Gr. who wills that all Men ſhould be ſaved, and come) unto the Knowledge of the Truth.

Ver. 5. For there is one God, (who is the God of the Gentiles as well as of the Jews, Rom. 2. 29, 30. The Creator, Eph. 3. 9. The Father, Mat. 2. 10. The Lord, Acts 17. 24. The Saviour of all Men, Chap. 4. 10.) and one Mediator betwixt God and Man, the Man Chriſt Jeſus.

Μεσίτης, Mediator.] That is, ſaith Suidas, εἰρηνοποιὸς, a Peace-maker. This, ſay the Socinians, is not neceſſary that a Mediator ſhould appeaſe or reconcile Parties at variance, but only that he ſhould deliver the Mind of one to the other, and ſtrike a Covenant or League betwixt them, as in the Caſe of Moſes, Gal. 3. 19. To this I anſwer, (1.) That tho' this be not neceſſarily contained in the Signification of the Word, yet is it evidently implied in that which is annexed to our Mediator, where-ever he is mentioned in the New Teſtament, viz. here, and in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews; for here he is ſuch a Mediator as gave himſelf a Ranſom to God for us, v. 6. and there he is a Mediator of the New Covenant in his Blood, the Covenant made by Intervention of his Death, εἰς ἀπολύτρωσιν, for the Redemption of the Tranſgreſſions of the former Covenant, Chap. 9. 15. 8. 6. 12. 24. (2dly,) This ſeemeth to have been the Jewiſh Notion both of a Mediator in the general, and of our Mediator, or the Divine Logos in particular. Thus (m) Philo ſaith, That the Father of all things hath granted to his moſt Ancient Word an excellent Gift, viz. That ſtanding in the Confines of Both, he ſhould put a difference betwixt the Maker and the Thing made, as being an Interceſſor for mortal Man to the immortal God, and an Ambaſſador from the King to his Subject; in which Gift he rejoiceth, ſaying Κἀγὼ ἱστήκειν ἀνὰ μέσον Κυρίου καὶ ὑμῶν, And I ſtood betwixt God and you, being neither unbegotten as God, οὔτε γεννητὸς ὡς ἡμεῖς, nor made as we are, but a Middle of the Extremes, and a Pledge to Both; to the Creator, engaging that all Mankind ſhall not corrupt it ſelf and apoſtatize, chuſing Diſorder before Order; to the Creature, that he may have good Hope that the merciful God will not wholly overlook his own Work; for I denounce, no εἰρηνικὰ, peaceable Things to the Creature from the God of Peace. And, ſpeaking of their High Prieſt, who was a Type of Chriſt, he ſaith, (n) The Law will have him raiſed above Human Nature, and coming near to the Divine; and, if I may ſay the Truth, a Middle betwixt Both, that Men may atone God by a Mediator, and God may reach forth and diſtribute his Favours to Men by a certain Miniſter. And again, (o) It was neceſſary that he who performs the Office of a Prieſt to the Father of the World, ſhould have for his Advocate his Son moſt perfect in Vertue to obtain the Pardon of Sins, and the Participation of the greateſt Bleſſings. So that here it is made the Office of a Mediator to procure Peace to the Creature from God, to make atonement to God, and to be an Advocate to obtain the Pardon of Sins; and if Chriſt our Mediator and Advocate with the Father, was, by vertue of his Office, to do this, ſurely it muſt be part of his Office to appeaſe and reconcile God to us.

Ver. 6. Who gave himſelf (up to Death as) a Ranſom for all (Men) to be teſtified in due time, (Gr. for a Teſtimony in due time of God's Love to all, Tit. 3. 4.)

Ἀντίλυτρον ὑπὲρ πάντων, a Ranſom for all.] And Mat. 20. 28. λύτρον ἀντὶ πολλῶν, a Ranſom in the ſtead of many. Hence then 'tis evident, beyond Contradiction, that our Lord Jeſus ſuffered in our ſtead. For when the Scriye faith, ἡ λήψεσθε λύτρα οὐδὲ ψυχῆς πρὸ τῆ φονεύσῃ, ye shall admit no Satisfaction for the Life of the Murtherer who is worthy of Death, Numb. 35. 31, 32. but he shall surely be put to death; for, ἐκ ἐξιλασθήσεται ἡ γῆ ἀπὸ τῆ αἵματος, the Land cannot be cleansed, or expiated, from the Blood that is shed therein, but by the Blood of him that shed it, is not this the plain import of these Words, that no Price shall be admitted instead of his Life? Again, when Ahab past'd this Judgment on the disguised Prophet, ἔσται ἡ ψυχή σου ἀντὶ τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτῆ, thy Life shall go for his Life whom thou hast let go, 1 Kings 20. 39, 42; And when the Prophet thus returns upon him, Thus saith the Lord, Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a Man whom I have appointed to utter destruction, διὰ τοῦτο ἡ ψυχή σου ἀντὶ τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτῆ, therefore thy Life shall go for his Life; And when Jehu saith to the Men appointed to slay the Priests of Baal, If any of them escape, he that letteth him go, ἡ ψυχὴ αὐτῆ ἀντὶ τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτῆ, his Life shall be for his Life that escapeth of them, 2 Kings 10. 24; Do not all these Expressions plainly signifie thou shalt die instead of him? When therefore Christ elsewhere declares, That he would give his Flesh for the Life of the World; That he gave his Life a Ransom for many, a Ransom for all, Must he not signifie, by these Expressions, that he would give up his Life to the Death, instead of them who had deserved Death? Which sure he could not do, but he must suffer in their stead. Moreover, by the Jewish Law, the First-born of every Beast was to die; or, to rescue him from it, the Owner was to pay, λύτρον ἀντὶ ψυχῆς, a Price to redeem his Life, Numb. 18. 15; and the pushing Ox, provided the Owner did not pay, τὸ λύτρον τῆ ψυχῆ αὐτῆ, a Price or Ransom for his Life, Exod. 21. 31. Every Israelite was also to bring in yearly his half Shekel, λύτρον τῆ ψυχῆς αὐτῆ, ἐξιλάσασθαι περὶ τῶν ψυχῶν ὑμῶν, to be the Ransom of his Life, that he die not, Exod. 30. 12, 15, 16. And this Money was appointed to buy the daily Sacrifice which was to expiate or make Atonement for their Lives. When therefore, in Allusion to these things, 'tis said, Christ gave himself, ἀντίλυτρον, or λύτρον ἀντὶ πολλῶν, a Ransom for many, can we put any other Sense upon these Words, than this, That he gave his Life instead of ours, to expiate and atone for those Lives which we by Sin had forfeited?

Ὑπὲρ πάντων, For all.] These Verses contain several convincing Arguments, That God wills the Salvation of all Men in particular, and that Christ thus died for all: For, 1. The Apostle here enjoins us to pray for all Men, because God will have all Men to be saved. Now 'tis unquestionably the Christian's Duty, and was the constant Practice of the Church, to pray for all Men in particular; and therefore the Reason here assigned, of this Duty, must reach to all Men in particular. 2. The Apostle reasons thus: God would have all Men to be saved, because he is the God of all, the common Father, Creator, Governour, Preserver of all Men. Now thus he is the God of all Men in particular, and so this Argument must shew he would have all Men in particular to be saved. For, as the Apostle argues for God's readiness to justifie the Gentiles by Faith, as freely as the Jews, by asking, Is he the God of the Jews only, is he not also of the Gentiles? Rom. 3. 30, and answering, that there is no difference betwixt them, the same God being rich unto all that call upon him, Rom. 10. 12; so may we argue in this Case by a like Enquiry, Is he the God of a small Remnant of the Jews and Gentiles only, is he not the God and Saviour of them all? Chap. 4. 10. 3. He would have all Men to be saved, saith the Apostle, for there is one Mediator betwixt God and Man, the Man Christ Jesus, who gave himself a Ransom for all. Now if the Argument from one God was, as we have proved, designed to shew he was the God of all Men in particular, the Argument from this one Mediator must also prove Christ the Mediator of all Men in particular. Hence is he here emphatically stiled the Man Christ Jesus, to intimate unto us, that having taken upon him the Nature common to us all, to fit him for this Office, he must design it for the good of all who were Partakers of that Nature; for as he was a Man, he surely was endued with the best of Human Affections, Universal Charity, which would excite him to promote the Welfare of all. As he was a Man, he was subject to the common Law of Humanity, which obliges us to endeavour the common Benefit of Men.

Ver. 7. Whereunto (i.e. for the accomplishing of which Will of God,) I am ordained (appointed of Christ) a Preacher, and an Apostle; I speak the Truth in Christ, I lye not, a Doctor of the Gentiles in Faith and Verity.

Ἀλήθειαν λέγω, I speak the Truth in Christ.] This Oath, or vehement Affirmation, could not be necessary to confirm Timothy in the Belief of this Matter. But this Epistle being sent to Ephesus, where there were many Jews, who either denied that Salvation was to be preached to the Gentiles, or only on the Terms of being also circumcised, which this Apostle so stoutly did oppose, it might be necessary for their sakes.

Ver. 8. I will therefore that Men pray every where, lifting up pure (holy) hands, without wrath, or doubting.

Ὁσίας χεῖρας, Holy Hands.] 'Tis certain that 'twas the Custom of the Heathens to wash sometimes their Heads, sometimes their whole Bodies, but generally their Hands, before they come to the Temple, to pay their Homage to their Gods. And to this purpose they had their χιμήβια, or χιρόνιπτες, Baſons, or Lavers placed before the Temples, which they were to uſe before they ſacrificed; it being thought ſo great a Crime to come to the Gods with Hands unwaſhed, illotis manibus libare, that 'tis (b) proverbial with them, to ſignifie by that Phraſe thoſe who come irreverently and unprepared to their Service, ſay Diogenianus and St. Gregory; and to come reverently to the Gods, is (c) περιῤῥαντίμενον, ἀπορυφάμενον, ἀπονιφάμενον, ὡσαύτως περσίναι, to come cleans'd, and waſh'd, and therefore holy. As for the Jews, the Learned Dr. Pocock ſaith, that this is a Law among them, That every one muſt waſh his Hands when he riſes from his Bed, that he may be pure when he offers up his Prayers to God, not thinking any Man טהור (ὅσιος, Prov. 22. 11.) pure, till he hath waſh'd his Hands. This they were to do, ſay their (d) Rabbins, leaſt God, ſeeing his Creature defiled, ſhould be angry; and becauſe Prayer ſucceeded to thoſe Sacrifices which were not to be touched by the Prieſt till he had waſh'd his Hands, Exod. 30. 27, 28. This they look'd upon as a part of Sanctification, and therefore pray thus, Bleſſed be thou, O Lord God, אשר קדשנו who haſt ſanctified us by thy Precepts, and commandeſt us to waſh our Hands. This waſhing was to ſignifie three things: 1. That the Hands ſhould be innocent and pure from all Blood and Cruelty, Injuſtice and Bribery, all Filthineſs and Impurity, before we come to this ſacred Majeſty, as David ſaith, I will waſh my Hands in Innocency, and ſo will I compaſs thine Altar, Pſal. 26. 6. and Philo of the (e) Eſſens, that they lifted up pure Hands to Heaven, that is, Hands, καθαραὶ λημμάτων καὶ ὑπ' ἀδικίας παντὸς ἀφῃρέσεως ἢ εἰς πλεισμὸν μιαινόμεναι, pure from Gifts, and ſtain'd with no unjuſt Gain; and ſo, ſaith he, muſt the Perſon, who lays his Hand upon his Offering, be able to ſay, (f) Αἱ χῆρες αὗται ὅτι δῶρον ἐπ' ἀδίκοις ἔλαβον, Theſe Hands have received no Gifts to do Injuſtice, are not polluted with innocent Blood; they have maimed, wounded, done Violence to no Man; they have been imploy'd in no culpable Action, but have miniſtred to all good and profitable things. 2dly, That our Hearts ſhould much more be purified from all Luſts, and Filthineſs of Spirit, Pride, Hatred, Malice, Covetouſneſs, &c. ſo clean Hands, and a pure Heart, in the Pſalmiſt, go together, Pſal. 24. 4. He that offers Sacrifices, ſaith (g) Philo, muſt be, καθαρὸς σῶμα καὶ ψυχῆ, pure in Body, from whatſoever defileth that; and in Soul, from all evil Paſſions and Vices. For it is Folly to think we may not come to the Temple till we have waſh'd the Body, and yet may pray, and offer Sacrifice with a ſpotted and defiled Mind, ſee Jam. 4. 8. 3dly, That we be purified from all worldly and diſtracting Thoughts, that the Mind may be at leiſure to attend purely to heavenly things, that we may bring to God, ſaith Philo, (i) τὴν ψυχὴν τῶν τῆ αἰσθήσει, καὶ αἰσθητῶν ὄγκου παντελῶς ἐπικεφάλαιον, a Soul eaſed of all the Weight of the Senſes and Senſible Objects. Theſe are the things which the Apoſtle here enjoins, when he commands us to lift up holy Hands, not that we ſhould waſh them with Water, which (i) Tertullian reckons, among things, vacuæ Obſervationis, of vain Obſervation, ſuperſtitious, and rather curious and affected, than reaſonable Devotion, when introduced by ſome Chriſtians from the Heathen or the Jewiſh Practice, as a Preface to Prayer.

Χωρὶς ὀργῆς, without Wrath.] As being contrary to that Charity, and Forgiveneſs, and that Sedateneſs of Spirit we ought to have when we addreſs to God in Prayer, and is the Fore-runner of that Cruelty which defiles the Hands.

Καὶ διαλογισμοῦ, and doubting.] I find not that the Greek ever bears this Senſe of doubting, but always imports, in the New Teſtament, either inward Reaſonings, or tumultuating Thoughts, διαλογισμοὶ πονηροὶ, evil Thoughts in the Heart, Mat. 15. 19. Mark 7. 21. Jam. 2. 4. διαλογισμοὶ καρδίων, the Thoughts of Mens Hearts, Luk. 2. 35. 9. 46. διαλογισμοὶ αὐτῶν, their Thoughts, Luke 5. 22. 6. 8. or their Imaginations, Rom. 1. 21. Luke 24. 38. or Contention and Diſceptation among them, Luke 9. 46. or inward Murmurings, Phil. 2. 14. all which are plainly oppoſite to that Peace, Concord, and Sedateneſs of Spirit we ſhould bring to our Devotions, and apt to diſtract us in them, eſpecially evil Imaginations.

Ver. 9. In like manner alſo, (I will) that (Chriſtian) Women adorn themſelves in modeſt Apparel, with Shamefacedneſs, and Sobriety, not (ſetting out themſelves) with broidred Hair, or Gold, or Pearls, or coſtly Array.

Ver. 10. But (with that Ornament) which (beſt) becometh Women, profeſſing Godlineſs, (that is) with Good Works.

Μετὰ αἰδοῦς καὶ σωφροσύνης, with Shamefacedneſs, and Sobriety, or Chaſtity.] It ſeems impoſſible to fix a certain Rule for the Attire of Women of all States and Conditions, at all Times, and in all Places, but from what the Apoſtle ſaith here, and 1 Pet. 3. 2. ſee the Note there, it ſeems evident, 1. That περιπλοαὶ τῶν τριχῶν ἐταιρικαὶ, that all Attire which ſuſpected Women uſed, either to provoke Luſt in others, or to ſhew any Inclination to it in themſelves; and all Attire, which hath any tendency to any thing of this nature, or to raise a Suspicion of it, must be here forbidden, as being contrary to the Modesty and chast Behaviour of a godly Matron. And, 2dly, all Attire, which by the Richness and the Costliness of it, shews any Pride, or Vanity of Spirit, or an Ambition to excel others. And, 3dly, all great Concernment, Care, and Study, to appear in such Attire, as if it were indeed our truest Ornament, and that which made us truly to excel, and be more honourable than others; this Vanity, and Pride, this Esteem of, and Concern for these Things, being not well consistent with Sobriety, and much less with the Profession of True Godliness. And here it is worthy to be noted by the Women, (1.) That this Precept ought not to be slighted by them, as of little moment, seeing it is so carefully inculcated by the two chief Apostles of the Jew and Gentile, St. Peter and St. Paul; and the contrary is represented as a Practice opposite to Godliness. 2dly, Let them especially mark the Character here given of a Christian Woman, viz. that she is one who doth not only profess and declare, that she serves and worships God, but also doth, ἐπαγγέλλεσθαι, shew forth Godliness in her Life and Conversation. And, 2dly, let the Men note hence that of Esthius, that if it be so unbecoming a Christian Woman, to be thus concerned in adorning and tricking up her Body, it must be much more unbecoming a Christian Man, and that which makes him truly to deserve the Name of Fop.

Ver. 11. Let the Women learn in silence with all Subjection (to the better Sex.)

Ver. 12. But (for) I suffer not a Woman to teach, (publickly,) or to usurp Authority over the Man, (to whom she was subjected by God's Precept, Gen. 3. 16.) but (I command her rather) to be in silence.

Οὐκ ἐπιτρέπω, &c. I suffer not a Woman to teach,] i. e. publickly, 1 Cor. 14. 34, 35. see the Note there. They may privately instruct, as Priscilla did Apollo, Act. 18. 26. and as a believing Wife may instruct her unbelieving Husband, when he enquires a Reason of her Faith; but then she must not challenge any Authority to do this, this being to usurp an Authority not due unto her.

Ver. 13. For Adam was first formed, (and) then Eve (after him, and out of him, to denote her Subjection to him; and for him, to shew she was to serve him, 1 Cor. 11. 8.)

Ver. 14. And Adam was not (immediately) deceived, (by the Serpent, as Eve was,) but the Woman being deceived, was (first) in the Transgression.

Οὐκ ἠπατήθη, He was not deceived,] i.e. by the Serpent, who never attempted him; but was only seduced by the Woman: She therefore was both guilty of her own, and of her Husband's Sin.

Ver. 15. Notwithstanding she (i. e. the Female Sex) shall be saved in Child-bearing, (διὰ τεκνογονίας, through Child-bearing; i. e. they shall go through the Sorrow threatned to her Sex for that Sin with safety.) if they continue in Faith, (i. e. trusting in God,) in Charity, (to others, especially in the like Condition,) in Holiness, (Gr. in Sanctification, i. e. in Chastity of Manners, and Freedom from Uncleanness,) and in Purity, (ἐν σωφροσύνῃ, in Temperance, or Freedom from Excess.)

Διὰ τεκνογονίας, in Child-bearing.] That is, say some, by bearing the Messiah, the promised Seed; but there is no Instance that can be produced, where this Phrase is used in this Sense. Say others, by Education of her Children; but neither is there any Instance of this Signification of the Word, nor is it fit that her Salvation should depend on the Faith, and Charity, and Holiness of her Children, these being things it is not in her Power to produce in them. And, 3dly, what then shall become of barren Women, and those that live and die Virgins. To establish therefore the Sense given in the Text, let it be noted,

1st. That this enallage Numeri, or Change of the Number in Words that comprehend all of the same kind, is very common, both in the Old and the (a) New Testament, and in profane Authors; so Gen. 33. 13. Morientur totus Grex, the whole Flock will die; Gen. 41. 57. Universa terra venerunt, the whole Land came into Egypt; Psal. 140. Grant not the Desires of the Wicked, further not his wicked Device, least they exalt themselves; Prov. 2. 12, 13. The evil Man, who leaves the Paths of Uprightness. See Numb. 10. 3. 1 Kings 1. 40. 1 Chron. 10. 6. Ezra 10. 12. Psal. 68. 11. Es. 25. 3. and 34. 10. Mark. 3. 7, 8.

Note, 2dly, That the Preposition, διὰ, doth not always signifie a Means, or a Condition, but sometimes a Term to be pass'd through, as when it is said, διὰ πολλῶν θλίψεων, through many Tribulations we must enter into the Kingdom of God, Act. 14. 22. He shall be saved, διὰ πυρός, as one passing through the Fire; 1 Cor. 3. 15. Let us behave our selves as the Ministers of God, passing inoffensively, διὰ δόξης καὶ ἀτιμίας, διὰ δυσφημίας καὶ εὐφημίας, through Honour and Dishonour, through good and evil Report, 2 Cor. 6. 8. in which Sense we are said, ambulare per viam, per plateam. But against the Interpretation given in the Paraphrase, it is objected, that the following Words, If they continue in the Faith, &c. cannot be mentioned here as a Condition of their safe Deliverance in Child-bed, since that Deliverance is common to the Believer, and the Pagan, the Charitable and Temperate, and the Uncharitable and Intemperate, the Chast and the Unchast Woman.

(a) χάρις—μαθαριότητος Ch. 5. 4.

Anſw. Now to this I anſwer, That this Objection ſeems to be of no Force againſt the Senſe there given; for though Health, Riches, a good Name, and other temporal Bleſſings, be common to the Pagan and Believer, to the Good and Bad, that hinders not but Godlineſs may have the Promiſe of this Life, as Health, Riches, a good Name, and other outward Bleſſings are promiſed to thoſe that fear God; it being ſufficient to make good this Promiſe, that God is pleaſed ſometimes to vouchſafe this ſafe Deliverance from the Dangers of Child-birth, to Women, by virtue of their Truſt in God, their Charity to others, eſpecially in the like Condition, their Temperance, Sobriety and Chaſtity, as to the Obſervation of the Matrimonial Vow, and that others ſometimes may miſcarry through Want, or the Neglect of theſe Duties. In a word, ſeeing it cannot be denied, that theſe Things are likely to engage God's Providence to be with them in that needful Hour, and the Neglect of them may provoke him to abandon others, they muſt be deem'd fit Matter of a temporal Promiſe.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. IT is a true Saying, If any Man deſires the Office of a Biſhop, he deſireth a good Work; (i. e. a Work that is honourable in it ſelf, and ſo requires ſuch Diſpoſitions and Qualifications in the Perſon who deſireth it, as may render him worthy of that Honour.)

Note, Concerning the Import of the Word Biſhop here, I find three different Opinions among the Ancients, viz. That of Theodoret, that the Apoſtle here calls the (a) Presbyter Biſhop, which he thus proves; becauſe, after the Rules preſcribed concerning Biſhops, he deſcends to thoſe concerning Deacons, omitting Presbyters: Becauſe, ſaith he, anciently the ſame Perſons were ſtiled Presbyters, and Biſhops, the Name of Apoſtles being then given to them who are now called Biſhops; but in proceſs of Time they left the Name of Apoſtle to them who were Apoſtles indeed, and gave this Name of Biſhop peculiarly to them who anciently were ſtiled Apoſtles. And though, ſaith he, theſe Rules are given to the Presbyters by Name, it is clear that they more eminently belong to Biſhops, ἅτε δὴ καὶ μείζονος μεταλαχόντες τιμῆς, as being of an higher Dignity. And this Opinion, if true, is a full Confutation of the Presbyterian Hypotheſis; for it declares, that there were three diſtinct Orders from the beginning of the Church, Apoſtles or Biſhops, Presbyters, and Deacons, and that the Biſhops were of an higher Dignity than the Presbyters.

2. The ſecond Opinion is that of Epiphanius, That the (b) Apoſtles could not order all things at one time, there being then a Neceſſity of Presbyters and Deacons, by both which Eccleſiaſtical Matters were to be adminiſtred, they placed no Biſhops there, where they found no Perſon worthy of that Office; in other Places where they found Perſons worthy of it, but, by Reaſon of the Paucity of Converts, found ſcarce any fit to be Presbyters, they conſtituted only Biſhops and Deacons. And this Account, ſaith he, is taken, βαθυπαται ἱστορίαι, from the moſt Ancient Hiſtories of the Church; I ſuppoſe, from the known Paſſage of Clemens Romanus, to this effect. And this alſo yields a full Confutation of the Presbyterian Hypotheſis; for it declares, That it was the Deſign of the Apoſtles to inſtitute three ſeveral Orders in the Church, viz. of Biſhops, Presbyters, and Deacons; and where this was not done, it was only through want of Perſons fit to compleat theſe Orders, and only during that Defect; and this being writ in anſwer to Aerius his Hereſie, That (c) a Biſhop differ'd not from a Presbyter, they being both of one Order, Dignity and Honour, ſhews that Opinion was then counted not only falſe, and novel, but heretical.

(a) Ἐπίσκοπον δὲ ἐνταῦθα τὸν πρεσβύτερον λέγει, μετὰ γὰρ τὰς ἐπισκοπικὰς νόμους τὰς τῆς διακόνου τάξεως ἐκτίθεται, τὰς πρεσβυτέρους παραλιπών, τὰς αὐτὰς (δῆλον) ἐκάλουν τότε πρεσβυτέρους καὶ ἐπισκόπους, τὰ δὲ τῶν ἐκλιπόντων ἐπισκόπους, ἀποστόλους ὠνόμαζον, τῷ δὲ χρόνῳ θατέρῳ τὸ μὲν τῆς ἀποστολῆς ὄνομα τοῖς ἀληθῶς Ἀποστόλοις ἐφύλαττον· τῷ δὲ ἐπισκοπῆς θεσπισθείσαν τοῖς πάλαι καλουμένοις Ἀποστόλοις ἐπέθεσαν. 2. The Third Opinion is that of (d) Chrysostom, (e) Oecumenius, and (f) Hilary the Deacon, on the Place, that the Apostle includes Presbyters under the Name of Bishops, because there is no great difference between them, they being appointed as well as Bishops, to teach and to preside over the Church; and being only inferiour to Bishops, as to the Power of Ordination, which belongs alone to Bishops, and not to Presbyters. Now even, according to this Opinion, the Bishop is above the Presbyter; and all Ordinations which are not performed by the Bishop, are irregular, and performed by them who have no Power to Ordain.

Ver. 2. A Bishop therefore must be blameless, (i. e. free from just Ground of Blame,) the Husband of one Wife, (i. e. not guilty of Polygamy, or of divorcing one Woman, and marrying another, as many of the Jews and Greeks then were;) vigilant, (in his Function;) sober, (governing his Passions;) of good Behaviour, (in Words, in Habit, or in Aspect,) given to hospitality, (or the Entertainment of Strangers;) apt to teach, (not so much for his Eloquence, as for his Skill in divine Things, and Knowledge of what is fitting to be taught. So Theodoret.)

Ἀνεπίλημπτον, Blameless.] For the Life of a Bishop, saith Chrysostom, should shine so bright, and be so free from spot, that others may not only behold it, but live by his Example.

Μιᾶς γυναικὸς ἄνδρα, the Husband of one Wife.] For (g) the Jews and Greeks, saith Theodoret, were wont to be married to two or three Wives together. The Apostle therefore doth not say this to depreciate Second Marriages, which he elsewhere allows, 1 Cor. 7. 8. 39. and from which it may not be in a Man's Power to abstain. If then a Man, τὴν πρώτην ἀπολαλὼν, ἑτέρᾳ συνεζύγη, rejecting his former Wife, be join'd to another, he deserveth blame; but if Death have disjoin'd him from his former, and Nature urging, doth necessitate him to take another, 'tis otherwise. Considering these, and other things, I approve of this Interpretation of some of the Ancients, which is also mentioned by (h) St. Jerom and by Chrysostom, declaring, that the Apostle doth not here oblige the Bishop to be married, but only corrects the Immoderateness of some, because among the Jews 'twas lawful both to marry twice, καὶ δύο ἔχειν ἅμα τὰς γυναῖκας, and to have two Wives together; and 'twas more common with them to divorce one, and take another; and whereas, against this Interpretation, it is objected, That the Apostle requires also, that the Widow should be the Wife of one Husband, whereas it never was permitted among any but Barbarians, for Women to have more than one Husband at once; this Objection hath some strength against the interpreting that Passage of Polygamy, but none against that Interpretation which relates to Marriage, after dismission of the former Husband, the Law allowing this in Greece, and the Practise having made it common among the Romans, and not unusual among the Jews. See Note on Chap. 5. 9.

Φιλόξενον, Given to Hospitality.] Not in our common Sense, of keeping a good Table, or an open House, for all Comers; but, τὸν ὑποδεχόμενον ὑποδοχεῖον, an Entertainer of Strangers, as the Fathers say, and the Word φιλόξενος signifies.

Ver. 3. Not given to (much) Wine, (V. 9.) no Striker, not greedy of filthy Lucre, but patient, not a Brateler, (or contentious Person,) not covetous.

Ἐπιεικῆ, Patient or Gentle.] i. e. saith Theodoret, in reference to Offences committed against himself; for it is no part of Meekness or Patience, when others are injured, to overlook the Injury.

Ἀφιλάργυρον, Not covetous, or a Lover of Money.] Theodoret here notes that the Apostle doth not say he must be, ἀκτήμονα, one who possesseth none; for a Man may possess these things, and yet distribute them as he ought, so as not to be a Slave to them, but a Lord over them.

Ver. 4. One that ruleth well (in) his own House, having his Children in (due) Subjection, (and behaving himself in it) with all gravity.

Ver. 5. For if a Man know not how to rule (well in) his own House, how shall he (be able to) take care of the Church of God? (which is a larger Family, and so requires greater Skill in Government.)

Ver. 6. Not a Novice, (in Religion,) least being lifted up with Pride, (ἐκ τῆς ἐπάρσεως, by Reason of his high Advancement) he fall into the Condemnation of the Devil.

Μὴ νεόφυτον, Not a Novice.] This, say Chrysostom and Theodoret, is not spoken with Respect to Age; for Timothy himself, to whom he writes, was a Youth, Chap. 4. 12. but in respect to his Knowledge of the Faith.

Εἰς κρῖμα τοῦ Διαβόλου.] That the Devil fell by Pride, Theodoret here notes; but yet both he

The (i) Emperor Severus takes notice of it, as of a Practiſe obſerved both by Jews and Chriſtians, in order to the Ordination of their Prieſts, and fit to be imitated in chuſing a Rector, or Procurator of the Provinces ſubject to the Roman Government. The (k) Epiſtles of St. Cyprian make frequent mention of this Practice obſerved in the Church, in Imitation of the Jews. This, ſaith he, *was obſerved in the Acts of the Apoſtles, in the Ordination both of Biſhops, Prieſts, and Deacons. Ver. 15. But if I tarry long, (they will be the more needful) that thou mayeſt know how thou oughteſt to behave thy ſelf in the Houſe of God, which is the Church of the living God, the Pillar and the Ground of Truth.

Ἐὰν δὲ βραδύνω, But if I tarry long.] Here Theodoret well notes, That neither the Holy Prophets, nor Apoſtles, knew all things, the Grace of the Spirit dictating to them only the things which were expedient, as appears from theſe Expreſſions, hoping to come ſhortly, and but if I tarry.

Στῦλος καὶ ἑδραίωμα τῆς ἀληθείας, the Pillar and the Ground of Truth.] Here, ſay the Romaniſts, the Church is ſtiled the Pillar and the Ground of Truth, ſurely from her Teachers being ſo, they being elſewhere ſtiled Pillars, Gal. 2. 9. and Foundations, Eph. 2. 20. Now, ſay they, may not all ſecurely rely in their Faith on the Pillar of Truth? May they not ſecurely ground their Faith upon the Ground of Truth? The Church therefore being the Pillar and the Ground of Truth, we may without Fear of ever erring, rely upon her.

Anſw. 1. Whereas the Objection repreſents it as certain, that the Church is here ſtiled the Pillar and Ground of Truth, in reſpect of its Teachers, the Text ſeems clearly to intimate the contrary: For whether we ſupply the Senſe of the Words thus, πῶς δεῖ (τις) how one ought? or, with Theophylact, πῶς δεῖ τὸν ἐπίσκοπον, how a Biſhop ought to behave himſelf in the Houſe of God, which is the Church, it is evident that the (m) Church here mentioned is put in Oppoſition to the Biſhop of it, and is, according to Theodoret on the Place, σύλλογος τῶν πιστῶν, the Collection of Believers, and therefore not the Church repreſentative; which is only, σύλλογος τῶν ἐπισκόπων, an Aſſembly of Biſhops, according to the Doctrine of the Church of Rome; and therefore the Infallibility of the Church Repreſentative can never be concluded from theſe Words, which ſo expreſly do relate to the whole Syſtem of Believers, in diſtinction from their Biſhops.

Anſw. 2. The Church here is the Church of the living God, not as it comprehends the major part of her viſible Members, but only as it comprehends the true and living Members of Chriſt's Body, they being only the Church of the living God; ſo that we muſt firſt know who they are, before we can be guided by them. Now, becauſe this is impoſſible to be known with any Aſſurance, it is impoſſible that we ſhould be obliged to rely on her Judgment in deciding what is Truth.

Anſw. 3. There is nothing more common in the Language of the Writers of the Church, than to ſtile any eminent Father of the Church, or Aſſertor of her Faith, the Pillar and the Ground of Faith. This Title is by (n) St. Baſil given to Muſonius, Biſhop of Cæſarea, to Athanaſius, and to the Orthodox Biſhops, baniſh'd for the Truth; by (o) Nazianzen, to Baſil, to Athanaſius, and to Euſebius Biſhop of Sameſata; by Lanfranc, and Rupertus Tuitienſis, it is given to St. Auſtin; and yet ſure they were far from thinking that any of theſe ſingle Fathers were infallible: Whence it muſt follow, that, according to the Judgment of the Church, this Phraſe did not import Infallibility.

Anſw. 4. The Church cannot here be ſtiled the Pillar and the Ground of Truth, as being the Foundation on which Truth is built, and which giveth it Authority, Truth being, (p) ſaith St. Chryſoſtom, τῆς ἐκκλησίας ἐστὶ στῦλος καὶ ἑδραίωμα, the Pillar and the Ground of the Church, which is, ſaith the Apoſtle, built on the Foundation of the Apoſtles and the Prophets, Eph. 2. 19, 20. She therefore is the Church of Chriſt, becauſe ſhe holds the Truth, as is demonſtrative from this, that purely by ceaſing ſo to do, her Members ceaſe to be the Members of the Church; ſhe therefore cannot by me be known to be the Church, until I know ſhe holds the Truth, and doth not ceaſe to make Profeſſion of it: And when I firſt know this, what need have I of her infallible Direction to find out the Truth? She therefore may be rather ſaid to be the Pillar and the Ground of Truth, becauſe it is eſſential to her Being to maintain and teach all neceſſary Truths; and becauſe her living Members do and will maintain them, when concealed, denied, miſrepreſented by Hypocritical Profeſſors; and becauſe ſhe doth preſerve and own thoſe Oracles in which the ſaving Truth of Chriſt is fully and perſpicuouſly maintained, and doth baptize her Children into that Symbol, which was always held to be a perfect Summary of Chriſtian Faith.

Laſtly, The Church of that Age might well be ſaid to be the Pillar and the Ground of Truth, becauſe then the Apoſtles preſided in it, who were the Pillars and Foundations of the Chriſtian Faith, according to the Scriptures and the Ancient Fathers. Thus (q) Theodoret ſtiles St. Peter and St. John, τὼ στύλω τῆς ἀληθείας, the Pillars of Truth; and (r) Oecumenius, στύλος τῆς πίστεως, i. e. the Pillars of the Faith. Then alſo did the Apoſtles and Evangeliſts deliver, and the Church receive, thoſe Scriptures which were to be the Standard of the Chriſtian Faith, and which were written, ſaith (s) Irenæus, by the Will of God, to be hereafter, Columnam & fundamentum Fidei noſtræ, the Pillar and Foundation of our Faith; and which are, ſaith (t) Athanaſius, τῆς πίστεως ἡμῶν ἀγκυραὶ καὶ ἑδράσματα, the Anchors and Stabiliments of our Faith. Then did her Members confirm the Chriſtian Faith by Miracles, which, by (u) St. Hilary upon this Place, are ſtiled the Confirmation of this Truth; and by their Sufferings for it, on which Account the Martyrs are peculiarly ſtiled by the Fathers, the ſteady Pillars and the Grounds of Chriſtians. Now ſeeing none of theſe Reaſons can be applied to the preſent Church, it will not follow that ſhe can in like manner claim this Title.

Grounds

Ver. 16. And without Controverſie (or confeſſedly) great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs, (conſiſting in theſe Articles,) God manifeſted in the Fleſh, juſtified in (or by) the Spirit, ſeen of Angels, preached to the Gentiles, believed on in the World, received up into Glory.

Θεὸς ἐφανερώθη, God was manifeſted in the Fleſh.] Here Grotius ſaith, Suſpectam nobis hanc lectionem faciunt Interpretes veteres, Latinus, Syrus, Arabs, & Ambroſius, qui omnes legunt, ὃ ἐφανερώθη, i. e. the Latin, Syriack, Arabick Verſions, and St. Ambroſe, all read the Myſtery which was revealed in the Fleſh; which gives us reaſon to ſuſpect the other reading, viz. God manifeſted in the Fleſh. But (1.) this is a great Miſtake, as to the Arabick Verſion; for that reads thus, quod Deus, that God was manifeſted in the Fleſh; and ſo doth the Syriack, according to the Verſion of Tremellius, in the Polyglott, it runs thus, Magnum eſt arcanum juſtitiæ quod juſtificatus eſt carne, which cannot refer to Myſtery, but muſt refer to God, or Chriſt; and tho' the vulgar Latin, and the Commentator under the Name of Ambroſe, read quod manifeſtum eſt in carne, yet he adds, agreeably to the Opinion of the Latins, that this Myſtery is Chriſtus in carne, Chriſt manifeſted in the Fleſh, but concealed in the Spirit, or as to his Godhead. See Dr. Pearſon's Vindication of this Place againſt Grotius, Creed, p. 128. In a word the Reading our Tranſlation follows, is owned by all the Greek Scholiaſts, Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, and is found in all the Manuſcripts, excepting that of Clermont, and Lincoln College; and the Phraſes here uſed do make it neceſſary to expound the Words, not of the Goſpel, but of Chriſt the Subject of it. For,

1. That Expoſition which refers theſe Words unto the Goſpel, puts ſuch a ſtrained Senſe on ſome of theſe Expreſſions, of which we meet with no Example in the whole New Teſtament: For where doth Manifeſtation in the Fleſh ſignifie the Manifeſtation of a thing by weak and mortal Men? And where is the Goſpel ſaid to be manifeſted in the Fleſh? Where doth ἀνελήφθη ſignifie the Exaltation of the Goſpel? Or where is it ſaid that the Goſpel was received into Glory?

2. It turns many of thoſe Expreſſions into a metaphorical Senſe, which are literally true of Chriſt; for, according to this Expoſition, Fleſh ſignifies weak Men; to be juſtified, to be owned and approved; to be ſeen, is to be known or revealed; to be taken up, is to be exalted in the Minds of Men.

3. This ſtrained Expoſition reduces three of theſe Articles into one; it being in effect the ſame to be believed on in the World, by reaſon of thoſe glorious Miracles by which it was confirmed; and to be owned and approved, by reaſon of the Operations of the Holy Spirit, which did aſſiſt the Preachers of it, and by the Approbation, glorioufly exalted in the Minds of Men.

Theſe are the Inconveniencies which attend that Expoſition, whereas the other Interpretation, which refers this Myſtery to Chriſt, affords a very plain and literal Expoſition of the Words, confirmed by parallel Expreſſions frequent in the Holy Scripture. For,

1. The Word, ſaith St. John, was made Fleſh, and dwelt among us, Joh. 1. 14. and we have ſeen his Glory. Ἐφανερώθη, he was manifeſted, 1 Joh. 3. 5. 8. 1. 4. 2. and came in the Fleſh, who was the Son of God. He who was in the Form of God, and thought it no robbery to be equal with God, was found in the likeneſs of a Man, Phil. 2. 6, 7. He that was God, bleſſed for evermore, was alſo of the Seed of David, according to the Fleſh, Rom. 9. 5.

2. He was juſtified by the Spirit, as doing thoſe Miracles on Earth, by which he juſtified his Miſſion againſt all the Accuſations of the Jews, by the Spirit of God, Mat. 12. 28. being declared to be the Son of God with Power, by the Spirit of Holineſs, Rom. 1. 3, 4. by ſending that Spirit after his Aſcenſion into Heaven, Act. 2. 33. which he had promiſed to his Diſciples upon Earth, and by which the World was convinced, περὶ δικαιοσύνης, of his Righteouſneſs, Joh. 16. 10.

3. He was ſeen of the Angels, who at his Entrance into the World did worſhip him, Heb. 1. 6. who celebrated his Birth, and gave notice of it to the World, Luke 2. 9, 13. who miniſtred to him in the Deſart, Mat. 4. 11. and in his Agonies, Luke 22. 43. 24. 4. who were preſent at his Reſurrection, and attended him at his Aſcenſion into Heaven, Acts 1. 10.

4. The whole Hiſtory of the Goſpel ſhews, that he was preached to the Gentiles, and believed on in the World.

5. And, Laſtly, he was received up into Heaven, ἀνεφέρετο, ἀνήφθη, ἀνελήφθη, he was taken, he was carried up into Heaven, and ſat at the Right Hand of Majeſty in Glory, Mat. 16. 19. Luke 24. 51. Acts 1. 2, 11. And ſure ſo plain, ſo full, and literal an Expoſition of theſe Articles, deſerves to be preferred before the ſtrain'd and metaphorical Interpretations of Grotius, Eraſmus and the Socinians.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. BUT (though the Mystery of Godliness be so fully confirmed) the Spirit (in the Scripture) speaketh expressly, that in the latter Times some shall depart from the Faith, (once embraced by them,) giving heed to seducing Spirits, and Doctrines of Devils.

Ver. 2. Speaking Lyes in Hypocrisie, (Gr. ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, through the Hypocrisie of Liars, and of Men,) having their Consciences seared with an hot Iron, (i. e. of corrupt and profligated Consciences.)

2. (Of Men,) Forbidding (those whom they have seduced) to marry, and (commanding them) to abstain from Meats, which God hath created to be received with Thanksgiving of them that believe, and know the Truth, (i. e. who are instructed aright in their Christian Liberty; for tho' nothing be unclean of it self, yet to him who, through Weakness, esteemeth any thing unclean, to him it is unclean, Rom. 14. 14.)

Τὸ πνεῦμα ῥητῶς λέγει, the Spirit saith expressly.] Hence Mr. Mede concludes, that the Apostle must refer to some Prophecy of these things, recorded in the Scriptures, (for tho' the Spirit in the Apostles advertised them of many things, for the Spirit said to Peter, Behold, three Men seek thee, Acts 10. 19. the Spirit said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the Work of the Ministry, Acts 13. 2. See Acts 16. 6. 21. 11. yet he did this only, ἐν ὁράματι, in a Vision, Acts 10. 19. or by secret Inspirations, and so not ῥητῶς, or expressly.) But to this the Fathers answer, That the Word ῥητῶς here signifies only, φανερῶς, σαφῶς, clearly, and perspicuously; to which it may be added, that in those Times of Prophecy, when the Prophets had the Government of the Churches, and spake still in the Publick Assemblies, it might reasonably be said the Spirit speaketh expressly what they taught expressly in the Church. And whereas hence he infers, that this Prophecy must be found somewhere in the Old Testament: The Reverend Dr. Hammond thinks that unnecessary, this Apostacy being foretold by our Prophet, who had the Spirit without measure, saying, Mat. 24. 11, 12. Then many shall be scandalized, and many false Prophets shall arise, καὶ πλανήσουσι, and shall deceive many; and because Iniquity shall abound, the Love of many shall wax cold. I confess, Mr. Mede seems to have found this Prophecy, Dan. 11. 36, 37, 38, 39. But to omit all other Objections against his Interpretation of the Words, I can by no means think that Daniel, so well acquainted with the Import of strange Gods, both in the Law and the Prophets, should give that infamous Name, אל נכר a strange God, to our Blessed Saviour; or that he should at the same time prophesie, that Antichrist should acknowledge and increase Christ with Honour, and yet divest Christ of his Glory and Honour, by setting up Mahuzzims in Opposition to his Offices. But considering that this Epistle, according to Bishop Pearson, was writ in the 11th. of Nero, A. D. 64. why may we not refer this Prediction either to the Apostacy, ῥητῶς, expressly mention'd, 2 Thess. 2. 3, 9. or to the Predictions of the Apostles mention'd by St. Jude, v. 17, 18, 19.

Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς, in the latter Times.] The Jewish Doctors lay this down as a Rule, that wherever we find this Phrase באחרית הימים in the latter Days, we are to understand it of the Age or Times of the Messiah. So Gen. 49. 1. Gather your selves together, saith Jacob to his Sons, that I may tell you what will befall you, ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν ἡμερῶν, in the last Times; i. e. the Days when the Scepter shall depart from Judah, and Shilo the Messiah shall come. Numb. 24. 14. Come, saith Balaam, and I will tell thee what shall befal thy People, ἐπ ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν, in the latter Days; i. e. when the Star comes out of Jacob, and the Scepter ariseth out of Israel; i. e. when the Messiah comes, saith the Targum of Onkelos, on v. 17. Isa. 2. 2. In the last Days the Mountain of the Lord shall be established on the top of the Mountains, and all Nations shall flow in to it; in the Times of the Messiah, say R. Salomo, and other Jews. Jer. 23. 20. In the latter Days ye shall understand this, in the Days of the Messiah, Targ. on v. 5. Dan. 2. 28. There is a God of Heaven who maketh known to the King what shall come to pass, ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν, from his Times, till the Kingdom of the Messiah be set up, v. 44. See also Chap. 10. 14. Hos. 3. 5. Afterwards they shall return, and shall seek the Lord, and David their King, Targ. Messiah their King, the Son of David, in the latter Days. Micah 4. 1. In the last Days shall the Mountain of the Lord be establish'd upon the top of the Mountains. Where Dr. Pocock saith, that by the last Days are meant the Days or Time of Messiah, or Christ, is agreed on by some Jews, and most Christians. And where ever we meet with this Phrase in the New Testament, it manifestly refers to the Beginnings of Christianity, and signifies the last Times of the Jewish State, or Oeconomy, concurring with the Times of the Messiah, and the erecting of his Kingdom, by calling the Gentiles, and settling a Christian Church to succeed that of the Jews. Thus when the Holy Ghost fell down on the Apostles and Disciples, This is that, saith St. Peter, which was spoken of the Prophet Joel, saying, In the last Days I will pour my Spirit upon all Flesh; Acts 2. 17. So Heb. 1. 1. God who of old spake to our Fathers by the Prophets, ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν ἡμερῶν, in theſe laſt Days hath ſpoken to us by his Son; i. e. by him, who, ſaith St. Peter, was fore ordain'd from the Beginning of the World, but was manifeſted, ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν χρόνων, in the laſt Times; where the Times of Chriſt's Manifeſtation to the World, and of his preaching to the Jews, are manifeſtly ſtiled the laſt Times. So Jam. 5. 3. You have treaſured up your Gold and Silver as Fire which ſhall eat your Fleſh, ἐν ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις, in the laſt Days; 2 Pet. 2. 3. This know ye, ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν, in the laſt Times there ſhall come Mockers, &c. And that they were then come, we learn from v. 5. This they are ignorant of; and Jude 17, 18. Remember the Words ſpoken before by the Apoſtles of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that they ſaid unto you, that, ἐν ἐσχάτῳ χρόνῳ, in the laſt Time there ſhould be Mockers, walking after their own Luſts: And that they were then come, is evident from the following Words, Theſe are they who ſeparate themſelves, &c. v. 19. And 1 Joh. 2. 18. Little Children, ἐσχάτη ὥρα ἐστὶ, 'tis now the laſt Hour, and as you have heard that Antichriſt ſhall (then) come, ſo now are there many Antichriſts, whereby you may know that this is the laſt Hour. So 2 Tim. 3. 1, 2. This know, that in the laſt Days, ἐν ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις, there ſhall be perillous Times, for Men ſhall be lovers of themſelves; and that thoſe Times, or Days, and Perſons, were then come, is evident from his Exhortation, to turn away from them, v. 5. and his Character of them, v. 6. ἐκ τούτων, of theſe are they that creep into Houſes, &c. And that the laſt Times here mention'd were already come, we learn from his Admonition to Timothy, to put the Brethren in mind of theſe things, v. 4. Here then is another Defect in Mr. Mede's Ingenious Interpretation of theſe Words, that he hath not made it out, that the laſt Times are to be extended beyond the firſt Century, or the Age of the Apoſtles. Mr. Mede ſaith, theſe Words are not a Narration of things preſent, but a Prediction of what ſhall betide the Chriſtian Faith in After-times. I anſwer, They are indeed a Narrative of what the Spirit had foretold ſhould happen in the latter Times, by an Apoſtaſie from the Faith; but the Determination of the Time, when what was thus foretold, ſhould be accompliſhed, depends on the fix'd Import of the latter Times: For theſe laſt Times, ſaith Mr. Mede, being mention'd as the Indication when this Apoſtaſie ſhould take place, muſt therefore be ſufficient to determine the Time of this Apoſtaſie: And ſo they plainly do, according to my Interpretation. But if, with others, you refer theſe laſt Times to the whole Times of Antichriſt, they began not till above 400 Years after the writing this Epiſtle: And why then is the Apoſtle ſo concerned, that Timothy then ſhould put the Brethren in remembrance of theſe things, v. 6. and they contain 1260 Years, and ſo cannot inform us in what Period or preciſe Portion of that Time this Apoſtacy ſhould have its Riſe?

Ἀποστήσονταί τινες τῆς πίστεως, Some ſhall depart from the Faith.] Here ſeems another Defect of Mr. Mede's Hypotheſis, that he makes theſe Words to ſignifie only a partial declining from the Faith, and that again only Virtual and Conſequential, by ſetting up Doctrines oppoſite to, or inconſiſtent with it, tho' not own'd to be ſo by them that embrace them; whereas Apoſtaſie from the Faith ſeems plainly to import a falling off from it wholly, or at leaſt an actual and profeſs'd renouncing of ſome eſſential part of it.

Προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις, καὶ διδασκαλίαις δαιμονίων, Giving heed to ſeducing Spirits, and to Doctrines of Devils.] Theſe Words, by all the Ancient Commentators, ſeem to be taken actively for thoſe Doctrines which are introduced by Men, led by the Suggeſtions of Satan, and of evil Spirits; theſe Doctrines being, ſaith Theodoret, ἐκείνων κυήματα, the Productions of thoſe evil Spirits; and they who vent them, are, ſaith Chryſoſtom, οἱ ὑπ' ἐκείνων ἐνεργούμενοι, Men acted by them. The falſe Prophets, and falſe Apoſtles, ſaith the Author of the Interpolated Epiſtle to the Philadelphians, had, πλάνον πνεῦμα, (Sect. 5.) a Spirit that deceived the People; they preach'd, ἀπάτην, καὶ πλάνην, Deceit, and Error, and had dwelling in them, τὸν δράκοντα τὸν ἀποστάτην, the Apoſtate Dragon. Theſe falſe Prophets had, ſaith St. John, πνεῦμα τῆς πλάνης, a Spirit of Error, as the Apoſtles had, πνεῦμα τῆς ἀληθείας, the Spirit of Truth, 1 John 4. 1, 6. So far is it from being true, that the Word Spirit ſignifies Doctrines, and not thoſe deluding Spirits which taught them; yet becauſe the Prince of Devils, Mat. 9. 34. the Spirit of the Devil, Luke 4. 33. Rev. 16. 14. the Sacrifice, the Table, the Cup of Devils, 1 Cor. 10. 20, 21. the Habitation of Devils, Rev. 18. 2. are Phraſes where, Δαιμόνια, Devils, are ſtill taken objectively, I admit that Senſe alſo here: And then the Apoſtaſie procured by the Spirits of Deceit is that of the Judaizers, relapſing from the Profeſſion of the Chriſtian Faith, through thoſe falſe Chriſts and falſe Prophets, of which our Saviour foretold they ſhould deceive many, Mat. 24. 11, 24. whereas they who apoſtatized by falling back to Heatheniſm, are they who give heed to the Doctrines of Demons: For, Dii Gentium Dæmonia, the Gods of the Heathens are Demons.

Ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, through the Hypocriſie of falſe Speakers.] Ἐν pro διὰ, through, is very common; ſo, ἐν πάσῃ ἀπάτῃ ἀδικίας, through all Deceivableneſs of Unrighteouſneſs, 2 Theſ. 2. 9, 10. See Mark 9. 29. Luke 1. 17. Acts 17. 31. Rom. 12. 21. Tit. 1. 9. 2 Pet. 3. 1. Κεκαυτηριασμένων τὴν συνείδησιν, of ſeared Conſciences, i. e. of Conſciences which have loſt the Senſe of Good or Evil, and do no longer do their Office:

Office: For this Expression, saith Theodoret, signifies, τὸ ἐχάτιον αὐτῶν ἀναλγησίαν, the extreme Stupor of their Consciences: for the Member seared, νεκρωθὲν πρὸς αἰσθησιν ἀποβάλλει, being mortified, hath lost its former Sensation.

κωλύοντων γαμεῖν, ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from all Meats.] It is here to be noted from Theophylact, that in construing these Words, οὐκ ἐφείλκυσε διὰ τοῦτο λαβεῖν τὸ κωλυόντων, ἀλλ' ἔξωθεν προσέθηκε τὸ συμβουλεύοντων ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, we must not repeat the Word forbidding, but add in lieu of it counselling to abstain from Meats; so all the Antients have interpreted these Words. (a) Clemens Alexandrinus, when he saith, κωλύειν γαμεῖν, οὐδὲ μὴν χρεωφαγεῖν, we must not forbid to marry, nor yet to eat Flesh. The Apostle, saith (b) Tertullian, notes them who wholly forbad Marriage, and interdicted Meats. And (c) Epiphanius saith, This of the Apostle is fulfilled in the Cataphrygæ, and other Hereticks, for most of them, τὸ γαμεῖν κωλύουσι, ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων παραγγέλλουσιν, forbid Marriage, and command to abstain from Meat. This, in effect, is the Interpretation of all the Ancient Commentators on the Place, who give us the same Sense of the Words, as do the Fathers cited, and of all the Translations, who, tho' they do not add the Word Commanding, yet they add a Copulative, and change the Infinitive into a Participle thus, Prohibentes nubere & abstinentes a cibis. Syr. Prohibentes matrimonium, & amoventes cibos. Arab.

That all these things happened in the Apostles Times, and many of them were to happen before the Destruction of Jerusalem, is evident: That there was to be a great Apostacy before that Time carried on by False Prophets and False Christs, our Lord expressly had foretold; and that it, in great measure, had obtain'd, especially among the Jews, we learn from the Epistle to the Hebrews, writ purposely to put a stop to it; that the great Promoters of it were Deceitful Workers, False Apostles, and that they carried on that Work in hypocrisie, esteeming Gain Godliness, this Apostle often doth inform us, see 2 Cor. 2. 17. 11. 13, 14, 15. That they were Men whose Minds and Consciences were defiled, see Tit. 1. 15. That their Doctrine was this, It is good for a Man not to touch a Woman, 1 Cor. 7. 1. Their vain Philosophy this, Taste not (forbidden Meats,) handle not (an unclean thing,) see Coloss. 2. 21. It remains only to consider who they should be: That they could not be the Gnosticks, the Followers of Simon Magus, I have proved against Dr. Hammond, note on Coloss. 2. 21. Moreover, according to his Exposition, they were to appear before the Destruction of Jerusalem; for he interprets those Words, the Spirit speaketh, expressly of our Lord's Prediction, Matth. 24. Now there were no such Hereticks among the Gnosticks till the Second Century. Saturninus, saith (d) Theodoret, was the first who named Matrimony the Doctrine of Devils, and taught Men to abstain from living Creatures. Now this Saturninus was before (e) Basilides, who by (f) St. Jerom is often call'd The Father of the Gnosticks; whereas that these Men were in the Apostles Times, we learn, saith (g) Tertullian from the Apostles themselves. I have, Note on 1 Cor. 7. 1. and on Coloss. 2. 21. conjectured that they were the Essæans among the Jews; and that with them agreed the Magicians, and Idolaters among the Heathens, we learn from Clemens of Alexandria, who, speaking of those Hereticks, who said the Resurrection had pass'd on them already, διὰ τοῦτο ἀθετοῦσι τὸν γάμον, and therefore rejected Matrimony; he saith, this was not peculiar to these Menandrians; (h) but they who worshipped Idols, did also abstain from Meats and Venery; and the Magicians, who worshipped Angels and Dæmons, did also carefully abstain from Wine, from living Creatures, and from Venery.

And if Saturninus, who succeeded Menander, who flourished in the Time of Domitian and Trajan, did in this, as in most other things, τὰ αὐτὰ τῷ Μενάνδρῳ φιλοσοφοῦσι, agree in Sentiments with Menander, as (i) Eusebius saith he did, the Apostle may reasonably be conceived to include him: For Epiphanius, saith of him, in the very Words of (k) Irenæus, that (l) he affirmed, that to marry, and beget

Children, was from Satan; and that hence many of them abſtain'd from living Creatures, and by this feigned Continence ſeduced many to their Hereſie. And this is the more likely, becauſe 'tis noted of this Menander, that he proceeded, εἰς ἄκρον τῆς μαγίας, to the height of that Magick which was attended with that Abſtinence. Iren. l. 1. c. 21. Euſeb. H. Eccl. l. 3. c. 26. It is no Objection againſt this Interpretation, that the Eſſens, mentioned by Philo and Joſephus, were not Chriſtians, and ſo could not depart from the Faith; for who can prove that none of them embraced the Faith of Chriſt, or that they could not do it, and yet retain their old Sentiments concerning Meats and Marriage? It may be alſo true, that the Menandrians were not yet formed into a Sect when this Epiſtle was endited; but that affects not my Interpretation, ſince it is certain from 1 Cor. 7. 1. and Coloſſ. 2. 16, 21. (See the Notes there) that their Doctrines obtained before. And that the Perſons here intended muſt be Judaizers, is fairly gathered from v. 7. and from theſe Words, commanding to abſtain from Meats which God hath created to be received with Thankſgiving, of them that believe and know the Truth; for thoſe laſt Words ſhew, that theſe Perſons were ſuch as had no right Faith, or Knowledge of that Chriſtian Truth, that every Creature of God was good (for Food,) and nothing was to be refuſed, as polluted or unclean, v. 4. Thus have I given my own Opinion concerning the true and primary Import of theſe Words. Others, I know, conceive that they refer to the Apoſtacy of the Church of Rome, and therefore deſcant on them thus:

Ver. 1. But (in Oppoſition to this Myſtery of Godlineſs mention'd Chap. 3. 15, 16. there is another Myſtery of Iniquity of which) the Spirit ſpeaketh expreſly, (Dan. 11. 36, 37, 38, 39. ſaying) that in the latter Times ſome ſhall depart from the Faith, giving heed to erroneous Spirits, and Doctrines of Devils.

Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς, in the latter Days.] That is, in the Times of Antichriſt, 1 Joh. 2. 18. Dan. 2. 44. See Hoſ. 3. 5. Micah 4. 1.

Ἀποστήσονται τινες τῆς πίστεως, Some ſhall depart from the Faith.] Idolatry being repreſented in the Old Teſtament as Apoſtacy, from the Law of Moſes, and the God of Iſrael; the like Idolatry in the Church of Rome may well be counted an Apoſtacy from the Chriſtian Faith.

Προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις, Giving heed to ſeducing Spirits.] i. e. to Men acted by ſeducing Spirits, for πνεύματα doth often ſignifie the Impulſes, or Afflatus of good or evil Spirits; of Good, ſo 1 Cor. 14. 12. you are zealous, πνευμάτων, of Spiritual Gifts, or Afflatus's; and ſo throughout the Chapter; of evil Spirits, as 1 Joh. 4. 1. Believe not every Spirit, but try the Spirits. Accordingly the Coming of the Man of Sin is to be, κατ' ἐνέργειαν τοῦ Σατανᾶ according to the Energy of Satan, with all lying Wonders, 2 Theſſ. 2. 9. So was the Idolatrous Worſhip of the Gentiles promoted, ſay (m) Tertullian, (n) Euſebius, and (c) St. Chry*ſoſtom*; ſo alſo was the Worſhip of Saints promoted in the Church of Rome. See Mr. Mede l. 3. c. 2, 4.

Καὶ διδασκαλίαις δαιμονίων, and to Doctrines of Devils.] i. e. to the Heathen Theology concerning Dæmons, or giving heed to the Doctrine concerning the Worſhip of dead Men, or departed Saints, brought in by their pretended Apparitions, and Wonders wrought at their Tombs, after Death, which were indeed, if at all done, wrought by the Illuſions of Devils.

Ver. 2. (Which Apoſtacy ſhall be promoted) by the Hypocriſie of Lyars which have their Conſcience ſeared.

Ἐν ὑποκρίσει, through the Hypocriſie, &c.] Hence it is argued, that they who thus promote and carry on this Apoſtacy, muſt not be open Deſerters, but Hypocritical Profeſſors of that Faith from which they, by their Actions, virtually depart.

Ver. 3. (And the Men I ſpeak of may be diſcerned by theſe Marks, that they are) of thoſe who forbid to marry, and command to abſtain from Meats which God hath created to be received with Thankſgiving, of them which believe and know the Truth.

Κωλυόντων γαμεῖν, Forbidding to marry.] As is done in the Roman Church to Monks and Nuns, ſee Mr. Mede, l. 3. c. 7. and to the Clergy; and that, ſaith Pope Siricius, Quoniam qui in carne ſunt Deo placere non poſſunt, becauſe they that are in the Fleſh cannot pleaſe God.

Ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, to abſtain from Meats.] That this is done in the Roman Church, by a Law obliging ſome Orders of Monks to abſtain from all Fleſh, ſee Mr. Mede, Ibid. And this may well be reckoned as a Character of Apoſtacy from the Chriſtian Faith, becauſe it ſeems to be a reducing of them back from their Chriſtian Liberty to a Conformity to the legal Rites.

Ver. 4. For every Creature of God is good (for Food,) and nothing (is) to be refuſed, (as polluted,) if it be (Gr. being) received with Thankſgiving.

Ver. 5. For it is ſanctified by the Word, (giving us Commiſſion to eat of all things, Gen. 9. 2, 3. or by the Goſpel, taking off the Difference betwixt things clean and unclean, Rom. 14. 14.) and by Prayer (for a Bleſſing on it, and Thankſgiving for it.)

Ver. 6. If thou put the Brethren in remembrance of theſe things, (to preſerve them from theſe Impoſtors,) thou ſhalt be a good Miniſter of Jeſus Chriſt, nouriſhed up in the Words of Truth, and of good Doctrine, whereunto thou haſt attained, (or which thou haſt followed hitherto.)

Ver. 7. But refuſe (avoid) profane and old Wives Fables (ſuch as the Jewiſh Doctors tell, Chap. 1. 4, 6. Tit. 1. 14. 3. 9.) and exerciſe thy ſelf rather (in thoſe things which tend, not as they do, to endleſs Queſtions, and Law-Strifes, and the Perverſion of the Faith, but) unto Godlineſs.

Ver. 8. For bodily Exerciſe profiteth little; but Godlineſs is profitable to all things, having the Promiſe of this Life, and that which is to come.

Σωματικὴ γυμνασία, Bodily Exerciſe.] The Apoſtle, in the former Verſe, exhorted Timothy, γύμναζε, to exerciſe himſelf unto Godlineſs, as the Athleticks did in the Olympick Games exerciſe themſelves for their Combats, adding here, that their Exerciſes, tho' they were very hard and difficult, tended to little Profit, they ſtriving for the Maſtery, only that they might obtain a corruptible Crown, 1 Cor. 9. 25. whereas that Piety in which he did adviſe him to exerciſe himſelf, was profitable for all things: Or, becauſe Philo makes mention, τῶν συνεχῶν πόνων, of the continual Labours of the (p) Eſſens, and (q) Joſephus of their ἀσκήσεις, or Exerciſes Morning and Evening; he perhaps may oppoſe unto them this Exerciſe of Piety.

Ver. 9. This is a faithful Saying, and worthy of all Acceptation, (a Truth moſt worthy to be relied on, viz. that Godlineſs hath the Promiſe of that Life which is to come,) for therefore we labour, and ſuffer Reproach, becauſe we truſt in the living God, who is the Saviour of all Men, but eſpecially of thoſe that believe.

Ὅς ἐστι Σωτὴρ πάντων ἀνθρώπων, who is the Saviour of all Men.] The Author of the Book, De Vocatione Gentium, expounds this very well, telling us, That, by ſaying, l. 2. c. 31. he is the Saviour of all Men, he confirms the general Goodneſs of God towards all Men, and by adding, eſpecially of them that believe, he ſhews there is one part of Mankind, which, through the Benefit of divinely inſpired Faith, is by ſpecial Benefits advanced to the higheſt and eternal Felicity. He is the Saviour of all Men, (1ſt.) leaving none of them without ſome Teſtimonies of his Goodneſs, Act. 14. 17. ſufficient to engage and to direct them ſo to ſeek the Lord, that they might find him, Act. 17. 27. Lib. 2. 5. Nulli nationi hominum bonitatis ſuæ dona ſubtraxit, ſaith the ſame Author. (2dly,) Shewing to them ſo much of himſelf, i. e. of his eternal Power and Godhead, as might render them inexcuſable, in that they did not glorifie him as God, neither were they thankful, Rom. 1. 20, 21. and writing in their Hearts the Law of Nature, which enabled them by Nature to do the things of the Law, and made their Conſciences accuſe them when they neglected ſo to do, Rom. 2. 14, 15. they knowing ſo far the Righteouſneſs of God, that they who did thoſe things, which were contrary to the Law of Nature, were worthy of Death, Rom. 1. 32. For adhibita eſt ſemper univerſis hominibus quædam ſupernæ menſura doctrinæ, quæ etſi occultioris parcioriſque Gratiæ fuit, ſuffecit tamen quibuſdam ad remedium, omnibus ad teſtimonium. (3dly,) Accepting every where him that worked Righteouſneſs, of what Nation ſoever he might be, Act. 10. 35. and accounting him as circumciſed who kept the Righteouſneſs of the Law, Rom. 2. 26. And, Laſtly, Rewarding the Good Deeds of all that diligently ſought him, Heb 11. 6. Mr. Cl. underſtands this Salvation of Deliverance from Temporal Dangers, in which Senſe it is alſo true; but that cannot be the entire Senſe of the Apoſtle, who had ſaid before, v. 8. that Godlineſs had the Promiſe of this Life, and that which is to come, i. e. both of Temporal and Eternal Salvation; and adds, v. 9. This is a faithful Saying, and worthy of all Acceptation; i. e. that not Temporal only, but Eternal Bleſſings are to be expected from him, and that therefore they, the Apoſtles, labour'd and ſuffer'd Reproach, becauſe they truſted in the living God who is the Saviour of all Men; whereas, doubtleſs, they did this, not only with reſpect to Temporal, but eſpecially to Eternal Salvation, 2 Cor. 4. 17.

Ver. 11. Theſe things command, (Gr. exhort,) and teach (Men to believe.)

Ver. 12. Let no Man (have Occaſion to) deſpiſe thy Youth, (or thy Function, by reaſon of it) but be thou an Example of (and to) Believers, in Word (of Doctrine,) in (Gravity of) Converſation, in Charity (to all,) in (Fervency of) Spirit, in Faith, in Purity (of Life.)

Τὴν νεότητα, thy Youth.] The Presbyters were generally in thoſe Times aged, as their Name imports; but Timothy, becauſe the Gift of Prophecy had pointed him out for that Work, v. 14. and becauſe the Gifts of the Spirit had rendred him fit, was made an Evangeliſt in his younger Age; and therefore the Apoſtle doth exhort him to make up in the Excellency of his Doctrine, and in the Gravity of his Converſation, what was wanting in his Age.

Ver. 13. Till I come (to thee,) give Attendance to reading (the Holy Scriptures, whence thou may'ſt learn to teach others,) to Exhortation (to what they ought to do, and to avoid,) to Doctrine, (teaching them what to believe.)

Here

Here (1ſt.) it is well noted by the Fathers, and by Eſtius, that if St. Timothy, who had Spiritual Gifts, was yet by St. Paul commanded to be thus diligent in reading the Scriptures, that in his Exhortations he might profit others, then much more ſhould other Biſhops and Miniſters be ſo, quos omnes Paulus in Timotheo inſtruit; then alſo ſhould they not depend upon extemporary Effuſions, without Attendance unto reading.

2dly, That the Illumination or Gifts of the Holy Spirit ſhould not hinder our Diligence in reading, and ſtudying what we are to exhort others to, and inſtruct them in.

Ver. 14. Neglect not (to ſtir up) the Gift that is in thee, (ſee Note on 2 Tim. 1. 6.) which was given thee by Prophecy, (according to the foregoing Prophecies concerning thee, ſee Note on 1 Tim. 1. 18.) with the laying on of the Hands of the Presbytery.

Μετὰ ἐπιθέσεως τῶν χειρῶν πρεσβυτερίου, with the Impoſition of the Hands of the Presbytery.] The χάρισμα, or ſpiritual Gift, here mentioned, is expreſly ſaid to be given, διὰ τ ἐπιθέσεως τ χειρῶν μu, by the laying on of the Hands of St. Paul, 2 Tim. 1. 6. the giving of the ſpiritual Gifts ſeeming to be peculiar to this or ſome other Act of an Apoſtle, Act. 8. 17. 19. 6. But other Seniors, or Presbyters, as Irænæus, L. 4. c. 43 calls them, qui cum Epiſcopatus Succeſſione Chariſma Veritatis certum acceperunt, Who with their Succeſſion received the certain Chariſma of Truth, might, and did lay on their Hands together with him. This Ceremony of Impoſition of Hands in Ordination, is confirmed from the Practice of the Apoſtles, and Apoſtolical Men, thus ordaining Deacons, Acts 6. 6. Paſtors or Teachers of the Word, Acts 13. 3. Elders, whether Biſhops or Preſbyters in every City, Acts 14. 23. and Evangeliſts here: And this Practice they certainly derived from the Jews, who created Governours of Criminal Cauſes, or Ruling Elders, and Maſters, Doctors, and Rabbins, to be Teachers of the Law, i. e. to labour in the Word and Doctrine, by that Impoſition of Hands which they called סמיכה as Moſes did to Joſhua, Numb. 27. 43. Deut. 34. 9. and as (r) Maimonides ſaith he did, when he aſſumed the Seventy to aſſiſt him; and as the Firſt-born, (s) laid their Hands upon the Levites, Numb. 8. 10. who were choſen to ſerve in their ſtead, and ſo conſecrated them to God in their Name. And this way of Conſecration, by Impoſition of Hands, ſay they, came down from (t) Joſhua by a perpetual Succeſſion to their Rabbins. Tho' therefore I ſcarce find any Footſteps of it in the firſt Century, or ſecond; yet Cyprian, in the third, ſpeaks of it as that which, de Traditione Divina & Apoſtolica Obſervatione ſervandum eſt & tenendum, Was to be obſerved and held from Divine Tradition, and Apoſtolical Obſervation, in the Collation of the Epiſcopal Office, and as that which they (u) practiſed in the Ordination of Sabinus to that Office. Euſebius, ſaith (x) Origen, alſo was thus advanced to the Preſbytery by the Biſhops of Cæſarea. And the Apoſtolical Conſtitutions give us this as an Ordinance of (y) St. John the Apoſtle, who, doubtleſs, when he return'd from Patmos to Epheſus, regulating the Churches, and conſtituting Biſhops, did it according to the Rites of the Jews, and Practice of the other Apoſtles; whence I conclude this is no Accidental but a neceſſary Rite of the due Ordination of Biſhops, Preſbyters, and Deacons.

Ver. 15. Meditate on theſe things (which thou readeſt in the Holy Scriptures, and in which thou inſtructeſt others, v. 15.) give thy ſelf wholly to them, (to Exhortation and Doctrine, v. 11, 12.) that (ſo thou may'ſt perform them with ſuch readineſs and exactneſs, that) thy profiting may appear unto all.

Ver. 16. Take heed to thy ſelf, (that thou liveſt exemplarily, v. 12.) and to thy Doctrine, (that it be ſound and edifying, v. 6.) continue in them, (in the Exerciſes mention'd, v. 12, 13.) for in doing this thou ſhalt both ſave thy ſelf, (by doing faithfully thy Duty,) and them that hear thee, (by engaging them to perform theirs.)

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. REbuke not an Elder (with Severity,) but intreat him as a Father, and the younger as Brethren, (in respect of thy Youth, Chap. 4. 12.)

Πρεσβυτέρου, an Elder.] In the Judgment of Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, the Elder here signifies, οὐ τὸ ἱερέα, ἀλλὰ τὸ γηραιὸν, not a Priest, but a grave ancient Man, such being in all Ages and Nations styled Fathers; and this Sense the Distinction here of Ages, and of Sexes, seems to plead for.

Μὴ ἐπιπλήξῃς, Rebuke not.] The Word signifies to chastise, or rebuke with Severity, and sometimes with Stripes.

Ver. 2. The elder Women, as Mothers; the younger, as Sisters, (being careful to converse with them, when Necessity requires it,) with all Purity, (with Gravity in your Words and Countenance, Observance of your Eyes and Heart, at Times and Places which can minister no Suspicion of undue Behaviour towards them.)

Πρεσβυτέρας, the Elder Women.] The Widows of the Church, saith Dr. H. very improbably, they being mention'd particularly in the Sequel of the Chapter.

Ver. 3. Honour Widows, that are Widows indeed.

Τίμα, Honour.] i. e. Yield them Reverence and Alimony; for that Provision is for them included in this Honour, is evident from v. 4. and the 8th. Thus not to give Parents what is needful for them, is to transgress the Precept which commands us to honour our Father and our Mother, Mark 7. 10, 11, 12. So Acts 28. 10. πολλαῖς τιμαῖς ἐτίμησαν ἡμᾶς, they honoured us with many Honours, giving us, τὰ πρὸς τὰς χρείας, such things as were necessary. Hence, in the (a) Jerusalem Targum, Honorare est viaticum providere, to Honour is to make Provisions for any Person; so here, Honour Widows, that is, saith Theophylact, τὰ ἀναγκαῖα χορήγει, provide them Necessaries; see Note on Mark 7. 10.

Τὰς ὄντως χήρας, that are Widows indeed.] Answering that Name by being, χηρῶσαι, desolate, and destitute of any other to relieve them, and being also exemplarily pious, v. 5. Widows, saith Cotelerius, hath divers Significations; it signifies, 1. Any Woman that survives her Husband. 2. Poor Women, who, after the Death of their Husbands, need the Alms of the Church, (as here.) 3. Such as consecrated themselves to God, professing perpetual Widowhood, (v. 5.) 4. Such as were chosen into the Ecclesiastical Ministery, or made Deaconesses, v. 9. That there should be any ἀειπάρθενοι, or Persons that were always Virgins, called, τὰς παρθένους, τὰς λεγομένας χήρας, Widows; tho' the Passage of Ignatius, according to Vossius's Reading, seems to make for it, yet, according to the Reading of Bishop Usher, (ἀειπαρθένους ἢ χήρας,) it makes against it; and Virgo-Vidua, a Virgin-Widow, that is admitted to the Degree of a Deaconess among the Widows, is, in Tertullian's Language (b) a Miracle or Monster in the Church. 'Tis certain such a one could be none of the Apostle's Widows here, for he supposeth his Widows may have Children, v. 4. and expressly forbids any to be chosen into the Number of Widows that hath not nourished or brought up her Children, v. 9, 10. and 'tis not reasonable to conceive the Church of Smyrna should so soon transgress against this Rule of the Apostle, or that this Famous Martyr should approve such a Violation of the Apostle's Precept.

Ver. 4. But if any Widow have Children, or Nephews, let them, (i. e. those Children or Grandchildren,) learn first (or chiefly) to shew Piety at home, (i. e. to their own Family, or Houshold,) and to requite their Parents, (who have bred them up, v. 10.) for that is good and acceptable before God, (and then, if they be able, extend their Charity to others.)

Μανθανέτωσαν πρῶτον τὸν ἴδιον οἶκον εὐσεβεῖν, Let them learn first to shew Piety at home.] The Apostle here speaks of the Care the Children should take to nourish their Parents, which are Widows, πρῶτον, before they suffer them to be Burthensome to the Church, as it is evident from v. 16. which saith, If any Man or Woman have Widows (belonging to their Family,) let them relieve them, and let not the Church be charged with them; and also from the following Words here, and to requite their Parents, which only can belong unto the Children, and was always reckoned an Act of Piety towards them, (c) as, after God, the Authors of our Being, whence anciently they were so reverenced, saith (d) Simplicius, as to be called Gods.

(a) In Deut. 15. 14. (b) Ne tale nunc Miraculum, ne dixerim monstrum, in Ecclesia denotaretur, virgo vidua. De Virgin. Veland. Cap. 9.

(c) Χρὴ δὲ ἐπιμελῶς παντὸς αὐτῶ, ᾧ ὅτι αἴτιῳ ἡμῖν, μετὰ θεὸν, τοῦ εἶναι γέγονε, καὶ ὅτι διὰ τὰς ὀφειλομένας αὐτῶ, καὶ ὁμολογίας ἐτέφημεν.

(d) Οἱ γὰρ ἐν παλαιότητι πατέρων τὰς γόνας ἐσέβοντο, ὡς καὶ θεὸς αὐτὸς ἐφιλῆσαι κελεύῃ. Simpl. in Epict. c. 37 p. 178, 179.

5. Nere

Ver. 5. Now ſhe that is a Widow indeed, and deſolate, (being left quite alone, without any Children to relieve her,) truſteth in God, and continueth in Supplication Night and Day.

Μεμονωμένη, Solitary.] So Philo ſaith, the Widow of the Prieſt, which has no Children, muſt return to her Father's Houſe, as, ἀνδρὸς καὶ παίδων ἔρημος ἀδιμίαν ἑτέρου ἔχουσα καταφυγὴν, having no other Refuge, when deſtitute of Husband, and of Children, but her Father: But if ſhe have Sons, or Daughters, 'tis neceſſary that the Mother ſhould be placed with her Children, υἱοὶ καὶ θυγατέρες τῆς τοῦ γενέσαντος εἰκίας ὄντες, (e) for Sons and Daughters being of the Houſe of their Parents, draw the Mother to it; whence alſo we learn what it is to ſhew Piety to their own Houſe, v. 4. viz. to do it to their Parents.

Ἤλπικεν ἐπὶ τῷ Θεῷ, truſteth in God.] i. e. Having no other Helper, ſhe repoſeth her ſelf on him alone, committing her ſelf to him by conſtant Prayer for his Help. This is Cotelerius's third kind of Widows, compared by the Author of the Apoſtolical Conſtitutions, Lib. 3. c. 1. to the Widow of Sarepta, and to Anna the Daughter of Phanuel, mention'd Luke 2. 36. who does not oblige her ſelf by Vow, or Promiſe, ſo to do, but only remains ſingle, διὰ τὸ ἔχειν χρείας, as having the Gift of Widowhood. So St. Jerom deſcribes theſe Widows, in theſe Words, Honora Viduas quæ vere Viduæ ſunt, hoc eſt quæ omni ſuorum auxilio deſtitutæ ſunt, quæ manibus ſuis laborare non poſſunt, quas paupertas debilitat, ætaſque conficit, quibus Deus ſpes eſt, & omne opus Oratio. Ep. ad Gerontiam.

Ver. 6. But ſhe that liveth in Pleaſure (Licentiouſly), is dead (to God,) whilſt ſhe (thus) liveth, (and ſo is not to be reſpected as a vital Member of the Church, or nouriſhed by her.)

Ἡ δὲ σπαταλῶσα, ſhe that liveth in Pleaſure.] This Word properly ſignifies to feed deliciouſly, and drink choice Liquors; τῇ γαστρὶ ζῆν μόνῃ, to live only for the Belly, ſaith St. Chryſoſtom. So Ezek. 16. 49. This was the Sin of thy Siſter Sodom, in Pride, Fulneſs of Bread, καὶ ἐν εὐθηνίᾳ ἐσπατάλων, and in Abundance, ſhe and her Daughters rioted. Amos 6. 4. They lie upon Beds of Ivory, καὶ κατασπαταλῶντες, and abounding with Superfluities, they eat the Lambs out of the Flock, and the Calves out of the midſt of the Stall; and becauſe ſuch eating and drinking provokes to carnal Pleaſures, it is joined with them, as when the Apoſtle ſaith, ye have lived in Pleaſure, and been wanton, Gr. καὶ ἐσπαταλήσατε, Jam. 5. 5. Such a Woman is dead whilſt ſhe liveth, according to that of the Jews, (f) the Juſt in their Death are ſtyled living, the Wicked whilſt they live are ſtyled dead. Maimonides.

Ver. 7. And theſe things give in charge, that they, (i. e. the Widows,) may be blameleſs.

Ver. 8. But if any (having Ability) provide not for his own (Kindred,) and eſpecially for thoſe of his own Houſe, he hath (in Works) denied the Faith, and is worſe than an Infidel.

Ἔστιν ἀπίστου χείρων, He is worſe than an Infidel.] For they put this among the firſt and moſt indiſſoluble Principles of Nature, requiring us, πρῶτα θεοὺς τιμᾶν, μεταπεῖτα τοκέας, (g) firſt to Honour the Gods, and then our Parents placing among the things, in which they are to be honoured, χρημάτων χορηγίαν καὶ σώματος ὑπηρέτας, the making Proviſions for them, and ſerving them with our Bodies. So (h) Ariſtotle ſaith, we muſt rather make Proviſions for them than for our ſelves, and yield them, τίμων τοῖς θεοῖς θεῖς, Honour, as they do unto the Gods. (i) Plutarch ſaith, That all Men, tho' ſome may think otherwiſe, ſay, that Nature, and the Law of Nature, requires that Parents ſhould have the higheſt Honour next the Gods: That Men can do nothing more acceptable to the Gods, than by readily heaping Favours upon their Parents; and nothing that is a greater Evidence of Atheiſm, or Impiety, than to deſpiſe them.

Ver. 9. Let not a Widow be taken into the Number (of Widows to be maintained by the Church,) under threeſcore Year old, having been the Wife of one Husband, (not one that hath divorc'd her ſelf from one Husband, and married again.)

Ver. 10. Being alſo well reported of, for Good Works; if (εἰ, that) ſhe hath brought up Children, if (that) ſhe hath lodged Strangers, if ſhe hath waſhed the Saints Feet, if ſhe hath relieved the Afflicted, if ſhe hath diligently followed every Good Work.

Χήρα καταλεγέσθω μή, Let not a Widow be taken into the Number.] The Apoſtle now comes to ſpeak of ſuch Widows as were not only to be maintained by the Church, for they were, doubtleſs, to receive her Alms, if really they were poor, without theſe Qualifications, but of ſuch as were to be admitted into the Number of Deaconeſſes, whoſe Office it was to inſtruct the younger Women, to attend the Women when Sick and in Labour, and to aſſiſt at the Baptiſm of the Female Sex.

μὴ ἧσσον ἐτῶν ἑξήκοντα, not less than Sixty Years old.] 'Tis the Mistake of Zonaras, Balsamon, and Blastares, to think to reconcile this with the 15th. Canon of the Council of Chalcedon, and the 14th. of Trullo, by saying, That Widows might only be admitted Deaconesses at Sixty, but Virgins at Forty. This last was done in After-Ages, and after that Apostolical Constitution, which, agreeably to St. Paul, saith, L. 3. c. 1. χήρας δὲ καθιστᾶτε μὴ ἧσσον ἐτῶν ἑξήκοντα, let not the Widows be constituted under Sixty Years: and they who first began to alter the Time, did at last take away the Office.

γεγαμηκὼς ἑνὸς ἀνδρὸς γυνὴ, Being the Wife of one Husband.] That is, one who had not divorced her self from one, and married another Husband; for otherwise the younger Widows, whom St. Paul bids to marry, could never be admitted Deaconesses, though they had all the other Qualifications. That such Divorces were then common on the Wives side, both among Jews and Gentiles, we learn concerning the Romans, from the Complaint of (k) Seneca, That none in his Time blushed at it, their Noble Women marrying, that they might divorce themselves, and there being scarce any Marriages without Divorces. (l) Cicero complains of many things of this kind which happened in his Time. Plutarch mentions it as a thing common and (m) customarily done by any Women that were Jealous; and the Law among the (n) Athenians allowed it; Instances we have of it in (o) Justin Martyr, and (p) Tertullian: And that this also was frequent in the Practice of the Jews, and allow'd by their Rabbins, see Note on 1 Cor. 7. 11.

ἐν ἔργοις καλοῖς μαρτυρούμενον, if she hath brought up Children.] That εἰ signifies that, as well as if, see Note on Act. 26. 23. εἰ παθητὸς ὁ χριστὸς, εἰ πρῶτος, &c. that Christ hath suffer'd, and that he was the first that rose from the dead; and that so it should be rendred here, the Word μαρτυρούμενον, testified, seems to require: For a Testimony of the good Works of others, is, that they have done such and such laudable Actions.

Ver. 11. But the younger Widows refuse; for when they have begun to wax wanton against (or grow weary of) Christ, they will marry.

Ver. 12. Having Condemnation, because they have cast off their first Faith.

Ὅταν καταστρηνιάσωσι τοῦ χριστοῦ, when they have waxed wanton against Christ.] That is, say Chrysostom, and Oecumenius, ὅταν ἀπώσωνται, when they have cast off, or fastidiously refused and rejected Christ; ὅταν καταβλακευθῶσιν, when they have contemn'd and made light of him; when they do, βαρέως φέρειν, καὶ ἀπαυθαδιάζεσθαι τὸν ἔνζυγα, bear Christ's Yoke grievously, and cast off his Reins. So Hesychius, and Phavorinus. So that this Phrase signifies to cast off Christ, and Christianity; and as the Apostle afterwards explains it, Ἐκτρέπεσθαι, to turn from him after Satan, or to fall off from him to Heathenism, or Judaism, and then, πρώτην πίστιν ἀθετεῖν, to violate their first Faith, cannot be to violate the Promise made when chosen into the Order of Widows, not to marry, but their Faith given unto Christ at Baptism; the other, if any such Promise were then made, being not their first, but second Faith. So Chrysostom, and Oecumenius, expound it from those Words of the Apostle to the Corinthians: I have espoused you to one Husband, that I may present you as a chast Virgin unto Christ.

Ver. 13. And withal, they learn to be idle, wandring about from House to House; and not only idle, but Tatlers also, and Busie-bodies, speaking things which they ought not.

Ver. 14. I will therefore that the younger Women (rather) marry, bear Children, guide the House, (and so) give none Occasion to the Adversary (of Christianity,) to speak reproachfully (of it.)

Ver. 15. (The Necessity of which Precept is too great,) For some (of these young Widows) are already turn'd aside after Satan.

Ἐξετράπησαν ὀπίσω τοῦ σατανᾶ, have turned aside after Satan.] The converting Men to the Christian Faith being the turning Men from the Power of Satan unto God, Acts 26. 18. the rescuing Men from the Snare of the Devil, who were taken captive by him at his Will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. and who walk'd according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, Eph. 2. 2. the casting off the Faith may well be styled the turning aside after Satan.

Ver. 16. If any Man or Woman that believeth, have Widows, (belonging to their Family,) let them relieve them, and let not the Church be charged (with them,) that (being freed from

Ver. 17. Let the Elders that rule well, be counted worthy of double Honour, (i. e. of a more liberal Maintenance,) eſpecially thoſe that labour in the Word and Doctrine.

Διπλῆς τιμῆς,] the double Honour, is that, ἡ ἐλευθερία βορᾶς, of a liberal Maintenance out of the Publick Stock; it ſignifies, ſaith Chryſoſtom, ἡ τῶν ἀναγκαίων χορηγία, Proviſion of things neceſſary, as is evident from the Reaſon following, v. 18. The Labourer is worthy of his Hire.

Μάλιστα οἱ κοπιῶντες ἐν λόγῳ, καὶ διδασκαλίᾳ, eſpecially thoſe who labour in the Word and Doctrine.] Οἱ πρεσβύτεροι, the Elders among the Jews, were of two ſorts: 1. Such as governed in the Synagogue; and, 2dly, ſuch as miniſtred in Reading and Expounding their Scriptures and Traditions, and from them pronouncing what did bind or looſe, or what was forbidden, and what was lawful to be done (o): For when, partly by their Captivity, and partly through Increaſe and Traffick, they were diſperſed in conſiderable Bodies through divers Regions of the World, 'twas neceſſary they ſhould have Governours or Magiſtrates to keep them in their Duty, and judge of Criminal Cauſes, and alſo Rabbins to teach them the Law, and the Traditions of their Fathers. The firſt were ordain'd, ad judicandum, ſed non ad docendum de licitis & vetitis, to judge and govern, but not to teach; the ſecond, ad docendum, ſed non ad judicandum, to teach, but not to judge or govern, and theſe the Apoſtle here declares to be the moſt honourable, and worthy of the chiefeſt Reward. Accordingly the Apoſtle, reckoning up the Offices God had appointed in the Church, places Teachers before Governments, 1 Cor. 12.

Ver. 18. For the Scripture ſaith, Thou ſhalt not muzzle the Ox that treadeth out the Corn; and the Labourer is worthy of his Reward.

Λέγει γὰρ ἡ γραφή, For the Scripture ſaith.] The former Words, Thou ſhalt not muzzle the Ox that treadeth out the Corn, being expreſly found in Deut. 25. 4. and the latter expreſly in the Goſpel of St. Luke, Ch. 10. 7. and with a little Variation, Mat. 10. 10. and in no other Place in Scripture, (for in Lev. 19. 13. and Deut. 24. 14. there is nothing to this purpoſe,) it follows that St. Paul muſt here reckon the Goſpel of St. Luke among the Holy Scriptures, from which ſuch Doctrines as he is now teaching, may be infallibly confirmed.

Note, 2dly, That the Apoſtle, both here, and 1 Cor. 9. 9. proves this from what was written in the Law of Moſes, applying in both Places that which primarily muſt belong to the Jewiſh Prieſthood, to the Preachers of the Goſpel, and hence allowing us to argue for the Maintenance of the latter, by Analogy to what was appointed for the former, as the Apoſtle himſelf doth in this very Caſe, in theſe Words, Do you not know that they who miniſter about (legally) holy things, eat of the things of the Temple; and that they which wait at the Altar, are Partakers with the Altar; i. e. are fed, and liberally maintain'd by the Portions God allow'd them of what was offer'd at his Altar. Even ſo hath the Lord Chriſt appointed, that they who preach the Goſpel ſhould live of the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 9. 12, 13. Whence, 3dly, Note, That this is a ſtanding Ordinance of Chriſt, to continue as long as the preaching of the Goſpel doth, built upon Reaſons of equal Obligation at all times, the Labourer being always worthy of his Hire, the Shepherd to eat of the Milk of the Flock, and he that ſoweth Spirituals to reap Carnals, 1 Cor. 9. 7, 10, 11.

4thly, Note from whom this Reward is to be received; from them amongſt whom theſe Paſtors labour, to whom they ſow ſpiritual things, and who are taught by them: For let him, ſaith the Apoſtle, that is taught in the Word, communicate to him that teacheth, in all good things, Gal. 6. 7. So that he is to have a Supply of all things needful for the Diſcharge of his Function, here double Honour, i. e. a liberal Maintenance.

5thly, Note, That as the Command of being Charitable to the Poor gives juſt Occaſion to thoſe Laws which are made in all Communities, to oblige Men, according to their Abilities, to diſtribute to the Neceſſities of the Poor, becauſe otherwiſe the General Rules of Scripture would not be obey'd, nor the Poor provided for. So the ſtanding Ordinance of Chriſt, and his Apoſtles, concerning the double Honour due to them who labour in the Word and Doctrine, and the communicating to them in all good things, juſtifies thoſe Laws which aſcertain what ſhall be communicated to them, ſince otherwiſe it is much to be fear'd the General Rules of Scripture concerning this Matter, would not be obey'd, nor the Clergy ſufficiently provided for.

Ver. 19. Againſt an Elder receive not an Accuſation, but before (עַל, upon the Teſtimony of) two or three Witneſſes.

Κατὰ πρεσβυτέρου.] The Elder here ſeems to relate not to one who was ſuch by Age, but by Office, becauſe the Apoſtle was before ſpeaking, v. 17. of Elders which ruled well, or laboured in the Word and Doctrine: And whereas the Law had taken care that no Man ſhould be condemned, but by the Mouth of two or three Witneſſes, the Apoſtle knowing how much much the Church would ſuffer by the raſh Accuſations of her Governours, Biſhops, and Presbyters, ſeems to riſe higher, not ſuffering an Accuſation to be admitted againſt them, without the like Number of Witneſſes.

Ver. 20. Them that ſin, rebuke before all, that others alſo may fear.

Τοὺς ἁμαρτάνοντας, i. e. them that Sin] Grievouſly and ſcandalouſly, and are convinced of their Offences by two or three Witneſſes, were to be rebuked, ſaith Theodoret, παντων παρόντων, in the Preſence of all; ſuch publick Cenſures, being, according to the Cuſtom of the Church, done by the Preſidents or Rulers of the Church, τοῦ κοινοῦ, before, and with the Conſent of all, and in the Aſſemblies, as (p) Tertullian ſaith. See Note on 2 Cor. 2. 6.

Ver. 21. I charge thee before God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (whom thou ſerveſt, and by whoſe Authority thou acteſt in this Miniſtery,) and the Elect Angels, (who are Inſpectors and Obſervers of what is done in the Church, 1 Cor. 11. 10.) that thou obſerve theſe things, without preferring one before another, (out of Favour to their Perſons,) doing nothing by Partiality.

Ver. 22. Lay Hands ſuddenly on no Man, neither be thou Partaker of other Mens Sins, keep thy ſelf pure (from them.)

Χεῖρας ταχέως μηδενὶ ἐπιτίθει, Lay Hands ſuddenly on no Man.] This, ſaith the Reverend Dr. Hammond, belongs to the laying on of the Biſhops Hands in abſolving Penitents: Saith the Reverend Biſhop of Worceſter, to the laying on of Hands of Biſhops, Prieſts, and Deacons: 1. Becauſe St. Paul had not mention'd laying on of Hands in Relation to Penitents in this Epiſtle, but he had done it with reſpect to Ordination, and that in Timothy's own Caſe, Chap. 4. 14. 2dly, Becauſe the Apoſtle in this Epiſtle gives no Rules concerning the Qualifications of Penitents, ſaying nothing, what Penitents were to be reconciled, and after what Time, and under what Conditions they were to have Hands laid on them in Token of Reconciliation; nor is there a concurrent Evidence of ſuch a Practice ſo early in the Church; but he had given Rules, touching Biſhops and Deacons, and their Qualifications; and therefore we have more Cauſe to apply it, according to the chief Intention and Deſign of this Epiſtle. 3dly, Becauſe the great uſe of laying on of Hands in the New Teſtament, is for the ſetting Perſons apart for the Diſcharge of a Sacred Office, ſo was it in the firſt Inſtitution of Deacons, Acts 6. 6. and of Paul and Barnabas to a particular Charge, Acts 13. 2, 3. This was an Ancient Ceremony among the Jews, in the ſolemn Deſignation of Perſons to Sacred Offices, Numb. 27. 18, 23. Deut. 34. 9. either to be Rulers or Teachers in their Synagogues; and from thence it was brought into the Church, in the ſolemn Deſignation of Perſons to the Miniſtery. And, 4thly, If theſe Words do not relate to Ordination, St. Paul would have given Timothy no particular Direction about that which was one main Part of his Office; wherefore, as he left Titus at Crete, to ordain Elders in every City; ſo doubtleſs Timothy had the ſame Commiſſion, which yet is no where intimated but in theſe Words: And according to this Senſe, the following Words are capable of a very good Meaning, thus, Be not Partaker of the Sins of them who raſhly, and without due Qualifications, ruſh upon Sacred Offices; for, by want of due Examination, and Trial of them, thou wilt become Partaker of their Guilt.

Ver. 23. Drink no longer Water (only,) but uſe a little Wine (together with it,) for thy Stomach's ſake, and for thy often Infirmities.

So Juſtin Martyr ſaith, That Wine is to be uſed for (q) the Help of the Body, and the Cure of inward Diſtempers. And (r) Plato ſaith it was given for the Health and Strength of the Body. The Eſſens abſtained wholly from Wine, ſee Note on Coloſſ. 2. 21. but the (s) Gnoſticks freely uſed it when they went to the Heathen Feaſts, and otherwiſe.

Ver. 24. (And to preſerve thee from Miſtake, or raſh proceeding, either in Ordination, v. 22. or in rebuking the ſcandalous Offender, conſider, that) Some Mens Sins are open (and diſcernable) before-hand, (i. e. before any Witneſſes come in againſt them,) going before to (or for) Judgment, (or to bring the Cenſures of the Church upon them;) but (in) ſome Men, they follow after, (i. e. their evil Diſpoſitions appear afterward.)

Ver. 25. Likewiſe alſo the good Works of ſome are manifeſt before-hand, (and ſo leſs Examination is needful concerning them,) and they that (i. e. whoſe Works) are otherwiſe, cannot be (long) hid, (their Vices will, by Information of others they converſe with, or by Temptation, and their own evil Inclinations, be at laſt diſcovered.)

I find three Expoſitions of theſe Words: The firſt is that of St. Baſil, and St. Auſtin, which refers them to the Judgment of God thus: The Good and Evil Works of ſome Men are ſo manifeſt, that they may be diſcerned of all Men before the Day of Judgment, and ſo in diſcerning them thou canſt not err;

but if they be latent here, and ſo eſcape thy Examination and Cenſure, they will be manifeſted at the great Day of their Accounts.

2dly, Others referring this to the Cenſures of the Church, the ἐπιτιμία mention'd, v. 20. make the Senſe run thus: Some Mens Sins are ſo open and notorious, as to bring them under the Cenſures of the Church, by way of precedent Merit; others appear more Criminal, after the Cenſures paſs'd upon them, and ſo leſs fit to be abſolved; and ſome Mens Reformation, or Good Works, are ſo manifeſt, after Cenſure, as to evidence they deſerve Abſolution; and if they continue evil, or do but few good Works, that alſo will be in time diſcernable: So that thou may'ſt know who are fit to be abſolved, who not. But againſt this Expoſition there lies this Objection, That no Man ſhould incurr the Cenſures of the Church, but by way of precedent Merit; and ſo no Man's evil Works, for which he is to be cenſured, ſhould follow after that Act of Diſcipline. And, 2dly, the laſt Clauſe of the laſt Verſe ſeems, by the Antitheſis, to refer not to evil, but to good Works, though done as the Works of Charity ought to be, ſo as not to be obſerved by Men.

3dly, The Ancient Greek Expoſitors, with Grotius, refer theſe Words to Ordination, thus: When I ſaid, Lay Hands ſuddenly on no Man, I ſpake not of Men whoſe good or bad Works are manifeſt before-hand; for they, without further Diſcuſſion, or Examination, may be admitted, or are to be rejected; but of thoſe whoſe Vices, or good Works, are latent; for they, after Examination and Enquiry, cannot be long hid: And ſo, if thou be not haſty in laying on of Hands, thou timely may'ſt diſcover them; or if by this means thou canſt not do it, thou wilt not be Partaker with the Sinner, as having done as much as was in thy Power to diſcover them.

CHAP. VI.

Ver. 1. LEt as many Servants as are under the Yoke (of Bondage to the Heathens,) count their own Maſters worthy of all (due) Honour, that the Name of God, and his Doctrine, be not blaſphemed, (or evil ſpoken of, as tending to diſſolve theſe civil Obligations, but rather honoured in all Eſtates of Men, as tending to make them better in their ſeveral Relations, Tit. 2. 10. and more ſubject even to hard and froward Maſters, 1 Pet. 2. 18.)

Ver. 2. And they that have believing Maſters, let them not deſpiſe them becauſe they are (advanced to be) Brethren, (and ſo equal to them in Chriſt,) but rather let them do them Service, becauſe they are Faithful, (of the Houſhold of Faith,) and beloved (of God,) Partakers of the Benefit, theſe things teach and exhort.

Οἱ τῆς εὐεργεσίας ἀντιλαβόμενοι.] Theſe Words being not connected to the preceding, by ὅς, and the Article οἱ ſhewing that they relate not to the Predicate, but to the Subject, will be beſt rendred thus, Becauſe they who Partake of the Benefit of their Service, are Faithful, and Beloved, and therefore more worthy of their Service, the more they are honoured of God, and of the Number of them whom we ſtand bound to ſerve in Love.

That the Gnoſticks taught any ſuch Doctrine, That Chriſtian Servants were not obliged to obey their Heathen, or their Chriſtian Maſters, there is not the leaſt Hint in any of the Commentators on this Place, or in any of the Fathers, who have given us the largeſt Account of their Doctrines. I find in the Epiſtle of Ignatius to Polycarp, theſe Words: (a) Deſpiſe not Men and Maid-Servants, nor let them be puffed up, but let them ſerve the more, for the Glory of God, that they may obtain a better Liberty; let them not covet to be free from their Maſters. But neither doth the Martyr, nor any of his Commentators, intimate, that this relates to any Doctrine of the Gnoſticks: And conſidering how much he endeavoured to imitate St. Paul, we may more probably conjecture it hath relation to this very Place. Moreover, though I have given you the Words, as Dr. Hammond tranſlates them, yet I think the true Meaning of theſe Words, μὴ ἐρέτωσαν ἀπὸ τῆς κοινῆς ἐλευθεροῦσθαι, is this, Let them not be importunate to be delivered, or made free by the Church, or by her Common Stock; for τὸ κοινὸν ſignifies the Community; and ſo τὸ κοινὸν τῆς ἐκκλησίας, in (b) Euſebius, is the Community, or Body of the Church; and alſo in (c) Lucian, where he ſpeaks of the Chriſtians; and τὰ κοινὰ, in Ariſtophanes, Demoſthenes, and Lucian, ſignifies the Common Stock. Now it is evident, from Juſtin Martyr, and Tertullian, that the Common Stock of Chriſtians was imploy'd to buy their Brethren out of Bonds and Servitude. See Note on 1 Cor. 7. 23. & Lucian de Pereg. Ed. Gr. p. 594, 595.

But

But that many of the Jews were of this Opinion, and might be apt to introduce it into Chriſtianity, we find juſt Reaſon to believe; for they thought themſelves privileged, by their Relation to God, from being the Servants of Men. Some of them, ſaith Joſephus, thought it a wicked thing, μετὰ τὸν θεὸν ἕτερον ἔχειν δεσπότην, to own, beſides God, any mortal Lords, or Maſters. Their Rabbins thought it unbecoming any Jew to be a Bond Slave to an Heathen or Idolater; for that was, ſay they, to be Servi Servorum, Servants of Servants, which the Servants of the Lord muſt not be. See Dr. Lightf. in 1 Cor. 7. 23.

Ver. 3. If any Man teach otherwiſe, and conſent not to wholeſome Words, even the Words of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (Mat. 20. 27. he that would be firſt among you, let him be your Servant, or Servant of all, Mark 10. 44.) and to the Doctrine which is after Godlineſs.

λόγοις τοῖς τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν, the Words of our Lord Jeſus.] This Phraſe being often uſed, of the very Words which Chriſt ſpake, as Mat. 26. 75. Act. 10. 16. 20. 35. I thought fit to refer it to thoſe Words which might, moſt likely, be aimed at by the Apoſtle; tho' ſeeing they alſo may refer to the Doctrine of Chriſt, preached by the Apoſtle, this Phraſe being ſo uſed, Act. 19. 10. and the Doctrine of the Lord very often, 1 Theſſ. 1. 8. 2 Theſſ. 3. 1. in this Senſe it affords this uſeful Obſervation, That the Words written by St. Paul, in theſe Epiſtles, are the Words of the Lord Jeſus.

Ver. 4. He is proud, (Gr. puffed up,) knowing nothing, but doting (ſick) about Queſtions, and ſtrife of Words; whereof cometh Envy, Strife, Railings, evil Surmiſes, Ver. 5. Perverſe Diſputings of Men of corrupt Minds, and deſtitute of the Truth, ſuppoſing that Gain is Godlineſs, from ſuch withdraw thy ſelf.

Ἀφίστασο ἀπὸ τῶν τοιούτων, from ſuch withdraw thyſelf.] From theſe Words it is plain that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh here of Perſons then in being. That they were Jews, ſeems evident from the foregoing Note, ſhewing, that they were in this Matter, ἑτεροδιδάσκαλοι, Men that taught otherwiſe; that theſe νομοδιδάσκαλοι, were Men knowing nothing, or not knowing what they ſaid, or whereof they affirmed. See 1 Tim. 1. 9. That they did, ἑτεροδιδασκαλεῖν, teach otherwiſe than the Doctrine which is after Godlineſs, v. 3. That they had their Fables which miniſtred ζητήσεις, Queſtions, v. 4. That they had their ματαιολογίας, vain wranglings about Words, v. 6. That they had their fooliſh Queſtions which begat Strifes and Contentions about the Law, ſee Tit. 3. 9. That they of the Circumciſion were vain Talkers, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy Lucre's ſake, ſee Tit. 1. 10, 11. and ſo accounted Gain for Godlineſs. That their Minds and Conſciences were defiled and perverted, ſee Tit. 1. 14. That they turned aſide from the Faith to vain Janglings, ſee 1 Tim. 1. 6. how they were puffed up, ſee Note on 2 Tim. 3. 4.

Ver. 6. But (whatſoever they eſteeem ſo, we know, that) Godlineſs with that (Contentment which attends it) is great Gain.

Ver. 7. (I ſay with Contentment, which it becometh us to have:) For we brought nothing into the World, and it is certain we can carry nothing out (of it.)

Ver. 8. And having (ἔχοντες δὲ, having therefore) Food and Raiment, let us be therewith content.

Ver. 9. But (for) they that will be rich, fall into Temptation, and a Snare, and into many fooliſh and hurtful Luſts, which drown Men in Deſtruction and Perdition.

Ver. 10. For the Love of Money is the Root of all Evil, which while ſome coveted after, they have erred from the Faith, and pierc'd themſelves through with many Sorrows.

Αὐτάρκεια, Contentment.] This the Apoſtle well explains, by being ſatisfied ἐν οἷς εἰμι, in the Condition we are in, Phil. 4. 11. and τοῖς παροῦσιν, with the things we have at preſent, with Food and Raiment, v. 8. i. e. with thoſe things which are needful for this preſent Life, Mat. 6. 31, 32. in Oppoſition to Anxiety, Diſtruſt, or Murmuring; and it is never ſeparable from true Piety, but is the natural Reſult of that Love to, and that Value the good Man hath for God, and the Things of God; that Truſt he hath in God, and the entire Reſignation of his Will in all Affairs to the Conduct of his Providence.

Οἱ βουλόμενοι πλουτεῖν, they that will be rich.] i. e. On whom the Love of Money ſo prevails, that they are reſolved they will be rich, if by any means they can compaſs Wealth, are in the ready way to yield to any Luſt which will gratifie their greedy Humours; μισθοὺς οἷς κέρδεσιν συντελοῦντα αἰσχρὰ καὶ ἀνιερᾶ φεύδομενοι, abſtaining, ſaith (d) Plutarch, from nothing that is baſe or impious, that tends to enrich them: Whence the Ancients, agreeably to the Apoſtle here, avaritiam omnia vitia habere putabant, thought Covetouſneſs to comprehend all Vices; as Agellius, l. 11. c. 2. from Cato, and Cicero, N. 45. in his Oration, pro Roſcio Amerino have obſerved. It alſo cauſeth us to make ſhipwrack of Faith, and a good Conſcience, and whatſoever elſe is ſacred, when they cannot be held without the Loſs of that Wealth we ſo love and admire. Whence Cicero notes, (e) Nullum eſſe officium tam Sanctum atque ſolenne, quod non avaritia comminuere, atque violare ſoleat: That there is no Duty ſo holy, or ſolemn, which Covetouſneſs is not wont to impair and violate.

Ver. 11. But thou, (thou therefore,) O Man of God, flee theſe things, and follow after Righteouſneſs, Godlineſs, Faith, Love, Patience, Meekneſs.

Εὐσέβειαν, πίστιν, &c.] That Godlineſs which gives Contentment with Food and Rayment, and what at preſent we enjoy: That Faith which aſſures us of a better, and a more enduring Subſtance, reſerved in the Heavens for us, Heb. 10. 34. That Juſtice which requires us to injure no Man, but to let every Man enjoy his own: That Love, or Charity, which makes us ready to diſtribute, and willing to communicate of theſe things to others, v. 18. That Patience which makes us with Tranquility and Equanimity, ſubmit to a low Fortune, and Adverſity: That Meekneſs which ſuppreſſes our Wrath and Indignation againſt them who are injurious to us in Temporals, and take away that which is ours. All theſe are proper Preſervatives againſt, or Indications of a Mind free from Covetouſneſs.

Ver. 12. Fight the good Fight of Faith, (and ſo) lay hold of Eternal Life, whereunto thou art (both) called, and (according to that Calling) haſt profeſſed a good Profeſſion, (by enduring Perſecutions for it,) before many Witneſſes.

Ἀγωνίζου τὸν καλὸν ἀγῶνα, Fight the good Fight.] Theſe Words are plainly Agoniſtical, relating to the Olympick Games, and particularly to that of Racing, to which the Apoſtle doth ſo oft allude, where the Crown being hung up at the End of the Goal, he that came firſt did ἐπιλαμβάνειν, lay hold of it, and take it to himſelf: And becauſe theſe Games were performed in the Preſence of many Spectators, the Apoſtle continues the Alluſion, ſaying, that Timothy had, in the Preſence of many Witneſſes, ſhew'd his Readineſs to ſuffer for the Faith.

Ver. 13. I give thee charge in the Sight of (that) God who quickeneth all things, (and therefore is able to raiſe them that ſuffer for him, from the Dead,) and before Jeſus Chriſt, who before Pontius Pilate witneſſed a good Confeſſion, (confirming the Truth to the Death, Joh. 18. 37.)

Ver. 14. That thou keep the Commandment (given to thee, v. 11, 12.) without Spot, untebukable, until the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 15. Which (Appearance) in his Times (or in the proper Seaſon) he ſhall ſhew (forth) who is the Bleſſed, and the only (Abſolute) Potentate; the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords; (who therefore is more to be fear'd than all Earthly Potentates, and will more aſſuredly puniſh thoſe who ſubmit not to his Laws and Government.)

Ver. 16. Who only hath (of himſelf) Immortality, (and ſo only can confer it upon others, and only lives for ever to reward and puniſh,) dwelling in that Light which no Man can approach unto, (and live; and ſo, whom no Man fully can enjoy in this Life,) whom no Man hath ſeen: To whom (be aſcribed) Honour, and Power everlaſting. Amen.

Μέχρι τῆς ἐπιφανείας τοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν, Till the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] Here, ſaith Grotius, it appears that Paul ſpeaks to Timothy, as one who might live to the laſt Judgment: But this vain Conceit hath been ſufficiently confuted, Note on 1 Theſ. 4. 15. Nor doth this Exhortation prove it, it being uſed rather than that until Death, ſaith Theophylact, to mind us of that glorious Appearance. And becauſe, ſaith (f) St. Auſtin, the Day of our Death is to us as that Day; Tunc enim unicuique veniet dies ille, cum venerit ei die ut talis hinc exeat, qualis judicandus eſt ille die. In quo enim quemque invenerit ſuus novi-ſſimus Dies, in hoc eum comprehendet mundi noviſſimus Dies.

Ὁ Βασιλεὺς, &c. King of Kings, and Lord of Lords.] This Title the great Empires took to themſelves: The King of Babylon is ſo ſtiled by Daniel, chap. 2. 37. by Jeremiah, chap. 27. 6. Of Perſia, Ezr. 7. 12. See Briſſon. de Regno Perſ. lib. 1. pag. 3, 4. And therefore the Apoſtle ſaith here, that it truly belongs to God only, and to our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Rev. 17. 14. 19. 16.

Ver. 17. Charge them that are rich in this World, that they be not high-minded, nor truſt in uncertain Riches, (the two Diſeaſes of rich Men; for the rich Man's Wealth is his ſtrong City, and a high Wall in his own Conceit, Prov. 10. 15. 18. 11. and Riches and Strength lift up the Heart, Eccluſ. 40. 26.) but in the Living God, who giveth us all things richly to enjoy; (and in whom therefore we may ſafely truſt.)

Ver. 18. That they do good, that they be rich in good Works, ready to diſtribute, willing to communicate (to others of their Wealth.)

That they do good. See Note on Tit. 3. 8.

Ver. 19. Laying up for themſelves a good Foundation againſt the time to come, that (when theſe things fail) they may lay hold of Eternal Life.

Θεμέλιον καλὸν, A good Foundation.] Τὴν μὴ λύσιν ἀγαθῶν ἀπόλαυσιν θεμέλιον κίνητον ἀιώνιον, The Enjoyment of good things to come, he calls, an immoveable Foundation, ſay the Greek Commentators. So the Doctrine of the Reſurrection is ſtiled the Foundation of God, 2 Tim. 2. 19. And the Heavenly Jeruſalem, a City that hath Foundations, Heb. 11. 10. And this good

good Foundation here being in the Words following Eternal Life, confirms their Interpretation, they who think the Word θεμέλιον ſignifies here a Treaſure, or an Obligation on the Part of God to give them Life Eternal, mean the ſame thing, though they give us no juſt Evidence that the Word hath any ſuch Signification.

Ver. 20. O Timothy, keep that (Truth) which is committed to thy Truſt, avoiding profane and vain Babblings, and Oppoſitions of Science, falſly ſo called.

Ver. 21. Which ſome profeſſing, have erred from the Faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.

[ἥτινες περὶ τὴν πίστιν ἠστόχησαν, have erred from the Faith.] Theſe, in all Reaſon, muſt be the ſame with the οἱ περὶ τὴν πίστιν ἀστοχήσαντες, thoſe who erred from the Faith, Ch. 1. 5, 6. And that they were the νομοδιδάσκαλοι, the Aſſerters and Teachers of the Law, and ſo the Oppoſites to the Gnoſticks, who were, ſaith Irenæus, Legis Adverſarii, the Adverſaries of the Law, the 7th. Verſe demonſtrates, as (g) Theodoret well obſerves upon the Place: Of them it is alſo certain, that they pretended above all Men to be γνώστας τὸ θέλημα, skill'd in the Knowledge of the Will of God, and ἔχοντες τὸν μόρφωσιν τῆς γνώσεως, Men that had the Scheme or Form of Knowledge, Rom. 2. 18, 19, 20. They were the great Aſſertors and Promoters of the Cabbala, or Cabbaliſtical Doctrine, which was in their Account, Scientia arcana divinitus accepta, (h) a ſecret myſtical Knowledge of divine things received from God, and equal in their Opinion to the Scriptures, according to their Rule, Verba cabbalæ æquiparantur verbis legis. And they doubtleſs oppoſed this their Knowledge of the Law, and of theſe Cabbaliſtical Traditions, to the Goſpel taught by St. Paul, which oppoſed and ſlighted them; and their ſtiff Adherence to them, cauſed them, ἀστοχῆσαι, to ſhoot off from the Faith of the Meſſiah, which was the Mark they aimed at; that therefore the ψευδώνυμος γνῶσις, the falſly named Knowledge, mentioned here, (i) may agree to them as well as to the Gnoſticks, is manifeſt from theſe things; that it cannot agree to the Gnoſticks, if theſe Perſons were Teachers of the Law, as it is very probable they were, ſee Note on Chap. 1. 7. That it cannot be attributed to Simon Magus, the Father of the Gnoſticks, of whom alone the Apoſtle can be ſuppoſed here to ſpeak, appears from this, that he cannot properly be ſaid to err, concerning the Faith, who was ſo far from being then of it, that he himſelf ſet up for the Chriſt, and oppoſed the Profeſſion of the Goſpel with all his Might. As for the Gnoſticks, it is agreed among the Learned, that though they conſpired with former Hereticks, yet were they not known by that Name, nor had they taken it upon them till the Time of Anicetus Biſhop of Rome, and the Reign of M. Aurelius Antoninus, and L. Verus, that is, not till the Year 129. Hence Dr. Cave makes them an Hereſie of the Second Century. Euſebius ſays, that (k) Carpocrates, who flouriſhed in the Time of Hadrian, gave the Riſe to the Sect of the Gnoſticks: But Clemens Alexandrinus ſeems to affirm, that one (l) Epiphanes, the Author of the Sect of the Carpocratians, gave the Birth to this Name and Sect: And if it were ſo, it is improbable that the Knowledge falſly ſo called, here mentioned, ſhould have Relation to the Gnoſticks.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epiſtle of St. PAUL to TIMOTHY.

THE Ancients (a) from theſe Words of this Epiſtle, I am ready to be offer'd and the Time of my Departure is at hand, Chap. 4. 6. do generally conclude this was the laſt of St. Paul's Epiſtles, he being πρὸς τῷ τέλει, near the End of his Life, when he writ it. And truly the Words of the Apoſtle are not well capable of any other Senſe, for he ſays expreſly, ἤδη σπένδομαι, I am now offer'd, and the Time of my Diſſolution, ἐφέστηκε, is inſtant, v. 6. I have finiſhed my Courſe, v. 7. and, v. 8. λοιπὸν, from henceforth there is laid up for me a Crown of Glory; whereas he not only expected to be delivered from his firſt Bonds, but ſaith expreſly, I know that I ſhall abide and continue with you all, for your Furtherance and Joy of Faith, that your rejoycing may be more abundant in Chriſt Jeſus, for my coming to you again, Philip. 1. 25, 26. ſee Chap. 2. 24. Philemon 22. Yea, he was actually delivered, and ready to go to Judæa, when he writ the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, Chap. 13. 23. 2dly, This Epiſtle, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, was writ from Rome, Chap. 1. 17. by St. Paul in Bonds, Chap. 1. 8. 2. 9. Now theſe Bonds could not be his firſt Bonds, for then he was in Libera Cuſtodia, in his own hired Houſe, receiving all that came to him, none forbidding it, Acts 28. 30, 31. yea his Bonds were known throughout Cæſar's Palace, and to all others, Philip. 1. 13. Here he is in arcta Cuſtodia; ſo that Oneſiphorus was forced to enquire more diligently after him, that he might find him out, Chap. 1. 17. Again, in his firſt Bonds, ſaith he; Many of the Brethren of the Lord being encouraged by my Bonds, were bold to ſpeak the Word more abundantly without Fear, Philip. 1. 14. Here all Men forſake him, Chap. 4. 16. See a third Argument for this Opinion, Chap. 4. 13. a fourth, v. 16. a fifth and ſixth, v. 20. So that I conclude with the Poſtſcript, that this Epiſtle ἐγράφη ἀπὸ Ῥώμης, ὅτε ἐκ δευτέρου παρέστη Παῦλος τῷ Καίσαρι Νέρωνι, was writ from Rome, when St. Paul ſtood the ſecond time before Nero.

That this Epiſtle was writ to ſtir up Timothy to Caution, Diligence, and Diſcharge of his Office on Occaſion of the creeping Hereſie of the Gnoſticks, Chap. 2. 17. ſtolen in among them, which had much debauched the Aſiaticks, Chap. 1. 15. and made uſe of Magick to oppoſe the Truth of the Goſpel, Chap. 3. 8. is ſaid by a Reverend and Learned Perſon: But there is nothing in any of the Ancient Commentators of this nature, which ſpeak here only of the Hereſies ariſing from the Jewiſh Doctors, (b) as that which gave Occaſion to the writing this Epiſtle. And (2dly,) the Places cited by this Reverend Perſon do not prove that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of the Gnoſticks, for Chap. 1. 15. he only ſays all thoſe that were in Aſia had forſaken him; which they might do, by cleaving to the Corinthians and Ebionites, rather than to the Gnoſticks. See the Note there. That they who taught the Reſurrection was paſt already, were not Gnoſticks, is proved, Note on Chap. 2. 17. and that the Words, Chap. 3. 8, 9. agree not to the Gnoſtick Hereticks, but to the Jewiſh Falſe Teachers, who were alſo great Magicians, is there ſhewed; ſee Note on 2 Theſſ. 2. 10.

A Paraphrase with Annotations ON THE Second Epistle of St. PAUL to TIMOTHY.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. PAUL, an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the Will of God, according to the Promise (for Declaration of the Promise) of (Eternal) Life which is (made to us) in Christ Jesus.

Κατ' ἐπαγγελίαν.] Ὥστε μὲν ἡ ἐπαγγελθεῖσαν αἰώνιον ζωὴν τοῖς ἀνθρώποις κηρύξαι, That I might declare that Eternal Life which is promised to Men; So Theodoret. So Tit. 1. 1. Paul, an Apostle of Jesus Christ, κατὰ πίστιν, for the Promotion or Declaration of the Faith of God's Elect; so κατὰ πᾶσαν αἰτίαν, for every Cause, Mat. 19. 3. Philip. 4. 11. I speak not κατ' ὑστέρησιν, for want of any thing.

Ζωὴν τὴν ἐν Χριστῷ, Life which is in Christ Jesus.] Adam brought the Sentence of Death upon us all, and the Promise of Deliverance from that Death is only made to us in and through Christ Jesus, by virtue of that Death he suffer'd in our stead.

Ver. 2. (Writeth) To Timothy my dearly beloved Son (wishing to him) Grace, Mercy, and Peace, from God the Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord, (by whom all Mercies are derived to us from the Father, through the Spirit.)

Ver. 3. I thank God, whom I serve from my Forefathers with a pure Conscience, that without ceasing, I have remembrance of thee in my Prayers Night and Day.

Ἐν καθαρᾷ συνειδήσει, with a pure Conscience.] So Acts 23. 1. I have lived in all good Conscience to this Day before God, i. e. a Conscience free from Insincerity, or wilful Disobedience to the Dictates of his Mind, or the Rule by which he thought himself obliged to walk; for, as touching the Righteousness which was required by the Law, he was blameless, and as for his Blasphemies against Christ, and his Persecutions of his Church, that he did ignorantly in unbelief, 1 Tim. 1. 13. thinking he ought to do many things against the Name of Jesus, Act. 26. 9. But yet he was not free from Sin; for he confesses, that upon this Account he was the chief of Sinners, 1 Tim. 1. 15.

Ἀδιάλειπτον, without ceasing Day and Night.] To pray Morning and Evening, is to pray continually, or without ceasing: Thus Zadok and his Brethren offer'd Burnt-offerings before the Lord continually, διαπαντὸς, Morning and Evening, 1 Chron. 16. 42, 43. See Note on 1 Thess. 5. 17, 18.

Ver. 4. Greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy Tears (shed when thou departedst from me,) that (as then I was filled with Sorrow, so by seeing thee again) I may be filled with Joy.

Ver. 5. (I thank God, I say,) When I call to remembrance the unfeigned Faith which is in thee, which dwelt first in thy Grandmother Lois, and (in) thy Mother Eunice, (converted to the Faith before thee, Acts 16. 1.) and I am persuaded that (it dwells) in thee also.

Ver. 6. Wherefore I put thee in remembrance, that thou stir up the Gift of God which is in thee, by the putting on of my Hands.

Διὰ τῆς ἐπιθέσεως, by the laying on of my Hands.] The Presbytery also laid their Hands upon him, 1 Tim. 4. 14. But the χάρισμα, or Gift, here mentioned, being the Gift of the Holy Ghost, was usually conferr'd by laying on of the Hands of an Apostle, Acts 8. 17. 19. 6. Vain therefore is the Inference of Estius, from these Places, that Ordination is a Sacrament, seeing the Grace here mentioned is no ordinary Grace, but an extraordinary Gift, conferr'd only at those Times by the Hands of an Apostle, and now wholly ceased.

Ἀναζωπυρεῖν.] Philo ſaith, that (a) Where there is any Spark of true Probity, being ventilated, it will ſhine, and break forth into a Flame. And this is alſo true, as well of Spiritual Gifts as Graces; even the Gifts of Miracles, of Healing, and Caſting out of Devils, were ſtrengthen'd and increaſed by Prayer, Matth. 17. 21. and by Faith, v. 20. and the Internal Gifts of Wiſdom and Knowledge, by Reading, and Meditating on the Word; the Illumination of the Holy Spirit coming then upon Gifted Perſons when they were ſo employ'd, 1 Cor. 14. 23, 24, 25, 26. 1 Tim. 4. 13, 14, 15. How they may be extinguiſh'd, ſee Epheſ. 4. 30. 1 Theſſ. 5. 19. Thus Pythagoras, ſaith (b) Jamblicus; purg'd the Soul of his Scholars from Ignorance and Senſual Paſſions, and then, ἀναζωπύρει τὸ θεῖον ἐν ἑαυτῇ, cap. 16.

Ver. 10. But is now made manifeſt by the appearing of our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, (the Lord and Giver of Life,) who (by his Death) hath aboliſhed Death, and hath brought (this) Life and Immortality to light by the Goſpel.

Φωτίσαντος ζωὴν, Hath brought Life and Immortality to light.] It is to be acknowledg'd that the Heathens had, by Tradition, and the Light of Nature, conceiv'd ſome Hope of ſome future good Things to be received after this Life was ended; that being abſolutely neceſſary, ſaith the Apoſtle, that they might come to God, or do him any acceptable Service: For He that cometh to God, muſt believe that he is; and that he is a Rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him, Heb. 11. 6. But yet this Hope was very weak, and feeble in them, and ſcarce credited by their Philoſophers. It is ſtiled by Cicero, Tuſc. Soul Soul were disbelieved by the greateſt part of Mankind.

Ariſtotle held, that Death was therefore φοβερώτατον, the moſt terrible, as putting an end to all things; (f) Neither Good nor Evil happening to any Man after his Death. Yea, he ſays, It is abſurd to ſay that any Man can be happy after Death, ſince Happineſs conſiſts in Operation. Hence (g) Atticus reckons him among thoſe who held that Souls could not remain after their Bodies. And (h) Origen ſaith, that he did τῷ μὲν σῶμα τὴν ἀθανασίαν τῆς ψυχῆς λόγῳ εἰσηγεῖσθαι, condemn the Doctrine of the Soul's Immortality.

(i) Lipſius confeſſeth, that amongſt the Stoicks this was a controverted Point, and was not received by them with any full Conſent; and whoſoever reads them will find them ſtill at their ifs and ands, not knowing whether there were any thing after Death, ἢ μηδὲν ὅλως τελευτήσαντι, or nothing; as Socrates, in Phæd. ſpeaks. Whether their Souls ſhould be (k) extinguiſhed, or only changed their Place: Whether they were in a State of Senſe, or ἐν ἀναισθησίᾳ, without Senſe: Whether Soul and Body were extinguiſhed together, or not; as Cicero, Seneca, and others; or elſe were ſtill at their Disjunctives, ἤτοι σβέσις, ἢ μετάστασις, fluctuating ſtill betwixt (l) Extinction, or Tranſlation, a profound Sleep, a long Peregrination, or an utter Diſſolution.

Cæſar declares that Death removes all our Evils, and our Torments, as (m) leaving no farther place for Joy or Fear. And (n) Pliny, That neither Soul or Body hath any more Senſe after Death, than before it was born. Cicero begins his Diſcourſe upon this Subject with a Profeſſion, That (o) he intended to deliver nothing as fixed and certain, but only as probable, and having ſome Likelihood of Truth: And having reckon'd up the different Sentiments of the Philoſophers about it, he concludes thus, (p) Which of theſe Opinions is true, ſome God muſt tell us; which is moſt like to Truth, is a great Queſtion. And when he had confirm'd, as much as he was able, the Doctrine of the Soul's Immortality, he ingenuouſly confeſſes, Catervæ veniunt contradicentium, that his Opinion was contradicted, not only by whole Troops of the Sect of Epicurus, but alſo (q) by the moſt Learned of the other Sects.

Plutarch ſaith, That if Men will be reſtrain'd from their evil Courſes by Fear, they muſt be kept (r) under the Superſtition of the Dread of Hades; but to them who have caſt off theſe Fears, muſt be propounded ἢ δεῖ τὸ μυθῶδες τῆς ἀϊδιότητος ἔλπις, the fabulous Hope of Immortality. And this, ſaith he, is one great Benefit of Philoſophy, that it hath taught us to look upon that Death which others fear, ὡς μηδὲν πρὸς ἡμᾶς, as nothing to us. Now the Philoſophers themſelves ſaw the evil Effects that the Denial, or Doubting of theſe things, would have upon the Lives of Men, viz.

1. That it would yield a great Encouragement to Men to go on in their evil Ways: For, If Death, ſaith Socrates, in Phæd. p. 80. A. be the Extinction of the whole, or a Freedom from all Evils, ἑρμαῖον ἂν αὖ τοῖς κακοῖς ἀπῆν, this will be good News to the Wicked, that they have nothing to ſuffer.

2. That it tended to diſcourage Men from leading vertuous and pious Lives, as cramping all their Hopes of Happineſs: For, as Dionyſius Halicarnaſſæus well obſerves, (s) If the Soul, when ſeparated from the Body, periſheth, it is not eaſie to diſcern how good Men can be happy, who receive no Fruit of their Vertue here, but often periſh by it.

3. That it very much ſtaggers our Patience and Perſeverance in Vertue, and our Concern for Fidelity and Equity, when we muſt ſuffer for them in this World: For it is truly ſaid by Cicero, That (t) it is not poſſible for any one to have that Eſteem for Faith and Equity, as to endure the moſt dreadful Puniſhments to preſerve them, unleſs he be aſſured that the

As for that Immortality the Body ſhall obtain at the Reſurrection, the Heathens knew and believed nothing of it; they laughed at it, and looked upon it as a thing impoſſible, and unworthy of God to do, and without any Example to convince them that it might be done. Hence then we ſee the Neceſſity that this Life and Immortality ſhould be brought to light by the Goſpel; and what continual Thanks we owe to the Bleſſed Jeſus, who hath by his Death not only remov'd the Fear and Sting, but even the Being of Death; and hath procur'd a bleſſed Immortality, not only for the Soul, but the Body alſo.

Ver. 12. For which Cauſe alſo I ſuffer theſe things; but (though I ſuffer thus) I am not aſhamed (of my Hope,) for I know (in) whom I have believed; and am perſuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him, (i. e. my Soul and Life, 1 Pet. 4. 19.) againſt (or to) that Day (of Recompence.)

Τὴν παραθήκην μου.] My Soul, which Perſons dying uſed to commit into the Hands of God. So Joſephus, de Bello Jud. lib. 3. pag. 852. The immortal Soul, which hath its Original from God, dwells in the Body: Now, if any one imbezels or evilly intreats that which is committed to him by Man, he is accounted a wicked and perfidious Man; οἱ δέ τις τῶ σφετέρῳ σώματι ἐμβάλοι τὴ παραθήκην τῶ Θεῶ λελησθέναι δοκεῖ τὴ ἀδικούμενον; but if any one caſt the Depoſitum of God out of his Body by Self-Murther, can he hope to conceal himſelf from him that is injur'd? (u) Philo, in like manner, ſaith, That God hath given to Man a Soul, Speech and Senſe, which he muſt endeavour ſo to keep, that he who committed them to him may find no Cauſe to blame him for his Cuſtody. And again; (x) This is the Praiſe of the wiſe Man, to keep the ſacred Depoſitum of the Soul, Speech, Senſe, the Divine Wiſdom, and Humane Underſtanding purely, and without Deceit, not to himſelf, but only to him who committed them to him. And again, Lib. de Abr. p. 302. No wiſe Man, ſaith he, is offended that any one calls for τὴ παραθήκην, his Depoſitum: Why therefore ſhould he be offended that God or Nature call for that which they have intruſted with us? And Hermas ſaith, Lib. 2. Mandat. 2. They that lye, defraud the Lord, not rendring to him τὴ παραθήκην ἣν ἔλαβον, the Depoſitum they received from him; for they received a Spirit free from Falſhood, and therefore by lying, μιαίνουσι τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ Θεῦ τὸ παραθήκην, they have defiled God's Depoſitum. The (y) Jews, make mention of two Depoſitums of God; the Lamp which is in us, or the Soul; and the Lamp without us, which is the Law; and introduce God ſpeaking to Man thus; My Light, or Lamp, is in thy hand; and thy Lamp, which is thy Soul, is in mine: If thou ſhalt diligently keep my Lamp, I will keep thine; if thou extinguiſh mine, I will put out thine. This Depoſitum they dying did commit into the Hands of God; as you may ſee, (z) Sepher Tephiloth Luſitanorum. The Apoſtle ſeems to have reſpect to both theſe Depoſitums in his Epiſtles to Timothy; to the Light of the Goſpel, when he ſaith, τὴ παραθήκην φύλαξον, Keep that which is committed to thee, 1 Tim. 6. 20. and here. v. 14. to the Lamp within us, in theſe Words:

Ver. 13. Hold faſt the Form of ſound Words, which thou haſt heard of me in Faith and Love which is in Chriſt Jeſus; (i. e. with a firm Faith, and true Chriſtian Love. See Note on Chap. 2. v. 2.)

Ver. 14. The good thing which was committed to thee, (i. e. the Doctrine of the Goſpel, 1 Tim. 6. 20.) keep by the Holy Spirit which dwelleth in us, (and confirms it to us, 1 Joh. 2. 20, 27.)

Ἐν τῇ ἀσίᾳ, Which are in Aſia.] This Oecumenius and Theophylact expound thus, οἱ ἐν τῇ, Ἀσιάρχαις, οἱ ἐκ τὴ Ἀσίας, thoſe of Aſia that either went with him to Rome, or came to him there, or were found there at his Coming, in the Time of his Diſtreſs, forſook all Converſe with him, for fear of Nero. But this Expoſition ſeems not conſiſtent with the Words. For, 1. He ſaith, οἶδας τοῦτο, This thou knoweſt. Now Timothy, being not at Rome, could not well know what was done there; and therefore the Apoſtle gives him an Account how all Men had deſerted him in his firſt Defence, chap. 4. 16. But being then in Aſia, or Achaia, he might know what happen'd there. 2. The Words ἀπεστράφησάν μοι, have been averſe from me, ſeem to import a Departure from St. Paul, and his Doctrine; and may be render'd, they have turn'd me off. He having therefore told them long before, that after his Departure, grievous Wolves ſhould enter in, not ſparing the Flock: And

It ſeems moſt proper to refer theſe Words to the rejecting St. Paul, as an Adverſary to the Law, by the Perſuaſions of the Corinthians and Ebionites, who laid this Charge againſt him.

Ver. 16. The Lord give (i.e. ſhew) Mercy to the Houſhold of Oneſiphorus (the Epheſian, ch. 4. 19.) for he oft refreſhed me (with his Preſence, and Relief,) and was not aſhamed of my Chain, (as the reſt of the Aſiaticks were.)

Τῷ Ὀνησιφόρου οἴκῳ, The Houſhold of Oneſiphorus.] Oneſiphorus ſeemeth to be dead when Paul writ this, ſaith Grotius, on the place: And if ſo, ſaith Eſtius, here is a ſtrong Confirmation of the Practice of praying for the Saints deceaſed. I anſwer, 1. That it follows not that Oneſiphorus was dead, becauſe St. Paul here mentions, and in the Cloſe of this Epiſtle ſalutes his Family, without mention of him; the Reaſon of that being this, becauſe Oneſiphorus was not yet return'd from Rome to Epheſus, where his Family was. 2. The Apoſtle here only prays that he might find Mercy at the Great Day of Recompence, as doth our Liturgy, and all the Antient Liturgies, for Deliverance in the Hour of Death, and at the Day of Judgment; which is perfectly excluſive of Prayers ſuppoſed to be made for Souls in Purgatory, which if they do them any good, muſt be ſuppoſed to do it before that Day.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. THou therefore, my Son, (follow not the Example of thoſe that turn from me, but) be (thou) ſtrong in (and through) the Grace which is (given thee) in Chriſt Jeſus. (See ch. 1. v. 6, 7, 8.)

Ver. 2. And the things which thou haſt heard of (from) me, (eſtabliſh'd,) by many Witneſſes, the ſame commit thou to faithful Men, who ſhall be able to teach others alſo.

Ἃ ἤκουσας παρ' ἐμοῦ, The Things which thou haſt learnt from me.] That Depoſitum, ch. 1. 14. which I committed to thee, in the publick Aſſembly, at thine Ordination, do thou alſo in like manner depoſite with other faithful Men, that the Truth may be continued in an uninterrupted Succeſſion of ſuch Perſons: So Mr. Walker. The Things agreed on, and conſented to by all the other Apoſtles, do thou commit to able Men, and appoint them as Biſhops of the ſeveral Churches under thee: So Dr. Hammond. I think there is no Foundation for all this in the Text, no Intimation that theſe things were taught him at his Ordination, or that they were Things agreed on, and conſented to by all the Apoſtles, as if they had met and conſulted about a Syſtem of Articles of Faith and good Life, to be held by all that taught the Chriſtian Faith; or that God choſe this Way to continue down the Faith in an uninterrupted Succeſſion, from Age to Age, of ſuch Perſons; or that this was a Commiſſion to St. Timothy to appoint Biſhops under him in the ſeveral Churches of Aſia; for he doth not appoint him, as he did Titus, to ordain Elders in every City, chap. 1. 5. the Biſhops of Epheſus and the adjacent Cities being before not only appointed, but convened by himſelf, Acts 20. 17, 28. The Things which Timothy had heard confirm'd by many Witneſſes, ſeem to refer to Chriſt's Death, his Reſurrection and Aſcenſion, which were Matters of Teſtimony, and contain'd the prime Doctrines which St. Paul deliver'd to the Churches, 1 Cor. 15. 2, 4. and which were confirm'd by the Teſtimony of St. Paul, the Twelve Apoſtles, and Five Hundred Brethren, ibid. v. 5, 6, 7, 8. Luc. 24. 50, 51, 52. Or to the Myſtery of Godlineſs mention'd, 1 Tim. 3. 16. and teſtified in every part of it by Men and Angels. I grant alſo, that the Apoſtle ſeems to refer to ſome Form of Doctrine deliver'd to them who receiv'd the Chriſtian Faith, when he ſpeaks of the Myſtery of Faith, and the Myſtery of Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 3. 9, 15, 16. of the firſt Principles of the Oracles of God, Heb. 5. 12. and of the Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt, chap. 6. 1, 2, 3, 4. enumerating them in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews; there being a Faith once, and at once delivered to the Saints, Jude 2. in which they were to ſtand faſt, and for which they were to contend, Philip. 1. 27. And that there was alſo a παραθήκη, or Depoſitum of Chriſtian Doctrine deliver'd to them who were to preach, and inſtruct others in the Faith; and which he commands Timothy to keep, 1 Tim. 6. 20, 21. as being intruſted with it, in oppoſition to thoſe who had erred from the Faith, which he calls the Form of ſound Words, which he had been taught, and which he was to keep in Faith, and Love of the Truth, 2 Tim. 1. 13. and that good thing committed to him, v. 14. which he was to keep by the Holy Ghoſt, the Spirit which leadeth into all Truth, the Unction which taught them all things belonging to their Office, 1 John 2. 20, 27. the things in which he was to continue, knowing of whom he had learnt them, 2 Tim. 3. 14. I laſtly grant, that all the Fathers, from Irenæus downwards, ſpeak of ſuch a Symbol of Faith delivered to the Church by the Apoſtles and their Diſciples, which the Church received from them, and diſtributed to her Sons, being the one and the ſame Faith which the Church retain'd throughout the World, than which they believed neither leſs nor more, and which for Subſtance was the ſame with the Apoſtle's Creed. This I have (a) elſewhere largely proved, and thence demonſtrated the Falſhood of the whole Doctrine of the Church of Rome, and of her new Creed, deliver'd as neceſſary to be believ'd unto Salvation: And if Obadiah Walker means no more, I ſhall not contend with him.

Ver. 3. Thou therefore (aſſiſted by this Grace) endure Hardſhip as a good Soldier of Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 4. (Not loving this preſent World, or entangling thy ſelf with the Affairs of it, for) No Man that warreth, entangleth himſelf with (any other of) the Affairs of this Life, (but quits all theſe Concerns) that he may (be more at leiſure to) pleaſe him who hath choſen him to be a Soldier.

Ver. 5. And (it is in this Militia, as in the wreſtling at the Olympick Games, where) if a Man alſo ſtrive (with another) for Maſtery, yet is he not crown'd unleſs he ſtrive lawfully, (according to the Rules of Wreſtling; i. e. unleſs he wreſtle naked, and have put off all the Cloaths which might hinder him in wreſtling, or give another Advantage to take hold of him.)

Ἐμπλέκεται τοῖς τοῦ βίου πράγμασιν, entangleth himſelf with the Affairs of this World.] The Apoſtle here, by two plain Similitudes, requires Timothy, as a good Soldier, and Biſhop of the Church of Chriſt, and an Evangeliſt, not to engage himſelf in any temporal Affairs, or ſecular Negotiations; of which the firſt is taken from the Compariſon of a Soldier, who was by the (b) Roman Laws, armis, non privatis negotiis occupari, to be imploy'd wholly at his Arms, and not in any private Buſineſs. The ſecond is taken from the Similitude of (c) Wreſtlers, who did not ſtrive according to the Laws, unleſs they wreſtled naked, and put off all their Garments, and therefore could not win the Crown of Laurel. Hence is that Enquiry of St. Baſil, Τίς στεφανοῖ πότε ἢ μὴ γυμνὸν ἀποδύντα πρὸς τὸν ἀντίπαλον, who crowns him who comes not naked to his Adverſary? And thoſe Words of St. Chryſoſtom, (d) If thou art a Wreſtler, thou muſt come naked to the Combat, thou muſt put off the Affairs of this Life, and be made a Wreſtler; diveſt thy ſelf of worldly Cares, for it is the Time of Conflict. Hence the Apoſtolical Canons declare, Can. 4. the Biſhops, Prieſts, or Deacons, ought to be depoſed, who do, μοναχὸς φροντίδας ἀναλαμβάνειν, immerſe themſelves in worldly Affairs. And (e) Cyprian repreſents it as a thing worthy of the Divine Judgments, that Biſhops, contemning the Divine Office, became Proctors for Secular Affairs. And this Practice was condemned by the General Council of Chalcedon, Can. 2. 12. and by a Council of (f) Carthage, as repugnant to theſe Words of the Apoſtle; and by the Council of Sardica, Can. 8. And even before St. Cyprian was Biſhop, this was eſtabliſh'd in (g) Africa by Council, from this very Text, No Man that warreth, entangleth himſelf with the Affairs of this Life.

Ver. 6. (Nor let it diſcourage thee, that thou doſt not receive thy Wages preſently, as other Soldiers do, for) The Husbandman that laboureth, firſt, (Gr. firſt labouring,) muſt be (afterwards) Partaker of the Fruits of his Labour.

Ver. 7. Conſider what I ſay, and the Lord give thee underſtanding in all things (belonging to thy Duty.)

Δῴη,] Other Manuſcripts read δώσει γάρ, For the Lord will give thee Underſtanding, &c.

Ver. 8. (And to fortifie thee under thy Sufferings) Remember, that Jeſus Chriſt, of the Seed of David, (after all his Sufferings,) was raiſed from the Dead, according to (the Teſtimony of) my Goſpel.

Or, Μνημόνευε, Remember] to maintain this againſt the unbelieving Jews, that Jeſus Chriſt, the promiſed Meſſiah, of the Seed of David, not of Joſeph, was raiſed from the dead, according to the Goſpel that I preach, 1 Cor. 15.

Of the Seed of David.] It is certain that the Jews, before our Saviour's Time, thought the Meſſiah, the Son of David, was not to die; and therefore, when Chriſt had told them he was to be lifted up, they anſwer, We have heard out of the Law, that the Meſſiah abideth for ever, and how ſayeſt thou that he muſt be lifted up? John 12. 34. And when firſt he tells his Diſciples of it, Peter began to rebuke him with an Abſit, This ſhall not be unto thee; Matth. 16. 22. When he tells them again of it, They underſtood not the Word, ſaith St. Mark, Chap. 9. 32. It was hid from them, that they perceived it not, ſaith St. Luke, Chap. 9. 45. And again, They underſtood none of theſe things, and this Saying was hid from them; neither knew they the things which were ſpoken, 18. 34. Surely Chriſt's Words were plain, They ſhall put him to death; but they knew not how to reconcile them with their received Doctrine, that he was to abide for ever, John 12. 34. And therefore, becauſe Iſaiah ſpeaks ſo plainly of a Meſſiah who was to ſuffer Death, they invented a (h) Diſtinction betwixt Meſſiah of the Tribe of Ephraim, the Son of Joſeph, who was to die, and Meſſiah of the Tribe of Judah, the Son of David, who was to reign, and conquer, and never die. This Diſtinction is to be found in their Talmud, in the Targum upon the Canticles, Cap. 4. 5. Cap. 7. 3. in Bereſchit Rabba, in Gen. 49. 14. in R. Salomon, and Kimchi, on Zach. 12. 10. Now if this Invention, obtain'd in the Times of St. Paul, he might here have reſpect unto it; if not, becauſe in the Dialogue of Juſtin with Trypho we read nothing of it, their Notion, the Meſſiah of the Seed of David could not die, muſt be confuted by his Reſurrection from the Dead.

Ver. 9. Wherein (for which Goſpel) I ſuffer (from the Jews, Acts 23. 19. 26. 6, 7. and others,) as an evil doer, even unto Bonds; but (tho' I am bound) the Word of God (which I preach) is not bound, (but hath its free Courſe.)

Wherein, Ἐν ᾧ.] Pro διʼ ὃ, cujus cauſa, more Hebræo, Grotius. So Matth. 6. 7. They think to be heard, ἐν τῇ πολυλογίᾳ, for their much ſpeaking. Ver. 10. (And) Therefore (for this Cauſe) I ſuffer all (theſe) things (chearfully) for the Elects ſake, (Col. 1. 24.) that they (being confirm'd, by my Example in ſuffering, 2 Cor. 1. 6. 4. 15.) may alſo obtain the Salvation which is (tendred) in (and through) Chriſt Jeſus, with Eternal Glory.

Διὰ τοὺς ἐκλεκτούς, For the Elects ſake,] i.e. for the ſake of Chriſtians, who are all, γένος ἐκλεκτὸν a Choſen Generation. See the Note on 1 Pet. 2. 9. and who may be confirmed in their Faith by the Example of my patient Sufferings, and continuing in it, may obtain that Salvation to which they are called. Vain therefore are theſe following Notes of Eſtbius, 1. That there is a certain Election of God which hath infallibly choſen us to Salvation, unleſs he means this of a Conditional Election, God having infallibly determined to ſave them who make their Calling and Election ſure, by perſeverance in Good Works, 2 Pet. 1. 10. 2dly, That as Paul ſuffer'd theſe things only for the Elect, ſo Chriſt died only for them; for he taſted Death for every Man, Heb. 1. 9. He died for all, 1 Tim. 2. 6. Not for our Sins only, but for the Sins of the whole World, 1 John 2. 2. For them that periſh, Rom. 14. 15. 3dly, That neither Chriſt did, nor ought we to do, any thing that the Reprobates may obtain Salvation; which is horribly falſe, Chriſt's preaching to the unbelieving Jews being intended for their Salvation, John 3. 17. 12. 47. 5. 34, 40. For the blinded Jews the Apoſtle prays, and labours that they might be ſaved, Rom. 9. 1. 11. 14.

Ver. 11. It is a faithful Saying, (that by Chriſt Jeſus we ſhall obtain this Salvation:) For if we be dead (Gr. have died) with him, (in Baptiſm, by dying unto Sin,) we ſhall alſo live with him, (in conformity to his Reſurrection, Rom. 6. 8.)

Ver. 12. If we ſuffer (as he did,) we ſhall alſo reign with him; (but) if (through Perſecutions) we deny him, he alſo will deny us, (Matth. 10. 33.)

Ver. 13. If we believe not (theſe Promiſes of Salvation to his faithful Sufferers,) yet he abideth faithful; he cannot deny (what he) himſelf (hath promiſed.)

Ver. 14. Of theſe things put them in remembrance, (in the Churches of Chriſt,) charging them before the Lord, that they ſtrive not about Words (which tend) to no profit, (but rather) to the ſubverting of the Hearers.

Μὴ λογομαχεῖν, that they ſtrive not about Words.] Here we learn, 1. what are the things which ought not to be Matters of Contention among Chriſtians: 1. Such things in which we differ from each other, rather in Words than Senſe, mean the ſame thing, but differ only in the way of expreſſing our Sentiments. Which Rule obſerved, would put an end to many of our Controverſies. 2. Such things as tend to little or no Profit, either as to Edification in the Faith, or edifying of the Body in Love, Eph. 4. 16. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 4. 1 Tim. 6. 3. Tit. 3. 9. Or by knowing which, we may be the more Learned, but not the better Chriſtians. Again, hence we learn why we ſhould not contend about ſuch things, viz. 1. Becauſe they tend to beget Strife, and Contentions, v. 23. 1 Tim. 1. 4. which divide Chriſtians into Parties, and diſſolve or obſtruct Chriſtian Charity. 2dly, Becauſe they tend to the Diſturbance of the Hearers, they not knowing to which Party to adhere, and alſo to their Subverſion, cauſing them to doubt of the Truth of the Faith about which the contending Parties cannot agree.

Ver. 15. Study to ſhew thy ſelf approved unto God, a Workman, that needeth not to be aſham'd, rightly dividing the Word of Truth.

Ὀρθοτομοῦντα τὸν λόγον, Rightly dividing, or handling the Word, &c.] This Word ὀρθοτομῶν is a ſacrifical Word, relating to the right dividing of the Sacrifice which was to be laid upon the Altar, by cutting off and laying aſide thoſe Parts which were not to be offer'd, and ſevering them from thoſe that were; and to this Senſe St. Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theopylact, refer the Word here, ſaying, That he requires Timothy to ſeparate from the preaching of the Word, all noxious and idle Queſtions, πάντα τὰ περιττὰ, all ſuperfluous things, and give his Hearers only the ſincere Milk of the Word; and this Senſe agrees well with the preceding and the following Words. Others think it referrs to the cutting out a ſtraight Path to walk in; and ſo it is an Admonition, ſaith Theodoret, to keep cloſe to the Truth of the Goſpel, in all his Exhortations, τῷ κανόνι τῶν θείων λόγων ἑπόμενον, following the Canon of the Holy Scriptures.

Ver. 16. But ſhun profane and vain bablings; for they encreaſe to more ungodlineſs, (rendring Men more and more profane.)

Ver. 17. And their Word will eat, as doth a Canker, (or Gangreen, infecting the whole Body,) of whom (i. e. of the Number of which profane Talkers) are Hymenæus, and Philetus.

Ver. 18. Who concerning the Truth, have erred, ſaying, that the Reſurrection is paſt already, and (by that Doctrine) overthrow the Faith of ſome.

Ὑμέναιος, &c. Hymenæus and Philetus.] That theſe two were Gnoſtick Teachers, none of the Ancients do inſinuate; nor did the Gnoſticks teach, that the Reſurrection was paſs'd already, but that the Fleſh was not fit to riſe; and that it was incapable of Salvation and of Incorruption. So Irenæus often doth inform us, by ſaying, (i) they deny the Salvation of the Fleſh, denying it to be capable of Incorruption; and with him, Pſeud-Ignatius, the (k) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions, and others. (l) Valentinus, who flouriſh'd only A. D. 145, and ſo could not be touch'd at in theſe Words, was of the ſame Opinion, ſay all the Ancients. So that Tertullian muſt either be miſtaken, when, ſpeaking of them who held the Reſurrection was paſt already, he adds, Id de ſe Valentiniani aſſeverant, or mean this not of Valentinus himſelf, whom he there numbers with thoſe qui Reſurrectionem carnis infringunt, deny the Reſurrection of the Fleſh, but of ſome of his Followers.

But then Irenæus informs us, that this was part of the Hereſie of (m) Menander, who taught, Reſurrectionem per id quod eſt in eum Baptiſma accipere ejus Diſcipulos, that his Diſciples obtain'd the Reſurrection by his Baptiſm, and ſo could die no more, but were to perſevere immortal. (n) Juſtin Martyr alſo ſaith, he perſuaded his Diſciples, ὡς μὴ ἀποθνήσκειν, that they ſhould not die. He taught, ſaith (o) Timothy, Prieſt of Conſtantinople, That they who received his Baptiſm, ſhould be immortal, ὡς μέλλοντα ἀποθνήσκειν, and ſhould never die. Now he was Contemporary to Simon Magus, and ſo might be alſo with St. Paul. See Note on 1 Cor. 15. 12, 44.

Ver. 19. Nevertheleſs, the Foundation of God, (the Hope and Promiſe of the Reſurrection,) ſtandeth ſure, having this (as the) Seal (of it,) the Lord knoweth who are his, and (therefore) let every one that nameth the Name of Chriſt depart from Iniquity.

Θεμέλιος τοῦ Θεοῦ, the Foundation of God.] The Fundamental Doctrine of the Reſurrection to Life Eternal, is ſo ſtyled in theſe Words, Let us not lay again, τὸν θεμέλιον the Foundation of the Reſurrection of the Dead, Heb. 6. 1, 2. This is the faithful Saying men-

Ἔγνω ὁ Θεὸς τοὺς ὄντας αὐτοῦ, The Lord knoweth who are his.] i. e. He owns and approves thoſe he hath commiſſioned to reveal his Mind to others; for this Expreſſion is taken from Numb. 16. 5. where Corah, Dathan, and Abiram, riſe up againſt Moſes and Aaron, declaring, they took too much upon them, in pretending, the one to be their Prophet, and the Mouth of God to them; the other to be the High-Prieſt, whom God had conſecrated to his peculiar Service above all others of the Tribe of Levi. Now to this Imputation, Moſes replies, according to the Septuagint, ἔγνω ὁ Θεὸς τοὺς ὄντας αὐτοῦ, God knoweth who are his, and by him ſeparated to his Service, and will maintain their Cauſe and Calling againſt all Oppoſers, as in that Inſtance he did in a wonderful manner, cauſing the Earth to open and ſwallow them up: So alſo will God own us his Apoſtles againſt Hymenæus and Philetus, and all that ſet up againſt us, and our Doctrine; as therefore Moſes ſaid then to the Iſraelites, Depart you from the Tents of thoſe Men, ἀπὸ σκηνῶν, and they departed. So ſay I now to all Chriſtians, Let them depart from this Impiety, i. e. from theſe pernicious Doctrines which increaſe to Ungodlineſs, and cauſe Men to make ſhipwrack of Faith and a good Conſcience.

Ἀπὸ ἀδικίας.] Juſtum pro vero, & injuſtum pro falſo frequentes tam nos quam Attici ponimus, ſaith Priſcian: Both Greeks and Latins frequently uſe the Word Injuſtice to denote Falſhood. See Note on 1 Cor. 13. 6. So that theſe Words may thus be rendred, Let every one that names the Name of Chriſt depart from Falſhood; i. e. Let him preſerve himſelf from the pernicious Errors of theſe Apoſtates from the Truth.

Ver. 20. (And be not diſturbed that ſuch Hereticks as theſe ariſe out of the Members of the Church:) But (δέ, for) in a great Houſe, (ſuch as the Church is) are not only Veſſels of Gold and Silver, but alſo of Wood and of Earth, and ſome (viz. thoſe Veſſels of Gold and Silver repreſenting the Orthodox Chriſtian, 1 Cor. 3. 12. are εἰς τιμὴν,) for Honour, and ſome (viz. thoſe of Wood and Earth, repreſenting the Heterodox,) for (Uſes of) Diſhonour.

Ver. 21. If a Man therefore purge himſelf from theſe (falſe Doctrines, and the Teachers of them,) he ſhall be a Veſſel unto Honour, ſanctified, and meet for the Maſter's Uſe, (ſerviceable to Chriſt, the Maſter of the Family,) and prepared for every good Work.

Ἡγιασμένον, ſanctified.] The Veſſels of the Sanctuary were conſecrated to the Service of God, and were alſo, ſaith the Apoſtle, purified by the ſprinkling of the Blood upon them, Heb. 9. 21. And ſo are Chriſtians ſprinkled by the Blood of Jeſus from their Sins, and conſecrated by Baptiſm to his Service, and ſo made meet for the Service of God.

Ver. 22. (Avoid theſe therefore, and) Flee alſo youthful Luſts, but follow Righteouſneſs, Faith, Charity, Peace with them that call on the Lord out of a pure Heart.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. THIS know alſo, that in the laſt Days (of the Jewiſh Oeconomy, and in the Days of the Meſſiah, and the erecting of his Kingdom. See Note on 1 Tim. 4. 1.) perillous Times ſhall come.

Ver. 2. For Men ſhall be lovers of their own ſelves, (i. e. their own temporal Pleaſures and Profits,) covetous, boaſters, proud, blaſphemers, (evil ſpeakers,) diſobedient to Parents, unthankful, unholy, (or profane.)

Ver. 3. Without natural Affection, Truce-breakers, falſe Accuſers, incontinent, fierce, (or cruel) Deſpiſers of thoſe that are good.

Ver. 4. Traytors, heady, high-minded, lovers of Pleaſures more than lovers of God.

Ver. 5. Having a Form of Godlineſs, but denying the Power thereof.

Ἔσονται γὰρ ἄνθρωποι.] That the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of ſuch Perſons as were in Being when this Epiſtle was indited, is evident from his Command to Timothy, to turn away from them, and from the following Deſcription of them.

That they were not the Gnoſticks, or the Followers of Simon Magus, ſeems apparent: 1. Becauſe Simon Magus could not make the Times perillous by any Oppoſition he could make to Chriſtianity, he being a deſpicable and beggarly Magician, of whoſe Power or Endeavour to perſecute the Chriſtians, I remember not one Word in Church Hiſtory applicable to the Times of this Epiſtle; but that the Jews were zealous Perſecutors of them, not only in Judea, but through all Parts of the World, where they were diſperſed, both Scripture, and Juſtin Martyr, fully teſtifie; and the ſuppoſed Combination betwixt the Jews and Gnoſticks is not only groundleſs, but incredible: For what Accord could there be betwixt him who ſet up for a God, yea, for a Father over all, and them who were zealous for the true God, and hated Idolatry with a perfect Hatred; or between them who had the higheſt Veneration for the Law and the Prophets, and him who taught they were not to be at all regarded. 2dly, Becauſe the Jews had a Form of Knowledge, Rom. 2. 20. and a Zeal for God, Rom. 9. 1. and a ſettled Form of worſhipping the true God, they were great Zealots for the Obſervation of the Sabbath, and all the Sacrifices, and Inſtitutions required by the Law of Moſes, and ſerv'd God fervently Day and Night, Acts 26. 7. and ſo they had a Form of Godlineſs, tho' not worſhipping God in the Spirit, Philip. 3. 3. but only with theſe carnal Ordinances they denied the Power thereof: But what Form of Godlineſs do we find in Simon Magus, and his Followers, in the Times of the Apoſtles? What Profeſſion of Chriſtianity could he make, who ſet himſelf to oppoſe the Apoſtles, and the Doctrine which they taught? See a Third Argument againſt this Expoſition, v. 9.

But that theſe Characters agree to the Jews, and particularly to the Judaizing Chriſtians, and falſe Teachers, is evident from Scripture and Church Hiſtory, and from the Writings of Joſephus; for Rom. 1. 29, 30, 31. we have mention of Gentiles that were covetous, proud, boaſters, diſobedient to Parents, without natural Affection, Truce-breakers, cruel, unclean, unthankful, v. 21. And Chap. 2. 1. the Jew is condemned as doing the ſame things, and v. 22. 24. as guilty of Adultery and Blaſphemy. They were Blaſphemers, and falſe Accuſers of the Apoſtles, as if they walk'd after the Fleſh, 2 Cor. 10. 2. contradicting and blaſpheming Chriſtianity, Acts 13. 45. they repreſented it to all the World, when it was firſt preach'd, as an Atheiſtical (a) Sect, and were the Authors of all the vile Stories which the Heathens objected againſt it: And in deſpiſing of the Apoſtles and Chriſtians, they were Deſpiſers of thoſe that were Good. They were great Lovers and Admirers of themſelves, proud, Boaſters, and high-minded, boaſting of God as their Father, and of their Knowledge of the Law, Rom. 2. 17, 23. Magnifying themſelves above others, ſee Note on 2 Cor. 11. 12, 20. Glorying in their Circumciſion, v. 18. and in their being of the Seed of Abraham, v. 22. Philip. 3. 5. and exalting themſelves upon theſe Accounts above the Gentiles, whom they ſtiled Dogs, and Sons of the Earth, and uncircumciſed, whilſt they were the Noble, the Sons of God, and his beloved People. They were διάβολοι, contentions, and obey'd not the Truth, Rom. 2. 8. Philip. 1. 15, 16. They were covetous, perverting others for filthy Lucre's ſake, Tit. 1. 11.

counting Gain Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 5. minding earthly things, Philip. 3. 19. They were fierce, heady, cruel in their Perſecutions of the Chriſtians, 1 Theſſ. 2. 15, 16. They were Traytors, and Truce-breakers, in their Revoltings from the Regal Government. They were diſobedient to their Parents in their Corban, Matth. 15. 5. and without natural Affection, not in that only, but in their Perſecution of Chriſtians of their own Family and Blood, Luke 21. 16. They were unholy, and incontinent, defiled, and abominable, Tit. 1. 14, 15. in their Adulteries and continual Divorces: Lovers of Pleaſures, making their Belly their God, Philip. 3. 19. feaſting luxuriouſly on their Sabbaths, and to Drunkenneſs in their Feaſt of Purim.

Ver. 6. For of this ſort are they which creep into Houſes, and lead captive ſilly Women laden with Sins.

Ver. 7. Ever learning (of new Teachers,) but never able to come to the Knowledge of the Truth.

That theſe Perverters of Men from the Truth, and Creepers into Houſes, were of the Circumciſion, and addicted to Jewiſh Fables, ſee Tit. 1. 10, 11, 14.

Ver. 8. Now as Jannes and Jambres withſtood Moſes, (when working his Miracles in Egypt, before Pharaoh,) ſo do theſe alſo reſiſt the Truth, being Men of corrupt Minds, reprobate concerning the Faith, (Tit. 1. 14, 15, 16.)

Jannes and Jambres.] Tho' we have no mention of the Names of theſe Magicians in the Old Teſtament, yet were their Names celebrated both among the Heathens, as (b) Pliny and (c) Numenius inform us, who repreſent them as Egyptians skill'd in the Art of Magick; and in the (d) Jewiſh Writings, who do not only ſay that they were Principes Præſtigiatorum, (e) the Chief of the Magicians, but alſo that they were the two Sons of Balaam. (f) Origen informs us, that there was a Book writ of them bearing this Title, Jannes & Mambres liber.

Ἀδόκιμοι περὶ τὴν πίστιν, Reprobate concerning the Faith.] So they are ſtyled in Scripture, who, through their Reſiſtance of, and Contentions againſt the Truth, are unworthy to have the Faith made known to them, or indiſpoſed to receive it. Thus the Heathens, who, when they knew God, did not glorifie him as God, neither were thankful, Rom. 1. 21, 25. are therefore delivered up, εἰς νοῦν ἀδόκιμον, to a reprobate Mind; and they here who reſiſt the Truth, being Men of corrupt Minds, are therefore reprobate concerning the Faith. See Note on 2 Cor. 13. 5.

Ver. 9. But they ſhall proceed no farther, (Gr. not much farther,) for their Folly ſhall be manifeſt to all Men, as theirs alſo was, (i. e. the Folly of Jannes and Jambres.)

Οὐ προκόψουσι, They ſhall proceed no farther.] This agrees well with the Jewiſh falſe Doctors, who were ſoon diſabled from carrying on their falſe Doctrines by the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, but not ſo well with the Gnoſtick Hereticks, who ſpread themſelves wide in the Second Century. The Fancy of a Reverend Perſon, that St. Paul here propheſies, that as Jannes and Jambres periſh'd in the Red Sea, ſo ſhould Simon Magus at Rome, falling down headlong, when he was flying in the Air, periſh at the Prayers of St. Peter and St. Paul, is in every part of it uncertain. For, 1ſt. Tho' the Jews tell us Jannes and Jambres were with Pharaoh at the Red Sea, they ſay not that they periſhed there, but ſay they rode with Balaam to meet Balak, and lived to the making of the Golden Calf, and then periſhed. Targ. Jon. in Numb. 22. 22.

2dly, I have ſhewed in the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, That the Story of Simon Magus's flying in the Air, in a fiery Chariot, and thrown down by the Prayers of theſe two Apoſtles, in the Sight of the People at Rome, is of no Credit among Learned Men.

Ver. 10. But (be not troubled at ſuch Times, or Perſons, having in me good Experience of the Power and Readineſs of God to deliver them who ſuffer for his ſake, for) thou haſt fully known my Doctrine, (my) manner of Life, (my) Purpoſe (to adhere to Chriſt, ſeeking his Glory, not my own, and to promote his Goſpel to the utmoſt, my) Faith, Long-ſuffering, (2 Cor. 6. 6.) Charity, (1 Cor. 8. 13. and 9. 22. 2 Cor. 11. 29. my) Patience.

Ver. 11. (The) Perſecutions and Afflictions which came unto me at Antioch, (Act. 13. 50.) at Iconium, (Chap. 14. 2.) at Lyſtra, (where he was ſtoned, v. 19.) what Perſecutions I endured (from the Jews,) but out of them all the Lord delivered me.

Παρηκολούθησας, thou haſt fully known.] Παρακολουθεῖν, Relatum ad animum eſt συνιέναι, ſaith Conſtantine. So the Greek Commentators thought it here ſignified, rendring it οἶδας, μαθόντας ἀκριβῶς, thou haſt known, thou haſt learnt exactly, as the Word imports, Luke 1. 4. The primary Senſe of it, thou haſt followed, or reſembled me in my Perſecutions, may alſo be applied to Timothy, who was in Bonds at Rome alſo, Hebr. 13. 23. Nor is it to be expected that it ſhould be otherwiſe.)

Ver. 13. But (δὲ, for) wicked Men and Deceivers (Impoſtors) will (till the Wrath of God takes hold upon them) wax worſe and worſe; deceiving, and being deceived.

Καὶ γόητες, Impoſtors.] That the Impoſtors among the Jews continued till the very Time of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, more and more deceiving the People; and that the whole Nation of the Unbelieving Jews grew then to the higheſt pitch of Wickedneſs, Joſephus fully teſtifies. See Notes on Rom. 2. 2. and 2 Theſ. 2. 10.

Ver. 14. But continue thou in the things which thou haſt learned (from me,) and haſt been aſſured of, knowing of whom thou haſt learned them.

Ver. And that from a Child thou haſt known the holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wiſe to Salvation, through Faith which is in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 16. All Scripture is given by Inſpiration of God, and is (Gr. being inſpired by God, is alſo) profitable for Doctrine, (to teach us what we are to believe,) for Reproof, (or Conviction of Errour,) for Correction, (and Reformation of Vice,) and for Inſtruction in (the Way of) Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 17. That the Man of God (or Teacher of it) may be perfect, both as to his own Practice, and his teaching others, and ſo) throughly furniſhed (not to this, or that only, but) to all good Works (belonging to his Office.)

Πᾶσα γραφὴ, All Scripture.] Here note,

1. That the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, not of the New, muſt be the Scriptures here intended, they only being the Scriptures which Timothy had known from a Youth; that is, before the Scriptures of the New Teſtament were written; and ſo he could not ſpeak of the Scriptures, as interpreted by them who were then the Guides of the Church, viz. the Jewiſh Sanhedrim, or the Scribes and Phariſees; ſeeing they ſo interpreted them as to make void the Commandments of God, and to deny our Saviour to be the promiſed Meſſiah.

2. Obſerve, that the Apoſtle doth not ſay that theſe Scriptures were of themſelves ſufficient to make Timothy wiſe to Salvation, but only that with Faith in Chriſt Jeſus they were ſufficient for that End. Now Faith in Chriſt Jeſus doth only ſignifie a firm Belief that Jeſus was the Chriſt, the true Meſſiah, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World; as is evident from theſe Words, This is the Victory over the World, even our Faith, 1 Joh. 5. 4. i. e. our Belief that Jeſus is the Son of God, v. 5. See the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Galatians, §. 2. Hence then I argue for the Perfection of the Scriptures thus: If the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament were ſufficient to make a Man wiſe unto Salvation, provided only that he believed that Jeſus was the Chriſt, the Scriptures of the Old and the New Teſtament muſt much more be ſo, becauſe the Scriptures of the New Teſtament muſt needs more plainly and fully contain the Faith and Duty of all Chriſtians, than the Scriptures of the Old only, can be ſuppoſed to do.

Object. But, ſaith Eſthius, if the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament were ſufficient to make Men wiſe to Salvation, then is there no need of the Goſpels, or of the Epiſtles of the New Teſtament.

Anſw. I anſwer, Yes, there was need of them, both to beget in Men, and to confirm this Faith in Chriſt, they being written that we might believe; and believing, might have Life through his Name, Joh. 20. 31. and alſo to give the Chriſtians of ſucceeding Ages a more full, plain and perſpicuous Knowledge of thoſe Things which were not ſo fully and plainly, to the Capacity of the meaneſt, to be learnt in the Old Teſtament. Thus, though the Five Books of Moſes ſufficiently contained the whole Jewiſh Law, it follows not that the Hiſtorical and Prophetick Books, or the Hagiographa, were ſuperfluous.

3. Obſerve that the Apoſtle ſaith, theſe Scriptures were therefore able to make Timothy, a Chriſtian Biſhop, wiſe to Salvation, becauſe they were profitable for Doctrine, to teach the Chriſtian all that he was to believe; πρὸς ἔλεγχον, for the Conviction of every Errour in the Faith, for the Correction of every Vice they were obliged to eſchew, and for their Inſtruction in every Way of Righteouſneſs; even ſo profitable to theſe Ends, as to make the Man of God perfect; i. e. wanting in nothing he ought to practiſe or believe himſelf, or teach to others, for the Edification of the Chriſtian into a perfect Man in Chriſt Jeſus, and to make him throughly furniſhed to every good Work. So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius and Theophylact, upon the Place.

Falſe therefore here is the Note of Eſthius, That the Scriptures are here ſaid to be profitable, but not ſufficient to theſe Ends. Vain is his Subterfuge, that the Apoſtle, by every good Work, underſtands only Singula generum, every kind of good Works, but not every good Work of that kind, i. e. every Work of Faith, and Inſtruction in Righteouſneſs: For if theſe good Works be requiſite to make the Man of God perfect, and throughly furniſh'd for his Office, they muſt be here included; if they be not, they muſt be needleſs in order to the Diſcharge of it.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. I Charge thee therefore before God (the Father,) and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who ſhall judge the Quick and the Dead at his Appearance, and his Kingdom.

Κατὰ τὴν ἐπιφάνειαν αὐτοῦ, καὶ τὴν βασιλείαν αὐτοῦ, At his Appearance and his Kingdom.] "This "Appearance, ſaith Mr. Mede, is the Ap"pearance of Chriſt; the Word ἐπιφάνεια al"ways importing Chriſt's Advent, who after "the Reſurrection, and the Judgment of the "Quick and Dead, muſt give up his Media"tory Kingdom to the Father, it therefore "muſt ſignifie ſome other Kingdom, proper "to Chriſt's Second Coming; and what can "that be, but the Kingdom of the Millen"nium." But,

1. This Appearance of Chriſt is his Glorious Appearance, when we ſhall receive the Bleſſed Hope, i. e. the Eternal Happineſs we hope for, Tit. 2. 12. when we ſhall appear with him in Glory, Coloſ. 3. 4. when we ſhall be made like unto him, and ſee him as he is, 1 Joh. 3. 2. Which cannot be expected till after this ſuppoſed Millennium. It is the ſame with the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt from Heaven, 2 Theſ. 1. 7. his glorious Revelation, 1 Pet. 4. 13. and with his παρουσία, or Second Coming, which is a Coming with all his Saints, 2 Theſ. 3. 13. a Coming of our Lord from Heaven, 1 Theſ. 4. 15, 16. Now Mr. Mede himſelf confeſſes, that he dares not ſo much as imagine that the Preſence of Chriſt in the Millennary Kingdom ſhould be viſible upon Earth; For the Kingdom of Chriſt, ſaith he, p. 603. ever hath, and ſhall be Regnum Cœlorum, a Kingdom whoſe Throne and Kingly Reſidence is in Heaven. And Thirdly, At this Appearance, and this Kingdom, ſaith the Apoſtle, he ſhall judge the Quick and Dead; not the Dead only, but the Quick and Dead; not ſome of them only, but all of them, without Exception. Now the Judgment of the Dead is to be after the Concluſion of the ſuppoſed Millennium, Rev. 20. 12.

2. Though Chriſt will, after the Judgment of the Quick and Dead is compleated, give up his Mediatory Kingdom, yet ſince that very Judgment conſiſts in Retribution of his final Puniſhments upon his Enemies, and Crowning of his Loyal Subjects with Eternal Glory, which are the two chief Acts of Kingly Government, and the very End for which all Power was committed to him, Joh. 17. 2. it very properly is ſtiled his Kingdom. And though he ſhall then deliver up this Kingdom, as it is a Kingdom which reſpects the rewarding his Servants, and the Puniſhment of his Enemies, when the firſt ſhall be crowned with Eternal Glory, and the laſt doom'd to endleſs Puniſhments; yet ſhall he ſtill continue to be King of Saints, highly exalted above them in Honour and Dignity, and honour'd ſtill by them with Religious Reſpect and Veneration.

Ver. 2. Preach the Word, be inſtant (in that Work) in Seaſon, and out of Seaſon, (publickly and privately, by Day and Night, in Times of Peace, and of Danger;) reprove, (ἔλεγξον, refel falſe Teachers,) rebuke (evil Livers,) exhort with all Long-ſuffering, (though they long ſeem not to regard thy Exhortations,) and Doctrine, (i. e. all manner of Inſtructions.)

Κήρυξον, Preach, &c.] In Timotheo omnes Paſtores officii ſui commonitos eſſe voluit Spiritus Sanctus. Eſthius.

Ver. 3. (Thus it becomes thee to be inſtant now,) for the Time will (ſhortly) come when they will not endure ſound Doctrine; but after their own Luſts ſhall they heap to themſelves Teachers, having itching Ears.

Ver. 4. And they ſhall turn away their Ears from the Truth, and ſhall be turned unto Fables.

Ἐπὶ τοὺς μύθους, To Fables.] To the fabulous Divinity of the Gnoſticks, made up of Gentiliſm and Judaiſm, ſay ſome; but it doth not appear that the fabulous Divinity of the Gnoſticks, mention'd by Irenæus, was then hatch'd; 'tis far more probable that he here ſpeaks of the Jewiſh Doctors, and their fabulous Traditions; for in his Firſt Epiſtle he ſaith he left Timothy at Epheſus, that he might charge ſome among them not to teach other Doctrines, nor to give heed to Fables, and endleſs Genealogies, 1 Tim. 1. 3, 4. Which, as it relates to the Genealogies of the Jews, touching their Tribes, their Relation to the Houſe of David, and their Traditionary Men, ſee the Note there. So, v. 7. the Apoſtle plainly tells us they were Teachers of the Law; which Simon and his Followers ſaid, was not to be regarded. And in his Epiſtle to Titus, he ſends a like Exhortation to him, to preſerve the Cretians from giving heed to Jewiſh Fables, Tit. 1. 14. and Doctrines of Men that turn from the Truth; which the Gnoſticks, who never ſincerely embraced the Truth, could not do; and to avoid fooliſh Queſtions, and Genealogies, and Contentions, καὶ μάχας νομικὰς, and Quarrels about the Law, as being unprofitable and vain, chap. 3. 9.

Ver. 5. But watch thou in all things (which reſpect thy Office;) endure Affliction (patiently,) do the Work of an Evangeliſt, (See the Note on Epheſ. 4. 11.) make a full Proof of (Gr. fulfil) thy Miniſtery.

Ver.

Ver. 6. For I am now ready to be offered, (Gr. I am already pour'd out,) and the Time of my Departure (or Diſſolution) is at hand. (See the Preface.)

Ver. 7. (But, be it ſo, this is my Comfort, that) I have fought a good Fight, (ſuffering Hardſhip, as a good Soldier of Jeſus Chriſt,) I have finiſhed (or run) my Courſe, I have kept the Faith.

Ver. 8. (So that) from henceforth (I may be confident) there is laid up for me a Crown of Righteouſneſs, which the Lord (Jeſus,) the righteous Judge, ſhall give me at that Day; and not to me only, but to all them alſo that love (Gr. have loved) his Appearing, (and ſhewed that Love by patient ſuffering for his ſake.)

Ἐν ἐκείνῃ τῇ ἡμέρᾳ, At that Day.] The Council of Florence hath defined, That pure and cleanſed Souls, when they quit the Body, are preſently received into Heaven, and there have a clear Viſion of the Holy Trinity. And the Trent-Council, Seſſ. 25. hath laid this as the Foundation of the Invocation of Saints departed, That they do now cum Chriſto regnare, & æterna fælicitate in Cælo frui. But in this they ſeem to deviate from Scripture, and the Primitive Antiquity. I ſay, from Scripture: For,

1. Charity is repreſented by St. Paul as the moſt excellent of Chriſtian Vertues, and therefore that which will obtain the higheſt Recompence; and yet the Motive by which our Lord excites us to perform it runneth thus, Thou ſhalt be recompenſed at the Reſurrection of the Juſt, Luk. 14. 14.

2. To thoſe who ſuffer Death and Perſecution for the Name of Chriſt, our Lord hath promiſed a great Reward in Heaven, Matth. 5. 12. But this Reward will only be conferr'd upon them at the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt from Heaven, with his mighty Angels, 2 Theſ. 1. 7. The Trial of their Faith ſhall be found, to Praiſe, Glory and Honour, ἐν τῇ Ἀποκαλύψει, at the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Pet. 1. 17. Then they who communicate with him in Sufferings, ſhall rejoice with him, ἐν τῇ Ἀποκαλύψει, at the Revelation of his Glory, 1 Pet. 4. 13. Till then, the Souls of them who were ſlain for the Word of God, are repreſented as under the Altar, Rev. 6. 9.

3. To thoſe who feed the Flock of Chriſt, a great Reward is promiſed, even a never-fading Crown of Glory; but it is to be received then only, when the great Shepherd doth appear, 1 Pet. 5. 4. A Reward is to be render'd to the Servants of God, the Saints and Prophets; but it is to be render'd when the Time comes that the Dead ſhall be judged, Rev. 11. 18. The Apoſtles are to have their Manſions in Heaven with Chriſt, but not till he comes again from Heaven; for then, ſaith he, I will receive you to my ſelf, that where I am, you may be alſo, Joh. 14. 2, 3.

4. The Retribution to every Man according to his Works is alſo to be made at the ſame time; for the Son of Man will come in the Glory of his Father, with his holy Angels; and then will he render to every Man according to his Works, Matth. 16. 27. At the End of the World ſhall the Righteous ſhine as the Sun, in the Kingdom of their Father, Matth. 13. 40, 43. This ſhall be done in the Day when God ſhall judge the Secrets of Men's Hearts, Rom. 2. 15. and when we ſhall appear before the Judgment-Seat of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 5. 12. Apoc. 22. 10.

5. Hence, in the Scripture, the Time of Recompence, and the Time of Judgment, are repreſented as the ſame; as in theſe Words, The Time is come that the Dead ſhould be judged, and that thou ſhouldeſt give Rewards to thy Servants the Prophets, and to the Saints, Rev. 11. 18. The Time of Glory, and of the Apparition of our Lord; as in theſe Words, When Chriſt, who is your Life, ſhall appear, then ſhall you appear with him in Glory, Coloſ. 3. 4. The Time of Chriſt's Appearance, and of our Salvation; for, He ſhall appear a ſecond time without Sin, unto Salvation, Heb. 9. 28. The Time of his Appearing, and of our Beatifick Viſion; for, When he doth appear, we ſhall be like him; for we ſhall ſee him as he is, 1 Joh. 3. 2.

6. Hence Chriſtians are ſo often ſaid to expect the Adoption of the Sons of God, viz. the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, Rom. 8. 23. To expect the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Cor. 1 7. To expect the Son of God from Heaven, 1 Theſ. 1. 10. To expect the bleſſed Hope, and glorious Appearance of the great God, and our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, Tit. 2. 14. To hope for the Grace that ſhall be given them at the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Pet. 1. 13.

Now let it be obſerv'd, that the Body, compared to the Soul, is the vileſt, and leaſt conſiderable Part of Man; and therefore the Hope, the Glory, the Reward, Inheritance, Adoption, Bliſs and Happineſs reſerved to the Time of the Reſurrection, cannot reſpect the Body only. Moreover, the Apoſtle ſaith of the Inceſtuous Perſon, That his Body was delivered up to Satan, for the Deſtruction of the Fleſh, that his Soul might be ſaved in the Day of the Lord Jeſus, 1 Cor. 5. 5. Which ſhews, that the compleat Salvation of the Soul is then to be expected.

As for the Judgment of Primitive Antiquity in this Matter, it may be learnt from theſe Conſiderations.

1ſt. That they aſcribed this Opinion of the Soul's immediate Aſcent to Heaven, and its Enjoyment of God's immediate Preſence after Death, to the Hereticks of thoſe Times, repreſenting it as proper to the Followers of Valentinus, Baſilides, and Marcion, and after them them as a part of the Hereſie of the Manichees. Thus Juſtin Martyr ſpeaking of thoſe who were called Chriſtians, but blaſphemed the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, he ſaith, in his Dialogue with Trypho, p. 307. 253. they denied the Reſurrection, and held ἅμα τῷ ἀποθνήσκειν, τὰς ψυχὰς αὐτῶν ἀναλαμβάνεσθαι εἰς τὸν οὐρανόν, that as ſoon as they died, their Souls were received into Heaven. (g) Irenæus in like manner, that the Hereticks deſpiſing the Formation of God, i. e. the Body formed by him, and not receiving (the Doctrine of) the Salvation of the Fleſh, ſimulatque mortui fuerint dicunt ſe ſupergredi Cœlos & Demiurgum, & ire ad matrem, vel ad eum qui ab ipſis affingitur Patrem, ſay, that as ſoon as they are dead, they aſcend above the Heavens, and go to him whom they call their Father: And having ſaid, that our Lord's Soul went not to Heaven, but continued in the Place of the Dead till the Reſurrection, he ſaith, This is ſufficient to confound thoſe Men, qui dicunt interiorem hominem ipſorum derelinquentem hoc Corpus in ſupercœleſtem aſcendere locum, who ſay, that their inward Man, leaving the Body here, aſcends to the ſuperceleſtial Manſions. And then he gives us the Orthodox Opinion, thus, (h) It is manifeſt that the Souls of the Diſciples of our Lord ſhall go into the inviſible Place appointed for them by God, expecting the Reſurrection, and then receiving their Bodies, and riſing with them, as our Lord did, ſhall come into the Preſence of God. Tertullian having produced the ſame Inſtance of the Death of Chriſt, and the Continuance of his Soul, apud inferos, till the Reſurrection of the Body, he poſitively concludes, that (i) Nulli patet cœlum, terra adhuc ſalva, cum tranſactioneenim mundi reſeranbuntur regna Cœlorum, Heaven is opened to none, whilſt the Earth remains, the Kingdom of Heaven being only to be open'd at the Diſſolution of the World. And in his Fourth Book againſt Marcion, (k) he ſaith, The Boſom of Abraham, which is higher than the Inferi, but not ſo high as Heaven, is that which gives Refreſhment to the Souls of the Juſt, till the Conſummation of all things, produce the Reſurrection of all with a full Reward.

The Manichees, who alſo denied the Reſurrection of the Body, contended, that good Souls had their whole Reward immediately after Death, becauſe Chriſt promiſed to the Thief, that he ſhould be that Day with him in Paradiſe. To which Objection St. Chryſoſtom anſwers by Conceſſion, That the Thief was indeed admitted to Paradiſe; but then he adds, that Paradiſe was not the ſame with Heaven, οὐδὲ γὰρ ταῦτα ἐστὶ τὰ ἀγαθὰ ἅπερ ὁ Θεὸς ἡμῖν ἐπηγγείλατο, for it contains not the good things which God hath promiſed to us; and then concludes, That if God promiſed the Kingdom of Heaven, and only brought the Thief into Paradiſe, οὔπω ἀπέδωκεν αὐτῷ τὰ ἀγαθὰ, he hath not yet given to him the good things promiſed.

2. That they expreſly teach, that the Souls of good Men remain till the Day of Judgment, in a certain Place, extra cœlum beatorum, expecting the Day of Judgment, and of Retribution. Thus Juſtin Martyr ſaith, that no Souls die, but (l) τὰς μὲν τῶν εὐσεβῶν ἐν κρείττονί τινι χώρῳ μένειν, τὰς δ' ἀδίκους καὶ πονηρὰς ἐν χείρονι, τὰς τῶν κείσεως ἐνδιαμένας χρόνον, that the Souls of good Men remain in a better Place, the Souls of bad Men in a worſe, expecting the Day of Judgment. Irenæus gives us the Tradition of the Church, touching this Matter thus, (m) The Presbyters, who were the Diſciples of the Apoſtles, ſay thoſe that were tranſlated, were carried into Paradiſe; for that Place is prepar'd for juſt Men, and ſuch as have the Spirit, and there they remain till the Conſummation, expecting or beginning Immortality; and that there ſhall be new Heavens, and new Earth, and then, οἱ μὲν καταξιωθέντες τῆς ἐν ἐκείνῳ διαμονῆς εἰσελεύσονται, they that are worthy of the Celeſtial Manſions ſhall go thither. Tertullian having cited thoſe Words of the Apoſtle, And the God of Peace ſanctifie you throughout, in Body, Soul, and Spirit, and keep you unblameable to the Coming of the Lord, 1 Theſſ. 5. 23. ſaith thus, (n) Habes omnem ſubſtantiam hominis ſaluti deſtinatam, nec alio tempore quam in adventu Domini, qui clavis eſt reſurrectionis, Here you ſee the whole Subſtance of Man deſigned for Salvation, nor at any other time but the Appearance of our Lord, who is the Key of the Reſurrection. There is a Place, ſaith (o) Novatian, quo piorum animæ, impiorumque ducuntur futuri judicii præjudicia ſentientes, whether the Souls of good and wicked Men are carried, having ſome Foretaſts of their future Judgment. And Caius, a Presbyter of the Church of Rome, ſaith, That juſt Souls, being celebrated by the Angels placed over them, ἀγγέλοις εἰς χωρίον φωτεινὸν ἐν ᾧ οἱ ἀπ' ἀρχῆς δίκαιοι πολιτεύονται, are led by them into a Place of Light, called the Boſom of Abraham, where the Juſt from the beginning have been, where they are delighted with the Viſion of the juſt Fathers, expecting (p) τὴν μετὰ τοῦτο χωρίον ἀνάπαυσιν, τὴν αἰώνιον ἀναβίωσιν ἐν ἕξει, after this Place, their Reſt, and everlaſting Habitation in Heaven. Let no Man think, ſaith (q) Lactantius, animas poſt mortem protinus judicari, that Souls are forthwith judged after Death, they are all held in one common Cuſtody, till the Time may come, that the great Judge ſhall make a Trial of their Merits. See Dally de Pæn. & Satisf. l. 5. c. 3, 4, 5, 6.

Ver. 9. Give thy Diligence to come to me ſhortly.

Ver. 10. For Demas hath forſaken me, having loved this preſent World, (i. e. the Safety of his Life,) and is departed unto Theſſalonica, Creſcens to Galatia, Titus to Dalmatia, (theſe two not deſerting St. Paul as Demas did, but going thither for the Promotion of the Goſpel.)

Ἀγαπήσας τὸν νῦν αἰῶνα, having loved this preſent World.] He doth not ſay, that Demas had forſaken the Chriſtian Religion, or that he betook himſelf to his own ſecular Affairs, forſaking his Attendance on the Service of God in the Church, or preferr'd the things of this Life before thoſe of a future; but, as the Ancients do expound the Words, he left the Apoſtle in this Time of Danger, conſulting the Safety of his own Life; for ὁ νῦν αἰών, in the Scripture Phraſe, ſtill ſignifies this preſent Life; ſo οἱ πλούσιοι ἐν τῷ νῦν αἰῶνι, are thoſe that are rich in this Life, 1 Tim. 6. 17. to live ſoberly, righteouſly, and godly, ἐν τῷ νῦν αἰῶνι, is to do it in this preſent Life, ſee Mark 10. 30. 1 Tim. 4. 8. He ſeems therefore only to ſay of him here what he ſays of others, v. 16. In my firſt Apology no Man ſtood by me, but all left me.

Ver. 11. Only Luke is with me, take Mark and bring him with thee, for he is profitable for the Miniſtry, (Mark therefore was not then in Egypt.)

Luke.] Hence it appears that Luke muſt be alive at the Twelfth or Thirteenth of Nero, when this Epiſtle was endited.

Εὔχρηστος εἰς διακονίαν, He is profitable for the Miniſtry.] i. e. For the Work of an Evangeliſt, v. 5. As St. Peter, being ſhortly to put off his Tabernacle, was the more diligent in giving Inſtructions to the Churches of the Jews, 2 Pet. 1. 13, 14. ſo was St. Paul, now in Bonds, in ſending his Meſſengers to the Churches of the Gentiles, v. 10. 12.

Ver. 12. (I ſay, Only Luke is with me,) And (Gr. for) Tychicus have I ſent to Epheſus.

To Epheſus.] Hence it is evident, that Timothy, at the writing of this Epiſtle, was not at Epheſus: For if ſo, why ſhould the Apoſtle advertiſe him, that he had ſent Tychicus thither?

Ver. 13. The Cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus bring with thee, and the Books, but eſpecially the Parchments.

Τὸν φαιλόνην, the Cloak.] Or rather, the Roll; for φαιλόνη, ſaith Phavorinus, is διπλοῦν περιβόλαιον, a Parchment rolled up, φαιλόνη διπλοῦν περιβόλαιον μεμβρανῶδες, a folded Vellum or Parchment. And Heſychius ſaith the ſame.

Ὃν ἀπέλιπον ἐν Τρῳάδι, which I left at Troas.] Not when he went from Troas to Aſſos, in his Journey to Jeruſalem; for then, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, he could have no Cauſe to leave any thing of moment with him, having ſo many that accompanied him in that Journey, Acts 20. 4, 6. and a Ship ſtill attending on them, v. 13. but in his Travels, after he was ſet at Liberty, and had left Rome.

Ἐρχόμενος, Coming.] Probably from thence; for he does not bid him ſend thither for them, or go thither to fetch them. Whence it follows, that St. Timothy was then at Troas when this Epiſtle was directed to him.

Ver. 14. Alexander the Copper-ſmith did me much evil, the Lord (ſhall) reward him according to his Works.

Ἀποδώῃ.] The King's Manuſcript reads, ἀποδώσει, will, or ſhall reward him: And all the Ancients note, that this is not an Imprecation, but περίφρασις πρέπουσα ἀνδρὶ Ἀποστόλῳ, a Prediction becoming an Apoſtle. So Pſeudo-Juſtin Qu. & Reſp. 125. So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, on the Place. Who this Alexander was, or where he lived, is uncertain, as alſo whether he were a Chriſtian, but zealous for the Jewiſh Rites, as he muſt be, if he were the Alexander delivered up to Satan, 1 Tim. 1. 20. or an Heathen, zealous, as Demetrius was, for his Trade, and upon that Account oppoſing the Apoſtle.

Ver. 15. Of whom be thou aware alſo, for he hath greatly withſtood our Words.

Ver. 16. At my firſt Anſwer no Man ſtood with me, but all Men (of my Acquaintance at Rome) forſook me; I pray God that it may not be laid to their Charge.

Ἐν τῇ πρώτῃ μου ἀπολογίᾳ, In my firſt Apology.] If the Date of this Epiſtle, contended for in the Preface, ſtand good, this could not be his firſt Defence of the Goſpel, of which he ſpeaks, Philip. 1. 17. For after that, he was ſet at Liberty, whereas after this, he is ſtill a Priſoner, Chap. 1. 8. Chap. 2. 9. Moreover Timothy was then with him at Rome, as appears from the Salutations then ſent him to the Churches of Philippi, Chap. 1. 1. and Coloſſ. 1. 1. from St. Paul and Timothy, yea he was a Priſoner there even after that St. Paul was ſet at Liberty, and ſo needed not to be taught how things went with the Apoſtle then. He therefore calls this his firſt Apology, or Defence, becauſe, after he had made it, he was ſtill kept in Bonds, Chap. 1. 8. and 2. 9. and ſo reſerved for another Hearing. He eſcaped then, ſay Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius; (r) But when he inſtructed his Butler, or Cup-bearer, in the Faith, he was cut off.

Ver. 17. Notwithſtanding, the Lord (Jeſus) ſtood with me, and ſtrengthen'd me, that by me (thus ſtanding up in Defence of the Goſpel) the preaching (of it) might be fully known, (Gr. fulfill'd,) and that all the Gentiles might hear (my Defence of it,) and I was then delivered out of the Mouth of the Lion.

Παρέστη, ſtood by me] in a Viſion to comfort and ſupport me, as Acts 18. 9. So ἔστη σοὶ is uſed, Acts 23. 11. and παρέστη, Acts 27. 23. or to give me a Mouth and Wiſdom according to his Promiſe, Luke 12. 12. and 21. 14, 15.

Ἐκ στόματος λέοντος, from the Mouth of the Lion,] i. e. of Nero, or of Helius Cæſareanus. So when Tiberius died, (s) Marſyas ſaid to Agrippa, τέθνηκεν ὁ λέων, the Lion is dead. And ſo ſpeaks Eſther, touching Artaxerxes, Put a meet Word into my Mouth, εὐπρεπῆ τῷ λέοντι, before the Lion, Eſth. 14. 13.

Ver. 18. And the Lord ſhall (will) deliver me from every evil Work, and will preſerve me to his heavenly Kingdom, to whom (therefore) be Glory for ever and ever. Amen.

Καὶ ῥύσεταί με, and will deliver me.] If he will deliver him, ſaith Chryſoſtom, why ſaith he, I am now offered? Mark therefore his Words, he ſaith not he will again deliver me out of the Mouth of the Lion, but only that he will preſerve me from every evil Work, and to his heavenly Kingdom.

Ver. 19. Salute Priſcilla, and Aquila, and the Houſhold of Oneſiphorus. (See Note on Chap. 1. 18.)

That St. Paul was in Bonds when he writ this Epiſtle, and that at Rome, he himſelf ſaith, Chap. 1. 8, 17. Now this Verſe affords two Arguments, to prove he could not be then in his firſt Bonds. 1. From theſe Words, Eraſtus abode at Corinth. When was it, when St. Paul went from Corinth to go to Jeruſalem? Then Timothy accompanied him at leaſt as far as Aſia, and ſo needed not to be told that from Rome ſo long after: It therefore muſt refer to the Time when, ſaith the Reverend Biſhop Pearſon, St. Paul went from Nicopolis to Corinth, A. D. 65. and the 12th. of Nero. 2dly, From theſe Words, Trophimus have I left at Miletum, ſick. Now this cannot relate to the Time when St. Paul went to Miletus, near Epheſus, Acts 20. 17. For as Timothy was then with him, Acts 20. 4. 15. ſo was not Trophimus then left at Miletum, but carried up thence with St. Paul to Jeruſalem, Acts 21. 29. Nor did St. Paul ever return thither, Acts 20. 25. He muſt be therefore left at Miletus in Crete, where St. Paul was, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, after his firſt Bonds, A. D. 64. Ner. 10.

Ver. 21. Do thy Diligence to come before Winter: Eubulus greeteth thee, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the Brethren.

Ver. 22. The Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with thy Spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epiſtle of St. PAUL to TITUS.

Sect. 1. THAT St. Paul was at Crete, we learn from theſe Words of this Epiſtle to Titus, I left thee in Crete: When he went thither is uncertain. Dr. Lightfoot conjectures that he touched there when he went from Macedonia to Greece, Acts 20. 2. For, ſaith he, if we conſider, that after their parting at Epheſus, when Titus was ſent to Corinth with his Firſt Epiſtle to them, they never met till Titus cometh up to him, when he was come from Epheſus to Macedonia, 2 Cor. 7. 5, 6. We may thence learn, that in that firſt Journey to Macedonia, he left him not at Crete, becauſe Titus and he were not yet met again after their parting at Epheſus; and yet, at his ſecond Return thither, he had not only left him there, but writes to him to come thence to Nicopolis, bordering on Macedonia, Chap. 3. 12. So that this Epiſtle, ſaith he, muſt be writ in his Return, or at his Coming thither, A. D. 55. and not from Nicopolis, as the Poſt-ſcript dates it; for he ſaith not, I have determined to winter ἐνταῦθα, here, but ἐκεῖ, there; which ſhews he was not yet come thither.

Sect. 2. But that it could not be written at that time, the Learned Biſhop Pearſon proves, not only from the Silence of St. Luke in that very Chapter, where he ſo particularly enumerates all St. Paul's Journeys, after he came from Epheſus, till his Arrival at Jeruſalem, without the leaſt mention of his being at Crete; but ſaith expreſly, that, διελθὼν, paſſing through thoſe Parts, (viz. of Macedonia,) and exhorting them with many Words, he came to Achaia, repreſenting him ſtill in tranſitu, and as paſſing immediately from Macedonia to Greece, not going from Macedonia farther beyond it than was to it, and then returning back to Greece, as he muſt have done had he gone from Macedonia to Crete, and ſo to Achaia. 2*dly*, This Opinion he more demonſtratively confutes from theſe Words, Chap. 3. 12. When I ſend to thee Artemas, or Tychicus, make haſt to come unto me, to Nicopolis, for I have determined there to winter; for beſides that, Artemas, before his going to Jeruſalem, ſeems not to have join'd St. Paul, and Tychicus then was part of his Retinue, there is not any mention of St. Paul's going to Nicopolis, in the whole Hiſtory of his journey to Jeruſalem; nor is it poſſible he ſhould then determine to winter at Nicopolis, who being at Philippi, in the Days of unleavened Bread, made all the haſt he could to be at Jeruſalem before Pentecoſt, Acts 20. 6, 16. See more to this purpoſe, Diſſert. 1. de Succeſſ. prim. Romæ Epiſc. c. 9. §. 7. He therefore places St. Paul's Journey to Crete after his Freedom from his Bonds at Rome, A. D. 62. and the 10*th. of* Nero, and ſaith that this Epiſtle was written the Year following: That it was writ after his Freedom from the Bonds, in which he was, from his going to Jeruſalem, till his Freedom at Rome, he gathers from this Note of (a) Chryſoſtom, and Theophylact, that the Apoſtle ſeemeth to have been then at eaſe, as making no mention in it of his Bonds, or his Temptations, as he doth in his Epiſtle to the Epheſians, Chap. 3. 1. and 4. 1. to the Philippians, Chap. 1. 7, 13, 14. to the Coloſſians, Chap. 4. 18. to Philemon, v. 1, 9. and in his Second Epiſtle to Timothy, Chap. 1. 8. and 2. 9. That after his Freedom he determined to go to Philippi in Macedonia, he himſelf intimates, Philip. 1. 26. and 2. 24. And this, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, he did in the 12th. of Nero, in which Year he wrote this Epiſtle. And that a little before he had been at Crete, may be gathered from thoſe Words, 2 Tim. 4. 20. Trophimus have I left at Miletum, ſick; which cannot be underſtood of Miletus near Epheſus, mention'd Acts 20. 17. for from thence he carried him to Jeruſalem, Acts 21. 29. never returning thither, Acts 20. 25. He muſt be therefore left ſick at Miletus in Crete, mentioned by (b) Homer and by (*) Strabo.

Sect. 2. It is the Opinion of all the Ancient Commentators upon this Epiſtle, that Titus was left in Crete, not only to ordain Biſhops in every City, and Deacons to miniſter to them, and rebuke ſharply, and with Authority, unruly Walkers; but this Epiſtle was writ to him, ſay the (a) Ancients, to make him watchful over, and to oppoſe himſelf againſt the Jews and Judaizers in that Iſland, as many Paſſages in this Epiſtle do ſufficiently demonſtrate.

Sect. 4. But the great Controverſie concerning this, and the Epiſtle to Timothy, is, whether Timothy and Titus were indeed made Biſhops, the one of Epheſus and the Proconſulat Aſia, the other of Crete, having Authority to make (d) ὦ πάσων ἐπισκόπων κέλευ, and Juriſdiction over ſo many Biſhops as were in thoſe Precincts. Now of this Matter, I confeſs I can find nothing in any Writer of the firſt three Centuries, nor any Intimation that they bore that Name: But this Defect is abundantly ſupplied by the concurrent Suffrage of the Fourth and the Fifth Centuries. For,

1*ſt. As for St.* Timothy, he is ſtyled Biſhop of Epheſus by (e) Euſebius, and that with a Reſpect to former Hiſtories; and the ſame he ſaith of Titus. And the Council of (f) Chalcedon reckons from Timothy to their Time twenty ſeven Biſhops. The (g) Anonymous Author of his Life, in Photius, makes him Biſhop of the Metropolis of Epheſus, with ſeven Aſſiſtants; and either he, or Photius, ſay, that he was conſtituted Biſhop by St. Paul; and the (h) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions ſay the ſame, as do alſo (i) St. Jerom, and all the Ancient Commentators on his Epiſtles.

2*dly, That* Titus had τὴν νῆσον ὁλόκληρον, the whole Iſland of Crete committed to his Care, is teſtified not only by Euſebius, but alſo by St. Jerom in his Catalogue, by St. Ambroſe, Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, in the Preface to this Epiſtle, to omit many others cited by Dr. Cave in the Life of Titus, p. 58, 59. Now to paſs my Judgment in this Caſe.

1*ſt. I aſſert, that if by ſaying* Timothy and Titus were Biſhops, the one of Epheſus, the other of Crete, we underſtand that they took upon them thoſe Churches or Dioceſes, as their fixed and peculiar Charge, in which they were to preſide for Term of Life, I believe that Timothy and Titus were not thus Biſhops. For,

1*ſt. Both* Timothy and Titus were Evangeliſts, and therefore were to do the Work of an Evangeliſt: Now the Work of an Evangeliſt, ſaith (k) Euſebius, was this, to lay the Foundations of the Faith in barbarous Nations, to conſtitute them Paſtors, and having committed to them the Cultivating of thoſe new Plantations, they paſs'd on to other Countries and Nations.

2*dly, As for* Titus, he was only left at Crete to ordain Elders in every City, and to ſet in order the things that were wanting; having therefore done that Work, he had done all that was aſſign'd him in that Station: And therefore St. Paul ſends for him the very next Year to Nicopolis, Tit. 3. 12. And ſo, according to Biſhop Pearſon's Chronology, he was left at Crete only, A. D. 64. and ſent for thence, A. D. 65. and returned thither, as the Ancients conjecture, after the Death of St. Paul: For, (1) they ſay, he died in the 94*th. Year of his Age, and was buried in* Crete.

As for Timothy, St. Paul ſaith, he exhorted him to abide at Epheſus when he went into Macedonia: Now, as he writes to the Church of Philippi in Macedonia, A. D. 62. and the 9*th. of* Nero, that he hoped to be ſhortly with them, Philip. 1. 25, 26. and 2. 24. So, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, he went thither, A. D. 64. and the 11*th. of* Nero, and writ his firſt Epiſtle to him, A. D. 65. Two Years after this, he ſends for him to Rome, 2 Tim. 4. 9, 21. and there he continued, as the Ancients conjecture, till the Martyrdom of St. Paul; after which time he must, as they suppose, return to Ephesus: For they tell us, that in the Reign of Domitian he was martyr'd in that City, and lay buried there. But since we read not any thing in Scripture of their Return to either of these Places afterwards, and the Authorities on which this Return dependeth are not very Ancient, we cannot much depend upon them.

Prop. 2. But if by Bishops we only understand Persons who had Authority to ordain, and to govern the Clergy of their Province, and to exercise Acts of Discipline, and Censure, over more than one single Congregation, I believe both Timothy and Titus had this Episcopal Jurisdiction, and so might properly be stiled Bishops. For,

1*st. That the Jurisdiction of* Titus extended to all the Christians in the whole Island of Crete, is apparent from these Words, For this Cause left I thee in Crete, that thou mightest set in order the things that are wanting, and ordain Elders in every City, Titus 1. 5. Hence is he said to have received the Episcopal Care, ἧς δὴ Κρήτης ἐκκλησιῶν, and to have had the whole Island committed to him.

And if the Church of Ephesus, committed to the Care of Timothy, did not exceed the Compass of one particular Congregation, St. Paul had very little Success in the great Pains he took for three whole Years to teach them publickly, and from House to House, exhorting every one of them Night and Day, Acts 20. 20, 31. whereas St. Paul himself informs us, that at Ephesus a great Door, and effectual, was open'd to him, 1 Cor. 16. 8, 9. St. Luke, that all that dwelt in Asia heard the Word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Gentiles; that the Word of God prevailed, and grew mightily, and that Fear fell upon them all, and the Name of the Lord Jesus was magnified, Acts 19. 10, 17, 20. But that which puts this Matter beyond doubt, is the Observation of the Learned Bishop Stillingfleet, That the Elders St. Paul sends for to Miletus, were all of Ephesus, and to them he commits not only the Church of Ephesus, but all the Flock over which the Holy Ghost had made them Overseers, i. e. all that had been converted in Asia, through his means, during his Abode there three Years. Irenæus indeed saith, he summon'd them from the neighbouring Cities as well as Ephesus: But, saith he, St. Paul was in so great hast, that he would not so much as go to Ephesus, nor send any whither but to that City; and yet those to whom he committed the whole Flock, then in Asia, came from Ephesus to Miletus: Which makes it probable, that there St. Paul had raised a Nursery for the Churches thereabout, as Clemens observes the Apostles were wont to do in fruitful Soils, with a Prospect of such Churches as were to be formed, τῶν μελλόντων πιστεύειν, of those that should after believe; and the same St. Clement observing that they did this, δοκιμάσαντες τῷ πνεύματι, making Trial of them by their spiritual Gifts, he very probably conjectures, that the twelve Persons, who, when he laid his Hands upon them, received the Holy Ghost, and spake with Tongues, and prophesied, Acts 19. 6, 7. being thus qualified in an extraordinary manner, to be Teachers of others, might be in the Number of those Elders whom St. Paul charges to take heed to themselves, and to all the Flock over which the Holy Ghost had made them Overseers, v. 28.

As to the Jurisdiction belonging to them in their several Districts, it is also manifest concerning Timothy, that he was set over the House of God, 1 Tim. 3. 14, 15. That in that House he was to ordain, and lay Hands on the Elders to be chosen to that Office, Chap. 5. 22. to chuse such to the Episcopal Office, or to the Office of Elders, who were duly qualified for that Work, Chap. 3. 2, 7. to admit and consecrate others to the Office of Deacons, v. 8. to take Widows into the Number of Deconnesses, under such Qualifications, and to refuse others, Chap. 5. 9, 11. to receive Accusations against the Elders, Chap. 5. 19. and to rebuke them, v. 20. Which plainly shews there was a Right of Judging and Censuring Offenders in Timothy, by virtue of his Office. He had Power also to order the Maintenance of the Elders, v. 17. to take care that the Publick Offices of Divine Worship were performed regularly, Chap. 2. 1, 8. to charge others not to teach any other Doctrine than what they had received, Chap. 1. 3. to command and teach with Authority, Chap. 4. 11. and not to suffer others to despise his Authority, v. 12. And all these things seem plainly to belong to the Trust committed to him, Ch. 6. 20.

And as for Titus, 'tis certain he was left in Crete, by St. Paul, to set in order the things which were wanting, Chap. 1. 5. and in order to this end, to inspect the Qualifications of them who were to be admitted to the Episcopal Office, v. 7. and so to ordain Elders in every City. And he was also to admonish and reject Hereticks, Chap. 3. 10.

Now I confess, that these two Instances, absolutely taken, afford us no convincing Arguments for a settled Diocesan Episcopacy, because there is nothing which proves they did, or were to exercise these Acts of Government, rather as Bishops than Evangelists; for it is certain that the Order of Evangelists was superiour to that of Governments, and so included an Authority to do those Acts of Government. Accordingly, in those Places where these Evangelists preached, they did (m) πανταχοῦ ordaining, conſtitute Paſtors, and then went on to preach in other places. Yet theſe Things evidently follow hence.

1. That ſuch Superiority over other Paſtors cannot be contrary to the Goſpel-Rule; or that the Nature of Church-Government doth not imply an Equality among the Governors of it: And that the Apoſtles, if they pleaſed, might have fixed Perſons in any other Churches, to exerciſe theſe Acts of Eccleſiaſtical Authority and Juriſdiction, as well as St. Paul placed theſe two Perſons, the one at Epheſus, the other at Crete, for theſe Ends.

2. That it is not repugnant to the Conſtitutions of Churches in the Apoſtolical Times, for Men to have Juriſdiction over more than one particular Congregation; for ſuch a Power Titus had over all Crete, and Timothy over many Elders; which had it been contrary to the Nature of Church-Government, would not have been permitted, and much leſs ordained, by St. Paul, in any of the Churches planted by him.

3. Hence alſo it appears, that the Apoſtolical Power of Governing Churches, and Ordaining Elders in them, was not ſo limited to the Perſons of the Apoſtles, but that it might be communicated to others whom the Apoſtles would intruſt with it; and therefore might be continued in the Church after their Deceaſe: And if it be granted that ſuch an Apoſtolical Power of Governing Churches might be committed to others, and was actually ſo by the Apoſtles, it remains only to enquire whether, upon their Remove, or Departure, they did intruſt any Perſons in ſuch a manner as it is certain from Scripture, St. Paul did Timothy, as to the Churches of Aſia: Of which we ſhall diſcourſe hereafter.

4. From thoſe Words, The Things which thou haſt heard from me, confirm'd by many Witneſſes, commit thou to faithful Men, who ſhall be able to teach others alſo, it may be fairly argued, that the Apoſtle here appoints St. Timothy to (n) conſtitute a Succeſſion of Men veſted with Eccleſiaſtical Authority to teach them, and command others to obſerve them. And from thoſe Words to Titus, I left thee in Crete to ordain Elders, κατὰ πόλιν, ὡς ἐγώ σοι διεταξάμην, in every City, as I order'd thee, Tit. 1. 5. For a Biſhop muſt be blameleſs, as the Steward of God, v. 7. 'Tis alſo fairly gather'd, that a Succeſſion of Biſhops was to be conſtituted in every City, as Perſons that were to take care of the Church of God there, 1 Tim. 3. 5. And my Conjecture is, that St. Paul, after his Liberty from his firſt Bonds, having travell'd into Spain and Judea, and from thence to Macedonia, began to ſettle this Church-Government in all the Churches where they before were wanting; that ſo, after his Death, they might be all provided with them. That upon this Account Titus was ſent by him to Crete, chap. 1. 5. and afterwards to Dalmatia, 2 Tim. 4. 11. And that the Firſt Epiſtle to Timothy was not writ to him to require him to ſtay at Epheſus, where Biſhops had been ſettled long before, but to inſtruct him how to behave himſelf in the Church of God in general, chap. 3. 15. doing the Office of an Evangeliſt, by ordaining Church-Governors where he found them wanting, and ordering other Matters, as he ſaw them needful, in any of thoſe Places to which he reſorted. But then, if we take in the Suffrage of Antiquity, and conſult them who were neareſt to the Fountain of Church-Government, we ſhall find ſtill greater Reaſon to believe that it was Διάταξις Ἀποστολική, an Apoſtolical Ordinance to appoint Biſhops, with the chief Juriſdiction over Cities: For we find plainly, by the fore-mention'd Inſtances, that the Apoſtles had this Power in themſelves, and did convey it to ſome others; but whether they did this univerſally, and with a Deſign to continue this Order, being an Enquiry about Matter of Fact, muſt be prov'd by the beſt Means we can uſe in a Matter of Fact of ſo great Antiquity. Now there can be no ſtronger Proof of ſuch a Matter of Fact, than the general Senſe, and concurring Practice of the Chriſtian Church in the Ages next ſucceeding the Apoſtles. And this general Senſe of the Chriſtian Church may be demonſtrated,

1. From undoubted Teſtimonies affording a clear Evidence of this Succeſſion in the moſt conſpicuous Churches. And as for the undoubted Teſtimonies of this Succeſſion in the moſt conſpicuous Churches, I ſhall firſt appeal, ſaith the learned Biſhop of Worceſter, to Irenæus and Tertullian, as leaſt liable to Exception. The former not only mentions a Succeſſion of Perſons to the Apoſtles, but he ſaith, (o) the Apoſtles committed the Care of the Churches to them, and left them to ſucceed in their Places. Which implies, that as the Apoſtles had themſelves the Care of Adminiſtring the Church, and the Power of Governing, and Preſiding over it, ſo they committed it to the Biſhops whom they choſe to ſucceed them. Tertullian not only mentions them in general who ſucceeded the (p) Apoſtles, but particularly inſtances in Polycarp, placed by St. John at Smyrna; and Clemens, by St. Peter at Rome; and then adds, That the other Churches had Biſhops placed in them, like to theſe. So that what Authority St. Clemens had at Rome, and Polycarp at Smyrna, that Tertullian affirms the Biſhops had in other Churches. Now Irenæus ſaith, that Linus and Clemens had the Epiſcopal Power of governing the Church. And as for Polycarp, he, even by the (q) Jews, and Gentiles, was ſtiled ὁ τῆς Ἀσίας διδάσκαλος, the Maſter, or Teacher of Aſia: By (r) St. Jerome, πάσης τῆς Ἀσίας ἀρχηγός, the Governor of all Aſia: And by (ſ) Ignatius, συβερνήτης, the Governor of the Church of Smyrna.

Add to this, thoſe Words of Mr. Dodwell, to thoſe who deny'd the Preſidency of Biſhops over the Church in thoſe Ages: What can they ſay to the Angels in the Revelations? What to the Teſtimony of Irenæus, concerning St. Polycarp? What to the Teſtimony of (t) Clemens Alexandrinus, who mentions Biſhops, among other Officers of the Church, ſettled by St. John? What to the Teſtimony of (u) Hegeſippus, who makes the Kinſmen of our Saviour, ἡγήσαντας τῆς ἐκκλησίων, to have been Governors of the Churches, from Domitian's Time to that of Trajan? What to thoſe who mention (x) St. James as made Biſhop of Jeruſalem by the Apoſtles themſelves? What of the Seven Polycrates mentions as Biſhops in his own See, before himſelf? Nay, What to all thoſe Catalogues of Biſhops ſucceeding in the Four Patriarchal Sees; particularly, the Fifteen in Jeruſalem, from St. James, to the Deſtruction of the Jews under Hadrian? Nay, What to the Succeſſion of all the Apoſtolical Sees, to which the Fathers of the Second Century do ſo ſolemnly appeal, to prove their own Doctrine Apoſtolical in oppoſition to the contrary Pretences of the Hereticks? Can they think them all to have been either wilful Forgeries, or general Miſtakes in a Matter of Fact ſo near their own Time, without ſo much as any likely Ground in Hiſtory? How will they then aſſure us that they were not miſtaken in delivering to us the Books of the Apoſtles, which were not more notorious to them than their Government.

2. This general Senſe of the Church may be demonſtrated from the Unreaſonableneſs of the Suppoſition, that the Form of Government left to the Churches by the Apoſtles, ſhould be ſo quickly changed as they ſuppoſe who do conceive that the Apoſtles left no Governors ſuperiour to Presbyters, or Paſtors of one Congregation, in the Church: For it is clearly proved by the learned Biſhop of Cheſter, that the Writers of the Second Century diſtinctly mention the ſeveral Orders of Biſhops, and their inferiour Presbyters in the ſame Church, and thereby give us Reaſon to conclude that Diſparity was ſettled in that Age, and therefore it is very improbable it ſhould be otherwiſe in the preceeding Age of the Apoſtles; for that in the Frame and Subſtance of the eſtabliſh'd Government of the Church, a thing always in Uſe and Practice, there ſhould be ſo ſudden a Change, ſo univerſal a Corruption in ſo ſhort a Time: And that all Chriſtians, all the degraded Clergy, without the leaſt Degree of Oppoſition that we meet with, or we read of, ſhould conſpire in, or conſent to this Innovation, and Corruption, is a thing morally impoſſible: For, as Tertullian argues in like Caſe, (y) What all Chriſtian Churches did ſo early agree in practiſing uniformly, came not by Error, but by Tradition. The Improbability of this ſudden and general Innovation will be further evident, if we conſider,

1. The Subjects of this Conſtitution, viz. the Perſons appointed by the Apoſtles, or Apoſtolical Men, to govern and preſide in every Church, they being conſtant Objects of every Perſon's Common Senſe, ſeen in every Aſſembly, employ'd in every Eccleſiaſtical Affair, publick or private, in which Chriſtians, ſick or well, living or dying, were concern'd. Now in a Matter of this kind, which was the daily Object of the Senſes of all Chriſtians, we cannot eaſily conceive how they could poſſibly miſtake, and not perceive that ſuch a Change was made, if really it was done.

Again, We ſhall be more convinc'd that this was not perform'd by Conſpiracy, or by a joint Conſent of Chriſtians, to make this Alteration in that Form of Government which the Apoſtles had eſtabliſh'd, if we conſider,

1. The general Agreement of all Churches in this Matter, ſince not one ſingle Church can be produced in which this Government did not obtain. For how can we imagine that in a Time when no General Council could meet to appoint it, and when there were no Chriſtian

Princes

Princes to ſet it forward on a political Account; and when by reaſon of the Heat of Perſecution, and the Diſtance of Chriſtian Churches, there was ſo little Commerce and Intercourſe between them, from the Churches of Armenia and Perſia in the Eaſt, to thoſe of Spain in the Weſt; from the African Churches in the South, to our Britiſh Churches in the North, this Conſtitution ſhould univerſally be received, and ſubmitted to, if it had not been eſtabliſh'd by the Apoſtles, or the firſt Founders of thoſe Churches?

2. If we conſider how much it did concern all Churches, that ſuch an Innovation ſhould not obtain amongſt them, and tamely be ſubmitted to; for all the People were oblig'd to know the Governors to which they were by Scripture oblig'd to ſubmit, and ſo they could not yield to this Innovation without the greateſt Danger to their Souls; the Presbyters, if they had by the Apoſtles been advanced to the higheſt Power, would not ſo meekly have ſubmitted to an Authority uſurp'd over them; but either out of a juſt Zeal to aſſert their Freedom, or out of Indignation at the Inſolence of the uſurping Biſhops, or out of that Unwillingneſs to ſubmit and obey, which is natural to all Men, would have aſſerted their Equality.

3. This will be further evident if we conſider, that even the Perſons then exalted could have no Motive or Temptation to accept of this Advancement; for Men do not eaſily deſire a Change, but upon proſpect of ſome Eaſe, or Temporal Advantage; much leſs when they perceive the Change is like to add to their Trouble, and increaſe their Danger. Now this was really the Caſe of the firſt Chriſtian Biſhops, they being ſtill expoſed to the ſharpeſt Fury of their Perſecutors, and commonly begun with firſt when any Storm was rais'd againſt the Church: Their Labours alſo were very great, for the Care of the Flock lay on them, and they were unweary'd in the Diſcharge of the Paſtoral Care. Can we then reaſonably think that they could be ſo fond of ſo much Toil and Peril, as to violate the Inſtitution of the Bleſſed Jeſus, or his Apoſtles, to obtain it?

Paraphraſe with Annotations

ON THE

Epiſtle of St. PAUL to TITUS.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. PAul a Servant of God, and an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, according to (κατὰ, for the Promotion of) the Faith of God's Elect, and the Acknowledgment of the Truth which is after Godlineſs.

Δοῦλος Θεοῦ, A Servant of God.] He writes not this to confirm his Authority to Titus, who doubted not at all of it; but to confirm it to others with whom he did converſe, or to whom this Epiſtle might come; it being of uſe, not only to direct Titus then, but all Biſhops and Rulers of the Church for ever.

Κατὰ πίστιν, For the Promotion of the Faith of God's Elect;] i. e. the Faith of Chriſtians in the general, they being all γένος ἐκλεκτὸν, an elect Generation, 1 Pet. 2. 9. and St. Paul, being an Apoſtle, in reference to them all, to them to whom he was a Savour of Death, as well as to them to whom he was a Savour of Life, 2 Cor. 2. 16.

Τῆς κατ' εὐσέβειαν ἀληθείας, The Truth which is after Godlineſs;] The Myſtery of Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 3. 16. The Doctrine which is after Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 3. This Truth is therefore only neceſſary to be believ'd ſo far as that Belief is neceſſary to an holy Life.

Ver. 2. In (ἐπ', with that) Hope of Eternal Life, which God that cannot lye (hath) promiſed before the World began.

Ver. 3. But hath in due times manifeſted (ἐφανέρωσε δὲ καιροῖς ἰδίοις, and hath in its proper Seaſon manifeſted this) his Word (of Promiſe,) through preaching (of it to the Gentiles,) which (Office) was committed to me, according to the Commandment of God our Saviour.

Note, By comparing theſe two Verſes with thoſe Words in Timothy, He hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy Calling; not according to our Works, but according to his own purpoſe, and Grace, which was given us in Chriſt Jeſus, πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, before the World began; but is now made manifeſt by the appearing of our Saviour Chriſt, who hath aboliſhed Death, and hath brought Life and Immortality to light, through the Goſpel: Whereunto I am appointed a Preacher, and an Apoſtle, and a Teacher of the Gentiles, 2 Tim. 1. 9, 10, 11. I ſay, from theſe Words compar'd together, it may be inferr'd,

1. That the Promiſe of Eternal Life, mention'd in both places, is the Promiſe of Calling thoſe Gentiles to whom St. Paul was an Apoſtle, to the Faith which had the Promiſe of Eternal Life annexed to it: For this Promiſe God is ſaid to have perform'd by St. Paul's preaching this Word of Life to the Gentiles.

2. That this Hope of Eternal Life was not made manifeſt till the appearing of our Saviour, and the preaching of his Goſpel to the World; he having brought Life and Immortality to light by the Goſpel, 2 Tim. 1. 10. and manifeſted the Hope of it by the preaching of the Word of Faith.

3. Seeing no ſuch Promiſe could be made to Men, no ſuch Grace given to them before there were any Men in the World, thoſe Words, πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, cannot properly be render'd, before the World began; but as Chryſoſtom, Theodoret and Oecumenius render them, ἄνωθεν ἐξ ἀρχῆς, of old Time, or from the Beginning. So the Revelation of the Calling of the Gentiles is ſtiled the Revelation of the Myſtery, χρόνοις αἰωνίοις σεσιγημένου, kept ſecret from Men ſince the World began, Rom. 16. 25. but now manifeſted by the Scriptures of the Prophets. This Promiſe therefore was contain'd in the Writings of the Prophets, and either muſt relate to the Promiſe made to Adam immediately after the Fall, that the Seed of the Woman ſhould break the Serpent's Head, which was a Promiſe made from the Beginning, and πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, before any of the three Ages of the World were paſs'd; or to the Promiſe made to Abraham, that in his Seed ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed, which was a Promiſe made a long time ago, and before the firſt Age of the World expir'd. So Zacharias ſpeaks of the Promiſe of the Meſſias, made διὰ στόματος ἁγίων τῶν ἀπ' αἰῶνος προφητῶν, by the holy Prophets, from the Beginning, Luk. 1. 70.

Ver. 4. (I Paul write this) to Titus, mine own Son after the common Faith (wiſhing to him) Grace, Mercy and Peace from God the Father, and (from) our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Titus

Ver. 5. (Advertiſing thee, that) For this Cauſe left I thee in Crete, that thou ſhouldſt ſet in order the things that (as yet) are wanting, and ordain Elders in every City, as I had appointed thee.

Πρεσβυτέρους.] Hence it appears, that at the firſt Converſion of the Cretians to the Faith, they had no Biſhops or Presbyters ſet over them, but had all their Church-Offices performed by Men aſſiſted by that Holy Spirit which God ſhed on them abundantly, through Faith in Chriſt, Chap. 3. 6. tho' out of theſe Biſhops and Deacons uſually were choſen.

Ver. 6. If any be blameleſs, the Husband of one Wife, (neither guilty of Polygamy, nor married again, after divorce from his former Wife. See Note on 1 Tim. 3. 2.) having faithful Children, not accuſed of Riot, or unruly.

Μιᾶς γυναικὸς ἀνήρ.] Here Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, Theophylact, have well obſerved, againſt the Hereticks and Papiſts, that Marriage is ſo honourable, that any Clergy-man may aſcend to the Epiſcopal Throne with it, διὰ μετ' ἀυτὸ ἡ δεῖ τ ἄγιον θρόνον ἀναβαίνειν, Chryſoſt. Theoph. Yea, that he may do the Office of a Biſhop, and retain the Nuptial Bed, ὁ δυναμένη ἡ μετὰ γάμου ἐπισκοπῆς περιοῦν τινός. Oecum.

Ver. 7. For a Biſhop muſt be blameleſs, as (being) the Steward of God, not ſelf-will'd, not ſoon angry, not given to Wine, no Striker, not given to filthy Lucre.

Ἀνέγκλητον εἶναι, I left thee in Crete to ordain Elders, if any be blameleſs, for a Biſhop muſt be blameleſs.] Hence, ſay the Greek and Latin Commentators, it is manifeſt that the ſame Perſon is called a Presbyter in the 5th. and a Biſhop in the 7th. Verſe, Καὶ ἐντεῦθεν ἡμῖν οἱ τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους ἐπισκόπους ὠνόμαζον, οὐκοῦν ὁ ἐν τοῖς ἑπτὰ κατὰ πόλιν Πρεσβυτέρους, ἐπίσκοπε, διὸ ὁ ἐνταῦθα ἀνέγκλητον εἶναι, ὡς ἐκεῖ δὲ πόλεσι ἓν ἐπισκόπους, ἀλλὰ Πρεσβυτέρους ὄντας πόλλους, Theodoret. When he had ſaid, I left thee in Crete, that thou mighteſt ordain Presbyters in every City, (a) Poſtea intulit, oportet enim epiſcopum ſine crimine eſſe tanquan Dei diſpenſatorem, idem eſt ergo Presbyter qui Epiſcopus. The Reverend and Learned Biſhop Pearſon proves from St. Clemens of Alexandria, Tertullian, and Origen, that in their Judgment the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Presbyters properly ſo called; as doth alſo Theodoret from this Argument, That the Apoſtle requires Presbyters in the Plural to be ordain'd in every City, whereas there was to be only one ſingle Biſhop in a City. But I find no Anſwer to the Argument, that the ſame Perſon is a Presbyter in the 5th. who is a Biſhop in the 7th. Verſe; and therefore I ſtill incline to the Opinion of Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, St. Jerom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, that the Names were then common.

Ver. 8. A Lover of Hoſpitality, a Lover of good Men, (or things,) ſober, (or prudent,) juſt, holy, temperate.

Φιλόξενον, a Lover of Hoſpitality.] Not in the modern Senſe of keeping Hoſpitality, that is, a great Table for Perſons of Quality to come to, but, ſay St. Chryſoſtom and Theophylact, τὸ ἀυτῷ τῶν ξένων περιποιεῖσθαι ἡ τῆς λεμίσεως, one ſo far from filthy Lucre, that he ſpends what he has upon the Stranger, and the Poor. Σώφρονα· ὃ τ ἐγκρατῆ ὄντα μόνον ἐνταῦθα, ἀλλὰ τ πάθους κρατοῦντα, He ſaith, Sober, i. e. not one that is much in faſting, but an exact Governor of his Paſſions, his Tongue, Hands, and Eyes.

Ver. 9. Holding faſt the faithful Word, as he hath been taught, (κατὰ τ διδαχὴν, according to the Doctrine of Chriſt and his Apoſtles,) that he may be able by ſound Doctrine both to exhort, (both to admoniſh, or inſtruct in ſound Doctrine,) and to convince the Gainſayer.

Ver. 10. For there are many unruly and vain Talkers (in Crete,) and Deceivers (of Mens Minds,) eſpecially thoſe of the Circumciſion.

Μάλιστα δὲ οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς.] He does not ſay, eſpecially thoſe Gentiles or Samaritans, who are Advocates for the Obſervation of the Jewiſh Law, but οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς, they of the Circumciſion, which throughout the New Teſtament, ſignifies the Jews, Men of that Nation and Religion, ſo Acts 10. 45. And οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς, the Jews which came with Peter were amazed when they ſaw the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt poured out upon the Gentiles, Acts 11. 2. οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς, the Jews contended with Peter, ſaying, Thou wenteſt in to Men uncircumciſed, and didſt eat with them. See Rom. 4. 12. 15. 8. Gal. 2. 7, 8, 9. Eph. 2. 11. Col. 4. 11. Moreover, the Gnoſticks and Simonians were ſo far from being Advocates for the Obſervation of the Jewiſh Law, that it was one part of their Doctrine, νόμῳ ἡ προφήταις μὴ χρῆσθαι, (b) That no Man ſhould obſerve the Law or the Prophets. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 7. They therefore cannot be the Men here intended.

Ver. 11. Whoſe Mouths muſt be ſtopt, who ſubvert whole Houſes, teaching things which they ought not (to teach,) for filthy Lucre's ſake.

Προφήτης, a Prophet of their own.] Theodoret expreſly ſays this Poet was Callimachus; Oecumenius and Theophylact cite the Words of Callimachus, and ſo doth Chryſoſtom, tho' he confeſſes the Poet was Epimenides. Callimachus it could not be; for he was no Cretian, but a Cyrenian, nor hath he this whole Verſe, but only the beginning of it, Κρῆτες ἀεὶ ψεῦσται, which, ſaith St. Jerom, he borrowed from Epimenides, who by (c) Plato is ſtyled ἀνὴρ θεῖος, by (d) Diodorus Siculus, ὁ θεολόγος, the Divine; by (e) Diogenes Laertius, θεσπιλέσατος, and γνωσιώτατος, one skilful in Divination; by (f) Cicero, futura præſentiens & vaticinans per furorem, one that foretold things future by Extaſie; by (g) Plutarch, σοφὸς περὶ τὰ θεῖα, a wiſe Man concerning divine things; by (h) Apuleius, Fatidicus, a Sooth-ſayer; by Maximus Tyrius, δεινὸς περὶ θεῖα, one skill'd in divine things; by (i) Dion Pruſæenſis, and the Apoſtle here, one of their Prophets.

Ἔλεγχε αὐτὺς ἀποτόμως, Rebuke them ſharply.] If theſe Words relate to the Cretians, deceived by the Jews, as the Verſe following ſeems to hint, they are fitly tranſlated, Rebuke them ſharply: To be ſound in the Faith, is, ſay Oecumenius and Theophylact, to retain it ſo as it was delivered by the Apoſtles, without adding any thing to it from Judaiſm or Gentiliſm, and eſpecially without adding to it the Neceſſity of obſerving the Jewiſh Law or Rites by the Gentiles.

Ver. 14. Not giving heed to Jewiſh Fables or Commandments of Men who turn from the Faith.

Ἰουδαϊκοῖς μύθοις.] By Jewiſh Fables ſome here underſtand the Gnoſticks Cabbaliſtical Interpretations of the Old Teſtament; but, 1ſt. if we look into Irenæus we ſhall find their ſenſeleſs Interpretations chiefly related to the New Teſtament. Their 30 Æones they gathered from the 30 Years our Saviour ſpent in Silence, before he preached, and from the Parable of thoſe who wrought in the Vineyard, and from St. Paul, from whom he ſhews, L. 1. c. 1. p. 16. 18. they gathered moſt of their wild Fancies, and ſo they muſt in time be after the writing of his Epiſtles. 2dly, It does not appear that the Cabbaliſtick Jews had any ſuch Interpretations as favour'd the mad Doctrine of the Gnoſticks. The Fathers therefore generally interpret theſe Words of the vain Traditions of the Jews, eſpecially concerning Meats, and other things, to be abſtain'd from as unclean, which our Lord alſo ſtyles the Doctrine of Men, Matth. 15. 9. and of the Teachers of them, St. Paul, in his Epiſtle to Timothy, ſaith, that they were turned from the Faith, 1 Tim. 1. 5, 6. And this, ſaith Oecumenius, is evident from the enſuing Words.

Ver. 15. (For whatſoever they may ſay, or think, concerning unclean Meats, Perſons, or Things,) To the pure (the Gentile, whoſe Heart is purify'd by Faith,) all things are pure (in their uſe;) but unto them that (though they count themſelves the only pure Perſons,) are defiled, and unbelieving, is nothing (truly) pure, (or lawfully and acceptably performed,) but even their Mind and Conſcience is defiled, (and by that their Actions.)

Ver. 16. They profeſs that they know God, (above others, Rom. 2. 17.) but in Works they (practically) deny him, being abominable (now to him, to whom they were once beloved,) and diſobedient, and to every good Work reprobate.

It is the Opinion of all the Ancient Commentators upon this Place, That the Apoſtle ſpeaks this Adverſus Judæos againſt the Jews, nor is there any thing ſaid in theſe two Verſes which may not be applied to them. For,

1. We have obſerv'd already how the Scripture gives thoſe very Names to the unbelieving Jews which they were wont to give unto the Gentiles, ſtyling them Dogs, Philip. 3. 2. as they ſtyled the Gentiles, and Veſſels of Wrath, Rom. 9. 22, 1 Theſſ. 2. 16. who thought themſelves the only Veſſels of Mercy, and here defiled, who counted themſelves the only pure Servants of God, Nehem. 2. 20.

2. Of

2. Of their Profession to know God, when in Works they denied him, the Apostle gives a large Account, Rom. 2. from v. 17, to v. 25. and again, Chap. 3. from v. 10, to v. 19. That they were abominable in the Sight of God, our Lord not only saith of the Pharisees, Luke 16. 15. but St. Paul of the Jews in general, declaring, that they pleas'd not God; yea, they were so displeasing to him, that Wrath was come upon them to the uttermost, 1 Thess. 2. 15, 16. Of their Disobedience to the Law, we read in the fore-cited Places of the Romans, and of their evil Works, Philip. 3. 2. 2 Cor. 11, 13, 15. And, Lastly, that a defiled Mind and Conscience defiled all their Actions, even those that were done according to the Will and the Command of God, see Isa. 1. 11, 16. 66. 3. Jer. 6. 20. Amos 5. 21, 22.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. BUT (howsoever they live and teach) speak thou the things which become sound Doctrine.

Ver. 2. (To wit,) That the aged Men be sober, grave, temperate, sound in Faith, (sincere) in Charity, and (constant in) Patience.

Πρεσβύτας, the Aged.] See the Note on Philemon 9. So the Word signifies in all the other Places of the New Testament, where it is found; so ἐγὼ γὰρ εἰμὶ πρεσβύτης, I am aged, saith Zacharias, Luke 1. 18. and Παῦλος πρεσβύτης, is Paul the aged, Philemon 9. And in this Sense, the true St. Jerom, and all the Greek Commentators on the Place, expound it. The Reverend Dr. Hammond thinks it here signifies Church-Officers, and in particular the Deacons mentioned by Timothy, after the Bishops, 1 Tim. 3. But of five Qualifications there required of the Deacons, v. 8. the Apostle here mentions only one, that of Gravity; nor is it necessary that these πρεσβύτας should be Church-Officers, because the Apostle here enumerates their Qualifications: For, as St. Jerom on the Place observes, he reckons up the Qualifications of the younger Women, v. 4, 5. and of the younger Men, v. 6. and of the Servants, v. 9, 10. But hence it will not follow that they were Church-Officers; nor, 2dly, Because Titus was sent to ordain such. For we find not that he was sent to ordain any but Presbyters or Bishops, Chap. 1. 5, 7. though doubtless he did ordain Deacons to attend them.

Ver. 3. That the aged Women likewise be in Behaviour, (in Habit and Gesture,) as becometh Holiness; not false Accusers, not given to much Wine, Teachers of good things, (of Piety, Charity, Chastity to those with whom they do converse.)

Ver. 4. That they may teach the young Women to be sober, to love their Husbands, to love their Children.

Ver. 5. To be discreet, chast, keepers at home, good, obedient to their own Husbands, that the Word of God be not blasphemed, (by reason of their Crimes.)

Πρεσβύτιδας.] That the aged Women here import the Deaconesses of the Church, some of the Commentators say was the Opinion of some Ancients; and indeed they were so necessary, 1. For the Baptism of Women, when that was performed by dipping, as in the Apostle's Days it was: And, 2dly, for the converting some young Women to, and the instructing others in the Faith they had already own'd; which aged Women, tho' not permitted to speak in the Church, might do in private Houses, without Scandal, but the Apostles, and a young Timothy, could scarcely do without Suspicion: That for these Reasons I doubt not but this Office obtain'd in the first Preaching of the Gospel.

Ver. 6. Young Men likewise exhort to be sober-minded, (Gr. σωφρονεῖν, to govern not only their concupiscible but their irascible Passions.)

Ver. 7. In all things shewing thy self a Pattern of Good Works, in Doctrines shewing Uncorruptness, Gravity, Sincerity.

Ἀφθορίαν, Sincerity.] This Word is not to be found in Chrysostom, Theophylact, nor in many Copies.

Ver. 8. Sound Speech that cannot be condemned, that he that is of the contrary part (whether Jew or Gentile,) may be ashamed (of their Opposition to you,) having no evil thing to say of you.

The Doctrine to be preach'd must be pure, and free from all corrupt Mixtures; it must be entire, so as to want nothing necessary to be known; it must be such as is ὑγιὴς, wholsome, and beneficial to the Hearer; it must be delivered with Gravity, and with Care, that there be nothing spoken which may be subject to Reprehension.

Ver. 9. Exhort Servants to be obedient to their own Masters, and to please them in all (lawful) things, not answering again.

Μὴ ἀντιλέγοντας.] Not murmuring against their Commands, nor contradicting them, but only with Submission pleading their own Cause, for that even Nature doth allow.

Ver. 10. Not purloining (or filching from their Masters,) but shewing all good Fidelity, that they may adorn the Doctrine of God our Saviour in all things (belonging to their Station.)

Ver. 12. For the Grace of God which brings Salvation, hath appeared to all Men (as well Servants as Maſters, yea to Men of all Nations.)

Ver. 13. Teaching us, that denying (all) ungodlineſs, and worldly Luſts, we ſhould live ſoberly, righteouſly, and godly in this preſent World.

The firſt thing Chriſtianity requires of them who would enjoy this Saving Grace, is to deny all practical Ungodlineſs, by carefully abſtaining from all Idolatry, Superſtition, and falſe Worſhip, and to diſcard all thoſe Principles which tend to cheriſh in us a prophane and irreligious Converſation, viz. all Principles of Atheiſm, and Infidelity, all Denial of Providence, and of a future Recompence; for as our falſe Worſhip will render our whole Service vain, and our pretended Piety a Provocation, ſo theſe pernicious Principles will render our Religion none at all: For how can he be ſeriouſly imploy'd in Religious Actions, who queſtions the very Object of Religion, denies the Motives to it, and reckons it a vain thing to ſerve the Lord?

2dly, To deny all worldly Luſts, i. e. All inordinate Affections to the Enjoyments of this preſent World, as knowing, that the Friendſhip of this World is Enmity to God, all the Pollutions which are in the World through Luſt, 2 Pet. 2. 20. walking not in Riot, and Drunkenneſs, in Banquettings, and Revellings, in Laſciviouſneſs, and Uncleanneſs, in Strife and Envy, but putting on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and making no Proviſions for the Fleſh to fulfil the Luſts thereof, Rom. 13. 13, 14. 1 Pet. 4. 2, 3.

3dly, To live ſoberly, in the due Moderation of all our Appetites, the exact Government of all our Paſſions, and in the regular Exerciſe of our Affections and Deſires; i. e. We muſt ſo far reſtrain our angry Paſſions, that they do never indecently boil up within us, or break forth into opprobrious Words, or rancorous Expreſſions, or proceed to malicious and ſpiteful Actions, and that we never do exert them, but upon Occaſion of ſomething which is truly evil and diſpleaſing to God, or when it may be for the Benefit of others: We muſt ſo moderate our Affections to, and our Deſires of all worldly things, as to ſit down contented with our preſent Portion, not being anxiouſly ſollicitous about them, not purſuingthem by unlawful Means, not much caſt down when we loſe them, nor much delighted with them when we do enjoy them; but living ſtill as Men whoſe Converſation is in Heaven, and whoſe Hearts are chiefly ſet on things above. We muſt ſo temper our Deſires of Applauſe and Reputation in this World, as only to purſue it by exact Regards to what is Vertuous and Praiſe-worthy, and for vertuous Ends, the doing good to others, never endeavouring to obtain or to preſerve it by any ſiniſter Attempts, ſinful Compliances, or by Neglect of Duty. We muſt ſo regulate the Cravings of the Throat, and the Gratifications of the Palate, as not to eat or drink to the impairing of our Health, or Reaſon, to the inflaming of our Luſts, or Paſſions, or to the rendering our ſelves unfit for the Performance of that Duty which we owe to God. We muſt be ſo moderate, in reference to the Pleaſures of the World, that all the Pleaſures in which we do allow our ſelves, may be ſtill ἀδιαφόρως ἀμεταμέλητοι, ſuch as call for no Repentance; we muſt purſue them with ſuch Indifference, as that we freely can deny our ſelves in the Enjoyment of them, when the Concernments of God's Glory, or the Welfare of our own, or other Mens Souls is prejudiced by them, preferring ſtill the Pleaſures of Religion much above them.

4thly, We muſt live Righteouſly, i. e. in all the Offices of exact Truth and Juſtice betwixt Man and Man, being true in our Words, exact to the Performance of our Promiſes, doing no Injury to any in his good Name, Eſtate or Perſon, much leſs in the Concernments of his Soul, but dealing ſtill with others as we would be dealt with.

We muſt live δικαίως, Charitably, preſerving an unfeigned Good Will, an affectionate Kindneſs to, and having a ſincere Concernment for the Good of all Men; and this Affection muſt reſtrain us not only from biting them with the Tongue, ſuſpecting evil of them, or doing evil to them, but muſt engage us to hope well, and believe well of them, where we know nothing to the contrary; to rejoyce in their Proſperity, to be ready to promote it, to ſympathize with them in their Afflictions, and, as far as we are able, to ſupply their Wants, relieve their Miſeries, and contribute to the Eaſe and Comfort of their Lives, and more eſpecially to labour to prevent the Ruine, and further the eternal Intereſts of their precious Souls; to conceal the evil that we know of others, where no Neceſſity, i. e. no Duty to our ſelves, our Brother, or the Publick, requires us to divulge it; to endure all things, without returning evil for evil; to be long-ſuffering, and bear with Patience the Infirmities of others. That, Laſtly, upon any reaſonable Submiſſion, any fair Acknowledgement of the Offence, any Deſire of Reconciliation, we be eaſie to be entreated, and ready to forgive: In a word, That in all Caſes of the ſame kind, we prefer the Publick before our Private Intereſts.

5thly, To teach us to live godly: 1. By keeping up an high Eſteem, and Admiration of God in our Minds, acknowledging his Excellencies by our repairing to, and our continual Dependence on his Wiſdom, Power, and Goodneſs, in our Addreſſes to the Throne of Grace; by aſcribing all the Mercies we enjoy, to his ſole, free, and undeſerved Good-

neſs, and therefore highly eſteeming them, paying the Tribute of our Praiſes, and ſuitable Returns of Duty for them, and by performing that publick and external Homage to the Author of them which may beſt teſtifie to others the inward Veneration we have for him. 2. By yielding a firm Aſſent to all his Revelations, depending on his All-ſufficiency and Goodneſs to order all things for us to the beſt, and hoping in his Mercy for Preſervation from, or Support under, and a good Iſſue from the Troubles of this preſent Life, and a Supply of all thoſe Bleſſings which he ſees needful for us, or moſt conducing to our Good. 3. By valuing him as our Chief, and All-ſufficient Good, the only proper Object of our Happineſs, and upon that account preferring him before whatever ſtands in competition with him, having none in Heaven but him, and none on Earth that we deſire in compariſon with him, doing all things to his Glory, and for Promotion of his Honour, and being zealous to remove whatſoever doth obſtruct or oppoſe it. 4. By being in the Fear of the Lord all the Day long, and herein exerciſing our ſelves to have always Conſciences void of Offence towards God, ſo that we never wilfully do any thing which argues a Contempt of him, or is a Provocation to the pureEres of his Glory. 5. By acquainting our ſelves with his ſacred Will, that we may do it, eſteeming all his Commandments concerning all things to be right, yielding a chearful, conſtant, and ſincere Obedience to them, labouring to walk before him to all well-pleaſing; and when we are convinced, that we have deviated from his good and holy Laws, returning by a ſpeedy and ſincere Repentance, and Reformation of our evil Ways. 6. By an humble Submiſſion to his Chaſtiſements, a contented Acquieſcence in all the Diſpenſations of his Providence, and an entire Reſignation of our ſelves and our Concernments to the Pleaſure of his good and holy Will.

Thus Philo doth inform us, That he that would be truly vertuous, muſt, in the firſt place, μετανάστον τοῦ σώματος, become an Exile from the Enjoyments of the Body, ſo far as not to be enſlaved ἐπιθυμίαις καὶ ἡδοναῖς, to the importunate Deſires of worldly things, or to the Pleaſures of the World, ὔτε φόβοις, ὔτε λύπαις, nor to the Fears of loſing them, nor of exceſs of Grief that he doth not enjoy them; that being thus prepared, he muſt govern his whole Life by theſe Three Rules or Canons, τῷ φιλεῖν, καὶ φιλαρέτῳ, καὶ φιλανθρώπῳ, the Love of God, the Love of Vertue, and the Love of Man.

Ver. 13. Looking for that bleſſed Hope, and the glorious Appearance of the great God, and our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

Τοῦ μεγάλου Θεοῦ.] Here it deſerveth to be noted, that it is highly probable that Jeſus Chriſt is here ſtyled the Great God: 1. Becauſe in the Original the Article is prefix'd only before the Great God, and therefore ſeems to require this Conſtruction, the Appearance of Jeſus Chriſt the Great God and our Saviour. 2dly, Becauſe as God the Father is not ſaid properly to appear, ſo the Word ἐπιφάνεια never occurs in the New Teſtament but when it is apply'd to Jeſus Chriſt, and to ſome Coming of his; the Places in which it is to be found, being only theſe, 2 Theſſ. 2. 8. 1 Tim. 6. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 10. 4. 1, 8. 3dly, Becauſe Chriſt is emphatically ſtyled our Hope, the Hope of Glory, Col. 1. 23. 1 Tim. 1. 1. And, Laſtly, Becauſe not only all the Ancient Commentators on the Place, do ſo interpret this Text, but the Ante-Nicene Fathers alſo; (k) Hippolytus ſpeaking of the Appearance of our God and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, and (l) Clemens of Alexandria proving Chriſt to be both God and Man, our Creator, and the Author of all our good things, from theſe very Words of (m) St. Paul.

Ver. 14. Who gave himſelf for us, that he might redeem us from all Iniquity, and (ſo might) purifie to himſelf a peculiar People, zealous of good Works.

Ἵνα λυτρώσηται, that he might redeem, and purifie.] The Words λυτρῶσαι and καθαίσαι, here uſed, being Sacrifical, the firſt ſignifying Redemption by paying a Price, here ſaid to be the giving himſelf; the ſecond, to purifie from the Guilt of Sin, by an Atonement offer'd for it, Heb. 9. 22. 1 Joh. 1. 7, 9. I conceive the Import of them to be this, That Chriſt our Saviour gave himſelf a Ranſom for us to redeem us from the Guilt and Puniſhment of our Sins, that being by this Atonement thus purified, and reconciled to God, we might become, as the Jews were before, a peculiar People to him, and upon that account, zealous of good Works.

Λαὸν περιούσιον, a peculiar People.] So סגלה is rendred by the Septuagint, Exod. 19. 5. you ſhall be to me λαὸς περιούσιος, a peculiar People above all People, Deut. 7. 6. Jehovah thy God hath choſen thee to be unto him λαὸν περιούσιον, a peculiar People above all the People of the Earth; ſo Chap. 14, 2. 26. 18. This by the Chaldee, is always rendred חביבין a beloved People. This Title belonged to all Iſrael in general, Pſal. 135. 4. Jehovah hath choſen Jacob for himſelf, and Iſrael for his peculiar People. As therefore all Iſrael, being ſanctified to the Lord, became to him a peculiar Treaſure, and a beloved People above all other Nations, or Religions in the World; ſo are now all Chriſtians, God having purified their Hearts by Faith, Acts 15. 9. 2dly, As then Salvation was of the Jews, John 4. 22. and belonged to others only by being Proſelytes ſo far as to own their God, or their Religion; ſo now that Salvation which is promiſed in the Goſpel, and which conſiſts in Life Eternal, is promiſed only to them who own the God and Saviour of the Chriſtians, or embrace their Religion: For this is the Teſtimony, that God hath given to us, eternal Life; and that Life is in his Son: He that hath the Son hath Life, he that hath not the Son hath not Life, 1 Joh. 5. 11, 12.

Ver. 15. Theſe things ſpeak, and exhort, and rebuke (the Oppoſers of this Doctrine) with all Authority: let no Man deſpiſe thee, (but uſe the Cenſures of the Church, and deliver up to Satan thoſe Jews who gainſay this Doctrine.)

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. PUT them in mind to be ſubject to Principalities and Powers, to obey Magiſtrates, to be ready to (Gr. for) every good Work.

Ἀρχαῖς καὶ ἐξουσίαις ὑποτάσσεσθαι, to be ſubject to Principalities.] Beſides the turbulent Spirit of the Jews, then in Crete, Suidas hath left upon Record, concerning them, that (a) the Cretians, fearing they ſhould ſuffer Puniſhment from their Superiors, ſtirred up the People, exhorting them to maintain the Liberty which they always had enjoy'd. By which we ſee how needful this Inſtruction was.

Ver. 2. To ſpeak evil of no Man, to be no Brawlers, (Gr. no Fighters,) but gentle, ſhewing all Meekneſs to all Men (with whom they do converſe.)

Ἐπιείκεια, Meekneſs.] This is that Vertue which enclines us to be eaſie and merciful to Offenders, kind in interpreting the Actions of others, and yielding in Matters of our own Concern for Peace ſake; and we ſhew all Meekneſs, not by being never ſevere, for Severity at ſome times, towards ſome Perſons, is neceſſary; but by being mild in all Caſes, in which the Circumſtances of Time, Place, and Perſons, will admit of it.

Ver. 3. For we our ſelves were ſometimes fooliſh, diſobedient, deceived, ſerving divers Luſts and Pleaſures, living in Malice and Envy, hateful (to,) and hating one another. (See Chap. 1. 10, 11, 12.)

Ἦμεν γάρ ποτε, For we our ſelves were ſometimes.] That theſe were the Vices that reigned in the Heathen World, ſee Rom. 1. 26, 31. and 13. 13. Coloſſ. 3. 5, 8. That the Cretians were prone to Diſobedience, we have proved from Suidas: That they were fooliſh and deceived, is evident from their multitude of falſe Gods mentioned by Diodorus Siculus, Lib. 5. and their vain Imagination in thinking that their Gods were mortal, with which Callimachus charges them. The Luſts and Pleaſures they ſerved were unnatural Luſts, ſay Oecumenius and Theophylact: Of which the Athenian in Plato ſpeaketh thus to Clinias of Crete, (b) Of unnatural Luſts your Cities are chiefly guilty; for taking up your Laws from Jupiter, and retaining the Fable of his Ganymede, they committed this unnatural Luſt in Imitation of their Jupiter.

Καὶ ἡμεῖς, We our ſelves.] I cannot think, as St. Jerom doth, that St. Paul here condemns himſelf as one formerly guilty of all theſe Vices, for then he could not have ſaid that he had lived before his Converſion in all good Conſcience towards God, Acts 23. 1. That he had ſerved God from his Progenitors with a pure Conſcience, 2 Tim. 1. 3. And that as to the Righteouſneſs which was by the Law, he was blameleſs, Philip. 3. 6. Nor is any thing more common with St. Paul, than to ſpeak thus in the Perſon of thoſe to whom he writes. See the Note on Eph. 2. 3.

Ver. 4. But after that the Kindneſs and Love of God our Saviour towards Men appeared.

Ver. 5. Not by Works of Righteouſneſs, which we have done, but according to his Mercy he ſaved us by the waſhing of Regeneration (in Baptiſm,) and (by the) renewing of the Holy Ghoſt, (given then to the Baptized.)

Ver. 6. Which he ſhed on us abundantly, through Jeſus Chriſt our Saviour.

Ver. 7. That being (thus) juſtified by his (free) Grace, we ſhould be made Heirs according to the Hope of Eternal Life.

For Explication of theſe Four Verſes let it be obſerved,

1ſt. That the Apoſtle, in the very next Verſe, ſaith, This is a faithful Saying, and of this I will that thou affirm conſtantly, that they who have believed in God ſhould be careful to maintain good Works; and as he ſaith,

(a) Οἱ δὲ Κρῆτες φοβούμενοι μὴ τιμωρίας τύχωσιν, ἀνίσειον τὰ πλήθη, παρακελεύοντες ἐξ αἰῶνος πολεμεῖν ἐλευθερίας διαφυλάττειν. Voce ἀνίσειον.

that we are juſtified by Grace, ſo doth he teach us, that this Grace hath appeared, for this very End, to teach us denying ungodlineſs and worldly Luſts, to live righteouſly, ſoberly, and godly in this preſent World, looking for this bleſſed Hope; clearly inſinuating, that without living godly, righteouſly, and ſoberly, we cannot reaſonably hope for Happineſs at our Lord's Second Coming. Wherefore theſe Words could never be intended to excuſe Chriſtians from a Neceſſity of being holy, in order to their being happy.

2dly, That the Apoſtle only ſaith we are not ſaved by Works of Righteouſneſs which we have done before Faith, before the Laver of Regeneration, but doth not in the leaſt exclude the Works of Righteouſneſs they ſhould hereafter do, by virtue of the new Nature given to them, and the renewing of the Holy Ghoſt, from being Conditions of their future Happineſs; and therefore hence it doth not follow, as Eſthius ſuggeſts, that God hath predeſtinated us to Salvation of his meer Mercy without any reſpect to our Works, but only, that he hath thus freely called any Nation to the Knowledge of that Faith that will in the End bring Salvation to them that obey the Preſcripts of it.

3dly, That when the Apoſtle ſaith, by his Mercy he ſaved us, his Meaning is, that by his free Mercy he brought us from a State of Wrath and Condemnation, into the Way of Salvation, in which if we walk, and continue, we ſhall aſſuredly obtain Salvation. See Note on Eph. 2. 8, 9.

4thly, Some by the Laver of Regeneration underſtand that inward Renovation which cleanſeth the Soul, as waſhing doth the Body; but that the Apoſtle, by the Laver of Regeneration, underſtands that Baptiſm by which Chriſtians, coming then from Heatheniſm, engaged to renounce Idolatry, the Works of the Fleſh, and of the World, and dedicated themſelves to the Service of the Sacred Trinity, and teſtified their Faith in Chriſt, cannot reaſonably be doubted, if we conſider, 1ſt. How expreſly our Saviour ſaith, we muſt be born again of Water, and of the Holy Ghoſt, that we may enter into the Kingdom of God, Joh. 3. 5. How he commiſſionated his Apoſtles to make Diſciples in all Nations, by baptizing them, Matth. 28. 16. And how from the Beginning, the Word παλιγγενεσία, Regeneration, uſed here, was uſed to denote Baptiſm, as (c) Juſtin Martyr, (d) Irenæus, and (e) Clemens of Alexandria do inform us.

2dly, That the ſame Apoſtle elſewhere aſcribes this Virtue to Baptiſm, ſaying, that Chriſt doth purifie and cleanſe his Body by the waſhing of Water, Eph. 5. 26. And that St. Peter ſaith, that Baptiſm now ſaves us, 1 Pet. 3. 21. And that Baptiſm at the firſt was ſtill attended with the Vouchſafement of the Holy Ghoſt, here joined unto this Laver of Regeneration, John 3. 5. So that all Chriſtians are ſaid to be baptized into one Spirit, 1 Cor. 12. 13. who is here ſaid to be plentifully poured out upon Believers.

5thly, That being juſtified by Faith, we become the Sons of God, John 1. 12. and being Sons of God, are Heirs of Glory, Rom. 8. 17. and Sons of the Reſurrection, or ſuch as, if we do continue in the Faith and our Baptiſmal Covenant, ſhall enjoy an happy Reſurrection, Luke 20. 36. See Note upon that Place, and upon Rom. 8. 17.

Ver. 8. This is a faithful Saying, and theſe things I will that thou affirm conſtantly, that they who have believed in God might be careful to maintain good Works; theſe things are good, and profitable unto Men.

Καλῶν ἔργων προϊστασθαι, to maintain good Works.] That is, ſay ſome, to imploy themſelves in honeſt Trades and Profeſſions: But all the Ancient Commentators on this, and the 14th. Verſe, interpret theſe Words of Alms-deeds, or Charity, to ſupply the neceſſary Wants of Orphans, Widows, &c. And they are followed by the Learned Dr. Barrow, who obſerves, that as in every kind that which is moſt excellent doth commonly aſſume the Name of the whole kind, ſo are theſe Works of Charity, by way of Excellency, ſtyled Good Works. Thus Dorcas was full of good Works, i. e. of Alms-deeds which ſhe did, Acts 9. 36. See you abound in every good Work, that is, in all charitable Offices, 2 Cor. 9. 8. Let a Widow be well reported of for good Works, 1 Tim. 5. 10. i. e. for bringing up Children, lodging Strangers, waſhing the Saints feet, relieving the Afflicted, and following every good Work. Charge them who are rich in this World, that they be rich in good Works, 1 Tim. 6. 18. See Heb. 10. 24. And this Senſe may be confirmed, 1. From the Phraſe it ſelf; for it is not ἐργάζεσθαι τὰ καλὰ ἔργα, but προϊστασθαι καλῶν ἔργων. Now προϊστασθαι ſignifies to excel and outſtrip others in good Works, which, as to Works of Charity, is certainly the Chriſtian's Duty, and was the thing by which the primitive Ages gain'd great Credit to Chriſtianity: But it is not the Chriſtian's Duty to labour more than others at their Trades or Callings. 2dly, From the Reaſon here aſſigned, why they muſt excel in good Works, becauſe they were not only profitable, but καλὰ creditable in the Sight of Men, as are ſuch Works of Charity more conſpicuouſly than labouring in our Profeſſions, and, v. 14. that they be not unfruitful;

i. e. ſaith Dr. Hammond, that they may have to give to others; theſe Acts of Charity being ſtyled Fruit abounding to their Account, Philip. 4. 17. Good Fruits, Jam. 3. 17. The Fruits of Righteouſneſs, v. 18.

Ver. 9. But avoid fooliſh Queſtions and Genealogies, and Contentions, and Strivings about the Law, for they are unprofitable, and vain.

See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 4. And note here, and from that Place, this excellent Rule: That Diſputes about Matters which only ſerve to beget Strife and Contention, but tend little to Edification in the Faith, or to the edifying of the Body in Love, Eph. 4. 16. or the promoting that Doctrine which is after Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 3. are vain talking, and unprofitable Diſputes.

Ver. 10. A Man that is an Heretick, after the firſt and ſecond Admonition, reject.

Ver. 11. Knowing that he who is ſuch, is ſubverted, and ſinneth, being condemned of himſelf.

Hence may we learn who is an Heretick in the Apoſtle's Senſe, 1ſt. He is one who ἐξέστραπται, is perverted from the true Faith, holding ſome Doctrine or Opinion which ſubverteth the Foundation of it, 2 Tim. 2. 18. and 1 Tim. 1. 19, 20. 2dly, He is αὐτοκατάκριτος, a Man condemned by his own Conſcience, and who, in what he doth maintain, or practiſe, ſins againſt his own Convictions: For, 1ſt. The Apoſtle ſaith not to Titus, Do thou convince or inform him of his Error, but do thou admoniſh him of his Fault; which ſhews the Crime lay not in his Head, or his miſtaken Judgment, for that can never be corrected by Admonition, but only by Inſtruction, but that it lay in the Irregularity of his Affections, and the Perverſeneſs of his Will; and, 2dly, Becauſe otherwiſe he could not condemn himſelf by maintaining his Hereſie: For no Man who acts according to his Judgment, how erroneous ſoever it may be, is ſelf-condemned in that Action.

Obj. 1. Againſt this Expoſition it is objected, 1. That he who oppugns a Doctrine which he knows to be true, is indeed very perverſe, but he is no Heretick.

Anſw. 1. Yes, he is properly an Heretick, according to St. Auſtin, becauſe he follows or ſtarts a new Opinion, not from regard to Truth, but to Vain Glory, or temporal Advantage. Whence, ſaith he, Errare poſſum, Hæreticus eſſe nolo, I may err, but I will not be an Heretick; placing Hereſie not in the Judgment, but the Will. 2dly, He is ſo alſo, according to the proper Import of the Word, becauſe he properly doth chuſe to be of his Opinion: Whereas the Judgment of the erroneous Perſon doth oblige him to hold his Error, it being not in our Power to believe otherwiſe than our Mind and Judgment doth inform us; ſo that in this Caſe we do not properly αἱρετίζειν, chuſe what Opinion we will hold. And, 3dly, He is moſt properly an Heretick in the Scripture Senſe, which ſtill aſcribeth to ſuch Men ſomething relating not to the Error of their Judgments, but the Perverſeneſs of their Wills, or the Corruption of their Affections, as that they deſign'd not to ſerve the Lord, but their own Bellies, Rom. 16. 18. That they turn'd away from the Truth, ſuppoſing that Gain was Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 5. That they taught things which they ought not, for filthy Lucre's ſake, Tit. 1. 11. That through Covetouſneſs, with feigned Words, they make Merchandiſe of them whom they deceived, 2 Pet. 2. 3, 14. Having Hearts exerciſed with covetous Practices, and that they were greedily after the Error of Balaam for Reward, Jude 11. Matth. 24. 11. 1 John 4. 1. 2 Cor. 11. 13. 2 Pet. 2. 1. 1 Tim. 4. 2.

Hence are they often ſtyled falſe Prophets, falſe Chriſts, falſe Apoſtles, falſe Teachers, deceitful Workers, transforming themſelves into the Apoſtles of Chriſt; Men who inſinuate their Doctrines, ἐν ὑπαγωγῇ φιλαύτου by hypocritical Falſhoods, who preach'd up the Neceſſity of Circumciſion, not that they themſelves obſerved the Law, or thought it neceſſary ſo to do, but that they might avoid Perſecution, Gal. 6. 12, 13. That they were Men riſen up among Chriſtians, ſpeaking perverſe things to draw away Diſciples after them, Acts 20. 30. Wolves in Sheeps cloathing, Matth. 7. 15. Men that went out from them, when indeed they were not of them, 1 Joh. 2. 19.

Obj. 2. 2dly, It is objected, that there be few who oppoſe the Truth wittingly, and they are only known to God, not to the Church; which therefore cannot admoniſh, avoid, or excommunicate them. He therefore muſt be ſelf-condemned, not becauſe he maintains what himſelf thinks to be falſe, but becauſe he inflicts upon himſelf that Puniſhment and Condemnation which the Biſhop and the Church uſeth to do upon Malefactors, by ſeparating himſelf from the Communion of the Faithful.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, 1ſt. That I do not find that the Word αὐτοκατάκριτος bears any other Senſe than this, viz. one condemn'd by his own Mind or inward Sentence, ὑφ' ἑαυτῷ, ἢ ὑπὸ ἰδίας συνειδήσεως κατακεινόμενον, ſaith Oecumenius. 2dly, Nor is it true that Hereticks did always cut themſelves off from the Church; for then what need was there of their Excommunication? The Scripture ſhews the contrary, declaring, that theſe falſe Teachers, that brought in damnable Doctrines, were ἐν ὑμῖν, lurking among Chriſtians, 2 Pet. 2. 1. 1 John 2. 19. 2 Pet. 2. 13. Jude 12, 19. Yea, ſaith the Apoſtle, there muſt be Hereſies, ἐν ὑμῖν, among you, 1 Cor. 11. 19. they kept their Love-Feaſts with them, were with them till for Fear of Perſecution, they departed from them, them, Gal. 6. 12. They were inwardly Wolves but in Sheeps cloathing, ἐσωθεν λυκοι ἁρπαγες, making a fair Shew among them. Moreover, what need was there of avoiding Men already ſeparated and gone out from them? Or to what End ſhould the Apoſtle give them any Admonitions, or excommunicate them who had already excluded themſelves from the Church's Communion? This Expoſition therefore agrees not with the Words of the Apoſtle.

And whereas it is ſaid ſuch Hereticks are only known to God, I hope they might be known alſo to Titus, the only Perſon here bid either to admoniſh or avoid them, eſpecially if we conſider that to him belonged in thoſe Time, διακρισις πνευματων, the diſcerning of Spirits. Moreover, the Church of thoſe Times, in which the Apoſtles were ſtill preaching, could eaſily know whether the Doctrines which others taught in Oppoſition to them, were indeed Doctrines receiv'd from the Apoſtles, or not; if they were not, they who taught them muſt know they receiv'd no ſuch Doctrine from them, and ſo muſt be ſelf-condemn'd in teaching it as received from them, or as the Faith once delivered to the Saints; and they who heard them muſt know they wilfully oppoſed the Doctrine of thoſe Apoſtles who had confirmed the Faith with ſuch Authentick Teſtimonies, as their Oppoſers could not queſtion. Moreover, they being then bid to try the Spirits, whether they were of God, 1 John 4. 1. and the Gift of diſcerning Spirits being then given to the Prophets who managed the Church Affairs, they might then very well be able to judge of theſe Deceivers and falſe Teachers.

Ver. 12. When I ſhall ſend Artemas unto thee, or Tychicus, (to ſupply thy Abſence, ſay the Ancients,) be diligent to come unto me to Nicopolis, for I have determined there to winter.

Theſe Words made the Author of the Poſtſcript date this Epiſtle from Nicopolis of Macedonia, whereas they rather prove the contrary; for he ſaith not, I have determined to winter here, but there, which ſhews he was not yet come thither.

Ver. 13. Bring Zenas the Lawyer, and Apollos, on their Journey, diligently, (and ſee) that nothing be lacking to them.

Ver. 14. And let ours (i. e. Chriſtians) learn to maintain good Works, for neceſſary uſes, that they be not unfruitful. (See Note on v. 8.)

Ver. 15. All that are with me, ſalute thee. Greet them that love us in (and for) the Faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epiſtle of St. PAUL to PHILEMON.

SOME have thought this Epiſtle was not worthy to be rank'd among the Epiſtles of St. Paul, as being writ upon an Occaſion of no great moment: But it contains Inſtructions ſufficient for ſo ſhort an Epiſtle, as v. g.

1*ſt. That no* Chriſtian, though of the meaneſt ſort, is to be contemn'd: That Chriſtianity makes the vileſt Servant both profitable and worthy to be highly loved, and honoured by Perſons in the higheſt Dignity; Oneſimus being by the Apoſtle ſtyled his Son, and his Bowels.

2*dly, That* Chriſtianity doth not impair the Power of Maſters over their Servants, or give any Authority to them who convert them, to uſe them as their Servants, without Leave granted from their Maſters.

3*dly, That Servants ought to make Satisfaction for any Wrong or Injury they have done to their* Maſters.

4*thly, That there is an Affection due from the* Maſter to a profitable Servant.

Who then, ſay the (a) Greek Interpreters, would refuſe to number an Epiſtle ſo profitable with the reſt?

The (b) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions have made this Philemon Biſhop of Coloſs, and St. Jerom ſeems to encline to that Opinion; but (c) Hilary the Deacon, ſaith expreſly, that he was of no Eccleſiaſtical Dignity, but one of the Laity. Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, ſeem alſo of the ſame Opinion.

This Epiſtle was writ in the ſame Year with that to the Philippians, viz. the 8*th. of* Nero, A. D. 62. when St. Paul expected to be delivered from his Bonds, v. 22.

A Paraphraſe with Annotations ON THE Epiſtle of St. PAUL to PHILEMON.

Ver. 1. (I) Paul, a Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt, and Timothy our Brother, (write) to Philemon, our dearly Beloved, and Fellow-Labourer.

Καὶ συνεργῷ ἡμῶν, Our Fellow-Labourer.] Hence Chryſoſtom conjectures that he muſt be one of the Clergy: But this is no good Argument, ſeeing Chriſtians in general that promoted the Intereſts of Chriſtianity, and even Women, are by the Apoſtle ſtiled συνεργοὶ, his Fellow-Labourers. For the firſt, ſee 3 John, v. 8. For the ſecond, Rom. 16. 3. Moreover, theſe Fellow-Labourers might be Perſons endow'd with Spiritual and Prophetick Gifts, though not ordain'd to any ſtanding Function in the Church.

Ver. 2. And to our beloved Appia and Archippus, our Fellow-Soldiers; and to the Church in thy Houſe.

Ἀπφίᾳ τῇ ἀγαπητῇ.] He ſalutes alſo Appia, the Wife of Philemon, as Oecumenius and Theophylact conjecture, and Theodoret poſitively aſſerts, and that very probably, ſhe being here rank'd before Archippus. And this he doth that he might obtain her good Will alſo in behalf of Oneſimus.

Συνστρατιώτῃ, Our Fellow-Soldier.] So alſo he calls Epaphroditus Fellow-Priſoner with him at Rome, Philip. 2. 23, 25. either becauſe they ſuffer'd with him as good Soldiers of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Tim. 2. 3. Or, as (a) St. Jerome ſaith, becauſe being Miniſters with him in the Work of the Goſpel, Philip. 2. 25. Coloſ. 4. 17. they were more particularly engaged in fighting the good Fight of Faith: See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 18.

Καὶ τῇ κατ' οἶκόν σε ἐκκλησίᾳ, And to the Church in thy Houſe.] He calls his Houſe a Church, ſaith Theodoret, ὡς εὐσεβείᾳ λαμπρυνομένην, as being illuſtrious for the Piety of all its Members. See Note on 1 Cor. 16. 19.

Ver. 3. (I wiſh) Grace to you, and Peace from God the Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ἀπὸ Θεοῦ Πατρὸς, καὶ Κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, From God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] Ex quo oſtenditur unam filii, patriſque eſſe naturam, cum id poteſt filius præſtare quod pater, & dicitur id pater præſtare quod filius. Hieronymus in locum.

Ver. 4. I thank my God, making mention of thee always in my Prayers; (or, I thank my God always when I mention thee in my Prayers.)

Ver. 5. Hearing of thy Love and Faith which (Faith) thou haſt toward the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and (Love) to all his Saints.

Τὴν ἀγάπην καὶ τὴν πίστιν, Thy Love and Faith.] Here the Apoſtle uſeth the Figure Syntheſis; for Faith is to be referr'd to Chriſt, and Love to the Saints, according to thoſe Words of the ſame Apoſtle, We give Thanks for you, ſince we heard of your Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, and of the Love which you have to all the Saints, Coloſ. 1. 4. So Matth. 12. 22. The Blind and Dumb both ſpake and ſaw; i. e. the Blind ſaw, and the Dumb ſpake. 1 Cor. 6. 11. But ye are ſanctified, but ye are juſtified in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, and by the Spirit of our God; i. e. Ye are ſanctified by the Spirit, and juſtified by the Name of Jeſus. And ſo Theodoret interprets theſe Words. Hence therefore Papiſts vainly gather, that we may place our Faith in Saints departed; for even their own (b) Eſtius declares, that in the Eccleſiaſtical Phraſe, to believe in any one, is a Profeſſion of Divinity. 'Tis alſo further to be noted from theſe Words, That we ought to render Thanks to God, not only for the Bleſſings vouchſafed to our ſelves, but to others alſo, Rom. 1. 8. 1 Cor. 1. 4. Eph. 1. 16.

Ver. 6. (And my Prayer is,) that the Communication of thy Faith (or thy Liberality to the Saints, which is the Fruit of thy Faith) may become effectual, (to bring others to it,) by the Acknowledgment of every good thing which is in you, (or may become effectual to the Acknowledgment of thy good Works, by other Chriſtians who have ſuch Inſtances of thy Charity.)

(b) Credere in aliquem Eccleſiaſtica Phraſi e ſcripturis deſumpta profeſſio divinitatis eſt: In locum.

Ἡ κοινωνία, The Communication.] Κοινωνίαν πίστεως ἡ ἐλεημοσύνῃ καλῶ ὡς διὰ πολλῆς πίστεως γιγνομένην, Theoph. Oecumenius and Theophylact expound theſe Words thus, I pray that the Faith in Chriſt, which thou haſt common with us, may be operative in thee to make thee know how to perform every good Work.

Ver. 7. (And I have reaſon thus to give Thanks to God for thee,) for we have great Joy and Conſolation in thy Love (to the Saints,) becauſe (hereby) the Bowels of the Saints, (yearning for Relief,) are refreſhed by thee, Brother.

Ver. 8. Wherefore, though I might be much bold (or having great Power) in Chriſt, to enjoin thee that which is convenient:

Ver. 9. Yet, for Love's ſake, I rather beſeech thee, (or, I rather beſeech thee, for Love's ſake,) as being ſuch an one as Paul (the Apoſtle of Chriſt,) the Aged, (and upon that Account worthy of Reverence,) and now alſo a Priſoner of Chriſt, (and therefore worthy of Reſpect, Gal. 6. 17. Epheſ. 4. 1. Coloſ. 4. 18.)

Πρεσβύτης, The Aged.] This Epiſtle being writ, at the furtheſt, but twenty eight Years from his Converſion, when he is ſtiled Νεανίας, a young Man, Acts 7. 58. it is enquir'd how he could be now Πρεσβύτης, Paul the Aged?

I anſwer, that both the Word Νεανίσκος, Young, and Πρεσβύτης, Aged, are of that large Signification, as is ſufficient to remove this ſeeming Difficulty. (c) Favorinus, from Hippocrates, ſaith, a Man is ſtiled Νεανίσκος, a young Man, till Twenty eight; and Πρεσβύτης, Aged, from Forty nine to Fifty ſix; making but twenty one Years difference betwixt them. Elſewhere he ſaith, that Old Age begins ἀπ' ἐτῶν ἑξήκοντα ἐννέα, from Sixty nine Years: But then he ſaith, a Man is νεανίσκος, young, from Twenty three, ἕως ἐτῶν τεσσαράκοντα ἑνός, till Forty one Years; making the Difference between them twenty eight Years. Varro, in Cælius Rodiginus, lib. 29. cap. 21. ſays, a Man is juvenis, young, till Forty five; and aged at Sixty. And thus St. Paul, according to the Computation of (d) St. Chryſoſtom, might be a young Man, of Thirty five Years, at his Converſion; an old Man at the writing this Epiſtle, as being then Sixty three, and ſuffering Martyrdom in the 14th Year of Nero.

Ver. 10. I beſeech thee, (I ſay,) for my Son Oneſimus, whom I have begotten (i. e. converted to the Faith while I was) in my Bonds.

Ver. 11. Who in Times paſt was to thee (an) unprofitable (Servant, v. 18, 19.) but now (if receiv'd, will be) profitable to thee, and (if ſent back) to me.

Ἄχρηστον.] Not only an unprofitable, but an injurious Servant, having not only run away from his Maſter, but purloin'd ſome of his Goods, and ſpent what he had thus purloin'd: For had it not been thus, ſaith (e) St. Jerom, the Apoſtle needed not to have ſtipulated for Satisfaction of the Injury, v. 18, 19.

Ver. 12. Whom I have ſent again (unto thee, he being in Duty thine, and not to be employ'd by others, or detain'd without thy Leave;) thou therefore receive him, (him, I ſay,) that is mine own Bowels; (he being as dear to me, as if he had proceeded from mine own Bowels.)

Ver. 13. Whom I would (willingly) have retained with me, that in thy ſtead he might have miniſter'd to me, (being) in the Bonds of the Goſpel.

Ὑπὲρ σοῦ, In thy ſtead.] A Miniſtery ſeems due from all that are able, towards thoſe that ſuffer and are in Bonds for Chriſt's ſake; and when it is not perform'd, there ſeems to be to be a Lack of Service due to them, eſpecially to the Ambaſſadors of Chriſt, Philip. 2. 30.

Ver. 14. But without thy Mind I would do nothing (of this nature,) that thy Benefit (or the Advantage I receive from him who is thy Servant) might not be (on thy part) as (a Matter) of Neceſſity, (becauſe thou couldſt not have him return'd to thee,) but willingly, (by thy own Grant.)

Ὡς κατ' ἀνάγκην, As of Neceſſity.] Here again Freedom of Will is put in Oppoſition to Neceſſity. See Note on 2 Cor. 9. 7. according to thoſe Words of Seneca, De Benef. lib. 2. cap. 4. Si vis ſcire an velim, effice ut poſſim nolle.

Ver. 15. For perhaps he therefore departed from thee for a Seaſon, that thou ſhouldeſt receive him again for ever, (i. e. to ſerve thee during Life.)

Ἵνα αἰώνιον αὐτὸν ἀπέχῃς, That thou mighteſt have him during Life.] So Δουλεύειν αὐτῷ εἰς αἰῶνα, He ſhall ſerve him during Life, Exod. 21. 6. Ver. 16. (That thou ſhouldſt receive him, I ſay,) not now as a Servant (only,) but above a Servant, (as being alſo in Chriſt,) a Brother, beloved eſpecially (or particularly)

Ἀγαπητὸν, Beloved.] Note here that Love is due even to Bond-Servants from their Maſters, when they are uſeful and profitable to them; for where Advantage is receiv'd from the Labours of another, there Love is due.

Ver. 18. If he hath wrong'd thee in any thing, or oweth thee ought, put that on my Account.

Ver. 19. I Paul have written it with my own Hand, (and ſo have enter'd into a ſolemn Obligation, that) I will re-pay it; albeit, I do not ſay unto thee, (i. e. I inſiſt not upon it,) that thou oweſt to me (by whom thou waſt converted) even thy own ſelf (or the Well-being of thy Soul) beſides.

Ver. 20. Yea, (Gr. ναὶ, I pray thee therefore,) let me (from thy Compliance with me in this Matter) have Joy of thee in the Lord, refreſh my Bowels in the Lord.

Ναὶ.] As the Hebrew נָא is verbum obſecrandi, a Word of Intreating, ſo is the Greek ναὶ very frequently. See Note on Matth. 15. 27.

Μου τὰ σπλάγχνα, Refreſh my Bowels:] Either meaning Oneſimus, whom he calls his Bowels, ver. 12. or rather himſelf, whoſe Bowels would be refreſhed by Philemon's receiving Oneſimus kindly, for the Lord's ſake.

Ver. 21. Having Confidence in thy Obedience, I wrote (thus) to thee, knowing thou wiltſt alſo do more than I ſay.

Ver. 22. But withal, prepare me alſo a Lodging, (wherefore prepare me a Lodging alſo,) for I truſt that through your Prayers I ſhall be given to you.

Διὰ τῶν προσευχῶν ὑμῶν, By your Prayers.] The Apoſtle knew the Efficacy of the Prayers of the Church, for Preſervation of Chriſt's eminent Servants from impendent Dangers; as in the Caſe of Peter, Acts 12. and therefore, in moſt of his Epiſtles he doth moſt earneſtly intreat them, that he might be enabled to preach the Goſpel with Freedom and Succeſs, Epheſ. 6. 19. Coloſ. 4. 3. 2 Theſ. 3. 1. and for Deliverance from the Malice of his Perſecutors, Rom. 15. 30, 31. 2 Theſ. 3. 2. or elſe expreſs his Confidence that their Prayers will be effectual to that End; as here, and 2 Cor. 1. 10, 11. and 4. 14, 15. Philip. 1. 19. And had he thus conceiv'd of Prayers directed to Angels and departed Saints, why doth he not afford one Inſtance of them in all his Epiſtles?

Ver. 23. There ſalute thee Epaphras, my Fellow-Priſoner in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 24. Marcus, Ariſtarchus, Demas, my Fellow-Labourers.

Ver. 25. The Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with your Spirit. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epiſtle to the HEBREWS.

BY Way of Preface to this excellent Epiſtle, I ſhall enquire,

1. Concerning the Author of it.

2. Touching the Canonical Authority of this Epiſtle.

3. Concerning the Language in which it was originally written.

4. To whom it was indicted, and ſent; and when.

5. Of the Occaſion and Deſign of writing this Epiſtle. And,

I. That St. Paul was the Author of this Epiſtle, I prove,

1. From theſe Words of St. Peter, As our dear Brother Paul, according to the Wiſdom given to him, hath written unto you, as in all his Epiſtles, 2 Pet. 3. 15, 16. Whence it is evident, 1. That the Apoſtle Paul had writ to them to whom St. Peter was then writing; i. e. to the Believing Jews in general, 2 Pet. 1. 1. to thoſe of the Diſperſion, mention'd, 1 Pet. 1. 1. 2. That he writ to them ſome certain Letter, diſtinct from all his other Epiſtolary Writings; as appears from thoſe Words, As alſo in all his Epiſtles, i. e. his other Epiſtles. Since then none of the Antients ſay that this Epiſtle was loſt, it muſt be that which bears the Name of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews.

Obj. To this 'tis anſwer'd, That the Epiſtle intended by St. Peter, may be that written to the Romans, in which he ſpeaketh to the Jews by Name, chap. 2. 17. and in which is an Exhortation found to count the Long-ſuffering of God Salvation, or that which leadeth to Repentance, v. 4.

Anſw. But, 1. That which is written there, is plainly written to the Unbelieving Jews, and concerns them only: Whereas St. Peter writes to the Brethren, chap. 3. 12. the Beloved, ver. 1, 14, 17. to them who had receiv'd like precious Faith, chap. 1. 1. He therefore could not mean the Jews of whom Paul ſpeaks in the Epiſtle to the Romans; Nor can that Epiſtle be properly ſaid to be writ to the diſperſed Jews, it being writ to thoſe at Rome only, chap. 1. 7. and chiefly to the Gentiles there, ch. 1. 13. 11. 13. 15. 15, 16. 3. The Words, ch. 2. 4. are not an Exhortation, to count the Long-ſuffering of God Salvation; but a Reproof, for deſpiſing this Long-ſuffering: Whereas in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, chap. 10. he commends their Patience under Sufferings, and aſſures them it would find Salvation; and that if they lived by Faith, their Lord would come, and would not tarry.

Arg. 2. A ſecond Argument to prove St. Paul the Author of this Epiſtle, is taken from theſe Words, Know ye that our Brother Timothy is ſet at liberty? With whom, if he come quickly, I will ſee you. They of Italy ſalute you, chap. 13. 23, 24. And from thoſe alſo, Pray for us; and, Do this now the rather, that I may be reſtored to you the ſooner, v. 18, 19. For, 1. It is cuſtomary with St. Paul, when he writes to others, to call St. Timothy his Brother: So, Paul the Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, and Timothy our Brother, 2 Cor. 1. 1. And again, Coloſ. 1. 1. in the ſame Words: We ſent Timothy, our Brother, 1 Theſ. 3. 2. And, Paul a Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt, and Timothy our Brother, Philem. v. 1. This Timothy was a Priſoner at Rome, in the 7th Year of Nero; and ſet at liberty the 8th, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, Harm. p. 139, 140. Of which here the Author of this Epiſtle gives notice, and ſaith, he would come with him to them; i. e. to the Jews in Judea, to whom I ſhall prove anon that this Epiſtle was indicted. Now Timothy, we know, was ſtill the Companion of St. Paul. Laſtly, He deſires them to pray for him; which is frequently done by St. Paul, in moſt of his Epiſtles, viz. In that directed to the Romans, Rom. 15. 30. to the Epheſians, Epheſ. 6. 19. to the Philippians, Philip. 1. 19. to the Coloſſians, Coloſ. 4. 3. and to the Theſſalonians, 2 Theſ. 3. 1. and is never done in any of the Catholick Epiſtles. Pray for me, ſaith he, that I may be reſtor'd to you the ſooner. Now Paul was ſent bound from Judea to Rome; and therefore, his Return turn from Rome to Judea was properly a Reſtoring of him to them. And that he was thus reſtor'd to them, we learn from (a) St. Chryſoſtom, declaring, that being at liberty, he went to Spain, thence to Judæa, and ſo back to Rome.

Arg. 2. That this Epiſtle was written or compoſed by St. Paul, may yet more ſtrongly be concluded from the Authority of the Ancients, for that they did deliver this as the Epiſtle of St. Paul: And that they were not raſh in ſo doing, we learn from the Words of (b) Origen. Among which Ancients, we may reckon,

1. Clemens Romanus, the Companion of, and Co-worker with St. Paul; who, as (c) Euſebius and (d) St. Jerom note, hath many Notions which are in that Epiſtle; and uſed many Expreſſions, Word for Word, taken thence. Which ſhew that Epiſtle not to be new, and to be duly reckon'd among the Writings of that Apoſtle.

2. Irenæus, in the Second Century; by whom this Epiſtle is ſuppoſed to be cited as a Book written by the Spirit, Adv. Hær. l. 3. c. 6. But not to inſiſt on that, as being uncertain,

3. (e) Clemens Alexandrinus cites thoſe Words of St. Paul, without Faith it is impoſſible to pleaſe God, Heb. 11. 6. adding, that Faith is the Subſtance of Things hoped for, the Evidence of Things not ſeen, ibid. v. 1. κατὰ τὸν θεῖον Ἀπόστολον, according to the Divine Apoſtle. And again, he ſaith, (f) Ὁ θεῖος Ἀπόστολος, The Divine Apoſtle fears not to ſay, Remember the former Days, in which ye being enlighten'd, ſuffer'd a great Fight of Affliction, Heb. 10. 32. And ſo he cites him on to the End of that Chapter, then gives the Subſtance of the 11*th Chapter, and the Exhortation in the Beginning of the* 12*th*, v. 1, 2. And that this Divine Apoſtle was St. Paul, we are aſſur'd from theſe Words, (g) Ἐπεὶ καὶ Παῦλος τοῖς Ἑβραίοις γεγράφων τοῖς ἀναπεμπόμενοις εἰς νόμον ἐκ πίστεως, Paul alſo writing to the Hebrews, relapſing from Faith, unto the Law, ſaith, Ye have need that one teach you again which be the firſt Principles of the Oracles of God, and are become ſuch as have need of Milk, and not of ſtrong Meat, Heb. 5. 12.

4. In the Third Century, (h) Origen citing the very Words now mention'd, and the following Words, v. 13, 14. For every one that uſeth Milk is unskilful in the Word of Righteouſneſs; he ſaith, He that writ this, was the ſame Paul who ſaid to the Corinthians, I have fed you with Milk, and not with Meat, &c. 1 Cor. 3. 2. In his (i) Philocalia he ſaith, The Apoſtle Paul, who ſaid to the Corinthians, Theſe things happen'd in a Figure, and they were written for us on whom the Ends of the Ages are come, 1 Cor. 10. 11. doth alſo in another Epiſtle uſe theſe Words, relating to the Tabernacle, Thou ſhalt make all things according to the Pattern ſhewed thee in the Mount, Heb. 8. 5. And that the (k) Apoſtle, who ſaid, Jeruſalem which is above, is free; and is the Mother of us all, Gal. 4. 26. ſaid alſo in another Epiſtle, Ye are come to Mount Sion, the City of the living God, the Heavenly Jeruſalem; and to Myriads of Angels, &c. Heb. 12. 22, 23. In his (l) Exhortation to Martyrdom, he hath theſe Words, Φησί που ὁ Παῦλος, St. Paul ſpeaking ſomewhere to them who had ſuffer'd from the Beginning, and exhorting them to ſuffer patiently the Trials which afterwards fell upon them for the Word, ſaith, Call to remembrance the former Days, in which ye being enlighten'd, ſuffer'd a great Fight of Afflictions--- Caſt not away therefore your Confidence, which hath great Recompence of Reward; for ye have need of Patience, Heb. 10. 32, 33, 34, 35, 36. And in his Anſwer to Africanus, having cited theſe Words from this Epiſtle, They were ſtoned, they were ſawn aſunder, they were ſlain with the Sword, Heb. 11. 37. he ſaith, (m) If any Perſon, being preſſed with theſe Words, ſhould fall into the Opinion of them who reject this Epiſtle, as none of St. Paul's, he would uſe other Words, to demonſtrate to him that it was the Epiſtle of St. Paul. He alſo adds, That (n) the Sentences contain'd in it are admirable, and no whit inferiour to the Writings of the Apoſtles; as he who diligently reads them muſt confeſs.

In a Word, when this Epiſtle was denied by the Arrians in the Fourth Century, becauſe they were not able to reſiſt the Conviction it affords us, of our Lord's Divinity, (o) Theodoret ſaith, they ought at leaſt to revere the Length of Time, in which the Children of the Church have read this Epiſtle in the Churches, viz. as long as they have read the Apoſtolick Writings: Or if this be not ſufficient to perſuade them, they ſhould hearken to (p) Euſebius, of whom they boaſt, as of the Patron of their Doctrine; for he confeſſes this was St. Paul's Epiſtle, and he declares that all the Ancients had this Opinion of it.

That they of Rome, and other Latins, did for a while reject this Epiſtle, will not much weaken this Tradition, if we conſider,

1. That this Epiſtle was not writ to them, but to the Hebrews, who, as Euſebius (q) teſtifies, delighted much in it.

2*dly*, That it was rejected by them, not that they had any thing to ſay againſt it, but becauſe they could not anſwer the Arguments which the Novatian Schiſmaticks among them produced from the 6*th. and* 10*th. Chapters of this Epiſtle, againſt receiving lapſed Penitents into the Church; whence, as* Philaſtrius informs us, they rejected it, as thinking it was depraved by the Hereticks. Or,

3*dly*, Becauſe it wants his Name, which he conceal'd, not as St. Jerom conjectures, διὰ φθόνον, to avoid the Offence of thoſe who liked not his Perſon, by reaſon of his Doctrine concerning the Non-obſervation of their Law; for it is evident, from his Deſire of their Prayers, and from his Intimation that he deſigned ſhortly to be with them, that he muſt be well known unto them, but, as Theodoret obſerves, becauſe he was made an Apoſtle, not of the Circumciſion, but of the Gentiles. Laſtly, The Difference in Style ſome mention, is ſo nice a thing, and may happen upon ſo many Accounts, that it deſerves not to be look'd on as an Argument of any Force againſt plain Teſtimonies of the Ancients, that St. Paul was the Author of this Work.

2*dly*, That this Epiſtle was written, and directed to the Jews dwelling in Judæa and Paleſtine, is the Opinion of the (r) Ancients, tho' not ſo as to exclude the believing Jews of the Diſperſion. This may be argued from the Endorſement of it, To the Hebrews, rather than To the Jews. It cannot be imagined but that he ſends it to be delivered at a certain Place, within ſome reaſonable Compaſs, ſeeing the Bearer of it, whoever he was, could not deliver it to all the Jews diſpers'd through the whole World, and becauſe he directs them to pray, that he might be reſtored to them, and promiſeth to come and ſee them. The Title therefore, To the Hebrews, muſt determine the Place, and point out the Jews that dwelt in Judæa, or the Land of Iſrael; and this Senſe doth the Holy Ghoſt put upon the Title, The Hebrews, when it is ſaid, There was a murmuring of the Helleniſts againſt the Hebrews, Acts 6. 1. By the Helleniſts, meaning the Jews that dwelt in Foreign Countries, among the Greeks; and by the Hebrews, thoſe that dwelt in Judæa. So again, 2 Cor. 11. 22. Are they Hebrews? ſo am I: Are they Iſraelites? ſo am I. And, Philip. 3. 5. Of the Stock of Iſrael, an Hebrew of the Hebrews, i. e. an Hebrew not only by Deſcent, as were all of the Stock of Iſrael, but by Language which ſome of them had loſt, and by Habitation in the Holy Land, and not among the uncircumciſed Gentiles, he being bred up at the Feet of Gamaliel. And ſo it is moſt proper to underſtand the Inſcription of this Epiſtle, namely, that St. Paul directs and ſends it to the believing Jews of Judæa, which he ſtyles his own Nation, Acts 24. 17. For though he, doubtleſs, did intend it alſo for the Benefit of the believing Jews diſpers'd, yet might he ſend it firſt and chiefly to thoſe in Judæa, the principal Seat of the Circumciſion, from whence it might in time diffuſe through the whole Circumference of the Circumciſion.

But hence it cannot reaſonably be concluded that this Epiſtle was writ in Hebrew, or in Syriack: For the Goſpel of St. John, and his Firſt Epiſtle, the Catholick Epiſtles of St. James, Peter, and St. Jude, were alſo written to the Jews, and yet were writ in Greek, that being a Tongue ſo well known to the Jews, that they call it the vulgar Tongue; and therefore in all the Diſcourſes of the Jews with the Roman Governours, who underſtood the Greek Tongue, we never read, either in Scripture, or Joſephus, that the Jews ſpake to them, or they unto the Jews, by an Interpreter; nor is there any of the Ancients who pretends to have ſeen any Hebrew Copy of this Epiſtle. That it was writ in Greek, appears not only from the Paſſages of Scripture, ſo often cited in it from the Septuagint, even where they differ from the Hebrew, Chap. 1. 6. 3. 8, 9, 10. 8. 9. 10. 5, 37, 38. but alſo from Chap 7. 2. where we read thus, ὃς πρῶτον μὲν ἑρμηνευόμενος Βασιλεὺς δικαιοσύνης firſt being interpreted King of Righteouſneſs, and afterwards King of Salem, which is King of Peace; for both the Word Melchiſedeck, and King of Salem, being in the firſt Verſe, ſhould have been there interpreted, had this been the Addition of the Interpreter; for ſo we find it is throughout the New Teſtament, where the Interpretation immediately follows the Hebrew Word, or Phraſe, as Mark 5. 41. Talitha cumi, which is by Interpretation, Daughter ariſe. Golgotha, which is by Interpretation, the Place of a Skull, Mark 15. 22. So Matth. 27. 46. Mark 15. 34. John 1. 39. Rabbi, which is, being interpreted, Maſter; and v. 42. Meſſiah, which is, being interpreted, the Chriſt. So Ch. 9. 7. 19. 37. Acts 4. 36. & 36. 13. 8. whereas here the Word Melchiſedeck is in the beginning of the firſt Verſe, and the ſuppoſed Addition of the Interpreter is added where the Word is not; ſo King of Salem is in the firſt Verſe not interpreted, and when it is repeated, then comes the Interpretation, which plainly ſhews, that it is made not to give the Senſe, but the Myſtery contained in the Words, viz. That Chriſt was our Peace, Eph. 2. 14. and his Scepter was a Scepter of Righteouſneſs, Chap. 1. 8.

Arg. 4. As for the Time when this Epiſtle was endited, (1.) It ſeems evident that it was written after that to the Coloſſians and Philemon; for there he is Paul, the Priſoner, here he is ſet at Liberty, and hoping to come quickly to them to whom he writes: Thoſe Epiſtles therefore being writ in the 62d. Year of Chriſt, and the 8th. of Nero, this muſt at leaſt be written in the following Year. Again, in the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians we have mention of St. Timothy, but nothing of his Bonds; here we have mention both of his Impriſonment and his enſuing Liberty, which may well caſt this Epiſtle into the 8th. of Nero, where it is placed by Dr. Lightfoot, or into the 9th, as Biſhop Pearſon.

Laſtly, To ſpeak a little of the Occaſion of it, I have ſhewed in the Preface to the 2d. Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, and in the Preface to the Epiſtle to St. James, that it was written chiefly to prevent the Epidemical Apoſtacy, which the believing Jews were then too prone to from Chriſt to Moſes. But we learn alſo from the Matter of the Epiſtle, that it was written to prove that Jeſus was the Son of God: Now in what Senſe this chiefly was denied by the Jews, we learn from the Goſpel of St. John, where, when our Lord had ſaid, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work, John 5. 17. The Jews ſeek to kill him, becauſe πατέρα ἴδιον ἔλεγε τὸν Θεόν, he ſaid, God was his own Father, making himſelf equal to God, v. 18. And again, We ſtone thee, ſay they, for Blaſphemy, becauſe thou, being a Man, makeſt thy ſelf God, John 10. 33. What was this Blaſphemy of which they thus accuſe him? It was only this, that he ſaid, I am the Son of God, v. 36. 'Tis therefore plain they judged it the ſame thing to ſay he was the Son of God, and to ſay that he was God; whence we may rationally conclude, 'twas alſo in this Senſe that the Apoſtle here aſſerts, and doth endeavour to confirm this Truth.

And, Laſtly, this Epiſtle being written to Perſons now relapſing from Chriſt to Moſes, and to the Law given, ſaid they, by Angels, this ſeems to be the Reaſon why the Apoſtle is ſo large in ſhewing that Chriſt was greater than the Angels, a greater Law-giver than Moſes, a greater Prieſt than Aaron, and that the Levitical Prieſthood, Covenant, and Law, were to give Place to Chriſt our great High-Prieſt, to his new Law of Liberty, and that new Covenant he had eſtabliſh'd upon better Promiſes.

Epiſtle to the HEBREWS.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. GOD who at ſundry Times, and in divers manners, ſpake in Time paſt unto the Fathers by the Prophets.

Πολυμερῶς, at ſundry Times,] Before the Flood by Enoch, Jude 14. and Noah, 2 Pet. 2. 5. After the Flood by Abraham the Prophet, Gen. 20. 7. who gave to his Children, and Houſhold after him, the Commandments of the Lord, Gen. 18. 19. By Jacob propheſying to his Sons of Things to come in the laſt Days, Gen. 49. 1. By Moſes, during their Abode in the Wilderneſs; by Deborah, Samuel, and other Prophets, in the Time of the Judges, Judg. 6. 8. By Nathan in the Time of David and Solomon; by Iſaiah, Jeremy, and Ezekiel, in the Time of the Kings; by Daniel, Haggai, Zachariah, Malachy, in, and after the Captivity.

Πολυτρόπως, in divers manners.] In a Cloud, Fire, a ſtill Breath, by Viſions, Dreams, a Voice from Heaven, and by the Holy Spirit, ſpeaking in the Prophets, 2 Pet. 1. 21.

Ver. 2. Hath in theſe laſt Days, (the Times of the Meſſiah, ſee Note on 2 Tim. 3. 1.) ſpoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed, (ἔθηκε, conſtituted,) Heir of all things, by whom alſo he made the Worlds.

Κληρονόμον πάντων, Heir of all things.] As it were by Succeſſion to his Father, who now judgeth no Man, but hath given all Judgment to his Son, John 5. 22. Hebr. 3. 6. we cannot deſire a fairer Comment on theſe Words than that of the Socinians on the Place,(a) that Chriſt is made Heir of all things in Heaven and Earth, yea of Heaven and Earth it ſelf, that he is Heir and Lord of all Angels, and of all Men living and dead, Rom. 14. 8, 9. That he is abſolutely the Heir of all things, and hath the higheſt Empire and Dominion over all Angels, and Men; by which Words is ſignified the higheſt Excellency, and Dignity, and, as it were, the Unity of Chriſt with God, tho' with Diverſity, in that he is his Son, and Heir, and receiv'd this Dominion from another. And I believe 'tis as impoſſible to underſtand how a Man ſhould have this Empire over all things in Heaven and Earth, and over Death it ſelf, and yet be a mere Man, as it is to underſtand any Myſtery of the Sacred Trinity.

Δι' οὗ καὶ τοὺς αἰῶνας ἐποίησε, by whom alſo he made the Worlds.] That is, ſaith Grotius, propter quem, for whom he made them, according to the Doctrine of the Rabbins, that the World was made for the Meſſiah. But this Expoſition is contrary to the Rule of the (b) Grammarians, that τὸ διὰ ὅτι μὲν σημαίνει γενικῇ μετοχέως, ὅτι ἡ αἰτιατικὴ αἰτίας δηλοῖ, that Preposition διὰ, when it is joined with a Genitive Caſe, ſignifies the Means by which, and the final Cauſe only when it is joined with an Accuſative Cauſe. 'Tis contrary to the Expoſition of all the Greek Fathers, who unanimouſly ſay, τοῦτο δηλοῖ τὴν τοῦ θεότητος, this ſhews the Divinity of Chriſt. It alſo is without Example in the New Teſtament; for διὰ τῆς δόξης τοῦ Πατρὸς, Rom. 6. 4. which is the only Place he cites, ſignifies by the Glory, or Power of the Father, by which Chriſt was raiſed from the Dead, Eph. 1. 19. Coloſſ. 2. 12. The Socinians by the Worlds here underſtand the new Creation, or the Church begun by Chriſt's Miniſtry upon Earth, begotten, and renewed by the Evangelical Diſpenſation. But neither ther can this Expoſition ſtand: For, 1ſt. Tho' Chriſt be ſtyled in ſome of the Greek Verſions, πατὴρ τοῦ μέλλοντος αἰῶνος Iſa. 9. 6. the Father of the Age to come, yet οἱ αἰῶνες abſolutely put, doth never ſignifie the Church, or Evangelical State; nor doth the Scripture ever ſpeak of the World to come, in the Plural, but in the Singular Number only, preſerving the Phraſe, Holam Habba, as they received it from the Jews. 2dly, Were this the Import of the Words, the Worlds might as well have been ſaid to have been created, or made by Chriſt's Apoſtles, they being the great Converters of the World; or at the leaſt, this being done by them, aſſiſted by the Power of Chriſt, after he had been thus made Heir of all things, it muſt have properly been ſaid that Chriſt made the Worlds by his Apoſtles, which yet the Holy Ghoſt never thinks fit to intimate. Moreover, whereas this making of the World by Jeſus Chriſt is done by his Prophetick Office, i. e. his ſpeaking to us in the laſt Days, the Apoſtle had mention'd this already, and makes a plain Gradation from it to his Kingly Office, in ſaying he was conſtituted Lord of all Things, not ſpeaking of the making of the World by way of Conſecution, thus, δι' ὃν, and by whom, but by way of farther Gradation, δι' οὗ καὶ, by whom alſo he made the World; as if he ſhould have ſaid, Nor is it to be wondred, that he ſhould be conſtituted Lord of the whole World, ſeeing he made the Whole. And that the Apoſtle here doth ſpeak not of the Reforming of the New, but of the Forming of the Old World, he himſelf ſufficiently inſtructs us by ſaying in this ſame Epiſtle, By Faith we underſtand, κατηρτίσθαι τοὺς αἰῶνας ῥήματι Θεοῦ, that the Worlds were framed by the Word of God, Chap. 11. 3. For that by τοὺς αἰῶνας we are to underſtand the material World, the Socinian Commentator grants, and the parallel Place in St. Peter doth inforce, when he ſaith, that the Heavens were of old, and the Earth, ἐξ ὕδατος καὶ δι' ὕδατος συνεστῶσα τῷ τοῦ Θεοῦ λόγῳ, conſiſting out of Water by the Word of God, 2 Pet. 3. 3. and this World is mention'd in both Places in the Plural Number agreeably to the Phraſe and Doctrine of the Jews, who (c) ſpeak of עולמים the Worlds in the Plural, and divide them into עולם הזה or עולם השפל this Inferior and Habitable World, called by St. Peter, ὁ τότε κόσμος, the then World which periſhed by Water, v. 6. and the עולם העליון Superior World, that is, the Heavens. And it is no improbable Conjecture, that when St. Peter ſaith the Heavens and Earth conſiſted by the Word of God, and St. Paul, that by Faith we learn that the Worlds were framed, ῥήματι Θεοῦ, by the Word of God, they mean this ſubſtantial Word of which the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking; for the Word דבר ſeems plainly to be uſed in this Senſe, when we read in the Targum of Jeruſalem, on Gen. 28. 11. דהוה דבוריה For his Word, i. e. the Word of God, deſired to ſpeak with Jacob; and in that of Jonathan, רבירא, the Word would ſpeak with him, which in Bereſchith Rabba, §. 68. runs thus, God would ſpeak with him; and the Word ῥῆμα ſeems alſo to be either uſed in this Senſe, or applied to the λόγος oft by Philo, as when he ſaith, that (d) Moſes was tranſlated, διὰ ῥήματος τοῦ αἰτίου, δι' οὗ καὶ ὁ σύμπας κόσμος ἐδημιουργεῖτο, by the Word of the firſt Cauſe by which the whole World was made; and that God (e) made both the Heavens and the Earth by a Word, by his moſt illuſtrious and ſplendent λόγος. And to be ſure, Philo was of the ſame Opinion with St. Paul, that the Word made and faſhioned the World, whence he ſo often mentions (f) the Divine Word adorning all things, the Word of God that maketh the World, the Word by which the World is faſhioned, and made, and by which, as his Organ, God gave Being to it, and ſaith, in Words like thoſe of the Apoſtle, that God poſſeſſeth all things, uſing that Word as the Diſpenſer of his Gifts, by which alſo he made the World.

And this was alſo the Doctrine of all the Primitive Fathers from the Beginning, as well as of all the Commentators on this Text, St. Barnabas (g) declares, That he is the Lord of the World, the Maker of the Sun, the Perſon by whom, and to whom are all things. He is, ſaith Juſtin Martyr, (h) the Word by which the Heaven, the Earth, and every Creature was made, by whom God at the Beginning made and adorned all things, viz. the Heavens and the Earth, and by whom he will renew them. This (i) Irenæus delivers as the Rule of Faith contained in the Scriptures, which they who hold to may eaſily prove, that the Heretick had deviated from the Truth. He adds, that the Barbarians, who held the Ancient Tradition, did believe in one God, the Maker of Heaven and Earth, and of all things therein by Chriſt Jeſus the Son of God; and this Doctrine he repeats almoſt an hundred times elſewhere. (k) Our Doctrine, ſaith Athenagoras, celebrates one God the Creator of all things, who made all things by Jeſus Chriſt, from whom and by whom all things were made. God, ſaith (l) Theophilus, made all things by him, and he is called the Beginning, becauſe he is the Principal and Ruler of all things made by him. He adds, That by this Principle God made the Heavens: That God ſaid to him, Let us make Man, he being his Word by which he made all things. Him, ſaith (m) Tatian, we know to have been the Author of the World, for that which was begotten in the Beginning, gave beginning to the things made. He made Man the Image of his Immortality, and before Man he made the Angels. We rational Creatures, ſaith (n) Clemens of Alexandria, are the Work of God, the Word, for he was and is the Divine Principle of all things, by whom all things were made, and who, as the Framer of all things in the Beginning, gave alſo Life to us; by whom are all things, who made Man, our God and Maker, the Cauſe of the Creation. In the third Century we learn the ſame from (o) Origen, (p) Tertullian, (q) Novatian, and (r) St. Cyprian, and others cited by the Learned Dr. Bull. So that in theſe two Verſes there be viſible theſe Gradations, one from Chriſt's Prophetick Office to his Kingly Office conferr'd on him as Heir of all things, the other from his Kingly Office, to the Foundation of it laid in his Divine Nature, and in the Work of the Creation, it being, ſay Irenæus, and the Ancient Fathers, fit that he ſhould reform and govern the World, by whom 'twas formed; that he ſhould give new Life to Man, who gave him his Being, and firſt Breath.

Ver. 3. Who being the Brightneſs of his Glory, and the expreſs Image of his Perſon (or Character of his Subſiſtence,) and upholding all things by the Word of his Power, when he had (Gr. having) by himſelf purged our Sins, ſate down on the Right Hand of the Majeſty on high.

Ἀπαύγασμα δὲ δόξης, i. e. the Reſplendence or ſhining forth of his Glory.] This Metaphor ſome of the Fathers think is taken from the Sun, whence (s) Juſtin Martyr ſaith he proceedeth from the Father as, τὸ τοῦ ἡλίου φῶς, the Light of the Sun, without diviſion or ſeparation from him. Others with him, πρὸς ὑπόδειγμα χάριν, for Example's ſake, ſay, (t) he proceedeth. ὡς ἀπὸ πυρὸς ἀναπτόμενα πυρὸ, (u) as Fire is kindled from Fire without the Diminution of the Fire that kindles it, or as ἀπὸ λαμπάδος λαμπὰς, as one Torch is lighted from another; which is the Metaphor of Tatian, p. 145. which Metaphors they have borrowed from Philo, who ſpeaking of the Spirit in Moſes, derived upon the Seventy Elders, cautions us not to underſtand this to be done (x) κατὰ ἀποτομὴν καὶ διαίρεσιν, by abſciſion or diſjunction, ἀλλ' οἷα γίνεται ἂν ἀπὸ πυρὸς, but as Light from Fire, at which if you light a thouſand Torches, it is not diminiſhed; accordingly the Nicene Council ſtyle him Light of Light, and hence they argue his Conſubſtantiality with the Father, who produces not another Eſſence or Subſtance in the Son, but communicates the ſame Eſſence to him. The like Notions the Jews ſeem to have had of their Λόγος, or Wiſdom, which is with them the ſame: For the Book of Wiſdom ſaith of her, that ſhe is ἀπόρροια τῆς παντοκράτορος δόξης εἰλικρινὴς καὶ ἀπαύγασμα φωτὸς ἀπὸ, an efflux of the ſincere Glory of the Almighty, and the Splendor of Eternal Light, chap. 7. 25, 26. And Philo ſaith of the (y) λόγος, That he is τὸ τῆς ἀκηράτου καὶ μεγίστου θεοῦ ἀπαυγέσμα καὶ φαεσφόρον ἰδέαν φῶς, the moſt illuſtrious and ſplendid Light of the inviſible and higheſt God. And this the Jews might better underſtand, if it were taken, as probably it was, from the Glory that conducted them out of Egypt, led them through the Wilderneſs, and dwelt among them firſt in the Ark and Tabernacle, and afterwards in the Temple. For 'tis obſervable,

1. That this δόξα, Glory, or Shechinah ſo often mention'd in the New Teſtament, and in the Writings of the Jews, was not the Cloud it ſelf, that being only the cover of it, but the Light, Fire, or Splendor that iſſued from it. So Exod. 24. 16. And the Glory of the Lord dwelt upon Mount Sinai, and the Cloud covered it, (viz. the Glory of the Lord,) ſix days; and the ſight of the Glory of the Lord (when it broke out of the Cloud after ſix Days) was as burning Fire on the top of the Mount, in the ſight of the people Iſrael. And Exod. 40. 34. Then a Cloud covered the Tent of the Congregation, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle: And ver. 35. Moſes was not able to enter into the Tent of the Congregation, becauſe the Cloud abode thereon, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Houſe. 1 Kings 8. 10, 11. when the Prieſts were come out of the Holy Place, the Cloud filled the Houſe of the Lord, ſo that the Prieſt could not ſtand to miniſter becauſe of the Cloud; for the Glory of the Lord had filled the Houſe of the Lord. Ezek. 10. 4. And the Houſe was filled with the Cloud, and the Court was full of the brightneſs of the Glory of the Lord. Note,

2. That this Glory is ſtiled the Glory of the Lord, not as being it ſelf a Divine Thing, or a Ray of Divinity, but as being the Symbol of God's glorious Preſence, and abode where it appeared, and reſided. Thus the Cloud which conſiſted of a dark part to cover the Fire, or Light, and a bright ſide by the appearance of the Light, is called the Cloud of Jehovah, Exod. 40. 38. Numb. 10. 34. becauſe God was glorioufly preſent in it; or, as Rabbi Moſes Ben-Nachman, on Exod. 40. 34. ſaith, כי הכבוד שוכן בתוך הענן, becauſe the Glory dwelt in the midſt of it; whence God ſaid, Lo I come to thee in a thick Cloud, Exod. 19. 9. I will appear in the Cloud upon the Mercy-ſeat, Lev. 16. 2. He ſpake to Moſes out of the Cloud, Numb. 7. 89. And when he went to receive his Commands, it is ſaid, And Moſes drew near to the thick Darkneſs where God was, Exod. 20. 21. And laſtly, God is ſaid to go before them by day in a pillar of Cloud, and by night in the pillar of Fire, Exod. 13. 21. Numb. 14. 14.

Again; the Ark in which this Glory dwelt between the Cherubims is called, כבוד יי, the Glory of the Lord, i. e. of that Glorious Majeſty who dwelt in it. Whence the God of Iſrael is often ſtiled the God that ſitteth between the Cherubims, becauſe here, ſay the (z) Jews, he fixed his Reſidence, and Preſence, notwithſtanding that he fills Heaven and Earth, and his Majeſty is in Heaven and in all the Earth. And when the Ark was to be taken up and carried any whither, they ſung thus, Ariſe Jehovah, and let thine Enemies be ſcattered, Numb. 10. 35. Pſal. 68. 2. And when it reſted, thus, Give reſt, Jehovah, to the many thouſands of Iſrael; not ſtiling the Ark Jehovah, but the Glorious Majeſty that dwelt in it, or him, and the ark of his ſtrength, Pſal. 132. 8. Where alſo it may be noted, That the Targum of Jeruſalem and Jonathan read thus, Riſe up O word of the Lord, and Return O word of the Lord. And Pſalm 24. when the Ark was brought from the Houſe of Obed-Edom, and ſetled in Mount Zion, and placed in the Holy of Holies, they ſung thus, Lift up your heads, O ye Gates, that the King of Glory may come in; i. e. the Lord of Hoſts, who dwelt in the Ark.

Accordingly our Lord Jeſus after his Aſcenſion, appeared ſtill in or with the Glory of the Lord. When he was Transfigured on Mount Tabor he was in this Splendor, Matth. 17. 2. ſtiled by St. Peter, μεγαλοπρεπὴς δόξα, The Magnificent Glory, 2 Pet. 1. 17. So he appeared to Stephen, who ſaw the Glory of the Lord, and Jeſus ſtanding at the right Hand of God, Acts 7. 55. So to Saul, when a light brighter than the Sun ſhone round about him, and he heard a voice out of it ſaying to him, I am Jeſus whom thou perſecuteſt, Acts 9. 5. 26. 13. He being, ὁ κύριος τῆς δόξης, the Lord of Glory, 1 Cor. 2. 8. See Rev. 1. 14, 15. 2. 18. 18. 1. 19. 12. And becauſe of God's Reſidence in this Glory, the word Glory doth often ſignifie God himſelf; as when we read of the Throne, and the Houſe of Glory, i. e. of the Glorious God. So Rabbi (a) Joſeph Albo, It is the manner of the Scripture to call the viſible Glory and Splendor of the Divine Majeſty by the Name of God. So Pſal. 106. 20. They turned their Glory into the ſimilitude of a Calf, Jer. 2. 11. My people have changed their Glory for that which doth not profit. And ſo the Fathers ſeem to take the word Glory here for the Divine Majeſty. Note,

3. That from this Glory, when God did any wondrous Works of Power, Mercy and Judgment, there is ſaid to be an Emanation or ſhining forth of Glory; as when Fire went forth from the Glory of the Lord to conſume their Sacrifices, in token of his favourable acceptance of them. So Lev. 9. 23, 24. The Glory of the Lord appeared, and there came a Fire out from before the Lord, and conſumed upon the Altar the burnt-offering and the fat. So 2 Chron. 7. 1, 2, 3. accordingly they begged his Favour in theſe Words, Thou that dwelleſt between the Cherubims ſhine forth, Pſal. 80. 1. See Pſal. 50. 2. Deut. 33. 3. And to conſume Tranſgreſſors, viz. Nadab and Abihu, Lev. 10. 2. and the two hundred and fifty Men that offered Incenſe, Numb. 16. 35. See Exod. 14. 24, 25. And in like manner may the Son be ſaid to be ἀπαύγασμα τῆς δόξης, an Emanation or ſhining forth from the Glory of the Father; as being before all things, (l. 2. c. 48. 4, 28.) Prolatus a patre ſive generatus, begotton or brought forth by the Father, ſaith Irenæus, being always in him, but τῶν ὑλικῶν ξυμπάντων ἰδέα καὶ ἐνέργεια ἦν προελθών, coming forth before all things, to be the Idea and active Power of all material Beings. So p. 10. D. Athenagoras, the Word whom the Father begot, ἐξιδεδόμενος μὲν πάντων, ſending him forth before all things, who was always in God, and became, λόγος προφορικὸς, when he would create the World. So (b) Theophilus, whom he made, προπηδᾶν, to leap from him. Say (c) Juſtin Martyr and Tatian, He being in him before all Ages, προελθὼν ὁ λόγος δημιουργίας, the Word coming forth, which is the cauſe of the Creation, προγεννηθεὶς, δι' οὗ τὰ πάντα, and forebegotten, by which all things were made, ſaith (d) Clemens Alexandrinus. The Word brought forth by the Father, and by the Prolation generated, and therefore the Son of God, ſaith (e) Tertullian.

Καὶ χαρακτὴρ τῆς ὑποστάσεως αὐτοῦ, The Impreſſion or Repreſention of his Subſiſtence.] The Phraſe ſignifies, ſaith Theodoret, That he ſubſiſts by himſelf, καὶ ἐν ἑαυτῷ δείκνυσι τὰς πατρικὰς χαρακτῆρας, and in himſelf repreſents the Characters of his Father. Χαρακτὴρ, ſaith Phavorinus, is διατύπωσις ὅλως ἢ ὑποστάσεως, a form or draught manifeſting the Subſtance whence it was taken. Ὑπόστασις, ſaith he, is the Subſtance with the Properties; οὐσία μετὰ τῶν ἰδιωμάτων, or συνδρομὴ τῶν περὶ ἑκάστου ἰδιωμάτων, a concourſe of all the Properties of any Being; ſo that the Character of his Subſiſtence here, is, according to him, a Draught manifeſting, or exhibiting the Subſtance and the Properties of God. According to the Greek Commentators on the Place, it is the ſame with our Lord's being in the form of God, before he took our Nature on him, Phil. 2. 5. Accordingly Wiſdom is by the Author of the Book that bears that Name ſtiled, ἔσοπτρον ἀκηλίδωτον τῆς τοῦ Θεοῦ ἐνεργείας καὶ εἰκὼν τῆς ἀγαθότητος αὐτοῦ, the unſpotted Mirrour of the Power or Activity of God, and the Image of his Goodneſs, chap. 7. 26. The Logos is, ſaith (f) Philo, εἰδὼς θεοῦ εἰκὼν ἀΐδιος, the Eternal Image of God. The Image of God, διʼ οὗ καὶ ὁ κόσμος ἐδημιουργεῖτο, by which the whole World was made. And of the Angel which God ſent before Iſrael, in whom God's Name was, Exod. 23. 22. the Jews ſay he was מלאך פנים, the Angel of his Face; becauſe ſaith (g) R. M. Gerundenſis, God's Face, or Glory, might be ſeen in him, or he exactly repreſented him; yea, the Government of the whole World was committed to him, and God had made him Lord over his whole Houſe, and had made things ſubject to him. Now theſe things ſo exactly agree with what the Apoſtle here aſcribes to Chriſt, that I could not think them unworthy to be noted here.

φέρων τε τὰ πάντα τῷ ῥήματι τῆς δυνάμεως αὐτοῦ, and upholding all things by the Word of his Power.] The Hebrew word נשא is ſometimes rendred φέρω, ſuſtineo; as when 'tis ſaid of Moſes, Numb. 11. 14, 17. I cannot, φέρειν, ſuſtain or bear all this people. And Deut. 1. 9, 12. How can I alone, φέρειν τὸν κόπον, bear the labour of all this people? And of Chriſt, That, φέρει, he bears the burthen of our ſins, Iſa. 53. 4. Sometimes it ſignifies to Govern, whence נשיא is ſometimes rendred βασιλεὺς, a King, Gen. 23. 6. ſometimes ἄρχων, a Prince, as it is rendred above ſixty times: Sometimes ἀρχηγὸς, in the ſame ſenſe, Numb. 13. 3. and 16. 2. and ſometimes ἡγούμενος, a Governour, Joſ. 13. 22. 2 Chron. 5. 1. And the Greek φέρειν, ſignifies not only to ſuſtain, but alſo ſuo arbitratu moderari, to govern at his Will: Now which of theſe two ſenſes you put upon the Words, it is not much material, ſince it is equally the effect of a Divine Power to ſuſtain, and govern all things. Whence this is by the Jews made the Deſcription of God himſelf, That he is a God, סבול כלא, (h) ſuſtaining all things, the Heavens, the Earth, and the Abyſs, and bearing all People, ברוח מימריה, by the Spirit of his Word. Accordingly of the λόγος Philo often ſaith, (i) That he is πυβερνήτης καὶ κυβερνήτης πάντων, he that ſits at the Helm, and governs all things: That he is, (k) ὁ ἐνέχων καὶ διοικῶν τὰ πάντα, he that containeth and diſpenſeth all things. That (l) God as a King and Shepherd, Rules according to Law and Right, placing over us his Firſt-begotten Son; ὃς ἐστὶ δημιουργὸς τῆς ἱερᾶς ταύτης ἀγέλης οἷα μεγάλου βασιλέως ὑπαρχος διαδόχεται, Who, as the Prorex of the Great King, takes care of the ſacred Flock.

It remains yet to be enquired, Whether theſe things are ſpoken of our Lord, as acting here on Earth, or purely of the Divine Nature he had before the World was made. The Socinians and ſome others think all this relates to our Saviour, as acting here on Earth. That he was the Splendour of his Father's Glory, becauſe God who commanded the Light to ſhine out of Darkneſs, hath ſhined into our Hearts to give the light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Cor. 4. 6. On which account the Apoſtle ſaith, We have ſeen his Glory, the Glory as of the only-begotten Son of God, John 1. 14. That he was the Character of his Subſtance, or his Attributes, as he was the Image of the inviſible God, Col. 1. 15. in which his Power, Wiſdom, Holineſs, Love, and Mercy ſhined forth conſpicuouſly: That he did φέρειν, ſuſtain, perform all things by the Word of his Power; as he made the Winds and Seas calm, rebuked Diſeaſes, and caſt out Devils by his Word. And Mr. Clarke is poſitive, That it muſt be the Humane Nature which this Sacred Writer ſpake of, that the Jews might underſtand what he ſaid was true; for that alone is viſible, and nothing but what is ſuch can be called the Image, or brightneſs of any thing among Men. On the other hand it is certain, that all the Fathers were of another Mind; that when Philo and the Ancient Jews ſpake thus of Wiſdom, the Logos, the Angel of God's Face, they underſtood all that they ſaid of the Logos, and Wiſdom ſubſiſting long before our Saviour's Incarnation, and ſo thought this Logos the Splendour and Image of the Father, when he was not viſible among Men; as the Apoſtle ſaith he was, when he was taken from them into Heaven: And the like conceptions had the Jews of Wiſdom, and of the Angel of his Face. 'Tis certain alſo, that the preceding words, by whom alſo he made the Worlds, cannot be ſpoken of Chriſt incarnate; and the words, upholding all things by the word of his Power, ſeem to import the ſame with that Expreſſion of the Apoſtle, Col. 1. 17. By him all things conſiſt. Moreover could theſe things be attributed to our Lord Chriſt as acting in the Fleſh, yet have I proved, Note on Col. 1. 15. that they muſt be aſcribed to a Divine Nature reſiding in him, or to God manifeſted in the Fleſh; and ſo what Mr. Clarke ſays muſt be the Humane Nature, muſt, ſay I, be the Divine Nature.

δι' ἑαυτοῦ καθαρισμὸν ποιησάμενος ἁμαρτιῶν, when he had by himſelf purged our Sins.] i. e. When he had made himſelf an Expiatory Sacrifice, to purge us from the Guilt and Puniſhment of our Tranſgreſſions. To confirm this let it be Noted,

1. That this was the Opinion of all Nations, that their Expiatory Sacrifices were deſigned to take away the Guilt of Sin, and make Atonement for it to an offended Majeſty. For why are they ſtill ſaid ἁγνίζειν, καθαίζειν, purgare, luſtrare, to purge, and to make clean, but from their ſuppoſed Virtue to purifie them from the Guilt of Sin? And becauſe Sin is often repreſented in the Law of Moſes, and in the Prophets, under the Metaphors of Uncleanneſs, Filthineſs, Defilement, and Pollution; therefore their Sacrifices alſo are ſtill repreſented as cleanſing them from the Guilt, and the Defilement of Sin, and ſo making the Pollution to paſs from them. Hence the Blood which made the Atonement is ſtiled αἷμα καθαρισμοῦ, the Blood of cleanſing, or Purgation. So Exod. 30. 10. And Aaron ſhall make an Atonement upon the Horns of the Incenſe-offering once a Year, ἀπὸ τοῦ αἵματος καθαρισμοῦ καθαρίσει αὐτό, with the Blood of the Sin-offering ſhall he make Atonement upon it. And the Sacrifice offered for Sin is ſaid to be offered καθαίσαι, to purifie them from it by an Atonement. So Lev. 9. 15. And he brought the peoples Offering, and took the Goat which was the Sin-offering, and ſlew it, καὶ ἐκαθάρισεν αὐτὸν, and offered it for Sin. And Lev. 16. 30. In the great day of Atonement the Prieſt ſhall make an Atonement for you, καθαίσαι ὑμᾶς, to cleanſe you, that you may be clean from all your Sins before the Lord, καὶ καθαρισθήσεσθε, and you ſhall be cleanſed. So Job is ſaid, καθαίζειν, to cleanſe his Sons from their ſuppoſed Sins by a Burnt-offering, Chap. 1. 5. Since therefore it is very reaſonable to conceive that the word καθαίζειν uſed in an Epiſtle written to the Jews touching the Expiatory Sacrifice of Chriſt, is uſed in the ſenſe in which they always took it when applied in the Old Teſtament, to Sacrifices which made Atonement for their Sins; it follows, that when the Apoſtle here ſaid Chriſt made καθαρισμὸν, a purgation of our Sins by himſelf: And when he adds, That whereas the Blood of the legal Sacrifices did expiate εἰς τὴν τῆς σαρκὸς καθαρότητα, to the purification of the Fleſh, the Blood of Chriſt, καθαριεῖ, ſhall much more expiate to the purification of the Conſcience from the Guilt of Sin, chap. 9. 13. When he proceeds to ſay, That whereas under the Law almoſt all things, ἐν αἵματι καθαρίζηται, were purified by Blood, and without ſhedding of Blood there was no Remiſſion, ver. 22. 23. And thence argues, That the heavenly things muſt be purged with better Sacrifices. He in theſe Caſes muſt ſpeak of the Blood of Chriſt, as making Atonement for our Sins, by purging away the Guilt of them, and averting the Puniſhment due to us for them.

Ver. 4. Being made (Gr. being) ſo much better than the Angels, (and Superiour to them by this Exaltation to the Right-hand of Majeſty,) as (by it) he hath obtained a more excellent Name (Title, and Authority) than they.

Διαφορώτερον ὄνομα, a more excellent Name.] i. e. Not only Title, but Authority, and ſuperiour Excellency. So Phil. 2. 9. God hath highly highly exalted him, and given him, ὄνομα τὸ ὑπὲρ πᾶν ὄνομα, a Name above every Name; i. e. the higheſt Dignity and Power, that at the Name of Jeſus every Knee ſhould bow; i. e. that all Creatures in Heaven, in Earth, or under it, ſhould own his Power and Dominion, v. 10. Eph. 1. 21. He hath ſet him at his right hand, above all Principality, Power, Might, and Dominion, καὶ παντὸς ὀνόματος, and every Name. In both theſe Senſes, Chriſt hath a more excellent Name, viz. the Name of his only Son, v. 5. the Name of God, v. 8. and a more excellent Authority and Dignity, viz. that of ſitting at the right hand of Majeſty, v. 13. and ruling all things by the Word of his Power; and this Excellency he hath upon a better Foundation, as being the Maker of the World, &c. v. 2, 3.

Ver. 5. For to which of the Angels, ſaid he at any time, (as he did to Chriſt,) Thou art my Son, this Day have I begotten thee? And again, (to Solomon the Son of David, what did more eminently belong to this Son and Lord of David,) I will be to him a Father, and he ſhall be to me a Son, (2 Sam. 7. 14. 1 Chron. 22. 10.)

Τίνι γὰρ εἶπέ ποτε, thou art my Son.] R. Solomon (m) here ſaith our Maſters have interpreted all that is written in this Pſalm of the King Meſſiah: And R. Saadias Gaon (n) doth from theſe very Words prove the Dominion and Kingdom of the Meſſiah, becauſe it is here ſaid, I have ſet thee, my King, upon the Holy Hill of Sion. I will declare the Command, Jehovah hath ſaid unto me, Thou art my Son, &c. which alſo is apparent from the following Words, I will give the Heathen for thine Inritance, &c. v. 8. and from the Exhortation to all Kings to ſubmit to him. And that this was the Ancient and received Expoſition of theſe Words, confirmed by the Holy Ghoſt, we learn from this Apoſtle, who diſputing with the Jews, touching our Saviour's Reſurrection, when all Power in Heaven and Earth was given to him, Matth. 28. 18. He proves it from theſe very Words, Acts 13. 33. And again, ſpeaking of his Prieſthood, which he was to exerciſe in Heaven after his Reſurrection and Aſcenſion, he proves it to the ſame Jews from theſe very Words, Heb. 5. 5.

Ἐγὼ ἔσομαι αὐτῷ εἰς πατέρα, I will be to him a Father, &c.] Theſe Words are cited from 2 Sam. 7. 14. and they do promiſe to Solomon, the Type of Chriſt, a Kingdom to be eſtabliſh'd for ever, v. 13, 16. and ſo to Chriſt, the Antitype, and eminently the Son of David, an everlaſting Kingdom and Dominion. See The Judgment of the Jewiſh Church, p. 61.

Note alſo, That tho' the Angels be ſometimes in Scripture called the Sons of God, Job 1. 6. 2. 1. 38. 7. God never ſaid to any of them, I will be to him a Father, to protect him in his Kingdom, much leſs, Thou art my Son, this Day have I begotten thee to a Kingdom: And ſo theſe Paſſages, in the true and full Extent of them, cannot agree to any of the Angels.

Ver. 6. And again, when he bringeth in (ὅταν δὲ πάλιν, and when he brings again) the firſt begotten (from the Dead, Col. 1. 18.) into the World, he ſaith, And let all the Angels of God worſhip him. (Eſtabliſhing thus his Dominion over them, and their Subjection to him, and alſo the Divine Excellence of him who was thus to be worſhipped by the higheſt of created Beings.)

Προσκυνησάτωσαν αὐτῷ πάντες ἄγγελοι Θεοῦ.] 'Tis generally thought theſe Words are cited from Pſal. 97. 7. where, in the Septuag. we have Words very like them, viz. προσκυνήσατε αὐτῷ πάντες Ἄγγελοι αὐτοῦ, worſhip him all his Angels, in the Hebrew it is indeed כל אלהים all ye Elohim, but then Aben Ezra's Note, is, That ſome think כל אלהים הם המלאכים the word Elohim always denotes the Angels: And (o) Kimchi ſaith the Hebrews did expound this Pſalm of what was to come to paſs in the Days of the Meſſiah. In the Septuagint it is ſtyled a Pſalm of David, ὅτε ἡ γῆ αὐτοῦ κατοικεῖται, when the Land was eſtabliſh'd to him, or when he was made Maſter of all thoſe Countries which God deſigned to be the Inheritance of Iſrael, and therefore may very properly be referr'd to the Son of David, at his Reſurrection, or his coming again into the World, that being the Time when all Power in Heaven and Earth was given to him, when he was ſolemnly inaugurized, and inſtated in his Spiritual and heavenly Kingdom, and the Government was upon his Shoulders, and he ſate down on the right Hand of the Majeſty on high, v. 3.

But it is obſervable, that theſe Words are expreſly to be found, Deut. 32. 43. as here they are cited: And it is certain, from St. Paul, that God there ſpeaks of the Times when the Meſſiah was to be preach'd unto the Gentiles, for that the Gentiles ſhould glorifie God for his Mercy, he proves from theſe Words of the ſame Verſe, Rejoyce ye Gentiles with his People, Rom. 15. 9, 10. Accordingly the Jews expound many of the Words of Moſes here recorded. Thus Jonathan on v. 39. ſaith thus, When מימרא דיי the Word of the Lord ſhall reveal himſelf to redeem his People; he ſhall ſay to all People, See I am he that am, and have been, and ſhall be, (ſee Heb. 13. 8.) I by my Word kill and make alive, I ſmite the People Iſrael, and I will heal them in the End of the Days. On v. 40. the Targum of Jeruſalem ſaith thus, I live במימרי by my Word for ever; that of Jonathan, I have prepared in the Heavens בית שכנתי the House of my Majeſty; that is, ſaith R. Solomo מקום שכינתי the Place of my Majeſty; Expreſſions often uſed by Philo to ſignifie the Λόγος, as when he ſaith, εἶκον ἔχων ἐν ἑαυτῷ λόγον, (p) God hath his Houſe, viz. his own Word, and that ὁ θεῖος λόγος, (q) the Divine Word is his Place; and upon v. 43. Jonathan B. Uziel paraphraſes thus, He with his Word will expiate for the Land, and for his People, viz. as the High Prieſt did on the great Day of Expiation. The other Words, He will render Vengeance to his Enemies, and make his Arrows drunk with the blood of the ſlain, are fit Expreſſions of Chriſt's Exerciſe of his Kingly Government over his Enemies, by which he was to break them with a Rod of Iron, and daſh them in pieces as a Potter's Veſſel, Pſal. 2. 9. The import of theſe Words therefore may be this, when God was to introduce his Firſt-born again into the World by the Reſurrection, and give him Power and Dominion over all things in Heaven and Earth, he ſaid, Let all the Angels of God worſhip him, and own him as their Lord and Maker.

Ver. 7. And (moreover, ſpeaking) of the Angels, he (i. e. David only) ſaith, (he is that God,) who maketh his Angels Spirits, (or Winds,) and his Miniſters a flaming fire; (giving them no higher Titles than thoſe of his Meſſengers and Miniſters, and ſhewing their Efficacy and Swiftneſs in doing his Commandments, and hearkening to the Voice of his Words, by comparing them to the Winds and Fire, Pſal. 103. 20, 21.)

Πρὸς τοὺς Ἀγγέλους.] The Pſalmiſt ſpeaking, Pſal. 104. 4. not to, but of the Angels, it is neceſſary to tranſlate theſe Words as our Verſion doth, Of the Angels he ſaith; and as the Hebrew אל, ſo the Greek πρὸς is oft of the ſame Import with de and אל. He ſpake this Parable, πρὸς αὐτούς, concerning them, Luk. 20. 19. Mark 12. 12. πρὸς δὲ τὸν Ἰσραὴλ, But of Iſrael he ſaith, Rom. 10. 21. πρὸς ὃν, Of whom we ſpeak, Heb. 4. 13. Of the Particle אל, ſee Noldius, p. 458.

Ver. 8. But (ſpeaking) to (of) the Son, he (i. e. David, moved by the Holy Ghoſt,) ſaith, Thy Throne, O God, is for ever and ever; a Sceptre of Righteouſneſs is the Sceptre of thy Kingdom, (Pſal. 45. 7.)

Ver. 9. Thou haſt loved Righteouſneſs, and hated Iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the Oil of Gladneſs, (i. e. advanced thee in Eminence and Dignity) above thy Fellows; (ſtiling him in theſe Words God, and an Eternal King; aſcribing to him a Throne and Kingdom, and a Righteous Government, to reward his Righteous Servants, whom he loves; and to puniſh his Obdurate Enemies, whoſe Iniquities render them hateful to him. So that theſe Words again prove both his Divine Nature, and his Exaltation to the Government of the whole World.)

Ὁ θεός, ὁ θεός σου, God, even thy God:] For Chriſt is God of God, according to the Nicene Symbol. Hence do the Primitive Fathers thus diſtinguiſh betwixt him and the Father; That God the Father is that God, above whom there is no other God: Whereas Chriſt is God of God; and as to that, inferiour to God the Father. So (r) Juſtin Martyr, and (ſ) Irenæus.

That this Pſalm was ſpoken of the Meſſiah, is evident from the Targum on the place, which ſaith, Becauſe thou, O King Meſſiah, haſt loved Juſtice, &c. And on ver. 3. Thy Fairneſs, O King Meſſiah, exceeds the Sons of Men. To this purpoſe, ſee R. Solomon, and Aben Ezra, on this Pſalm.

Ver. 10. And (that alſo by him he made the Heavens, is teſtified in theſe Words ſpoken of him,) thou, Lord, in the Beginning, haſt laid the Foundation of the Earth; and the Heavens are the Works of thy Hands.

Ver. 11. They ſhall periſh, but thou remaineſt; and they ſhall all wax old, as doth a Garment:

Ver. 12. And as a Veſture ſhalt thou fold them up, and they ſhall be changed; but thou art the ſame, and thy Years ſhall not fail, (Pſal. 102.)

That this Pſalm hath relation to the Times of the Meſſiah, we learn from the Chaldee Paraphraſt, which ſaith on v. 16. Zion is builded by the Word of the Lord: And from the Creation of a new People to praiſe the Lord, v. 18. which the Jews themſelves expound of the World to come, or the State of the Church under the Meſſiah: And 3dly, From the Calling of the Gentiles, mention'd v. 15. So the Heathens ſhall fear the Name of the Lord; and all the Kings of the Earth, thy Glory. And v. 22. When the People are gather'd together, and the Kingdoms, to ſerve the Lord. See The Judgment of the Jewiſh Church, p. 38.

That theſe things are here ſpoken of, and applied to Chriſt, is alſo evident, 1. From the Connexive Particle δὲ, which knits this to the former Citation, and makes it to run thus: Of the Son it is ſaid, Thy Throne, O God, is for ever: ℣. And of him it is alſo ſaid, Thou, Lord, in the Beginning, haſt laid the Foundations of the Earth. 2. From the Scope of the Apoſtle, which, both before and after, is, to bring Teſtimonies to prove the Excellency of the Meſſiah, and the Truth of what he had aſſerted of him, v. 2, 3. and therefore he muſt purſue the ſame Deſign here. And, 3dly, From the Conceſſion of the Socinians upon the place, That the latter Words, which ſpeak of the Deſtruction of the Heavens and the Earth, belong to Chriſt. Now theſe Words, They ſhall periſh, but thou remaineſt, are plainly ſpoken of the ſame Perſon who founded the Earth in the Beginning; and therefore muſt equally belong to Chriſt. But here it is objected.

Obj. That if the Author of this Epiſtle had indeed believed that Chriſt was the Creator of the World, to what purpoſe doth he ſpend ſo much Time to prove him more excellent than the Angels? For who can doubt that the Creator is more excellent than his Creatures?

Anſw. 1. He doth not abſolutely go about to prove him more excellent than the Angels, but comparatively, ſo far more excellent as the Titles given him in Scripture ſhew'd that he exceeded them; and that was, as much as the Creator doth exceed his Creatures.

2. I have ſhew'd, Note on the 2d and 3d Verſes, that the Apoſtle had aſſerted not only Chriſt's Dignity, as Heir of all things, and ſo ſucceeding in his Father's Kingdom; but alſo that he was therefore Lord of all things, becauſe he made the World, and therefore was obliged in his Teſtimonies to prove both theſe things; as he doth in moſt of the Teſtimonies produced.

3. As there were then divers Hereticks who aſcribed the Creation of this viſible World to Angels, and not to Chriſt; ſo alſo were there divers Jews who held that they were God's Miniſters, or συνεργοὶ, Co-workers in the Creation of the World; and that God ſaid to them, Let us make Man, Gen. 1. 26. Now againſt theſe Jews and Hereticks, the Apoſtle very appoſitely proves, that the Creation of the World was not to be aſcribed to thoſe Angels who, ſay they, gave the Law, chap. 2. 2. but to that Jeſus from whom we have receiv'd the Goſpel. Of the Sayings of the Jews, concerning the Aſſiſtance of the Angels in framing Man, ſee Note on chap. 2. 5. And Maimonides more Nevochim, Part 2. Chap. 6. Of Simon Magus Irenæus doth inform us, l. 1. c. 20. that he held that his Ennoia produced Angelos & Poteſtates, a quibus & Mundum hunc factum eſſe dixit; Angels and Powers, by whom this World was made: That Menander alſo, ibid. cap. 21. held, Mundum factum ab Angelis, That the World was made by Angels: That Cerinthus, ibid. cap. 22, 23, 24. held that the World was made by ſome ſeparate Virtues, much inferiour to God; that the World was not made by Chriſt, but that he rather came ad diſſolvenda omnia opera ejus Dei qui mundum fecit, to diſſolve all the Works of that God who made the World: And Laſtly, Χειτῷ ὁμογενῶς Ἀγγέλοις συνεργαζόμενον, That the Angels were of the ſame Rank with Chriſt, and produced together with him. All which vain Fancies gave juſt Occaſion to the Apoſtle to aſſert that Chriſt was thus ſuperiour to the Angels, and the Creator both of them, and of the World. Accordingly, the Targum of Jeruſalem gives this Deſcription of the Word of the Lord, That it is he who ſaid to the World, Be, and it was; and who will ſay unto it, Be, and it ſhall be. Which Words the Targum of Jonathan Ben Vziel (in Exod. 3. 14.) apply to the Lord himſelf.

Ver. 13. And, (yea,) to which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, (as he did to Chriſt, Pſal. 110. 1.) Sit thou on my Right Hand till I make thine Enemies thy Foot-ſtool.

Ver. 14. Are they not all (declared, Pſal. 103. 20, 21. and 104. 4. to be) miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth (not for Government and Dominion, but) to miniſter to them who (being Sons by Adoption) ſhall be (alſo) Heirs of Salvation.

Κάθου ἐκ δεξιῶν μου, Sit thou on my Right Hand.] That theſe Words were ſpoken of the Meſſiah, appears, 1. From the two Targums on this Pſalm, who both declare that this was ſpoken, במימרה in, or to his Word. This is, ſaith R. Saadias Gaon, on Dan. 7. 13. The Meſſiah, our Righteouſneſs; as it is written, Pſal. 110. 1. The Lord ſaid to my Lord, Sit thou on my Right Hand. R. Moſeh Haddarſan ſays, (Bereſch. Rabba, in Gen. 18. 1.) Hereafter God will cauſe the Meſſiah to ſit on his Right Hand; as it is ſaid, Pſal. 110. 1. The Lord ſaid unto my Lord, &c. Midraſh Tehillim, in Pſal. 2. 7. ſaith, The Affairs of the Meſſiah are ſet forth in the Hagiographa, in theſe Words, Pſal. 110. The Lord ſaid. And again, R. Joden, in Pſal. 18. 35. in the Name of R. Chija, ſaid, That in the Age of the Meſſiah, the bleſſed God will ſet the King Meſſiah on his Right Hand; as it is written, The Lord ſaid to my Lord. And though on this Pſalm he expounds the Words firſt of Abraham, whom they introduce complaining that God has placed his Son on his Right Hand, and him only on his Left; yet preſently follow theſe Words, And ſo he ſaith to the Meſſiah. And R. Obadiah not only ſaith, the Pſalmiſt compoſed this Pſalm of the Meſſiah, but adds what illuſtrates v. 14. That God further ſaid, Thou ſhalt ſit on my Right Hand, and the Miniſtring Angels on my Left. See more in Cartwright's Melliſicium, p. 2969. And ſince our Bleſſed Saviour confounded the Scribes and Phariſees with this Enquiry, How the Meſſiah could be the Son of David, ſince David here in Spirit calls him Lord?

Matth. 22. 42. 'tis evident this was then the received Expoſition of theſe Words.

Μέλλοντας κληρονομεῖν σωτηρίαν, who ſhall be Heirs of Salvation.] i. e. By Right of Sonſhip, for if Sons then Heirs, Rom. 8. 17. If a Son then, κληρονόμος θεοῦ, an Heir of God through Chriſt, Gal. 4. 7. Heirs according to the Promiſe, Gal. 3. 29. CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. THerefore we (knowing the Excellency of the Perſon ſpeaking now to us in the Goſpel above all other Prophets, and above thoſe Angels which were employed in delivering the Law of Moſes,) ought to give the more earneſt heed to the things which we have heard (from the Son of God,) leſt at any time we ſhould let them ſlip (out of our Memory.)

Μήποτε παραῤῥυῶμεν.] Τυτέστι μὴ ἐκπέσωμεν, leſt we fall off from them; ſo Oecumenius, Theophylact, and Phavorinus. Which Senſe agrees well with the Scope of this Epiſtle, but the Senſe given by our Tranſlation is alſo very good and proper; for in this Senſe παραῤῥυῆναι is uſed in thoſe words of Solomon, My Son, μὴ παραῤῥυῇς, τήρησον δὲ ἐμοὶ βουλὰς, be not forgetful of, but keep in mind, or lay up in thy Heart my Counſel, Prov. 3. 21. So the Wiſeman interprets himſelf in the beginning of that Chapter, My Son, ἐμοὶ νομίμων μὴ ἐπιλανθάνου, τὰ δὲ ῥήματά μου τηρείτω σὴ καρδία, forget not my Precepts, but let thy Heart keep my words, ver. 1. So Origen ſpeaking of the Feſtivals of the Church, the Lord's day, Eaſter, Pentecoſt, ſaith, The common People had need of theſe ſenſible Admonitions, or Memorials of the Bleſſings then celebrated; (a) διὰτον παραδεγμάτων ἵνα μὴ τέλεον παραῤῥυῇ· that they may not entirely ſlip out of their Memories: And this Tranſlation and Interpretation is confirm'd from the word, ἀμελήσαντες, ver. 3. which ſignifies, to be unmindful of this great Salvation.

Ver. 2. For if the word ſpoken by Angels (from Sinai) was ſtedfaſt, (and by God's dealing with the Jews confirmed,) and every (wilful) Tranſgreſſion and Diſobedience (of it) received a juſt Recompence of Reward: (The Atonements of the Law being only for Sins of Ignorance and Errour, chap. 5. 2. and cutting off being the Puniſhment for wilful Sins, as being acts of Rebellion againſt God their Governour.)

Ὁ δι' ἀγγέλων λαληθεὶς λόγος, the word ſpoken by Angels.] (b) Maimonides ſaith expreſly, Non invenies Deum ullum opus feciſſe niſi per manum alicujus Angeli, God did no work but by the Hand of ſome Angel. To confirm this, he cites that Paſſage of their Wiſemen, That (c) God does nothing without conſulting before the Family above. And that in Bereſchith Rabba, Whereſoever it is ſaid in Scripture, ויהוה and Jehovah did this or that, ibi intelligitur ipſe & domus Judicii ejus; by which, ſaith he, they declare, That all things are done by him, mediantibus Angelis, by the Mediation of Angels. (d) Joſephus ſaith, The Law was given, τοῦ θεοῦ διαλεγομένου πρὸς αὐτὸὺς περὶ τῶ πρακτέων, by God, declaring to them what they ought to do. And yet he introduces Herod, proving that Legates, or Ambaſſadors, were Sacred, from this, That (e) the Jews had received the choiceſt of their Laws from God by Angels; i.e. by Meſſengers, of Legates, as that Name imports. (f) Philo is expreſs, That God ſpake the Law, δι' αὐτῦ μόνου ἀ προσχρησάμενος ἄλλῳ, by himſelf, uſing no other; but yet, ſaith the ſame (g) Philo, he did this, κελεύσας ἠχὼ ἀόρατον ἐν ἀέρι δημιουργηθῆναι, commanding an inviſible ſound to be formed in the Air. And to whom could this Command be directed, but to ſome of the Angels then attending on him? He therefore ſeems only to mean, that the Decalogue was adminiſtred by God himſelf ſpeaking to the People, and not by Moſes the Mediator betwixt God and them, as the reſidue of his Laws were. For in his Book de Somniis, he doth not only obſerve that the Holy Scripture ſpeaks of thoſe Dreams as, θεόπεμπτοι, ſent from God; not only which come immediately from him, but which proceed, p. 461. διὰ τῶ ὑπηρετῶν αὐτῦ ἢ ὀπαδῶν ἀγγέλων, from his Miniſters and Attendants the Angels: But he adds, That theſe Meſſengers are employed in bringing, τὰς τῦ πατρὸς ἐπισκοπὰς τοῖς ἐκγόνοις, the Commands of the Father to his Sons. And that this is done, p. 455. F. becauſe we cannot bear his immediate Chaſtiſements, nor yet his excellent Benefits.

As for the Fathers, they ſeem univerſally to conſpire in this Doctrine that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here, and Gal. 3. 19. Περὶ τῶ διακονησαιδρων τῷ λόγῳ Αγγέλων, of the Angels miniſtring to the delivery of the Law. So (h) Origen. So Chryſoſtom on this place, Theodoret on Gal. 3. 19. Oecumenius, and Theophylact. (i) Origen ſpeaking of Jeruſalem, ſaith, The Angels have now deſerted her, who before were always helpful to her: Δι' ὧν ἐτεθέιτο ὁ Μώσεως νόμος, By whom alſo the Law of Moſes was ordained; it being, ſaith the Apoſtle, ordained by Angels. The ſame is the Opinion of St. Jerom on Gal. 3. 19.

And though Jehovah ſpeaks to Moſes in and from Mount Sinai, and from him the Jews received the Law. Yet that he uſed the Miniſtry of Angels in the diſpenſing of it, is evident from many Paſſages of the New Teſtament. For,

1. St. Stephen ſpeaketh thus unto the Jews, You have received the Law, εἰς διαταγὰς (κατ' διαταγὰς Oecum.) ἀγγέλων, by the diſpoſition of Angels, and have not kept it, Acts 7. 53. Now when he was aggravating their Guilt in violating this Law, from the conſideration of the Dignity of the Perſons, who were by God imployed in giving it to them, he would not have omitted the Son of God, or the λόγος, the principal Actor, and ſpoken only of theſe interiour miniſtring Spirits, could he both truly, and according to the then preſent Notion of the Jews, have ſaid, it was the λόγος, who by his Father was imploy'd in giving the Law. For though moſt of the Fathers ſay the λόγος, or the Son of God, appeared to Moſes and the Patriarchs, and others under the Old Teſtament, (k) they all agree in this, That he appeared then as ἄγγελος, one that ſuſtained another Perſon, or as the Legate, the Ambaſſador, or as ὑπηρέτης, i. e. the Miniſter of God the Father, as alſo (l) Philo ſtill does.

2. When the Apoſtle Paul affirms after St. Stephen, That the Law was, διαταγεὶς δι' ἀγγέλων, adminiſtred by Angels, Gal. 3. 19. he cannot reaſonably be ſuppoſed to mean only that 'twas deliver'd inter Angelos, between Angels, or by God attended with his Angels. For, (1.) as by, is the proper import of the Word διὰ, ſo is it very rarely, if at all, that it is rendred inter, between, or among; it is ſo rendred indeed by our Tranſlators, 2 Tim. 2. 2. but with the Note in the Margin by, to ſhew they thought it might there bear the Senſe, as it doth thus, The things which thou haſt heard from me, (and which have been confirm'd) διὰ πολλῶν μαρτύρων, by many Witneſſes, commit to faithful Men. (2.) Seeing here the word ſpoken, δι' ἀγγέλων, being put in oppoſition to the word ſpoken, διὰ υἱοῦ, by Chriſt, ſhews that διὰ retains its proper Senſe, and muſt be rendred, by Angels; why ſhould we put another Senſe on the ſame Particle uſed Gal. 3. 19. by the ſame Apoſtle, with reſpect to the ſame Subject?

3. That the word ſpoken by Angels here reſpects the Law in general, and not only of the Threatnings made by the Prophets, to whom the λόγος ſent his Angels to bring back the people of Iſrael from their Wickedneſs; is alſo evident from the Words. For, (1.) the Word ſpoken by Angels here, ſeems to be the ſame with the word, Adminiſtred by Angels, Acts 7. 53. Gal. 3. 19. Now that was the Law, ſay both St. Stephen and St. Paul. (2.) It was ὁ λόγος βέβαιος, the Word made firm, by the Miracles done by Moſes to eſtabliſh it, as was the Goſpel by more glorious Miracles; the Miracles done by Moſes being only, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, Signs and Wonders, whereas the Goſpel was confirm'd alſo by divers Powers, and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, ver. 4. (3.) As the Apoſtle ſaith here, Every Tranſgreſſion of this Word received a juſt Recompence of Reward. He ſaith, chap. 10. 28. He that deſpiſed Moſes Law died without Mercy; where the Argument being in ſenſe the ſame, demonſtrates that the word ſpoken here muſt be the Law of Moſes. (4.) We are properly ſaid to Tranſgreſs, and Diſobey a Law, but as for Threatnings, though we may diſregard, we are not properly ſaid to Tranſgreſs them. In fine, I can Anſwer the Argument of Slichtingius on the place, 'That 'God in Perſon could not give the Law from 'Mount Sinai, ſince were it given by God 'himſelf, it muſt on that account be prefer'd 'before the Goſpel: By ſaying the Compariſon is here made only betwixt God ſpeaking to the Jews by the Miniſtery of Angels, and the ſame God ſpeaking to us by his Son, which ſuppoſes God the Father to be the Supreme Author both of the Law and the Goſpel, aſſerting only that his Ambaſſadors or Miniſters in the one were much inferiour to his Ambaſſador and his Great Prophet, by whom the other was revealed. But I am not able to reſiſt the Evidence of his Second Argument, That the Oppoſition put between the Word ſpoken by (m) Angels to them, and the Goſpel delivered to us by the Son of God, will not permit us to own that the Law was given to the Jews by the ſame Son of God, ſeeing that ſuppoſition wholly deſtroys the force of the Apoſtle's Argument in this place. But then I do not think that any Angel was ſo imployed in the delivery of the Law, as to take upon him the Perſon of God; or that any Creature ſaid, I am the Lord thy God, &c. but only that the Divine Majeſty there preſent with his Thouſands of Angels, Deut. 33. 2. Pſal. 68. 17. made ſome of them his Miniſters to form the Voice by which he ſaid, I am the Lord thy God, &c. And it may probably be conjectured, that where-ever there is mention of an Angel and Jehovah together, or any Worſhip or Excellency ſpecified which is proper to God, there was an appearance of the Shechinah or Divine Majeſty conjunct with the Angel.

Ver. 3. How ſhall we eſcape (the Divine Wrath) if we (Chriſtians) neglect ſo great Salvation, which at the firſt began to be ſpoken by the Lord (Chriſt himſelf,) and (after) was confirmed to us by them that heard him.

Τηλικαύτης σωτηρίας, ſo great Salvation.] That under the Diſpenſation of the Goſpel the deliverance of the Faithful from Perſecutions at or after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, ſhould here be repreſented as that great Salvation which began to be ſpoken of the Lord, was teſtified to by the Apoſtles, and even by God himſelf, by ſo great Miracles, is incredible. No ſure, our Saviour brought Life and immortality to light by the Goſpel, 2 Tim. 2. 11. his Apoſtles teſtified to us eternal Life, 1 John 1. 2. And this is the teſtimony of God himſelf, That he hath given us eternal Life, and that Life is in his Son, 1 John 5. 11. See Note on chap. 4. 3.

Ἐβεβαιώθη εἰς ἡμᾶς, was confirmed to us.] Jews, not to us Apoſtles, by whom it was confirmed: Where therefore is the Argument taken from theſe Words, to prove St. Paul was not the Author of this Epiſtle, becauſe the Goſpel was not confirmed to him by them that heard Chriſt, he receiving it by immediate Revelation from him, Gal. 1. 12. And uſual is it with St. Paul in this and other Epiſtles to ſay we, when not he himſelf but only they he ſpeaks to, or of, muſt be underſtood. So Chap. 6. 1. Let us go on to perfection. See Chap. 10. 25. 12. 1. Rom. 3. 5, 7. 1 Cor. 10. 8, 9. 2 Cor. 7. 1. Eph. 2. 3. 1 Theſ. 4. 15. Tit. 3. 3.

Ver. 4. God alſo bearing them witneſs both with Signs and Wonders (as he did to Moſes delivering the Law to the Jews,) and with divers Miracles and Gifts (or Diſtributions) of the Holy Ghoſt, (performed) according to his own Will.

Ποικίλαις δυνάμεσι, with divers Miracles.] Becauſe, ſaith Theodoret, the Law was confirmed by Miracles, the Apoſtle thought it neceſſary to ſhew the Goſpel was in this Superiour to it, as it was in theſe two reſpects.

1. That the Apoſtles and the Diſciples of our Lord abounded in theſe miraculous Diſpenſations, which confirmed the Goſpel, as well as Chriſt himſelf. 2. That Moſes chiefly wrought, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, Signs and Wonders; whereas the δυνάμεις, Powers and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt here mentioned, were the proper Confirmations of the Goſpel Diſpenſation. For here are four things mentioned, which will admit of a diſtinct Conſideration; The firſt and ſecond are, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, Signs and Wonders, which refer to portentous Actions done in the Heavens, as when the Sun ſtood ſtill; in the Earth, as when it opened to ſwallow up Dathan and Abiram; in the Air, as when it was turned into Darkneſs; in the Waters, as when they were turned into Blood: And theſe were often wrought by Moſes, and others under the Old Teſtament, and ſtill are ſtiled, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, Exod. 7. 3. πληθυνῶ τὰ σημεῖα μου καὶ τὰ τέρατα, I will multiply my Signs and my Wonders in the Land of Egypt. And again, ver. 9. Deut. 4. 32. He took his People out of that Nation, ἐν σημείοις καὶ ἐν τέρασι, by Signs and Wonders. Shewing, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα μεγάλα, Signs and great Wonders upon Pharaoh, and all his Houſe, Chap. 6. 22. 7. 19. 11. 3. 26. 8. 29. 3. And there aroſe not a Prophet like unto Moſes, ἐν πᾶσι τοῖς σημείοις καὶ τέρασιν, in all the Signs and Wonders which God ſent him to do in the Land of Egypt. Deut. 34. 11. See Neh. 9. 10. Pſal. 134. 9. Jer. 32. 20. Thus Nebuchadonoſor declares, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, the Signs and Wonders which the moſt High God had ſhewed to him, Dan. 4. 2. And Darius ſaith of him, chap. 6. 27. ποιεῖ σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ καὶ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, He doth Signs and Wonders in the Heavens and on the Earth.

2. Σημεῖα and δυνάμεις are uſed in the New Teſtament, with Relation to the Miracles wrought by the Apoſtles upon others, in caſting out Devils, making the Blind to ſee, and the Lame to walk, and healing all manner of Diſeaſes; now none of theſe things were done by Moſes, and very rarely by any of the Prophets. And laſtly, as for the Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, conſiſting in the internal Gifts of Wiſdom, Knowledge, Faith, the Gifts of Tongues, and the Interpretation of them. Theſe were peculiar to the later Days, that is, the Times of the Meſſiah,

Ver. 5. For unto the Angels hath he not put into Subjection the World to come, whereof we ſpeak, (but unto Chriſt now Crowned with Honour and Glory, ver. 9. to whom all Power both in Heaven and Earth is given.)

For Explication of theſe Words let it be obſerved,

1. That both the Scriptures, the Jewiſh Records, and the Primitive Fathers do repreſent ſent the State preceding our Lord's Advent, and his Advancement to the Right Hand of Majeſty in the Heavens, as a State ſubject to Angels, or in which God dealt with them by the Miniſtery of his Angels; this of the Jews has partly been confirm'd already, by ſhewing, That their Law was the Word ſpoken by Angels. That they were brought out of Egypt by the Miniſtery of an Angel, Moſes himſelf declares in his Meſſage to the King of Edom, When we cried to the Lord, he heard our voice, and ſent an Angel, and hath brought us forth out of the Land of Egypt, Numb. 20. 16. This Angel, ſaith the Targum of Jonathan, was a Miniſtering Angel. Nor is it to be thought the King of Edom, who had no Notion of the Logos, could underſtand him otherwiſe. And hence the Note of Paulus Fagius runs thus, Omnis Iſraelitici Populi ſalus, & ductio per Angelos adminiſtrata eſt, The whole Conduct and Preſervation of the People of Iſrael was adminiſtered by Angels. That they were led through the Wilderneſs by an Angel, and that an Angel drave out the Inhabitants of the Land of Canaan before them, we learn from theſe Words of God himſelf; Behold, I ſend an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and bring thee into the Land I have prepared for thee, Exod. 23. 20. He ſhall go, ſaith the Greek, Ἡγεμών σου, as thy Guide and Captain. And ver. 23. My Angel ſhall go before thee, and bring thee to the Amorites and Hittites, &c. and I will cut them off. Now that here he ſpeaks of a Miniſtering Angel, may be argued from theſe Words, My Name is in him, that is, as the Targums of Onkelos and Jonathan well expound the Phraſe, His word is in my Name, by him do I declare my will and pleaſure. So Maimonides, in More Nevoch. part. 1. c. 64. Some think this Angel was the Eternal Son of God; but this I am afraid to aſſert, ſaith the Biſhop of Ely, becauſe it ſeems dangerous to me to call him ſimply an Angel, i. e. a Miniſter, or Meſſenger, without any ſuch addition as that in Mal. 3. 3. That Angel of the Covenant, for ſo he was at his Incarnation, of which he there ſpeaks, before which I dare not aſcribe to him ſuch miniſterial Works as theſe, of bringing the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, and going before them to lead them in the way to Canaan; this was properly the work of an Angel, to whom Moſes aſcribes it. But though we thus underſtand it, this excludes not the Preſence of God himſelf, but rather proves it; for this Angel was ſent from the Shechinah, or Majeſtick Preſence of God which was in the Cloud, and is therefore ſtiled the Angel of his Preſence, Iſa. 63. 9. becauſe, ſaith the Targum, he was an Angel ſent, מן קדמוהי from before him, or from before his Face: And thus it was true which the Lord ſaid to Moſes, My Preſence ſhall go with thee, Exod. 33. 14. in the Cloud, and my Angel ſhall go before thee, Exod. 23. 23. as being ſent from before me to conduct thee. And again, Exod. 33. 2. I will ſend an Angel before thee, and will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, &c. for I will not go up in the midſt of thee, for thou art a ſtiff-necked People, leſt I conſume thee in the way. He therefore who was to be ſent could not be God himſelf, or the Divine Logos equal to him, for then he would have had the ſame reaſon to conſume them for their Diſobedience. Accordingly we find Maſius on Joſh. 5. 14. confeſſing that the Jews generally thought this was the Angel Michael. And partly from them, and partly from Daniel, who ſtyles him Michael their Prince, chap. 10. 21. and Michael the Prince which ſtandeth for the Children of thy People, chap. 12. 1. It ſeems to be that many Chriſtian Fathers and Ancient Commentators have ſo expreſly ſaid, (n) That God over all placed over them the Angel Michael, as Daniel hath taught us; and God alſo promiſed Moſes that he would ſend an Angel with his People. And both Theodoret and St. Jerom in their Comments on Dan. 11. 21. ſay, that Michael, eſt Archangelus cui creditus eſt Populus Judæorum, he is that Archangel to whom was committed the care of the People of the Jews. And the Author of the Recognitions ſpeaking of God's dividing of the Nations to Angels (o), adds, That the Government of the Jews themſelves, and the diſpoſal of their Affairs, were by God committed to an Archangel.

Now if this Suppoſition be admitted, and the World to come, according to the Jewiſh import of that Phraſe, be taken for the Goſpel State, then the Apoſtle's Argument runs thus, You have greater reaſon to take heed to the things taught by Chriſt under the Goſpel Diſpenſation, than had the Jews to take heed to the things taught by the Moſaical Diſpenſation; for unto the Angels God hath not ſubjected the Goſpel State, but unto Chriſt: i. e. To him who is more able to reward his Obedient Servants, and bring them into the Celeſtial Canaan, and more able to conſume and puniſh them who do neglect the great Salvation tendred in this Diſpenſation.

As to the Gentile World, the Doctrine of the Jews in relation to them is evident from thoſe words of the Septuagint, when the Al- eighty divided the Nations, he ſet the borders of them, κατ' ἀριθμὸν Ἀγγέλων Θεοῦ, according to the number of the Angels of God, Deut. 32. 8. that is, ſaith R. Menachem, He placed Seventy Angels over the Seventy Nations. For ſaith the Son of Syrach, ἐνὸς ἑκάστου ἔθνους κατέστησεν ἡγούμενον, In the diviſion of the Nations of the whole Earth, he ſet a Ruler over every People, Eccluſ. 17. 17. Accordingly in Daniel we find mention of the Prince of Perſia and of Greece, i.e. of the Angels which preſided over thoſe places. (p) Euſebius doth frequently inform us, That all the Nations of the Earth were formerly by Lot divided to many Angels, and this was the Doctrine of (q) Juſtin Martyr, of (r) Irenæus, (s) Athenagoras, and the two (t) Clements. So that in the Judgment of the Jews, and of the Primitive Fathers, all the whole Heathen World were ſubject to the Government of Angels.

And then the Argument of the Apoſtle is to this Effect, That now the world of Believers gathered from the Heathens, is put under Chriſt's immediate Power, and ſubject not to Angels, but to him who will come in flaming fire to execute Vengeance upon all that obey not his Goſpel; and that therefore it concerns them to give more diligent heed to the Words ſpoken by him, and not to neglect that great Salvation which he tenders.

Οἰκουμένην μέλλουσαν, the World to come.] This I conceive imports primarily the Chriſtian State, and in order to the Government of that, the whole World ſubjected to Chriſt from the time of his Reſurrection and Aſcenſion; (When he ſat down on the Right hand of the Majeſty on high, and had all power in Heaven and Earth committed to him; for when God brought him by his Reſurrection again, εἰς οἰκουμένην, into the Earth, he ſaid, Let all the Angels of God worſhip him, i. e. let them all bow and be ſubject to his Authority, chap. 1. 6.) to the time when he ſhall aboliſh Death, the laſt Enemy of his Subjects, and put the Crown upon their Heads, and condemn all his Enemies to endleſs Puniſhments, and ſo give up his mediatory Kingdom to the Father, 1 Cor. 15. 28. And this I gather from the following Proof of this ſubjection of the World to Chriſt, taken from Pſalm the Eighth; for the Apoſtle plainly doth inſinuate, that it is begun already, in that this Jeſus is already Crowned with Glory and Honour, ver. 9. and he as plainly teſtifies that it muſt continue till the day of Judgment, and only will be then compleated by ſaying, That he muſt Reign till all his Enemies be put under his feet, 1 Cor. 15. 25. and proving this from thoſe words of the Pſalmiſt, For he hath put all things under his Feet, ver. 27. So then the Argument runs thus, How ſhall they eſcape who neglect that great Salvation tendred by him, who hath all the World, and all things in it ſubject to him, and to continue ſo till he hath put all his Enemies under his Feet.

It may be alſo noted, That when this World to come doth reſpect only the Chriſtian State, from the Reſurrection of Chriſt, to the final Judgment, then it is ſtiled עולם הבא the Age to come, which is the frequent import of the World to come, in the Jewiſh Writers; and in this Senſe is Chriſt ſtiled, ὁ πατὴρ μέλλοντος αἰῶνος, the Father of the World to come, Iſa. 9. 6. and the Gifts vouchſafed to Believers, and exerciſed by them in the firſt Ages of the Church, are ſtiled in this Epiſtle, δυνάμεις μέλλοντος αἰῶνος, the Powers of the World to come; but when it alſo doth include that Earth in which they dwell, and in which they are to continue to the Day of Judgment, then is it ſtiled, οἰκουμένη μέλλουσα, the World to come after the other Four Kingdoms, which are ſtiled οἰκουμένη, the Earth, and are ſaid to have Dominion over all the Earth. Thus of the Kingdom of Aſſyria and Babylon, Daniel ſaith to Nebuchodonoſor, that God had made him Lord of all things, and ſetled his Kingdom where-ever the Sons of Men dwell, Dan. 2. 37, 38. and his Kingdom is by Iſaiah often ſtiled οἰκουμένη, and the fall of it is repreſented as the Deſolation of the whole Earth. Thus in his Viſion againſt Babylon he ſaith, Behold the day of the Lord comes cruel, and with fierce anger, θεῖναι τὴν οἰκουμένην ἔρημον, to lay the land (of Babylon) deſolate, chap. 13. 9. and ver. 11. ἐπιτελῶ τῇ οἰκουμένῃ ὅλῃ κακά, I will pronounce evil to the whole Earth. Cyrus the King of Perſia ſpeaks thus, The Lord hath given me all the Kingdoms of the Earth, Ezra 1. 2. and Artaxerxes in his Epiſtle for the Deſtruction of the Jews writes thus, being Lord over many

As for the Third, that is, the Grecian Monarchy, the Prophet Daniel ſaith expreſly of it, It ſhall bear Rule over all the Earth, Dan. 2. 39. Accordingly Alexander is celebrated in all Hiſtorians and Poets which ſpeak of him, as the Conqueror of the World; when he came to Babylon Ambaſſadors were ſent unto him, ἐξ ἁπάσης σχεδὸν τῆς οἰκουμένης, from almoſt the whole World, ſaith Diodorus Siculus, Hiſt. l. 17. p. 579. and when he died this Inſcription was writ upon his Tomb, γῆν τῷ ἐμοὶ τίθημι. And laſtly, as for the Roman Monarchy, as it was ſtiled by the Poets, παμβασιλεία, the Univerſal Kingdom, and by the Hiſtorians Orbis terrarum; ſo is it in the Scripture repreſented as the Government, πάσης τῆς οἰκουμένης, of the whole Earth, Luke 2. 1. for, ſaith (u) Dionyſius Halicarnaſſæus, ἡ Ῥωμαίων πόλις ἁπάσης μὲν ἀρχῆς τῆς γῆς, οὐ μὴν ἀναμβλής ἐστιν, ἀλλ' ὑπ' ἀνθρώπων καλουμένης, Rome preſides over the whole habitable Earth: Now this Kingdom of Chriſt being Propheſied of by Daniel, as that which was to be ſet up after theſe Kingdoms which bore that Name, and to break in pieces all other Kingdoms, is therefore ſtiled ἡ οἰκουμένη μέλλουσα, the Kingdom of the World to come; and if, (as we we may probably conjecture from the Angel, the Prince of Perſia, and the Angel, the Prince of Greece, Dan. 10. 13, 20.) Angels were by God appointed to preſide over thoſe Monarchies, then hence ariſeth another Reaſon why the Apoſtle might ſay, Unto the Angels hath he not ſubjected the World to come, of which we ſpeak.

Ver. 6. But one in a certain place (viz. David, Pſal. 8. 4.) teſtifieth, ſaying, Lord, what is Man, that thou art (ſo) mindful of him; or the Son of Man, that thou (ſo) viſiteſt him?

Ver. 7. Thou madeſt him (but) a little lower than the Angels, thou crownedſt him with Glory and Honour, and (haſt) ſet him over the works of thine Hands, (Pſal. 8.)

Ver. 8. Thou haſt put all things (and ſo the World to come) in ſubjection under his Feet; for in (ſaying) that he (hath) put all (things) in ſubjection under him, (it is manifeſt that) he left nothing that is not put under him; but now (as for Adam, and his Poſterity, of whom theſe things were primarily ſpoken) we ſee not yet all things put under him.

Ver. 9. But we ſee Jeſus (the ſecond Adam) who was made a little lower than the Angels, for the ſuffering of Death, that he by the Grace of God might taſte Death for every Man, (already) crowned with Glory and Honour, (and therefore know that all things are, and ſhall be ſubjected to him.)

Here note, 1. That though theſe words of the Pſalmiſt may be allowed in their firſt and obvious Senſe, to relate to the firſt Adam, created after God in his Similitude and Likeneſs, with reſpect to his Dominion, yet doth not this hinder that they be expounded in the myſtical Senſe of Chriſt the ſecond Adam; for the Jews acknowledge that the firſt Adam was a Type of the ſecond Adam, that is, of Chriſt, who is by them ſtiled האדם האחרון the laſt, or ſecond Adam. Moreover the Myſtery of Adam is, ſay they, the Myſtery of the Meſſiah, and the Man created the ſixth Day ſignifies the Meſſiah. For thus they ſpeak, (x) Our Redemption is ſignified by the ſix Days of the Creation, eſpecially by the ſixth in which Man was created, by whom we are not to underſtand the Nations of the World, but סוד אדם הוא סוד משיח the Myſtery of Man is the Myſtery of the Meſſiah, as it is ſaid Dan. 7. 13. he came like to the Son of Man. And this lays a Foundation for the inference of the Apoſtle, that what was ſpoken of Man in general, and more particularly related to the firſt Adam, was only punctually fulfilled in the ſecond Adam taking the Nature of Man on him; for, ſaith he, we ſee it not in any meaſure fulfilled in any other Man; but as for Chriſt, we do already ſee it actually fulfilled, as to the firſt Clauſe of it, he being now crowned with Glory and Honour, and ſo as all things are already ſubject to his Feet, as far as the preſent Neceſſities of the Church require, Eph. 1. 22. ſo will they compleatly and actually be ſo when Death, the laſt Enemy, ſhall be deſtroyed, 1 Cor. 15. 25, 26, 27.

Δόξῃ καὶ τιμῇ ἐστεφανωμένον, crowned with Glory and Honour.] That theſe words are in conſtruction to follow the enſuing Words, That he by the Grace of God might taſte Death for every Man. See Note on Chap. 7. ver. 20. but the Apoſtle puts theſe words laſt, as being to diſcourſe of our Lord's Sufferings for us.

Ver. 10. (This Jeſus, I ſay, who by the Grace of God taſted Death for every Man,) For it became him from whom are (were) all all things, and by whom are (were) all things (ordered) in (his deſign of) bringing many Sons to Glory, to (effect this by) make (ing) the Captain of their Salvation perfect by Sufferings; (τελειῶσαι, to conſecrate him to that work by Sufferings.)

Τελειῶσαι διὰ παθημάτων, to ſanctifie, to conſecrate, and dedicate him to that work by his Sufferings.] That this is the true import of theſe words will appear, 1. From the like words uſed by this Apoſtle, Chap. 5. 8, 9, 10. Though he were a Son, yet learned he Obedience by the things that he ſuffered, and being made Perfect; [τελειῶσαι,] i. e. being conſecrated to his Prieſtly Office, he became the Author of Eternal Salvation to all that obey him, being called of him an High Prieſt after the Order of Melchiſedek. And again, Chap. 7. 27, 28. The Law maketh them High Prieſts which have Infirmity, but the Word of the Oath, which is after the Law, maketh the Son ſo, εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα τετελειωμένον, who is conſecrated an High Prieſt for evermore. 2dly, From the Collation made betwixt the Call of Aaron to his Prieſthood, and of Chriſt to his: For as Aaron took not this Honour to himſelf, but was called of God to it; ſo Chriſt glorified not himſelf to be made an High Prieſt, but was conſtituted ſo by him, who ſaid, Thou art a Prieſt for ever after the Order of Melchiſedek. Now the Conſecration of Aaron, and the Legal Prieſts, is continually expreſs'd by this Word: For what is in the Hebrew, thou ſhalt fill the Hands of Aaron, and his Sons, and is by us tranſlated, thou ſhalt conſecrate them, is by the Septuagint thus rendred, τελειώσεις Ἀαρὼν τὰς χεῖρας αὐτῶν, καὶ τὰς χεῖρας αὐτῶν. So Numb. 3. 3. ἐτελείωσαν τὰς χεῖρας αὐτῶν ἱερατεύειν, they conſecrated them to the Prieſthood. Accordingly the Prieſt conſecrated, is in the Greek, ὁ τετελειωμένος, Lev. 21. 10. the Day of his Conſecration is ἡμέρας τελειώσεως, Lev. 8. 33. the Sacrifice then offered for Sin, is θυσία τελειώσεως, the Burnt-offering, ὁλοκαύτωμα τελειώσεως, v. 28. the Ram offer'd, ἐν κριὸς τελειώσεως, v. 22. the Fleſh of Conſecration, τὰ κρέα τῆς τελειώσεως, Exod. 29. 34. This alſo will be farther evident from the next Verſe, By theſe Sufferings he became an High Prieſt for ever, after the Order of Melchiſedek, Chap. 7. 28. And the Author of Salvation to all that obey him, Chap. 7. 28. For appearing with this Sacrifice before God in Heaven for ever, He is able to ſave for ever them that come unto God by him.

Ἔπρεπεν γάρ.] Conveniens hoc fuit Dei ſapientiæ, ſaith Grotius. He thought fit to do this, ſaith Dr. Hammond; 1. Becauſe thus the ſame Nature ſuffer'd which had ſinned, and therefore purged us from the Guilt we in that Nature had contracted, and ſo diſſolv'd that Death to which we became ſubject by the Sin of Adam. This is the Reaſon of Chriſt's Sufferings which all the Primitive Fathers do ſuggeſt, and on which they eſpecially inſiſt; aſſigning this Reaſon of our Lord's Death, ἵνα τὸ θανάτου ἡμῶν ἀναλυθῇ, that our Obnoxiouſneſs to Death might be expiated: So (y) Ignatius. He died, ſaith (z) Juſtin Martyr, for Mankind, ὁ ἀπὸ τοῦ Ἀδὰμ ἅπαν θάνατον ἐν πάσῃ, καὶ ἐν ἑκάστῃ ἐπιφυλῇ, which, from Adam, became ſubject to Death, and the Deceit of the Serpent. Irenæus (a) ſaith, That as Mankind, by Man overcome, was obnoxious to Death; ſic etiam per hominem victorem, aſcendamus in vitam; ſo by a Man conquering Death, we may riſe to Life: And as Death prevail'd againſt us by Man, ſic iterum nos adverſus mortem per hominem accipiamus palmam, ſo we may prevail againſt it by Man, that as in the Animal Adam we all died, ſo in the Spiritual we might all be made alive. And (b) Athanaſius, in his Oration of the Incarnation, is very copious on this Subject; declaring that Chriſt took our Nature on him, πάλιν τὸ φθαρτὸν εἰς ἀφθαρσίαν ἐνεγκεῖν, to reduce again our Corruptible to Incorruption; that our Lord ſeeing Mankind loſt by Death exerciſing the Dominion of Corruption over them, ſeeing the Puniſhment threaten'd to our Tranſgreſſion, (c) διαφθορὰν ἐπὶ καθ' ἡμῶν φθορᾶν, prevailing over us to Corruption, and ſeeing the whole Race of Men ſubject to Death, he, in Compaſſion to them, (d) ἐπεὶ ὁ θάνατος κρείττων ἦν ἀνεκτός, and not enduring this Dominion of Death, that what he had created might not periſh, he took a Body to himſelf, not alien from ours; and, becauſe we were all ſubject to Corruption, (e) ἀντὶ πάντων αὐτὸ θανάτῳ παραδίδωσι, delivering it to the Death for us all, he offer'd it to the Father, that, as it were, all Men dying in him, the Law of the Corruption of Mankind might be diſſolv'd, and he might tranſlate them again to Incorruption. And (f) this, ſaith he, is the firſt Cauſe of his Incarnation. Hence (g) many of them ſay, that the Hand-writing which was blotted out by the Death of Chriſt, was the Threat made to Adam, In the Day that thou eateſt thereof thou ſhalt die the Death. Here then is one Reaſon why the Death or Blood of Bulls and Goats could not take away Sin; viz. they did not partake of the ſame Nature that had ſinned, and therefore could not in that Nature diſſolve the Debt we had contracted, and ſo tranſlate us to Incorruption. 2. It became him thus to ſuffer, becauſe theſe Sufferings fitted him to be a merciful High Prieſt to them that ſuffer as he did; and alſo to be a faithful High Prieſt, to make Atonement for our Sins, v. 17. Obſerve here, that the Apoſtle doth not ſay, Chriſt's Sufferings were abſolutely neceſſary to ſatisfie Divine Juſtice; that Infinite Mercy could not pardon Sin, without a Satisfaction made to Juſtice; and that Infinite Wiſdom could contrive no other Way for the Atonement of our Sins, but that Divine Wiſdom ſaw it fit that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer for the Ends fore-mentioned: And why then may not others be permitted to think and speak with the Apostle, without adding that which the Apostle, in all this long and excellent Discourse concerning the Ends, the Reason, and Necessity of our Saviour's Sufferings, thought not once fit to mention.

Ver. 11. For both he (our Priest) who sanctifieth, (i. e. by his Oblation purgeth us from Sin,) and we that are sanctified, (or purged from it,) are all of one (Original and Nature;) for which Cause he is not ashamed to call them Brethren.

Ver. 12. Saying, (Psal. 22. 22.) I will declare thy Name unto (among) my Brethren: In the midst of the Church (or Congregation) will I praise thee.

Ver. 13. And again, (Isa. 8. 17.) I will put my Trust in him. And again, (ver. 18.) Behold, I and the Children which God hath given me.

Ὁ ἁγάζων, He that sanctifies, &c.] I have shewed, Note on Chap. 9. 13. that the Word ἁγάζω, in this Epistle, is used in the Sacrifical Sense, or with relation to the Expiation of Sin: In the Old Testament, when it respecteth Sacrifices, it sometimes signifies to devote, consecrate and offer them to God. So Lev. 22. 3. The holy things which the Children of Israel hallow to the Lord; ἅσα ἂν ἁγάζωσι, which they shall offer to the Lord; for, Numb. 18. 9. these holy Things are thus enumerated, every Heave Offering, ver. 8. every Meat-Offering, every Sin-Offering, every Tresspass-Offering; Deut. 15. 19. All the Firstlings of thy Flock thou shalt sanctifie to the Lord thy God, ἁγιάσεις τῷ Κυρίῳ· For if they were clean, they were to be offer'd to God, and their Blood was to be sprinkled on the Altar, and their Fat burnt for an Offering made by Fire, Numb. 18. 19. But if they were unclean, οὐ θύσεις αὐτὰ τῷ Κυρίῳ, thou shalt not sacrifice it to the Lord, saith the Text, Deut. 15. 21. And, 1 Chron. 23. 13. Aaron was separated, that he might sanctifie the most Holy Things, τοῦ ἁγιάσαι, that he might offer them in Sacrifice, and to burn Incense; for he was separated to execute the Priesthood, Exod. 28. 1. And that was to be performed by offering Gifts and Sacrifices for Sin, Hebr. 5. 1. And in this Sense our Saviour saith, ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν ἁγιάζω ἐμαυτὸν, ἵνα ὦσι καὶ αὐτοὶ ἡγιασμένοι ἐν ἀληθείᾳ, for their sakes I sanctifie my self, i. e. I offer my self a piacular Victim, that they may be sanctified in the Truth, John 17. 19. i. e. that they may be consecrated to their Office, or set apart for my Service: For as Aaron and his Sons were hallowed, and set apart for God's Service by a Sacrifice, to expiate them from their Sins; and this was done ἁγιάσαι αὐτὰς ὥστε ἱερατεύειν, to sanctifie them to the Priesthood, Exod. 29. 1, 14, 21. as well as by the Holy Anointing: Exod. 30. 30, 31. 40. 13. So Christ's Apostles were sanctified and set apart to their Office, not only by the Unction of the Holy Ghost, but also by that piacular Victim Christ offer'd for their Sins: And accordingly, in these Words, he that sanctifies is Christ that offers himself, that he might sanctifie ἁγάζων, i. e. purge them from their Sins by his own Blood, Heb. 13. 12. and they that are sanctified are they that by this Blood are purged from their Sins, and so are fitted to draw nigh to God, and made a Royal Priesthood, to shew forth his Praises, and offer up Spiritual Sacrifices acceptable to God, through Jesus Christ.

2dly, The Word doth also signifie to purge, purifie, and make clean, by Sacrifice, both in the Scripture, and profane Authors. Thus of the Altar it is said, he shall sprinkle the Blood upon it with his Finger, seven times, and he shall cleanse it, and hallow it, καθαριεῖ αὐτὸ, καὶ ἁγιάσει αὐτὸ, from the Uncleannesses of the Children of Israel, Lev. 16. 19. So Exod. 29. 33. And they shall eat those things אשר כפר בהם, ἐν οἷς ἐξιλάσατο ἐν αὐτοῖς, by which or for whom the Atonement was made to consecrate, τοῦ ἁγιάσαι αὐτὰς, and to sanctifie them; and, v. 36. thou shalt cleanse the Altar, בכפרך עליו, ἐν τῷ ἁγιάζειν σε ἐν αὐτῷ, when thou hast made an Atonement for it. In profane Authors, to purge by Sacrifices from Guilt or Uncleanness, is sometimes ἁγιάζω, sometimes ἁγίζω, and the Sacrifices that did this, are styled ἁγισμὸς, Sacrifices of Purgation; and according to this Sense of the Word, he that sanctifieth is he that purgeth, and they that are sanctified are they who are purged from the Guilt of Sin.

Psal. 22. 22. This Psalm being interpreted by the Jews themselves, concerning the Messiah, the Apostle might well apply this Passage of it to him.

I will put my Trust in him; and again, I and the Children which God hath given me.] These two Citations being from the same Place, Isa. 8. 17. make but one Proof, that he who sanctifies, and they who were sanctified, have the same Nature, shewing that he who said, I will put my Trust in him, called them whom God had given him, his Children, or Off-spring, and so declared them to be of the same Nature or Original with him. Now that these Words were anciently adapted to Christ, we learn from the Words of Simeon, who applies the Words following to him, Luke 2. 34. and from the Jews who expound the Words, he shall be a Stumbling Stone, and a Rock of Offence, of our Saviour, Pag. Fid. Part 2. c. 5. §. 2. to whom they are applied by St. Paul, Rom. 9. 33. and by St. Peter, 1 Pet. 2. 7.

Ver. 14. Foresmuch then as the Children are Partakers of Flesh and Blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same, that through (the) Death (they had deserved, and he suffer'd in their stead,) he might destroy (evacuate and and fruſtrate) him who had the Power of Death, that is, the Devil.

Ver. 15. And (might) deliver them (from the Sting of it) who, through the Fear of (the) Death (threatned to the Poſterity of Adam, without any Promiſe of a Reſurrection) were all their Lives time ſubject unto Bondage.

Κεκτημένον τὸ κράτος τοῦ θανάτου, that had the Power of Death.] That by ſeducing Adam to eat of the Forbidden Fruit, the Devil, whom the Jews call Sammael, had Power to accuſe Men, and to demand that they might die, according to the Threat denounced againſt them, is the conſtant Opinion of the (h) Jews, Our Wiſe Men ſay, it is a Tradition, that Satan the Adverſary, the Angel of Death, deſcendeth and ſeduceth, aſcendeth, and accuſeth, receives Power, and takes away the Soul or Life. Hence they ſay of him, That (i) he cauſed Death to the whole World.

Καταργῆσῃ τὸν Διάβολον, is to fruſtrate and bring to naught his Deſign of ſubjecting all Men to the Power of Death, and keeping them under the Dominion of it, to render it of no Effect, Rom. 3. 3, 31. Rom. 4. 14. 1 Cor. 1. 28. 2. 6. 6. 13. 13. 8, 10, 11. 15. 24, 26. 2 Cor. 3. 7, 11, 13, 14. Gal. 3. 17. 5. 11. 2 Theſſ. 2. 8. And thus Chriſt is ſaid καταργῆσαι, to aboliſh Death, 2 Tim. 1. 10. That therefore we are ſtill ſubject to Death, is, ſay the Fathers, not that we are now puniſh'd with it, but out of Mercy, that Sin might not be immortal in us, the Time of our Reſurrection being that in which Death ſhall be totally aboliſh'd, 1 Cor. 15. 26.

φόβῳ θανάτου, the Fear of Death.] That the whole Heathen World was ſubject to this Fear, and that it was the King of Terrors to them, ſee Note on Rom. 8. 22. From this Fear we are delivered at preſent by our Deliverance from that Guilt of Sin which alone makes it truly terrible, 1 Cor. 15. 55, 56. and by the Promiſe of a Glorious Reſurrection, when Death ſhall be ſwallowed up in Victory, v. 54.

Ver. 16. For verily he took not on him the Nature of (οὐ ἐπιλαμβάνεται, he laid not hold of, he helped not the fallen) Angels, but he took on him (Gr. he laid hold of) the Seed of Abraham.

Οὐ ἐπιλαμβάνεται.] This Word, ſay the Gloſſaries, ſignifies manum injicere, to lay hold upon, manu prehendere, to hold with the Hand. So Eccluſ. 4. 11. Wiſdom, ἐπιλαμβάνεται, layeth hold of them that ſeek her: Suſ. 39, 40. The Man we could not hold, being too ſtrong for us, ταύτης δὲ ἐπιλαμβανόμενοι, but laying hold of her, we asked her, &c. And ſo in the Septuagint it ſignifies almoſt continually, אחז, take hold of his Tail, Exod. 4. 4. See Kircher in the Words אחז זנב חפש

The Seed of Abraham.] The Note of the beſt Commentators here, is this, That the Apoſtle writing to the Jews, thought it ſufficient to mention only the Mercies deſigned by the Meſſiah for the Jews. And true it is that they confined the Seed of Abraham to themſelves; but the Apoſtle reckons all Believers as the Seed of Abraham, Rom. 4. 12, 16, 17. Gal. 3. 14, 29. tho' Chriſt is here ſaid to have taken upon him the Seed of Abraham, becauſe he derived his Fleſh from his Poſterity.

Ver. 17. Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made like (theſe) his Brethren, that he might be a merciful (High Prieſt to them under all their Sufferings,) and (a) faithful High Prieſt, (exactly performing his Prieſtly Office,) in things pertaining to God, (ſo as) to make Reconciliation for the Sins of the People.

Εἰς τὸ ἱλάσκεσθαι τὰς ἁμαρτίας τοῦ λαοῦ, to make Atonement for the Sins of the People.] i. e. ἱλάσκεσθαι τὸν Θεὸν περὶ ἁμαρτιῶν, to make Atonement to God for their Sins. So in (k) Porphyry, ἀπομειλίσσεσθαι τὰς τῶν πολλῶν ἁμαρτίας, to propitiate for the Sins of many, is in the ſame Place, ἀποιλίσσεσθαι τὸ Θεῖον, to propitiate the Deity for them. This Senſe the Words require, for Chriſt is here ſaid to be a faithful High-Prieſt τὰ πρὸς τὸν Θεὸν εἰς τὸ ἱλάσκεσθαι, in things pertaining to God, that he might make Atonement, ſurely, to him. This Reconciliation therefore muſt reſpect God. Again, this Phraſe, when it reſpects the Jewiſh Sacrifices, hath ſtill Relation to the Guilt of Sin to be expiated, and taken away by them; and every Sin-offering, offer'd by the Prieſt, is ſaid to be offer'd by the Prieſt, ἱλάσκεσθαι περὶ ἁμαρτίας αὐτῶν, to make Atonement for their Sins, Lev. 4. 35. 5. 6, 10. 13. 44. Ezek. 44. 27. And of the piacular Victim it is ſtill ſaid, καὶ ἱλάσεται περὶ αὐτῶν ὁ ἱερεύς, καὶ ἀφεθήσεται αὐτοῖς ἡ ἁμαρτία, the Prieſt ſhall make Atonement for them, and the Sin ſhall be forgiven, Lev. 4. 20, 31. 5. 6, 10, 13, 16, 18. 12. 7, 8, 14. 18, 19, 29, 31. 15. 30. 19. 22. Numb. 6. 11, 15, 28. The Apoſtle therefore here ſpeaking to the Jews in the Phraſe always uſed by them, of ſuch Sacrifices as ſuffer'd in their ſtead, to expiate the Guilt of their Sin, muſt be ſuppoſed to teach them that the like was done for them by our Saviour's Sacrifice.

Ver. 18. For in that he himſelf (actually) ſuffered being tempted, he is (become) able (and willing) to ſuccour them who (at any time) are tempted; (i. e. expoſed to Sufferings.)

Πειραζόμενος, being tempted.] i. e. expoſed to Agonies and Sufferings; for πειραζόμενος in the (h) Maim. duct. dub. l. 3. c. 22. p. 398. (i) Buxt. in voce Sammael. (k) De Abſtinentia, &c. l. 4. §. 5. p. 148.

Epiſtles, ſignifies to be expoſed to ſuch Afflictions, as ſubject us to great Temptations to deſiſt from our Duty and Obedience; as when the Apoſtle ſaith, No Temptation hath befallen you, but what is, ἀνθρώπινος, ſupportable by Man; for the Lord is faithful, who will not ſuffer you, πειρασθῆναι, to be tempted above what you are able (or expoſed to Sufferings beyond your ſtrength) but will with the Temptation make a way (ſo far) to eſcape, that you may be able to bear it, 1 Cor. 10. 13. So the Apoſtle finding his Theſſalonians, ἐν ταῖς θλίψεσι, in great Afflictions from their Perſecutors, ſends to know their Faith, μήπως ἐπείρασεν ὑμᾶς ὁ πειράζων, leſt the Tempter might have prevailed on them by reaſon of theſe Tribulations, to deſert it, 1 Theſ. 3. 3, 4, 5. Rev. 2. 10. Fear none of thoſe things which thou art to ſuffer: behold, Satan ſhall caſt ſome of you into Priſon, ἵνα πειρασθῆτε, that you may be tempted; i. e. be tried by Temptations. See Jam. 1. 2, 12. 1 Pet. 1. 6. 2 Pet. 2. 9. Rev. 3. 10. So here, our Saviour tried by theſe Agonies, he ſuffered in his hour of Darkneſs, when the Tempter fell upon him with all his Fury, is become experimentally able to ſuccour us under thoſe Sufferings, which render Obedience ſo hard to Fleſh and Blood.

Δύναται, he is able.] He hath, δύναμιν συμπαθητικήν, a power joined with a Sympathy towards us, and a propenſity to ſuccour us. So Rom. 11. 23. They ſhall be grafted in, δυνατὸς γάρ ἐστιν ὁ Θεὸς, for God is able. And Chap. 14. 4. The weak ſhall ſtand, δυνατὸς γάρ, for God is able to make him ſtand. Thus to encourage us to Charity the Apoſtle ſaith, δυνατὸς ὁ Θεὸς, God is able to make all Grace abound towards us, 2 Cor. 9. 8. I know whom I have believed, and I am perſuaded, ὅτι δυνατός ἐστι, that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him to that day, 2 Tim. 1. 12.

CHAP. III.

V. 1. Wherefore, holy Brethren, partakers of the Heavenly Calling, (i. e. the calling to celeſtial Bleſſings) conſider the Apoſtle, and High-Prieſt of our Profeſſion Chriſt Jeſus, (who, as our Apoſtle, taught theſe things, and, as our High-Prieſt, ſuffered to obtain theſe Bleſſings for us, and confirm them to us.)

Ver. 2. Who was faithful to him that appointed him (to be an Apoſtle and High-Prieſt) as alſo (it is ſaid of) Moſes (that he) was faithful in all his Houſe, (i. e. in all the Houſe of God, Numb. 12. 7.)

Πιστὸν ὄντα, who was faithful, &c.] That is, as Moſes faithfully diſcharged all that the Lord commanded him to ſay, or do for the Church of Iſrael; ſo Chriſt was faithful in the Diſcharge of his Prophetick Office, doing and ſpeaking as the Father had given him commandment, John 12. 49, 50. 14. 10. And in his Prieſtly Office, in laying down his Life for the Sheep, according to the Commandment he had received from the Father, John 10. 18. and doing all things requiſite to make Atonement for the Sins of the People, Chap. 2. 17. I know indeed the Criticks ſay, that נאמן and πιστὸς, ſignifie one eſtabliſhed in his Office, as in thoſe words, πιστὸς Σαμουὴλ εἰς προφήτην τῷ κυρίῳ, Samuel was eſtabliſhed a Prophet to the Lord; but this Criticiſm is here needleſs, and the word πιστὸν, Chap. 2. 17. bearing not this Senſe, I chuſe rather to follow the ordinary import of the word.

Ver. 3. For this Man (this Jeſus) was counted worthy of (or dignified with) more Honour than Moſes, inaſmuch as he who hath builded (Gr. ὁ κατασκευάσας, who orders or governs) the Houſe, hath more honour than the Houſe, (of which Moſes only was a part.)

Ὁ κατασκευάσας] Is he that orders, and governs, and provides, or prepares all things. So Phavorinus, κατασκευάζω, καταρτύομαι, ὀργανίζω, ordino, guberno, moderor. And thus, τὴν πολιτείαν, καὶ τὰς πόλεις καλῶς κατασκευασθῆναι, in Plato, Epiſt. 11. is to have Cities and Polities well ordered. So Wiſd. 9. 2. Thou in thy Wiſdom, κατασκευάσας ἄνθρωπον, haſt ordered Man to have Dominion over thy Creatures. Thus Philo, De Cherub. p. 100. ſaith, God is the Cauſe of the World, δι' ἣν ἐγένετο, by which it was made, and the λόγῳ δι' οὗ κατεσκευάσθη, by which it was ordered, or put into that Frame and Order in which it is. The words preceding, ἠξίωται, he was dignified with more Honour, ſeem plainly to refer unto Chriſt's Regal Office, by which all Power in Heaven and Earth was given to him, and he was made Head over all things for his Church, which is his Body, and in which he dwells as in his Houſe, Epheſ. 1. 21, 22. And this to me ſeems to eſtabliſh this Senſe of the Word.

Ver. 4. For every Houſe is builded (κατασκευάζεται, ordered and governed) by ſome Man, but he that built (ὁ κατασκευάσας, that orders and governs) all things is God.

Ὁ δὲ κατασκευάσας τὰ πάντα ὁ Θεὸς, he that built all things is God.] The Apoſtle, ſay the Socinians on the place, proves Chriſtum tanto præſtantiorem eſſe Moſe, quanto Deus præſtantior eſt ſuo Populo, qui Dei Domus eſt, idque merito, that Chriſt is as much more excellent than Moſes, as God is more excellent than his own People. And this they had juſt cauſe to ſay; and if ſo, Chriſt muſt be properly and truly God, for nothing elſe can ſo far excel Moſes, the chiefeſt of that People, as God himſelf excels them; by this Interpretation there-therefore they do not avoid, but confirm the Argument for our Saviour's Deity from this Text. The Argument ſeems plainly to run thus; He that governs all things is God, but Chriſt, as Pater Familias, Father of his Family, governs all things in his Houſe, that is, the Church diſperſed throughout all the World, and hath in order thereunto all Judgment, and all Power in Heaven and Earth committed to him: He therefore muſt be God, that is, the Exerciſe of his Kingly Office ſhews that he muſt be God as well as Man. Thus Philo, De Victim. Offer. p. 661. C. often ſaith of that Power, καθ' ἣν ἀνῆπται πᾶν ὅλων τὸ κράτος, to which the Government of all things is committed, that, οὐκ ἀνθρώπων μόνον, ἀλλὰ καὶ θεῶν ὄντ' ἂν θεὸς, μέγας τις ὢν ὄντως, καὶ ἰσχυρὸς, καὶ κραταιὸς, he is God, not only of Men but Angels, a great Being, who truly doth exiſt, both ſtrong and mighty.

Ver. 5. And Moſes verily was faithful in (the Adminiſtration of) all (things in) his Houſe, (but this he was only) as a Servant, for a teſtimony of thoſe things which were to be ſpoken (by God to them).

Ver. 6. But Chriſt as a Son (is placed) over his own Houſe, (i.e. he enters upon the Government of it as an Heir, and Succeſſor into the Rights of his Father, the Father now judging no Man, but having committed all Judgment to the Son, John 5. 22.) whoſe Houſe we (Chriſtians) are (and ſhall continue to be) if we hold faſt our Confidence, and the rejoycing of our Hope ſtedfaſt to the end.

Ὡς θεράπων, as a Servant.] The Government of Iſrael was a Theocraſy, where God gave all the Laws and Precepts, and Moſes, only as his Servant and Miniſter, told them what things God thought fit to command them; but the Government of the Chriſtian Church is entirely committed to our Lord Jeſus, and he, as Supreme Head and Lord of all things, governs both it and all things in Earth and Heaven for the good of it; and therefore, if he be not truly God, God doth not now govern the World as formerly, but hath given up the Adminiſtration of it to a Creature, whoſe Houſe we are, Chriſt living in our Hearts by Faith, Gal. 2. 20. Eph. 3. 17. abiding in us by his Spirit, John 14. 23. Rom. 8, 9, 10, 11. and dwelling in our Bodies, and in the Body of the Church, as in his Temple, 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17. 6. 17. 2 Cor. 6. 15, 16. Eph. 2. 20, 21, 22. 4. 16.

Παῤῥησίαν, the Confidence,] Or the free Profeſſion of the Faith; for παῤῥησία is a Liberty or Freedom of ſpeaking; as when 'tis ſaid of Chriſt, that he ſpake, ἐν παῤῥησίᾳ, freely, Mark 8. 32. John 7. 13. 18. 20. and of his Apoſtles, that they ſpake, μετὰ παῤῥησίας, with all Freedom and Courage, Acts 2. 29. 4. 13, 29, 31. 28. 31. 2 Cor. 3. 12. 7. 14. Eph. 6. 19. Phil. 1. 20. 1 Tim. 3. 13. Heb. 4. 16. So Phavorinus, παῤῥησιάζομαι ἀληθεύω καὶ ὁμῶ.

Καύχημα τῆς ἐλπίδος, the rejoicing of Hope.] i. e. the Hope which cauſes us to rejoice in expectation of the Glory of God, Rom. 5. 2. 2 Cor. 1. 14. Gal. 6. 4. if we hold this firm unto the end. Which ſuppoſes that they who were partakers of this Heavenly Calling, and had at preſent this cauſe of Rejoycing, might not hold it firm unto the End, but might fall off from it, ver. 14. might depart from the living God, ver. 11. Chap. 4. 11. Yea, the Apoſtle in this Epiſtle plainly doth ſuppoſe that they who had taſted of the heavenly Gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghoſt, &c. might fall away, chap. 6. 4, 5, 6. That the Juſt who lives by his Faith might draw back unto Perdition, chap. 10. 38, 39. that they might fall from the Grace of God, chap. 12. 15.

Ver. 7. Wherefore as the Holy Ghoſt ſaith (by David, Pſal. 95. 8.) to day if you will hear his voice.

Τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον, the Holy Ghoſt ſaith.] Hence it appears that David writ his Pſalms by the Afflatus, or Inſpiration of the Holy Ghoſt. See Note on Matth. 22. 43.

Σήμερον, to day.] At preſent, for now is the day of Salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2. We muſt do God's Commandments to day, ſay the Jews, from Deut. 7. 11. and receive the Reward to morrow. We muſt repent to day, leſt we die to morrow, before we have repented. See Cartw. in locum. And again, If Iſrael would repent but one day, the Meſſiah would come; and this they prove from theſe words of the Pſalmiſt, אם בקלו תשמעו when you hear his voice, ſpeaking in the Prophets; or as the Targum, אם במימרה when you hear him ſpeaking by the Logos, the Word, proceeding from the Father, harden not your Hearts; that this is the frequent ſenſe of the Particle אם See Noldius, p. 89. §. 18. and it is alſo the ſenſe of the Greek, ἐὰν. So ἐὰν εἴπῃ, when he ſaid thus, Gen. 31. 8. ἐὰν ἐξελθῶσιν, when the Daughters of Shiloh come forth, Judg. 21. 21. ἐὰν κοιμηθῶ, when I lie down, Job 7. 4. ἐὰν κάθῃ, when thou ſitteſt; ἐὰν καθεύδῃς, when thou lieſt down, Prov. 3. 24, 25. ἐὰν πορεύῃ, when thou goeſt; ἐὰν τρέχῃς, when thou runneſt, Prov. 4. 12. So alſo in the New Teſtament, ἐὰν ὑψωθῶ, when I ſhall be lifted up, John 12. 32. ἐὰν πορευθῶ, when I ſhall go, John 14. 3. 16. 7. ἐὰν φανερωθῇ, when he ſhall appear, 1 John 3. 2. Theſe words are therefore to be extended to the whole time of their hearing God, ſpeaking to them by his Prophets, and eſpecially to the time of God's ſpeaking to them by his Son, who was to bring them into a better Reſt than that of Canaan, into which Joſhua led them.

Ver. 8. Harden not your Hearts, as (your Forefathers did) in the (time of) provocation in the day of Temptation in the Wilderneſs; (hence learn that 'twas in their power to prevent the hardneſs of their Hearts.)

Ver. 9.

Ver. 9. When (where) your Fathers tempted me, (i.e. doubted of my Preſence with them, ſaying, Is the Lord among us, or not? Exod. 17. 7. Numb. 14. 11, 21.) proved me, and ſaw my Works forty years.

When, ὅ, where.] So the Hebrew אשר is rendred, Numb. 22. 26. Deut. 8. 15. Pſal. 84. 3. Eccleſ. 8. 10. So Numb. 20. 13. Theſe are the Waters of Contention, אשר where the Children of Iſrael contended.

Ἐπείρασάν με, tempted me.] That to tempt God in the Scripture Phraſe is always to diſtruſt his Power, or Goodneſs, after ſufficient Demonſtrations given of it. See Note on Matth. 4. 7. and Note here that the Apoſtle ſaith they tempted Chriſt, 1. Cor. 10. 9. which ſhews that theſe words may truly be applied to him.

Ἐδοκίμασαν, proved me.] The Hebrew בחנוני which is here rendred proved me, is, Mal. 3. 16. rendred by the Greek ἀντέστησαν, they reſiſted God; and by the Chaldee, the Syriac, and by our Verſion, they who tempted God; that is, ſaith Dr. Pocock, who went about to try and prove him whether he could or would puniſh Sinners, and to provoke and dare him to do his worſt, to execute his Judgments, if he were a God of Judgment; and then to ſee his Works forty Years, muſt be to ſee his Judgments executed upon them forty Years.

Τεσσαρακοντα ἔτη, forty Years.] If this be the right Connexion of the words, then to ſee God's Works forty Years muſt be to ſee his Puniſhments ſo long upon them, as he plainly threatned they ſhould, ſaying, You ſhall bear your Iniquities forty Years, Numb. 14. 33. and that ſo viſibly, that all the Nations ſhould diſcern his Judgments on them; For ſurely, as I live, ſaith he, all the Earth ſhall be filled with the Glory of God, ver. 21. But if, according to the Reading of the Hebrew, and the Septuagint, the forty Years ſhould be added to the following Verſe thus, Wherefore I was angry with that Generation forty Years, as the Apoſtle doth intimate by that Enquiry, ver. 17. with whom was he angry forty Years? Then the גם ראו and καὶ εἶδον, will be beſt rendred, though they ſaw my Works; as גם ſignifies. Noldius, p. 220. And καὶ, Luke 18. 7. John 16. 32. Acts 7. 5. According as God ſpeaks to them, Numb. 14. 22. For all theſe Men which have ſeen my Glory, and my Signs which I did in Egypt, and in the Wilderneſs, and yet have tempted me theſe ten times, and have not hearkned to my voice, ſurely they ſhall not ſee the Land. And ver. 11. How long will it be ere they believe me after all the Signs? &c.

Ver. 10. Wherefore I was grieved with that Generation, and ſaid, They do always err in their Heart, (not with the Heart believing, ver. 11.) and they have not known my ways, (i.e. not hearken'd to me, to walk in them, ver. 22.)

Ver. 11. So I ſware in my Wrath, ver. 21. they ſhall not enter (Gr. if they ſhall enter) into my Reſt.

אם יבאון, εἰ εἰσελεύσονται, if they ſhall enter.] i. e. let me not be God, or let me not be true, if they enter. This is a form of Swearing very frequent in the Old Teſtament. So Deut. 1. 35. The Lord was wroth, and ſware, ſaying, εἰ ὄψεται, אם יראה, if any of theſe Men ſhall ſee that good Land of Promiſe. Pſal. 95. 11. So 1 Sam. 3. 14. אם יתכפר, εἰ ἐξιλασθήσεται, if the Iniquity of the Houſe of Eli ſhall be purged with Sacrifice, Pſal. 89. 35. Once have I ſworn by my Holineſs, אם אכזב, εἰ ψεύσομαι, if I fail David, Pſal. 132. 2, 3. Lord, remember David, how he ſware, אם אבא, εἰ εἰσελεύσομαι, if I go into my Tabernacle, אם אעלה, εἰ ἀναβήσομαι, if I climb up into my Bed, אם אתן, εἰ δώσω, if I give ſleep to my eyes. So Mark 8. 12. Verily I ſay unto you, εἰ δοθήσεται τῇ γενεᾷ ταύτῃ σημεῖον, let me not be true, if a Sign be given to this Generation, where Chriſt himſelf ſwears, and therefore cannot be ſuppoſed abſolutely to forbid all ſwearing, Matth. 5. 34.

Ver. 12. Take heed (therefore) Brethren, leſt there be in you (as there was in them) an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

Ἐν τῷ ἀποστῆναι.] The Jews that tempted God, Numb. 14. are ſaid ἀποστῆναι, to depart from the Land of Canaan, ver. 31. They ſaid one to another, Come let us make us a Captain, ἵνα ἀποστρέψωμεν, and let us turn back into Egypt, ver. 4. and are ſaid, ἀ πιστῆσαι, not to believe God, ver. 11.

The living God.] So ſtiled, to ſhew that he is always able to puniſh Unbelievers. Note alſo, That as he who believeth in Chriſt, believeth in God the Father alſo, John 12. 44. ſo he that deſerts him, doth alſo deſert the Father who ſent him, and makes him a Lyar, 1 John 5. 9, 10. for he that denies the Son, hath not the Father, 1 John 3. 23.

Ver. 13. But exhort one another (to ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith) daily, whilſt it is called to day, (before the night come upon you, John 12. 35.) leſt any of you be hardned through the deceitfulneſs of Sin.

Ἵνα μὴ σκληρυνθῇ τις, leſt any Man be hardned.] To be hardned, in the New Teſtament, imports Infidelity, and want of Faith. Thus Chriſt upbraids to his Diſciples their unbelief, καὶ σκληροκαρδίαν, and hardneſs of Heart, that they believed not, Mark 16. 14. and the Jews that believed not are ſaid to be hardned, Acts 19. 9. And ſo it will be evident, that here it ſignifies to him that compares ver. 15. with ver. 19.

Ver. 14. For we are made partakers of (the Bleſſings purchaſed by) Chriſt, if we hold the beginning of our Confidence ſtedfaſt to the end.

τὴν ἀρχὴν τῆς ὑποστάσεως, the Beginning of their Hope.] That Hope to which we have fled for Refuge, Chap. 6. 18. That Hope which cauſeth us to rejoyce, v. 6. Faith being ἐλπιζομένων ὑπόστασις, the firm Expectation of things hoped for, Ch. 11. 1. See the Note there.

Ver. 15. While it is ſaid, (Gr. ἐν τῷ λέγεσθαι, in that it is ſaid) to Day if you will hear his Voice, harden not your Hearts, as in the Provocation. (You may diſcern the Miſchief of Unbelief, and Hardneſs of Heart, and the Neceſſity of the Exhortation tendred, v. 12, 13.)

Ver. 16. For ſome when they heard, did provoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt (Not Caleb and Joſhua.)

Τινὲς γὰρ ἀκούσαντες παρεπίκραναν, ἀλλ' οὐ πάντες, &c.] I would render theſe Words thus, For who were they, that hearing, did provoke? Were they not all that came forth out of Egypt? For, 1. τινὲς ſignifies as well who as ſome. So Acts 19. 15. τίνες ἐστέ, who are ye? Rev. 7. 13. οὗτοι τίνες εἰσὶ, who are they that are cloathed with white Robes? Iſa. 60. 8. τίνες οὗτοι εἰσὶν, who are theſe? So Heb. 1. 5. τίνι γάρ, for to whom of the Angels ſaid he? And here, v. 18. τίσιν δὲ, to whom did he ſwear? So Joſephus, Cap. 17. of his Maccabees, τίνος οὐκ ἐθαύμασαν τὸν ὑπὲρ τοῦ θείου πονήσαντα ἄθλητήν; τίνες οὐκ ἐξεπλάγησαν; who did not admire? who were not aſtoniſh'd at the Champions of the Divine Law? And then the Anſwer to this Enquiry muſt be this, Were they a few? Yea, were they not all? &c. As if it had been ἀλλὰ πάντες. 'Tis alſo evident, that τίς and οὐκ are often Interrogatives, as 1 Cor. 12. 15. Joh. 8. 42. See Noldius, p. 487. And if the Greek will bear this Conſtruction, it anſwers beſt, (1ſt.) to the Story, as it is repreſented, Numb. 14. For notwithſtanding the Exception made, v. 38. of Joſhua and Caleb, it is ſaid, v. 12. that πᾶσα ἡ συναγωγὴ, all the Congregation, καὶ πάντες, and all the Children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and Aaron; that πᾶσα ἡ συναγωγὴ, all the Congregation ſpake of ſtoning Joſhua and Caleb, v. 10. and πάντες οἱ ἄνδρες, all the Men, v. 22. are the οἱ παροξύναντες, Provokers, v. 23. the συναγωγὴ πονηρὰ, evil Congregation, and the Murmurers, v. 27. 35. Joſ. 5. 6. And (2dly,) it agrees beſt with the following Verſes, which are plainly Interrogatives and Anſwers, With whom was he grieved? Was it not with them? To whom ſware he? Was it not to them that believ'd not? And, Laſtly, with the Cloſe of the Argument, which ſaith generally, they could not enter in.

Ver. 17. But (And) with whom was he grieved Forty Years? Was it not with them that had ſinn'd (by Unbelief,) whoſe Carcaſſes fell in the Wilderneſs?

Ver. 18. And to whom ſware he, that they ſhould not enter into his Reſt, but to them that believed not?

Ver. 19. So we ſee (καὶ βλέπομεν, we ſee therefore) they could not enter in, becauſe of Unbelief.

Καὶ here ſignifies idcirco, therefore, as the Hebrew ו often does. See Noldius, p. 279. So Joſh. 23. 11. καὶ φυλάξεσθε take good heed therefore, Pſal. 2. 10. καὶ νῦν σύνετε, be wiſe now therefore. See Pſalm 7. 7. 18. 42.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. LET us therefore fear, leaſt a Promiſe being left us of entring into his Reſt (in the Celeſtial Canaan, as to them in the Terreſtrial,) any of you ſhould ſeem to come ſhort of it, (i. e. ſhould fail of it.)

Δοκῇ τις ὑστερηκέναι, ſhould ſeem to come ſhort.] That the Word ὑστερηκέναι ſignifies to fail of, or fall from any thing, ſee Note on Chap. 12. 13. and that δοκέω is oft an Expletive, all Criticks do acknowledge; ſo μὴ δόξητε λέγειν, ſay not, Matth. 3. 9. οἱ δοκοῦντες ἄρχειν, they who rule, Mark 10. 42. ὃ δοκεῖ ἔχειν that which he hath, Luke 8. 18. Matth. 25. 29. ὁ δοκῶν ἑστάναι, he that ſtandeth, 1 Cor. 10. 12. See the Note on 1 Cor. 7. 40.

Ver. 2. For unto us was the Goſpel preach'd, as well as unto them, (Gr. καὶ γάρ ἐσμεν εὐηγγελισμένοι καθάπερ κἀκεῖνοι, for we have (now) the Goſpel preach'd to us, as they had then the Law to them) but the Word preach'd, (Gr. heard) did not profit them, not being mixed with Faith in them that heard it.

Καθάπερ κἀκεῖνοι as well as they.] This by ſome is referr'd to their hearing of the Law, as in the Paraphraſe, by others as probably to the Goſpel-Bleſſings then typified to them, for the Apoſtle informs us, that they all ate the ſame Spiritual Meat, and drank the ſame Spiritual Drink; for they drank of the Rock that followed them, and that Rock was Chriſt, 1 Cor. 10. 3, 4. This ſounds flat to them only who are averſe to this Doctrine, that the Bleſſings of the Goſpel were typified to the Jews.

Ver. 3. For we which have believed (οἱ πιστεύσαντες, who are Believers,) do enter into Reſt, as (may be gathered from what) he ſaid, (viz.) as I have ſworn, (or ſo I ſwear) in my Wrath, if they ſhall enter into my Reſt, altho' the Works (of God in the Creation) were finiſhed (Gr. had been done) from the Foundation of the World.

Εἰς τὴν κατάπαυσίν μου, into my Reſt.] Upon the true Interpretation of theſe Words here, and, v. 1. κατάπαυσιν αὐτοῦ, depends the true Senſe of this Chapter. Now ſome referr this to that Deliverance from their Perſecutors, and the peaceable Days of profeſſing the Goſpel, the Chriſtians in Judea, and elſewhere, ſhould enjoy after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem; but but to this I can by no means conſent: For, (1.) the bearing of the Croſs, the ſuffering Perſecution being ſo often hinted as the Portion of all that will live godly, I cannot believe that a Promiſe of Deliverance from them ſhould be ſo often repreſented by the Holy Ghoſt, as the great Goſpel-Bleſſing promis'd to Believers, the ἐπαγγελία, Evangelical Promiſe made to Chriſtians by God, that they ſhould enter into his Reſt, v. 1. the Sabbatiſm remaining for the People of God, v. 9. the Reſt which they ſhould ſtrive to enter into, v. 11. and be affraid leſt they ſhould fail of, v. 1. (2dly,) I know of no ſuch happy Change of the Affairs of Chriſtians in all other Parts of the World, that the Apoſtle ſhould here, and almoſt in all his other Epiſtles, ſpeak of it as this Interpretation maketh him to do, as of one of the greateſt Bleſſings of Chriſtianity; nor were there any ſuch Halcyon Days enjoy'd by Chriſtians after the Deſolation of Jeruſalem. This will be evident from Chriſt's Meſſage to the Aſiatick Churches after the Times of Domitian; for there he ſpeaks to the Angel of the Church of Smyrna, Fear none of thoſe things which thou art about to ſuffer: Behold, Satan is about to caſt ſome of you into Priſon, that ye may be tried ten Days. Be thou faithful to the Death, and I will give thee the Crown of Life, Rev. 2. 10. To the Church of Pergamus, thus, I know thy Works, and where thou dwelleſt, where is the Throne of Satan, and thou holdeſt my Name, and haſt not denied the Faith in the Days in which Antipas my faithful Martyr ſuffer'd who was ſlain among you where Satan dwells. Ibid. v. 13. To the Church of Philadelphia, thus, Becauſe thou haſt kept the Word of my Patience, I will alſo keep thee from the Hour of Temptation, which ſhall come upon all the World, to try them that dwell upon the Earth, Chap. 3. 10. This Argument a Reverend Perſon endeavours to evade, by ſaying that John writ his Revelations in the 9th. Year of Claudius. But, 1ſt. This is contrary to the Teſtimony of all Antiquity, excepting only the ſingle Teſtimony of Epiphanius, which alſo is fully anſwered by Dr. Moor: For it is generally agreed that he writ his Revelation in the Iſle of Patmos, as may be proved from Chap. 1. 9, 10, 11. Now all the Ancients ſay, that John was baniſh'd thither by Domitian, and writ his Revelations about that time. So (a) Irenæus ſpeaks expreſly, ſaying, If the Name of Antichriſt had been to be divulged, it would have been mentioned by him who ſaw the Revelation; for it was not ſeen long ago, but almoſt in our Age, at the End of the Reign of Domitian; which Paſſage cannot be underſtood of the Name only of the Beaſt, but of the whole Revelation, as is evident. (1.) Becauſe Euſebius, who cites this Paſſage, muſt underſtand him ſo; for he ſaith, that he returned from his Exile in this Iſland, μετὰ τὴν Δομιτιανοῦ τυραννίδα, c. 23. after the Death of Domitian, and ſo he muſt have writ his Revelation while he lived. And, 2dly, Becauſe the Name of the Beaſt is not ſaid to be revealed to the Evangeliſt, but only the Number of his Name. And, 3dly, The Words, ὃς τὴν Ἀποκάλυψιν ἑωράκει, even force this Senſe; for they are properly rendred, who ſaw alſo the Revelation, diſtinguiſhing the Revelation from the Name. And, Laſtly, a Name cannot properly be ſaid to be ſeen, nor doth St. John ever uſe ſuch an Expreſſion about it; but a Revelation is properly ſaid to be ſeen, and St. John often ſaith he ſaw them. Again, in this Perſecution of Domitian, ſaith (b) Euſebius, παράδοσις λέγει, the Tradition runs, that John the Evangeliſt was baniſhed to the Iſle of Patmos, for the Teſtimony he gave to the Divine Word. And in his (c) Chronicon he adds, that under him the Apoſtle John being baniſh'd to the Iſle of Patmos, ἵνα τὴν Ἀποκάλυψιν ἑώρακεν, ὡς φασὶ τινες, there ſaw his Revelation, as Irenæus teſtifies; which both confirms the Tradition, and gives the true Senſe of the Words of Ireneus, cited by him. So alſo (d) St. Jerom ſaith, that St. John being baniſh'd into the Iſle of Patmos, in the 14th. Year of Domitian, Scripſit Apocalypſin, compoſed the Book of the Revelation. So almoſt all the Greek and Latin Writers ſaith, Huetius in Orig. Com. p. 72. Vide Oroſ. l. 7. c. 10, 11. Martyr. Timoth. apud Phot. Cod. 254. p. 1403. l. 1. Aret. in Apoc. l. 9. 2dly, 'Tis certain, from the ſecond Text here cited, that Antipas had ſuffer'd Martyrdom before the writing of theſe Epiſtles to the Churches. Now that Antipas ſuffer'd Martyrdom under Domitian, the old R. Martyrology aſſures us; and Dr. Hammond on the Place confeſſes, 'tis therefore evident that St. John, ſpeaking of this Martyrdom which hapned in the Days of Domitian, as a thing paſt, muſt write the Revelations in, or after the Reign of Domitian. This the Doctor ſaw, and therefore interprets theſe Words, Thou haſt not denied my Faith, ἐν αἷς ἡμέραις, even in thoſe Days (of fiery Trial) in which Antipas, ἀπεκτάνθη, was, or hath been ſlain: Thus the Time is approaching wherein Antipas, I foreſee, will be cruelly Martyr'd; that is, (if this was written in the 9th. of Claudius, and Antipas ſlain in the 10th. of Domitian,)

I fore-

I foreſee he will be ſlain Forty Years hence: Which Deſcant, to ſpeak in his own Words, is too vain to be ſeriouſly repeated or conſidered.

Laſtly, The Chriſtians had no ſuch Halcyon Days for any conſiderable time after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem; for Jeruſalem was deſtroy'd, Anno Chriſti 70, and the Second Perſecution began under Domitian, Anno Domini 96. They had therefore only Reſt for twenty Years, and then comes the Second Perſecution, in which (e) many Chriſtians were exiled, and ſome ſuffer'd Martyrdom; for even Heathen Writers, ſaith (f) Euſebius, mention the Deſolation, and the Martyrdoms of our Men. And in his Chronicon he ſaith, that Brutius, in his Hiſtory, affirms, that πολλοὶ χειστιανῶν ἐμαρτύρησαν ἐπὶ Δομετιανοῦ, many Chriſtians ſuffer'd Martyrdom under Domitian. Ten Years after the End of this Perſecution, comes on a third Perſecution under Trajan, in which, ſaith (g) Euſebius, ſo great and heavy was the Perſecution in moſt Places, that Pliny, one of the celebrated Preſidents of the Provinces, being moved with the Multitude of Martyrs, writ to the Emperor concerning the Multitude of Martyrs that had ſuffer'd, and receiv'd this Anſwer from him, That they ſhould not be enquired after, but only puniſh'd as they fell into their Hands. And, (h) that tho' hereupon the open Perſecutions ceaſed, yet in divers Provinces they continued, and exerciſed many of the Chriſtians with divers kinds of Martyrdom.

In the 17th. Year of Trajan, the Jews in Meſopotamia rebel, and many Myriads of them periſh. In the 2d. of Hadrian they rebel again, and are overcome. In the 17th. of Hadrian, Barchochebas ſet up for their Meſſiah, and drew an infinite Multitude of Jews after him. Now all theſe, and eſpecially the laſt, were ſevere Perſecutors of the Chriſtians of thoſe Places. For (i) Juſtin Martyr oft informs us, That even after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, they retained ſtill the ſame Hatred to the Chriſtians, and cut them off where ever they had Power and Opportunity; and in the Days of Barchochebas, put thoſe Chriſtians to exquiſite Torments, who would not deny Chriſt. And could theſe be the Times of Quiet and Safety to the Chriſtians from their Perſecutors, and of proſperous and peaceable Days for the Publick Worſhip and Service of God? Is this the εὐαγγελία, Goſpel-Promiſe of a Reſt and Sabbatiſm to the People of God? The Reward which it is juſt with God to render them for all their Sufferings for his ſake, 2 Theſſ. i. 7. See Dr. Hammond on that Place.

To come then to the true Import of this Phraſe, let it be noted, that there is a double Reſt mentioned in this and the former Chapter, viz.

1ſt. The Reſt promiſed to the Jews in the Land of Canaan, Chap. 3. 11. And this, ſaith the Apoſtle, could not be the Reſt of God; for if Joſhua had given them (ſuch) Reſt, David would not have ſpoken of another Day, v. 8. Why not? ſaith Mr. Cl. Anſwer, Becauſe then, by entring into that, they would have already entred into the Reſt of God.

2dly, A Reſt after the Example of God, ceaſing from his Labours when he had finiſh'd the Creation, which is the Reſt of the Bleſſed that die in the Lord. Ἵνα ἀναπαύσωνται ἐκ τῶν κόπων αὐτῶν, that they may reſt from their Labours, Rev. 14. 13. And that this is the Reſt which the Apoſtle now begins to ſpeak of, is evident from theſe Words, v. 10. He that is entred into Reſt, he hath alſo ceaſed from his own Works, as God did from his: For what can we underſtand by reſting from his own Works, but, as the (k) Fathers do interpret it, ἐκ τῶν λογισμῶν, ἐκ τῶν πειρασμῶν, ἐκ τῶν θλίψεων, from his Perſecutions, Temptations, and Afflictions, to which he is obnoxious in this preſent World? The Phraſe ſeems plainly to be taken from Iſa. 57. 1. where it is ſaid of the Righteous taken away from the Evil to come, they ſhall enter into Peace, they ſhall reſt in their Beds. Of this Reſt, that of Canaan, and the Sabbatiſms, there obſerved, were a Type, as the Jews themſelves inform us; and therefore it ſeems reaſonable to interpret theſe Words agreeably to that Senſe.

Ver. 4. For he ſpake in a certain Place of the Seventh Day, (from the Creation, ſaying,) And God did reſt the Seventh Day from all his Works.

Ver. 5. And in this Place (he ſaith) again; (long after) If they ſhall enter into my Reſt. (i. e. if they ſhall have a Reſt from their

Ver. 6. Seeing therefore it remains that ſome muſt enter in (to this Reſt of God, it being not a Reſt provided in vain, or to be enjoy'd by none,) and they to whom it was firſt preach'd, (i. e. to whom the Promiſe of a Reſt was firſt made,) entred not in, becauſe of Unbelief.

Ver. 7. Again, he (God) limiteth a certain Day, ſaying, in (theſe Words of) David, To Day, after ſo long a time (of their Continuance in the Reſt of Canaan) as it is (there) ſaid, To Day if you will hear his Voice, harden not your Hearts, &c. Here Mr. le Cl. with his uſual Confidence, ſpeaks thus, I ſay again, There is no mention in the Pſalmiſt of any future Reſt; which, if true, there is no Senſe in the Apoſtle's Words, nor any Strength in his Argument; for it doth evidently run thus, There muſt be a Reſt to the People of God beſides, i. e. ſucceeding that which Joſhua procured them in the Land of Canaan, becauſe the Pſalmiſt, ſo long after their Reſt in Canaan, makes mention of a future Reſt; ſo the Apoſtle, There is no mention in the Pſalmiſt of a future Reſt, ſaith M. le Cl. in flat Contradiction to the Apoſtle. He had ſpoken in one Place of the Reſt of God, ſaith the Apoſtle, v. 4. and he ſpeaks again, ἐν τούτῳ, in this Place of the Pſalmiſt, of this Reſt, v. 5. into which the Unbelievers not entring, in this Paſſage of David, he again, πάλιν ὁρίζει ἡμέραν, ſets, or defines a certain Day, by ſaying to them, who lived ſo long after theſe Unbelievers miſcarried, to Day if you will hear his Voice, (and ſo enjoy this Reſt, ch. 3. 18, 19.) harden not your Hearts, ſpeaking there of a Reſt not already enjoy'd, but hereafter to be enjoy'd by them, and ſo not of the Reſt procured to them by Joſhua, εἰ γάρ, for if Joſhua had given them the Reſt called the Reſt of God, David would not have here ſpoken of another Day of Reſt; but having done ſo, ἄρα, certo, utique, we conclude, that there remains yet a Reſt to be enjoy'd by the People of God.

Ver. 8. For if Jeſus, (i. e. Joſhua) had given them (a) Reſt, (like to that of God,) then would not he, (i. e. God by David,) afterward have ſpoken of another Day (of Reſt, after their Reſt in Canaan.)

Ἐι γὰρ Ἰησοῦς.] For Explication of the Apoſtle's Argument, here let it be noted, That all the Greek Commentators on this Place concurr in this, that the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh of a three-fold Reſt.

1ſt. Of the Reſt of God, mention'd Gen. 2. 2. in theſe Words, And God reſted on the Seventh Day from all his Works that he had done. Which Reſt, ſay the Ancients, was the Symbol of the Reſt of the Juſt from all their Labours. So (l) Irenæus ſaith, the Seventh Day which was ſanctified, and in which God reſted from all his Works, is the true Sabbath of the Juſt, in which they ſhall do no earthly Labour. And (m) Origen ſaith, Celſus underſtood not the Myſtery of the Seventh Day, and the Reſt of God, in which, all that had done their Works in Six, and had left nothing undone which belonged to them, ſhould feaſt with God, aſcending to the Viſion of him, and in that to the General Feſtivity of the Juſt and Bleſſed.

And again, (n) If we farther enquire which are the true Sabbaths, we ſhall find, that the Obſervation of the true Sabbath reaches beyond the World; the true Sabbath, in which God will reſt from all his Works, being the World to come, then when all Grief, Sorrow, and Sighing ſhall fly away, and God ſhall be All in All.

2dly, Of the Reſt of the Jews in Canaan: Which is the Reſt God ſware the murmuring and unbelieving Jews ſhould not enjoy, perhaps, as well in the Spiritual Senſe, as in the Natural. For the (o) Jews themſelves repreſent their Sin as that in which they made bold, ψεδολογίαν κατειπεῖν τοῦ Θεοῦ, to charge God with a Lye. And the Jeruſalem Targum ſaith, God threatned to remember it in the Day of Judgment. In (p) Midraſh Tillim, an evil Tongue is ſaid to be worſe than Idolatry: And this is proved from what theſe Rebels ſpake againſt God, גזר דין, the Sentence of Judgment being paſs'd upon them for their evil Words, Numb. 14. 28. Now Idolatry is ſtill reckon'd by them a Sin excluſive from the Heavenly Canaan, they ſhall not enter into the Reſt of the Houſe of my Sanctuary, ſaith the Chaldee on Pſalm 95. 11. However, thoſe Jews who entred into Canaan, when they were to have Reſt from all their Enemies round about, ſo

(m) Οὐ γὰρ οἶδε τις ἦν τοῦ Σαββάτου, καὶ τῆς κατανύσεως Θεοῦ ἡμέρας, ἐν ᾗ εὐφραίνονται ἅμα τῷ Θεῷ οἱ πάντα τὰ ἴδια ἑαυτῶν ταῖς ἓξ ἡμέραις πεποιηκότες, καὶ διὰ τὸ μηδὲν παρελοιπέναι τῶν ἀπβαλλόντων ἀναβαίνοντες ἐπὶ τὴν θεωρίαν, καὶ τὸ ἐν αὐτῇ δίκαιον, καὶ μακάριον πανήγυριν. L. 6. p. 317.

(n) Si altius repetamus quæ ſint vera Sabbata, ultra hunc mundum eſt veri Sabbati obſervatio— Erit ergo verum Sabbatum in quo requieſcet Deus ab omnibus operibus ſuis, ſeculum futurum, tunc cum aufugiet dolor, & triſtitia, & gemitus, & ecce omnia, & in omnibus Deus. Hom. 23. in Num. F. 136. *A. as to dwell ſafely, Deut. 12. 9, 10. did ſo far diſobey the Voice of the Lord, that he ſaid he would not drive their Enemies out from before them, but would leave them to be as Thorns in their Sides, and Pricks in their Eyes, to vex them in the Land where they dwelt, Judg. 2. 2, 3. Joſh. 23. 13. Numb. 33. 55. So that the Jews themſelves expected a farther Completion of that Promiſe, in the Times of the Meſſiah, as we learn from thoſe Words of Zacharias, the Father of the Baptiſt, Bleſſed be the God of Iſrael, who hath viſited and redeemed his People, and hath raiſed up a mighty Salvation for us in the Houſe of his Servant David, as he ſpake by the Mouth of his holy Prophets, which have been ſince the World began, that we ſhould be ſaved from our Enemies, and from the Hands of all that hate us: That we being delivered out of the Hands of our Enemies, might ſerve him without Fear, Luke 1. 68, 74. And hence the Apoſtle here concludes, that Joſhua gave them not the Reſt emphatically ſtyled, the Reſt of God, as reſembling his Reſt from all his Works, when he had finiſhed the World; and ſo there muſt be yet another Reſt remaining to the People of God, as it follows.

Ver. 9. There remaineth therefore (yet) a (more Glorious and Complete) Reſt for the People of God.

Ver. 10. For he that is (thus) entred into Reſt, he alſo hath ceaſed from his own Works, (i. e. from the Labours and Travails of this Life, Rev. 14. 13.) as God (after he had finiſhed the Creation) did from his.

A Reſt, Σαββατισμός.] The Apoſtle, by thus changing the Word ἀνάπαυσις, Reſt, into Sabbatiſm, and by comparing of this Sabbatiſm with the Reſt of God on the Sabbath, or Seventh Day, clearly leads us to the Interpretation of all the Ancient Chriſtians, that our glorious and complete Reſt hereafter with God, is that of which God's reſting on the Seventh Day was a Symbol, and to the Spiritual Sabbath, of which the Jewiſh Doctors ſpeak ſo generally, as the great thing ſignified by their Sabbath, as when they ſay (q) the Sabbath was given to be רומא של העולם הבא, δεῖγμα, a Sign or Exemplar of the World to come. The Sabbath Day, what is it? (r) A Figure of the Land of the Living, to wit, of the World or Age to come, the Age of Souls, the Age of Conſolations. Thus in their Deſcants upon the 92d. Pſalm, which bears this Title both in the Hebrew and the Greek, a Song, ליום השבת, οἱς ἡμέρᾳ τῆ Σαββάτου, upon the Sabbath Day. They ſay (s) this is the Age to come, שכלו שבת, which is all Sabbath. The Pſalmiſt, ſaith R. Solomon Jarchi, in locum, ſpeaks of the Buſineſs of the World to come, which is all Sabbath. A Pſalm upon the Sabbath Day, ſaith R. Eliezer, Cap. 19. p. 42. that is, upon the Day which is all Sabbath, and Reſt, in the Life of the World to come. And again, Cap. 18. p. 41. The Bleſſed Lord created Seven Worlds, (i. e. Ages,) but one of them is all Sabbath and Reſt in Life Eternal: Where he referrs to their common Opinion, That the World ſhould continue Six thouſand Years, and then a perpetual Sabbath ſhould begin, typified by God's reſting the Seventh Day, and bleſſing it. So Bereſchith Rabba, If we expound the Seventh Day of the Seventh thouſand Years, which is the World to come, the Expoſition is, And he bleſſed; becauſe in the Seventh Thouſand all Souls ſhall be bound in the Bundle of Life, for there ſhall be there the Augmentation of the Holy Ghoſt, wherein we ſhall delight our ſelves. And ſo our Rabbins, of Bleſſed Memory, have ſaid in their Commentaries, God bleſſed the Seventh Day, the holy God bleſſed the World to come, which beginneth in the Seventh thouſand of Years. (t) Philo is very copious in this Allegory, who diſputing againſt thoſe, who, having learn'd that the written Laws were σύμβολα νοητῶν πραγμάτων, Symbols of intellectual things, did upon that account neglect them, ſaith, That tho' the Seventh Day was a Document of the Power of God, and of the Reſt of the Creature, yet was not the outward Reſt to be caſt off. And again, 'Tis fitly ſaid, δι' ὑπονοιῶν, by Allegories, or Figurative Expreſſions, the Sabbaths of the Land ſhall be Meat for you, Lev. 25. 6. (u) For Reſt in God producing the greateſt Good, Peace ſecure from War, is only that which truly nouriſheth, and is to be enjoy'd with Pleaſure. And a third time, (x) This is the Reaſon of the Seventh Day, or the Septenary, i. e. of the Soul reſting in God, and performing no more mortal Works.

Ver. 11. Let us labour therefore to enter into that Reſt, (which yet remaineth for the People of God,) leſt any Man fall (Gr. that we may not fall from it,) after the ſame Example of Unbelief, (by our Infidelity, as they did.)

Ver. 12. For the Word of God (mention'd v. 1, 2.) is quick, and powerful, and ſharper than a two-edged Sword, and piercing even to the dividing aſunder the Soul and the Spirit, and of the Joints, and the Marrow, and is a Diſ- cerner (or Cenſurer) of the Thoughts and Intents of the Heart.

'Ο λόγος τοῦ Θεοῦ.] The Apoſtle ſeems not to ſpeak here of the Eſſential Word of God, the Second Perſon of the Trinity, 1ſt. Becauſe St. Paul, in all his Writings, never applies this Phraſe to our Lord Chriſt, it being peculiar to St. John. 2dly, The Apoſtle muſt have very abruptly ſpoken here of him under this Metaphor, of whom nothing went before, but very appoſitely of the Goſpel, to which theſe Attributes do well agree; for, 1*ſt*, the Word is quick and vital, not only promiſing Life to the Obedient, but threatning Death to the Diſobedient from the living God, who can quickly execute it, Chap. 3. 12. 2*dly*, 'tis powerful, being the Power of God for the deſtruction of ſtrong holds, and every thing that exalts its ſelf againſt the Knowledge of God, 2 Cor. 10. 4, 7. 3*dly*, 'Tis ſharper than a two-edged Sword, and piercing even to the dividing aſunder of the Soul and Spirit, the Joints and the Marrow; ſlaying Ananias and Sapphira, and delivering up others to Satan, for the deſtruction of the Fleſh, 1 Cor. 5. 5. 1 Tim. 1. 20. 'Tis 4*thly*, a diſcerner of the Thoughts and Intents of the Heart, there being then a Gift of diſcerning Spirits attending the Preachers of it, by which they were judged and diſcerned of them; and ſo the ſecrets of their Hearts were made manifeſt, 1 Cor. 14. 24, 25. And, which makes this extremely pertinent to the preſent Exhortation, all this was very viſible in the inſtance of the Unbelievers here mentioned, to terrifie the Jews from falling by the ſame Example of Unbelief. For, 1*ſt*, the word of Threatning was ſo quick upon thoſe Spies who brought up the evil Report upon the Land, that they died immediately by the hand of God, or by the Plague before the Lord, Numb. 14. 37. And as for the reſt of the Unbelievers they were conſumed, ſaith Moſes, by God's Anger, and by his Wrath were troubled: They were carried away as with a Flood, they vaniſh'd as a Dream, or as the morning Graſs which in the evening is cut down, and withereth, Pſal. 90. 5, 6. And thus they found the weight of that Threat, γνώσεσθε τὸ θυμόν μου, ye ſhall know the vehemency of my Wrath, Numb. 14. 34. They were alſo thus puniſh'd for the evil Intentions of their Hearts; for, ſaith St. Stephen, in their Hearts they turned back into Egypt, Acts 7. 38. So that by the Word of God I am inclined to underſtand his Threats denounced againſt Unbelievers, Numb. 14. Pſal. 95. 11. It alſo may deſerve to be noted, that Philo, Lib. de Cherub. p. 86. G. aſcribes moſt of theſe Epithets unto the λόγος, ſaying, The flaming Sword was a Symbol of the Word, eſpecially of the firſt Cauſe, ὀξυκίνδυνον δὲ ἡ θεία ὁ λόγος, for his Word is quick and fervent. And again, (x) God, ſaith he, whetting his Word, the diſſector of all things, divides the inform Eſſence of all things, and cuts them in the middle.

Ver. 13. Neither is there any Creature which is not manifeſt in his ſight, (whoſe Word this is) but all things are open and naked to the Eyes of him, with whom we have to do; (Gr. to whom we muſt give an Account, and ſo there is no hope theſe Unbelievers ſhould eſcape his Judgments.)

Πρὸς ὃν ἡμῖν ὁ λόγος, to whom we muſt render an account.] So Matth. 12. 36. of every idle word that Men ſhall ſpeak, ἀποδώσουσι λόγον, they ſhall give an account in the Day of Judgement. Matth. 18. 23. The Kingdom of Heaven is like to a certain King, who would, συνᾶραι λόγον, make up an Account with his Servants. Luke 16. 2. Ἀπόδος λόγον, Give up an Account of thy Stewardſhip. Rom. 14. 12. Every one, λόγον δώσει τῷ Θεῷ, ſhall give an account of himſelf to God. Philip. 4. 17. I deſire Fruit that may abound, εἰς λόγον ὑμῶν, to your account. Hebr. 13. 17. ὡς λόγον ἀποδώσοντες, as they that muſt give an account. 1 Pet. 3. 15. Being always ready to give to every one that asks you, λόγον, an account of the hope that is in you. And Chap. 4. 5. Οἱ ἀποδώσουσι λόγον, who ſhall give an account to him that is ready to judge the quick and dead.

Ver. 14. Seeing then we have a great High-Prieſt, (merciful, and faithful to make reconciliation for our ſins, Chap. 2. 17.) that is paſſed into the Heavens, (to appear for ever there to make interceſſion, and to prepare this reſting place for us, John 14. 2.) even Jeſus the Son of God, let us hold faſt our Profeſſion (without wavering.)

Ver. 15. For we have not an High-Prieſt who cannot be touched with the ſenſe of our Infirmities, but (one who) was in all things tempted (i.e. expoſed to Sufferings) like as we are, (and this) without ſin, (to deſerve the leaſt of them.) See the Note on Chap. 2. 18.

Ver. 16. Let us therefore (depending on his Power, his Interceſſion for, and Sympathy with us) come boldly to the Throne of Grace, (this ἱλαστήριον, or Mercy-ſeat, Rom. 3. 25.) that we may obtain Mercy (in the pardon of our Sins,) and Grace (or Favour) for (a) ſuitable help in time of need (Gr. εἰς εὔκαιρον βοήθειαν, for ſeaſonable help in all our Sufferings for his ſake.)

The Jews ſay God hath a double Throne, one of Judgment, and the other of Mercy; and that when he beholds the World obnoxious to Condemnation, he riſes from his Throne

of Judgment, and places himſelf on that of Mercy. This Throne of Mercy is our bleſſed Jeſus, ſtiled by this Apoſtle, ἱλαστήριον, the true Propitiatory, or Mercy-ſeat: By this High-Prieſt, and Interceſſor, muſt we come unto God, he being able to ſave to the uttermoſt them that come unto God by him, Chap. 7. 25.

Note alſo, That ſome great Men think the Reſt and Sabbatiſm diſcourſed of Chapter the Third and the Fourth, refers to the Millennium, or the time of the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, and the New Heavens, and New Earth then promiſed, but I am not able to aſſent to that Opinion, for this Reaſon, that the Apoſtle writes to the believing Jews of the preſent Age, warning them, That there be not in them an evil Heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God, and exhorting them to continue to the end in the Faith, Chap. 3. 12, 14. that ſo they might not fail of this Reſt of God; and to fear leſt a promiſe being made of entring into this Reſt, any of them ſhould fall ſhort of it, Chap. 4. 1, 2. And again, ver. 11. Let us give diligence to enter into this Reſt, that we fall not by the ſame Example of unbelief. Now theſe Exhortations could not be properly directed to the Believing Jews of that Age, concerning the Millennium, or the Glorious Times which were to happen at the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, they being to die 1700 Years before that Converſion, which is not yet accompliſhed, and before thoſe Glorious Days which are not yet come; for what advantage, in reference to that, could they receive by this Diligence, who were to die ſo long before it happened, and, being once in Heaven or Paradiſe, could neither expect nor deſire to come down thence to be partakers of any Enjoyments, or better Company here on Earth. But theſe Exhortations are very properly directed to them, to take care they fail not of their Reſt in the Celeſtial Canaan, typified by their Reſt in the Earthly Canaan, the time when they ſhould reſt with God, ſaith Origen, aſcending to the Viſion of him, the Reſt of Souls in the Land of the Living, the Reſt in the Life and the World to come, and in Life eternal. See Note on ver. 8, 10. Seeing theſe Bleſſings only can belong to, and at the time of Retribution will only be conferred upon them who uſe this Diligence. And hitherto the Apoſtle ſeems plainly to refer it, when he ſpeaks of ſo great Salvation, Chap. 2. 3. of bringing many Sons to Glory, ver. 10. Of their being partakers, κλήσεως ἐπουρανίου, of an heavenly Calling, Chap. 3. 1. The Hope and Confidence of which he exhorts them to hold faſt unto the end, ver. 6. and then immediately begins his Diſcourſe of this Reſt.

CHAP. V.

LET us come, ſaith he, to God's Throne of Grace with freedom, as having there ſuch an High-Prieſt, in whom are all things by way of Excellency to be found, for which the Levitical Prieſthood was ordained, and repaired to, as having,

1. A better Prieſthood, viz. after the Order of Melchiſedech, Chap. 7.
2. A better Conſecration to it, viz. by an Oath.
3. A better Tabernacle in which to Miniſter.
4. A better Sacrifice to offer there.
5. A better Covenant to eſtabliſh in his Blood.

Ver. 1. For every High-Prieſt taken from among Men, is ordained for (the ſervice) of Men in things pertaining to (the Worſhip and Propitiation of) God, that he may offer both Gifts and Sacrifices for Sins.

Τὰ πρὸς τὸν Θεόν.] To procure, and perform thoſe things which relate to the Worſhip, and the Propitiation of the Deity. So Crellius.

Δῶρά τε καὶ θυσίας, Gifts and Sacrifices.] Both theſe may relate to Sacrifices for Sin, for not only Peace-Offerings but Gifts of any kind are called, הקרבנות, δῶρα, Matth. 5. 23. and מנחה is by the Seventy Interpreters often rendred θυσία, Gen. 4. 3, 5. Exod. 29. 41. 30. 9. 40. 26. Levit. and Numb. Centies.

Ver. 2. And he is one who can have compaſſion on the Ignorant, and on them that are out of (Gr. err from) the way, (offering willingly, and interceding affectionately on their behalf;) for that he himſelf alſo is compaſſed with (the like) Infirmities.

Τοῖς ἀγνοοῦσι, καὶ πλανωμένοις,] He refers to the Sins which go under the Names of אשם ושגגות, for the word ושגאת, belongs properly to the thing in doing which we err from the way, and an expiatory Sacrifice was therefore required from them that did ſo, becauſe he knew, שוגה ושגג בדרך, that he had erred and gone from the way: But אשם, was a Sin committed out of Ignorance of the Command of God. So Abarbinel. For Sins committed, ἑκουσίως, wittingly, and with an high Hand, or from a Will ſet in oppoſition to the Law of God, there was no Sacrifice appointed by the Law, and to this the Apoſtle alludes Chap. 10. 26. ſaying to them that ſin wilfully, there remains no more Sacrifice for Sin.

Ver. 3. By reaſon whereof (of which Infirmities) he ought (by God's command, and from from the nature of the thing) as for the people, ſo alſo for himſelf to offer (Sacrifices) for Sins.

Περὶ ἑαυτοῦ, for himſelf.] Here Grotius notes, that this being ſpoken generally of every Prieſt taken from among Men, Chriſt alſo muſt have offer'd for himſelf a Sacrifice for Sin, i. e. that he might be deliver'd from thoſe Sorrows which were the Puniſhments of Sin, and were inflicted on him upon occaſion of our Sins. But in this he ſeems Guilty of great and manifold Miſtakes; for, 1. the Apoſtle plainly ſpeaks of the ſinful Infirmities of theſe Prieſts, who therefore were to offer for their own Sins, Chap. 7. 27. Whereas of Chriſt he declares, That though he was in all other things made like to us, yet, χωρὶς ἁμαρτίας, without ſin, Chap. 4. 15. That he offer'd himſelf to God a Lamb without ſpot, Chap. 9. 14. That being thus Holy, free from evil, undefiled, and ſeparate from Sinners, he needed not, upon a day, as thoſe High-Prieſts, to offer up Sacrifice firſt for his own Sins, and then for the Peoples, Chap. 7. 26, 27. 2. He was not, nor could he, after he became our Surety, be deliver'd from thoſe Sorrows which were the Puniſhment of our Sins, he being, as our Expiatory Sacrifice, not only on occaſion of our Sins, but in our ſtead to bear the Puniſhment of our Iniquity.

Ver. 4. And no man taketh this honour to himſelf, but he (only enjoys it) who is called of God, as was Aaron (and his Poſterity.)

Καὶ οὐχ ἑαυτῷ τις, no Man.] i. e. according to the Law, ſay moſt Interpreters, but I ſee no neceſſity of this limitation, it being true, that no Man can promiſe to himſelf, God will accept his Offerings, who hath no Commiſſion from God to make ſuch Offerings, whence doth ariſe a good Argument, to ſhew that Sacrifices are of Divine, and not of Humane Inſtitution only.

Ver. 5. (And) ſo alſo (was it with our Lord) Chriſt (for he) glorified not himſelf to be made an High-Prieſt, but he (appointed him to be ſo) who ſaid unto him, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

This day.] I have ſhew'd, Note on Chap. 2. 10. that Chriſt was by his Death conſecrated to his Prieſthood; whence it muſt follow, that he could not exerciſe his Sacerdotal Function till after Death. And this the Apoſtle ſheweth here, by ſaying, He was made an High-Prieſt by the Father, ſaying, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee; for that this relates unto the Reſurrection of our Lord is evident, becauſe we find the ſame Apoſtle proving his Reſurrection from theſe words, Acts 13. 33. which he could not have done, had they not been intended as a prediction of his Reſurrection.

Ver. 6. As he ſaith alſo (of him) in another place, thou art a Prieſt for ever after the Order of Melchiſedek, (as being raiſed up to appear for ever in the Heavens, and there officiate as a Prieſt for us.)

Ver. 7. Who in the days of his (continuance in the) Fleſh, when he had offered up (Gr. offering up) Prayers and Supplications, with ſtrong cryings and tears to him that was able to ſave him from death, and was heard in that he fear'd; (and being heard ſo far as to obtain deliverance from his fears, which he did by an Angel ſent to ſtrengthen him, Luke 22. 43.)

Εἰσακουσθεὶς, he was heard.] i.e. Deliver'd from his fear. So the word doth and muſt ſignifie, when it relates to Prayer for Deliverance from Evils. So Pſal. 22. 22. Σῶσόν με, ſave me from the mouth of the Lion, καὶ ἀπὸ κεράτων μονοκερώτων, and hear me from the horns of the Unicorn. Pſal. 34. 6. This poor man cryed, καὶ εἰσήκουσεν αὐτοῦ, and the Lord heard him, and ſaved him out of all his troubles. And ver. 4. I ſought the Lord, καὶ ἐπήκουσέν, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears. Pſal. 55. 2. Attend unto me, καὶ ἐπάκουσόν μου, and hear me, ἀπὸ φωνῆς ἐχθροῦ, καὶ ἀπὸ θλίψεως ἁμαρτωλοῦ, from the voice of the enemy, and from the vexation of the wicked. And ver. 16. I cried to the Lord, and the Lord, εἰσήκουσέ μου, heard me. Ver. 18. He delivered my life, ἀπὸ τῶν ἐγγιζόντων μοι, from thoſe that drew nigh to me. Eccluſ. 51. 10, 11. εἰσήκουσε δεήσεις μου, My Prayer was heard, for thou ſavedſt me from deſtruction.

Ἀπὸ τῆς εὐλαβείας.] Some would have this rendred ſo, He was heard by reaſon of his Reverence of God; but it is truly rendred, from his fear; and ſo the word continually ſignifies both in the Old and the New Teſtament, and when 'tis uſed, as it very often is, by Philo. So Joſh. 22. 24. ἐποιήσαμεν τοῦτο, We did this out of fear. And Wiſd. 17. 8. καταγέλαστον εὐλάβειαν ὄφεων, they were affected with a ridiculous fear. Hebr. 12. 28. Let us ſerve God acceptably, μετὰ αἰδοῦς καὶ εὐλαβείας, with reverence and godly fear. Acts 23. 10. εὐλαβηθεὶς ὁ χιλίαρχος, the Captain fearing. Hebr. 11. 7. Noah, εὐλαβηθεὶς, fearing, prepared an Ark. So Joſephus ſaith of the King, Eſther's Husband, That, εὐλαβείας αὐτὴν ἀπολύων, he held forth the Scepter, delivering her from her fear. And in the Septuagint, εὐλαβεῖσθαι ἀπὸ προσώπου κυρίου, is to fear before God. Exod. 3. 6. Jer. 5. 22. Hab. 2. 20. Zeph. 1. 7. 3. 13. Zach. 2. 13. And εὐλαβεῖσθαι ἀπὸ προσώπου αὐτοῦ, is to fear before Man, or be afraid of Men. 1 Sam. 18. 15. Job 19. 29. Iſa. 57. 11. Jer. 22. 25. Eccluſ. 7. 7. This ſenſe alſo the Particle ἀπὸ doth require, which rarely doth import the meritorious Cauſe; His Prayers and Tears alſo do expreſs the greatneſs of his Fears; and laſtly, the ſcope of the Apoſtle requires this ſenſe, he being here repreſenting our Lord as one of like Paſſions with us, that he might ſhew he he was a merciful High-Prieſt. This fear he became ſubject to, ſay Grotius and the Fathers, becauſe the Divinity for a ſeaſon as it were withdrew its influence from the Humane Nature, ἐᾷ γὰρ ἡ ἀνθρωπότης τοῦτο παθεῖν ἡ θεία συνεχώρησε, for the Deity permitted the Humanity thus to ſuffer, ſaith Theodoret. And this doubtleſs all thoſe Fathers intended, who followed that Reading, Chap. 2. 9. that he taſted Death for every Man, χωρὶς Θεοῦ; for that this was no depravation of the Neſtorians, as Oecumenius and Theophylact phanſied, is evident from this, that it is cited by (a) Origen and by (b) St. Ambroſe, who lived before Neſtorius.

Ver. 8. Though he were a Son, yet learned he (the difficulty of) Obedience, (to the Death) by the things which he ſuffered; (i. e. by the Agonies and Terrors which he ſuffer'd at the apprehenſion and approach of the Death he was to ſuffer, and ſo was the more fitted to be to us a compaſſionate High-Prieſt under our Sufferings for his ſake.)

Ver. 9. And being (by theſe Sufferings) made perfect, (τελειωθεὶς, conſecrated to his Prieſthood,) he became the Author of Salvation to all that obey him.

Ver 10. (Being) called (or conſtituted) of God an High-Prieſt after the Order of Melchiſedek, (i. e. for ever.)

Made perfect, τελειωθεὶς.] That this word is taken here in the notion of Conſecration, may appear, ſaith the Reverend Dr. Hammond, by the words following, as the Application of it, being pronounced or declared an High-Prieſt, which belongs to Chriſt after his Reſurrection, and not before, that being the time when he entred into his Heavenly Tabernacle, living there for ever to appear before God, and exerciſe that Function in his Preſence for us; and ſo he became an High-Prieſt for ever.

Ver. 11. Of which (Prieſthood) we have many things to ſay, and (thoſe) hard to be uttered (or explained, not from the nature of the things themſelves, but) ſeeing (ἐπεὶ, becauſe) ye are dull of hearing.

δυσερμήνευτος, hard to be uttered.] See here what are St. Paul's δυσνόητα, things hard to be underſtood, 2 Pet. 3. 16. viz. thoſe things which were not ſo in themſelves, or through the difficulty of the matter revealed, but through the imbecillity and weakneſs of them to whom they were ſpoken.

Ver. 12. For when for the time (you have profeſſed the Faith) you ought to have been (able to be) teachers (of it to others,) you need that one teach you again, which be the firſt Principles of the Oracles of God, and are become ſuch as have need of Milk, (the Food of Babes) and not of ſtrong Meat (the Food of Men.)

Στοιχεῖα τῆς ἀρχῆς τῶν λογίων τοῦ Θεοῦ.] It is the deſcant of all the (c) Ancient Commentators on this place, that by theſe firſt Principles the Apoſtle underſtands the Humanity of Chriſt, becauſe the Preachers of the Goſpel ſpake of that only to them who were not yet perfect in the Faith: And yet this ſeemeth neither to be true nor ſafe; not true, becauſe the Apoſtle had in the Firſt and Second Chapters of this Epiſtle, as all theſe Commentators teach, ſpoken to theſe rude Jews of the Deity of Chriſt; and becauſe he mentions not Chriſt's Humane Nature among the Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt, reckoned up Chap. 6. 1, 2. not ſafe, becauſe it ſeems to intimate that Chriſtians might be perfect in the Faith, before they had knowledge of the Divinity of Chriſt, and conſequently that this was no neceſſary part of Chriſtian Faith.

Note Secondly, That hence we may fairly gueſs who were in the Epiſtles to St. Timothy, the Teachers of the Law, who neither underſtood what they ſaid, nor whereof they affirm'd, 1 Tim. 1. 7. and the ἑτεροδιδασκάλους, the falſe Teachers, who were proud, knowing nothing, but doting about queſtions, and ſtrifes of words, men of corrupt minds, and deſtitute of the truth, Chap. 5. 3, 4, 5. and who they were who were always learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth, 2 Tim. 3. 7. viz. not the Gnoſticks, but in all likelihood the Jewiſh falſe Teachers, and ſuch as were perverted by them.

Note Thirdly, That this ſeems not to be ſpoken of all the Jews, but only of the greateſt part of them; that therefore which is ſpoken of the Deity of Chriſt, the Melchiſedechian Prieſthood, the Change of the Law, the Virtue of Chriſt's Prieſthood, belong'd to the more perfect, who were not to be debar'd of the knowledge of theſe things, by reaſon of the imbecillity of their Brethren.

Ver. 13. For every one that uſeth milk is (as yet) unskilful in the word of Righteouſneſs, for he is (but) a Babe (in Chriſt, 1 Cor. 3. 2. 14. 20. Gal. 4. 19. Eph. 4. 14.)

Ver. 14. But ſtrong meat belongeth to them (only) who are of full age, (i. e. perfect Men) even (to) thoſe who by reaſon of uſe have Τελείων ϗ.] See the ſenſe of the word Perfect, Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6. This Metaphor ſeems to be taken from the digeſtion of the Stomach; that which is light of Digeſtion, and needs not much Concoction, as ſolid Food and ſtrong Meat doth, being here repreſented by the name of Milk; and ſo in reference to the Judgment, that which can eaſily be learned and apprehended aright, and in which we are in no great danger of miſtaking, as are the firſt Principles of Religion, mentioned Chap. 6. is compared to Milk; but that we cannot eaſily diſcern, and about which we are ſubject to Miſtakes, and wrong Conceptions, as the things mentioned in the former Note were to the Jews, is called ſtrong Meat.

CHAP. VI.

Ver. 1. THerefore leaving the Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt (tho' your ſmall proficiency in them makes it ſeem almoſt neceſſary to diſcourſe a-new of them to you,) let us go on unto perfection; (i.e. to the Doctrines which will render you perfect Men in the knowledge of Chriſt,) not laying again the foundation of (Chriſtianity in the Doctrines of) Repentance from dead works, (i.e. from Works deſerving death, Rom. 6. 23. 8. 13.) and Faith towards God.

Ἐπὶ τὴν τελειότητα, to perfection.] That to be perfect, ſignifies to be fully inſtructed in the Principles of Chriſtian Faith, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6.

Ver. 2. (And) the Doctrine of Baptiſms, (that of Water, and of the Spirit, by which they that repent and believe, are initiated into the Church of Chriſt,) and of laying on of Hands (after Baptiſm, for the receiving of the Holy Ghoſt,) and of the Reſurrection of the Dead, and of eternal Judgment; (the great Motives to engage all Chriſtians, herein to exerciſe themſelves, to have always Conſciences void of Offence towards God, and towards all Men, Acts 34. 15, 16.)

Βαπτισμῶν διδαχῆς, the Doctrine of Baptiſms.] He ſpeaks not of the Baptiſm of John, and of Chriſt, for the Baptiſm of John was preparatory to Repentance and Faith in Chriſt; nor of the Baptiſm of Martyrdom, that being not ordinarily known to the Jews by that name, but of the double Baptiſm, of which the Baptiſt ſpake in theſe words, I Baptize you with Water, but there is one that cometh after me, he ſhall Baptize you with the Holy Ghoſt and Fire, Matth. 3. 12. and of which our Saviour ſpeaks to Nicodemus, ſaying, Except a Man be born again of Water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God, John 3. 5. For this in order follows the Doctrine of Repentance, and Faith in God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ἐπιθέσεως τε χειρῶν, impoſition of Hands.] Impoſition of Hands was uſed in Ordination, healing of the Sick, and Abſolution of Penitents; but this Impoſition of Hands was not common to all Chriſtians, nor joined with Baptiſm, nor was it to be reckoned among the Principles, or initiatory Doctrines of Chriſtian Faith. It remains therefore that we underſtand this of the Impoſition of the Apoſtle's Hands uſed after Baptiſm for the receiving of the Holy Ghoſt, mentioned Acts 8. 17. Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghoſt. See Chap. 19. 6.

Καὶ κρίματος αἰωνίου, of eternal Judgment.] Hence Interpreters obſerve, that the Doctrine of Origen, touching the Period of the Torments of the Damn'd, is here condemned: Aud indeed the Primitive Fathers, not Origen himſelf excepted, taught the contrary.

If we do not the Will of Chriſt, ſaith (a) Clemens Romanus, οὐδὲν ἡμᾶς ῥύσεται ἀπὸ αἰωνίου κολάσεως, nothing will deliver us from eternal Puniſhment: The black Way, in (b) Barnabas, ἡ ὁδὸς τοῦ θανάτου αἰωνίου μετὰ τιμωρίας, the Way of eternal Death with Puniſhment. The Puniſhment of the Damned, ſaith (c) Juſtin M. ἡ κόλασις καὶ τιμωρία ἐν αἰωνίῳ πυρί· Κόλασις αἰωνίου, κόλασις αἰωνίου, πυρὸς αἰωνίου δίκη, endleſs Puniſhment, and Torment in eternal Fire. In (d) Theophylus, it is, κόλασις αἰώνιος, αἰωνίου τιμωρία, eternal Puniſhment. (e) Irenæus in his Symbol of Faith, makes this one Article, That τοὺς ἀσεβεῖς καὶ ἀδίκους εἰς τὸ αἰώνιον πῦρ πέμψει, Chriſt would ſend the Ungodly and Unjuſt into everlaſting Fire.

(f) Tertullian declares, Omnes homines, aut cruciatui deſtinari, aut refrigerio, utroque ſempiterno, that all Men are appointed to eternal Torments, or Refreſhments. And if any Man, ſaith he, thinks the Wicked are to be conſumed, and not puniſh'd, let him remember, iguem Gehennæ æternum prædicari in pœnam æternam, that Hell Fire is ſtiled Eternal, becauſe deſigned for eternal Puniſhment, and thence concludes their ſubſtance will remain

(g) St. Cyprian ſaith, Servantur cum corporibus ſuis animæ infinitis cruciatibus ad dolorem, that the Souls of the Wicked are kept with their Bodies to be grieved with endleſs Torments. Tormentis nec modus ullus aut terminus, There is no meaſure or end of their Torments, ſaith (h) Minutius. Laſtly, (i) Origen reckons this among the Doctrines defined by the Church, That every Soul, when it goes out of this World, ſhall either enjoy the Inheritance of eternal Life and Bliſs, if its Deeds have rendred it fit for Life, five igni æterno, ac ſuppliciis mancipanda eſt, or is to be delivered up to eternal Fire and Puniſhment, if its ſins have deſerved that ſtate.

Ver. 3. And this we will do if God permit.

Καὶ τοῦτο ποιήσομεν.] This Verſe by Grotius and Dr. Hamond is thus interpreted, We purpoſe ſome other time to inſtruct you farther in theſe Rudiments of Chriſtianity, if you do not in the mean time fall from the Chriſtian Faith, Chap. 2. 1, 3. If there be not in you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God. Chap. 3. 12. If you fall not after the ſame Example of Unbelief which your Forefathers gave, Chap. 4. 11.

Others put this Verſe in a Parentheſis, and make it to relate to theſe words, ver. 1. Let us go on unto perfection, or to the higher Doctrines of Chriſtianity, as God willing we now intend to do. So Acts 18. 21. God willing I will return unto you: I will come to you ſpeedily, if God will, 1 Cor. 4. 19. And this Interpretation I like beſt.

Ver. 4. (I ſay, let us not attempt wholly to lay again the Foundation of Chriſtianity, in thoſe who have quite fallen from it;) for it is impoſſible for thoſe who were once enlightned (in Baptiſm) and have taſted of the heavenly Gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghoſt, (ſent down from Heaven, and conferred on them by the Impoſition of Hands,)

Ver. 5. And have taſted the good Word of God, (preach'd among them with ſuch variety of Tongues, and confirm'd by ſo many Miracles) and (have ſeen and felt) the Powers of the World to come,

Ver. 6. If they ſhall fall away (from Chriſtianity) to renew them to Repentance, ſeeing they (by ſo doing) crucifie to themſelves (or by themſelves) the Son of God afreſh, and put him to an open ſhame.

φωτισθέντας, enlightned.] That Baptiſm from the beginning was called φωτισμὸς, illumination, we learn from the concurrent Teſtimonies of (k) Juſtin Martyr, Irenæus, and (l) Clemens Alexandrinus, which makes it very probable, that this Phraſe obtained from the beginning of Chriſtianity, and ſo this anſwers to the Doctrine of Baptiſms, ver. 2.

Γευσαμένους τε τ δωρεᾶς τ ἐπουρανίου, and have taſted of the Heavenly Gift.] i. e. The Holy Ghoſt ſent down from Heaven, ſtiled by our Saviour, τ δωρεὰν τ Θεοῦ, the Gift of God, John 4. 10. Thus our Saviour diſcourſing of Baptiſm by Water and the Holy Ghoſt, and of Regeneration, ἄνωθεν, from above, by virtue of this Spirit, ſaith, he diſcourſed, περὶ τ ἐπουρανίων, of Heavenly Things, John 3. 12. and they who were ſealed with the Spirit of Promiſe, Eph. 1. 12. are ſaid to be bleſſed with Spirituals, ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις, in heavenly Things; and this Gift was imparted by Impoſition of Hands, Acts 8. 17. 19. 6.

Καὶ καλὸν γευσαμένους Θεοῦ ῥῆμα, and have taſted the good Word of God.] i. e. And have been acquainted with the Goſpel, which affords the Promiſe of Remiſſion of Sins, and of Juſtification here, and of a Reſurrection to eternal Life hereafter, ver. 2. So the Promiſe of bringing the Children of Iſrael into the Land of Canaan is ſtiled, הדבר הטוב, ῥῆμα καλὸν, a good Word, Joſ. 21. 45. 23. 15. the word of God for bringing his People out of Captivity is, דברי הטוב, my good Word, Jer. 29. 10. The words of Conſolation which the Angel ſpake to Jeruſalem, are דברים טובים, ῥήματα καλὰ, good Words, Zach. 1. 13. The Promiſe made to God's People of Remiſſion of Sins, and Peace and Truth in the Days of the Meſſiah, is הדבר הטוב, a good Word. And the Prophet ſpeaking of the Meſſiah, ſaith, My heart meditateth a good Word, דבר טוב, λόγον ἀγαθὸν, Pſal. 45. 1. This word they ſaw confirm'd by the Gift of Tongues, and Prophecy vouchſafed to the firſt Preachers of it, and daily experimented in their Aſſemblies, 1 Cor. 14. and ſo they could not but be convinced of the truth of it.

Δυνάμεις τ μέλλοντ αἰῶν, the Powers of the World to come.] The World to come doth in the Language of the Prophets, and the Jewiſh Doctors, ſignifie the Times of the Meſſiah, who in the Prophet Iſaiah is called, ὁ πατὴρ μέλλοντ αἰῶν, The Father of the World to come. See Note on Chap. 2. 5. The Powers therefore of the World to come, according to the Scripture Idiotiſm, muſt be the external Operation of the Holy Ghoſt, viz. the Gifts of Faith, of Healing, of caſting out Devils, ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, 1 Cor. 12. 8, 9. the Working of Miracles, or the Operations of Powers. cular may anſwer to the Day of Judgment, which is the fourth thing mention'd, v. 2. as the three former ſeem to do, to the three other things there mention'd, and then the Powers of the World to come may ſignifie the powerful Perſuaſions the Doctrine of a future Judgment adminiſters to Repentance, and a new Life, Acts 17. 30, 31. 2 Cor. 5. 10, 11. tho' of this Import of the Phraſe I find no Example.

'Αδύνατον τοὺς ἅπαξ φωτισθέντας, it is impoſſible to renew theſe to Repentance.] For theſe being all the Means, internal and external, by which God gave Teſtimony to the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, and the Prophetick Office and Glorious Reſurrection of our Lord, they, ſaith the Apoſtle, who, after full Experience of them, do of their own accord renounce that Faith, cannot be renewed to Repentance; becauſe they have already reſiſted all that Evidence which God ſaw fit to give Men of the Truth of that Faith, and of this Meſſiah, and ſo they become guilty of that Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, which, ſaith our Saviour, ſhall never be forgiven, Matth. 12. 32.

But then the παραπέσοντας, Men that thus fall away, are not thoſe who lapſe in the Times of Perſecution, and much leſs thoſe who, through the Temptations of the Fleſh, may ſometimes fall into great Sins, for to ſuch the Apoſtle grants Place for Repentance, 2 Cor. 12. 21. and one of theſe he delivers to Satan, for the Deſtruction of the Fleſh, that the Spirit might be ſaved in the Day of the Lord Jeſus, 1 Cor. 5. 5. Exhorting his Corinthians, upon his Repentance, to receive him into their Communion, 2 Cor. 2. 7, 8. But ſuch as, after all theſe Experiences of the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, have voluntarily renounced it, relapſing either to Heatheniſm or Judaiſm; for they are ſuch as apoſtatize from the living God, Chap. 3. 12. ſuch as fall through Unbelief, Chap. 4. 11. ſuch as hold not the Profeſſion of the Faith, Chap. 10. 23. ſuch as draw back from the Faith, v. 38.

2dly, This will be farther evident from the Deſcription of theſe Perſons, they being here ſaid, ἀνασταυροῦντας ἑαυτοῖς, by themſelves to crucifie Chriſt afreſh, and, παραδειγματίζοντας, to put him to an open Shame, as one that deſerved the Puniſhment which the Jews inflicted on him, and being apoſtate Jews, to crucifie Chriſt again.

Ver. 7. For (as) the Earth which drinketh in the Rain which cometh oft (from Heaven) upon it, (and ſo) brings forth Herbs meet for them, by whom it is dreſs'd, receiveth (farther) Bleſſing from God, ſo is it with them who become fruitful under the Dew, and Showers of Divine Grace.

Ver. 8. But that (Earth) which (being thus dreſs'd and water'd,) beareth only Thorns and Briars, is rejected, and nigh unto curſing, whoſe End is to be burnt.

'Αδόκιμος.] It is rejected of the Husbandman, who will ſpend no more Labour upon it, but leave it to be ſcorched by the Heat, and ſo to be like the Heath, which is the Emblem of the curſed Man, Jer. 17. 5, 6. or like the barren Fig-tree which the Lord curſed, ſaying, Never Fruit grow on thee more, Matth. 21. 19. Accordingly they, on whom the Showers of Divine Grace fall down from Heaven, if they bring forth no good Fruit, ſhall be ἀδόκιμοι, rejected by God, continue under the Curſe of the Law, and their End ſhall be Deſtruction.

Ver. 9. But, Beloved, we hope better things of you, and things which accompany Salvation, though we thus ſpeak, (to warn you of the Danger of falling from the Chriſtian Faith.)

Ver. 10. For (if you be not wanting to your ſelves) God is not unrighteous to forget your Work (of Faith,) and (your) Labour of Love which you have ſhewed to his Name, in that you have miniſtred to the (Neceſſities of the) Saints, and yet do miniſter (to them.)

Τοῦ ἔργου ὑμῶν, your Work.] This ſeems to be the ἔργον πίστεως, work of Faith, mention'd 1 Theſſ. 1. 3. 2 Theſſ. 1. 11. and join'd with ὁ κόπος ἡ ἀγάπης, the Labour of Love, as here; and which is ſtyled, ἔργον ἀγαθόν, the Good Work, Philip. 1. 6. Rom. 2. 7. See Note on that Verſe, the following Exhortation being this, That they would continue in the Faith to the end, and be Imitators of them who through Faith and Patience did inherit the Promiſes.

Ver. 11. And we deſire (ἐπιθυμοῦμεν δὲ, we deſire therefore) every one of you to ſhew the ſame Diligence (which hitherto you have done) to the (Intent that you may retain a) full Aſſurance of Hope to the End.

Ver. 12. That ye be not ſlothful, (Gr. may not be ſlothful,) but Followers of them who through Faith and Patience inherited the Promiſes.

Ἵνα μὴ νωθροὶ.] i. e. God being ſo engaged on his Part, to let nothing be wanting which is requiſite to enable you to perſevere, and ſo to enjoy the Fruits of your Faith in the Salvation of your Souls, ſee that you be not ſlothful, or faint-hearted, but ſtill continuing the ſame Chriſtian Diligence to the end, that ſo you may at laſt enjoy the Bleſſings promiſed by this Goſpel, and live in an aſſured Hope of them, as your Father Abraham did.

Ver. 13. For when God (upon his Faith in offering his Son Iſaac) made a Promiſe to Abraham, becauſe he could ſwear by no(ne) greater, he ſware by himſelf.

Ver. 14. Saying, ſurely, bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and multiplying, I will multiply thee.

Ver. 15. And ſo (accordingly) after he had patiently endured, he inherited the Promiſe (of a Seed multiplied greatly to him, Gen. 22. 17.)

To

Τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν, the Promiſe.] This cannot be underſtood of Iſaac, the promiſed Seed, he being not only born, but offer'd, when God made this Promiſe to Abraham; nor can it be ſaid that he inherited the Promiſe, becauſe he ſaw it afar off, that being a Sign he did not yet inherit it, or that he did this in his Poſterity; for the Apoſtle ſaith he himſelf inherited the Promiſe; which is exactly true, of the Words cited here by the Apoſtle, Surely, bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee; for the Book of Geneſis aſſures us this Promiſe was exactly fulfilled in his Life, for the Lord bleſſed him in all things, Gen. 24. 1. He had a numerous Seed by his Wife Keturah, Gen. 25. to whom he gave Gifts, v 6. From Iſmael aroſe twelve Sons which were Princes of their Tribes, v. 13, 16. He lived Fifteen Years after the Birth of Jacob and Eſau, by Rebekah, of whom the Oracle declared, that there were two Nations in her Womb; for Iſaac was Sixty Years old when they were born to him, v. 23, 26. He himſelf was born when Abraham was a Hundred Years old, Gen. 21. 5. Abraham was 175 Years old when he died, Gen. 25. 7. He therefore lived Fifteen Years after the Birth of Jacob and Eſau, and Ninety Years after the Birth of Iſmael, and ſo lived to ſee this Promiſe verified to him.

Ver. 16. (God confirming his Faith in the Promiſes made to him after the manner of Men:) For Men verily ſwear by the greater, and an Oath for Confirmation is to them an End of all Strife, (or Contradiction.)

Ἀντιλογίας πέρας, an End of Contradiction.] * Diodorus Siculus informs us, that the Egyptians ſtyled an Oath, μεγίσην πίσιν, the greateſt Confirmation. It is, ſaith D. Halicarnaſſenſis, πλείστα πίστις, the laſt, or utmoſt Aſſurance. 'Tis, in the Language of Procopius, ὕστατον, ἐγγύημα πίστεώς τε καὶ ἀληθείας ἐνίσχυσιν, the laſt, and firmeſt Pledge of Faith and Truth. That the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of Promiſſory Oaths, is evident from the Occaſion of this Diſcourſe, viz. his Promiſe made to Abraham. Now theſe Oaths being equally conducing to this good End, in all Ages, we have juſt Reaſon to believe that Chriſtianity allows of them for theſe Ends.

Ver. 17. Wherein (ἐν ᾧ, in which thing accordingly) God being willing more abundantly to ſhew (not only to Abraham, but alſo) to the Heirs of Promiſe, the Immutability of his Counſel, confirmed it by an Oath.

Ver. 18. That by two immutable things, in which it was impoſſible for God to lye, (viz. his Promiſe, and his Oath,) we might have ſtrong Conſolation, who have fled for Refuge to the Hope ſet before us. (Who, to eſcape the Wrath impendent on the unbelieving Jews here, and hereafter, have fled to the Hope of Glory ſet before us in Chriſt Jeſus, the lively Hope of an Inheritance incorruptible, to which we are begotten by Chriſt Jeſus, 1 Pet. 1. 3.)

Ver. 19. Which Hope we have as an Anchor of the Soul, ſure, and ſtedfaſt, (in all the Storms and Billows of the World,) and that which entreth into that within (Gr. the inward part of) the Veil.

Εἰς τὸ ἐσώτερον τοῦ καταπετάσματος.] Which being the Hope of the Heavenly Manſions typified by the Sanctum Sanctorum, within the Veil, carries our Expectations thither: The Jews had the higheſt Expectations from the Service of the High-Prieſt entring into the Holy of Holies; † if on the Day of Expiation he came out alive, there was great Joy, for then they thought they were accepted. How then may we rejoice in Contemplation of that Heavenly Sanctuary.

Ver. 20. Whither the Fore-runner is for us entred, even Jeſus, (who is) made an High-Prieſt for ever, after the Order of Melchiſedek. (And ſo can never die, or miſcarry in his Office, but lives for ever, there to appear in the Preſence of God for us, Chap. 7. 24, 25.)

CHAP. VII.

Ver. 1. (WHich Order, ſure, was very excellent, and therefore fit to repreſent the Prieſthood of the Holy Jeſus, the King of Saints, and Prince of Peace.) For this Melchiſedek, King of Salem, Prieſt of the moſt high God, who met Abraham returning from the Slaughter of the (Four) Kings, (mentioned Gen. 14. 9.) and bleſſed him, (v. 18.)

Ver. 2. To whom alſo Abraham gave a tenth part of all (the Spoils taken by him,) firſt being, by Interpretation (of the Word Melchiſedek,) King of Righteouſneſs, and after that alſo (ſtyled) King of Salem, which (by Interpretation) is King of Peace.

Ver. 3. Without Father, or without Mother, (of any Prieſtly Order,) without Deſcent (from any of the Pedigree of Abraham, v. 7.) having neither beginning of Days, (from which his Prieſtly Office was to commence,) nor end of Life, (in which it terminated,) but (being) made like unto the Son (a Son) of God, abideth a Prieſt continually.

Βασιλεὺς Σαλὴμ, King of Salem.] They ſeem miſtaken who think this Salem was the ſame with Jeruſalem, for it is plain from this very Place, Gen. 14. 15, 16, 17. that Salem was in the way which led from the Valley of Damaſcus unto Sodom. (a) St. Jerom alſo ſaith, that he learned, ab eruditiſſimis Gentis illius, from the moſt Learned of the Jews, that Salem was not Jeruſalem, but a Town near Scythopolis, which till then was called Salem. And it retain'd its Name in our Saviour's Days, as appears by the Evangeliſt, ſaying, that St. John baptized near Salem, John 3. 23. Now of this Melchiſedek, King of Salem, let it be noted,

1. That he muſt be a Man, not an Angel, not the Holy Spirit: For, 1ſt. Every High-Prieſt, ſaith the Apoſtle, is taken from among Men, Chap. 5. 1. 2dly, The Scripture ſtill ſpeaks of him as a Man, deſcribing him by his proper Name, his Kingly Dignity, and the City where he dwelt, and by his perſonal Actions, proper to a Man, his bringing forth Bread and Wine, and his receiving the Tythes of the Spoils. And, 3dly, From thoſe Words conſider, ΜΕΛΧΙΣΕΔΕΚ, what an eminent Perſon this Melchiſedek was, to whom Abraham gave the Tenth of the Spoils; things, ſurely, which neither Angel nor the Holy Spirit would receive, nor was it neceſſary to prove their Dignity. Accordingly (b) Joſephus ſaith expreſly, that he was a King of the City of Salem. And (c) Philo, that he was a King, and not a Tyrant.

2dly, He could not be Sem, as the Jews vainly imagine; for the Apoſtle ſaith here expreſly, that Melchiſedek was not γενεαλογούμενος ἐξ αὐτῶν, i. e. one who had his Pedigree or Deſcent from them; which is not true of Sem, nor could he be ſaid to be without Father, or Mother, whoſe Genealogy is evident from Adam, Gen. 5. 32. 10. 1. and who was the Son of Noah. Nor was Sem's Prieſthood, if he had any, of a different Order from Levi's, who was in his Loins, as well as Levi was in the Loins of Abraham; and therefore it could not be ſaid, that Levi paid him Tythes in the Loins of Abraham; but it would be as true, that he received Tythes in the Loins of Sem; for, according to this Interpretation, he was in the Loins both of him that received Tythes, and of him that pay'd them, which deſtroys the whole Argument of the Apoſtle here. Moreover, there is no viſible Cauſe why Moſes ſhould call Sem, whom he ſo often mentions, by any other Name than his own, by which he doth ſo oft make mention of him; nor is it likely that Sem reign'd in the Land of Canaan, which now was in the Poſſeſſion of his Brother's Son, nor could Abraham be ſaid to ſojourn there, as in a ſtrange Country, if his Noble Anceſtor Sem had been King there.

3dly, Much leſs could he be the Eternal Λόγος, or the Son of God himſelf; for as he only was a Prieſt, according to his Humane Nature, i. e. that Nature in which he was inferiour to God, and which he had not yet aſſumed, and was then conſtituted an High-Prieſt, when God ſaid to him, at his Reſurrection, This Day have I begotten thee, Ch. 5. 5. ſo could he not be an High-Prieſt after his own Order, or made like unto himſelf. But Melchiſedek was in this like to him, that he was both a Prieſt of the moſt high God, and a King alſo in that Country, thoſe two Offices being anciently in the ſame Perſon; whence the Hebrew כהן a Prieſt, is by the Targum often rendred רבא a Prince; ſee Gen. 41. 45. Exod. 2. 16. 3. 1. 2 Sam. 8. 18. 20. 26. 1 Kings 4. 6. Job 12. 19. and on thoſe Words, Pſalm 110. 4. Thou art a Prieſt for ever, thou ſhalt be a great Prince for ever, as the Deſcant of the Targum.

Note alſo, that here again, M. le Clerk is inſufferable, when he ſays, 'Becauſe the Allegorical Writers of the Jews at that time 'accommodated innumerable Places to the 'Meſſiah, not relying upon any Grammatical 'Interpretation, but a certain old Cuſtom of 'explaining the Scripture after this manner; 'and becauſe they interpreted Pſal. 110. of the 'Meſſiah, the ſacred Writer makes uſe of that 'Interpretation, to his Purpoſe; and becauſe 'they acknowledged the Meſſiah ought to be 'like Melchiſedek, he reaſons againſt them 'from their own Conceſſions, not againſt 'other Men, who might have denied what 'he affirmed; otherwiſe, if the thing be 'conſidered in it ſelf, no Strong or Gramma-'tical Argument can be drawn againſt others 'from that Hiſtory; and therefore ſuch things 'are not too much to be urged now, becauſe 'that way of explaining Scripture is grown 'out of uſe: That is, the Apoſtle proceeds all along upon weak Grounds, and urges Arguments that in themſelves depend on Falſhoods only, only becauſe ſome ſilly Jews had ſaid the ſame things before him. I read indeed in a profane Celſus, this vile Reflexion on the ſacred Penmen, That (d) they produce things unknown, phanatical, uncertain, and which no wiſe Man thinks to be of any ſtrength. But I am ſorry to find a Chriſtian Writer thus expoſing them to the Contempt and Scorn of Antiſcripturiſts. Chriſt is a Prieſt for ever, after the Order of Melchiſedek, ſaith the Apoſtle, Chap. 6. 20. So indeed you tell us out of the idle Tales and allegorical Interpretations of ſome Brain-ſick Jews, ſaith M. le Cl. but without all ground. It is περιώπερον κατάδηλον, exceeding manifeſt, ſaith the Apoſtle, that another Prieſt ſhould ariſe after the Order of Melchiſedek, Chap. 7. 15. 'Tis no ſuch thing, ſaith M. le Cl. this follows only from the vain Conceſſions of the Jews, another Man may deny what you thus confidently affirm. It is exceeding manifeſt, ſaith the Apoſtle; for the Scripture teſtifies this, by ſaying, Thou art a Prieſt for ever after the Order of Melchiſedek, v. 17. And God hath confirmed this by an Oath, in theſe Words, the Lord ſware, and will not repent, thou art a Prieſt for ever. You make uſe of a Rabbinical Interpretation, ſaith M. le Clerk, and call that falſly a Scripture Teſtimony, but another Man may deny what you thus aſſume, for no Strong or Grammatical Argument can be drawn from theſe Words.

Anti-

Ἀπάτωρ, &c. without Father, and without Mother, &c.] It being certain that theſe things cannot be properly ſpoken of a Man, it is neceſſary to interpret them as I have done in the Paraphraſe; and to this Interpretation the Apoſtle leads us, by ſtyling him ἀγενεαλόγητον, without Pedigree, as being μὴ γενεαλογούμενον ἐξ αὐτῶν, not of the Genealogy of the People of Abraham.

Ἀφωμοιωμένος δὲ τῷ υἱῷ τοῦ Θεοῦ, but made like to a Son of God.] All the Interpreters I have met with, refer this to Chriſt, of whom Melchiſedek was a Type, he being the Antitype, as being emphatically a King of Righteouſneſs, and a Prince of Peace, without earthly Father, and as to his Divinity, without Mother, not of the Genealogy of the Aaronical Prieſthood; without Beginning of Days, as to his Divine Nature; and without End of Life, as to his Prieſthood. But the Apoſtle is not here ſpeaking of Melchiſedek's Likeneſs to Chriſt, but of Chriſt's Likeneſs to him, as being a Prieſt after the Order of Melchiſedek. Nor do theſe things well ſuit with our Lord Chriſt, who, as to his Humane Nature, was not without Mother; nor as to his Prieſthood, without Beginning of Days, Luke 3. 23. I therefore rather think, that as in all the former Characters, ſo here the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Melchiſedek, and ſaith, he was in this like to a Son of God, or to one of the Angels, who are immortal, and never ceaſe to be: For it is certain that the Angels are often ſtyled the Sons of God, ſo Job 1. 6. בני האלהים, the Sons of God, are in the Septuagint, ἄγγελοι τοῦ Θεοῦ. So alſo Chap. 2. 1. and Chap. 38. 7. and Pſal. 29. 1. Chald. So Dan. 3. 25. the Viſion of the fourth is like υἱῷ τοῦ Θεοῦ, a Son of God, i. e. an Angel of God: For ſo it follows, v. 28. He ſent his Angel, and delivered them. It is the Obſervation of the Book of Wiſdom, Chap. 2. 3. that Man was made to be immortal, and to be an Image of God's Eternity; and at their Reſurrection, ſaith St. Luke, they ſhall die no more, but ſhall be like unto the Angels, καὶ υἱοὶ εἰσι τοῦ Θεοῦ, and are the Sons of God, being Sons of the Reſurrection; and our υἱοθεσία, or Sonſhip, is by this Apoſtle made to conſiſt in the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, ſee Note on Rom. 8. 23. Melchiſedek therefore being here repreſented as one who had no End of his Life; and upon that account, one who abides a Prieſt for ever, is in this ſaid to be like to a Son of God, whence, v. 8. the Apoſtle oppoſes him to Prieſts that die, ſaying, there he received Tythes, of whom it is teſtified that he liveth, viz. Pſalm 110. 4.

Ver. 4. Now conſider how great this Man (Gr. he) was, unto whom the Patriarch Abraham gave the Tenth of the Spoils, (which anciently were given to Kings and Prieſts, as belonging to God, whom they ſerved, or repreſented.)

Δεκάτην ἐκ τῶν ἀκροθινίων, the Tenths of the Spoils.] Τὰ ἀκροθίνια, ſaith Phavorinus, are τὰ ἐκ τοῦ πολέμου, the Spoils of War; they are, ſaith Heſychius and Suidas, αἱ λαφύρων ἀπαρχαὶ, the Firſt-Fruits of the Prey; or, as (e) Joſephus ſaith, δεκάτη τῶν λείας, the Tenths of what was gotten by War, it being a very ancient Cuſtom to give partly to the Gods, and partly to Kings, the Tenths or Firſt-fruits of theſe Spoils: And ſo Melchiſedek might here receive them both as a King and as a Prieſt. That they were given to the Gods, we learn from thoſe Words of (f) Arrian, We ought in hunting to begin from the Gods, and to preſent to them the Firſt-fruits of what we have taken, ὃ μείων ἢ ἐν τῇ νίκῃ πολέμου ἀκροθίνια, no leſs than in a Victory in War, the Chief of the Spoils. Thus did the Athenians, ſaith Herodotus, who τῶν λύρων τὴν δεκάτην ἀνέθηκαν, conſecrated the Tenth of their Prize to the Gods. (g) Diodorus Siculus ſaith all the Greeks did it. See this, as to both Parts, largely proved by Dr. Spencer (h). And evident it is, that Abraham here pay'd not the Tythes of all he had, but only of the Tenths of the Spoils: 1ſt. Becauſe he had nothing elſe there, the Remainder of his Eſtate being at Mamre. 2dly, The manner of paying Tythes being not this, that a Man ſhall pay the Tenth of all he hath, but only that he pay the Tenths of his Encreaſe, and that not when ever he meets the Prieſt, but at the Time of Harveſt only, or when he receives from God's Hands the Encreaſe of it,

It

It cannot then be thought reaſonable, that Abraham ſhould give to Melchiſedek the Tythes of any other Spoils than thoſe he had now reap'd by way of Harveſt.

Ver. 5. And verily, they that are of the Sons of Levi, who receive the Office of Prieſthood, have a Commandment to take Tythes of the People, according to the Law, that is, of their Brethren, though they come out of the Loins of Abraham; (i. e. they receive Tythes only by virtue of the Law, and that from them only who come out of the Loins of Abraham, as well as they, Numb. 18. 21, 26.)

Ver. 6. But he whoſe Deſcent is not counted from them, (being no Kin to Abraham) received Tythes of Abraham (himſelf,) and bleſſed him who had the Promiſes, (that in him ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed.)

Ὁ δὲ μὴ γενεαλογούμενος ἐξ αὐτῶν, whoſe Deſcent, &c.] Thus (i) Philo ſaith, That ἰσχὺν ἑαυτῷ πεποίηκεν ὁ Θεὸς, ὑπὲρ ἣν ἔργον ἦν προδιαπυθόμενος, God made him his Prieſt, having not mentioned any Work that he did before: And elſewhere he ſaith, That (k) he received, αὐτομαθῆ καὶ αὐτοδίδακτον ἱερωσύνην, a Prieſthood taught and learn'd by himſelf.

Ver. 7. And without Contradiction, (in all ſolemn Benedictions, ex officio,) the leſs is bleſſed of the greater, (and ſo he that bleſſed Abraham muſt be greater than he was.)

Ver. 8. And there (under the Levitical Prieſthood) Men that die receive Tythes, but here (in the Inſtance of Melchiſedek) he (receiv'd them) of whom it is teſtified (Pſalm 110. 4.) that he liveth.

He.] They ſeem to be miſtaken who think this belongs only to Chriſt, and not at all to Melchiſedek: The contrary is manifeſt, 1ſt. From the Particle δὲ, which ſhews that the Apoſtle is ſtill ſpeaking of the ſame Perſon, i. e. Melchiſedek, and from the three following Verſes, which all ſpeak of him; nor is here more ſaid of him than v. 3. where 'tis affirmed he had neither Beginning of Days, nor End of Life. And by the Oppoſition betwixt the Aaronical Prieſts as dying, and Him as living, and by the Word μαρτυρούμενος, which reſpects a Teſtimony of this thing, it is evident that the Apoſtle inferrs this from the Words of the Pſalmiſt, Thou art a Prieſt for ever, after the Order of Melchiſedek.

Ver. 9. And as I may ſo ſay, (the Family of) Levi alſo, who receiveth Tythes, paid Tythes in Abraham.

Ver. 10. For he was yet in the Loins of his Father (Abraham,) when Melchiſedek met him.

Ὡς ἔπος εἰπεῖν,] is not here to ſpeak briefly, and as in a Word, but ὡς ἄν τις εἴποι τις, as a Man may ſay, or ἵν' οὕτως εἴπω, that I may ſo ſay; becauſe, ſaith Theophylact, it was τραχὺ, a harſh Figure: For in ſuch manner, ſaith (l) Quinctilian, we uſe to mollifie harſh Expreſſions: Which is enough to guard us againſt the Inference which ſome make from theſe Words, that in like manner we may be ſaid to have ſinn'd in Adam, as being in the Loins of Adam, when he ſinn'd. Which may be granted, τρόπον τινὰ, in a manner, becauſe we derived from him that Death which was the Puniſhment of his Sin, as coming from the Loins of one mortal, and deriving from him a Nature ſubject to that Sin which deſerveth Death; and more cannot be infer'd from theſe Words, becauſe the Apoſtle here ſays no more of Levi, but that he in a manner pay'd Tythes in Abraham. 2dly, Becauſe, by the like Argument, it may be proved, that Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, as Man, pay'd Tythes to Melchiſedek; for he alſo was in the Loins of Abraham, when Melchiſedek met him, and conſequently that he was alſo inferiour to Melchiſedek; which perhaps was the very Reaſon why this Apoſtle thus mollifies his Words, and is ſo careful to let us know he uſeth here a Form of Speech which is not proper and exact, but ſuch as ought not to be preſs'd too far: And therefore, 3dly, The Subject-Matter fairly ſhews the Difference; for Tythes are pay'd out of ſuch things which are the Father's Goods, and ſo would have deſcended by the Laws of Nature, and Nations, to their Poſterity, had they not been thus given to another; but good and evil Actions are merely Perſonal, and therefore, tho' the Effects of both may, and often do deſcend unto Poſterity, the good Actions of the Parents bringing temporal Bleſſings on their Off-ſpring, and their evil Actions ſubjecting them to temporal Calamities and Diſeaſes, yet their Merit or Demerit cannot be properly derived or propagated to their Poſterity; for as no Man is a good Man, in the Account of God, purely becauſe his Father, or ſome of his Progenitors were ſo; ſo neither is any Man properly a Sinner, or evil in the Sight of God, merely becauſe his Parents were ſo before he was born.

Ver. 11. If therefore Perfection, (i. e. full Expiation of Sins,) were (to be obtained) by the Levitical Prieſthood, (as it muſt have been had it come by the Law, v. 18, 19.) Τὸ γὰρ ἐπ' αὐτῇ ὁ λαὸς νενομοθέτητο, for about that the People received the Law.] i. e. The Law appointed that the People under all their Defilements which needed any Expiation and Purgation, ſhould repair to the Levitical Prieſts: Or under that Prieſthood the People received the Law concerning Sacrifices, the Prieſthood being firſt inſtituted, and then the Laws concerning Sacrifice and Expiation.

Τελείωσιν.] That this word relating to Prieſts and Oblations, ſignifies Expiation and Purification, ſee Note on Chap. 10. 1.

Ver. 12. (And yet you ſee this need there was) for the Prieſthood being changed (i. e. tranſlated from the Order of Aaron to that of Melchiſedek,) there is made of neceſſity a change of the Law (concerning Prieſthood, ver. 14. or touching Prieſts to be repaired to for Expiation.)

Ver. 13. (And this change is ſignified by theſe words, Thou art a Prieſt for ever after the Order of Melchiſedek;) for he (i. e. Chriſt) of whom theſe things (words) are ſpoken, pertaineth to another Tribe (than that of Levi) of which (Tribe) no Man gave attendance at the Altar.

Ver. 14. For it is evident, that our Lord (to whom theſe words belong) ſprang out of (the Tribe of) Judah, of which Tribe Moſes ſpake nothing concerning Prieſthood.

Ver. 15. And it is yet far more evident (by ſaying) for that (Gr. ὅτι, that) after the ſimilitude of Melchiſedek (not of Aaron, ver. 11.) there ariſeth another Prieſt.

Ὅτι, for that.] The Particle ὅτι often ſignifies quod, that, in Scripture, as doth the Hebrew כִּי. So Acts 26. 8. Why ſhould it be thought impoſſible, ὅτι θεὸς νεκροὺς ἐγείρει, that God ſhould raiſe the dead. And ver. 23. ὅτι παθητὸς ὁ Χριστὸς, ὅτι πρωτότοκος, &c. That Chriſt hath ſuffered, and that he is the firſt that aroſe from the dead. So Jer. 2. 28. Where are thy Gods, ὅτι ἀναστήσονταί σοι, that they may ariſe and ſave thee? See 1 Tim. 5. 10. 2 Paral. 6. 18.

Ver. 16. Who is made (a Prieſt) not after the Law of a carnal Commandment, (relating to Men that are Fleſh and Blood, and ſo infirm and ſubject to Mortality; for all Fleſh is graſs, Iſa. 40. 6. and therefore muſt be ſucceeded by others) but after the power of an endleſs (or indiſſoluble) Life.

Ver. 17. For (thus) he teſtifieth, (by ſaying) Thou art a Prieſt for ever after the Order of Melchiſedek.

Ver. 18. (I ſay not after the Law of a carnal Commandment) for there is verily (indeed in theſe words) a diſannulling of the Commandment going before (the preceding Commandment concerning the Levitical Prieſthood, and Sacrifices,) for the weakneſs (of it as to Juſtification) and the unprofitableneſs of it (as to the Expiation of Sin.)

Διὰ τὸ αὐτῆς ἀσθενὲς, for the weakneſs of it.] For what the Law could not do; i. e. that Deliverance from Death, that Juſtification to Life it could not give, ἐν ᾧ ἠσθένει διὰ τῆς σαρκὸς, in that it was weak through the Fleſh, rendring us ſubject to the Tranſgreſſion of it, and ſo to Death by the Sentence of it, Chriſt by his Sacrifice for Sin did, Rom. 8. 3.

Τὸ ἀνωφελὲς, the unprofitableneſs] of the Law here mentioned muſt not be taken abſolutely, for that the Apoſtle denies, declaring in his Anſwer to that queſtion, What advantage then hath the Jew (above the Gentile)? or, τίς ἡ ὠφέλεια, what is the profit of the Circumciſion? that it is much every way; Rom. 3. 1, 2. And reckoning among their Advantages the giving of the Law, Rom. 9. 4. and ſhewing the Uſes of it, and the Reaſons which moved God to give it, Rom. 7. 8. Gal. 3. 19, 24. but the Precepts of the Ceremonial Law were, ἀσθενῆ καὶ πτωχὰ στοιχεῖα, weak and beggarly Elements compared to thoſe of the Goſpel, Gal. 4. 9. and wholly unprofitable as to Juſtification, or the Abſolution of the Sinner, or Tranſgreſſor of it from the Guilt of Sin, as the Apoſtle teſtifies in theſe words, Rom. 3. 9. What then are we (Jews) better than they (the Gentiles)? οὐ πάντως, not altogether: for we have before proved (touching) both Jews (Chapter the Second) and Gentiles (Chapter the Firſt) that they are all under Sin, (and ſo both equally ſtand in need of Juſtification by Faith.)

Ver. 19. For (thus) the Law made nothing perfect, but the introduction of a better hope, by which we draw nigh unto God (did it.)

Οὐδὲν γὰρ ἐτελείωσεν ὁ νόμος.] Nor is it to be wondred that the Law, of which the Levitical Prieſthood was the chiefeſt part, and that only which concern'd the Expiation of Sin, ſhould be thus diſannulled, ſince it was thus weak and unprofitable as to the Abſolution of the Sinner from the Guilt of Sin, and could not by its Sacrifices, τελειῶσαι, procure an Abſolution as to Conſcience to thoſe that came unto God by them, from the Guilt of Sin, Chap. 10. 1, 2. They could not make the Worſhipper of God by them perfect, as appertaining to Conſcience, Chap. 9. 9. i. e. ſo as to have no more Conſcience of the Guilt of Sin. This made it neceſſary that they ſhould give place to,

Ἐπεισαγωγὴ κρείττονος ἐλπίδος, the Introduction of a better hope.] i. e. The Introduction of that Sacrifice which gives a better hope, a hope of entring, not into an Earthly Tabernacle, which was all the Jewiſh Sacrifices could procure; (the way of entring into the Holy of Holies being not yet made manifeſt, Chap. 9. 8.) but of entring within the Veil, Chap. 6. 19. The hope of good things to come by a better and more perfect Tabernacle, Chap. 9. 11. The hope not of an annual, but of an eternal Redemption, ver. 12. not of an Inheritance ritance to be continued for a little in the Land of Canaan, but of an eternal Inheritance, ver. 15. Chriſt being entred, not into that Earthly Tabernacle, as the Aaronical Prieſts only did, which was the Figure of the true, but into Heaven it ſelf, there to appear in the preſence of God for us, Chap. 9. 24. and ſo procuring to us freedom to enter into the Holieſt by the Blood of Jeſus.

Δι' ὧν ἐγγίζομεν τῷ Θεῷ, by which we draw nigh to God.] Having our Conſciences purged from dead Works by the Blood of Chriſt, to ſerve the living God, Chap. 9. 14. and having through him freedom to come unto him with full aſſurance of Faith, Chap. 10. 22. and by which we are made, ἐγγὺς, nigh to God through the Blood of Jeſus, Eph. 2. 13. and have acceſs unto the Father, ver. 18.

Ver. 20. And (by ſo much is Jeſus made the Mediator of a better Covenant) inaſmuch as (his Prieſthood, by vertue of which he became this Mediator, was) not without an Oath (as was that of the Tribe of Levi.)

Ver. 21. For thoſe Prieſts were made ſuch without an Oath, but this with an Oath by him that ſaid unto him, (Pſal. 110. 4.) The Lord ſware, and will not repent, thou art a Prieſt for ever after the Order of Melchiſedek.

Ver. 22. (I ſay) by ſo much is Jeſus made the Mediator of a better Covenant, (eſtabliſhed upon better Promiſes, Chap. 8. 6.)

Καὶ καθ' ὅσον—κρείττονος.] Here is plainly the Figure called σύγχυσις, or συμπλοκὴ, verborum, that which is put laſt, being to be conſtrued firſt, as is manifeſt from the ὁ δὲ, but he, relating to the Mediator of the better Covenant in the following Verſe. So Mark 14. 23, 24. And taking the Cup, he gave thanks, and gave it to them, and they all drank of it, and he ſaid unto them, This is the Blood of the New Teſtament, &c. For it is manifeſt from Matth. 26. 27, 28. that Chriſt firſt ſaid, This is my Blood of the New Teſtament, before they drank of it. And ſo thoſe words, ver. 23. And they all drank of it, muſt in Conſtruction follow thoſe of ver. 24. This is the Blood of the New Teſtament. So Rev. 20. 12. And I ſaw the dead ſmall and great ſtanding before the Throne of God, and they were judged, &c. And ver. 13. And the Sea gave up her dead, and Death and Hades gave up their dead, and they were judged according to their Works: And yet 'tis certain, that the Sea and Hades muſt give up their dead before they could ſtand before the Throne of God, or be judged. So Hebr. 2. 9. We ſee Jeſus made a little lower than the Angels, for the ſuffering of Death, crowned with Glory and Honour; that he, by the Grace of God, might taſte death for every Man: i. e. for the ſuffering Death, that ſo by the Grace of God he might taſte death for every Man, crowned with Glory and Honour.

Ver. 23. And (to proceed in the Compariſon) they truly were many Prieſts (ſucceſſively) becauſe they were not permitted to continue, by reaſon of Death.

Ver. 24. But this Man (Gr. but he, i. e. Jeſus, ver. 22.) becauſe he continueth ever, hath an unchangable High Prieſthood, (which paſſeth not away, and ſo admits of no ſucceſſion to it.)

Ver. 25. Wherefore he is able to ſave them to the uttermoſt (Gr. for ever) that come unto God by him, ſeeing he ever liveth to make Interceſſion for them, (and by that Interceſſion to become the Propitiation for our Sins, 1 John 2. 2.)

Ver. 26. (And thus was he an High-Prieſt ſuited to our Condition) for ſuch an High-Prieſt became us (Sinners) who is Holy (i. e. conſecrated to his Office, and ſo Holineſs to the Lord, Exod. 28. 36.) harmleſs, (ἄκακος, free from evil in himſelf) undefiled (by the impurities of others,) ſeparate from Sinners, (and ſo not liable to any Defilement by dwelling among them) and (therefore) made higher than the Heavens, (he being aſcended far above the Heavens, Eph. 4. 10. and paſſed through the Heavens, Hebr. 4. 14. into the Preſence of God, there to appear for ever for us.)

Ἄκακος, harmleſs.] Ἄκακος τί ἐστιν, ἀπήμων, the word imports, one free from Sin. So Chryſoſtom and Theophylact; and this, ſaith (m) Philo, muſt be the Property of a true High-Prieſt, for, ὁ θεὸς ἀληθείας ἐχχαράξας, ἢ μᾶλλον ἀδόνυμος, ἀμέτοχος ἁμαρτημάτων ἦν, he that truly, and not improperly, bears that Name, is free from ſin: And of him that was to enter once a Year into the Holy of Holies, he ſaith, He muſt be, (n) ἀλόκληρος ἢ παντελὴς, φρὶ μηδὲν, μὴ μέγα, μὴ μικρὸν, ἁπλῶς κεκαίνωται, ἀλλ' ἐξίσῳ ἢ πλήρει ἢ πάσῃ τελειότητι κεχωρηκὼς φύσει, entire, perfect in all things, not tainted at all with any Paſſion, great or ſmall, but of a nature ſound, whole, and every way perfect, κεχωρισμένος ἀπὸ τῶν ἁμαρτωλῶν, ſeparate from Sinners. This muſt ſignifie ſomething different from ἄκακος, free from evil, and undefiled by ſin. And what can that be, beſides what I have hinted in the Paraphraſe? Now, to clear up this, let it be noted, That though the Holy of Holies was the place into which none entred but the High-Prieſt, and he only once a Year, after a Sin-offering, had been firſt offered for him, yet God Commands that an Atonement ſhould be made for the Holy Place, becauſe of the Uncleanneſſes of the Children of Iſrael, and becauſe of their Tranſgreſſions in all their ſins, Lev. 16. 16. i. e. becauſe it was ſeated among an unclean

People

People, it needed an Atonement. That therefore our High-Prieſt might be every way clean and undefiled, he was to be not only free from Sin, but alſo ſeparate from Sinners, as the (o) High-Prieſt was ſeven days before the Expiation, and when he made the Expiation, Lev. 16. 17.

Ver. 27. (And ſo one) who needeth not daily as thoſe High-Prieſts (under the Law did), to offer up Sacrifice firſt for his own Sins, (which he, being free from evil, ver. 26. could not do,) and then for (the Sins of) the People; for this (laſt) he did once when he offered up himſelf.

Τοῦτο γὰρ ἐποίησεν ἐφάπαξ, for this he did once for all.] Grotius, and the Socinians contend, That Chriſt is here ſaid to have offer'd up himſelf for his own Sins, but then by Sins, they ſay, is improperly ſignified his natural Infirmities and Sufferings. But where hath the word Sin any ſuch import? it is indeed ſometimes implied to Impurities not moral, but only legal: As in the Caſe of menſtruous Women, Lev. 12. 8. 15. 30. and to Leproſies ſent by the Hand of God, for the Puniſhment of Sin, Lev. 14. 13. but never to any thing which by the Law of Moſes was accounted no Defilement. And how improper is it to make the ſame words uſed but once ſignifie properly Sin when reſpecting the People, and only Sufferings with reſpect to Chriſt. Moreover, how did he offer up himſelf for his own Sufferings? did he ſuffer that he might not ſuffer? or that he might not be obnoxious to them? The Interpretation therefore of all the Ancient Commentators, which I have given in the Paraphraſe, ought to ſtand in oppoſition to this vain Invention.

Ver. 28. For the Law maketh Men High-Prieſts which have Infirmity, (ſubjecting them to Sin, and by that to Mortality, whence they have need to offer, as well for themſelves as for the People, ver. 27.) but the Word of the Oath, which is ſince the Law, maketh the Son (our High-Prieſt) who was conſecrated (to this Office) for ever; (he being not ſubject to thoſe Infirmities which brought Mortality upon others.)

CHAP. VIII.

Ver. 1. NOW (δὲ, for) of the things which we have ſpoken, this is the ſum, (i. e. to give you a ſummary of the things ſpoken in the former Chapters, touching our High-Prieſt Chriſt Jeſus;) We have (in him) ſuch an high-Prieſt, who is ſet on the Right-hand of the Throne of the Majeſty in the Heavens, (there to officiate for us.)

Ver. 2. (And who is therefore) a Miniſter of the (Heavenly) Sanctuary, and of the true Tabernacle which the Lord pitched, and not Man; (for by the Word of the Lord were the Heavens made, Pſalm 32.)

Τῆς σκηνῆς ἧς ἔπηξεν ὁ κύριος, The Sanctuary which the Lord pitched, and not Man.] That is, of Heaven it ſelf. For, 1*ſt*, τὸ ἅγιον, in this Epiſtle being put abſolutely, oft ſignifies the Heavenly Sanctuary, the Holy Manſion in which the Divine Majeſty reſides Glorioufly, in oppoſition to the ἅγιον κοσμικὸν, Earthly Holy, mention'd Chap. 9. 1. and the true Tabernacle which the Lord pitched, and not Man, is the Heavenly Tabernacle, ſet in oppoſition to the χειροποίητον, or that of Moſes which was made with hands. So Chap. 9. 11. Chriſt being come an High-Prieſt of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect Tabernacle, οὐ χειροποιήτου, not made with hands, that is to ſay, not of this Building, but by his own Blood he entred in once into the Holy Place, (ἐφάπαξ εἰς τὰ ἅγια, once for all into the Holy Places.) Chap. 10. 19. Having freedom of acceſs into the Holy Place, and having an High-Prieſt over the Houſe of God. And Chap. 9. 23, 24. It was neceſſary that the Examples of the things in the Heavens ſhould be purified with theſe, but the heavenly things themſelves with better Sacrifices than theſe. For Chriſt entred not into the Holy Places made with hands, εἰς χειροποίητα ἅγια, which are the figures of the true, but into Heaven it ſelf, to appear now in the Preſence of God for us. And this is ſuitable to the old Notions of the Jews, who oft declare, that the chief Intention of making of the Tabernacle, and other Things, was, That they might be a Book of Wiſdom to inſtruct them in the things above, which they reſpected; and that, when Moſes made one Tabernacle on Earth, another was made by the Angels in Heaven, Buxt. Hiſt. Arcæ, p. 83, 84. It alſo was their Opinion, That the ſecond part of the Tabernacle was made to be an Image of the viſible World; and the Holy of Holies to be a reſemblance, Mundi ſupercæleſtis, of the Celeſtial World. So Philo often calls the Tabernacle of the Jews, τὸ χειροποίητον, and ſays, it was the ſhadow, or reſemblance, τῶν Ἀρχετύπων, of the Archetypal, or Original in Heaven. (a) Moſes, ſays he, framed τὰ Ἀρχέτυπα, the Archetypal Plan of the Tabernacle, Bezeleel only, τὰ αὐτῆς μιμήματα, the reſemblance of things; and this he proves by the Apoſtle's Argument, uſed ver. 5. For Moſes, ſaith he, uſed God for his Guide, who ſaid to him, See thou make all things according to the Pattern ſhew'd thee in the Mount. Bezaleel, ſaith he, ſignifies one, (b) ἐν σκιαῖς ποιῶν, employ'd in making Shadows; whereas Moſes was appointed not to frame the Shadows, but, ἀρχέτυπους φύσεις αὐτὰς τῶν πραγμάτων, the Archetypal Natures of the things themſelves. Elſewhere he diſtinguiſheth betwixt the (c) τὰ ὁρώμενα ἐκ τῆ ἀφύκτε καὶ φθαρτῆς ἡμιεργηθέντα ὕλης, viſible things of the Tabernacle made of inanimate and corruptible Matter, and, τὰ ἀόρατα καὶ τὰ νοητὰ διανήματα, the inviſible and intellectual Ideas, of which the other were the Images: The firſt he calls (d) ὑπὸν χωρητὸν, of which Moſes had the Incorporeal Ideas. And (e) Joſephus ſaith, That the ſecond Part of the Tabernacle ſignified that Earth in which Men converſed, but the third Part was appropriated to God, Heaven being inacceſſible to Men; which ſeems to be the very thing the Apoſtle intendeth by thoſe words, The Holy Ghoſt this ſignifying, that the way into the Holieſt of all was not yet manifeſted, whilſt the firſt Tabernacle was yet ſtanding, Hebr. 9. 8.

Ver. 3. (An High-Prieſt, I ſay, of the Heavenly Sanctuary, and therefore one who muſt have ſomething to offer in that Sanctuary,) for every High-Prieſt is ordained to offer Gifts and Sacrifices (in that Sanctuary in which he executes that Office); wherefore it is of neceſſity that this Man (the High-Prieſt in Heaven) have alſo ſomewhat to offer (there.)

Ver. 4. (I ſay there, and not on Earth:) for if he were on Earth he ſhould not be a Prieſt, (or had he been (ſtill) on Earth he had not been a Prieſt at all,) ſeeing that there are (other) Prieſts that (are appointed to) offer Gifts according to the Law.

Ver. 5. Who ſerve to the Example and Shadow of heavenly Things, (or in the holy Place and Tabernacle, which is an Example and Shadow of the heavenly,) as (we learn from what) Moſes was admoniſhed of God, when he was about to make the Tabernacle. For ſee, ſaith he, (Exod. 25. 40.) that thou make all things according to the Pattern ſhewed thee in the Mount. (For calling it, ὁ τύπος, a Type or Pattern he ſhews that it was only a Reſemblance of the Things in Heaven, and not the heavenly Things themſelves, Chap. 9. 23.)

Ὑποδείγματι καὶ σκιᾷ.] Theſe Words, ſaith Mr. le Cl. can by no means ſignifie a prefiguration of ſomething future, for Heaven was a great while before the Tabernacle and Temple; but this Argument is of no force, for tho Heaven be older than the Tabernacle, yet that conſidered as a place in which the Jews then Worſhipped, and enjoy'd Communion with God, might be a Type of that place in which they were hereafter to Worſhip and enjoy him.

The Argument of the Apoſtle is to this Effect, Chriſt could not be a Prieſt on Earth, becauſe he could have there no Tabernacle in which to offer Sacrifice; the only place God had appointed upon Earth to offer Sacrifices in, being the Moſaical Tabernacle and the Temple, in which no other Sacrifices could be offer'd but thoſe appointed by the Law; no Oblation made, or to be made, but by the Levitical Prieſthood. Moreover this Tabernacle being the Shadow of the Heavenly one, that muſt ſucceed it as the Subſtance, and therefore the Oblation to be made by this High-Prieſt, after the Order of Melchiſedek, muſt be made in that Tabernacle which was to ſucceed and follow this, as being the Subſtance of that Shadow.

Ver. 6. But now he (Chriſt) hath obtained a more excellent Miniſtery (viz. that of officiating in the Heavenly Sanctuary,) by how much alſo (Gr. ὅσῳ καὶ, in as much as alſo) he is the Mediator of a better Covenant, which is eſtabliſhed upon better Promiſes.

Better Promiſes.] Thoſe of the Law being only Temporal Promiſes, relating to Bleſſings to be confer'd upon them in the Land of Canaan; this Covenant had the promiſe of an Eternal Inheritance, to be confer'd upon them in the Celeſtial Canaan, Chap. 9. 15. Theſe Spiritual Promiſes were indeed made to the Fathers alſo of old, before the Law, whence they are ſaid by Faith to look for a better Country, that is an Heavenly, and to have expected a City that hath Foundations, whoſe builder and maker is God, Hebr. 11. 10, 16. But then theſe Promiſes of a Saviour, and of ſuch Salvation by him, were not made in, and by the Law, but long before it, Rom. 4. 13. Gal. 3. 15, 17. as they muſt be if made to them who lived and died long before it. Under the Law alſo they had Spiritual Promiſes, and Types of the Meſſiah in it, who was the promiſed Seed in whom all theſe Promiſes were made, and by whom they were purchaſed; but then they had not theſe Promiſes by the Law, nor theſe Bleſſings by the Levitical Prieſthood, but by virtue of the Lamb ſlain from the beginning.

Ver. 7. (A better Covenant I ſay) for if that firſt Covenant (made by Moſes with the Jews) had been faultleſs, (ſo that God ſhould have found no cauſe of blaming them who lived under it) then ſhould no place have been ſought for (the introduction of) the ſecond.

Ver.

Ver. 8. (But ſo it was not) for finding fault with them, (for the breach of it,) he (i.e. the Prophet) ſaith, Behold the Days come, ſaith the Lord, when I will make a new Covenant with the Houſe of Iſrael, and the Houſe of Judah.

Ver. 9. Not according to the Covenant which I made with their Fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to lead them out of the Land of Egypt, becauſe they continued not in (the obſervance of) that Covenant, and I (therefore) regarded them not, ſaith the Lord. (Jer. 31. 31, 32, 33.)

Ἀμεμπτος, If the firſt Covenant had been faultleſs.] That is, ſay the Fathers, εἰ ἀμέμπτον ἐποίει, if it could have made them blameleſs that were under it. So Theodoret, Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, Theophylact; and ſo the words following do force us to interpret this Clauſe, for the Apoſtle and the Prophet plainly charge the breach of the Old Covenant upon the Jews themſelves, blaming them for it, ver. 9. I know ſome Interpreters render the Words, μεμφόμενος αὐτοῖς, λέγει, blaming it he ſaith to them; but the Obſervation of the Ancient Fathers is this, οὐκ εἶπε μεμφόμενος αὐτῇ, ἀλλὰ μεμφόμενος αὐτοῖς, he ſaid not blaming it, but blaming them, and the words following, becauſe they continued not in that Covenant, do juſtifie that Expoſition.

Object. But you will ſay, How doth it follow that the Covenant was faulty, becauſe the Jews continued not in it, any more than that the New Covenant is alſo faulty, becauſe many Chriſtians do not obſerve the Conditions of it? I Anſwer, That the word faulty doth not here ſignifie ſinful in it ſelf, for ſo this Apoſtle denies it to be faulty, Rom. 7. 7. but only imperfect, and defective as to the great end of the Covenant, do this and live, it being a Law that could not give Life, Gal. 3. 21. and as to the preſerving thoſe that were under it from Offending, and ſo becoming blame-worthy, and obnoxious before God, Rom. 3. 19. This being premiſed, I ſay, two things ſhew that the Prophet and the Apoſtle ſo lay the fault on them, as plainly to inſinuate there was alſo an Imperfection and Deficiency in the Law they were under, which miniſtred occaſion to it. 1*ſt*. Becauſe he lays the blame not on ſome refractory Perſons only, but on the whole Houſe of Iſrael and Judah. Now where all, good and bad, come under blame, there muſt be ſome Defect and Imperfection in that Law, with reference to the two great Ends forementioned. 2*dly*, Becauſe for the prevention of this blame, God by his Prophet doth not call them to a more exact obſervance of that Law and Covenant, but promiſeth a New Covenant, plainly inſinuating thereby, that there was need of a New and better Covenant to prevent their Tranſgreſſion, and render them fit Objects of his Grace and Favour for the future. Accordingly this weakneſs of the Law is by St. Paul reſolved partly into ſuch Cauſes as reſpect the Offenders, and partly into ſuch as do reſpect the Law it ſelf. Into ſuch as reſpect the Offenders, as v. g. the weakneſs of the Fleſh, which made them unable to perform the exact Obedience the Law required, and ſo it became unable to juſtifie them; for this the Law could not do, in that it was weak through the Fleſh, Rom. 8. 3. and their carnal Inclinations which made them averſe to the Spiritual Precepts of the Law, Rom. 7. 14. And this the New Covenant remedied by requiring not perfect, but only ſincere Obedience as the Condition of thoſe Bleſſings which it promiſeth, and giving the aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit to perform that Obedience. For, to come to the Imperfections of the Law it ſelf, compared with this New Covenant.

Firſt, The firſt is this, That the Law required exact Obedience, but gave no inward Spiritual Aſſiſtance for the performance of that Duty. Hence the Apoſtle puts this difference betwixt the Law and the Goſpel, that the firſt is only the miniſtration of the Letter, the ſecond is the miniſtration of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 3. That under the Law the Jews ſerved God in the oldneſs of the Letter, whereas under the Goſpel we ſerve him in the newneſs of the Spirit, Rom. 7. 5. That then the Inclinations and Deſires of the Things forbidden by the Law wrought in our Members to bring forth Fruit unto death; whereas if we through the Spirit do mortifie the Deeds of the Fleſh, we ſhall live, Rom. 8. 13. Then the good which they would they did not, Rom. 7. 19. But now the Righteouſneſs of the Law is fulfilled in us, who walk not after the Fleſh, but after the Spirit, Rom. 8. 4.

Secondly, The Law not only made all that were ſubject to it obnoxious to Condemnation for the guilt of Sin, but alſo was unable to remove that Guilt, and clear the Conſcience from the ſenſe and terrour of it. It could not juſtifie us, ſaith the Apoſtle, for by the deeds of the Law ſhall no Fleſh be juſtified, Rom. 3. 20. Gal. 2. 16. That is, it could not abſolve us from Condemnation on the account of Sin, it could not by the Sacrifices it offer'd daily take away the Guilt of Sin, Hebr. 10. 4, 11. and ſo could not make the Worſhipper perfect as pertaining to Conſcience, Hebr. 9. 9. whereas by virtue of the Blood of Chriſt a full remiſſion of them was procur'd, ſo that God would remember them no more, Hebr. 10. 17, 18. and ſo the Conſcience was by it purified from dead Works, Hebr. 9. 14.

Thirdly, The Law conſider'd not as Moral, that being the Law common to all Mankind, but as purely Moſaical, contained in it only Ceremonial Precepts, which had no real and intrinſick Goodneſs in them to commend them to our Practice, whence by the Apoſtle it is ſaid to conſiſt of outward and carnal Ordinances, impoſed on them only till the time of Reformation, Hebr. 9. 10. and to contain only the Elements of the World, Gal. 4. 3. weak and beggarly Elements, v. 9. whereas the New Covenant is a Law written in the Heart, v. 10.

Laſtly, As the Moſaical Law had no inward Goodneſs to commend it, ſo alſo was it wanting in the Promiſe of thoſe Spiritual and Eternal Bleſſings, which are the Sovereign Motives to Obedience, and to Purification of our ſelves from all Filthineſs of Fleſh and Spirit; whereas, by virtue of the Death of Chriſt, a Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance is procured for us, Hebr. 9. 15. and an entrance into the Holy of Holies through the Blood of Jeſus, Chap. 10. 19. On which account the Apoſtle ſaith, The Law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better Hope, did, Hebr. 7. 19.

And I regarded them not.] Κἀγὼ ἠμέλησα αὐτῶν, ſo the Septuagint, and from them the Apoſtle; whereas the Hebrew runs thus, ואנכי בעלתי בם, and, or though I was an Husband to them: But the Learned Dr. Pocock hath ſhew'd that the Hebrew בעל, not only ſignifies in the Arabick to govern, and be a Husband, but alſo to refuſe, deſpiſe, and nauſeate. And ſo it well accords with the words of the Septuagint.

Ver. 10. (I ſay not according to that Covenant,) For this is the Covenant that I will make with the Houſe of Iſrael after thoſe Days, ſaith the Lord, I will put my Laws into their Mind, and write them in their Hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they ſhall be to me a People.

Ver. 11. And they ſhall not (have need to) teach every Man his Neighbour, and every Man his Brother, ſaying, Know the Lord; for all ſhall know me from the leaſt to the greateſt.

Ver. 12. (I ſay, I will be their God,) For I will be merciful to their Unrighteouſneſs, and their Sins and their Iniquities will I remember no more.

Ver. 13. In that he ſaith, A New Covenant, he hath made, (a declaration that) the firſt (is) old. Now that which is old is ready to vaniſh away.

For Explication of this new Covenant let it be conſidered,

Firſt, That is expreſly promiſed to be made with the whole Houſe of Iſrael, with them to whom the old Covenant was made, with them who were brought out of the Land of Egypt; it therefore is not a Promiſe made to, or a Covenant made with ſome few Elect, and choſen People out of Iſrael and Judah, but with thoſe who abode not in their former Covenant, and ſo were not regarded by God. Now hence it is manifeſt,

That this can be no Promiſe of abſolute Election, or vouchſafing irreſiſtible Grace to any of the Jews, becauſe then the whole Nation of the Jews muſt have been converted. 2. Becauſe this is a Promiſe of ſomething to be done in the laſt Times, or in the Times of the Meſſiah, whereas God hath at all times his Elect, and doth at all times vouchſafe them his effectual Grace. 3. Becauſe this is here called a Covenant, which implies two Parties covenanting, or ſtipulating, the one Obedience, the other Bleſſings on the performance of it; whereas an abſolute Promiſe admits of no Conditions. 4. The Elect always perſiſted in their Covenant with God, and were always regarded by him, they always were his People, and he always was their God; this therefore can be no new Covenant with them.

Secondly, This being a Promiſe of a new Covenant, of which new Covenant Chriſt is declared here to be the Mediator through his Blood, it cannot properly be ſaid to be fulfilled in the compleat import of it before our Saviour's Sufferings, and the Preaching of Juſtification through Faith in his Blood. Nor ſeems it to have been yet accompliſhed in the extent and the full meaning of it, as it will be when the blindneſs of the Jews ſhall be removed, and ſo all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, Rom. 11. 25, 26. For this is God's Covenant with them, when he ſhall take away their Sins, ver. 28. Which though he did make good at the firſt Preaching of the Goſpel to as many as believed in Jeſus, yet ſince that was the time of the falling and caſting off the Generality of that Nation, a Remnant only being then preſerved from Judicial Blindneſs. I believe there will be a time when this, and other like Promiſes made to them in the Old Teſtament, ſhall have a more compleat Accompliſhment. But to proceed to the proper import of the Words;

Firſt, I conceive that the Phraſe, I will put my Laws into their Mind, and write them on their Hearts, imports, That he would clearly and perſpicuouſly make known his Will to them, and by his Holy Spirit make ſuch a deep Impreſſion of it on their Spirits, and ſo continually bring it to their remembrance, that it ſhall be as powerful upon them, and as preſent to them, as if it were writ upon their Hearts. For theſe two Metaphors, both in the Scripture and the Jewiſh Writers, chiefly ſignifie two things.

1. A clear and a perſpicuous Revelation of the Mind and Will of God, ſo that we need not be at much pains to ſearch it out: As in theſe Words, The Commandment which I command thee this day is not hidden from thee, neither is it far from thee; the Word is near unto thee in thy mouth, ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ σου, and in thy Heart, and in thy Hands, that thou ſhouldſt do it. See I have ſet before thee Life and Death, Deut. 30. 11, 14. And ſo, ſaith the Apoſtle, is it with that Word of Faith which we preach, 'tis nigh to the Chriſtian in his his Mouth to confeſs, and in his Heart to believe it, Rom. 10. 8, 9. And the Law written in the Hearts of Heathens, is the Law ſo plainly taught them, that their own Conſciences do inwardly condemn them when they do Tranſgreſs it, Rom. 2. 15. This alſo is apparent from the conſequent Effect of writing this Law in the Chriſtian's Heart, and putting it in their inward parts, viz. that they ſhall have no need to teach every one his Neighbour, ſaying, Know the Lord; for they ſhall all know him from the leaſt to the greateſt. This Law muſt therefore be plain to the Capacities of, and eaſie to be perceived by them all. And to this Interpretation the (f) Fathers give a general Conſent.

2. An efficacious Impreſſion of them on the Soul, and on the Memory, ſo that we do not let them ſlip out of our Minds. So Deut. 6. 6. Theſe Words which I command thee this day ſhall be in thy Heart, they ſhall be, כתיבין על לוח לבבך, writ upon the Table of thy Heart, ſaith Jonathan B. Uziel, and thou ſhalt talk of them when thou ſitteſt in thine Houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the way, and when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up, v. 7. They ſhall be, ἐν καρδίᾳ, ᾗ ἐν ψυχῇ σου, in thy Heart and Soul, ſaith the Septuagint. As the Expreſſion is, Deut. 11. 18. by which Expreſſions he requires, μὴ ἀποστῆναι τὸ νόμον ἀπὸ τῆς καρδίας αὐτῶν, that the Law ſhould not depart from their Hearts, 2 Maccab. 2. 3. So Prov. 3. 1. My Son forget not my Law, but let thy Heart keep my Commandments, ver. 3. write them upon the Table of thy Heart. And again Chap. 7. 1. My Son keep my Words, and lay up my Commandments with thee: Bind them upon thy finger, write them upon the table of thy heart, v. 3. So the Targum on Cant. 8. 9. ſaith, God will remember them for the ſake of the Law, which is written, על לוחא דלבא, upon the Table of the Heart of his Children. And Jer. 17. 1. The Sin of Judah is ſaid to be written on the Table of their Hearts, as if the Memory of, and Affection to it, could never be obliterated. And the Targum on Job 30. 4. ſaith, They who let the Law ſlip, מן לוח לבהון, from the Table of their Hearts, burning Coals ſhall be their Meat. So frequent is this Phraſe to this Senſe, both in the Scripture and the Jewiſh Writers.

That the words in which this new Covenant are framed, Jer. 31. 33, 34, 35. may have a more exact and full Completion at the ſecond Calling of the Jewiſh Nation, this Apoſtle ſeems to intimate Rom. 11. 27. but that they alſo were fulfilled by the firſt Advent of our Lord, can only be denied by them who think with Mr. le Cl. that the Apoſtle argues upon unſound Foundations, for he moſt clearly ſaith, That the old Covenant was only to continue till the new Covenant, in which God promiſed to be merciful to our Iniquities, took place, and alſo that this new Covenant was eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Jeſus the Mediator of a better Covenant, ver. 6. and proves that Chriſt had by his Sufferings perfectly procured the Remiſſion of the Sins of them that were Sanctified, or cleanſed from the Guilt of Sin by Faith in his Blood, by the words of this new Covenant, Chap. 10. 14, 15, 16, 17. Secondly, He ſays, That the old Covenant, there mentioned, was to vaniſh away at the coming of this new Covenant, ver. 13. and thereby intimates that this new Covenant, mentioned Jer. 31. 33. began to take place even from the Abolition of the old Covenant, conſiſting in Ordinances which was only to continue till the time of Reformation, Hebr. 9. 10. and which was taken away by the Death of Chriſt: This therefore ſeems to be one of thoſe places which prove there will be a double Completion of the Promiſes and Predictions contained in the Old, and, perhaps, in the New Teſtament, and thereby ſhew they may admit of a double Senſe, the one relating to the firſt, the other to the ſecond Coming of our Lord.

CHAP. IX.

Ver. 1. THE Apoſtle had declared, Chap. 8. ver. 5. That the Tabernacle had only a Shadow of the Heavenly things, this he now proceeds to ſhew in the following words.) Then verily the firſt Covenant had (ἶχε μὲν οὖν ἡ πρώτη σκηνὴ, the firſt Tabernacle therefore had) alſo Ordinances of Divine Service, and a worldly Sanctuary, (or Rights of Worſhip, and a worldly Sanctuary in which that Worſhip was performed.)

Ἡ πρώτη διαθήκη, the firſt Covenant.] Some of the Ancients, as Chryſoſtom, read only ἡ πρώτη, but none of them read διαθήκη, but many of them σκηνὴ, as Theodoret, and Oecumenius; and this I believe to be the true reading. For 'tis well obſerved by the Fathers who do, and who do not, read the word σκηνὴ; that the Apoſtle having before proved from the Enallage of the Prieſt and Prieſthood, and of the former Covenant; that an End was put unto the Jewiſh Conſtitutions; proceeds now to prove the ſame from the Conſideration of that Tabernacle which was a ſhadow of good things to come. Secondly, becauſe the thred or the contexture of the Apoſtle's Argument ſeems plainly to require this Reading. For the Tabernacle conſiſting of two Parts, an outward Houſe called the Holy Place, and an inward Houſe called the Holy of Holies; the Apoſtle here calleth the outward Houſe the firſt Tabernacle, and Diſcourſes of it as ſuch, ver. 1, 2. and then, v. 3. proceeds to the Holy of Holies, or the ſecond Tabernacle, ſaying, the firſt or outward Tabernacle had a worldly Sanctuary, in which the Rites of the Jewiſh Worſhip were performed; for a firſt Tabernacle was prepared by Moſes, containing ſuch and ſuch things; and then a ſecond, containing other things; now this firſt Tabernacle is ſaid to comprize or conſiſt of a worldly Tabernacle, for both the Jews and Fathers ſay it was deſigned to repreſent this lower World; the Earth and the Sea, ſaith (a) Joſephus; It was, κοσμῷ τῷ αἰσθητῷ σύμβολον, a Symbol of the ſenſitive World, ſaith (b) Clemens Alexandrinus. See Dr. Spencer de legibus Hebræorum, p. 188.

The δικαιώματα λατρείας, are the Conſtitutions, or the Rights and Rules of Worſhip preſcribed to be uſed in the Service of the Tabernacle; δικαιώματα, τύποι, σύμβολα, θεσμοὶ νομοθεσίας, Ordinances, that is, Symbols, Conſtitutions, Laws. So Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, Theophylact.

Ver. 2. For there was a Tabernacle made, the firſt (Gr. σκηνὴ γὰρ κατεσκευάσθη ἡ πρώτη, for a firſt Tabernacle was prepared) wherein was the Candleſtick, and the Table, and the Shew-Bread, which (firſt Tabernacle) is called the Sanctuary, (or Holy.)

Ἥτις λέγετο ἅγια, which is called the Sanctuary.] Or, as other Copies read, ἥτις λέγεται ἁγία, which is called Holy. Vain therefore is the Argument of Mr. le Cl. That the Writer of this Epiſtle did not well underſtand Hebrew, and therefore cannot be thought to have been St. Paul, but rather ſome Grecian; to wit, becauſe he calls the Sanctuary only ἅγια, Holies, whereas, according to the conſtant uſage of the Hebrew, he ſhould have called it, ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων, Holy of Holies. For (1ſt.) all this depends on an uncertain Reading, and an uncertain Accent; read but ἁγία, and there is no Foundation for this Argument: Seeing then the Apoſtle ſpeaks not of the Sanctuary, but of the firſt Tabernacle, which was only called Holy. And ſo Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact read, and Theodoret obſerves, that the Tabernacle was divided into two Parts by the Veil, the one was called Holy, the other the Holy of Holies; and that, ἡ πρώτη λέγεται, ὡς πρὸς τὰ ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων, the Apoſtle calls this the firſt Tabernacle, to diſtinguiſh it from the Sanctuary, as it is evident he doth from the Verſe following, which demonſtrates that ἁγία is the true Reading in this Verſe. (2dly,) It depends upon a falſe Criticiſm, for מִן הַקֹּדֶשׁ, 1 Kings 8. 8. ſignifies ex Adyto, or from the moſt holy Place, where the Ark was, as appears from 2 Chron. 5. 8. See Dr. Lightfoot's Treatiſe of the Temple, Chap. 15. Sect. 4.

Ver. 3. And after the ſecond Veil the (other) Tabernacle (was prepared, ver. 2, 6.) which is called the Holieſt of all;

Ver. 4. Which had (for its uſe) the Golden Cenſer, (uſed only on the day of Expiation) and the Ark of the Covenant overlaid round about with Gold, in which was the golden Pot that had Manna, and Aaron's Rod that budded, (Numb. 17. 10. Exod. 16. 33, 34.) and the Tables of the Covenant, (1 Kings 8. 9.)

χρυσοῦν θυμιατήριον, the golden Cenſer.] Of this golden Cenſer the Jews inform us, that it was only uſed on the great Day of Expiation, when the High-Prieſt entred into the Holy of Holies; and that on other Days they offer'd Incenſe in a Silver Cenſer. So Maimonides, and Abarbinel. See Buxt. Hiſt. Arcæ. p. 76.

Ἐν ᾗ, in which, &c.] Of the Ark the Scripture ſaith expreſly, That there was nothing in it but the Tables of the Covenant, 1 Kings 8. 9. 2 Chron 5. 10. Whereas the Pot of Manna, and Aaron's Rod, are here ſaid to have been alſo in it. To ſolve this Difficulty ſome Interpreters ſay, That, as ver. 2. the Apoſtle tells us what was in the firſt Tabernacle, viz. the Candleſtick, the Table, and the Shew-bread: So here he ſeems to tell us not what was ſtrictly in the Ark, but in the Holy of Holies, ſaying, it had for its uſe the Golden Cenſer and the Ark, and in it the Tables of the Covenant, the Pot of Manna, and Aaron's Rod. But the words over it were the Cherubims, relating not to the Holy of Holies, but only to the Ark, confute that Expoſition.

Others ſay, That the Pot of Manna, and Aaron's Rod are ſaid to be in the Ark, as being placed in the Receptacles of the Ark, or Coffers in the ſide of it, mention'd Deut. 31. 26. 1 Sam. 6. 8. Hence they are ſaid to be laid up not in, but before the Ark of the Teſtimony, Exod. 16. 34. Numb. 17. 10. or with the Ark, as Beth, which anſwers to ἐν, here ſignifies, viz, cum, ad, prope, juxta. See Noldius de partic. p. 144, 145. And this Expoſition ſolves the Difficulty, and agrees fully with the Tradition of the Jews, for that there were ſuch Capſula's to the Ark for this uſe is owned, ſaith (c) Buxtorf, both by the Talmud of Jeruſalem and Babylon. (d) Maimonides ſaith, there was a Stone in the Weſt part of the Holy of Holies, on which the Ark was placed, and before it the Pot of Manna, and the Rod of Aaron. (e) Moſes Hakkatſi ſays the ſame, and Abarbinel adds, That our Interpreters write that this place does not deny that the Pot of Manna, and the Rod of Aaron were kept there for the Children of Iſrael, as it is ſaid in a certain Tradition of our Rabbins.

Ver. 5. And over it (the Ark) were the Cherubims of Glory ſhadowing the Mercy-ſeat, of which we cannot now ſpeak particularly, (ſo as to give the Myſtical Signification of them.)

Cherubims of Glory.] So called, becauſe the Glory of the Lord dwelt between the Cherubims, and ſhined forth from them, Pſal. 80. 1. Thou that dwelleſt between the Cherubims ſhine forth: And they being Emblems of the Angelical Nature, were alſo Emblems of the Divine Preſence, before which the Angels ſtood continually.

Ver. 6. Now when theſe things were thus ordained, (or theſe things being thus prepared,) the Prieſts went always into the firſt Tabernacle, accompliſhing the Service of God.

Ver. 7. But into the ſecond went the High-Prieſt alone once every year, (i. e. one day only in the Year, and then) not without Blood, which he offered for himſelf (firſt), and (then) for the Errors of (Gr. Sins of Ignorance committed by) the People.

Ἅπαξ τῦ ἐνιαυτῦ, once every Year.] The Prieſt entred into the Holy of Holies on the great Day of Expiation thrice, to offer Incenſe, Lev. 16. 12. to offer the Blood of the Goat, ver. 15. and to make an Atonement for himſelf, ver. 17. which makes it neceſſary to Paraphraſe the Words as I have done.

Καὶ τῶν τῦ λαῦ ἀγνοημάτων, and for the Ignorances of the People.] 'Tis certain that the Law allow'd of Sacrifices for Sins committed not out of mere Ignorance, i. e. for Lying, and falſe Swearing, Lev. 6. 1---6. We therefore muſt either ſay with Vatablus and Munſter, in locum, That Sins committed through the Violence of our Paſſions and Affections, are called Sins of Ignorance, and ſo they ſtand oppoſed to Sins of Preſumption, Numb. 15. 27, 28, 30. or that the Sins of the People are here ſo ſtiled, becauſe they were moſtly ſuch.

Ver. 8. The Holy Ghoſt (by whoſe Afflatus Moſes was directed to prepare the Tabernacle) thus ſignifying (by this admiſſion of the High-Prieſt alone, and that but once a Year, and that then only when all the People were gone out of the Tabernacle of the Congregation) that the way into the (true) Holy of Holies was not yet made manifeſt, whilſt the firſt Tabernacle was ſtanding.

Τὴν τῶν ἁγίων ὁδὸν, the Way into the Holy of Holies.] i. e. Into the Heavens, was not yet revealed, or opened. Thus did the Jews themſelves interpret this Symbol, ſaying, That the (f) Adytum, ὃ τοῖς ἱερεῦσιν ἦν ἄβατον, which was inacceſſible to the Prieſts, repreſented the Heaven where God dwelt. This Interpretation all the Ancient Commentators give us of this place, viz. Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, ſaying, Theſe things were ſo prepar'd that they might learn, ὅτι τὰ ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων, τυπίκην ὁ ὑφαιρὲς, ἔτι ἔκειτο ἄβατον, that is, that Heaven repreſented by the Holy of Holies was as yet inacceſſible, for Chriſt firſt entred into Heaven, ἡ βατὸν ἡμῖν ἔτι τοῦτον ἀπέφηνε, and ſo rendred it acceſſible to us: And therefore, as the Apoſtle ſaith here, μήπω πεφανερῶθαι τὴν ἁγίων ὁδὸν, the way into this Holy of Holies was not yet manifeſted. So he ſaith in the next Chapter, that we Chriſtians have, τὴν εἴσοδον τῶν ἁγίων ἐν τῷ αἵματι Ἰησῦ, an entrance into Heaven by the Blood of Jeſus, and, ὁδὸν πρόσφατον, a new Way which he hath made new through his Fleſh: i. e. our Forerunner being thus entred into Heaven with his Blood to appear before God, and ſo to prepare theſe Manſions for us, the Way of our entrance into Heaven is now made manifeſt.

Ver. 9. Which was a Figure for the time then preſent, (ἥτις παραβολὴ εἰς τὸν καιρὸν τὸν ἐνεστηκότα, which figure continues till this preſent time, viz. in the like Service performed in the Temple,) in which were (προσφέρονται, are) offered both Gifts and Sacrifices, which could not (μὴ δυνάμενα, which (Sacrifies) cannot) make him who did the Service (i. e. who brings theſe Gifts and Offerings) perfect, as pertaining to the Conſcience.

Ver. 10. (As being converſant) only in Meats and Drinks, (to be abſtained from by theſe Worſhippers, Lev. 10. 9.) and in divers Waſhings, (to be then uſed by the Prieſts officiating, Exod. 29. 4. by the Levites, Numb. 8. 7. and by the People defiled, Lev. 15. 8. before they might enter into the Temple,) and (in other) carnal Ordinances, (which only ſanctified to the purifying of the Fleſh, ver. 13. and were therefore) impoſed on them (only) until the time of Reformation (of all things by this new High-Prieſt.) (Theſe carnal Ordinances include all the Sacrifices and other Services perform'd in the Tabernacle.)

Τελειῶσαι κατὰ συνείδησιν, to perfect according to the Conſcience.] The beſt account of this Phraſe, relating to what the Law and its Sacrifices could not do, may be learn'd from what the new Covenant and the Blood of Chriſt, in which it was eſtabliſhed, is ſaid to do. 1. Then that Blood offer'd in the Preſence of God is ſaid to take away Sins, εἰς τὸ δύνασθαι ſo as that there ſhall be no return of them upon the Conſcience; no need of any more Oblation for the Sins of ſuch a Perſon, there being in him no more Conſciouſneſs of Guilt after his Juſtification by Faith in the Blood of Jeſus. For where Remiſſion of Sins is, there is no more offering for Sins, becauſe the Tenour of the New Covenant runs thus, Their Sins and Iniquities will I remember no more, Chap. 10. 17, 18. Hence the Apoſtle argues thus, That the Law with thoſe Sacrifices which were offered every Year could not, εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς τελειῶσαι, perfect for ever them that came to God with them, becauſe if they could have done that, the Worſhippers once purged by them would have had no more Conſcience of Sin, Hebr. 10. 1, 2. i. e. they would not have been ſtill conſcious of the Guilt of Sin, and ſo could have no need yearly to repeat the ſame Sacrifices. And of our Saviour's Sacrifice he ſpeaketh thus, That by one Offering, τετελείωκεν εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified, i. e. are purged by it from the Guilt of Sin, Heb. 10. 14. Wherefore, to perfect according to the Conſcience, is ſo fully to expiate from the Guilt of Sin, that it ſhall be no more remembred by God, and we ſhall have no more Conſcience of the Guilt of it. Now the Conſequents of this full Remiſſion are theſe two, 1ſt. A coming unto God with freedom, and full aſſurance of Acceptance with him. This the Apoſtle frequently aſcribes unto the Death of Chriſt, who ſuffered for our Sins, that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3. 18. ſaying, by him who hath reconciled us to God by the Croſs, We have freedom and acceſs with confidence to the Father by Faith in him, Eph. 2. 16, 18. 3. 12. and upon that account exhorts us to come to him in full aſſurance of Faith, having our Hearts ſprinkled from an evil Conſcience, Heb. 10. 22. 2dly, A Right of Entrance into Heaven. This, ſaith the Apoſtle, could not be obtained by the Service of the Tabernacle, ver. 8. but only by the Death of Chriſt, by which the Way into the Holy of Holies is laid open, Chap. 10. 19, 20. Eternal Redemption is obtained for us, Chap. 9. 12. and we receive the Promiſe of an Eternal Inheritance; and ſo it conſequentially ſignifies to have a full aſſurance of Acceptance with God here, and of Happineſs with him hereafter.

Μέχρι καιροῦ διορθώσεως, till the time of Reformation.] That is, as the next Verſe expounds it, till the coming of Chriſt, the Meſſiah of the Jews, when they themſelves expected a Reformation of the Law, ſaying, That the Law which was learned in that Age was Vanity, in reſpect of the Law of the Age to come; that is, ſaith the (g) Gloſs on Eccleſ. 11. 8. לפני תורתו של משיח, In reſpect of the Law of the Meſſiah, and that then the Law will be renewed. For our Doctors, ſaith the Author of (h) Sepher Ikkarim, declare, That all Iſrael ſhall receive a ſecond Law from the Mouth of God immediately as formerly; and this they all prove, as the Apoſtle doth Chap. 8. from Jer. 31. 31, 32, 33.

Ver. 11. But Chriſt being come (γενόμενος, made) an High-Prieſt (not of preſent temporal Bleſſings in the Land of Canaan, but) of good things to come, (not by the Service of the Tabernacle made with hands, ver. 23. but) by (a ſervice performed in) a greater and more perfect Tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to ſay, not of this Building, (i. e. the Building of this worldly Sanctuary, v. 1.)

That the Tabernacle here mentioned is not the Body of Chriſt, but Heaven it ſelf. See Note on Chap. 8. 2.

Ver. 12. Nor (yet to be procured as the Moſaical Bleſſings were) by the Blood of Goats and Calves, but by his own Blood; (He to procure theſe good things for us) hath entred (not as the High-Prieſts did yearly into the Earthly Tabernacle, but, ἐφάπαξ) once for all into the (Heavenly) holy Place, (with this Blood) having obtained (for us by it not an annual, but an) eternal Redemption.

Αἰωνίαν λύτρωσιν, eternal Redemption.] Here it is evident, 1. That this our High-Prieſt hath procured for us a perfect and perpetual Expiation from the Guilt of Sin, and this Slichtingius on the place fully grants. 2. That this λύτρωσις, or Redemption, was procured by the Blood of Chriſt, we having, ἀπολύτρωσιν, Redemption through his Blood, even the Remiſſion of Sin, Eph. 1. 7. That therefore was the λύτρον, or Price paid to procure this Redemption. That this ἀπολύτρωσις παραβάσεων, Redemption from Tranſgreſſions was made, θανάτῳ χριστοῦ, by the Death of Chriſt, ſuffering as a piacular Victim for us, there being no other way of procuring this Remiſſion under the Law, ver. 22. and ſo no other known to, or heard of by the Jews. And laſtly, That ſuffering thus he alſo muſt ſuffer in our ſtead, as all piacular Victims did. Whence he is ſaid to give his Life, λύτρον ἀντὶ πολλῶν, a Ranſom for many, Matth. 20. 28. ἀντίλυτρον ὑπὲρ πάντων, a Ranſom for all, 1 Tim. 2. 5. See the Note there.

Ver. 13. For if the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Aſhes of an Heifer ſprinkling the unclean, (Numb. 9. 2, 4.) Sanctifieth to the Purifying of the Fleſh, (from ceremonial Defilements, and ſo procures a free admiſſion to the Service of the Tabernacle.)

Ἁγιάζει πρὸς τὴν τῆς σαρκὸς καθαρότητα, ſanctifies to the Purifying of the Fleſh.] It is truly obſerved by the Reverend Dr. Hammond, That to ſanctifie to the purifying of the Fleſh, is to make legally clean, i. e. ſo as that they might come into the Congregation again, it being the Sanctification, τῆ σαρκὸς, of the Unclean, but ſtill in a Metaphorical Signification, as cleanſing ſignifies Expiation, and obtaining Pardon of Sin, and when this is done by a Sacrifice, ἁγιάζειν, ſignifies to expiate and cleanſe from Guilt by virtue of it. In which ſenſe it is uſed throughout this Epiſtle, and that agreeably to the import of it, when it relates to Sacrifices in the Old Teſtament. So Ch. 10. 10. ἡγιασμένοι ἐσμὲν, we are Sanctified, i. e. are Purged from the Guilt of Sin, by the Body, or, as other Copies read, by the Blood of Chriſt offered once for all. And ver. 15. By one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified, i. e. hath entirely purged them who by this Offering are cleanſed from the Guilt of Sin; He being Offer'd once, εἰς τὸ πολλῶν ἀνενεγκεῖν τὰς ἁμαρτίας, to bear, or take away the Sins of many; and, εἰς ἀθέτησιν ἁμαρτίας, for the putting away Sin by the ſacrifice of himſelf, Chap. 9. 26, 27. and ver. 29. where it is ſtiled the Blood of the Covenant, ἐν ᾧ ἡγιάσθη, by which he, who now counted it as common, was ſanctified, or cleanſed from the Guilt of Sin, it being the Blood ſhed for the Remiſſion of Sin, the Blood of that New Covenant which ſaid, I will be merciful to their Iniquities, and their Sins and their Tranſgreſſions will I remember no more, ver. 17, 18. So Chap. 13. 12. Therefore Jeſus, that he might ſanctifie the People by his own Blood, ſuffer'd without the Camp: Where both the Blood ſanctifying, and, τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, the Sacrifice for Sin, ver. 11. to which it anſwers, ſhew that Chriſt ſanctified the People by the Oblation of himſelf as a Sin-offering, to cleanſe them from the Guilt of Sin. See the Note on Hebr. 2. 11.

Ver. 14. How much more ſhall the Blood of Chriſt, who (being quickned) by the eternal Spirit, (Rom. 8. 11. 1 Pet. 3. 18.) offered himſelf (as a Lamb) without ſpot to God, (John 1. 29. 1 Pet. 1. 19.) purge your Conſciences from dead Works, (i. e. from Works deſerving Death, Rom. 6. 23. that ſo you may be admitted) to ſerve the living God (in his Church here, and in his Heavenly Sanctuary hereafter, Chap. 10. 19, 20, 21.)

Ἑαυτὸν προσήνεγκεν, offered himſelf without ſpot to God] In Heaven, ſaith Dr. Hammond; for that Oblation, ſaith Grotius, muſt be here underſtood, which anſwers to the legal Oblation made in the Holy of Holies, which the Oblation of Chriſt upon the Croſs doth not, but his Oblation in the Heavens. Againſt this Interpretation ſome object, That Chriſt's preſenting himſelf with his Blood in the Heavens, is never ſtiled an Oblation; but that is a plain miſtake, ſee Note on Chap. 8. 3, 4. and of evil Conſequence; for, if Chriſt had no Oblation to offer in Heaven, he could not be an High-Prieſt there, ſince every High-Prieſt muſt have ſomething to offer in that Sanctuary in which he exerciſes his Prieſtly Office. But yet it being ſaid not that he offered his Blood, but that, προσήνεγκεν ἑαυτὸν, he offered up himſelf, which he did upon the Croſs, Eph. 5. 2. Hebr. 9. 25, 28. And the προσφορὰ, or Oblation of the Sacrifice, being properly the giving it up to the Death, or to be a piacular Victim in the Sinners ſtead, theſe words may very well be thus interpreted, Who through the Holy Spirit by which he was ſanctified from the very Womb, offered himſelf a piacular Victim without ſpot to God. But then the Blood of Chriſt, here mentioned as purging the Conſcience from dead Works, muſt be his Blood preſented before God in the Heavenly Sanctuary; for the Apoſtle had ſpoken before, ver. 7. of the Blood brought into the Holy of Holies by the Aaronical High-Prieſt, and declared that it could not perfectly expiate the Conſcience from the Guilt of Sin, ver. 10. and therefore here the Analogy requires that he ſhould ſpeak of the Blood of Chriſt brought by our High-Prieſt into the Heavenly Sanctuary. Moreover he had ſaid before, that he entred with this Blood into the Holy of Holies, ver. 12. and therefore ver. 14. muſt be ſtill ſpeaking of the Effect or Influence of this Blood there preſented for us.

Καθαριεῖ συνείδησιν ἀπὸ νεκρῶν ἔργων, purge the Conſcience from dead Works.] Τὸ καθαρίζειν here, as the Compariſon clearly ſhews, being in ſenſe the ſame with ἁγιάζειν in the Verſe preceding, muſt ſignifie the cleanſing of the Conſcience, not from the Inclinations to Sin by the Holy Spirit, but from the Guilt of Sin by the Blood ſhed for the Remiſſion of it. And 2dly, this is the conſtant ſenſe of the word καθαρίζειν in the Old Teſtament, when join'd with ἀπὸ ἁμαρτιῶν. So Lev. 14. 19. The Prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him that is to be cleanſed from his Uncleanneſs, ἐξιλάσεται ὁ ἱερεὺς περὶ τοῦ καθαριζομένου ἀπὸ τῆς ἁμαρτίας αὐτοῦ. And Chap. 16. 30. The Prieſt ſhall make an Atonement for you, to cleanſe you, καθαρίσαι ὑμᾶς ἀπὸ πασῶν τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ὑμῶν, from all your Sins. So Joſh. 22. 17. Pſal. 51. 3. Jer. 33. 8. Ezek. 24. 13. Hence then it follows that the dead Works from which their Conſcience was to be thus cleanſed, muſt ſignifie Works which deſerved Death by the Tenour of the Old Covenant.

Λατρεύειν θεῷ ζῶντι, to ſerve the living God.] God being an holy God, can enter into Covenant with none, or admit them to his Service whilſt they lie under the Guilt of Sin unpardon'd, and ſo have not found Grace in his ſight. Noah found Grace in the Eyes of God, and with him he eſtabliſheth his Covenant, Gen. 6. 8, 18. Abraham believes in God, and this was counted to him for Righteouſneſs, and then the Lord makes a Covenant with him by Sacrifice, Gen. 15. 10, 18. So

Exod. 24. 6. the Jews offer Burnt Offerings, and ſacrifice Peace Offerings to the Lord, and the Blood is ſprinkled upon all the People, and then he enters into Covenant with them. Hence the Apoſtle ſaith, Let us draw nigh to God with full aſſurance of Faith, having our Hearts ſprinkled from an evil (or condemning) Conſcience, Hebr. 10. 22. And adds in the Words following;

Ver. 15. And for this cauſe (διὰ τοῦτο, or by this Blood) he is (become) the Mediator of the new Covenant, (in which he promiſes to be merciful to our Iniquities,) that by means of his Death for the Remiſſion of Sins (committed by us) under the Old Teſtament, (and not by that fully expiated) they which are called (to be God's Church and People) might receive the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance.

Διὰ τοῦτο, may either relate to the end of Chriſt's Mediatory Office, and ſo be rendred for this End, or, for this Cauſe, or to the Means by which that New Covenant, of which he is the Mediator, was eſtabliſhed, and then it will be beſt rendred, by this Blood; his Blood being ſtiled, The Blood of the New Covenant, Matth. 26. 28. Mark 14. 24. and the Covenant being ſtiled, The New Covenant in his Blood, Luke 22. 20. 1 Cor. 11. 25.

Εἰς ἀπολύτρωσιν τῶν ἐπὶ τῇ πρώτῃ διαθήκῃ παραβάσεων, for the Redemption of Sins under the firſt Covenant.] St. Paul's deſign in the Epiſtles to the Romans and the Galatians, is to ſhew that the Law could not juſtifie any Man, i. e. that it could not procure his Abſolution from the Guilt of Sin, but rather left all Guilty before God; and his deſign in this Epiſtle is to ſhew, that the Sacrifices offer'd under the Law could never take away Sin, Chap. 10. 4. And hence ariſeth the neceſſity that Chriſt ſhould ſhed his Blood for the Redemption, i. e. for the Remiſſion of Sins committed under the Old Covenant, before we could be capable of entring into the New, or have a Right to the Bleſſings of it.

Τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν, the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance.] The immediate Promiſe of the New Covenant eſtabliſh'd in the Blood of Chriſt is Remiſſion of Sins, Chap. 10. 17. but then this being an eternal Redemption from them, ver. 12. and ſuch as perfects for ever them that are ſanctified, Chap. 10. 14. upon it neceſſarily follows the Promiſe of an Eternal Inheritance, there being nothing to exclude us from it, but the Guilt of Sin. Hence is there a cloſe Connexion betwixt Chriſt's overcoming Death, and bringing Life and Immortality to light, and this emphatically is ſtiled the Promiſe of the Goſpel, Tit. 1. 2. 1 John 1. 2. and 5. 11.

Ver. 16. (I ſay by the means of Death,) For where a Teſtament is (that is unchangeable,) there muſt of neceſſity be the Death of the Teſtator.

Ἀνάγκη φέρεσθαι, there muſt be.] There muſt be produced, ſaith Dr. Hammond, as the word φέρειν ſignifies, John 18. 28. Acts 25. 7. there muſt intervene. So Scmidius and Budæus.

Ver. 17. For a Teſtament is of force (only) after Men are dead, otherwiſe it is of no ſtrength at all while the Teſtator liveth, (and ſo hath power to revoke his Teſtament.

Ver. 18. Whereupon (ὅθεν, whence it is that) neither the firſt Teſtament (made with the Jews, Exod. 24. 8.) was dedicated without Blood (which Blood ſhew'd the Death of the Sacrifice was neceſſary to the making that Teſtament.)

Ver. 19. For when Moſes had ſpoken every Precept to the People according to the Law (given at Mount Sinai,) he took the Blood of Calves and Goats with Water (mixed with the Blood to keep it from congealing,) and with ſcarlet Wooll and Hyſſop, (the Wooll to receive and imbibe the Blood, and the Hyſſop to ſprinkle it, Exod. 12. 22. Lev. 14. 49, 50. Pſalm 51. 7.) and ſprinkled (the Blood) both (upon) the Book (of the Covenant) and (upon) all the People.

Τὸ αἷμα τῶν μόσχων, &c. the Blood of Calves and Goats.] There ſeems no need of the Conjecture of Biſhop Uſher and others, that beſides the Burnt Offerings, and Peace Offerings mentioned by Moſes, Exod. 24. 5. there were then offer'd Sin Offerings, the Holocauſts themſelves being expiatory Sacrifices, as is evident from theſe Words, Lev. 1. 4. He ſhall put his hand on the head of the Burnt Offering, and it ſhall be accepted for him to make Atonement for him. Now the (i) Jewiſh Doctors tell us, That this Impoſition of Hands was always joined with Confeſſion of Sins over the Sacrifice, which Confeſſion ſtill concluded with a Prayer, that the Sacrifice might be an Expiation for them. And the Phraſe, It ſhall be accepted, ἐξιλασθήσεται αὐτῷ, to make an Atonement for him, uſed here, and Lev. 14. 20. concerning Holocauſts is as much as ever is ſaid of Expiatory Sacrifices. 2dly, This may be farther argued from the Word Kepher, uſed concerning Holocauſts, Lev. 1. 3. That being the Word uſed to import Expiation for Sin; on which account the Syriac Verſion ſaith, That the Burnt Offering was deſign'd, ad placationem obtinendam a Deo, to appeaſe God: And the (k) Chaldee Paraphraſt, That the Burnt Offering came, ad expiandum pro cogitationibus cordis, to expiate for the thoughts of the Heart. And 'twas the general Opinion of the Jews, ſaith (l) Dr. Outram, That ſome kind of Sins were expiated by Holocauſts. And 3dly, All the

(i) Dr. Outram de Sacrif. l. 1. c. 15. §. 8, 9, 10. (k) Jon. in Lev. 6. 7. (l) Ibid. p. 111. §. 7. Sacrifices Sacrifices of living Creatures before the Law were Holocauſts, and yet 'tis certain that many of them were offer'd to appeaſe God, and expiate for Sin. Thus Noah, after the Flood, offered Burnt Offerings, Gen. 8. 20. and yet Joſephus, Antiq. l. 1. c. 4. hath informed us, That he offer'd a Sacrifice to atone God, and appeaſe his Diſpleaſure. The Sacrifices which Job offer'd for his Children were Burnt Offerings, yet were they alſo Offerings for Sin, Job 1. 5. the Reaſon of their Oblation being thus aſſign'd, It may be that my Sons have ſinned. The Oblation which God commanded his Friends to make was a Burnt Offering, Job 42. 7. and yet it was offer'd to appeaſe God's Wrath, and prevailed with the Prayer of Job, λόγον δ' ἁμαρτίαν αὐτοῖς, to procure Abſolution from their Sin.

Ver. 20. Saying, This is the Blood of the Teſtament which God hath enjoined unto you.

διαθήκην Covenant, or Teſtament.] This Diſcourſe, ſaith Mr. le Clerk, is to be look'd upon merely as the Play of an Helleniſtical Writer, who, becauſe he ſaw that διαθήκη was uſed for that Covenant whereof Chriſt is the Mediator, and ſignified alſo a Teſtament, and Chriſt was dead, thence deduced Conſectaries which are true indeed, conſidered in themſelves, but here rely upon weak Principles, rather to ſet off his Diſcourſe, according to the Cuſtom of that Age, than to Convert the Jews to the Faith by the force of Reaſoning. Thus is the Great Apoſtle of the Gentiles turn'd into a Jewiſh Rabbin, ſetting off his Diſcourſe by weak Reaſonings, becauſe it was cuſtomary for the Jews to do ſo. Our Word and Preaching is, ſaith the Apoſtle, not in the words of Man's Wiſdom, but in demonſtration of the Spirit, 1 Cor. 2. 4. By your leave, ſaith Mr. le Clerk, you ſometimes ſpeak not in the Words of Man's Wiſdom, but of Jewiſh Folly, talking plainly like an Allegorical Philo, making often ſuch Accommodations of Scripture, and ſuch Conſequences deduced from them, in which no regard at all is had to Grammar. We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God, ſaith the Apoſtle, ibid. v. 7. No, ſaith Mr. le Clerk, your Diſcourſe is to be look'd upon merely as the Play of an Helleniſtical Writer. We ſpeak the things which God hath revealed unto us by his Spirit, and have received this Spirit, that we may know the things which are freely given us of God; which things we ſpeak not in words taught by humane Wiſdom, but in words taught us by the Holy Ghoſt. No, ſaith Mr. le Clerk, even in things relating to the New Covenant eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Chriſt, your Diſcourſe relies upon weak Principles, and is no better than playing with the Ambiguity of Words, and deducing Conſequences without any regard to Grammar. For true it is indeed, That a Teſtament is ratified by the Death of the Teſtator, and Chriſt is dead, but Chriſt was not the Mediator of a Teſtament, for Teſtaments do not want Mediators: And if it ſhould be granted that he was, he could not be thought at once a Mediator and a Teſtator, by whoſe Death alone a Teſtament was confirmed. The Teſtator here is God the Father, whoſe Heirs Men are in Conjunction with Chriſt, but God the Father can in no ſenſe be ſaid to die. Thus Mr. le Clerk confutes the Author, and yet ſays he does not leſſen the Authority of this Epiſtle, though others think he plainly overthrows it, but, God be thanked, he does it ſtill without juſt ground. For, 1ſt. 'Tis plainly falſe that God can be the Teſtator here, and that for his own Reaſon, becauſe God the Father can in no ſenſe be ſaid to die: For a Teſtator muſt have his Teſtament, and where there is a valid Teſtament, there, ſaith the Apoſtle, muſt of neceſſity be the Death of the Teſtator. A Teſtament, ſaith Mr. le Clerk, being ratified by the Death of the Teſtator.

2dly. I grant, that Chriſt was not the Mediator of a Teſtament, but then he was the Mediator of a Covenant, which, as it was ſealed with, and was confirmed by his Blood, procuring for us ſuch Bleſſings as he by his Will deſigned for, and declared ſhould be conferred upon Believers, through Faith in his Blood, became alſo a Teſtament. Thus when he ſaid, For their ſakes, ἁγιάζω ἐμαυτὸν, John 17. 19. i. e I offer up my ſelf as a piacular Victim, that they might be ſanctified, or truly purged from their Sins; he adds as his laſt Will and Teſtament, (m) Father, I will that thoſe whom thou haſt given me be with me where I am. So here he is become an High-Prieſt of good things to come, purchaſing Eternal Redemption for us by his Blood. And ver. 15. He became the Mediator of that new Covenant in which God promiſed to be merciful to our Tranſgreſſions, and to remember our Sins no more, procuring the Remiſſion of them by the intervention of his Death, that we that believe in him might receive the promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, which he died to entitle us to, and confer upon us; whence it is ſtiled the Purchaſed Poſſeſſion. This therefore was his Will and Teſtament, that they for whom he died ſhould live through him, and this Teſtament could not be confirmed but by his Death; He therefore was at once the Mediator in whom the new Covenant, promiſing to us Remiſſion of Sins, was made, and the Teſtator, by whoſe Death the Teſtament, That they who believed in him ſhould have Eternal Life, was ratified.

(m) Ἄκυρα γὰρ ἡ ἐπὶ νεκροῖς διαθήκη, δῆλον ὅτι ὅτε ἐγὼ οὐκ εἰμί, ἢ ὅτε οὐ θνῄσκω. Theophyl. in locum.

Moreover, what if after all here ſhould be nothing ſaid of a Teſtator, but only of a Mediator of ſuch a Covenant as was to be ratified in the Blood of Jeſus, this ſure would confound all that Mr. le Clerk here offers; and yet I think, with Submiſſion to better Judgments, that even this may be maintained againſt him.

For though there be here mention, ver. 16, 17. τῦ διαθεμένου, yet is it not neceſſary that word ſhould ſignifie a Teſtator properly ſo called, but only a Promiſer, and one that confirms his Promiſe with his own Blood. For διατίθημι, in Phavorinus, is ὑπισχνέομαι, συντίθεμαι, I Promiſe, I Covenant, and διατίθεσθαι διαθήκην, is very commonly in Prophane Authors, to enter into Covenant; and ſo the Phraſe, διαθήσομαι διαθήκην, and δίδωμι διαθήκην, is conſtantly uſed in the (n) Old Teſtament, and therefore the Participle διαθέμενος, derived from the ſame Verb, muſt probably have the ſame ſignification here, in which it is ſtill uſed by the Septuagint, and which it always bears in the New Teſtament. Thus Acts 3. 25. You are the Children, διαθήκης ἧς διέθετο, of the Covenant which God made with our Fathers. Luke 22. 29. Κἀγὼ διατίθεμαι ὑμῖν, And I appoint to you a Kingdom, καθὼς διέθετο, as my Father hath appointed me. So here, Chap. 8. 10. and 10. 16. Αὕτη ἡ διαθήκη ἣν διαθήσομαι, this is the Covenant which I will make with the Houſe of Iſrael. And becauſe Covenants were uſually made, victimas cædendo, by Sacrifices, and eſtabliſhed in Blood, as both the Hebrew, Berith, the Latin, Fœdus, and the Greek, σπονδὴ, whence the Word ſpondeo is derived, ſhew; and the Phraſes, ἰσχεῖν τίμνειν, fœdus ferire, & percutere. Accordingly it was in the New Covenant eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Jeſus. Hence the Apoſtle ſpeaks thus of this Covenant, and the Appointer, Diſpoſer, or the Maker of it.

Ver. 15. That by virtue of this Blood he is become the Mediator of a better Covenant.

Ver. 16. For where there is a Covenant, (θανάτον φερέσθαι, made by Death, or ratified by the Blood of him that makes it, v. 15.) there of neceſſity muſt intervene the Death, τῦ διαθεμένου, of him that makes the Covenant, or Promiſe.

Ver. 17. For a Covenant (of this nature) is only firm, (ἐπὶ νεκροῖς, in the Death of them who make it, as other Covenants were ratified by the Death of the Sacrifices uſed at the making of them,) and is of no force whilſt (ὁ διαθέμενος,) the maker of the Covenant lives.

Ver. 18. Whence (i. e. becauſe without ſhedding of Blood there is no Remiſſion; ſo it was alſo in) the firſt Covenant, (for it) was not dedicated without Blood.

To this Senſe the Contexture of the Apoſtle's Argument doth plainly lead; for, Chapter the 8th, he introduceth the Promiſe of a New Covenant, in which God engageth to be merciful to our Iniquities, and to remember our Sins no more, ver. 12. and ſo by removing our Guilt made us fit to be made partakers of an Eternal Inheritance. This Remiſſion of Sins, ſaith he, could not be purchaſed by the Gifts and Sacrifices under the Law, for they could not fully purge the Conſcience from the Guilt of Sin, Chap. 9. 9. but Chriſt, by his own Blood, hath purchaſed Eternal Redemption for us, ver. 12. and by this Blood he is become the Mediator of a better Covenant; He having ſuffered Death for the Remiſſion of Sins committed under the old Covenant, that we might receive the promiſe of an Eternal Inheritance, ver. 15.

And this Death was neceſſary for him to ſuffer, for the obtaining of theſe Ends. For where there is ſuch a Covenant, there is a neceſſity that the Death of him who ratifies this Covenant with his Blood, ſhould intervene; for ſuch a Covenant is only ratified upon the Death of them by whom it is made, and is of no force whilſt he lives that makes the Covenant, becauſe this Remiſſion of Sins is not to be procured without ſhedding of Blood.

Which was a thing ſo abſolutely neceſſary under the Law, that neither was the firſt Covenant dedicated or eſtabliſhed without Blood.

Now, if this be ſo, here is no playing with the ambiguity of the word διαθήκη, nor any intimation of an Helleniſt, but rather of an Hebrew, uſing the Word in the Senſe which both the Hebrew, Berith, uſually bears, and in which διαθήκη anſwers to it in the Septuagint. And ſo there was no juſt occaſion for the dangerous Reflections which Mr. le Clerk hath made on this Diſcourſe of the Apoſtle.

Ver. 21. Moreover he ſprinkled with Blood both the Tabernacle, and all the Veſſels of the Miniſtery.

Ἐρράντισε, &c.] Of this ſprinkling of the Tabernacle, and all the Veſſels, we read nothing in the place of Exodus forcited, or in any other part of the Law, but (o) Joſephus ſaith, That Moſes did, διεχρήσατο δὲ σκευῇ, ᾗ τὰ πρὸς αὐτὴν σκεύη ἅπαντα, ᾗ τῷ αἵματι τῶν ταύρων, ᾗ κριῶν συμφύρων, conſecrate for God's Service the Tabernacle, and all the Veſſels of it, by anointing them with Oil, and with the Blood of Bulls and Rams.

Ver. 22. And almoſt all things are by the Law purged (purified) with Blood, and without ſhedding of Blood is no Remiſſion.

Almoſt all things.] He ſaith almoſt, becauſe ſome things which could abide the Fire, were purified by Fire, Numb. 21. 23. and others by Water, Lev. 16. 28.

Ver. 22. It was therefore neceſſary (by virtue of the Moſaick Inſtitution) that the patterns of the things in the Heavens ſhould be purified with theſe (Sacrifices,) but the heavenly things themſelves with better Sacrifices than theſe.

Ver. 24. (I ſay, the Heavenly things themſelves,) For Chriſt is not entred into the Holy Places (of the Tabernacle) made with hands, which are the Figures of the true (Holy Place,) but into Heaven it ſelf, there to appear in the Preſence of God (and ſo prepare and conſecrate thoſe Manſions) for us.

Ver. 23. Διὰ τὰ ἐπουράνια, the Heavenly things.] For Explication of theſe Words let it be obſerved, 1ſt. That the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh all along not of the Purification of Perſons, but of things, of the Tabernacle, and the Veſſels of it, ver. 21. of the τὰ πάντα, all other things which were to be purified; of the ὑποδείγματα τῶν ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, the Patterns of the things in Heaven, ver. 23. that is, the Tabernacle, and the Utenſils of it. Chap. 8. 5. The Heavenly things themſelves, oppoſed to them, cannot therefore ſignifie Men in general, viz. the Church Triumphant or Militant, or in particular our Souls or Conſciences, but the Heavenly Places, ſtiled, ver. 24. Heaven it ſelf, the Place into which Chriſt, entred, in which he appears before God, the place of which the Tabernacle made with hands was a Figure.

2dly, Obſerve, That by God's Appointment an Atonement was to be made for the Holy Place, by the Blood of a Sin-offering ſprinkled upon and before the Mercy-Seat ſeven times, Becauſe of the Uncleanneſs of the Children of Iſrael, and becauſe of their Tranſgreſſions and their Sins, Lev. 16. 16. Now theſe could not defile that Holy Place into which they never entred, but yet they rendred them and their Services unworthy to appear, and to be tendred before it, as they ſtill did, worſhipping towards, or before this Footſtool of the Divine Majeſty. An Atonement was alſo to be made for the Tabernacle of the Congregation in which God dwelt among them, becauſe of their Uncleanneſſes, which rendred them unworthy to come into that Tabernacle where he was preſent; whence 'tis obſervable, that no Man was permitted to be in the Tabernacle, till the Atonement was made for it; ſo that the Purification of the Holy of Holies was only the preparing of it to be ſtill a Mercy-Seat, to which they might repair with their Prayers, Praiſes, and Adorations, and from which God might graciouſly ſhine forth upon them, when purified by this Atonement from the Defilements of their Sins. And the Purification of the Tabernacle was only to prepare it to be a Place in which they might preſent their Perſons before God, thus cleanſed by this Atonement from the Guilt of Sin.

And in like manner was Heaven it ſelf to be prepared, or purified for us by our Lord's Entrance into it with his own Atonement or Propitiatory Sacrifice. 1ſt. That our Prayers and Praiſes might aſcend up thither, and be accepted at God's Mercy-Seat, as being offer'd to God by our High-Prieſt, and rendred acceptable by the Atonement he had made for the Pollutions cleaving to them. Hence is he repreſented as having a Golden Cenſer and much Incenſe to offer, with the Prayers of all Saints, Rev. 8. 3, 4. 2dly. That our Perſons might be admitted into this Heavenly Tabernacle, as being cleanſed by his Blood from thoſe Defilements which they had contracted. Accordingly our Lord tells his Diſciples, In my Fathers Houſe are many Manſions; I go to prepare a place for you, John 14. 2, 3. And here he is ſaid to purifie and prepare theſe Heavenly Manſions for us, by entring into Heaven, there to appear with his Blood of ſprinkling in the Preſence of God for us.

Ver. 25. (It was not neceſſary, I ſay, that he ſhould enter with his Blood, as the High-Prieſts did into the Earthly Tabernacle,) Nor yet that he ſhould offer himſelf often as the High-Prieſt (did,) who entred into the Holy Place every Year with the Blood of others, (to make an annual Atonement for the Guilt of Sin.)

Ver. 26. For then muſt he have often ſuffer'd ſince the Foundation of the World (his offering himſelf before God with his Blood, being the conſequent of his Suffering,) but now once in the End of the World (Ἐπὶ συντελείᾳ τῶν αἰώνων, in the End of the Ages) hath he appeared to put away (the Guilt of) Sin by the Sacrifice of himſelf.

Ἀπὸ καταβολῆς κοσμου, from the Foundation of the World.] This Phraſe is uſed ſix times elſewhere in the New Teſtament. viz. Matth. 13. 35. 25. 34. Luke 11. 50. Rev. 13. 8. 17. 8. and in this Epiſtle; God's Works were finiſhed from the Foundation of the World, Hebr. 4. 3. And in all theſe Places it manifeſtly ſignifies from the beginning of the World. See Pſal. 78. 2. Matth. 13. 35. and therefore muſt in Reaſon bear the ſame import in this Text; and then it proves, againſt Crellius, that the Sufferings of Chriſt had reſpect to all preceding Generations: For if his Sufferings had not reſpected the Sins of the whole World, where is the neceſſity, upon the Suppoſition here made, of the reiteration of his Sacrifice, that he ſhould have ſuffered from the beginning of the World?

Ἐπὶ τῇ συντελείᾳ τῶν αἰώνων.] Dangerous here is the Note of Grotius, That St. Paul, in id propendebat ut crederet de propinquo imminere mundi ruinam. See this confuted, Note on 1 Theſ. 4. 15. and that τὸ τέλος, and ἡ συντέλεια τῶν αἰώνων, ſignifies not the end of the World, World, but the laſt of the Three celebrated Ages of the World. See Note on 1 Cor. 10. 11.

Ver. 27. And (in this the Death of Chriſt reſembles that of all other Men, for) as it is appointed for all Men once to die, and after that (comes) the Judgment, (when they ſhall die no more.)

Ver. 28. So Chriſt was (Gr. being) once offered to bear the Sins of many, and unto them that look for him be ſhall appear (Gr. ſhall appear to them that look for him) without (any more Sacrifice for) Sin unto Salvation, (i. e. for their Salvation.)

χωρὶς ἁμαρτίας, without a Sin-offering.] See Note on 2 Cor. 5. 20.

CHAP. X.

THE legal High-Prieſt, I ſay, went yearly into the Holy of Holies, ver. 25. as it was neceſſary for him to do in that imperfect Diſpenſation.

Ver. 1. For the Law having (only) a ſhadow of good things to come, and not the very Image of the things themſelves, can never with thoſe Sacrifices which they (who officiated under it) offered year by year continually, make the comers thereunto perfect, (or, make the comers thereunto perfect for ever.)

σκιὰν γὰρ μελλόντων ἀγαθῶν, a ſhadow of good things to come.] i. e. Of thoſe good things to come, of which Chriſt is the High-Prieſt; their Tabernacle being only a Shadow or Figure of that Celeſtial Tabernacle into which he, as our Forerunner, hath already entred, Chap. 9. 11. the Purgation they obtain'd by their Sacrifices from the Defilements of the Fleſh, of the Purification of our Conſciences from dead Works, ver. 13, 14. their annual Redemption, of the eternal Redemption obtained by Chriſt, ver. 12. their Freedom of Entrance, being cleanſed by their Sacrifices, into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, of our Freedom to enter into the Holy of Holies.

Οὐκ αὐτὴν τὴν εἰκόνα τῶν πραγμάτων, not the very Image of the things.] The Apoſtle here diſtinguiſhing betwixt the things, and the Image of them. I think the word Image cannot properly be rendred Subſtance, but we under the Goſpel do enjoy ſuch lively Repreſentations of the good things to come, as are both aſſurances, and foretaſts, and beginnings of them, the earneſts of our future Glory, in the enjoyment of the Holy Spirit, who is the earneſt of it, Eph. 1. 14. and by whom we are changed into the Image of our Glorious Lord. 2 Cor. 3. 18. the Image of our Enjoyment of God, and dwelling for ever with him, by being made an Habitation of God through the Spirit, Eph. 2. 22. the Image of our Entrance into his Preſence, in that freedom of Acceſs we have already to the Father through Chriſt, Eph. 2. 18. 3. 12. The Image of our final Abſolution, in that Juſtification which is attended with that Peace of God which paſſeth Underſtanding. And this ſufficiently Anſwers the Objection of Eſthius againſt this Senſe, viz. that a more expreſs ſignification of theſe future good Things would not more efficaciouſly avail towards the Exhibition of them. For ſuch an Image of them, as is alſo an earneſt, foretaſt, aſſurance, and an inchoation of them, is ſufficient to make the comers to God perfect for ever, as far as we are capable of being ſo in this Life; as being fully aſſured of the entire Pardon of our paſt Sins, ſo as that they ſhall not be remembred any more, and of the Enjoyment of thoſe future Bleſſings, of which they have received already the Earneſt, Firſt-fruits, and Aſſurance.

Εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς οὐδέποτε δύναται τοὺς προσερχομένους τελειῶσαι, could never make the comers to them perfect for ever.] All Interpreters allow a σύγχυσις, or Trajection of the Words in this Verſe. Now this which I make in the Tranſlation ſeems to be confirmed by the effect of our Lord's Sacrifice oppoſed to theſe, for that ſaith the Apoſtle, τετελείωκεν εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, hath perfected for ever them that were Sanctified, i.e. hath cleanſed them for ever from the Guilt of Sin, ver. 14. That therefore which he here denies to the Legal Sacrifices, muſt be alſo this, that they could, τελειῶσαι εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, expiate ſins for ever; or ſo as that they who were once purged by them, ſhould have no more Conſcience of Sin, ver. 2. and to this Senſe the following Argument inclines,

The Words τελεῖν, and τελειοῦσθαι, have two Significations; the one is Agoniſtical, and then it ſignifies to Reward and Crown. As in thoſe words, That they without us, ἵνα μὴ τελειωθῶσι, might not be made perfect, i.e. be Crowned, or have their full Reward, Heb. 11. 40. See the Note there. The other is Sacrifical; for when it is joined with Sacrifices, or hath relation to them, it ſignifies ἁγιάζειν, ἢ καθαρίζεσθαι, to ſanctifie, and purge from the Guilt of Sin. Whence τελειοῦσθαι is rendred by Heſychius, and Phavorinus, ἁγιάζεσθαι. So the Sin-offering, by which Aaron and his Sons were Sanctified, and ſet apart for the Prieſthood, is ſtiled, θυσία τελειώσεως, Exod. 29. 34. And the Sacrifice by which the Temple was Sanctified, or purged from its Defilements, is ſtiled, θυσία τελειώσεως, 2 Mac. 2. 9. And therefore what is here cannot be perfect, is, v. 4. cannot, ἁφαιρεῖν ἁμαρτίας, take away away Sin; and, ver. 2. καθαριζομένους, is to purge from the Conſcience of Sin. See Chap. 9. 9, 12, 14.

And laſtly, the word προσερχομένους here ſeems not to ſignifie the comers to it, i. e. the Law, but the comers to God for Pardon by theſe Legal Sacrifices; for the word in this whole Epiſtle, ſtill relates to coming to God, as the Phraſe is expreſly, Chap. 7. 25. 11. 6. The coming to the Throne of Grace, Chap. 4. 16. and in this Chapter, ver. 22. προσερχώμεθα, Let us come (to God) with a true Heart.

Ver. 2. For then they would not have ceaſed to be offer'd, becauſe that the Worſhippers once purged by them, (εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, for ever) would have had no more Conſcience of Sin, (i. e. would not have been after conſcious of the Guilt of Sin.)

ἐπεὶ ἂν ἐπαύσαντο προσφερόμενα, for then they would not have ceaſed to be offered.] Some leaving out the ἂν, tranſlate the Words thus, For then ſure they would have ceaſed to be offered; but the ἂν is found in Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, and the Alexandrian Manuſcript, and therefore ought not to be omitted: Others, with the Arabick Verſion, read the Words interrogatively; For then would they not have ceaſed to be offered? Which gives a very good Senſe. But yet there ſeems to be another Senſe of them very agreeable to the Context, viz. for then they would not have ceaſed, or been taken away, to give place to another Sacrifice for Sin, as the Apoſtle proves they were, from ver. 5. to the 9*th.*

Ver. 3. But (ſo far are they from procuring this perpetual Remiſſion, or freeing thoſe that offer'd them from being any more conſcious of Sin, that) in thoſe Sacrifices there is a remembrance of Sin every year, (viz. in the great Day of Expiation, whereas where there is full remiſſion of Sins, there is no remembrance of them any more, and ſo no more offering for ſin needful, ver. 16, 17.)

Ver. 4. (They could not, I ſay, expiate for ever, or clear them from all Conſcience of Sin,) For it is impoſſible that the Blood of Bulls and Goats ſhould take away ſin (for ever, ſo that no farther Sacrifice ſhould be needful to that end.)

ἀφαιρεῖν ἁμαρτίας, to take away ſin.] Is not as Grotius here notes, efficere ne ultra peccetur, to make us ſin no more; for neither is that the effect of Chriſt's Blood, but as far as in this imperfect State we are enabled ſo to do, of his ſanctifying Spirit. For the Apoſtle ſpeaks, ver. 1. of Expiation of the Conſcience from the Guilt of Sin, of Expiation by the Legal Sacrifices which did not inwardly Sanctifie, of Purgation by the Oblation of them, ver. 2. from that Sin of which there was a yearly Remembrance in the Oblation of thoſe Sacrifices to make Atonement for them, ver. 3. and therefore the ἀδύνατον γάρ, which connects this Verſe with the former, and ſhews that to be impoſſible to effected which he had ſaid before was not effected by thoſe Sacrifices, muſt confine this Phraſe to the taking away the Guilt of Sin by (a) Expiation and Atonement for them; not to the removal of the Power and Dominion of it by internal Sanctification. And ſo ἀφαίρειν ἁμαρτίας always ſignifies, either to take away Sin by a mere Act of Grace, abſolving from the Puniſhment due to it, as when Nathan ſaith to David, ἀφῆκε ὁ κύριος τὸ ἁμάρτημά σου, The Lord hath taken away thy Sin, thou ſhalt not die, 2 Sam. 12. 13. And the Seraphim to Iſaiah, This hath touched thy Lips, καὶ ἀφελεῖ τὰς ἁμαρτίας σου, and he will take away thy Sins, Iſa. 6. 7. And Iſa. 27. 9. By this, ἀφαιρεθήσεται ἀνομία Ἰακὼβ, ſhall the Iniquity of Jacob be forgiven; and this is his Bleſſing, ὅταν ἀφέλωμαι τὰς ἁμαρτίας αὐτῶν, when I ſhall take away his Sins. And when God ſaith to Joſhua, ἰδοὺ ἀφῆκα τὰς ἀνομίας σου, Behold I have taken away thy ſins, Zach. 3. 4. Or when this Phraſe hath relation to a Sacrifice, as when 'tis ſaid, Lev. 10. 17. Wherefore have you not eaten the ſin-offering in the Holy Place, ſeeing it is moſt holy, and God hath given it you, ἵνα ἀφέλητε τὰς ἁμαρτίας τῆς συναγωγῆς, καὶ ἐξιλάσηται περὶ αὐτῶν ἔναντι Κυρίου, that you might bear (away) the Iniquity of the Congregation, to make an Atonement for them before the Lord. See ver. 11.

Ver. 5. Wherefore when he (the Lamb of God that taketh away the Sins of the World) cometh into the World, he (in the Pſalmiſt) ſaith, Sacrifice and Burnt-offering thou wouldeſt not, but a Body haſt thou prepared (for) me, (i. e. thou wouldeſt not have them to continue after my coming into the World to offer my ſelf a Sacrifice for the Sins of the World, they being only to continue till the time of Reformation, Chap. 9. 10. and here ver. 9.)

Ver. 6. In Burnt-offerings and Sacrifices for Sin thou haſt had no pleaſure.

Ver. 7. Then ſaid I, Lo, I come, (as) (in the Volume (or Roll) of the Book it is written of me) to do (τὸ ποιῆσαι, that I may do) thy Will, O God.

Ver. 8. Above when he ſaid (ἀνώτερον λέγων, when he had ſaid before, Pſal. 40. 6.) Sacrifice and Offering, and Burnt offering, and Offering for Sin thou wouldeſt not, neither hadſt pleaſure therein, (ſpeaking of the Sacrifices) which are offered by the Law.

Ver. 9. Then ſaid he (afterwards, ver. 7.) Lo, I come to do thy Will, O God: (and thus) he taketh away the firſt (the legal Sacrifices) that Εἰσερχόμενος εἰς τὸν κόσμον, coming into the World.] The Socinian Gloſs here, de ingreſſu Chriſti in mundum futurum, i. e. of Chriſt's going out of this World into the next, or into Heaven, is ſo abſurd, that it needs no Refutation; his coming into the World in the Scripture Phraſe being his deſcending from Heaven to be with us, John 16. 28. I came down from the Father, and came into the World, and his going hence to Heaven being ſtiled his leaving of the World, John 13. 1. 16. 28. 17. 11. And though the Phraſe of entring into the World may ſometimes, in St. John, import Chriſt's entring on his Prophetick Office, or his appearing publickly in the World, as ὁ ἐρχόμενος is that Prophet which was to come into the World; yet the Connexion of it here with the time when a Body was prepared for him, will not ſuffer us to doubt that it importeth here his Aſſumption of the Humane Nature, and his being born into the World in it. And ſo this Phraſe is uſed when Chriſt is ſtiled the true Light that enlightneth every Man that cometh into the World, John 1. 9. For though the Grammatical Conſtruction doth not hinder but that, ἐρχόμενον εἰς τὸν κόσμον, may be conſtrued with Light thus, Which coming into the World enlightneth every Man, yet, כל באי עולם, all that come into the World, being the conſtant Phraſe by which the Jews expreſs all Men living, as Dr. Lightfoot on the place obſerves; and the Jews themſelves ſpeaking of God himſelf after this manner, אתה מאיר בכל באי עולם, (b) Thou art he that illuminates every Man that comes into the World; this is a plain confirmation of our Tranſlation of theſe Words.

Σῶμα κατηρτίσω μοι, a Body haſt thou prepared, or framed for me.] The Words in the Hebrew are, אזנים כרית לי, my Ears haſt thou bored, in plain alluſion to the Ceremony uſed to a Slave that would not have his Liberty, but would continue in his Obedience to his Maſter, and would not go free, Exod. 21. 6. Deut. 15. 17. Which being done out of love to his Maſter, the boring of his Ear ſeems not to be commanded as a note of Infamy, but as a ſolemn devoting of him to his Maſter's Service; though, were it uſed as a mark of Servitude, it Anſwers ſtill exactly to our Saviour, who took upon him, ſaith the Apoſtle, μορφὴν δούλου, the form of a Servant, or of a Slave, and became obedient to the Death for us, when he might have been free from it, out of love to his Father, and us his Children, Hebr. 2. 14. And becauſe he only could appear in this Form, and perform'd this Obedience in the Body he aſſumed for this purpoſe, the Seventy Interpreters, perhaps by the internal Motion of the Holy Spirit, tranſlated the Phraſe thus, A Body haſt thou prepared, or framed for me; for that the Apoſtle did not change the Tranſlation of the Septuagint, but find it thus, his Words declare, when he ſaith he taketh away the firſt, viz. Sacrifice and Offering according to the Law, that he might eſtabliſh the latter, i. e. the Oblation of his Body, or his Obedience to the Death in the Body thus prepared for him. So read Theodoret, St. Auſtin, Euthymius, St. Chryſoſtom, Apollinarius, and Ambroſius; ſo read the Arabick and Æthiopick Verſions; and they who read otherwiſe may be ſuppoſed to have followed not the Greek, but the Hebrew. And this reading the Apoſtle approves and follows, as the true meaning of the Hebrew Phraſe, and that which ſo fitly doth expreſs our Saviour's Oblation of himſelf, as that Sacrifice which was to put an end to thoſe which only were the Types and Shadows of it: And his giving up himſelf entirely as a Servant to do the Will of God, on which account Slaves and Servants, who were altogether at the Beck and Will of their Lords, were both by Jews and Heathens called, σώματα, Bodies. Thus Raguel gave to Tobias half his Goods, σώματα, ἡ κτῆνη, ἡ ἀγέλαι, Servants, and Cattel, and Money, Tobit. 10. 10. The ſale of the Captive Jews by Nicanor is in the Greek thus, ἀνεσιμὴν ἐνδεκὰ σωμάτων, 2 Maccab. 8. 11. Joſeph. Antiq. Jud. l. 12. c. 2. p. 390. F. So all the Servants of the Men of Sychem are, πάντα τὰ σώματα αὐτῶν, Gen. 34. 29. And σώματα is by our Tranſlation rendred Slaves, Rev. 18. 13. So Ariſtotle, Strabo, Demoſthenes, and J. Pollux uſe the word. See Conſtantin.

I do not find that the Ancient Jews interpreted theſe words of Chriſt in expreſs terms, but they ſay enough to juſtifie the Apoſtle's Argument from this Text. For hence they conclude, that (c) God had no principal Regard to Sacrifices, and that Obedience and Praiſe was better than Sacrifice; and that (d) a farther Salvation was to be expected, even the Salvation of God, Pſalm 50. 23. Ezra 45. 17. which was, תשועת עולמים, an eternal Salvation; or, in the Language of the Apoſtle here, Salvation, εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, for ever, Hebr. 7. 25. εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, Chap. 10. 14.

Ver. 10. By the which Will we are ſanctified through the Offering (Gr. οἱ διὰ τῆς προσφορᾶς who are ſanctified by the Offering) of the Body of Jeſus Chriſt (ἐφάπαξ) once for all, (not as the legal Sacrifices, once every Year, Chap. 9. 25, 26.)

(b) Vaijkra Rabba, Sect. 31. (c) Maim. More Nev. part. 3. c. 32. (d) Pug. fid. part. 3. diſt. 3. c. 12. § 14. becauſe

becauſe it is in the Alexandrian Copy, in Oecumenius, Theophylact, the Arabick Verſion, and in many Manuſcript Copies, I thought fit to give it a place in the Paraphraſe, and then 'tis eaſie to perceive that ἡγιάσθημεν muſt be repeated to compleat the ſenſe.

Τὸ θέλημα, by the which Will.] God had ſaid by the Pſalmiſt, that he would not have the Sacrifices and Oblations of the Law continued, but that his Will was that Chriſt ſhould once for all ſuffer for the ſin of Man, by the Execution of which Will, perform'd by Chriſt's Oblation of his Body for us, we are ſanctified: Where ἁγιάζειν, or ἁγιάζεσθαι, doth not ſignifie to be freed from the Power and Dominion of Sin, but from the Guilt of it, as is proved, Note on Chap. 9. 13. and this is farther proved from the means of this Sanctification, viz. the Oblation of Chriſt's Body, that being offer'd as a piacular Victim, to purge us from the Guilt of Sin, and from the Condemnation due unto us for it; nor doth the Apoſtle here underſtand the Oblation of Chriſt's Body in the Heavens for us, that being properly his interceſſion, but the Oblation of his Body on the Croſs, and by his Sufferings, Heb. 2. 10, 11. and Chap. 13. 12. And laſtly, this being effected by the Oblation of Chriſt's Body, ἐφάπαξ, once for all, as it reſtrains the word to his Oblation on the Croſs, which was but once performed, and is paſt, whereas his appearance in the Heavens for us is ſtill preſent, and perpetual, ſo doth it perfectly overthrow the pretended Sacrifice of the Maſs; for if by this one Oblation he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified, what efficacy can there be in this vain Repetition of it? nay, muſt it not import that Remiſſion of Sins is not fully obtained for us by our Lord's Sacrifice on the Croſs? For, ſaith the Apoſtle, where Remiſſion of theſe is, there is no more offering for Sin, ver. 18.

Ver. 11. And every High-Prieſt (according to the Law) ſtandeth (Gr. ſtood) daily Miniſtering and Offering oftentimes the ſame Sacrifices, which can never take away (the Guilt of) Sin.

Ver. 12. But this Man (Chriſt Jeſus) after he had offered one Sacrifice for ſins, (by which the Guilt of them hath been fully taken away, Heb. 1. 3.) is for ever ſate down on the Right hand of God, (and ſo is placed over all his Works, according to Pſalm 8. 6.)

εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, for ever.] By comparing this with ver. 14. By one Offering he hath perfected, εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, for ever them that are ſanctified; and with ver. 1. where it is denied that the legal Sacrifices could, τελειῶσαι εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, expiate Sins for ever; and from the ſtreſs the Apoſtle here, ver. 10. and elſewhere lays upon this, προσφορὰ ἐφάπαξ, Oblation once for all, I imagine that theſe words may be better rendred thus, This Man after he had offered one Sacrifice for ſin for ever, is ſate down.

Ver. 13. From henceforth expecting till all his Enemies be made his footſtool, (till the Devil, Antichriſt, Death the Wages of Sin, and the laſt Enemy be aboliſh'd, 1 Cor. 15. 25. and ſo the following Words of the Pſalmiſt, Thou haſt put all things in ſubjection under his feet, be fully accompliſhed.)

Ver. 14. For by (this) one offering (of himſelf to the death for us) he hath perfected for ever (i.e. completely expiated the ſins of) them that are ſanctified (through faith in his Blood procuring the Remiſſion of ſins, Acts 26. 18.)

That τετελείωκεν εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, is to expiate ſin for ever, ſee Note on ver. 1. And that the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of them who are ſanctified by this Expiation, hath been obſerved, Note on Chap. 9. 13. and is apparent from the Teſtimony of the Holy Ghoſt produced here to confirm this, viz. That God would remember their ſins no more, ver. 17.

A Queſtion ariſeth from ver. 4, and 11. upon what Ground it is here aſſerted that the legal Sacrifices could never take away ſin? Wherein lies the difference in point of Expiation between the Sacrifices of the Law, and the Oblation of the Body of Chriſt, that one could purge the Conſcience from the ſenſe of Guilt, and take away ſin for ever, and the other could not? 'If all muſt be reſolved 'into Divine Appointment, and Divine Ac'ceptation, how is it impoſſible that the 'Blood of Bulls and Goats ſhould take 'away ſin? Was it not poſſible that God 'might have appointed and accepted of 'the Life of a Beaſt, inſtead of that of the 'greateſt Malefactor, who thereby might be 'freed not only from a temporal, but like'wiſe from the obligation to eternal Death? Now in Anſwer to this Queſtion, I conceive that Divine Acceptation muſt neither wholly be excluded, nor wholly be aſſigned as the cauſe that the Oblation of our Saviour's Body was thus available for that Expiation of the Guilt of ſin, which could not be obtained by the legal Sacrifices.

And, Firſt, I ſay, Divine Acceptation muſt not, yea cannot wholly be excluded, for that would render the Oblation of our Lord's Body, of what virtue ſoever it might be in it ſelf, wholly unable to procure the Pardon of our ſin, and exclude all true remiſſion and forgiveneſs of ſin. For,

1ſt. The Puniſhment of another being not the thing threatned, or required, but only the Death of the Offender, it can be of no avail to free the Criminal from Puniſhment, tho' he that is the ſubſtitute be never ſo able, or ſo well enclined to ſuffer it, unleſs the Governour, or he to whom the Execution of the Law belongs, be willing to accept of his vicarious Puniſhment, and whenſoever he is pleaſed, and ſees juſt cauſe to do ſo, it is an Act of Grace and Favour to the Criminal, and a Remiſſion of his perſonal Obligation to bear the Puniſhment he had deſerv'd. In Puniſhments inflicted on the Criminal it is true, that ſo far as he ſuffers what the Law exacts, ſo far doth he diſſolve the Obligation to farther Puniſhment, and ſo far muſt his Puniſhment be inconſiſtent with Remiſſion; for as far as any Man is puniſh'd, he is not forgiven. But by admiſſion of another to ſuffer in our ſtead, we are as much forgiven as we could be, did he not ſuffer in our ſtead, becauſe we are as much exempted from ſuffering any Puniſhment on the account of our Offences, and how can we be more forgiven than we are by ſuch an act as removes from us the whole Puniſhment, as much as if we never had offended? The vicarious Puniſhment is indeed the motive, and the procuring cauſe of this Forgiveneſs, as it renders it conſiſtent with the Governour's Honour, and with the ends of Government to grant it, but it takes off nothing from the freedom of the Pardon.

Secondly, I add, That Divine Acceptation muſt not be aſſigned as the only cauſe that the Oblation of our Saviour's Body was thus available for the Expiation of the Guilt of ſin, for then no reaſon can be given why he might not have accepted of the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and much more of the Sufferings of any ordinary Man for the procuring our Exemption from the Guilt of ſin, whereas two Reaſons have been already offered in the Note on Chap. 2. 14. why the Blood of Bulls and Goats could never take away ſin; viz. 1*ſt*. Becauſe they were not of the ſame Nature and Original with Man, who ſinned, and ſo could not diſſolve the Debt that Nature had contracted. 2*dly*, They never could procure for us a Reſurrection, and ſo they could not free us from that eternal Death our ſins deſerved, nor could any mortal Man do it, becauſe he never could have power to raiſe his own Body, only that Jeſus who had power to lay down his Life, and take it up again; who hath Life in himſelf, and who can make the dead hear the Voice of the Son of Man, and live, can do this. Indeed they could do nothing of that which was requiſite, ſaith this Epiſtle, and the whole Scripture for that end. But the great reaſon why the Blood of Bulls or Goats could never take away Sins, is this, that they could never Anſwer the great Ends of Puniſhment, and thereby render it conſiſtent with the Honour of the Governour, and with the Ends of Government to admit the ſubſtitution of them in our ſtead. Now the Ends which wiſe Men do aſſign of Puniſhments are theſe.

1*ſt*. Παραδειγμα, That they who ſuffer may be exemplary to others, and may, by what they ſuffer, deter others from the Commiſſion of the like Offences, by letting them, in their Example, know what they muſt ſuffer when the Guilt of their own Sins is laid upon them.

2*dly*, Νουθεσια, That the Offender may learn Wiſdom by the Rod, that the Remembrance of what was ſuffered for it might prevent the Repetition of his ſin, and that he may be fitted to embrace that Counſel of our Saviour, Sin no more, leſt a worſe thing come upon thee.

3*dly*, Τιμωρια, The Vindication of the Princes Honour, and the Preſervation of the Laws he hath eſtabliſhed from Contempt. Now to apply this to our purpoſe, I ſay,

1. That by the Obedience of our Lord Chriſt unto the Death in our ſtead, theſe Ends of Puniſhment are very ſignally obtained, and that with more Advantage to God's Glory, than if the Puniſhment of our Offences had been inflicted upon us, and ſo God by it may be truly ſaid to have been ſatisfied, ſeeing that Juſtice which conſiſts in puniſhing for the Tranſgreſſion of a Law is truly ſatisfied, when all thoſe Ends for which the Puniſhment of the Offender could be deſired, are obtain'd.

2. I add, That none of theſe Ends could be at all obtain'd by the Suffering of Bulls and Goats, and not comparatively by the Sufferings of any other mortal Man whatſoever.

And, 1*ſt*. God by this Diſpenſation hath given us the beſt and moſt effectual Example to deter us from ſin. For three things only can be requiſite to this End, that the Puniſhment of ſin be inſupportable when we ſuffer it, inevitable when we by our Rebellions have made our ſelves the Veſſels of God's Wrath; and that we have a lively ſenſe and deep impreſſion of all this upon our Spirits. Now,

The Example of our Saviour's Sufferings ſhew how inſupportable the Puniſhment will be, which Juſtice will inflict upon the Sinner; for if the apprehenſion of it produced ſuch Agonies and Conſternations in the Soul of Chriſt, that God ſaw need to ſend an Angel to ſupport him under them, how muſt the Sinner ſink under that Burthen when it is laid upon his Shoulders? If he, who was the well-beloved Son of God, found it ſo dreadful to lie under the Burthen for ſome Hours, to lie expoſed for ever to it, muſt be far more intolerable; if the conſideration of God's paternal Love, and of the glorious Iſſues of his Sufferings, was ſcarce ſufficient to ſupport our Lord under the Terrours of that Cup, what will ſupport the Sinner when he ſhall know himſelf to be the everlaſting Object of God's Wrath.

This Example alſo ſhews, That impenitent Sinners cannot eſcape this Wrath of God, ſince he inflicted ſo great Puniſhment on the Beloved of his Soul, when he became our our Surety. For if on this account God ſpared not his only Son, we may be ſure he will not ſpare his ſtubborn Enemies. With what ſtrong Crys and with what Earneſtneſs did our Lord pray to be delivered from this Cup? And yet when he had made his Soul an Offering for ſin, thus did it pleaſe the Lord to bruiſe him. If then his Ears were ſhut againſt the Crys of his beloved Son, can they be open to the howlings of Rebellious Sinners? If God was pleaſed to lay ſo great a load on him who was but Sponſor for our Sins, their Puniſhment cannot be milder who commit them. And, Laſtly, This Example gives us the moſt lively ſenſe, and deep impreſſion of theſe things, as being the moſt ſenſible demonſtration of God's Indignation againſt Sin, which is recorded in the Sacred Writings. To find God drowning the whole World, and raining Fire and Brimſtone on Sodom and Gomorrha for Sin; to ſee the darling Objects of his Love, the Jewiſh Nation, become for above 1600 Years the Objects of his ſoreſt Wrath, are Inſtances ſufficient to deterr Men from Sin: But then to ſee God mix a Cup ſo bitter, ſo full of Gall and Wormwood, for his own Innocent and Well-beloved Son, and make him drink it off, only becauſe he undertook to be our Surety; to ſee him lifted up upon the Croſs, the Earth trembling under him, as if unable to bear his Weight; the Heavens darkned over him, as if ſhut againſt his Cry, and all this becauſe our Sins did meet upon him, is ſure an eminent demonſtration of God's Indignation againſt Sin.

2*dly*, Whereas inevitable Ruin muſt have followed upon the Execution of the deſerv'd Puniſhment on the Offender's Perſon, God, by this method, hath taken a moſt excellent way for Reformation of the Sinner, which was the ſecond End of Puniſhment. For what can be a more effectual Motive to abſtain from Sin than this Example, which ſo clearly repreſents the greatneſs of the Provocation in the greatneſs of the Puniſhment, and ſhews it is impoſſible that guilty Perſons ſhould avoid the ſtroke of God's vindictive Juſtice, or bear the weight of his Almighty Arm.

3*dly*, God, by this Diſpenſation, hath ſufficiently conſulted the preſervation of his Honour, and ſecured the Reverence and Obſervation of his Laws, which was the third great End of Puniſhment. For,

God by declaring thus he would not pardon our Offences without this Satisfaction made for the Violation of his Law, hath fully vindicated his Inſtitutions from Contempt, ſeeing by this Example he hath let all Men know, that though he be a God of great Long-ſuffering and Mercy, he will by no means clear the Sinner, or ſuffer Sin to go unpuniſhed.

Again, God by this Diſpenſation hath vindicated his Honour more than if he had deſtroyed the Sinner, having more evidently ſhew'd his Hatred of, and great Diſpleaſure againſt Sin, by puniſhing it ſo ſeverely in his only Son, when he became our Surety. For the greater is the inducement to remit the Puniſhment of Sin, the greater muſt be his hatred of it who inflicts it; that therefore this Conſideration, that he who ſuffer'd was his Well-beloved Son, would not induce him to remit the Puniſhment, muſt be the higheſt demonſtration of his moſt perfect hatred of all Iniquity.

But that none of theſe Ends could be at all obtained by the ſubſtitution of a Bull, or Goat, or Ram to ſuffer in our ſtead, muſt be extremely evident, this being a ſubſtitution very ſupportable, eſpecially by the Rich, who very freely ſpend much more upon the Satisfaction of their Luſts, and who would therefore gladly buy a Freedom to commit them at ſo ſmall Expence. This then would be ſo far from tending to reform the Sinner, that it would rather be a great Encouragement to him to continue in his evil Courſes, when he thus knew the damage could be very little to him; this alſo could not tend unto the Honour of the Law-giver, but rather would tempt Men to conceive that his Diſpleaſure againſt Sin could not be great, ſince he required ſo little to repair his Honour; and that he was not much concerned for any ſatisfaction for the Violations of his Law, when ſuch ſlight Matters were by him thought ſufficient Expiations for them.

Moreover, the Oblation of any ordinary Man could not procure this Expiation for us; 1. Becauſe he only could ſuffer that Puniſhment he had deſerved by his own Sins: Now evident it is, no ſatisfaction can be made by me for others, by ſuffering only that which Juſtice doth require me to ſuffer for my own Offences. 2. Becauſe he could not overcome Death, he never could raiſe up himſelf from the Grave, and ſo could not procure that Redemption from it to another, which he could not obtain for his own ſelf. Nor, 3. Is it viſible how he can ſerve the Ends of Juſtice, or of Government, by doing ſo, more than the Criminal himſelf would do by his own ſufferings. For, 1. What great Indication would it be of Divine hatred to Sin, that he required only the Death of a mortal Man to expiate the Sins of the whole World? Or, 2. What diſcouragement could this afford to Sinners from continuing in their evil Courſes, or what great dread of Divine Vengeance? For if, as 'twas conjectured by moſt Nations, the Death of a Malefactor might be ſufficient for this purpoſe, what Nation could ever want ſuch Expiations for their Sins? Or, if it were to be a good Man, ſeeing they bore ſo great a love unto Mankind in general, and to their Country in particular, ſome of them would ſtill be ready to offer their own Lives for Preſervation of their Nation; or how by this would God conſult either the Honour of his Government, or ſecure the Reverence and Obſervation of his Laws, by thus requiring only one Criminal to ſuffer leſs than he himſelf deſerved, to make Atonement for the continual Violations of his Sacred Laws by a whole Nation, or even the whole Race of Men?

Ver. 15. Wherefore (and of this) the Holy Ghoſt alſo is a witneſs to us; for after he had ſaid before,

Ver. 16. This is my Covenant that I will make with them after theſe days, ſaith the Lord: I will put my Laws into their Hearts, and in (or upon) their Minds will I write them, (Jer. 31. 33.)

Ver. 17. He adds, (as a farther Promiſe, or part of the new Covenant) And their Sins and Iniquities will I remember no more.

Ver. 18. Now where (ſuch a) Remiſſion of theſe is, (as cuts off the remembrance of them any more,) there is no more (need of) Offering for Sin. (See v. 2, 3.)

Οὐκ ἔτι προσφορὰ, no more Offering for Sin.] From theſe, and many other Paſſages of this Epiſtle, the Sacrifice of the Maſs declared by the Trent Council, Seſſ. 22. Can. 2, 3. to be a true and proper propitiatory Sacrifice for Sins, is utterly overthrown. For, 1ſt. from theſe words of the Apoſtle, It was not needful that he ſhould offer himſelf often, for then muſt he have often ſuffered, Chap. 9. 24, 25, 26. it is very evident that Chriſt cannot offer himſelf, but he muſt ſuffer. Since then they dare not ſay that Chriſt ſuffers in the Maſs, neither can they ſay that Chriſt offers himſelf there. 2dly, From thoſe words, Without ſhedding of Blood there is no Remiſſion, Chap. 9. 22. it follows, either that the Sacrifice of the Maſs muſt be a bloody Sacrifice, and ſo Chriſt's Blood muſt be as often ſhed, as he is offer'd in the Maſs, or elſe that it obtaineth no Remiſſion of Sin. 3dly, This follows from thoſe words, By one Oblation he hath perfected (i. e. hath perfectly and fully expiated, and that) for ever them that are ſanctified; for what neceſſity of, what virtue can there be in doing that again which is perfectly and fully done already, and that for ever? And laſtly, where Remiſſion of Sins is ſo obtained by Chriſt's one Oblation, that God will remember them no more, there is, ſaith the Apoſtle, no more need of Offering for Sin; but by the Blood of Chriſt, the Blood of the New Teſtament, ſuch Remiſſion is obtained, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, ver. 15, 17. Ergo,

Ver. 19. Having therefore, Brethren, boldneſs (or Liberty) (See Note on Chap. 3. 6.) to enter into the Holieſt by the Blood of Jeſus, (from which the Jews were typically debarr'd, the way into the Holieſt being not then revealed, Chap. 9. 8.) by (virtue of) a new and living way, which he hath conſecrated (or made new for us) through the Veil, that is to ſay, (through) his Fleſh (offer'd for our Sins upon the Croſs.)

Ὁδὸν πρόσφατον, a new way.] The way into the Higheſt Heaven being before ἄβατος, impaſſable, ſaith Joſephus. See Note on Chap. 9. 8. there being no entrance for us into that place, till our Forerunner had entred into it, Chap. 7. 20. till he had purified and prepared it for us by his better Sacrifice, Chap. 9. 23, John. 14. 2. This was the Doctrine of all the Primitive Chriſtians, That Chriſt by his Death opened this Veil for the Juſt that were from Adam, (e) ἀποκεκλεισμένοι, excluded from thoſe bliſsful Regions: That (f) διῆρεν πρῶτον ἐξ αἰῶνος μὴ φανέντα, that he rent open the incloſure which from the beginning had not been laid open. Hence (g) Tertullian ſaith, the Patriarchs were, Dominicæ Reſurrectionis appendices, the Appendants of our Lord's Reſurrection.

Καὶ ζῶσαν, and living Way.] That is, ζωοποιοῦσαν, leading to, and giving Life, ſaith Grotius. He dying for us, that we might live through him, 1 John 4. 9. Thus the Bread of Life, John 6. and the Word of Life, Acts 5. 20. Philip. 2. 16. is the Bread and Word giving Life. In oppoſition to the dead Shadows of the Law, ſaith Dr. Hammond, or the Sacrifices preſcribed by it, all whoſe virtue was in their Death, we being reconciled by the Death of Chriſt, but ſaved by his Life, Rom. 5. 10. The Jewiſh Maxim ſaith, That the very Root and Eſſence of the Sacrifice was the ſprinkling of the Blood: And therefore on the great Day of Expiation the Bullock for the Sin-offering, and the Goat for the Sin-offering, which was brought in to make Atonement in the Holy Place for the People, was ſprinkled before the Mercy-ſeat ſeven times, Lev. 16. 14, 15, 27. and ſo they were made clean from all their Sins before the Lord, ver. 30. and admitted again into the Tabernacle of the Congregation from which they were excluded, till this ſprinkling was performed, ver. 17. God appoints the Water made of the Aſhes of the Red Heifer, to cleanſe them from thoſe legal Impurities which rendred them unfit to come into his Tabernacle, and made it dangerous for them to approach unto it, ſtiling it on that account a Purification from Sin, ver. 9. and this Water was to be ſprinkled on the Unclean, and he was to waſh his Clothes, and bath himſelf in Water, and being thus purified might come into the Sanctuary, ver. 19, 20. This ſprinkling of the Blood and Water ſanctifying to the Purification of the Fleſh, Hebr. 9. 13. Ver. 29. Of how much ſorer Puniſhment ſuppoſe ye ſhall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, (uſing him with the greateſt Contempt imaginable) and hath counted the Blood of the (new) Covenant, wherewith he was ſanctified, an unholy thing, (ſuch as pollutes, rather than purges, as being the Blood of a Malefactor,) and hath done deſpight to the Spirit of Grace, (by refuſing to own him as the Spirit of God, yea, rejecting him as a Lying Spirit, Spirit, and his Gifts and Miracles as Illuſions.)

Ἑκουσίως γὰρ ἁμαρτανόντων ἡμῶν, for if we ſin wilfully.] That theſe words do not concern every ſin committed knowingly againſt the Laws of Chriſt, but only ſuch as do conſiſt in Apoſtatizing from the Faith after we have received the Knowledge of it, and rejecting him as our Prophet and Law-giver, will appear, 1. From the Parallel place, Chap. 6. 4, 5, 6. for they who there cannot be renewed unto Repentance, are they who fall away from the Faith after they have been enlightned, &c. which plainly Anſwers to theſe words here, who ſin wilfully after they have received the Knowledge of the Truth; they are there ſaid to crucifie afreſh the Lord of Life, and to put him to an open ſhame; yea, to fall away after they have taſted of the Heavenly Gift, and have been made partakers of the Holy Ghoſt, which alſo anſwers to the trampling under foot the Son of God, and the doing deſpight to the Spirit of Grace. 2. From the Inſtances produced out of the Old Teſtament for the Argument uſed ver. 28. from the Compariſon of him who deſpiſed Moſes's Law, and therefore was to die without Mercy, under the hand of two or three Witneſſes, Deut. 17. 6. plainly concerns them only who tranſgreſs God's Covenant, by going and ſerving other Gods, ver. 2, 3. And as for thoſe who ſinned voluntarily, or with an high Hand under the Law, and ſo were to be cut off, and have no Sacrifice allowed to expiate their ſin, Numb. 15. 30, 31. they were ſuch as blaſphemed, or reproached the Lord, i. e. revolted from him, and would not own him as their Governour; they deſpiſed the Word of the Lord, they made the Commandment given in Sinai void, by contemning the Authority by which it was enjoined, as the Hebrew ſignifies, and ſo they were indeed Apoſtates from God. 3. From the preceding Exhortation, ver. 25. not to fall off from the Aſſemblies of Chriſtians, and the following, not to caſt away their Confidence, ver. 35. not to draw back from the Faith, ver. 38. it being better not to have known the way of Righteouſneſs, than having known it to depart from the Holy Commandment delivered to them, 2 Pet. 2. 21. And laſtly, From the Expreſſions uſed ver. 29. which can agree to none beſides Apoſtates from the Chriſtian Faith, for to tread the Son of God under our feet, muſt ſurely ſignifie the extremeſt Contempt that can be caſt upon him; to count the Blood of the Covenant, by which we are purified, it ſelf, κοινὸν, unclean; and polluting, can be only done by him who looks on Chriſt not as the Saviour of the World by it, but as one who deſerv'd to ſuffer what from the Jews he did: And to do deſpite to the Spirit of Grace, cannot well ſignifie leſs than that which our Lord ſtiles the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, which Men cannot commit, and in their Hearts continue Chriſtians.

Ver. 30. For we know him that ſaith (i. e. who introduceth God thus ſpeaking) Vengeance belongeth to me, I will recompenſe, ſaith the Lord; (Deut. 32. 35.) And again, (in the ſame place, ver. 36. ſaith of him) The Lord ſhall judge his People.

Saith the Lord, λέγει κύριος.] Theſe words are not to be found in many Manuſcripts; they are not in the Vulgar, Syriack, or Æthiopick Verſion; not in the Original, or in the Septuagint, and therefore ſeem to have crept in here from Rom. 12. 19. where inſtead of οἴδαμεν γὰρ τὸν εἰπόντα, we know him that ſpeaketh, we find, γέγραπται γὰρ, for it is written, which reading Chryſoſtom here hath, and without theſe words the Senſe runs better.

And again.] Not Pſalm 135. 14. the words there being taken from Deut. 32. 36. but in the ſame place, or in the following Verſe. So Chap. 2. 13. I will put my truſt in him, Iſa. 8. 17. καὶ πάλιν, And again, ver. 18. behold I, and the Children which God hath given me.

Ver. 31. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God, (who ever lives to puniſh thoſe who revolt from him. See Chap. 3. 12.)

Ver. 32. But call to remembrance (ἀναμιμνήσκεσθε δὲ, remember therefore) the former days in which after ye were illuminated, (i. e. baptized into the Chriſtian Faith, Chap. 6. 4.) you endured (couragiouſly) a great fight (Gr. conflict) of Afflictions. (For a great Perſecution then befel the Church which was at Jeruſalem, Acts 8. 2. 1 Theſ. 2. 14.)

Ver. 33. Partly while you were made a gazing Stock (or Spectacle,) both by Reproaches and Afflictions, and partly while ye became Companions of them that were ſo uſed, (Acts 5. 41. the Apoſtles, eſpecially Paul and Barnabas, Acts 14. 5, 19, 20. 17. 10, 14, 15.)

Ver. 34. For ye had Compaſſion of me in my Bonds, (Acts 20. 23. 21. 4, 11, 12, 13.) and took joyfully the ſpoiling of your Goods, knowing in your ſelves (by the teſtimony of that Spirit who is the earneſt of our future Inheritance, Epheſ. 1. 14. 4. 30.) that you have in Heaven a better, and an enduring ſubſtance.

Τοῖς δεσμοῖς μου, my Bonds.] Were this certainly the true Reading, it would fairly prove St. Paul the Author of this Epiſtle, but the other Reading, τοῖς δεσμίοις συνεπαθήσατε, you had compaſſion of them that were bound, is more likely to be the true Reading; for ſo reads the Alexandrian and two other Manuſcripts, the Syriack, the Vulgar Latin, and St. Chryſoſtom.

Ver. 35. Caſt not away therefore your Confidence, (παῤῥησίαν, your freedom in Profeſſion of the Faith,) which hath great Recompenſe of Reward; (for with the Mouth Confeſſion Confeſſion is made unto Salvation, Rom. 10. 10.)

Ver. 36. For ye have need of Patience, that after ye have done the Will of God, (i.e. have ſuffered according to his Will, 1 Pet. 4. 19.) ye may inherit the promiſe(d Reward.)

τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν, the Promiſe.] That is primarily the Recompence of Reward mentioned, ver. 35. So Chap. 11. 39. ἐπαγγελία, the Promiſe is the ſame with the Recompence of Reward, ver. 26. the things not ſeen but hoped for, which are the Objects of our Faith, ver. 1. But then this Epiſtle being directed to the believing Jews, who had both from their Prophets and from our Lord, a Promiſe, that in the great and terrible Day of the Lord, whoſoever ſhould call upon the name of the Lord ſhould be ſaved, Joel 2. 32. and that the ἐπαγγελιζόμενοι, ὃς κύριος προσκέκληται, i.e. they whom the Lord had called by his Goſpel ſhould be delivered, ibid. That when the Day was to come that burned like an Oven, then was the Sun of Righteouſneſs to riſe on them that feared him, with Healing on his Wings, Mal. 4. 1, 2. that he who endured to the end ſhall be ſaved, Matth. 24. 13. and Heb. 2. 3, 4. The Viſion is, עוֹד לִמּוֹעֵד, yet for a time then, now for a very little time, ὀλίγον ὅσον, with Patience wait for him (the (h) Meſſiah, ſay the Jews,) for he that cometh will come, and will not tarry. Wait for him, ſay the Jews, לְקַבֵּל שְׂכָר, to receive your Reward. Chriſt alſo having taught them by a Parable, that God would come, ἐν τάχει, ſpeedily to avenge his Elect, who cried unto him under Perſecutions Day and Night, Luke 18. I believe that the receiving this Promiſe verified to them, which tended ſo exceedingly to confirm their Faith, might be here intended, eſpecially if we conſider that the Apoſtle could not properly affirm of our Lord's coming to Judgment, that it was, μικρὸν ὅσον ὅσον, a very very little while, and he would come, and would not tarry.

Ver. 37. For (the Viſion of Habakkuk reſpecting the coming of Chriſt, and exhorting you to wait for him, ſaid then, Yet for a time, as I do now) yet a little while, and he that ſhall come, (Gr. ὁ ἐρχόμενος, he that cometh to Reward your Patience) will come, and will not tarry.

Ὁ ἐρχόμενος.] This is the peculiar Title given to the Meſſiah by the Jews, as we learn from the Baptiſt's Queſtion to him, σὺ εἶ ὁ ἐρχόμενος; Art thou he that ſhould come, or look we for another? Matth. 11. 3. and from the Hoſannas of the Jews, ſung to him in theſe Words, Bleſſed be, ὁ ἐρχόμενος, he that cometh in the Name of the Lord, Matth. 21. 9. And the Jews do not only interpret this Paſſage of him, but alſo encourage themſelves to wait for him, by this very Argument of the Apoſtle, לְקַבֵּל שְׂכָר, (i) That they may receive their Reward; for Bleſſed, ſay they; are all that hope in him, Iſa. 30. 18.

Ver. 38. (It alſo adds theſe words of Comfort to the Faithful, and Terrour to the Revolter, expect him, δίκαιος δέ,) For the Juſt ſhall live by his Faith; but if any Man draw back (ἐὰν ὑποστείληται, and if he draw back from it) my Soul (ſaith God) ſhall have no pleaſure in him.

Ver. 39. But we (I hope, Chap. 6. 9.) are not of them that draw back to Perdition, but of them that believe to the ſaving of the Soul.

Ὑποστείληται.] The Reverend Dr. Hammond hath ſhew'd from Phavorinus, and from Acts 20. 20, 27. Gal. 2. 12. that this word ſignifies to draw back, refuſe, and fly from a thing; and ſo the object of it being here Faith, muſt ſignifie his flying from, and drawing back from the Faith, or refuſing ſtill to profeſs it; and ſo, as it follows, muſt be his drawing back unto Perdition; and becauſe this is done uſually from fear of Perſecutions, hence is it joined with Fear, Gal. 2. 12. Peter, ὑπέστελλεν ἑαυτὸν, withdrew himſelf, fearing the Circumciſion; and ſometimes is put to ſignifie Fear, ſo Deut. 1. 17. μὴ ὑποστείλητε πρόσωπον ἀνθρώπου, you ſhall not be afraid of the Face of Man; and becauſe Mens cowardly Fears make them to hide, diſſemble, and play the Hypocrite, hence is it reckon'd by (k) Julius Pollux among the words which ſignifie to conceal and hide, and by Heſychius and Suidas is rendred, ὑποκρίνεται, δολιεύεται, he plays the Hypocrite, and deals deceitfully; all which, in things which do reſpect our God, and our Religion, are pernicious to the Soul, eſpecially if we conſider, that he that draws back, ſtands oppoſed, ver. 39. to him that Believeth, and therefore is an Unbeliever; and, ver. 38. to him that liveth by his Faith, and therefore can have none, or only a dead Faith: And laſtly, that God here ſolemnly declares, his Soul ſhall have no pleaſure in him, and then he muſt ſtill lie under his ſad Diſpleaſure.

Note 2dly, That ἐὰν δὲ ὑποστείληται, refers plainly to the Juſt Man, the Man who lives by his Faith; and, in the Prophet, to him that is with Faith and Patience to wait for the accompliſhment of the Viſion; and ver. 39. the ὑποστολέως, the drawer back, ſtands oppoſed to him that believeth to the Salvation of his Soul. The Words do therefore plainly ſuppoſe that the Juſt Man who lives by that Faith in which, if he perſiſted, he would ſave his Soul, may draw back unto Perdition. And this is alſo evident from the enſuing Words, My Soul ſhall take no pleaſure in him; for they do plainly intimate, that God took pleaſure in him before his drawing back, for otherwiſe this threat would ſignifie nothing, the Lord taking pleaſure in no Man but in juſt Men only, and ſuch as live by Faith.

(h) See Pug. fid. p. 212, 742. (i) See Pug. fid. p. 212, 354, 742. (k) Lib. 6. c. 53. p. 323. lin. 41.

Note 3dly, That ἐὰν ϛ may be rendred not Hypothetically, and if, but cum vero ſemet ſubtraxerit, but when he ſhall draw back, which I have ſhewn to be the common import of the Greek ἐὰν. Note on Chap. 3. 15. But if we read them Hypothetically, the ſuppoſition cannot be of a thing impoſſible, for then God muſt be ſuppoſed to ſpeak thus, If the Juſt Man do that which I know it is impoſſible for him to do, and which I am obliged by Promiſe to preſerve him from doing, my Soul ſhall have no pleaſure in him; which is to make God ſeriouſly to threaten Men for ſuch a Sin, of which they are not capable, and of which they are engaged to believe they are not capable, if they believe the Doctrine of Perſeverance, and ſo to threaten them to none effect.

CHAP. XI.

Ver. 1. NOW (the) Faith (by which the Juſt Man lives, Chap. 10. 38.) is the ſubſtance (or the firm expectation) of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen, (i. e. by which we are confirmed in the truth of them.)

Ὑπόστασις ϛῆ ἐλπιζομένων.] The word ὑπόστασις in the Old Teſtament anſwers either to the Hebrew, תקוה, which ſignifies Expectation, as Ruth 1. 12. Ἔϛι μοι ὑπόστασις; have I any expectation of an Husband? Ezek. 19. 5. ἀπώλεϛο ὑπόστασις αὐτῆς, her expectation was loſt; or to the word, תוחלת, which is of the ſame import as Pſal. 39. 7. ἡ ὑπόστασίς μου παρὰ σοί ἐϛι, my expectation is from thee. It alſo bears the ſame ſenſe in the New Teſtament, ſignifying there a confidence of expectation, as 2 Cor. 9. 4. leaſt we ſhould be aſhamed, ἐν τῇ ὑποϛάσει ταύτῃ ϛ καυχήσεως, in this confidence of boaſting. And Chap. 11. 17. That which I ſpeak, I ſpeak not after the Lord, but as it were fooliſhly, ἐν τῇ ὑποϛάσει ταύτῃ ϛ καυχήσεως, in this confidence of boaſting: And in this Epiſtle, Chap. 3. 14. We are made partakers of Chriſt, if we hold, ϛ ἀρχὴν ϛ ὑποϛάσεως, the beginning of our Confidence firm to the end. And this import of the Word accords beſt with the Inſtances of this Faith that follow, they being ſuch as generally conſiſted in the expectation of ſome future good, which, ſaith the Apoſtle, they have not yet received compleatly, ver. 39. hence is it that I render the words thus, Faith is the confidence or firm expectation of things hoped for.

Ver. 2. For by this the Elders (i. e. the Fathers before and ſince the Flood) obtained a good report, (or Teſtimony from God left on Record in Holy Scriptures.)

Ver. 3. Through (that) Faith (which is the Evidence of things not ſeen) we underſtand that the Worlds (the lower, middle, and ſuperiour World. See Note on Chap. 1. 2.) were fram'd by the Word of God, ſo that (the) things (of it) which are ſeen were not made of things which do (did then) appear, (but, ἐκ ϛῶν ἀοράτων, of things not then viſible, Gen. 1. 2.

Ver. 4. By Faith Abel offered to God a more excellent Sacrifice than (that of) Cain, by which (Faith) he obtained Witneſs, (i. e. a Teſtimony from God) that he was Righteous, (or accepted by him,) God teſtifying (his acceptance) of his Gifts, and by it he being dead yet ſpeaketh, (i. e. declareth by this Faith that God is a rewarder of the Righteous though they die.)

Πλείονα θυσίαν, a more excellent Sacrifice.] Philo in his Diſcourſe on this Subject, (De Sacr. Cain & Abel, p. 107.) makes the defect of Cain's Sacrifice to conſiſt in two things; 1ſt. That he did not offer it ſoon enough, but, μεθ' ἡμέρας, after certain Days. 2dly. That he did not offer of the firſt Fruits of the Earth, as did Abel of the firſt Fruits of his Sheep, but only of the Fruits; but there is no ground for either of theſe things in the Text, which ſeems to intimate that they both offered at the ſame time; nor doth it ſay that Cain offered not of the firſt Fruits of the Earth: The Apoſtle here plainly diſcovers that the thing which gave the preference to Abel's Sacrifice above that of Cain's, was his Faith, (viz.) that Faith which is the ſubſtance of things hoped for, or his expectation, or perſuaſion, that God would certainly reward thoſe who diligently endeavour to pleaſe him, in this, or in the other World. Accordingly the Targum of Jeruſalem, and Jonathan B. Uziel upon the place declare, That Cain denied there would be any future Judgment, or Rewards hereafter to the Juſt, and that Abel did maintain the contrary, that there ſhould be a future Recompenſe for the Righteous: And this he, being dead, yet preaches by his Faith; for this Faith which God ſo ſignally approved of, and confirmed with ſo great a Teſtimony, he will not ſuffer to go unrewarded, as he muſt do in one ſo quickly ſlain, becauſe God thus preferred his Sacrifice before his Brother's, if he did not Reward him in the other World. And therefore Philo ſays, that ſeeming to die as to this corruptible Life, ζῇ ϛ ἀφθάρϛῳ, ᾗ ϛ ἐν Θεῷ ζωῇ εὐδαίμονα, he lived the incorruptible and bleſſed bleſſed Life in God. L. Quod Deter. &c. p. 127. C D. To ſay, as do the Fathers, he yet ſpeaketh because he is ſtill celebrated in the World, is to ſay nothing proper to Abel, that being alſo true of all the other Patriarchs; and to refer this to the Cry of his Blood for Vengeance, is to refer it to that which ſeemeth not to be the commendation of his Faith, by which the Apoſtle here declares he ſpeaketh.

μαρτυρῶντος, God teſtified upon his Gifts.] That is, ſaith Theodotion, ἐπέμψεν, he cauſed Fire to deſcend from Heaven, and conſume his Sacrifice, and thereby teſtified his acceptance of it; ſo he diſcover'd his acceptance of the Sacrifice of Abraham, Gen. 15. 17. and of the Sacrifices of Aaron, Lev. 9. 24. of Gideon, Judg. 6. 21. of David, 1 Chron. 21. 26. of Solomon, 2 Chron. 7. 1. and of Elijah. 1 Kings 18. 38. And accordingly the Prayer of the Iſraelites for their King, runs thus, The Lord remember all thy Offerings, and turn to Aſhes thy Burnt-ſacrifice, Pſalm 20. 3. To this agrees the Interpretation of R. Solomon, and Eben-Ezra among the Jews, of Oecumenius, and Theophylact on the place; and (a) St. Jerom confirms it, by this Inquiry, Whence could Cain know that God accepted the Sacrifice of Abel, and rejected his, if the Interpretation of Theodotion was not true?

Ver. 5. By (virtue of this) Faith (that God would Reward thoſe that ſerve him, though in this World he might not do it) Enoch was tranſlated, that he ſhould not ſee Death, and was not found (on Earth,) becauſe God had tranſlated him (from it;) for before his Tranſlation, he had this Teſtimony (from God, Gen. 5. 22, 24.) that he pleaſed God.

Ver. 6. But without (this) Faith it is impoſſible to pleaſe him; for he that cometh to God (in way of Duty) muſt believe that he is, and that he is a Rewarder of them that diligently ſeek (to pleaſe) him. (To believe that he is, relates to that Faith which is the Evidence of things not ſeen, for God is inviſible; to believe that he is a Rewarder, to that Faith which is the Expectation of things hoped for).

Οὐκ ηὑρίσκετο, was not found on Earth, becauſe God had tranſlated him.] God killed him not, ſaith Onkelos: And this we may ſufficiently learn from the Story, Gen. 5. for of all the reſt mention'd in that Chapter, it is ſaid they died, but of him this is not ſaid, but only that he was not, becauſe God took him, ὅτι μετέθηκεν αὐτὸν ὁ Θεὸς, becauſe God tranſlated him, ſay the Septuagint, the Book of Wiſdom, and the Son of Syrac, Wiſd. 4. 10. Eccluſ. 44. 14. Moreover it is ſaid of Noah, and of Abraham, that they walked with God, Gen. 6. 9. 17. 1. but it is not ſaid that they were not, becauſe God took them; this Phraſe muſt therefore import ſomething which happen'd not to them. Many of the Hebrew Doctors ſay, That he was taken into Heaven, or into Paradiſe: He was taken into Heaven by the Word of the Lord, ſaith the Targum of Jonathan; He was tranſlated into Paradiſe, ſay the Arabick and Æthiopick Verſions; God ſhew'd him the Tree of Life, ſay R. Menechem, and Zoar in 2 Kings 2. 1. He tranſlated him into Paradiſe, ſay Kimchi and (b) Manaſſeh Ben Iſrael. Hence Munſter on the place ſpeaks thus, Aſſerunt noſtri hunc Enoch cum corpore & anima tranſlatum eſſe in Paradiſum. To be tranſlated, ſaith (c) Philo, is, μετοικίαν τελεωτάτην ἀπὸ θνητοῦ βίου πρὸς τὸν ἀθάνατον, to go from this mortal to immortal Life. The ſame was the Opinion of the Ancient Fathers, of (d) Irenæus, of (e) Pſeudo Juſtin, who ſaith, That they who roſe with Chriſt are with Enoch and Elias, ἐν τῷ παραδείσῳ, in Paradiſe. See others cited for this Opinion by Feuardentius upon Irenæus. Note laſtly, that this Tranſlation into Paradiſe was the fruit of his Faith, that Faith which was the Expectation of things hoped for, and that God would Reward his Diligence in ſeeking him; for ſince he by this Faith obtained this Teſtimony, that he pleaſed God, God could not take him hence in Diſpleaſure, but out of Favour to him.

In the 6th Verſe we have the Heathens Creed, That God is, and that he is the Rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him, without which the Apoſtle declares, 1ſt. That it was impoſſible for them to pleaſe God, and ſo God muſt either have laid upon them no Obligations to pleaſe him, or required what he knew to be impoſſible 2dly, That they could have no ſufficient Motives to ſerve him, or to come unto him in expectation of his Bleſſing upon them that did ſo, and therefore the Heathens embraced this as a Principle of Natural Religion, That God could not ſuffer it to go ill with good Men, either in Life or Death, but would be ſure to take care of, and provide good things for them. Thus (f) Socrates requeſts his Judges to receive this as a certain Truth, That a good Man living or dying, can be ſubject to no Evil, becauſe the Gods never neglect his Affairs; and this is commended by (g) Cicero and by (h) Jamblicus, as the great Principle which Philoſophy ſuggeſts, as an encouragement to Virtue. And if we believe that nothing is concealed from God, we muſt believe that which happens to the Friend of God, happens for the beſt, and that what ſeeming Evils happen to him, will do him good, in this, or in the other Life. (i) For he can never be neglected by the Gods, who is deſirous to be a vertuous and good Man, and as like to God as he is able; but, ἐπὶ τῷ ἀδίκῳ τἀναντία τούτων δεῖ διανοεῖσθαι, of the Wicked and Unjuſt Man we are to believe juſt the contrary. And thus again Jamblicus delivers as a great Principle of Philoſophy, (k) That if we believe there is a God, who is Lord of all Things, we muſt own that whatſoever is good and honeſt muſt be asked of him, for all Men give good things to them they love and rejoice in, and the contrary to them, to whom they are diſaffected, and therefore much more will the Gods do ſo. Another Principle alſo founded in the Nature of Man, and laid down by them as the Foundation of all Religion, was this, That if Piety were not advantageous to them, no Man would embrace it, it being natural to all Men to purſue their Advantage, and to decline the contrary. So (l) Arrian upon Epictetus, lays down this for an Axiom, That if Piety and Profit do not go together, Piety would be preſerved in none. His Reaſon is, becauſe nonothing is ſo natural to us as to affect and purſue our own Advantage, ſo that if you place what is Holy and Juſt in that which profits, you preſerve them; but if you ſeparate what is Honeſt from what is Advantageous, you deſtroy what is Juſt and Honeſt, as being weighed down by Profit. (m) Simplicius adds, That where is Profit there we place our Piety; and thence infers, That we cannot Love, Honour, Worſhip the Deity, whatſoever Reaſons may be alledged for ſo doing, if we conceive him hurtful and not profitable to us, becauſe every living Creature flies what is hurtful, and the Cauſes of them, and affects, and follows what is profitable: And this they learn'd from their Maſter (n) Epictetus, who lays the Foundation of all Religion upon this Principle, That where Profit is there is Piety.

Ver. 7. By Faith Noah being warned (by God) of things not ſeen as yet (i. e. of a future Deluge) moved with fear (of what God threatned,) prepared an Ark to the ſaving of his Houſe (from that Deluge,) by which he condemned the (old) World, (which would not believe his Prediction of this Deluge,) and became Heir of the Righteouſneſs which is by Faith.

Ver. 9. By Faith, (Gen. 12. 7, 13, 15.) he ſojourned in the Land of Promiſe, as in a ſtrange Country, dwelling in Tabernacles with Iſaac and Jacob, Heirs with him of the ſame Promiſe, (it being renew'd to Iſaac, Gen. 26. 3. and to Jacob, Gen. 28. 13.)

Ver. 10. For (God having ſaid unto him, I am thy Shield, and thy Reward ſhall be exceeding great, Gen. 15. 1.) he looked for a City which hath Foundations, (an Heavenly one, ver. 16. which cannot be ſhaken, Hebr. 12. 28.) whoſe builder and maker is God. (It being not a Building made with Hands, as thoſe on Earth, but eternal in the Heavens, 2 Cor. 5. 1. Hebr. 9. 11.)

Thy exceeding great Reward.] Thus the Jeruſalem Targum and that of Jonathan interpret this Phraſe, Fear not, the Reward of thy good Works ſhall be great in the World come. So ought we, ſaith Theophylact, to look to things above, and make no great account of thoſe on Earth.

Ver. 12. Therefore ſprung there even of one, and him as good as dead, (his Body being dead, and the Womb of Sarah dead, as to the Procreation of Children, Rom. 4. 19.) ſo many as the Stars in the Sky in multitude, and as the Sand which is on the Sea ſhore innumerable (according to God's Promiſe, Gen. 15. 5. 22. 17.)

Ver. 13. All theſe (forementioned that died, or all theſe Patriarchs) died in Faith, not having received the Promiſes, but having ſeen them afar off, and were perſuaded of them, and embraced them (as certain,) and confeſſed that they (themſelves) were (only) Strangers and Pilgrims upon Earth.

Τὰς ἐπαγγελίας.] Here note, that theſe words, ᾗ πεισθέντες, and were perſuaded, are neither to be found in the Ancient Verſions, nor the Greek Commentators. 2. That the Promiſes here mentioned as not received by theſe Patriarchs, cannot be temporal Promiſes, for, ἅπαντες οὗτοι, all theſe, as it cannot be referred to the whole Jewiſh Off-ſpring, ſince many of them, as the Apoſtle hath obſerved, Chap. 3. 18, 19. Chap. 4. 2, 6, 11. died in unbelief, ſo neither to Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob only; for, 1ſt. they are not all that died in Faith; and, 2dly, the ſame is ſaid of all in general, ver. 39. ἅπαντες οὗτοι, theſe all died in Faith, not having received the Promiſe. Now we find no temporal Promiſe made to Abel, and to Enoch, and that temporal Promiſe which God made to Noah he fulfilled. 2. The Text ſaith, They embraced them, confeſſing they were Strangers, and Pilgrims upon Earth; where the Apoſtle makes this inference, that they ſought another Country, that is an Heavenly, which makes it neceſſary to conceive that the Promiſes here mentioned, as not received, were as Oecumenius ſaith, τὰ ἐπουράνια, Heavenly Promiſes, τὰ μὲν τῆς βασιλείας τῶν οὐρανῶν, ἡ δὲ τῆς ἀναστάσεως, the Promiſe of the Kingdom of Heaven, and the Reſurrection, ſaith Theophylact. Thus (o) Philo ſaith, Οἱ μὲν Μωυσέως ἱεροὶ λόγοι ἐπιδημοῦντας παροικοῦντας, All the wiſe Men are introduced by Moſes as Strangers, their Souls coming from Heaven to travel here on Earth, and that they deſire to return thither, πατρίδα μὲν τὸν οὐράνιον χῶρον ἐν ᾧ πολιτεύονται ξένον ἢ δὲ παροικίαν τὸν περίγειον ἐν ᾧ παρῴκησαν νομίζουσαι, looking upon Heaven as the City where they dwell, and the Earth in which they travel as their place of Pilgrimage. And again, Πᾶσα μὲν ψυχὴ σοφοῦ πατρίδα μὲν ἔχειν, γῆν δὲ ξένην ἡγεῖται, the Soul of every wiſe Man looks on Heaven as his Country, the Earth as the place of his Pilgrimage. De Agric. p. 153. So did Abraham, ſaying, I am a Stranger and Sojourner with you, Gen. 23. 4. And Jacob calling the time he lived here the Tears of his Pilgrimage, Gen. 47. 9. So David, ſaying, I am a Stranger with thee, and a Sojourner as all my Fathers were, Pſalm 39. 12. The ſame he ſpeaks of the whole Jewiſh Nation, ſaying, 1 Chron. 29. 15. We are Strangers before thee, and Sojourners as were all our Fathers. And this he learn'd out of the Law, where God ſpeaks thus to them. Lev. 25. 23. The Land is mine, for ye are Strangers and Sojourners with me, ἐπήλυτοι μου, ſaith the Septuagint. Accordingly the Philoſophers taught that to die was to go into our Country, ὁδὸς ἡ πατρίδα ἡ ἀληθινὴ ἔθεν ἤλθομεν, to the true Country whence we came. Simpl. in Epict. p. 77.

Ver. 14. (I ſay, they died in Faith, or in firm Expectation not only of theſe Temporal, but of Spiritual and Heavenly Promiſes,) For they that ſay ſuch things (viz. that they even in the Land of Promiſe are Pilgrims and Strangers) declare plainly, that they ſeek a Country, (where they may reſt and dwell when this their Pilgrimage on Earth is ended.)

Ver. 15. And truly, if they had been (only) mindful of that Country from whence they came out, they might have had opportunity to have returned, (to it, i. e. from Canaan and Egypt to Ur of the Chaldeans.)

Ver. 16. But now (by this profeſſing themſelves Strangers and Pilgrims upon Earth, they declare) that they deſire a better Country, that is (not on Earth, where they profeſs they are but Strangers, but) an Heavenly; wherefore (the) God (of Heaven) is not aſhamed to be called their God (and to own them as his Sons and Children,) for he hath prepared for them a(n Heavenly) City.

Κρείττονος ὀρέγονται, they deſire a better Country.] The Ancient Jews declare, That the Earthly Canaan was a Type of the Spiritual Canaan; and the Promiſe of living in it for ever, was a Parable repreſenting their future Happineſs in the World to come. (p) It is written, all Iſraelites have their Portion in the World to come, as it is ſaid, and thy People ſhall be all juſt, they ſhall inherit the Land for ever, Iſa. 60. 21. This Land, ſaith (q) Maimonides, is a Parable, as if he ſhould ſay, the Land of the Living, and that is the World to come. And R. Menachen in Gen. 12. refers it to the Land which is above, water'd with Waters which are above. If they received this Parabolical Interpretation from the Patriarchs, here is the reaſon of their Faith, and Expectation of this better Country. Vain here is the Interpretation of Mr. le Clerk, both upon the 10th and the 16th Verſe; for, 1ſt. A City which has Foundations is, ſaith he, Jeruſalem, whereas in Abraham's time there was no ſuch City that he could expect; nor was that a City which could not be ſhaken, Hebr. 12. 28. it having been long ſince deſtroyed; nor was it a City whoſe Builder and Maker was God, but Man. Again, he expected a better Country, that is an Heavenly; i. e. the Land of Canaan which was an Antitype of Heaven; ſo Mr. le Clerk in flat Contradiction to the Apoſtle, ſaying the Country they expected was not that from whence they came out, ver. 14, 15. i. e. was not Canaan but an Heavenly Country; and he adds, God had provided for them a City, not Jeruſalem ſure, but an Heavenly City.

Οὐκ ἐπαισχύνεται, God is not aſhamed to be called their God.] i. e. The God of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob. To be their God and their Father is the ſame thing. Thus Jer. 31. 1. I will be the God of all the Families of Iſrael, ver. 9. is thus varied, I am a Father to Iſrael. I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People, 2 Cor. 6. 16. is ver. 18. I will be a Father to you, and you ſhall be my Sons and my Daughters. To be Sons of God is to be Heirs of God, Rom. 8. 17. to be Sons of the Reſurrection, Luke 20. 36. to inherit all things, Apoc. 20. 7. And the υἱοθεσία, or Adoption promiſed by God, is the Redemption of the Body from Corruption. See Note on Matth. 22. 31, 32. and on Rom. 8. 17, 23. and this is the reaſon why God taking upon himſelf the Title of their God and Father, anſwers this Title, by preparing for them a City.

Ver. 17. By Faith (in God's Power, v. 19.) Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Iſaac (laying him upon the Wood which was on the Altar, Gen. 22. 9.) and he that had received the Promiſes (of a numerous Seed to iſſue from him) offered up his only begotten Son.

Ver. 18. (Even him) Of whom it was ſaid (by God) that in Iſaac ſhall thy Seed be called.

Ver. 19. Accounting that God was able to raiſe him up even from the Dead, from whence alſo he received him in a Figure, (i. e. from his own dead Body, and the dead Womb of Sarah, Rom. 4. 19.)

Προσενήνοχεν, he offered up Iſaac.] So ſpeaks the New Teſtament twice, here, and James 2. 21. So the Jews conſtantly. (r) Philo informs us, That though the Fact was not perfected, yet was it preſerv'd in the Minds of the Readers, and mention'd in the Sacred Volumes as a thing entire, and abſolutely done. And to this day they pray, That (ſ) God would be gracious to them for the Merit of the Sacrifice of Iſaac; according to the Prayer which both the Targum of Jeruſalem and Jonathan mention on Gen. 22. 14. as made by Abraham, to this effect, viz. I beſeech thee, O God, by thy Mercies, that when the Sons of Iſaac ſhall offer to thee in the time of their Neceſſity, thou wiltſt be mindful of this binding of Iſaac. Hence have they framed this Story, That (t) when the Knife touched the Throat of Iſaac his Soul departed, and that when God ſaid, Lay not thy Hand upon the Lad, it return'd, and ſo he being dead revived. And truly, Abraham having done all that belong'd to him to do towards this offering his Son, and being fully reſolved to have gone through the Work, had not God's Call reſtrain'd him, may well be ſaid, in the Divine Conſtruction, to have actually done it; and to this ſome refer Abraham's receiving Iſaac from the dead in a Figure, he being thus ſnatch'd from the Jaws of Death, and reſtored to him, when he expected nothing but his Death.

Ver. 20. By Faith (or a firm Expectation that God would make good his Benediction) Iſaac bleſſed Jacob and Eſau, concerning things to come, (Gen. 27.)

Εὐλόγησεν ὁ Ἰσαὰκ, bleſſed Jacob.] It may be enquired how he could bleſs Jacob by Faith, when he knew not that it was Jacob? To this I Anſwer, That to the Bleſſing him by Faith, it was not neceſſary that he ſhould know him to be the Perſon he intended thus to Bleſs, but only that he ſhould feel the Divine Afflatus, or the Spirit of Prophecy upon him when he bleſſed him, that being ſufficient to confirm him, that his Benediction ſhould be eſtabliſhed by that God before whom he bleſſed him, and who guided his Lips and his Heart in it: And though we have tranſlated it as a Prayer, it mollly runs in the Future Tenſe, and may wholly be tranſlated as a Prophecy, and ſo it muſt be uter'd in Faith; and whereas it is objected further, that Iſaac thought he was Bleſſing Eſau, now ſo to bleſs him, as to make him Lord over his Brother, ver. 29. could not be ſpoken in Faith, becauſe the Oracle had before declar'd to Rebecca, that the Elder ſhould ſerve the Younger. I Anſwer, 1ſt. That this is rather an Argument againſt the truth of his Benediction, than the Faith of it; it rather proves that Iſaac ſhould not thus have bleſſed Eſau, than that he believed not what he ſaid: But indeed it proves neither, for Iſaac might feel ſuch a ſtrong Afflatus upon him, as might convince him that his Benediction derived from the Gift of Prophecy, and ſo would certainly be accompliſh'd whomſoever it concern'd. 2d. The Learned Biſhop of Ely on ver. 4. Anſwers, that either Rebecca had not acquainted Iſaac with the Oracle, or it ſeems he did not underſtand it as Rebecca did.

Ver. 22. By Faith Joſeph when he died made mention of the departing of the Children of Iſrael) out of Egypt, ſaying, God will ſurely viſit you, and bring you out of this Land, Gen. 50. 24.) and gave commandment concerning his Bones, (that they ſhould be carried with them when they return'd to Canaan, ver. 25. which was an evidence of his Faith in the Promiſe of God.)

Ver. 23. By (the) Faith (of his Parents, that God would ſend them a Deliverer) Moſes when he was born was hid three Months of his Parents, becauſe they ſaw he was a proper (Gr. comely) Child, (and therefore hoped he might be that Deliverer God had promiſed,) and (therefore) they were not (ſo) afraid of the King's Commandment, (as to deliver him up to be ſlain.)

ἀστεῖον, a comely Child.] He was, ſaith St. Stephen, ἀστεῖος τῷ Θεῷ, of a very excellent Beauty, Acts 7. 20. μεγάλῃ θεῷ, of a divine form, ſaith (u) Joſephus; of an (x) angelick form, ſay the Jews; He was, ſaith Juſtin, one, quem formæ pulchritudo commendabat, renowned for his Beauty. Joſephus alſo adds, that an Egyptian Scribe, to whoſe Predictions they gave great Credit, had foretold, (y) one ſhould be born of Iſrael, who if he came to Age ſhould grievouſly afflict the Egyptians, and bring out the Iſraelites from among them; and that God had by a Viſion declar'd to Amram, that this Child to be born to him ſhould deliver the Iſraelites out of Egypt; which, if true, gives a farther ground of their Faith.

Ver. 24. By Faith (in God's Promiſe of a Deliverance out of Egypt) Moſes when he was come to years of (diſcretion,) refuſed to be called the Son of Pharaoh's Daughter.

(z) Joſephus informs us, That when Pharaoh had put the Crown upon his Head, adopting him, as the Son of his Daughter, to be his Succeſſor, he let the Crown fall upon the ground, and ſtamped upon it with his Feet. But the words μέγας γενόμενος, being the very words uſed Exod. 2. 11. where it is ſaid, It came to paſs that when Moſes was grown, he went out unto his Brethren; the Apoſtle doubtleſs had relation to them, and interpreted his going out unto them, to be his owning himſelf to be one of them, It came into his Heart, ſaith Stephen, to viſit his Brethren, Acts 7. 23. i. e. to join himſelf to the afflicted Jews.

Ver. 25. Chuſing rather (by this owning himſelf to be one of them) to ſuffer Affliction with the People of God, than to enjoy (in Pharaoh's Court) the pleaſures of Sin for a ſeaſon.

Ver. 26. Eſteeming the Reproach of Chriſt greater Riches than all the Treaſures of Egypt, for he had reſpect unto the Recompence of Reward.

Τὸν ὀνειδισμὸν, &c. the Reproach of Chriſt.] The Seed of Abraham, even before they went down to Egypt, are ſtiled the Chriſts of God, Pſalm 105. 15. μὴ ἅπτεσθε τῶν χριστῶν μου, touch not my Chriſts. And the Prophet Habakkuk ſpeaking of God's Judgments upon Pharaoh, and God's Deliverance of them from him, ſaith, ἐξῆλθες εἰς σωτηρίαν λαῷ σου τοῦ σῶσαι τὸν χριστόν σου, thou wenteſt forth for the Salvation of thy People to preſerve thy Chriſt, Hab. 3. 13. So that the Reproach of Chriſt, may be the Reproach of the People of God, ver. 15. Moreover the Reproach which he and they ſuffer'd, was for their Faith in the promiſed Seed, and that was Chriſt, Gal. 3. 16. on which account it might be truly ſtiled the Reproach of Chriſt, as the Afflictions of the Apoſtle are ſtiled the Afflictions of Chriſt, Col. 1. 24. and he himſelf the Priſoner of Chriſt, Epheſ. 3. 1. as being the Reproach he ſuffer'd for his Faith in the promiſed Seed, which was Chriſt.

εἰς τὴν μισθαποδοσίαν, the Recompence of Reward] here mentioned, could not be Temporal, for Moſes came not into the Land of Canaan, nor could he expect any greater Bleſſings of that kind, than he might have had in Egypt. He therefore muſt have reſpect to ſome Spiritual and Heavenly Recompence.

Ver. 27. By Faith he forſook Egypt, not fearing the Wrath of the King (when he purſued after him, Exod. 14. 13.) for he endured as ſeeing him (preſent with them) who is inviſible (and therefore ſaid unto the People, v. 30. Fear ye not, ſtand ſtill, and ſee the Salvation of God, Exod. 14. 14.)

μὴ φοβηθεὶς, not fearing.] It is expreſly ſaid that Moſes when he fled from the Face of Pharaoh, feared, Exod. 2. 14. and it is farther evident from theſe Words of God to him, Go, return into Egypt, for all the Men are dead that ſought thy Life, Chap. 4. 19. And therefore they who refer this to that flight, ſay, he did not ſo fear his Wrath as to diſtruſt the Providence of God, in working a Deliverance to his People by his Hand. But his unwillingneſs when God commanded him to go back to Egypt, confutes this Gloſs. Others ſay, he feared not the Wrath of the King when he ſaid unto him, take heed to thy ſelf, ſee my Face no more, for in that day thou ſeeſt my Face thou ſhalt die, Exod. 10. 28. But then he had not forſook Egypt, and when he went from it, he did ſo by the Command of Pharaoh, Exod. 12. 31. and ſo needed not to fear him. Againſt the Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe, it is objected, that it agrees not with the Order of the Words, becauſe the Paſſover mention'd ver. 28. was kept in Egypt. But this Objection will be of little force, if we conſider that other things are mention'd in this Chapter out of the Order in which they were perform'd: Thus ver. 32. Gideon is mention'd before Barak, and Sampſon before Jephtha, as alſo ver. 33, 34, 35, 36.

Ver. 28. By Faith (in God's Promiſe, that upon ſeeing the Blood of the Paſchal Lamb upon the upper Door Poſts, and the two ſide Poſts of the Houſes of the Iſraelites, he would paſs over them, when he ſlew the firſt-Born of the Egyptians, Exod. 12. 13, 23.) he kept the Paſſover, and (obſerved) the ſprinkling of (the) Blood (of it, and this he did) leſt he that deſtroyed the firſt-Born (See Note on 1 Cor. 10. 10). ſhould touch them.

Ver. 31. By Faith the Harlot Rahab periſhed not with them that believed not, (which Faith ſhe teſtified) when ſhe received the Spies with Peace.

She teſtified her Faith, not only by preſerving thus the Spies, but by ſaying to them, I know that the Lord hath given you this Land, Joſh. 2. 9. and again, The Lord your God he is God in Heaven above, and on Earth beneath, ver. 11.

Ver. 32. And what ſhall I more ſay, for the time would fail me (ſhould I proceed) to tell of Gideon, (who through Faith overthrew the Madianites, Judges 7.) and of Barak, (who ſlew the Canaanites, Judges 4.) and of Sampſon, (who vexed the Philiſtines,) and of Jephtha, (who ſlew the Ammonites, Judg. 11.) and of David alſo, and Samuel, and of the Prophets.

Ver. 36. And others had tryal of cruel Mockings, (2 Maccab. 7. 7, 10.) and Scourgings (μαστιγώσεις, Joſeph 12. 7. 2 Maccab. 6. 30. 7. 1, 37.) yea moreover of Bonds and Impriſonment (as Joſeph, Sampſon, Jeremiah.)

Ver. 37. They were ſtoned, (as Zachariah, 2 Chron. 24. 21.) they were ſawn aſunder, (σάωνται λυμαινόμενοι, Joſ. ibid. Iſaiah by Manaſſeh. See Buxt. Lex. p. 1360.) were tempted (or, ἐπυρώθησαν, they were ſcorched and fryed, 2 Maccab. 7. 5.) were ſlain with the Sword, (1 Maccab. 2. 38.) they wandred about in Sheep ſkins and Goet ſkins, (Elijah, 1 Kings 19. 13, 19. 2 Kings 2. 8, 14.) being deſtitute, (as Elijah when fed by Crows, 1 Kings 17. 4.) afflicted, tormented, (Gr. evilly entreated, 1 Kings 19. 10.)

Ἐπυράσθησαν.] That this is not the right Reading, may eaſily be gather'd from this one Conſideration, that after two ſuch great Puniſhments, as Stoning and being Sawn aſunder, it is very improper to introduce their being tempted, which ſignifies no certain kind of Puniſhment at all, and is included in all the other Puniſhments here mentioned. Some therefore read ἐπυρώθησαν, ſome ἐπυρώσαν, ſome ἐπρήσθησαν, all ſignifying they were burnt; which Reading agrees well with the Story of the Maccabees, where they bring Eleazer and the Young Men, ἐπὶ τὸ πῦρ καταλέγοντες αὐτούς, to the Fire and burnt their Fleſh, ſo that, Joſephus (from c. 6. to c. 12.) ſaith they were, ὡς ἐπὶ πυρὶ μεταχωματιζόμενοι εἰς ἀφθαρσίαν, as one might ſay, tranſlated in the Fire to incorruption. But yet I prefer the Opinion of thoſe who think this was an Errour ariſing, in ἀπήγγειλεν, from writing the ſame Word twice, or rather that ſome who knew not what ἐπειράσθησαν meant, writ for it ἐπυρώθησαν, and ſo in time they came to be both written, becauſe the Syriack Verſion hath not ἐπυρώθησαν. (a) Euſebius cites St. Paul's Words thus, ἐλιθάσθησαν, ἐπειράσθησαν, ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον. (b) Tertullian Paraphraſes them thus, Hieremias lapidatur, Eſaias ſecatur, Zacharias inter Altare & Ædem trucidatur. (c) Clemens of Alexandria reads thus, ἐλιθάσθησαν, ἐπυρώθησαν, ἐν φόνῳ, &c. which gives juſt ground to conjecture that ſome ignorant Writer put ἐπυρώθησαν for ἐπειράσθησαν. This fault is very viſible in the Tranſcriber of (d) Origen, for in his Fourth Homily on Jeremy we read in the Greek, ἐπειράσθησαν, ἐπυρώθησαν, but in the old Tranſlation there is only ſecti, occiſione gladii occubuerunt. And in the Fifteenth Homily, (e) ἄλλον ἐλιθοβόλησαν, ἄλλον ἔπριαν, ἄλλον ἐπάταξαν, which ſhews that Origen did not own the word ἐπυρώθησαν; and though we find the word again in his Homilies on (f) St. Matthew, yet whoſoever reads the place will find that Origen takes no notice of it, but proceeds immediately from ἐπειράσθησαν to ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, ſaying, the word ἐπειράσθησαν refers to Iſaias, and the words ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, to Zacharias. In his Fourth Dialogue againſt Marcion, p. 125. he proves that the Prophets were not Phantoms, but Men conſiſting of Fleſh and Blood, becauſe, ἐπὶ ἐπείσθη σαρκὶ, ὁ μὲν ἐλιθάσθη, οἱ δὲ λοιποὶ ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, one of them was ſawn aſunder, another was ſton'd, and the reſt were killed by the Sword: And in his Exhortation to Martyrdom, p. 232. he adds, The Writer of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews ſaith, ἐλιθάσθησαν, ἐπειράσθησαν, ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, they were ſton'd, they were ſawn aſunder, they were ſlain with the Sword, from all which places it is evident, that ἐπειράσθησαν was the reading followed by the Ancients.

Ver. 38. (And though they were Men) Of whom the World was not worthy, (yet) they wandred in Deſerts (1 Maccab. 2. 29.) and in Mountains (ver. 28.) and in Dens and Caves of the Earth, (2 Maccab. 6. 11.)

Ver. 39. And theſe all having obtain'd a good Report through Faith, (μαρτυρηθέντες, having obtain'd a Teſtimony from God, or from his Word that they pleaſed him through Faith, notwithſtanding) received not the Promiſes (of an Heavenly Country, ver. 13, 16. not the Recompence of Reward, ver. 26. not the better Reſurrection, ver. 35.)

Ver. 40. God having provided (Gr. foreſeen) ſome better thing for us, (and ſo deferring the completion of that Promiſe, till we alſo ſhould be made partakers of it,) that ſo they without us ſhould not be made perfect.

Οὐκ ἐκομίσαντο τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν, or as ſome Copies read, τὰς ἐπαγγελίας, received not the Promiſes.] Theſe words being the ſame with thoſe in ver. 13. of this Chapter, all theſe died in Faith, μὴ λαβόντες τὰς ἐπαγγελίας, not having received the Promiſes, it is reaſonable to interpret them to the ſame ſenſe, viz. of their not having receiv'd the Heavenly Kingdom, and bleſſed Reſurrection they expected. And ſo the whole current of this Epiſtle will force us to interpret them; for 'tis the Promiſe of entring into reſt after we have ceaſed from our Labour here on Earth, Chap. 4. 1, 10. the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Chap. 9. 15. the Promiſe we are to receive after we have patiently done the Will of God, Chap. 10. 36.

Κρεῖττόν τι περὶ ἡμῶν, ſome better thing concerning us.] Our hope entring into the Veil by reaſon of our Forerunner entring in thither firſt, Chap. 6. 19, 20. we having an High-Prieſt made higher than the Heavens, Chap. 7. 26. ſet on the Throne of Majeſty in the Heavens, Chap. 8. 1. who by his Death hath procured, that they which are called might receive the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Chap. 9. 15. and who hath by his entrance into this Holy Place with his Blood, purified and prepared theſe Holy Places for us, ver. 23, 24. the way into which was not before opened, ver. 8. and given us freedom of entrance into the Holieſt through the Blood of Jeſus, by this new way which he hath conſecrated through his Fleſh, Chap. 10. 20. We being therefore come to that Mount Sion, the City of the living God, to the Heavenly Jeruſalem, and to the Spirits of juſt Men made perfect, Chap. 12. 22.

Ἵνα μὴ χωρὶς ἡμῶν τελειωθῶσι, that they without us may not be made perfect.] This all the Fathers interpret of their receiving their Crowns, or their Rewards hereafter. Thus of Abel and Noah, St. Chryſoſtom ſaith, That they might not be crowned before us, ἵνα ὥσιν πᾶσι μιᾷ στεφάνων καιρὸν, God hath appointed one time of Coronation for them all. Οὐδέπω μιᾷ στεφάνων ἐπύλωσαν, they have not yet obtained their Crowns, ſaith Theodoret, God expecting ſtill thoſe that are to combat, that he may proclaim them Victors all together. (g) Origen having cited this place, ſaith thus, You ſee that Abraham yet expects to obtain Perfection, yea Iſaac and Jacob, and all the Prophets expect us, that with us they may obtain perfect Bliſs. Yea, he ſays the ſame not only of all the Saints of the New Teſtament, but even of the Bleſſed Apoſtles, ſaying, (h) Even the Apoſtles have not yet received their Joy, but wait that I might be partaker with them; nor do the Saints departed obtain the full Reward of their good Actions, but ſtill wait for us. Nor did the Primitive Fathers mean this only of their Bodies, but alſo of their Souls, which they conceived not to be exalted to the higheſt Heavens, or that they had not yet received their full Reward, yea that they were not to expect it till the Day of Judgment, ſee Note on 2 Tim. 4. 8. and therefore I cannot but wonder to hear a very learned Perſon in his Note on this place, ſaying, It will be acknowledged by all that then, i. e. at our Saviour's Reſurrection, the Patriarchs received this Promiſe, or that the Sufferers here mentioned then received it, eſpecially when the Apoſtle here ſaith, They were tortured not accepting a deliverance, that they might obtain a better Reſurrection, ver. 35. which ſure they have not yet obtained: And more admire that this ſhould by him be interpreted of deliverance from their Perſecutors, and reſt from Perſecutions, for is this Promiſe fulfilled to Chriſtians? to them who if they will live Godly muſt ſuffer Perſecutions? and through many Tribulations enter into the Kingdom of God? and do they who were thus Tortured find this Perfection with us? or had they any other Reſt or Freedom from them, than what Death gave them? Surely the Expoſition of all the Ancient Fathers, is much to be preferred before this new and ſingular Invention; as alſo before the New Doctrine of the Florentine Council, That the Souls of Saints departed do already behold the Face of God in Heaven.

CHAP. XII.

Ver. 1. Wherefore we alſo being compaſſed about with ſuch a Cloud (i. e. a multitude) of Witneſſes, let us (who are to run our Chriſtian Race) lay aſide every weight (of worldly Cares and Affections,) and the Sin which eaſily beſets (and circumvents) us, (and ſo hinders our Feet from making a due Progreſs in it,) and let us run with Patience the Race that is ſet before us.

Νέφος, a Cloud] for a Multitude is a Phraſe uſed by Homer, who calls a multitude of Footmen νέφος σιζῶν, which (a) Virgil thus tranſlates, Inſequitur nimbus peditum; this Cloud of Witneſſes therefore contains all the Worthies mentioned in the former Chapter, who by their Words and Actions have teſtified how much the Objects of their Faith were valued before all worldly Things, and how equitable it was to endure Afflictions, not accepting a deliverance, that they might obtain a better Reſurrection.

Τὴν εὐπερίσατον ἁμαρτίαν, the Sin that eaſily beſets us.] The Apoſtle being here ſpeaking of the Chriſtians Race, this Phraſe is beſt interpreted with relation to it, and ſo it muſt reſpect the Sin which cleaves to our Affections, which are the Feet of the Soul, like a long Garment wrapt about us, and ſo hinders the running of our Chriſtian Race; for it is either our Affection to, and our deſire of what we ought not to deſire, or affect at all, or which we ought not comparatively to affect, or deſire, which gives the riſe and prevalence to all Temptations to Sin, and renders ſelf-denial ſo exceeding difficult.

Ver. 2. Looking unto Jeſus (who by his Prophetick Office was) the Author and (by his Regal Office will be) the finiſher of our Faith, who for the Joy that was ſet before him (as the Reward of his Sufferings) endured the Croſs, deſpiſing the Shame (of it,) and (therefore) is ſet down at the Right Hand of the Throne of God.

Ἀφορῶντες, &c. looking to Jeſus,] as an Example of Patience under Sufferings, fit to be imitated by his Diſciples, and as one glorioufly recompenſed in his humane Nature for the Sufferings he ſuſtained in it, and as one who will give to us the ſame happy Repoſe after our Sufferings; He having, as the Author of our Faith, promiſed, and being able, as the Finiſher of our Faith, to confer that glorious Recompence, Chap. 10. 35, 36.

Ἀντὶ τῆς προκειμένης αὐτῷ χαρᾶς, for the Joy ſet before him.] That ἀντὶ is uſed for the final Cauſe appears from theſe Examples in the New Teſtament; He gave himſelf a Ranſom, ἀντὶ πολλῶν, for many, Matth. 20. 28. Render not evil, ἀντὶ κακοῦ, for evil, Rom. 12. 17. Her Hair was given, ἀντὶ περιβολαίου, for a covering, 1 Cor. 11. 15. Ἀντὶ τούτου, For this cauſe ſhall a Man leave Father and Mother. And here, ver. 16. ἀντὶ βρώσεως μιᾶς, for one morſel of Bread he ſold his Birthright. See 1 Theſ. 5. 15. 1 Pet. 3. 9. Note alſo, that the Apoſtle goes on in his Agoniſtical terms,

and having ſpoken, ver. 1. of the προκειμένου ἡμῖν ἀγῶνος, the Race ſet before us to run, he here ſpeaks in the ſame Language of the Joy ſet before our Saviour in his Race, that is, of the βραβεῖον, the Prize, or Crown placed in his view for his Encouragement to run it. It being the Cuſtom in thoſe Games (b) to hang the Crown at the end of the Goal, that he who came firſt to it might ſnatch it, or lay hold of it: The Joy ſet before him muſt therefore be the Proſpect of that Majeſty and Glory, Power and Dominion he, in his Humane Nature, was to be inveſted with, as the Reward of theſe his Sufferings. He for the ſuffering of Death being crowned with Majeſty and Honour, Hebr. 2. 9. God having therefore highly exalted him, and given him a Name above every Name, Philip. 2. 9. And thus we have juſt cauſe to look upon him as an Example of Faith and Patience, and of God's eſpecial Favour to them that ſuffer for his ſake.

Ver. 3. For conſider you him, who (being ſo excellent a Perſon, and ſo dear to God, yet) endured (patiently) ſuch contradiction of Sinners againſt himſelf, (ſuch Blaſphemies againſt his Doctrine, ſuch Calumnies againſt his Perſon, ſuch malicious and unwearied Attempts againſt his Life) leſt ye be wearied and faint in your mind, (under the conflict of Afflictions ye endure.)

Ἵνα μὴ κάμητε ἐκλυόμενοι.] Theſe alſo are two Agoniſtical Terms; the one ſignifies to be weary, as in thoſe words of (c) C. Marcius, Νικῶσιν οὐκ ἔστι τὸ κάμνειν, Conquerours muſt not be weary, and ſo give over the Fight; the other to faint and be diſpirited, ſo that we can run, or fight no longer: And becauſe in thoſe Combats they fought, ὀρθοστάδην, ſtanding upright, and, χεῖρας ἐκτεινούσης, ſtretching out their Hands, therefore the Apoſtle exhorts them in their Spiritual Combat to ſtretch out the Hands that hang down, and, ἀνορθοῦν, to erect their feeble Knees, v. 12. Faber. Agon. l. 1. c. 8.

Ver. 4. (For which Fainting you have no ſuch cauſe as this Captain of Salvation, and this Cloud of Witneſſes had,) For ye have not yet reſiſted unto Blood (as they did) ſtriving againſt ſin.

Ἀντικατωνιζόμενοι μέχρις αἵματος.] This is another Agoniſtical Expreſſion belonging to the Pugiles, who were oft beſmeared with Blood, and ſometimes died under the Blows they received from the Clubs of their Adverſary. Faber. Agon. l. 1. c. 7.

Ver. 5. And (by your proneneſs to grow weary, and even faint under the Combat) you ſeem to have forgotten the Exhortation which ſpeaketh to you as to Children, (thus) My Son deſpiſe not (be not ſlothful and diſpirited under) the Chaſtning of the Lord, nor faint when thou art Rebuked of him, (Prov. 3. 11, 12.)

Μὴ ὀλιγώρει.] Ὀλιγωρεῖν is, ſay Phavorinus and Heſychius, ἀμελεῖν, ῥᾳθυμεῖν, to be unregardful of, to be ſlothful, ὀλίγωρος, μικρόψυχος, to be Creſt fallen, ἀναπίπτειν, animo concidere, to faint and be diſpirited. Τὸ ἀναπίπτον καὶ εἰκῆ ψυχῷ ὂν, οἷον ἀθυμοῦν, ὀλιγωρεῖν. Athen. Deipnoſ. l. 1. p. 23. B.

Ver. 6. For whom the Lord loveth he Chaſtneth, and Scourgeth every Son whom he receiveth (into that Relation.)

Ver. 7. If ye (then) endure Chaſtning, God dealeth with you as (a Father) with (his) Sons, for what Son is there whom the Father Chaſtneth not (for his Offences)?

Ver. 8. For if (εἰ δέ, but if) ye be without (ſuch) Chaſtiſements, whereof all (Sons) are partakers, then are you (treated as) Baſtards (whom the reputed Parent diſregards) and not (as) Sons (whom he loves, ver. 6.)

Hence the Jews ſpeak thus, Wo to the Man who goeth out of the World without Tribulations. Buxt. Lex. p. 1528.

Ver. 9. Furthermore (εἰ δέ, and if) we have had Fathers of our Fleſh which corrected us, and (yet) we gave them Reverence, (and Honour, in expectation of the long Life promiſed to them that do ſo, Exod. 20. 12.) ſhall we not much more be in ſubjection to the Father of our Spirits, (who gives, and who recalls our Spirits at pleaſure,) and (ſo) live (everlaſtingly)?

Τῷ πατρὶ τῶν πνευμάτων, the Father of Spirits.] This Phraſe is not here put to ſignifie the Author of our new ſpiritual Birth, for ſpiritual Graces and Diſpoſitions are never called, πνεύματα, Spirits in Scripture; nor is the Holy Spirit, who produceth them, ever mention'd in the Plural, when they are ſpoken of. It plainly is an Hebrew Phraſe, uſed twice by Moſes when he ſpeaks thus to God, Oh God of the Spirits of all Fleſh, Numb. 16. 22. and again, Let the Lord, the God of the Spirits of all Fleſh, ſet a Man over the Congregation, Numb. 27. 16. And he is ſo ſtiled both as the Creator of them, or that God who formeth the Spirit of Man within him, Zach. 12. 1. and the Preſerver and Governor of them; the God in whoſe Hand is the Soul of all living, and the Spirit of all Fleſh of Man, Job 12. 10. and into whoſe Hands they do return at Death, Eccleſ. 12. 7. according to that old Tradition of the Heathens preſerved in (d) Epicharmus, That Man dying, ἀπῆλθεν ὅθεν ἦλθε πάλιν, γᾶ μὲν εἰς γᾶν, πνεῦμα δ' ἄνω, returns from whence he came, his earthly part to the Earth, his Spirit upwards. And the Tradition of the Hebrews, That (e) in the time of our Diſſolution God comes and takes away his Part, and leaves the Part of our Father and Mother, ſtiled here the Fathers of the Fleſh. (f) Joſephus ſaith, That at the Formation of Adam God made Man out of the Earth, and ſent into him a Soul and Spirit. (g) Philo ſaith, That his Body was indeed made of Earth, ſhaped into Humane Form, but his Soul was only derived from the Maker and Governour of all Things, and this was ſignified by theſe Words, He breathed into him the Breath of Life; ſo that, though according to his viſible Part he was Mortal, as to his inviſible he was Immortal. Hence ſaith the Targum of Jonathan on Numb. 16. 22. 27. 16. It is God that putteth the Spirit of the Soul in the Bodies of all Men. And the Targum of Jeruſalem, It is God who ruleth over the Souls of all Fleſh. See Pug. Fid. p. 401.

(b) He did, ſaith Plutarch, καθελὼν ἀπὸ σίφανον χρυσοῦν. Περὶ φιλοπλουτίας, p. 523. And I run, ſaith the Apoſtle, ἐπικατείνω δὲ τὸ βραβεῖον, Philip. 3. 14. See Fab. Agoniſt. l. 2. c. 27.

Ver. 10. For they verily for a few days chaſtned us after their own pleaſure, (Gr. as ſeemed beſt to them) but he (our Heavenly Father) doth it for our own Profit, that we might be partakers of his Holineſs.

Πρὸς ὀλίγας ἡμέρας,] ſeems not here to refer to the Days of Childrens Minority, for that makes nothing to the purpoſe of the Apoſtle's Argument, and the motive to ſuffer Divine Chaſtiſements uſed by the Scripture, is not that they are long, but that they are but for a very little while, Hebr. 10. 37. momentary, 2 Cor. 4. 17. ὀλίγον ἐστι, but for a little, 1 Pet. 1. 6. nor is κατὰ τὸ δοκοῦν αὐτοῖς, after their pleaſure, but as it ſeemed good to them: This therefore ſeems to be the meaning of the Words, That earthly Parents Chaſtiſe their Children, aiming at that which ſeems beſt for them in this preſent Life, conſiſting of few Days, or for their Temporal Good in this Life, but God doth it for their Spiritual and Eternal Benefit, to make them here partakers of his Holineſs, and ſo to fit them for the peaceable Fruits of Righteouſneſs hereafter.

Ver. 11. (Nor let it diſcourage you that theſe Afflictions ſeem grievous to the Fleſh, πᾶσα γ,) For no Temptation for the preſent ſeemeth joyous, but grievous (to it); nevertheleſs afterward it yieldeth the comfortable Fruits of Righteouſneſs to them that are exerciſed thereby, (i.e. Thoſe Fruits of Righteouſneſs which end in Peace.)

The word γεγυμνασμένοις uſed here, ſhews that the Phraſe is Agoniſtical, and taken from the Exerciſes performed by them Naked in the Olympick Games, where one of the Crowns given to the Victors being, εἰρεσιώνη ἐλαίας of Olive, the Symbol of Peace, hence Faber conceives the Chriſtians Crown is here repreſented by the peaceable Fruit of Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 12. Wherefore lift up the Hands which hang down (as if wearied with, and giving over the Combat) and (ſtrengthen) the feeble Knees (which ſeem unable to ſtand firm, or run on this Race with Patience. See Note on ver. 3.)

Ver. 13. And (ſo) make (ποιεῖτε, ye will make) ſtreight Paths for your Feet (to walk in,) leſt that which is lame be turned out of the way, but let it rather be healed, (Gr. ἵνα μὴ, that that which is Lame may not be turned out of the way, but rather may be healed.)

Τροχιὰς ὀρθὰς.] i. e. Make ſtreight Paths in the Way of Chriſtianity, not ſtepping out of it to avoid Perſecution, that they who are already Lame and Feeble may not be moved by your Example to go out of it, but rather by your Conſtancy in it may be confirm'd.

Ver. 14. (And in order thereto) Follow Peace with all Men, and Holineſs, without which no Man ſhall ſee the Lord.

i. e. Be of a pure and peaceable Converſation towards all with whom you do converſe; for as this is neceſſary in order to your living with God, ſo will it tend much to prevent the Perſecutions of Men.

Ver. 15. Looking diligently leſt any Man fail of the Grace, (Gr. ὑστερῶν ἀπὸ, fall from the Grace of God) leſt any root of bitterneſs ſpringing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled.

That ὑστερεῖσθαι ἀπὸ, is the ſame with ἀφίστασθαι, to depart from the Grace of God which brings Salvation, or to depart from the Faith, and by ſo doing fall ſhort of the promiſed Reſt, Hebr. 4. 1. The Words of the Apoſtle, and his Scope, which is to preſerve the Jews from Backſliding from Chriſtianity to Judaiſm, and the following Exhortation, not to refuſe him that ſpeaketh now, ver. 25. And, ἔχειν τὴν χάριν, to retain and hold faſt the Grace of God, ver. 28. ſufficiently ſhew. But this is ſtill more clear from the Words of Deut. 29. 18. whence this whole Verſe is taken, which runs thus, μὴ τίς ἐστιν ἐν ὑμῖν——τινὸς ἡ διάνοια ἐξέκλινεν ἀπὸ κυρίου, leſt there be among you any Man or Woman whoſe Heart turneth away from the Lord our God, to go and ſerve the gods of the Nations, μὴ τίς ἐστιν ἐν ὑμῖν ῥίζα ἄνω φύουσα ἐν χολῇ, καὶ πικρίᾳ, leſt there ſhould be among you a Root ſpringing with Gall and Wormwood. Which makes it probable that the true Reading here should be not ἐνοχλῇ, but ἐν χολῇ.

Ver. 16. Lest there be any Fornicator or Profane Person (among you, such) as was Esau, who for one morsel of Meat sold his birthright.

Πρωτότοκια, the Birthright] which Esau sold contain'd these Privileges, 1. A double Portion of his Father's Goods, Deut. 21. 17. 2. Power and Dominion over the Younger, for he succeeded in the Government of the Family, or Kingdom. Reuben thou art my first-born, the Excellency of Dignity, and the Excellency of Power, Gen. 49. 3. The Kingdom gave he to Jehoram, because he was the first-born, 2 Chron. 21. 3. This Isaac gave to Jacob in these words, Be thou a Master to thy Brethren, and let thy Mother's Sons bow down to thee, Gen. 27. 29. 3. The Honour of Priesthood in their own Family at least. So Exod. 24. 5. He sent the young Men (Vulg. the first-born) of the Sons of Israel, and they offered Burnt Offerings, and sacrificed Sacrifices, to Jehovah. Afterwards the Levites were taken into the Service of God, instead of all the first-born among the Children of Israel, Numb. 3. 41. consecrated before to God, Exod 22. 29. Numb. 8. 17. Gen. 25. 29. This Birthright Esau sold when he was faint, ἐλεόντων, and this shews how proper this instance is to preserve them from being wearied and faint in their Mind.

The Targum of B. Uziel saith, That he was made faint by committing Idolatry, shedding innocent Blood, and going in to a Damsel betrothed that day, and this shews him a fornicator both in the Spiritual and Carnal Sense, and a profane Person. And lastly, Mercer saith, Primogenituram Hæreditatem cœlestem adumbrasse, that the Primogeniture was a Type of their Celestial Inheritance; which also seems to be hinted by the Paraphrases on the Place, for that of Uziel saith, He denied the Life of the World to come, and contemn'd his Birthright: And the Targum of Jerusalem, That he contemn'd his Birthright, and despised his part in the Life to come, and denied the Resurrection; and as this shews his Profaneness, so also doth it shew the appositeness of this Example to the Apostle's purpose.

Ver. 17. For ye know that afterwards when he would have inherited the Blessing (he had lost,) he was rejected by his Father, (saying of Jacob, I have blessed him, and he shall be blessed,) for he found no place of Repentance, (no change of the Blessing pronounced by his Father,) though he sought it carefully with Tears, (crying with an exceeding great and bitter cry, Gen. 27. 34.)

Ἐκζητήσας μὲτ δακρύων αὐτὸν.] Though these words thus expounded do not immediately prove that true Repentance may find no acceptance with God, yet are they design'd to insinuate that Men may so despise the Blessings of Christianity, as to be after thought unworthy to enjoy them; that by their Apostacy they may fall so entirely from God, as that he will not be prevailed on by their Tears to restore them to their lost and despised Privileges upon their Tears and Fastings; as is apparent in the Case of the Jews, who have large times of Penance and Humiliation, but are not, to this day, restored to the Grace and Favour of God, and to the Privilege of being his peculiar People, and First-born as once they were.

Ver. 18. For ye (believing Jews) are not come, (as your Forefathers when they entred into the old Covenant with God,) unto the Mount that might be touch'd, (and so you might die, Exod. 19. 12.) and that burn'd with fire, (Gr. to the burning Fire, Deut. 5. 23.) and to the blackness and darkness (caused by the Cloud stiled, νεφέλη γνοφώδης, Exod. 19. 16.) and to the Tempest (of Thunder and Lightning, Deut. 5. 22.)

Ver. 19. And the sound of a (the) Trumpet (exceeding loud, which made the People tremble, Exod. 19. 16.) and the (great) voice of Words, which (was so terrible that) they that heard (it) entreated that the Word should not be spoken to them any more (lest they died for it, Exod. 20. 19. Deut. 5. 25. 18. 16.)

Ver. 20. For they could not endure that which was commanded, (that severe cautionary Command which runs thus) That if so much as a Beast touched the Mountain it should be stoned, or thrust thorow with a Dart.

Τὸ διαστελλόμενον.] Διαστέλλομαι signifies to Command with Vehemence or Severity, Matth. 16. 20. Mark 5. 43. 8. 15.

Ver. 21. And so terrible was the sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly quake and tremble.

Μωϋσῆς εἶπεν, Moses said.] This Interpreters think St. Paul received by Tradition of his Ancestors, though no Footsteps of this Tradition have been found among them. But doubtless the Apostle had respect to Deut. 9. where, ver. 15. Moses sees the Mount burning up to Heaven; and ver. 19. saith, ἔκφοβός εἰμι, I exceedingly fear.

Ver. 22. But ye are come (under the Gospel Dispensation to things of a more excellent Nature, not apt to terrifie and discourage, but create Joy and Comfort to you, not as then to Mount Sinai, but) to Mount Zion, (whence you expect all your Spiritual Blessings, not to the Terrestrial Jerusalem which is in Bondage with her Children, Gal. 4. 25. but) to the City of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, not to thousands of Angels attending on God as at Mount Sinai, Psalm 68. 17. but) to an innumerable Company of Angels, (ministring to them who shall be Heirs of Salvation, Hebr. 1. 14.)

will give to Iſrael, are only out of Zion, ſay the Jews, Vajikra Rabba, Sect. 24. Midraſh Tillim ad Pſalm 14. Hence came their Strength, Pſal. 110. 2. and Help, Pſal. 20. 2. Bleſſings, Pſal. 128. 5. and Life, Pſal. 133. 3. and Salvation, Pſal. 14. 7.

Ἰερουσαλὴμ ἐπουρανίῳ, to the Heavenly Jeruſalem.] Which is the Mother of us all, Gal. 4. 26. where our City is, Philip. 3. 20. This the Rabbins call the Jeruſalem, le Holam habba, of the Age to come, to be built in the Days of the Meſſiah, ſaying alſo, That the inferiour Jeruſalem is a Figure of that which is above. See Note on Gal. 4. 26. And 'tis here ſtiled the Heavenly Jeruſalem. Not that Heaven is primarily intended by it; and not the Church of Chriſt on Earth, but propter originem & finem, as having its riſe from Heaven, and as leading to it, on which account the Goſpel State is ſtiled ſo oft the Kingdom of Heaven.

Μυριάσιν ἀγγέλων, to myriads of Angels.] The Glorious Citizens of Heaven who attend at the Throne of God, to whom we are united, they being made one with us in Chriſt, Epheſ. 1. 10. and to whom we are reconciled by him, Coloſ. 1. 20.

Ver. 23. And to the General Aſſembly, and Church (not of the Jews, and the Firſt-born Regiſtred among them, Numb. 1. 16. but) of the Firſt-born who are written in Heaven, and to God (now declared to be) the Judge of all, (Acts 17. 30, 31.) and to the Spirits of Juſt Men made perfect, (who have run their Race, and are to be Crowned at the great Day, 2 Tim. 4. 8.)

Πρωτοτόκων, of the Firſt-born.] i. e. Of the Apoſtles who received the firſt Fruits of the Spirit, Rom. 8. 23. and of the Churches which received firſt the Chriſtian Faith, Epheſ. 1. 12. (whoſe Names are written in Heaven) i.e. who are enrolled among the Citizens of the New and Heavenly Jeruſalem, or among the Juſt, for whom the Kingdom is prepared. In this rejoice, ſaith Chriſt, that your Names are written in Heaven, Luke 10. 20. Thus Exod. 32. 32. Moſes is by the Targum introduced ſpeaking thus, I know thou haſt writ my Name in the Book of the Juſt. And of the Falſe Prophets the Targum on Ezek. 13. 9. ſaith, They ſhall not be written in the Book of eternal Life, which is written for the Juſt of the Houſe of Iſrael; and into this Kingdom they only are to enter, whoſe Names are thus enrolled in the Book of Life, Rev. 21. 27.

Καὶ κριτῇ Θεῷ, and to God the Judge of all.] Who will adjudge the Crown of Glory to thoſe who have fought the good fight of Faith, 2 Tim. 4. 8. who run this Race with Patience, 1 Cor. 9. 24, 25. and will give them the Kingdom prepared for them, Matth. 25. 34. Luke 12. 32.

And to the Spirits of Juſt Men, τετελειωμένων, made perfect.] This word here cannot well ſignifie them who are crowned in the Agoniſtical Senſe, becauſe the Apoſtle in the former Chapter had aſſerted of thoſe Witneſſes which died in Faith, That they had not yet received the Promiſe, and were not to be Crowned before us Chriſtians; and ſaith, that he himſelf expected to receive his Crown only at the Great Day, 2 Tim. 4. 8. But it ſignifies either that they had fulfilled their Courſe, and ſo reſted from their Labours and Conflicts, as Chryſoſtom here ſaith, and ſo have nothing more to do but to receive their Crown: Or in the other Senſe of the Word, τελειοῦσθαι, to be made perfect in Holineſs, or to be perfectly Purged from all Guilt of Sin, and ſo fit to be admitted to this Kingdom. In which Senſe the Apoſtle here denies that there was any τελείωσις, or perfect Expiation made by the Levitical Prieſthood, the Law making nothing perfect, Hebr. 7. 11, 16. And that the Offerings preſcribed by it could not, τελειῶσαι, make perfect the Worſhipper as to his Conſcience, Hebr. 9. 9. that they could not, τελειῶσαι εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, perfect him for ever, ſo as that he ſhould need no farther Expiation for Sin, Hebr. 10. 1. and that Chriſt by one Offering, τετελείωκεν εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, had perfectly expiated for ever them that were ſanctified, ver. 14.

Ver. 24. And to Jeſus the Mediator (not of the old Covenant, which promiſed only the Land of Canaan, but) of the new Covenant, (eſtabliſhed in his Blood, by which we receive the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Hebr. 9. 15.) and to the Blood of ſprinkling which ſpeaketh better things than that of Abel.

Αἵματι ῥαντισμοῦ, the Blood of ſprinkling.] Not that of Bulls and Goats with which Moſes ſprinkled the People, when they entred into the Old Covenant, Exod. 24. 8. and the Tabernacle, and the Veſſels of the Miniſtery to ſanctifie them for the Levitical Service, but the Blood of Chriſt, by which the Heavenly Places are purified and prepared for us, Chap. 9. 23, 24. and by which we have entrance into the Holieſt, Chap. 10. 19, 20.

Κρεῖττονα λαλοῦντα παρὰ ὁ· or, παρὰ τὸ Ἄβελ.] Than the Blood of Abel, not becauſe that called for Vengeance, this for Mercy; but than the Blood of the Sacrifice of Abel offer'd by Faith, of which God teſtified his Acceptance, and by which he being dead yet ſpeaks, Hebr. 11. 4. that procuring Acceptance for himſelf alone, this for all Believers; that ſpeaking only for him, and declaring him Righteous, this interceding to God for the Juſtification of all Men through Faith in his Blood.

Ver. 25. See therefore that you refuſe not him that ſpeaketh (now by his Son to you,) for if they eſcaped not (God's ſevere Judgments) who refuſed him that ſpake on Earth (from Mount Sinai,) much more ſhall not we eſcape, if we turn away from him that ſpeaketh (by his Son coming down, and by his Spirit ſent down) from Heaven, (1 Pet. 1. 12.)

Χρηματίζοντα.] This word both in the Old and New Teſtament ſignifies ſpeaking as from God, or words proceeding from him. See Jer. 25. 30. 26. 3. 29. 23. 30. 2. 36. 4. Matth. 2. 22. Luke 2. 26. Acts 10. 22. Rom. 11. 4. Hebr. 8. 5. 11. 7. ſo 2 Maccab. 2. 4. χρηματισθεὶς ὑπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ, the Prophet being warned of God, commanded that the Ark ſhould go with him.

Μὴ παραιτήσησθε, refuſe not.] As they did, ſaith Theodoret, ἀντὶ τοῦ Θεοῦ τὸν Μωσέα λαβεῖν, deſiring inſtead of God to have Moſes, by ſaying, Speak thou to us, and let not God ſpeak to us, Exod. 20. 19. deſiring not God, but an Angel, ſaith Philo on thoſe Words. De Somn. p. 455. F. See Note on Coloſ. 2. 19.

Ver. 26. Whoſe Voice then ſhoke the Earth, (when the Law was given, Exod. 19. 18. Pſalm 68. 8.) but now (under this Diſpenſation) he hath promiſed (yet a farther ſhaking) ſaying, Yet once more (at the making my new Covenant) I ſhake not the Earth only, but alſo Heaven, (Hag. 2. 7, 8.)

Ver. 27. And this word, Yet once more, ſignifieth the removing of thoſe things that are ſhaken, as of thoſe things that are made, that thoſe things which cannot be ſhaken may remain.

Οὗ ἡ φωνὴ, whoſe Voice.] He ſpeaks here not of the Voice of Chriſt, but of the God of Iſrael, who at his Appearance on Sinai ſhook the Earth; of his Voice who made the Promiſe, that Chriſt the deſire of all Nations ſhould come. Nor can the Apoſtle, or the Prophet ſpeak of Chriſt's ſecond Coming, to give new Heavens and new Earth by the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation; For, 1ſt. This ſhaking was to be the Forerunner of the coming of the deſire of all Nations, or contemporary with it, now he was to come to fill that very Houſe then built with Glory, and to make the Glory of it greater than the Glory of the Houſe built by Solomon. The Prophet muſt therefore ſpeak of a ſhaking antecedent to the Deſtruction of the Temple. And therefore the Apoſtle, ſpeaking of the very thing promiſed in the words of the Prophet Haggai, muſt alſo ſpeak of the firſt Advent of our Lord. 2dly, The Prophet ſpeaks of a ſhaking which was to happen after a little time, Hag. 2. 7. and therefore not of an Advent of our Saviour after Two thouſand Years expired, yet to come. And, 3dly, The Apoſtle ſays plainly, That Chriſtians had then received that Kingdom which could not be ſhaken, to give place to another, and upon that grounds his Exhortation to them, to retain or hold faſt the Grace received, ver. 28. Which ſhews it was not a Kingdom yet to come after One thouſand ſeven hundred Years, but that which throughout the Goſpel is ſtiled the Kingdom of God, and of Heaven, and is ſaid to be then come to them, Matth. 12. 28.

Ἔτι ἅπαξ, yet once more.] The word yet ſignifies that there was yet to be another ſhaking for the Introduction of another Covenant, and conſequently for the aboliſhing the firſt; and the word once only, that there ſhould be no more ſhaking after the Introduction of the ſecond Covenant.

Ἐγὼ σείω, I ſhake not the Earth only, but the Heavens, Hag. 2. 7.] The Ancient Jews ſpeak of this place thus, I will give a ſhort Glory to the Iſraelites, and afterward ſhall the Meſſiah come. Talm. Tr. Sanhedr. c. 11. expounding this place of the coming of the Meſſiah, they add, That the firſt Tabernacle and Temple were built and deſtroyed, ſo was the ſecond Temple, but the Meſſiah ſhould build a Temple, and God had built a Tabernacle and Temple in the Heavens, which ſhould never be deſtroy'd. Pug. Fid. p. 304---309.

Now this ſhaking of the Heaven and Earth being to be accompliſhed at the coming of the Meſſiah, or the deſire of all Nations, cannot ſignifie the Removal and Subverſion of the material Heavens and Earth, they being not thus ſhaken at Chriſt's coming, but this is a Metaphor frequently uſed in the Prophets, to ſignifie the Subverſion of a State and Kingdom, and of the Government which obtains amongſt them; as when the Prophet, ſpeaking of the Deſtruction of Babylon, ſaith, I will make the Heavens ſhake, and the Earth ſhall be removed out of its place, Iſa. 13. 13. See Judges 5. 4. Pſalm 77. 18. Iſa. 24. 19, 20. Thus at our Lord's coming to deſtroy Jeruſalem ſay ſome Interpreters, to deſtroy Antichriſt as others think, the Powers of Heaven ſhall be ſhaken, Matth. 24. 30. Mark 13, 25. and Luke 21. 26. which import of this Phraſe being not underſtood by Eſthius, he, without cauſe, rejecteth this Interpretation of the words.

2*dly*. This ſhaking being for the removal of things which were ſhaken, and they being not the material Earth, muſt ſignifie the things which were then introduced with the ſhaking of the Earth, i. e. the Covenant made, and the Worſhip, and Tabernacle, and other Materials then appointed to be made with Hands for God's Service, which, as the Apoſtle, throughout this whole Epiſtle contends, were to be aboliſh'd, and to continue only till the time of Reformation, Chap. 9. 10. and then to give place to that new Covenant, and Diſpenſation, which procured for us an Eternal Redemption, and an Entrance not into the Holy Places made with Hands, but into Heaven it ſelf; and therefore it follows,

Ver. 28. Wherefore we receiving (the Promiſe of) a Kingdom that cannot be moved, (or

(or ſhaken, to give place to another,) let us have (or retain that) Grace whereby (alone) we may ſerve God acceptably in Reverence and Godly Fear.

Ἔχωμεν χάριν.] It is the Obſervation of Criticks here, and elſewhere, that, ἔχειν, to have, is often put for κατέχειν, to retain, or hold faſt: So, ἔχειν πίστιν καὶ ἀγαθὴν συνείδησιν, is to hold Faith and a good Conſcience, 1 Tim. 1. 19. ἔχειν τὸ μυστήριον τῆς πίστεως, to hold the Myſtery of Faith; ὑποτύπωσιν ἔχειν, to hold faſt the form of ſound Words, 2 Tim. 1. 13. Χάρις throughout the whole New Teſtament, doth ſignifie the Favour and the Grace of God ſo freely tendred to us in the Goſpel; ſee Note on 2 Cor. 6. 1. So that the import of theſe Words ſeems to be this, Let us continue ſtedfaſt in that Faith and Diſpenſation delivered in the Goſpel, as being that alone which renders both our Perſons and our Services acceptable to God, let us not fall from the Grace of God, ver. 15. let us not caſt off our Confidence, Chap. 10. 35. Let us hold faſt the Profeſſion of our Hope without wavering, ver. 23. continuing to ſerve God with an Holy Reverence.

Ver. 29. For our God is (to the Diſobedient and Rebellious among us, as he was to them, Deut. 4. 24. 9. 3.) a conſuming Fire.

Πῦρ καταναλίσκον, a conſuming fire.] To conſume thine Enemies if thou obey him, and to bring them down before thy Face, Deut. 9. 3. but to conſume thee, if thou forget the Covenant thou haſt made with him, Deut. 4. 24. This hath relation to the Shechinah, or Glorious Preſence of God, the ſight of which was like devouring Fire, Exod. 24. 17. and from which went out Fire to conſume Nadab and Abihu, Lev. 10. 2. and thoſe Two hundred and fifty Perſons which burned Incenſe, Numb. 16. 35. and of which the Pſalmiſt ſpeaketh in theſe words, A fire burned in their Congregations; the flame burnt up the Wicked, Pſalm 106. 18.

CHAP. XIII.

Ver. 1. LET brotherly Love continue.

Ver. 2. Be not forgetful to entertain Strangers, for thereby ſome (viz. Abraham, Gen. 18. and Lot, Gen. 19.) have entertained Angels unawares.

Ἀγγέλους, Angels.] It follows not hence, ſay the Commentators here, that all the three Perſons which appear'd to Abraham were created Angels, for one of them being ſtyled by Abraham the Judge of all the Earth, Gen. 18. 24. Jehovah, ver. 22. and Abraham praying to him with ſo great Humility, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will ſpeak unto him, who am but Duſt and Aſhes, ver. 27, 31. It ſeems more proper with the Ancients to conceive he at leaſt ſhould be the Son of God, the Angel of the Covenant; for the Word of God, ſaith Juſtin Martyr, καὶ Ἄγγελος καλεῖται, καὶ Θεὸς, καὶ υἱὸς, καὶ ἀνὴρ, καὶ ἄνθρωπος Ἀβραὰμ καὶ Ἰσαὰκ φανεὶς. Yet ſince in the Opinion of the Jews they were three Angels, as Ainſworth and Cartwright note upon the Place, the Apoſtle writing to them, ſaith no more of them. I rather think with the Reverend Biſhop of Ely, that it may be granted that the three that appeared to Abraham were created Angels; but then they appeared only as the Retinue of the Shechinah, or Divine Majeſty, ſtiled the Lord, ver. 1. and ver. 13. For after the ſame Men who came in, and did eat with Abraham, and roſe from the Table, were departed, ver. 16. and 22. Abraham ſtands yet before the Lord, that is, before the Divine Majeſty who appear'd to him, ver. 1. and ſtiles him the Judge of the whole Earth. And this agrees well with the Opinion of the Jews, who, as they acknowledge that the three Men whom Abraham entertained were created Angels, ſo alſo do they own that there was then a ſeparate Appearance, or Divine Majeſty which talked with Abraham. And this takes off the Obſervation of Crellius and others on this Place, That the Name Jehovah is given to Angels; for, according to this Interpretation, the Name Jehovah is not given to any of the Three Angels which were entertain'd by Abraham, but only to the Shechinah, or Divine Majeſty which appeared with them, and ſpake to Abraham, from Verſe the 10th to the 17th, and to whom, after the departure of theſe three, one into Heaven, and two to Sodom, Abraham ſtill ſpeaks to the end of that Chapter.

Ver. 3. Remember thoſe that are in Bonds as (affectionately as if you were) bound with them, and them that ſuffer Adverſity, as being alſo in the Body, (and ſo as being ſubject to the like Afflictions.)

Ver. 4. Marriage is Honourable in all (Perſons,) and (ſo is) the Bed undefiled, but (or wherefore) Whoremongers and Adulterers God will Judge, (i. e. adjudge to Condemnation.)

Τίμιος ὁ γάμος.] It is not worth diſputing whether theſe Words ſhould be rendred as a Precept thus, Let honourable Marriage, and the Bed undefiled obtain among all; or as our Verſion renders them by way of Aſſertion. The Obſervation of the Ancients upon the place place is this, That (a) Marriage is honourable in all Perſons, Old and Young, and in all things.

Κρινῶ ὁ θεὸς, God will judge.] i. e. κατακρινῶ, he will Condemn them: So John 3. 16. God ſent not his Son into the World, ἵνα κρίνῃ τὸν κόσμον, that he might Condemn the World. He that reſiſteth ſhall receive to himſelf, κρῖμα, Puniſhment, or Condemnation, Rom. 13. 3. So Matth. 22. 14. 1 Cor. 11. 29. 1 Tim. 3. 6. Jude 4. Mark 3. 29. Luke 23. 40. τοῦτον κρίναντες, by condemning Chriſt they fulfilled the Voice of the Prophets. Acts 13. 27. That the Apoſtle here ſhould give theſe Cautions againſt the Gnoſticks among the Jews, is gratis dictum, for no Man can prove that any Gnoſticks had been then among them, but they had then the Sect of the (b) Nicholaitans among them, mentioned Rev. 2. 6, 15. who did, (c) ἀναίδην ἐκπορνεύειν, holding Whoredom and Adultery to be things indifferent. Moreover (d) Juſtin Martyr ſaith, That where-ever they travelled they multiplied to themſelves Wives, ὀνόματι γάμου, under pretence of Marriage. See Note on Rom. 2. 22. On which account there was ground ſufficient for this Exhortation. Note hence that Whoredom is a mortal Sin.

Ver. 5. Let your Converſation be without Covetouſneſs, and be content with ſuch things as ye have (at preſent), for he hath ſaid, (Deut. 31. 6. Joſ. 1. 5.) I will never leave thee, nor forſake thee.

Note, Hence we learn, 1*ſt*. That we are then covetouſly minded when we are not content with the Things we enjoy at preſent, but are impatiently deſirous of having more.

2*dly*, That what God promiſes to any of his Servants, may in like Circumſtances be applied to them all, for this Promiſe which the Apoſtle here makes, and applies to all good Chriſtians, was particularly made to Joſhua, Chap. 1. 5.

Ver. 6. So that we may boldly ſay, (as the Pſalmiſt doth, Pſalm 56. 4. The Lord is my helper, I will not fear what Man ſhall do unto me.

Ver. 7. Remember them which have the Rule over you, (Gr. be mindful of your Governors, or Guides,) who have ſpoken to you the Word of God, whoſe Faith follow, conſidering the end (or cloſe) of their Converſation, (with what Conſtancy and Perſeverance they continued in the Faith, and ſealed it with their Blood, in hopes of that Crown of Glory Chriſt had promiſed to them that were faithful to the Death.)

Ver. 8. (Even that) Jeſus Chriſt who (both as to his Doctrine, and his Promiſes) is the ſame, yeſterday, to day, and for ever.

i. e. Through all Times and Ages; for, as (e) Philo obſerves, τριμερὴς ὁ χρόνος, ὁ παρελυθὼς, ὁ ἐνεστὼς, ὁ μέλλων, Time conſiſts of three Parts, the paſt, preſent, and to come, and theſe three ſignifie, ἅπαντα ὁ αἰὼν, all Time, or the whole compaſs of it; ſo that as the ſame Doctrine of Chriſtianity muſt always be profeſſed by all Chriſtians, ſo the ſame Jeſus is always ready to aſſiſt and reward the ſincere Profeſſors of it.

That the Apoſtle ſpeaks here not of their living, but dead Guides, will appear partly from his Exhortation to remember them, the living Guides being the Objects not of their Memory, but Senſe, partly from the Phraſe, οἵτινες ἐλάλησαν, who have ſpoken, which intimates they had now left off ſpeaking, and partly from the ἔκβασις, the cloſe, or period of their Converſation here on Earth, they are exhorted to look back unto; their living Biſhops they are commanded to obey, ver. 17. their dead Biſhops to remember, ver. 7.

Ver. 9. Be not carried about with divers and ſtrange Doctrines (i. e. Doctrines divers from, and new, i. e. not taught by thoſe Guides who ſpake to you the Word of God, ver. 7.) for it is good that the Heart be eſtabliſhed, (i. e. comforted and ſtrengthned) with Grace, (i. e. the ſenſe of the Divine Favour, and the Grace brought to us by the Goſpel,) and not with Meats (eaten at the Jewiſh Feſtivals, and their Peace-offerings) which have not profited (to the purifying of the Conſcience from Guilt, Hebr. 9. 9.) them that have been occupied therein.

Διδαχαῖς ξέναις,] I render new Doctrines, and therefore ſtrange to the Ears of them that hear them firſt, ſo ξένα δαιμόνια, are new Demons, Acts 17. 18. and the Apoſtle ſaith, they were not to look upon their fiery Tryal, ὡς ξένου ὑμῖν συμβαίνοντος, as if ſome new thing had happened to them, 1 Pet. 4. 12.

Βεβαιοῦσθαι τὴν καρδίαν,] Is an Hebrew Phraſe, ſignifying to comfort, ſtrengthen, and refreſh the Heart. So Gen. 18. 5. I will fetch a morſel of Bread, יסעדו לבבכם, and comfort their Hearts, Judges 19. 5, 8. στήριον καρδίαν σου, comfort thy Heart with a morſel of Bread, of which the Pſalmiſt ſaith, That, καρδίαν ἀνθρώπου στηρίζει, it ſtrengthens Man's Heart, Pſal. 104. 15. whence it is often ſtiled, στήριγμα ἄρτου, Pſalm 105. 16. Ezek. 4. 16. 5. 16. 14. 13. the Staff of Bread.

The Grace here mention'd, is, ſay the Ancients, ἡ τοῦ χριστοῦ διδασκαλία, the Doctrine of the Goſpel, or of the Grace of God tender'd in it. The Meats here mentioned, are the Meats eaten in the Jewiſh Feſtivals, New Moons, and Sabbaths, Col. 2. 16. or their Peace-Offerings and Oblations, ſtiled, βρώματα, Meats, Hebr. 9. 10. which Feaſts ſome Jewiſh Zealots would have obſerved with the Chriſtian Feſtivals, viz. their Paſſoever and Pentecoſt, 1 Cor. 11. and in the ſame riotous Manner, ver. 21. And theſe Sacrifices or Peace Offerings they would have ſtill retain'd, perhaps as being not Sacrifices for Sin, but Free-Will Offerings, and only Sacrifices of Praiſe, ſo that the import of theſe Words is this, 'Tis good the Soul, or Heart, be eſtabliſhed, refreſhed, and comforted not with Meats eaten in the Jewiſh Feſtivals, or at their Euchariſtical Oblations, which profit or avail nothing to the Peace and Quiet of the Conſcience, but with the Divine Favour, and that Goſpel Grace by which Juſtification and Remiſſion of Sins is obtained through the Blood of Jeſus, of which they cannot be partakers who ſtill cleave to the legal Obſervations. For,

Ver. 10. We (Chriſtians) have (a Sacrifice upon) an Altar, (that of the Croſs) of which they have no right to eat (or to partake) who ſerve Tabernacles, (i. e. cleave ſtill to the Worſhip appointed for the Jewiſh Tabernacle.)

Θυσιαστήριον, an Altar.] That the Altar here ſignifies the Sacrifice offer'd up upon the Altar, is plain from this, that of this Altar they were to eat: So they that ate of the Jewiſh Sacrifices, are ſaid to be, κοινωνοὶ θυσιαστηρίου, partakers of the Altar, 1 Cor. 10. 18. i. e. of the Things offered at the Altar, and then it muſt import the Body of our Lord offered and broken on the Croſs, by partaking the Memorials of which Body, we teſtifie our Communion with Chriſt, and his Church, ibid. ver. 16, 17. and of this, ſaith the Apoſtle, they have no Right to partake, who adhere ſtill to the Moſaical Oblations.

Ver. 11. (The Truth of this they may learn from their own Inſtitutions concerning Sacrifices,) For the Bodies of thoſe Beaſts, whoſe Blood was brought into the Sanctuary for (a) Sin (offering,) are (by the Law of Moſes not to be eaten, but) burnt without the Camp, (Exod. 29. 14. Lev. 4. 21. 6. 30. 16. 27.

Περὶ ἁμαρτίας.] That περὶ ἁμαρτίας ſignifies a Sacrifice for Sin, or a Sin-Offering, ſee Note on 2 Cor. 5. ult.

Ver. 12. Wherefore Jeſus alſo (our Sin-Offering, the Perſon typified by theirs offered on the great Day of Expiation, Lev. 16.) that he might Sanctifie the People with his own Blood, (carried into the Heavenly Sanctuary) ſuffered without the Gate. (He therefore thus anſwering the Type of that Sin-Offering, of which neither Prieſt nor People were to eat; they who do ſtill adhere to the legal Inſtitutions, are by that Law excluded from partaking of this Sacrifice.)

Without the Gate.] That Sin-Offering which was carried without the Camp, whilſt they were in the Wilderneſs, when the Temple was ſeated at Jeruſalem, was carried without the Gate of the City. Maimon. de Rat. Sacrif. Faciend. cap. 7. §. 4. Ainſw. in Lev. 6. 30. And this is the reaſon of the Variation of the Phraſe here.

Ver. 13. Let us therefore go forth to him without the Camp, (the Terreſtrial Jeruſalem, the Jewiſh Church and Service,) bearing his Reproach.

His Reproach.] i. e. his Croſs and Sufferings, which the perſecuting Jews inflict upon his Followers, as they did upon him, perſecuting them even to ſtrange Cities, Acts 26. 11. and from City to City.

Ver. 14. For here we (eſpecially who are thus Perſecuted) have no abiding City, but we ſeek one to come, (even the City of the living God, Chap. 12. 22.)

Ver. 15. By him therefore (our High Prieſt) let us offer the (Chriſtian) Sacrifice of Praiſe to God continually, that is (in the Language of the Prophet Hoſea, 14. 2.) the Fruit of our Lips, giving Thanks to his Name.

Θυσίαν αἰνέσεως, The Sacrifice of Praiſe.] The Jews ſay that, in ſæculo futuro, in the Age to come, (which often ſignifies the Age of the Meſſiah (f) All Oblations ſhall ceaſe, but the Oblation of Thankſgiving, which ſhall never ceaſe; and that Praiſe is more acceptable to God than all Sacrifices; which they prove from thoſe Words of the Pſalmiſt, I will not reprove thee for thy Sacrifices, becauſe they were not always before me: offer unto God Thankſgiving, Pſalm 50. 23. He that offers Praiſe honoureth me. And the Greek Commentators obſerve, That the Sacrifices God now requires are unbloody Sacrifices, to wit, thoſe of Praiſe and Thankſgiving, and imitation of Chriſt. So Chryſoſtom, and Oecumenius.

Καρπὸν χειλέων, the Calves of our Lips, Hoſ. 14. 2.] So the Jews (g) themſelves interpret theſe Words, what ſhall we render for the Calves of our Lips, and the Scape-Goat that was ſent out into the Wilderneſs, תרות ותהלות שפתינו, i. e. the Praiſes and Thankſgivings of our Lips. Dr. Pococke notes, That καρπὸς is here taken for κάρπωμα, which in the Septuagint ſignifies an Holocauſt, which being uſually of young Bullocks, correſponds to the Calves of our Lips, in Hebrew.

Ver.

Ver. 16. But (and for the other Chriſtian Sacrifices, thoſe of Alms) to do good and communicate forget not, for with ſuch Sacrifices God is (ſtill) pleaſed.

Ver. 17. Obey them that have the Rule over you, (your Biſhops and Paſtors, ver. 24.) and ſubmit your ſelves (to their Godly Admonitions,) for they watch for your Souls, as they that muſt give account (to God for them,) that they may do it with joy (in the preſence of Chriſt, that they have gained you to him, and built you up in your Faith, 1 Theſ. 2. 19.) and not with ſorrow, (that they could not prevail upon you to live ſuitably to their good Inſtructions,) for that is unprofitable for you, (and pernicious to you.)

Τοῖς ἡγουμένοις ὑμῶν.] Πεϱὶ ἐπισκόπων λέγει, he ſpeaks of Biſhops, ſay Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact: (h) Clemens Romanus places them before the Preſbyters, ſaying, Τοῖς νόμοις τοῦ θεοῦ ἐπείθεσθε, ὑποτασσόμενοι τοῖς ἡγουμένοις ὑμῶν, καὶ τιμὴν ἀπονέμοντες τοῖς πϱεσβυτέϱοις ὑμῶν πϱεσβυτέϱοις, ye walked in the Laws of God, being ſubject to your Guides, or Rulers, and giving convenient Honour to your Preſbyters, or Elders.

Μετὰ χαϱᾶς, with joy.] That is, ſay others, that they may go on with their Work joyfully, which they can only execute with Trouble and Sadneſs, when they find you refractory to their Admonitions; but thoſe words, That they may do it, ſeem plainly to relate to the account they muſt give up hereafter to God.

Ver. 18. Pray for us (for our Freedom and Succeſs in Preaching the Goſpel, Epheſ. 6. 19. Col. 4. 3. and our Deliverance from the Enemies of the Faith, 1 Theſ. 3. 1, 2.) for we truſt we have a good Conſcience, in all things being willing to live honeſtly.

Ἐν πᾶσι.] In all Times, Circumſtances, Things and Places. Here is the true Teſt of an upright Conſcience, that in all Times, Things and Caſes, it renders us induſtrious to walk exactly according to the Rules of Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 19. But I beſeech you the rather to do this (now,) that I may be reſtored to you the ſooner.

Ver. 20. Now the God of Peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jeſus, the great Shepherd of the Sheep, through (with) the Blood of the everlaſting Covenant, (to be offer'd by him in the Heavenly Sanctuary.)

Theſe words ſeem to expreſs all the three Offices of our Great Mediator, which are the Foundations of all our Prayers and Praiſes directed to God, and of all the Bleſſings we receive, or expect from him; his Prophetick Office, in that he is ſtiled the great Shepherd of the Sheep; His Prieſtly Office, in that he is ſaid to be brought again from the dead with the Blood of the everlaſting Covenant; and his Kingly Office, in that he is ſtiled our Lord Jeſus.

Ver. 21. Make you perfect in every good work to do his Will, working in you (by his Grace given to, and his Spirit reſiding in you) that which is well-pleaſing in his ſight through Jeſus Chriſt, to whom be Glory for ever and ever, Amen.

Καταϱτίσαι ὑμᾶς, make you perfect.] Here is the Duty of every good Chriſtian, to be ready for every good Work, Tit. 3. 1. doing the Will of God from the Heart, Epheſ. 6. 6.

Ποιῶν ἐν ὑμῖν, working in you, &c.] Here is the Power by which we are enabled ſo to do, and moved to the performance of our Duty, viz. the Grace of God teaching us, denying all Ungodlineſs, and worldly Luſts, to live Righteouſly, Soberly, and Godly in this preſent World, and the expectation of the bleſſed Hope and glorious Appearance of our Lord to reward our Services, Tit. 2. 11, 12, 13. The Love of God the Father in giving up his Son to the Death for us, and of Jeſus Chriſt who gave himſelf for us, that he might redeem us from all Iniquity, and purifie to himſelf a peculiar People zealous of good Works, ver. 14. And who died for all, that they who live might not henceforth live unto themſelves, but unto him that died for them, 2 Cor. 5. 15. And, laſtly, the inward Aſſiſtances of the Holy Spirit, bringing theſe things to our remembrance, exciting us to the performance of our Duty, ſtrengthning us againſt our Temptations, and comforting and ſupporting us under our Sufferings.

Ὧ ἡ δόξα εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας τῶν αἰώνων.] Here Schlichtingius ſaith, That he who is a Chriſtian cannot be ignorant that Glory for ever and ever, is to be aſcribed to Chriſt, as well as to the Father, as it is Rev. 5. 12, 13. and 2 Pet. 3. 18. And how then can he be ignorant that Chriſt is to be owned as the true God? This being the Doxology aſcribed in the New Teſtament to him, of whom, and by whom, and to whom are all things, Rom. 11. 36. to God the Father, Gal. 1. 5. to the Omnipotent God, Epheſ. 3. 20, 21. to him who dwelleth in light inacceſſible, 2 Tim. 4. 15, 16. to the God of all Grace, 1 Pet. 5. 10, 11. to the only wiſe God our Saviour, Jude 25. In (i) St. Clemens it is frequently aſcribed, τῷ Θεῷ παντοκϱάτοϱι, to Almighty God, to whom be Glory for ever and ever, Amen, as a Character peculiarly belonging to him. And in the (k) Jeruſalem Targum this is the frequent Appendix to the mention of the Great God, Let his Name be Bleſſed (i. e. Glorified) for ever and ever, Amen. So that both in the Opinion of Jews and Chriſtians, this was a Doxology proper to the True God.

(h) Epiſt. ad Roman. §. 1. (i) Sect. 33, 38, 43, 45, 50. & 29. (k) In Gen. 49. 2. Exod. 15. 18. Deut. 3. 2. 6. 4.

Ver. 22. And I beſeech you, Brethren, ſuffer the word of Exhortation (to perſeverance with Patience in the Chriſtian Faith,) for I have written a Letter to you (of this Subject) in (as) few words (as the importance of the Matter, and my Affection to you would permit.)

Ver. 23. Know ye that our Brother Timothy (ſee the Preface) is ſet at Liberty, with whom, if he comes (hither again) ſhortly I will (God willing) ſee you.

Ver. 24. Salute all them that have the Rule over you, and all the Saints: they of Italy ſalute you.

Τοὺς ἡγουμένους, that have the Rule over you.] Hence it ſeems evident that this Epiſtle was not ſent to the Biſhops, or Rulers of the Church, but to the whole Church, or to the Laity.

Ver. 25. Grace be with you all. Amen.

ON THE Seven Catholick Epiſtles.

The General PREFACE.

OF theſe Epiſtles in the General I have only this to Note, that from the Fourth Century they have both obtained the Name of Catholick Epiſtles, and alſo have been ranked in the ſame Order in which they now ſtand in our Bibles, viz. by the Council of (a) Laodicea, by (b) Cyril of Jeruſalem, by (c) Athanaſius, and (d) Greg. Nazianzen; by (e) Amphilochius, and by others.

Only it is not eaſie to aſſign the Reaſon why they in a particular manner were ſo called, it could not be becauſe they were, paſſim recepta ab omnibus, & ubique; generally received by all; for we learn from the Teſtimonies of (f) Origen, (g) Euſebius, (h) Amphilochius, and (i) St. Jerom, That the Ancients doubted of Four of the Seven, or Five of them.

Oecumenius, and others, ſay, they were ſo ſtiled, becauſe they were written not to one Nation, as were generally thoſe of St. Paul, ἀλλὰ καθόλου τοῖς πιστοῖς, ὅτοι Ἰουδαίοις τοῖς ἐν τῇ διασπορᾷ, but generally to the Faithful, or to the Jews of the diſperſion. Which laſt expreſſion ſeems to hint the true reaſon of the Name, viz. becauſe, excepting the two brief Epiſtles of St. John, they were written to the Jews diſperſed throughout the World. Which though it be true alſo of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, yet hath that no Inſcription, and for a long time was alſo queſtioned, nor was it written to the diſperſed Jews, but to the Inhabitants of Judea, Chap. 13. and upon theſe accounts might not come into the number.

THE PREFACE TO THE General Epiſtle of St. JAMES.

§. 1. THAT the Author of this Epiſtle was an Apoſtle, hath been proved, Note on ver. 1. whence it muſt follow, that he could not be James the Son of Zebedee, becauſe that James was ſlain by Herod, A. D. 44. Twenty-eight Years before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, which yet was nigh at hand, and even at the Door when this Epiſtle was endited. See Note on Chap. 5. 8, 9. Nor could he be James the Juſt, Biſhop of Jeruſalem, for he was no Apoſtle, if he was not the ſame Perſon with James the Leſs. It ſeemeth therefore that he was James the Son of Alphæus, Apoſtle, and Brother of our Lord, ſtiled James the Leſs, in diſtinction from James the Son of Zebedee, ſtiled the Greater, by reaſon of his Age. For that the James mentioned by St. Paul, Gal. 1. 19. was an Apoſtle in the ſtrict Acceptation of the Word, is evident from this, that having ſpoken of St. Peter, who doubtleſs was an Apoſtle in that ſenſe, he adds, Others of the Apoſtles ſaw I none, ſave James the Lord's Brother; and Chap. 2. 6. he reckons him with Peter and John among the στύλοις, or the chief Pillars of the Church, and to me he ſeems to be the ſame with James the Biſhop of Jeruſalem. For,

1ſt. Of this James the Biſhop of Jeruſalem, who was ſtiled the Juſt, (a) St. Jerom ſaith, That he was the Son of Mary, the Siſter of the Mother of our Lord, of whom St. John makes mention, Chap. 19. 29. where ſhe is ſtiled the Wife of Cleophas, or Alphæus; and by St. Mark, Chap. 15. 40. the Mother of James the Leſs.

2dly, It ſeems highly probable, that the James mentioned Acts 15. was ſtrictly an Apoſtle; for Paul and Barnabas were ſent up to the Apoſtles and Elders, ver. 2. they were received by the Apoſtles and Elders, ver. 4. the Apoſtles and Elders were gathered together to decide the Queſtion touching the Circumciſion of the Gentiles, ver. 6. The firſt Perſon that ſpeaks to it is Peter the Apoſtle, the ſecond James, who having determined the Queſtion, it ſeemed good to the Apoſtles and Brethren to ſend Letters to the Churches, ver. 22. And theſe they ſend with this Inſcription, The Apoſtles, Elders and Brethren. In all which places it is evident, that the word Apoſtles muſt be taken in the proper ſenſe, they being ſtill diſtinguiſhed from all the Elders or Biſhops which were not Apoſtles; nor can it be thought reaſonable that St. James here ſhould be ranked among the Elders or the Inferiour ſort of the Clergy, it remains then that he was in the ſtrict ſenſe an Apoſtle. There being therefore no other of that Name then living, but James the Son of Alphæus, who alſo was the Brother of our Lord, i. e. his Mother's Siſter's Son, (i. e. his Couſin) he, in all likelihood, muſt be the Biſhop of Jeruſalem.

3dly, The Story of Three that were called James, viz. James the Great, James the Leſs, and James Biſhop of Jeruſalem, is, ſaith (b) Dr. Cave, a great miſtake, and built upon a ſandy bottom; ‘ For beſides, that the ‘ Scripture mentions no more than two of this ‘ Name, and both Apoſtles, nothing can be ‘ plainer than that St. James the Apoſtle, whom ‘ St. Paul calls the Brother of our Lord, was ‘ the ſame that preſided among the Apoſtles, ‘ and determined in the Synod at Jeruſalem. ‘ Nor do either (c) Clemens Alexandrinus, or ‘ Euſebius out of him, mention any more than

§. 2. And having thus ſhew'd that James the Apoſtle, and, Brother of our Lord, was the Author of this Epiſtle, we cannot reaſonably doubt the Authority of it; eſpecially if we conſider that it is cited by (g) Clemens Romanus four ſeveral times, and by (h) Ignatius in his Genuine Epiſtle to the Epheſians, by (i) Origen in his Thirteenth Homily upon Geneſis. (k) Euſebius ſaith it was known to moſt, and publickly read in moſt Chriſtian Churches; (l) St. Jerom, that in proceſs of Time it obtained Authority. (m) Eſthius notes, 'That they who before doubted of it, 'in the Fourth Century embraced the Opinion 'of them who received it, and that from thence 'no Church, no Eccleſiaſtical Writer is found 'who ever doubted of it, but on the contrary 'all the Catalogues of the Books of Holy Scripture publiſh'd by General or Provincial 'Councils, Roman Biſhops, or other Orthodox Writers, number it among Canonical 'Scriptures; quæ probatio ad certam fidem faciendam cuique Catholico ſufficere debet, which Proof muſt give ſufficient certainty of it to any Catholick. As for the ſeeming Contradiction of this Epiſtle, to the Doctrine of St. Paul in the matter of Juſtification by Faith, ſee it ſufficiently cleared in the Cloſe of the Annotations on the Second Chapter.

§. 3. 4thly, That this Epiſtle was directed to the Twelve Tribes which were ſcattered abroad, the Words of this Epiſtle ſhew; but whether the Twelve Tribes import only thoſe of them which returned into Judea, or thoſe of them alſo who were carried away by the Aſſyrians, and never return'd to their own Nation, ſo as to make any more a diſtinct People, or a Body Politick under their own Governours, is uncertain: That God had abſolutely determined, that the Ten Tribes ſhould never more return to ſuch a State, the Prophet Hoſea in many places doth inform us, as when God by him ſaith, I will no more have Mercy on the Houſe of Iſrael, but I will utterly take them away, Chap. 1. 6. That they ſhould be among the Gentiles as a Veſſel wherein is no pleaſure, Chap. 8. 8. That they ſhould not dwell in the Lord's Land, Chap. 9. 3. And again, I will drive them out of my Houſe, I will love them no more: My God will caſt them away, becauſe they did not hearken to him, and they ſhall be Wanderers among the Nations, ver. 15, 17.

And yet that God deſigned not to exclude them from the Bleſſings promiſed in the Days of the Meſſiah, or from being called into the Church of Chriſt, is as evident from many Expreſſions, and gracious Promiſes of God recorded in that Prophet concerning the ſame Tribes of Iſrael; as, v. g. That the number of the Children of Iſrael ſhall be as the Sand of the Sea which cannot be meaſured, nor numbred: And it ſhall come to paſs, that in the place where it was ſaid unto them, ye are not my People, there it ſhall be ſaid unto them, Ye are the Sons of the living God, Chap. 1. 10, 11, &c. And again, I will betroth thee unto me for ever, yea I will betroth thee unto me in Righteouſneſs and Judgment, and in loving Kindneſs, and in Mercies; I will even betroth thee unto me in Faithfulneſs, and thou ſhalt know the Lord, Chap. 2. 19, 20. I will have Mercy on her which had not obtained Mercy, and I will ſay to them which were not my People, Thou art my People, and they ſhall ſay, Thou art my God, ver. 23. And again, Afterwards ſhall the Children of Iſrael return, and ſeek the Lord their God, and David their King, and ſhall fear the Lord and his Goodneſs in the latter days, Chap. 3. 5. See Chap. 14. 4, 8. Now theſe Prophecies being not to be fulfilled upon them, by bringing them into their own Land, it ſeemeth reaſonable to conceive they might be fulfilled by calling them to embrace the Goſpel, and that by doing ſo were thoſe words fulfilled, I will call them my People who were not my People, not only towards the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 24, 25, 26. but alſo towards thoſe Iſraelites of whom they primarily were ſpoken, 1 Pet. 2. 10. And to this the Inſcription ſeems to lead us, it being, ταῖς δώδεκα φυλαῖς, ταῖς ἐν τῇ διασπορᾷ, to the Twelve Tribes, to thoſe who are in the Diſperſion. That the Places whither theſe Ten Tribes were carried by the Aſſyrians were well known to the other Jews, ſee proved by Dr. Lightfoot, that in Meſopotamia, Media, and Babylon, where they were placed, the Jews abounded in a very great meaſure. (n) Joſephus teſtifies, they had there three Famous Univerſities, Neerda, Sorana, and Pombeditha. We therefore have great reaſon to believe the Goſpel was then Preached among them by the Apoſtles of the Circumciſion. See the Preface to the Firſt Epiſtle of St. John.

There is one farther Obſervation taken notice of by Grotius and Dr. Hammond, That ſome part of this Epiſtle ſeems to be directed not only to Believers, but even to the unbelieving Jews, eſpecially the ſix firſt Verſes of the Fifth Chapter, where he ſaith, Ye have killed the Juſt, and he doth not reſiſt you; which cannot well agree to the Converted Jews, to whom he ſeems to turn his Speech in theſe following Words, Be patient therefore, Brethren, ver. 7. Yea, the whole Third and Fourth Chapters may be equally directed to both, the name of Brethren ſuiting to both, when uſed by a Jew writing to them, Rom. 9. 2.

§. 4. As for the Occaſion of the Epiſtle, it ſeemeth to be written upon two Accounts,

1ſt. To Correct the pernicious Errours both in Doctrine and Manners, which had crept into the Theology of the Jews, and had an evil Influence on their Practice. See Note on Chap. 2. v. 11. and v. 14. to the end of the Chapter.

2dly. To Comfort and Eſtabliſh the ſincere Believers under the preſſures which they then ſuffered, or were ſhortly to expect from the Unbelieving Jews, or their falſe Brethren. Where note,

1. That though the Jews, from the beginning of the Apoſtles Preaching, were ſtill incenſed againſt the Chriſtians, yet ſeeing Chriſtianity, whilſt they continued Preaching to the Jews, did not ſpread much among other Nations, and ſince the Jews were under reſtraints in the Time of Caius, who had no good Affection to them, they could not proceed far in ſhewing their Hatred to the Chriſtian Faith. What Perſecutions therefore happened in thoſe early Times, concern'd only the Churches of Judæa, or thereabouts, or ſpent themſelves on the chief Leaders and Aſſerters of the Chriſtian Faith, St. Stephen, St. James, St. Peter, and St. Paul, or on the Churches converted from the Jewiſh Synagogues, and reach'd no farther than the Places where they were converted; and though they were begun by Inſtigation of the Jews, yet were they chiefly managed by the Heathen Powers, or by their own Country-men. For about the 39*th Year of* Chriſt, then had the Churches Peace throughout all Judea, Galilee, and Samaria, Acts 9. 31. and ſo they ſeem to have continued till after the Council of Jeruſalem, the Churches being then eſtabliſhed in the Faith, and encreaſing in number daily, Acts 16. 5. Yea, when Paul comes to Rome he receives all that came unto him for two whole Years, preaching the Kingdom of God, and teaching the things which concerned the Lord Jeſus Chriſt with all confidence, no Man forbidding him, Acts 28. 30, 31. So that at leaſt till the Fourth or Fifth Year of Nero, the Goſpel was freely preach'd at Rome without any Contradiction either of the Romans or the Jews. But then in his Sixth Year, afflicti ſuppliciis Chriſtiani, the Chriſtians were ſubjected to Puniſhment by him, ſaith (o) Suetonius; and it ſeems very probable, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, that even then Nero had by ſome Act or Edict ſuppreſſed Chriſtianity, not only at Rome, but alſo at Judea, as he gathers from that Clauſe in Tacitus, Repreſſaque in præſens exitiabilis ſuperſtitio, rurſus erumpebat non modo per Judæam originem ejus mali, ſed per urbem etiam, which ſhews that before the Perſecution began, in the Tenth of Nero, of which Tacitus there ſpeaks, Chriſtianity had been by him ſuppreſſed not at Rome only, but Judea. Here then I place St. Peter's πύρωσιν πρὸς πειρασμὸν, burning for Tryal, which forwarded the Defection which was ſo general in the Churches of the Jews that had received the Goſpel, they falling to Moſes again, or joining the Adheſion to the Law with the Profeſſion of the Goſpel, that ſo they might retain their Liberty, the Religion of the Jews not being at all ſuppreſſed by him, and that they might eſcape the Rage of the Jews, who doubtleſs, by his Example, would be induced to expreſs that Hatred they had ſtill born againſt the Chriſtians. The ſame Nero in his Tenth Year renews this Perſecution of the Chriſtians, and this he did, ſaith (p) Oroſius, not only at Rome, but by his Edict through all the Provinces of his Empire; and this encourag'd the Jews every where to ſhew their utmoſt Rage againſt all thoſe of their Religion, whether Jews or Proſelytes, who had embrac'd the Faith of Chriſt ſincerely; and the more they drew nigh to their final Deſolation, the more did Satan inhance their Fury againſt thoſe Chriſtians, whom he found the fatal Enemies and Overthrowers of his Kingdom.

§. 5. Note,

§. 5. Note, laſtly, That whereas Mr. le Clerk ſaith, Note on Chap. 5. 3. That St. James doth not ſpeak here to the Jews who had embrac'd the Faith in Paleſtine, but to thoſe who were ſcattered abroad, ſeeing he ſpeaks to the whole Twelve Tribes, I doubt not but thoſe of Paleſtine muſt be included; but when he adds, that thoſe Jews only who lived in Paleſtine, and the neighbouring Countries, and had riſen up in Arms againſt the Romans, were deſtroyed by them, ſuggeſting that the Jews, diſperſed throughout the other Parts of the Roman Empire, received no harm; this is a great miſtake; for theſe being the Days of Vengeance upon the Unbelievers of that Nation, God's ſevere Judgments reached them every where, as we may fully learn from the ruefal Account (q) Joſephus gives us of their Calamities throughout all their Diſperſions; for, ſaith he, when the Romans had no Enemies left in Judea, the danger reach'd, πολλοῖς ἐφ' ἑκατὸν καλοικέσιν, to many of them living the remoteſt from it, for many of them periſhed at Alexandria, and Cyrene, and in other Cities of Egypt, and throughout all Syria. And Eliazer in (r) Joſephus having reckon'd up many places where they were cruelly ſlaughter'd, concludes thus, Μακρὸν ἂν εἴη τὰ ἴδια λέγειν, 'twould be too long to ſpeak of all theſe Places in particular.

We know from (ſ) Tacitus and others, that the Jews were a Nation generally hated by all about them, and by thoſe among whom they lived, partly becauſe they uſed, Ritus contrarios cæteris mortalibus, Rites contrary to all other Nations; and ſpake, and thought Contemptuouſly of their Deities and Worſhip; partly becauſe they bore, adverſus omnes alios hoſtile odium, the greateſt Hatred to Men of other Nations, and ſhewed the greateſt Contempt of them, calling them Dogs, and thinking it unlawful to converſe with them, and a Pollution even to touch them. All Nations therefore where they lived muſt, upon all Occaſions, be ready to riſe up againſt them, as we may learn from the Slaughter of them in (t) Cæſarea, Damaſcus, Scythopolis, and throughout all the Cities of Syria about the beginning of the War, of which Joſephus gives us the Account. When therefore the Romans were very much incenſed againſt them, becauſe when other Nations had ſubmitted to their Empire, ſoli Judæi non ceſſiſſent, they dared to Rebel, muſt they not be ſure to ſuffer in every Province where they dwelt, not only from the Roman Governours, but alſo from thoſe People in every Nation who bore ſo great Hatred to them. And hence (u) Euſebius informs us, That they did thus ſuffer in all other Places.

2dly, (x) Joſephus doth confeſs that the Jews in Judea did expect, ἅπαν τὸ ἄνω Εὐφρατίτου ὁμόφυλον ὑμῖν συναφθήσεσθαι, that all of their own Nation, even beyond Euphrates, ſhould be aſſiſtant to them in this War; and doubtleſs they were not wholly diſappointed in their Expectation, for in their War commenced under Hadrian, (y) Dion expreſly ſays, That the Jews out of all Nations came to their help. We therefore reaſonably may conceive this alſo was ſo in the former War under Veſpaſian and Titus, and then we cannot doubt that they who ſhared in the War, muſt alſo bear a ſhare in the Calamities it brought upon that Nation in thoſe Days of Vengeance which befel them for their Infidelity, and the Rejection of the true Meſſiah, of which the Jews who lived in other Nations, were as guilty as thoſe who lived in Judea.

§. 6. And hence alſo I return an Anſwer to an Objection which I foreſee may be made againſt my Interpretation of ſome Paſſages in the Fourth and Fifth Chapters of this Epiſtle, viz. that I reſtrain them to what was done to and by the Jews in Judea; whereas this Epiſtle is written to the Twelve Tribes which were ſcattered abroad, ver. 1.

For, 1ſt. As all the Jews of the Diſperſion were under the Government of the Sanhedrim, and after of the Patriarch of the Jews reſiding in Judea, and obey'd his Pleaſure; ſo many, both of Jews and Proſelytes, went up out of all Nations to their Feaſts, when the Holy Ghoſt fell down on the Apoſtles at the day of Pentecoſt we find them there, Acts 2. and when Jeruſalem was beſieged at their (z) Paſchal Feaſt; and ſo, even upon that account, they muſt be ſomewhat concern'd in what was done and ſuffer'd in Judea; and if they ſided with them in that War, as I have ſhew'd it probable they did, they muſt be more concern'd in theſe Matters. But,

2dly, Joſephus tells us that they had Wars about the ſame time in many Places of their Diſperſions with the Gentiles; that when the Alexandrians, in the Reign of Nero, had impeach'd Three of their Brethren as Enemies and Spies, (a) ἦρθη πᾶν τὸ Ἰουδαϊκὸν ὅπλα ἐπ' ἀμυναν, all the Jews there roſe up to their Aid; and that Tiberius Alexander, the Governour of the City, commanded the Roman Legions to ſlay

A Paraphraſe with Annotations ON THE General Epiſtle of St. JAMES.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. JAMES a Servant of God, and of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt (ſendeth) to the twelve Tribes which are ſcattered abroad, Greeting.

James.] That this was James an Apoſtle, is confirm'd from the Teſtimony of (a) Euſebius, who declares of that James to whom the Ancients aſcribed this Epiſtle, that he was the Brother of the Lord. The ſame we learn from the Syriack, Arabick, Vulgar, and Ethiopick Verſions, by all which he is ſtiled James the Apoſtle.

Ταῖς δώδεκα φυλαῖς, to the twelve Tribes.] That ſome of the ten Tribes remained in, and ſome of them returned to the Land of Iſrael, we are aſſured from the Cities of Manaſſeh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Nephtali, purg'd by Joſiah from their Idols; 2 Chr. 34. 6. from the Money ſent in to repair the Houſe of the Lord, from Manaſſeh, Ephraim, and the Remnant of Iſrael; ver. 9. from the mention made of the Children of Iſrael that were come again out of the Captivity, Eſdr. 6. 21. and the Sin-offering made by Ezra at the Dedication of the Temple of twelve Goats according to the number of the Tribes of Iſrael, ver. 17. and from theſe following words, Chap. 8. 35. The children of thoſe which had been carried away, which were come out of the Captivity, offer'd twelve Goats for a Sin-offering; and laſtly, from the mention of the twelve Tribes by the Apoſtle Paul, who inſtantly ſerved God day and night, Act. 26. 7.

Ἐν τῇ διασπορᾷ, which are ſcattered abroad.] That the Jews were diſperſed throughout the World, we learn from the words of Agrippa in his Oration to them; who tells them, That (b) there was not a Nation upon Earth where ſome part of them were not ſeated: and, That if they of Judea ſhould Rebel, all of them that reſided in other places would be deſtroyed, and every City would be filled with the blood of them. From the words of Strabo cited by (c) Joſephus, that it was not eaſie to find an eminent place in the whole World where the Jews did not reſide. From Philo in his Oration againſt Flaccus, where he makes mention τῶν πανταχόθεν τῆς οἰκουμένης Ἰουδαίων (d) of the Jews diſperſed throughout all the World, adding, that one Region could not contain the Jews, but (e) they dwelt in moſt of the flouriſhing Cities in Aſia, and in Europe, in the Iſlands and in the Continents, not much leſs in number than the Inhabitants; And introducing (f) Agrippa interceding to Cajus for them as inhabiting in the moſt celebrated Parts of Africa, Aſia, and Europe. And even Cicero, in his Oration for another Flaccus, declares that (g) the Gold which the Jews ſent to their Temple at Jeruſalem was ſent from Italy and all the other Provinces of the Roman Empire.

Ver. 2. My Brethren, count it (matter not of Sorrow, but of) all Joy when (through the Divine Permiſſion) ye fall into divers Temptations (i. e. Afflictions from the World.)

Πειρασμοῖς ποικίλοις, into divers Temptations.] Temptations, ſaith OEcumenius, are of two Kinds; 1. Such as lead to Sin, which the Luſts of the Fleſh, and the Love of Riches, produce in us, 1 Tim. 6. 9. againſt which our Lord inſtructs us to pray that we enter not into them, and of theſe the Apoſtle begins to diſcourſe ver. 12. Or ſuch as are ſent for the Trial of our Conſtancy, and Sincerity in the Faith: and to our Patience and Perſeverance under them is promiſed a great Reward in Heaven. And of theſe the Apoſtle ſpeaketh here, and ver. 12. See Luke 22. 28. Hebr. 4. 15.

Ver. 3. Knowing this, that (this outward Trouble ſent for) the Trial of your Faith (by the help of God's over-ruling Grace, and the Aid of his Holy Spirit then eſpecially reſiding on you, 1 Pet. 4. 14.) worketh (in you) Patience.

Τὸ δοκίμιον, the trial of our Faith] Being attended with theſe Aſſiſtances and Conſolations of the Holy Ghoſt, and theſe firm Hopes of a moſt glorious Reward of all our Sufferings, tends naturally to make us bear them patiently; as the Apoſtle ſpeaketh here. But then it is as true, that ὑπομονὴ κατεργάζεται τὸ δοκίμιον, Rom. 5. 4. i. e. that this Patience worketh the Trial, and by that, in good Chriſtians, the Experience of their Sincerity, and Conſtancy in the Faith: and therefore it concerns you not to faint under theſe Tribulations.

Ver. 4. But (to) let Patience have its perfect work (in you) that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing (to make you perfect in Chriſt Jeſus, and entire as to all Chriſtian Graces.)

Τέλειοι, that you may be perfect and entire.] For where there is this perfect work of Patience, there muſt be a ſtrong Faith as the foundation of it, a ſteddy Virtue or Chriſtian Fortitude, enabling us thus to ſuſtain theſe firy Trials; an exact Knowledge of our Duty, to bear theſe Afflictions, with a meek and quiet Spirit, with Forgiveneſs of, Love to, and Prayer for them that perſecute us, which includes the height of Charity under the higheſt Provocations; a great Love to God for whoſe ſake we ſuffer, and a ſtrong Affection to his Service; a greater Fear of his Diſpleaſure, than of the Wrath of Man; an entire Truſt and Dependance on him, and a full Reſignation to his Will of Providence, in which conſiſts the Life of Godlineſs; an exact Temperance as to the Honours, Pleaſures, and temporal Concernments of this preſent Life we loſe by theſe our Sufferings; and a true Charity to our Chriſtian Brethren, for whoſe Example and Encouragement we do thus ſuffer. Now theſe are all the Graces which the Apoſtle Peter doth require to make us fruitful and perfect Chriſtians, 2 Pet. 1. 5, 6, 7, 8.

Ver. 5. (Εἰ δὲ and) if any of you lack Wiſdom (how to exerciſe and preſerve this Patience under the various Temptations he may be ſubject to) let him ask it of (that) God who giveth liberally (whatſoever he ſees needful for us) and upbraideth (us) not (for want of this Wiſdom) and (if he duly ask) it ſhall be given him.

Δοθήσεται, it ſhall be given.] Hence it appears, that this Wiſdom depends not on our own Skill or Strength; nor can it be obtained without divine Aſſiſtance.

Ver. 6. But (then) let him (take care to) ask in Faith, nothing wavering, for he that wavereth (in the time of Temptation) is like a wave of the ſea, driven with the wind, and toſſed (to and fro by every Temptation.)

Ver. 7. For let not (μὴ γὰρ, let not then) that man think, that he ſhall receive any thing of the Lord.

Ver. 8. (For) a double-minded man is unſtable in all his ways (and therefore cannot pray in Faith, as he that would be heard muſt do.)

Δίψυχος — μηδὲν διακρινόμενος, ἀνὴρ γὰρ δίψυχος.] What is the ἀνὴρ δίψυχος καὶ διακρινόμενος, the double-minded and the wavering Man, we may learn from Hermas, who informs us, that Viſions and Revelations are διὰ τοὺς διψύχους (h) for the double-minded, i. e. τοὺς διαλογιζομένους ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις αὐτῶν, οἱ λέγουσιν ἐν ἑαυτοῖς, ἢ ἔστιν, ἢ οὐκ ἔστιν, that is, for them who reaſon in their hearts whether theſe things will be, or not. And again, (i) Credite Deo qui eſtis dubii, Believe in God you that are doubtful, for he can do all things. Woe to the doubtful, who have heard theſe things, and contemned them. And again (k) They that doubt of God, they are the double-minded, who ſhall receive none of their Requeſts. See the whole Mandate to the ſame effect. And from that of (l) Barnabas touching him that walketh in the way of Light, that ἵνα μὴ δίψυχήσῃ, he will not be doubtful whether a thing will be ſo or not, from the like Precept of the (m) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions, μὴ γίνου δίψυχος, be not doubtful in thy Prayer whether thy Petition will be heard or not; and from (n) St. Clement, with whom οἱ δίψυχοι the doubtful, are οἱ διστάζοντες περὶ τῆς Θεοῦ δυνάμεως, the Diſtruſters of the Power of God. This Faith therefore relates to Prayer, and is a firm Belief that God will afford to his ſincere Servants, under all their Sufferings for his ſake, ſuch Aid as will enable them to bear them with true Chriſtian Patience, 1 Cor. 10. 13. and ſuch Wiſdom as will direct them to improve theſe Sufferings to his Glory and their Good. He that doubts of this, will be now hoping, and anon deſponding, apt to quit his Dependance on God, and lean on his own

Wiſdom,

Wisdom, and ready to cast off that Religion which subjects him to these Temptations from which he expects no good issue; and therefore wanting that Faith in God which is here made the Condition of an acceptable Prayer, &c. he cannot hope to obtain any thing of him.

Ver. 9. (And if Temptations be matter of the Christians joy) Let the Brother of low degree (impoverish'd by them) rejoyce (still) in that he is exalted (to be rich in Faith, and an Heir of the Kingdom of God, Chap. 2. 5. Luke 6. 20.)

'Ο ταπεινὸς, the man of low degree] in the Old Testament is the poor and afflicted Man. So 'tis in the Septuagint πένης, ταπεινὸς the poor, the afflicted, עני πτωχία, ταπείνωσις, Poverty, or Lowness of State: and the sense here is confirmed from the opposition of the Rich to him.

Ver. 10. But let the Rich rejoyce in that he is made low, for as the flower of the Grass he shall pass away; (Gr. For as the flower of the Grass shall pass away when it is scorched with the Sun.)

Ver. 11. (For the Sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the Grass, and the Grace of the fashion of it perisheth,) so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

'Ο πλούσιος, the Rich.] Let God, saith (o) Philo, be the matter of thy chief Joy, not Riches, Honour, Strength, or Beauty, these being φαινόμενα πρόσωπα καὶ μεθ' ἡδονῆς βλαστάνοντα things which wither before they are fully grown up. Let then the Christian consider, that the things he loseth for the sake of Christ are only things of such a fading nature, whereas he doth secure by his Perseverance an everlasting Treasure reserved for him in the Heavens; and then he may rejoyce in his Humiliation. Note also an Ellipsis of the Verb καυχάσθω let him rejoyce, ver. 10. to be taken from ver. 9. So Job. 15. 4. 1 Cor. 4. 15. Gal. 2. 7. Eph. 1. 12.

Ver. 12. Blessed is the man that (thus) endureth Temptation (for the sake of Christ) for when he is tried (Gr. δόκιμος γενόμενος, being approved) he shall receive the Crown of life which the Lord hath promised to them that love him, (i. e. being by his patient enduring of these Afflictions for the sake of Christ approved as one that loves him more than the World, he shall receive the Reward promised to them that do so.)

Ver. 13. (As for the other sort of Temptations unto Sin) Let no man say when he is (thus) tempted, I am tempted of God, for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man (to it.)

Ver. 14. But every man is tempted when he is drawn away by his own Lust, and enticed, (Gr. being drawn and enticed by his own Lust.)

Note here, That the Desires or Lustings of the sensual Appetite put us only under a state of Temptation, not of actual Sin; they are indeed the root of Sin, but so is Temptation to Sin, and the Suggestions of Satan, but they are not our Sins till we consent to them: they are not a Transgression of the Law, for there is no Law given to the sensual Appetite alone, but to the whole Man, who cannot hinder sensual Appetites from arising in him before he perceives them, but he can restrain the Will from consenting to them as soon as he perceives them, and can refuse to admit of them, or suffer them to make stay in, or gain upon his Mind to contemplate them with delight, or assent to them: and this being all he can do, must be all he is oblig'd by the Law to do. There be many Scriptures urged against this Opinion in the Synopsis, but they are too impertinent to be insisted on.

Ver. 15. Then when Lust hath conceived (i. e. obtained any consent to, or approbation and good-liking to the desire of the sensual Appetite) it bringeth forth (and engageth the Soul in) Sin. And Sin, when it is finished, (in the deliberate outward action, or such endeavours to perform and execute it as want nothing on the part of the Will to the completion of it, and much more when by a customary practice it becomes habitual) bringeth forth Death (the Wages of Sin.)

'Αποκύει θάνατον, bringeth forth Death.] i. e. Not only deserveth Death, for so doth the consent of the Will, but it renders us obnoxious to Death, and will end in it, without Repentance. Hence therefore note, that not only the Soul harden'd in Sin, and given up to the frequent practice of the same Sin, is guilty of mortal Sin, but every deliberate sinful Action, done against the Convictions and the Checks of Conscience, till by Repentance it is retracted, puts us under that state, as being a breach of the Gospel-Covenant of sincere and impartial Obedience, a departing of the Heart from God, and a wilful and presumptuous Sin; and therefore David, after his Adultery and Murder, prays that God would create in him the clean Heart, and renew in him the right Spirit. Though therefore God in mercy may and will deal with such Men not according to their particular Failures, but according to the general Tenure of their Lives, yet can they claim no Covenant-Right to such Favour till they have throughly repented of such wilful Sins, and return'd to the sincere Performance of their Duty.

Ver. 16. Do not err, my beloved Brethren (by ascribing your Sin, or your Temptations to it, unto God.)

Ver. 17. Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights (the Light of Nature and of Grace) with whom is no variableneſs, neither ſhadow of turning (from Good to Evil; he therefore never will deny thoſe Gifts to them that duly ask them, nor will he ever be wanting in his Grace and Favour to them that love him, and much leſs will he tempt any one to depart from him.)

Ver. 18. For of his own Will begat he us (Jews) by the word of truth, that we ſhould be a kind of Firſt-fruits of his (new) Creatures. (We therefore have little cauſe to think he will do any thing to deſtroy that Life, or deny us any thing which he ſees neceſſary to preſerve that Life which he ſo freely gave.)

Λόγῳ ἀληθείας.] Here is a plain Evidence that the Word of God is the ordinary means of our Regeneration, it being the Word preached, the Word we are to hear, ver. 19, 22. and to receive with meekneſs, by which the new Birth is by God wrought in us, and which ſaith the Apoſtle, is able to ſave the Soul: and it is ſurely a great Diſparagement to the Word of God, to think that his Perſuaſions, Admonitions, Exhortations, and Threats, ſhould be all inſufficient to prevail with us to turn from our ſinful Courſes, and to turn unto him, when all Men who do uſe theſe Methods towards their Children, Servants, Friends, or Relations, do it in hopes that they ſhall be ſucceſsful by theſe means; only this is not ſo to be underſtood, as to exclude the Bleſſing and Co-operation of God with the Word preach'd, or the Aſſiſtance or his Holy Spirit, ſetting it home upon our Hearts: provided this be not by way of Phyſical, but Moral Operation, by that Illumination of the Underſtanding from the Word which produceth that Renovation in the Spirit of the Mind, by which we are enabled to diſcern and to approve the good, and acceptable, and perfect Will of God, Rom. 12. 2. Eph. 4. 23. to diſcern what is acceptable to the Lord, Eph. 5. 10. to underſtand what the Will of the Lord is, v. 17. the things that are moſt excellent. And if the Word of God be a perfect Rule, able to make us wiſe unto Salvation, and furniſh us for every good work, ſure the Good Spirit may by his Suggeſtion of the Truths deliver'd in it, by bringing them to our Remembrance, and opening our Underſtanding to perceive the Scriptures, remove that Darkneſs which is in our Minds either by natural Corruption, or by the Miſts which Satan caſts upon them; whence the Apoſtle doth inform us, 2 Cor. 4. 3, 4. that if the Goſpel be hidden from any to whom it is preach'd, it is becauſe the God of the World hath blinded the conceptions of their minds, that the Light of the glorious Goſpel ſhould not ſhine into them. And, 2dly, by making deep Impreſſions on the Mind, of the Advantages and Rewards promiſed to our Converſion and ſincere Obedience, and the tremendous Evils threatned to the Diſobedient, and bringing theſe things oft to our Remembrance, which in the Scripture Phraſe is putting theſe Laws in our minds, and writing them upon our hearts, that we may not depart from him, Hebr. 8. 10. See Note on Hebr. 8. 10. For, what Reaſon can be given why the Spirit of Wiſdom, having enlightned the eyes of our Underſtanding, to know what is the hope of our Calling, and the Glorious Riches of the Inheritance of the Saints, Eph. 1. 18. and theſe things being as firmly believed, and made thus preſent to our Minds, ſhould not have greater prevalence upon our Wills to Obedience, than any temporal Concerns to yield Obedience to the Laws of Sin? 'Tis certain Satan can tempt us no other way than by ſuggeſting ſome temporal Allurements and Advantages, or ſome temporal Loſſes and Affrightments to us: Since then the Scripture doth aſſure us this is our Victory over the World, even our Faith, 1 Joh. 5. 4. even that Faith which is the firm Expectation of things hoped for, the Evidence of things not ſeen, Hebr. 11. 1. Why ſhould not theſe Objects of our Faith, preſented to us and impreſſed upon us by the Holy Spirit, be more powerful to baffle all the Temptations of Sin, Satan, and the World? If beyond this there be ſome Phyſical and irreſiſtible Operation on God's part requiſite to make Men know the things which belong to their Peace, and knowing, to chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil, this being not wrought in them who are not born anew; why is the want of this New-birth, and this ſpiritual Renovation, ſo oft imputed to Mens want of Conſideration, and of laying to heart the things propounded to them? their not inclining their Ear to Wiſdom, and applying their Heart to Underſtanding? their Hatred of Knowledge, their rejecting the Counſel of God, and not chuſing the Fear of the Lord? Prov. 1. 24, 25, 29, 30. Why is it ſaid that they continue thus unreformed, becauſe they would have none of God's Counſel, but deſpiſed all his Reproofs, becauſe they would not frame their Doings to turn unto the Lord? to omit innumerable Expreſſions of the like Import. See Note on Rom. 10. 17. 1 Pet. 1. 23.

Ver. 19. Wherefore my beloved Brethren (being regenerated by this Word of Truth) let every Man be ſwift to hear (it) ſlow to ſpeak (ver. 26. or be a Teacher of it, ch. 3. 1.) ſlow to Wrath (or Contention about it.)

Ver. 20. For the wrath of Man worketh not the Righteouſneſs of God (i. e. it tends not to beget, or to improve that Faith by which we are righteous before God, but rather to hinder it in our ſelves, and others.)

Ver. 21. Wherefore lay apart all Filthineſs (all evil Luſtings, ver. 14.) and all ſuperfluity of Naughtineſs (all the Diſtempers of your Tongue, and of your angry Paſſions, ver. 19.) and receive with meekneſs the ingrafted grafted Word, which (being thus received) is able to ſave your Souls.

Slow to ſpeak.] It was the Imputation which the (p) Heathens caſt upon the Chriſtians, that they were in publico muti, not being enclined, palam loqui, to ſpeak openly of their Religion; and this is confeſſed by Chriſtians to be true of the Laity, who were not by Office engaged to preach it to the World; that it was not their Cuſtom to aſſert and defend their Religion publickly, but only to give an Anſwer to them who requir'd a reaſon of the hope that was in them; and in this ſenſe good Commentators do expound theſe Words, viz. as an admonition to be ſlow to ſpeak of Divine Things, and much more to be Teachers of them.

Βραδὺς εἰς ὀργὴν, ſlow to Wrath.] This was an admonition needful for the Jewiſh Zealots, who were, ἐξ ἐριθείας, of contentious Spirits, ſee Note on Rom. 2. 8. filled with Wrath againſt the Preachers of Chriſtianity, and eſpecially againſt thoſe who denied the neceſſity of Circumciſing the Gentiles, or requiring them to obſerve the Law of Moſes, Acts 13. 45. 17. 5. they (q) compelling all Men to be Circumciſed if they would abide with them, and looking upon this as a thing of abſolute Neceſſity, without which nothing elſe would ſatisfie them.

Now theſe Diſputes naturally tended to obſtruct that Faith by which Men were juſtified, and not by Circumciſion, or the Works of the Law, and which in the Epiſtles of St. Paul is ſtill ſtiled the Righteouſneſs of God, ſee Note on Rom. 1. 17. 2. They were very prone to ſet up for Teachers of the Law, tho' they underſtood not aright thoſe things of which they ſpake, 1 Tim. 1. 7. Rom. 2. 18. and this might give occaſion to the other Admonition here, to be ſlow to ſpeak. And Chap. 3. 1. they alſo were incontinent, and very prone to Luſtings, and to Fornications; ſee Note on Rom. 2. 22. 2 Tim. 3. 5. Hebr. 12. 16. and therefore fitly are admoniſhed to lay aſide all Filthineſs, and Superfluity of Naughtineſs.

Τὸν ἔμφυτον λόγον, the ingrafted Word,] ſaith Oecumenius, is that Principle of Reaſon by which we are enabled to diſcern Good from Evil; but of that the Apoſtle would not ſay, that it is able to ſave our Souls. But the Apoſtles, or Preachers of the Chriſtian Faith being ſaid, φυτεύειν, to plant the Word among their Hearers, 1 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8. The ingrafted Word ſeems to be the Word planted in the Heart of Believers by the Miniſters of Chriſt, which St. Barnabas ſtiles, ἔμφυτον δωρεὰν τῆς διδαχῆς αὐτοῦ, the ingrafted Gift of his Doctrine. §. 9. p. 6.

Ver. 22. And (that it may have this effect upon you) be ye doers of the Word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own ſelves, (by thinking that ſufficient to procure Favour with God.)

That many of the Jews had conceived an Opinion, that even the Study and Knowledge of the Law would procure them a Reward in Heaven, ſee Note on Rom. 2. 13.

Ver. 23. For if any Man be a hearer of the Word (only,) and not a doer (of it,) he is like unto a Man beholding his own natural Face (which he was born with) in a Glaſs.

Ver. 24. For he beholdeth himſelf, and goeth (preſently) away, and ſtreightway forgets what manner of Man he was.

Ver. 25. But he that looketh into the perfect Law of Liberty, (i. e. the Goſpel which gives the Spirit of Liberty and Freedom from the Power of Sin and Death, and from the Spirit of Bondage, Rom. 8. 2, 15. 2 Cor. 3. 17.) he being not a forgetful Hearer, but a Doer of the Word, he ſhall be bleſſed in his Deed.

Ver. 26. If any Man ſeems to be Religious among you, and bridleth not his Tongue (from bitter Zeal, Contentions, and Imprecations, Chap. 3. 10, 14.) but deceiveth (Gr. deceiving) his own Heart, (thinks his Zeal for God will bear him out in all this) that Man's Religion is vain, (Chap. 3. 14, 15.)

Ἀπατῶν, &c. deceiving his own Heart.] That the unbelieving Jews had a Zeal for God, the Apoſtle bears them record, Rom. 10. 2. but then that Zeal wrought ſo great bitterneſs of Spirit in them, that in thoſe very Synagogues in which they met to Bleſs God, they imprecated a Curſe upon the Chriſtians created anew after his Image, Chap. 3. 10. I being zealous for God, as all you are this day, ſaith he, perſecuted this way unto the death, Acts 22. 3, 4. and in thus doing they thought they did God ſervice, John 16. 2. The Zealots among them, ſaith their own (r) Joſephus, who gave themſelves that name from their Zeal to what was good, committed all manner of Wickedneſs, and accounted the worſt of Evils good. And yet Eleazer, the Ring-leader of them, repreſents them as Perſons who had (ſ) cauſe to hope they ſhould be by God pre-

ſerved, as having not offended againſt him, and being Guilty of no fault, and who were Teachers of others. That the believing Jews, who urged upon the Gentiles the neceſſity of Circumciſion had a Zeal for God, we learn from Gal. 4. 17, 18. yet that they had the Spirit of Contention and Envy, Philip. 1. 15, 16. and were deceitful Workers; the Apoſtle doth inform us; ſo that neither of them were truly Religious, and to theſe latter the Apoſtle ſeems chiefly to ſpeak in theſe words, If ye have bitter Zeal and Strife in your Hearts, glory not, and lye not againſt the Truth, &c.

Ver. 27. Pure Religion, and undefiled before God and (i.e. who is) the Father, is (viſible in) this, (that it engages the Chriſtian) to viſit the Fatherleſs and Widows in their Affliction, and to keep himſelf unſpotted from the World.

Ἐπισκέπτεσθαι, to viſit the Fatherleſs and Widows.] It is very true that Ignatius ſaith of ſome, who maintain'd Opinions contrary to the Grace of God come unto us, That (t) they had no regard to Charity, to the Widow, and the Orphan, to the Oppreſſed, to thoſe that were in Bonds, to the Hungry and Thirſty. But then it is not manifeſt from his Words that theſe were the Gnoſticks; nothing hinders but what the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of may be alſo true of the Jews, who, as (u) Joſephus notes, were great Enemies one to another, and wanted Mercy moſt of all; or to thoſe Zealots who ſpared none who would not be of their Opinions, and their bitter Zeal.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. MY Brethren, have not the Faith of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Lord of Glory, with reſpect of Perſons.

Τὴν πίστιν τῦ κυρίυ ἡμῶν Ἰησῦ Χριστῦ τῆς δόξης, the Faith of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Lord of Glory.] This Verſion ſeems obnoxious to this Exception, that the Pronoun ἡμῶν will not ſuffer the word Lord to be join'd with Glory, therefore that which renders the words thus, The Faith of the Glory of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, or, Hold not the glorious Faith of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt with reſpect of Perſons, ſeems to be the better and more agreeable to the deſign of the Apoſtle, as giving the beſt Reaſon againſt the accepting Perſons on the account of their Riches, or their gay Attire, becauſe their Faith hath clothed them with a greater and more valuable Glory, which renders them more Honourable than any Riches or gay Clothing could do. For this Faith, ſaith the Apoſtle, is the Miniſtration of Glory, and by it we all beholding the Glory of the Lord, are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory, as by the Spirit of the Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 8, 18. See the Note there. And whom God hath juſtified by Faith, he hath alſo Glorified, by giving them this Spirit of Glory, Rom. 8. 30. See the Note there.

Ἐν προσωπολημψίαις, with reſpect of Perſons.] Προσωπολημψία is the reſpect of Perſons in Judgment, not purely according to the Merits of the Cauſe, but according to external reſpects which relate not to it. As for Inſtance, the dread of any Man's Power, or the fear of what he may do to us if we judge againſt him. So Lev. 19. 15. Thou ſhalt not Honour the Perſon of the Great, or reſpect the Perſon of the Poor; in Juſtice ſhalt thou judge thy Neighbour. And Deut. 1. 17. Ye ſhall not reſpect Perſons in Judgment, ye ſhall hear alike the Small and the Great; ye ſhall not be afraid of the Face of Man, for the Judgment is the Lord's. Or, 2dly, the Poverty of any Man, which renders him leſs able to ſuffer the Puniſhment of his Injuſtice. Thou ſhalt not reſpect a Poor Man in his Cauſe, Exod. 23. 3. 3dly, By reaſon of any Gift, or hope of Gain by favouring any Cauſe: Thou ſhalt not wreſt Judgment, thou ſhalt reſpect Perſons, neither take a Gift, Deut. 16. 19. 4thly, By reaſon of Relation, Affinity, Friendſhip, or Affection. In Spiritual or Evangelical Matters, it is to have regard to Men in reference to things which render them neither better nor worſe, more or leſs acceptable in the ſight of God. As for Inſtance, to regard them, 1ſt. In reſpect to their Nation, and their Off-ſpring; Of a truth, I perceive that God is no reſpecter of Perſons, but in every Nation he that feareth him, and worketh Righteouſneſs is accepted of him, Acts 10. 31. He will have no reſpect to Nations, or external Profeſſions in his future Recompences, Rom. 2. 6----10. Or, 2dly, With regard to their Condition, as being Maſters or Servants. Hence Maſters are bid to deal with their Servants, as knowing they have a Maſter in Heaven, with whom is no reſpect of Perſons, Epheſ. 6. 9. And Servants to be juſt to their Maſters, becauſe he that is unjuſt ſhall receive for the wrong that he hath done, and there is no reſpect of Perſons with God, Col. 3. 25. 1 Pet. 1. 17. Or, 3dly, To their Quality, for God accepteth not the Perſons of Princes, nor regardeth the Rich more than the Poor, for they are all the Work of his Hands, Job 34. 39. And this is the thing here cenſured.

Poor,

Ver. 2. For if there come into your Aſſemblies (or Conſiſtories for Judicature) a Man with a gold Ring and goodly Apparel, and there come in alſo a poor Man in vile Rayment,

Ver. 3. And ye have reſpect to him that weareth the gay Clothing, and ſay unto him, Sit thou here in a good place; and ſay to the Poor, Stand thou there, or ſit here under my Footſtool;

Ver. 4. Are ye not then partial in your ſelves, (do you not both put a difference among your ſelves on theſe accounts,) and (alſo are) become Judges of evil Thoughts, (in thinking that the Rich is to be preferred in Judgment, and the Poor deſpiſed, ver 6. on theſe accounts)?

Εἰς τὴν Συναγωγὴν, into your Aſſembly.] That the word Συναγωγὴ reſpects not only Places of Aſſembly for the Publick Worſhip of God, but alſo Conſiſtories for Judicature, we learn from thoſe words of St. Matthew, Beware of Men, for they bring you into the Sanhedrim, and in their Synagogues chaſtiſe you. Chap. 10. 17. Chap. 23. 34. And that here the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of ſuch Conſiſtories, is probable, 1ſt. From the accepting of Perſons mention'd ver. 1. which in the Old Teſtament and in the New, as oft as 'tis apply'd to Men, always reſpecteth humane Judicatures. 2dly, From the Footſtool mention'd ver. 3. which obtain'd in their Judicial Conſiſtories, and which was proper to Princes on their Thrones, and Judges on their Tribunals. 3dly, From the Judges mention'd ver. 4. and the κεῖσθαι, or Judgment Seats, ver. 6. 4thly, From the Law violated by this reſpect of Perſons, ver. 8, 9. And laſtly, From the Canon of the Jews, by which it is provided, That when the Rich and Poor have a Suit together in their Conſiſtories, either both muſt ſit or both ſtand, to avoid all marks of Partiality. R. Levi Barcinon. l. 142. Juris Hebraici.

Note alſo, That the Jewiſh Chriſtians ſtill aſſembled in the Jewiſh Synagogues, and both the Judges and the Judgment Seats might belong to the Rulers of the Synagogues; nor do I think there were then any other Church Aſſemblies among the Jews: Yea, the Jews living among the Gentiles, retain'd ſtill a Juriſdiction over Men of their own Nation and Religion, even as to Matrimonial and Pecuniary, as well as to Religious Cauſes, and ſo the Jewiſh Chriſtians might be drawn before their Judgment Seats on thoſe accounts, v. 6. this being long after forbidden by a Law of Honorius and Theodoſius. 16. Cod. Theodoſ. Tit. 8. Leg. 22. Vid. Not. on Gothfr. p. 240.

Καὶ οὐ διεκρίθητε ἐν ἑαυτοῖς;] Do you not both put a difference or diſcrimination among your ſelves on thoſe accounts, which are alien from the Cauſe. That this is the frequent ſenſe of the Word διακρινόμαι and διάκρισις, ſee Acts 15. 9. where οὐδὲν διέκρινεν is rendred, he put no difference betwixt us and them. And Jude 22. where we read thus, Of ſome have compaſſion, διακρινόμενοι, making a difference. See Note on Rom. 14. 23.

Καὶ ἐγένεσθε κριταὶ διαλογισμῶν πονηρῶν, Judges of evil Thoughts.] i. e. Who paſs Judgment from your own evil Thoughts, as judging the Rich worthy of Reſpect in Judgment for his Gorgeous Attire, and outward Appearance, and the Poor fit to be deſpiſed for his outward Meanneſs.

Ver. 5. Hearken, my beloved Brethren; hath not God choſen the Poor of this World rich in Faith, and Heirs of the Kingdom which he hath promiſed to them that love him? (and are they fit to be deſpiſed by you who are ſo highly honoured and enriched by him?)

Ver. 6. But (ſo it is, that) ye have deſpiſed the Poor, (and had a partial reſpect to the Rich, and yet) do not (theſe) rich Men oppreſs you, and draw you before the Judgment Seats, (on the account of your Chriſtian Profeſſion?)

Ver. 7. Do not they Blaſpheme that worthy Name by which you are called?

Ver. 8. If (in this matter) you fulfil the Royal Law (which is) according to the Scripture, (ſaying,) Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf, ye do well; (for then you will not be Guilty of that reſpect of Perſons, for you would not be deſpiſed becauſe you are Poor, or have a rich Man preferred before you in Judgment)

Νόμον βασιλικὸν, the Royal Law.] Not ſo much becauſe it is the Law of Chriſt our King, it being a Law of the Old Teſtament, as becauſe it is the Law which is of all the Laws, which concern our Neighbour, the moſt Excellent, and which governs and moderates other Laws, eſpecially the ceremonial and poſitive Laws, which are to give place to that of Charity and Mercy. Moreover, the Jews themſelves ſo interpret this Law, as to forbid the contempt of our Brother, as you may ſee in Dr. Cartwright's Mellificium on this place.

Ver. 9. But if ye have (ſuch) reſpect of Perſons (as to honour the Rich, and deſpiſe the Poor in Judicial Cauſes) ye commit Sin, and are convinced of (or by) the Law (now mention'd) as Tranſgreſſors (of God's Law in the General; this Law comprehending all the Duties of the Second Table, Rom. 13. 9. Matth. 22. 39.)

Ver. 10. For whoſoever ſhall keep the whole Law (in other matters,) and yet (knowingly) offend in one point, is guilty of all.

Ver. 11. For he that ſaid, Do not commit Adultery, ſaid alſo, Do not Kill. Now if thou commit no Adultery, yet if thou Kill, thou art become a Tranſgreſſor of the Law (of Love, mention'd ver. 8. which comprehends all the Duties Duties of the Second Table in which here the Apoſtle inſtanceth.)

Παραβάτης νόμου.] Or becauſe the Authority of the Lawgiver is as much deſpiſed by the breaking any one of his Laws, as by the Violation of them all; and he that by it will not be reſtrain'd from the Violation of it in one point, under the like Temptations, will do it in another.

Note farther, that theſe words ſeem to be directly levell'd againſt that looſe Doctrine of the Jewiſh Doctors, mention'd by (a) Dr. Pocock, That God gave ſo many Commandments to them, that by doing any of them they might be ſaved. So Kimchi expounds thoſe words of Hoſea, Take away Iniquity, וקח טוב, and receive Good; i. e. ſaith he, receive in lieu of them any Good, אחזה מעשה, any Commandment that we have done. It was a vulgar Rule among them, ſaith (b) Dr. Smith, That Men ſhould ſingle out ſome one Commandment out of God's Law, and therein eſpecially exerciſe themſelves, that ſo they might make God their Friend by that, leſt in others they ſhould too much diſpleaſe him. And he cites from them this Rule, (c) He that obſerves any one Precept, it ſhall be well with him, and his Days ſhall be prolong'd, and he ſhall poſſeſs the Earth. And this Precept was with them uſually that of the Sabbath, of Sacrifices, or of Tythes; for theſe they look'd upon as the great Commandments of the Law, not thoſe of Mercy and Judgment, which in our Saviour's account were ſo.

Ver. 12. So (therefore) ſpeak ye, and ſo do, as they that (know they) ſhall be judged by the Law of Liberty.

Διὰ νόμου ἐλευθερίας.] i. e. By that Law of Love which makes all Men our Neighbours, and frees us from thoſe reſtraints the ceremonial Law, and the Traditions of the Jewiſh Doctors lay upon us, of confining our Love and freedom of Converſe to thoſe that were of their own Nation, or were Circumciſed. The Jews had great need of theſe Inſtructions, for as they held it unlawful to converſe with Publicans and Sinners, Luke 15. 1, 2. though to inſtruct them in the way of Life, ſo much more to come to, or converſe with one of another Nation, Acts 10. 28. Yea, (d) they would not ſuffer them to be among them, who would not be Circumciſed.

Ver. 13. For he ſhall have Judgment without Mercy, who hath ſhewed no Mercy, (and ſo hath highly thwarted the great Law of Love;) and Mercy rejoiceth againſt (or triumpheth over) Judgment, (i. e. it enables the merciful Man to rejoice, as being free from the Judgment of Condemnation.)

And of this Mercy the Jews were ſo mindful, that (e) Joſephus having ſaid they violated the Laws of Nature, and polluted the Divinity with their Injuſtice towards Men, he adds, That no good Affection was ſo entirely loſt among them, ὡς ἔλεος, as that of Mercy.

Ver. 14. (And let not any Jew or Chriſtian think his Faith ſufficient to juſtifie and ſave him, without theſe Works of Charity and Mercy, for) What doth it profit, my Brethren, if a Man ſay he hath Faith (in God, ver. 19. or in Chriſt,) and have not Works (to evidence his Faith?) can (ſuch a naked, fruitleſs) Faith ſave him?

Ver. 15. If a Brother or Siſter be naked, or deſtitute of daily Food,

Ver. 16. And one of you ſay unto him, Depart in peace, be you warmed and filled (wiſhing only that he may be ſo,) notwithſtanding ye give them not thoſe things which be needful for (the clothing or feeding) the Body, what doth it profit (him to hear your kind Wiſhes?)

Ver. 17. Even ſo Faith, if it hath not Works, is dead, (fruitleſs, and lifeleſs as thoſe words) being alone, (without Works ſhewing the truth of it.)

Ver. 18. Yea, a Man may ſay (to ſuch a Solifidian,) Thou haſt (in thy Pretenſions) Faith, and I have (real) Works, ſhew me thy Faith (of which thou boaſteſt) without thy Works, (which thou canſt never do, ſince Faith being ſealed in the Heart can only be diſcovered by its Effects) and I will ſhew thee by my Works my Faith, (as the Cauſe is demonſtrated by the Effect.)

Ver. 19. Thou (being a Jew) believeſt there is one God, thou (in that) doſt well, (but doſt no more than the very Devils, for) the Devils alſo believe and (f) tremble: (And if thou haſt no better Faith than they, thou haſt the ſame reaſon to tremble which they have.)

Ver. 20. But wiltſt thou know, O vain Man, (who boaſteſt of a Faith deſtitute of Works) that Faith without Works is dead, (and ſo unable to juſtifie and ſave thee. See it in the Example of that very Abraham, in thy Relation to whom thou ſo confideſt.)

Ver. 21. (For) Was not Abraham (whom we ſtile) our Father, juſtified by Works (proceeding from his Faith,) when he had offered his Son Iſaac upon the Altar, (counting that God was able to raiſe him from the dead, Hebr. 11. 17, 19.)

Ver. 22. Seeſt thou how (Gr. thou ſeeſt (by this Example) that) Faith wrought with his Works (to produce them) and by Works was Faith made perfect (in him.)

ανενεγκας, &c. when he offered his Son Iſaac.] This being a greater Act of Faith than that by which he was at firſt juſtified, for that was only Faith in God's Promiſe, that he would raiſe up Seed from his dead Body, and the dead Womb of Sarah, Rom. 4. 20. This was a belief that he would raiſe up this very Seed conſumed to Aſhes from the dead, and therefore by this Work was his Faith made perfect, i. e. advanced to the greateſt height, there being no more noble Act of Faith than this of the Reſurrection of the Dead conſumed to Aſhes, and none by which we give more Glory to God. See Eccluſ. 44. 20.

Ver. 23. And the Scripture was (again) fulfilled, which ſaith, Abraham believed God, and it (viz. that Faith which produc'd theſe Works) was accounted to him for Righteouſneſs, and (upon that account) he was called the friend of God.

ἐλογίσθη αὐτῷ εἰς δικαιοσύνην, was accounted to him for Righteouſneſs.] That is it engaged God to own him as a truly Righteous Perſon, as one that did ſincerely fear him, by ſaying, Now I know that thou feareſt God, ſeeing thou haſt not withheld thy only Son from me, Gen. 22. 15. or as one who upon tryal had been found faithful; ſo Mattathias, Was not Abraham found faithful in Temptation, and that was accounted to him for Righteouſneſs, 1 Maccab. 2. 52. and alſo to deal with him as a righteous Perſon, ſo as to renew the Covenant made with him, and to eſtabliſh it with an Oath, Gen. 22. 16, 17, 18. and to give him the high Title not only of his Servant but his friend, 2 Chron. 20. 7. Iſa. 41. 8.

Ver. 24. Ye ſee then how that by Works (proceeding from Faith) a Man is juſtified, and not by Faith only (alone without them.)

Ver. 25. Likewiſe alſo was not Raab the Harlot, juſtified by Works (proceeding from her Faith,) when ſhe had received the Meſſengers, and had ſent them out another way?

Ῥαὰβ ἡ πόρνη, Raab the Harlot.] That Raab had a ſtrong Faith in God the Apoſtle teſtifies by ſaying, By Faith Raab the Harlot periſh'd not with thoſe that believed not, receiving the Spies in peace, Hebr. 11. 31. And this ſhe ſhew'd by ſaying, The Lord your God he is God in Heaven above, and in Earth beneath, Joſh. 2. 11. And this ſhe teſtified by being ſo induſtrious to preſerve the Meſſengers, and to do all things agreed on betwixt them and her, for her ſafety.

Ver. 26. (And ſo it muſt be in all other Perſons who would be ſaved, they muſt ſhew their Faith by their Works.) For as the Body without the Spirit is dead, ſo Faith without Works is dead alſo, (and therefore cannot ſave us, or give Life unto us.)

There have been many ways invented how to reconcile theſe words of St. James with the Apoſtle Paul, aſſerting, That a Man is juſtified by Faith without the Deeds of the Law, Rom. 3. 28. As,

1*ſt.* That when St. Paul ſaith, We are juſtified by Faith without the Works of the Law, and that to him that worketh not, but believeth Faith is imputed unto him for Righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 5. or to Juſtification. Juſtification there aſcribed to Faith only, imports only our Abſolution from Condemnation by reaſon of our paſt Offences, committed before Faith, and our Reconciliation to God by the Pardon, or the not imputing them to Believers. It conſiſts, ſaith the Apoſtle, in the remiſſion of Sins that are paſt, Rom. 3. 25. it is, ſaith Peter, the Purgation of us from our old Sins, 2 Pet. 1. 9. It is effected by the Death of Chriſt procuring Redemption for Sins committed under the Old Covenant, Heb. 9. 15. This is apparent from the chief Argument the Apoſtle uſeth to prove the neceſſity that both Jew and Gentile ſhould be juſtified freely by his Grace, and not by the Works of the Law, becauſe they were all under Sin, all become Guilty before God, all having ſinned, and come ſhort of the Glory of God, Rom. 3. 9, 19, 23. Whereas, ſaith he, being juſtified by Faith we have peace with God, and rejoice in hope of the Glory of God, Rom. 5. 1, 2. Therefore Chapter the 3d he muſt be ſpeaking of the Condition of Jew and Gentile before Faith. So again, when the Apoſtle ſaith, the Scripture hath concluded all under Sin, that the promiſe (of Juſtification) by (the) Faith of Jeſus Chriſt might be given to them that believe (in him), Gal. 3. 22, 23, 24. Wherefore the Law was (then) our School-Maſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by Faith (in him,) ver. 25. But now after that Faith is come, we are no longer under a School-Maſter, (i. e. under the Pædagogy of the Law) v. 26. For ye are all the Children of God through Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, He plainly inſinuates that we cannot be juſtified by the Works of the Law, becauſe the Law leads us to Chriſt for Juſtification; and ceaſeth now the way of Juſtification by Faith in Chriſt is made known. And again, we are juſtified by Grace, not of Works. For we are his Workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus to good Works, Epheſ. 2. 8, 9, 10. where the Argument ſeems plainly to run thus, We cannot be juſtified by Works preceding Faith, becauſe we do no good Works till by Faith we are intereſted in Chriſt Jeſus. Whereas St. James ſpeaks plainly of thoſe Works which follow Faith, are wrought by it, and are the Fruits of it, and of their neceſſity in order to our continuance in a State of Juſtification, and freedom from our final Condemnation.

2*dly*, That St. Paul excludes from Juſtification only thoſe Works which are oppoſed to Juſtification by an Act of Grace, and make it to be of Debt, and ſo give occaſion to our Glorying in our being Righteous in the ſight of God, purely by reaſon of our Works, as in theſe words, If it be of Grace it is no more of Works, otherwiſe Grace is no more Grace; but if it be of Works, then it is no more Grace, otherwiſe Work is no more Work, Rom. 11. 6. And again, to him that worketh the Reward is reckoned, not of Grace, but of Debt; but to him that worketh not, but believeth, Faith is accounted unto him for Righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 4, 5. And again, Where then is Glorying? it is excluded: by what Law? by that of Works? no; but by the Law of Faith, Rom. 3. 27. Whereas St. James requires only thoſe Works to our Salvation, and our continuance in a State of Juſtification, which proceed from, and are accepted through Grace, and ſo can never render our Juſtification of Debt, or give us a juſt Ground of bouſting.

3*dly*, That St. Paul is arguing againſt the Jews, who ſought for Juſtification by virtue of the Law of Moſes, and ſought it not by Faith, Rom. 9. 32. nor ever conceived that ſufficient for that end, declaring againſt that way of Juſtification, becauſe it would confine the Bleſſing of Abraham to the Circumciſion only, Rom. 4. 9. And becauſe the Law of Moſes was four hundred and thirty Years after the Promiſe made to Abraham, ſpeaking of that Law which ſaid, Do this and live, Gal. 3. 17. which was our School-Maſter [illegible] bring us to Chriſt, and which was then [illegible] ceaſe, as to the Obligation of it, whereas S[illegible] James ſpeaks of Juſtification by Works per[illegible] formed under the Covenant of Grace, and [illegible] Conditions even of that new Covenant. No[illegible] I except not againſt any of theſe ways of R[illegible] conciling theſe two Apoſtles in their Di[illegible] courſe upon this Subject; but then I alſ[illegible] think that we may add this other to them.

4*thly*, That St. Paul plainly ſpeaks t[illegible] Chriſtians only, concerning their Juſtificatio[illegible] from their paſt Offences by Faith in the Bloo[illegible] of Jeſus; but St. James ſpeaks as well t[illegible] the unbelieving as believing Jews, touchin[illegible] Faith in God, ſuch as Abraham had when h[illegible] believed God's Promiſe, ver. 23. and ſuch a[illegible] Raab the Harlot had, ver. 25. ſaying, Tho[illegible] believeſt there is one God, ver. 19. without [illegible] the leaſt mention of Faith in Chriſt, and who[illegible] perhaps thought it ſufficient to keep them[illegible] in the Favour of God, and render them his[illegible] Friends, that they had caſt off all Idolatry, [illegible] and only owned the true God; proving this[illegible] not to be ſufficient to procure the Divine Favour, unleſs by the Obedience of their Lives they Glorified him as God, ſince otherwiſe they only did in words profeſs to know him, but in Works deny him, being Diſobedient.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. MY Brethren, be not many Maſters, (i. e. διδάσκαλοι, Teachers of the Law) knowing that (thereby) we ſhall receive the greater Condemnation, (for our Offences againſt the Law we teach to others.)

Μὴ πολλοὶ διδάσκαλοι γίνεσθε, be not many Teachers.] The Jews had not only in Judea, but in their ſeveral Diſperſions, their רבנים, or Doctors of the Law, who being created Doctors, Maſters or Rabbins by Impoſition of Hands, were authorized to teach the Law to others. This Office the Jews much affected, διλοῦντες εἶναι νομοδιδάσκαλοι, affecting to be Teachers of the Law, 1 Tim. 1. 7. and being confident of their Abilities to be Guides to the Blind, a Light to them that ſat in Darkneſs, Inſtructors of the Fooliſh, and, διδάσκαλοι νηπίων, Teachers of Babes. Rom. 2. 19, 20. And ſuch eſpecially were the Zealots among them. Whence Eleazer the chief of them ſaith, they had eſpecial reaſon to expect a ſhare in the Divine Favour, as being (a) blameleſs as to the Obſervation of the Law, and alſo Teachers of it to others. This Affectation of that Office the Apoſtle here warns them to avoid, as that which would expoſe them to greater Condemnation for their Offences againſt that Law they taught to others, and ſo confeſs'd they knew themſelves.

Ver. 2. (And this we ought the rather to beware of) For in many things we offend all (againſt the Law, and more eſpecially in that Member we employ in teaching of others, for) if any man offend not in word, the ſame is a perfect man, and able to bridle (curb, and direct the motions of) the whole Body.

Τέλειος ἀνὴρ, a perfect man.] Is a Perſon fully inſtructed in his Duty. See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6.

Ver. 3. (I uſe the Metaphor of a Bridle as appoſite in this caſe, for) Behold, we put Bits (or Bridles) in the Horſes mouths that they may obey us, and with them we turn about their whole Bodies (even ſo, if we by any means can bridle, and thereby govern the Tongue, by the like means we may govern the whole Man.)

Ver. 4. Behold alſo the Ships, which though they be ſo great (in Bulk) and are driven

(a) Ὥσπερ ἀναμάρτητοι πρὸς τὸ θεῖον γενόμενοι, καὶ μυρίαις μεταχόντες, οἱ καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις ἐδιδάξαμεν. Apud Joſeph de Bello Jud. lib. 7. cap. 34. p. 990. C.

with

with fierce Winds, yet are they turned about with a very ſmall Helm whitherſoever the Governour (or Pilot of the Ship) liſteth.

Ver. 5. Even ſo (is it with) the Tongue (as with this Bit and Helm, it) is a little Member, and boaſteth great things (ὑ μεγαυχᾶ) but it mightily exalts it ſelf by its great Performances,) Behold how great a matter (how much Wood) a little Fire kindleth.

Καὶ αὐχεῖ.] This Word ſignifies not only to vaunt of, but alſo to do great things: μεγάλα ἐργάζ) καλὰ ἢ κακά, it works great Good and Evil, ſaith OEcumenius: Magnificatrix eſt, it is a doer of great things; ſo Faber: it anſwers to the Hebrew עזר, which ſignifies to be valid, and move it ſelf violently, to be haughty, and exalt it ſelf, Pſal. 9. 19. Ezek. 16. 50. Zeph. 3. 11. Eccluſ. 48. 18. And this Signification both the Text and the Reſemblance of the Tongue to Fire, ſeem plainly to require.

Ver. 6. And the Tongue is (as) a Fire, a world of Iniquity (is kindled by it) ſo is the Tongue amongſt our Members (as Fire among Wood) that it defileth (Gr. ſpotting, or blackning) the whole Body, and ſetteth (Gr. inflaming or ſetting) on fire the Courſe of Nature (or the Succeſſion of Men in the World) and is ſet on fire of hell (Gr. being ſet on fire by Hell.)

Ἡ γλῶσσα πῦρ.] The Compariſon of the Tongue to a Fire, firſt blackning, and then waſting the whole World (or Wood) is taken from the Scripture, and from the Sayings of the Hebrew Doctors. The froward man bringeth Deſtruction, in his mouth there is a burning Fire, Prov. 16. 27. And Ver. 28. Λαμπάδες δὸς πυρὸν κακοῖς, He kindles a firebrand of Deceit to the Wicked. As the matter of Fire, κατὰ τὴν ὕλην πυρός, according to the Wood of the Fire ſo it burneth, and the ſtronger they are that contend, the more they will be enflamed, Eccluſ. 28. 10. A haſty Contention kindleth a Fire, the Fire burning kindles great heaps, ſaith Ben Syra; which is thus explain'd: As a little Fire conſumes great heaps of Wood, ſo nothing more waſtes the World than an evil tongue.

Note, 2dly, If the Original was as our Tranſlation hath it, a world of Iniquity, ſomething muſt be added to it to make the Senſe compleat, as I have done in the Paraphraſe, or as the Æthiopick, a world of Iniquity is contained in it. But the Syriack reads thus, And the wicked World is as the Wood. And this makes both the Senſe and the Similitude run clear.

Ver. 7. And it reſembles Fire in this alſo, that when it hath once got the Maſtery, it cannot eaſily be ſubdued and extinguiſhed.) For every kind of Beaſts, and of Birds, and of Serpents, and of things in the Sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed, by Mankind.

Τῇ φύσει ἀνθρωπίνῃ, by Mankind] is the Hebrew Phraſe for Man; as ἀνθρωπίνη κλίσις is a Man, 1 Pet. 2. 13.

Ver. 8. But the Tongue (of others) can no man tame; it is an unruly evil (and like the Serpents mention'd ver. 7.) full of deadly Poiſon.

Ver. 9. Therewith bleſs we God, even the Father (of us all) and therewith curſe we Men which are made after the ſimilitude of God, (and upon that account are to be reverenced by us.)

Καταρώμεθα, Curſe we Men.] This the Unbelieving (b) Jews did towards the Chriſtians, Curſing and Anathematizing them in their Synagogues; as Juſtin Martyr often teſtifieth to the Face of Trypho the Jew.

Καθ' ὁμοίωσιν θεοῦ.] From this 9th Verſe it appears, that Man loſt not the Image of God by the Fall; and thence 'tis probable that it conſiſts not primarily in Holineſs, but in Dominion, Gen. 1. 26.

Ver. 10. Out of the ſame mouth proceedeth Bleſſing and Curſing: My Brethren, theſe things ought not ſo to be.

Ver. 11. Doth a Fountain ſend forth, at the ſame place, ſweet Water and bitter?

Ver. 12. Can the Fig-tree, my Brethren, bear Olive-berries, or a Vine Figs? (ſurely no, even) ſo no Fountain (can) both yield Salt-water and freſh. (And if Nature produceth no ſuch contrary Fruits, much leſs ſhould Grace produce things ſo extremely oppoſite as are Bleſſing and Curſing.)

Ver. 13. Whoſo (then) is a Wiſe-man, and endued with Knowledge among you, (to which you are great Pretenders,) le him ſhew out of a good converſation his Works with meekneſs of Wiſdom, (or the Works of Wiſdom with meekneſs, i. e. let him, by his Charity and Meekneſs towards his Brethren, ſhew forth his Wiſdom.)

Ἐπιστήμων ὑμῶν.] That the Jews were great Pretenders to Knowledge, ſee Rom. 2. 18. That they Gloried in the Title of Chachamim or Wiſe-men, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 1. 20. 3. 18. Hence their Divines are ſtiled חכמי האמרת Wiſe-men as to the Truth, ſaith Buxtorf.

Ver 14. But if ye have bitter envying and ſtrife in your hearts, glory not (of your Wiſdom) and lye not againſt the Truth (in pretending to be wiſe as to it.)

Ζῆλον πικρὸν καὶ ἐριθείαν, bitter Envy and Strife.] The unbelieving Jews are repreſented ſtill as οἱ ἐξ ἐριθείας, Men of Contention, who obey'd not the Truth, Rom. 2. 8. Men who were filled with bitter Zeal againſt the Preachers of the Goſpel, Acts 13. 45. 17. 5. and very mad againſt them. And ſome of them who own'd the Goſpel, did yet preach Chriſt ἐξ ἐριθείας out of Contention, and Envy againſt St. Paul, Phil. 1. 15. and the effect of their Diſputes were, ſaith the Apoſtle, φθόνος καὶ ἔρις Envy and Strife, 1 Tim. 6. 4. ἔρεις καὶ μάχας νομικὰς Contentions and Fightings about the Law: And where they were mix'd with the Converted Gentiles, we find eſpecial Cautions againſt Strife and Envy, as at Rome, Rom. 3. 13. againſt provoking one another, and envying one another, Gal. 5. 26. againſt doing things through ſtrife and vain-glory, Philip. 2. 3. or Complaints of the abounding of theſe Vices, 1 Cor. 1. 11. 3. 3. See eſpecially 2 Cor. 12. 20.

Ver. 15. This Wiſdom deſcendeth not from above, but is earthly (from the love of earthly things) ſenſual (proceeding from the Luſts of the Fleſh, among which Strife and Envy are reckon'd, Gal. 5. 20.) deviliſh (coming from Satan the Promoter of Strife and Envy, and from Pride and Ambition, by which he fell, 1 Tim. 3. 6.

Ver. 16. For where envying and Striſe is (as the Root) there is confuſion and every evil work (as the Fruit.)

Ἀκαταστασία, confuſion.] i. e. Tumult, Sedition, and Diſturbance of Peace and Order; for Contention naturally tends to fighting, and Envy to the Deſtruction of him we hate. φθονεῖτε καὶ ζηλοῦτε, you are envious and zealous againſt one another, Chap. 4. 2. and then it follows, μάχεσθε καὶ πολεμεῖτε, ye fight and war.

Ver. 17. But the Wiſdom which is from above is firſt pure (from Senſuality and Earthly-mindedneſs, ver. 15.) then peaceable (and) gentle (in oppoſition to Contention, ver. 14.) eaſie to be entreated (or perſuaded, in oppoſition to the Inflexibility of the Jews,) full of mercy and good works, (wanting in them, ver. 13.) without Partiality, without Hypocriſie, (of which things the Jews were highly guilty.)

Μεστὴ ἐλέους, full of mercy.] Which, ſaith (c) Joſephus, of all good Paſſions was moſt of all loſt among the Jews.

Ἀδιάκριτος, without Partiality.] Or, as the Word ſignifies, without putting a Difference betwixt Men of their own and other Nations, as the Jews did, counting all other Nations Dogs, unclean, not fit to be convers'd with, and dealing with them accordingly: for, as (d) Tacitus hath obſerved of them, Apud ipſos fides obſtinata, miſericordia in promptu, adverſus omnes alios hoſtile odium; They would be merciful to Men of their own Religion and Country, but hated all Mankind beſides: confining Brotherly Love to the Men of their own Nation, as we learn from our Saviour's Parable of the Good Samaritan. When they broke into Sects and Parties, they had the ſame Hatred to thoſe of their own Nation who would not think and do as they did. The Zealots, and thoſe that were for War, (e) ſet themſelves againſt, and even threatned Death to them who were for Peace, looking upon them as no better than Heathens, ſaith Joſephus; whereas true Chriſtian Wiſdom requires us to live peaceably with, and to do Good to all.

Ἀνυπόκριτος, and without Hypocriſie.] For which our Saviour ſo ſeverely inveighs againſt the Scribes and Phariſees, the Leaders of the Jews.

Ver. 18. And the fruit of Righteouſneſs is ſown in peace of (for or to) them that make Peace.

Καρπὸς δὲ δικαιοσύνης.] i. e. The Reward of Righteouſneſs to them who make it their buſineſs to live peaceably themſelves, and incline others to it, is here ſown happily and quietly by the Preachers of the Goſpel of Peace declaring it to the World, and ſhall hereafter aſſuredly be reaped by them. Or thus: theſe Fruits of Righteouſneſs now ſown by the Chriſtian endued with this heavenly Wiſdom, will yield a plentiful and happy Crop to them who are Promoters of Peace.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. FRom whence come Wars and Fightings among you (Jews?) come they not hence, even of your Luſts, (or Pleaſures,) that war in your Members (againſt the Soul? 1 Pet. 2. 11.)

Πόθεν πόλεμοι.] This Epiſtle ſeems to have been writ about the 8th Year of Nero, and the 62d of Chriſt, the Year before the Death of James, before which time the Jews had great Wars and Fightings, not only with their Neighbours, ſee Note on Matth. 24. 6. but even among themſelves in every City and Family, ſaith (a) Joſephus, nor only in Judea, but in Alexandria, Syria, and many other places. See the Preface, §. 5, 6.

Ver. 2. Ye luſt and have not; ye kill and deſire to have, and cannot obtain; ye fight, and war, yet ye have not becauſe ye aſk not.

Ver.

Ver. 3. Ye ask, and receive not becauſe ye ask amiſs, that ye may conſume it upon your Luſts.

Δαπανῆτε, &c.] For Explication of theſe Words, we are to note that the Jews were then vehemently luſting after two things:

1. Liberty and Freedom from Tribute; which was, ſay they, the Token of Subjection. (b) Joſephus ſaith, they were continually clamouring to have the Tributes took away, and that upon this very account; and that the (c) Zelotes, the Band of Thieves, and their Magicians, were ſtill preſſing the People to fight for their Liberty from the Roman Yoke.

2. Dominion over other Nations; for having got this Fancy into their Heads, that their Meſſiah was to be a (d) Temporal Prince, who ſhould enable them to Lord it over the Heathens, they were zealous to have theſe pretended Prophecies accompliſhed; and the (e) hopes of it encouraged them to fight. Whence we may Paraphraſe on theſe two Verſes thus.

You luſt for Liberty and Dominion, and you have it not; ye in purſuit and deſire of them kill, and yet you cannot obtain them, becauſe you ask not whether that be according to the Will of God which you ſo greedily deſire: ye ask theſe things, and receive them not becauſe ye ask amiſs, that you may conſume it upon your Luſts; viz. That having this Liberty and Empire, you may poſſeſs the good things of this World you luſt after, and may Lord it over the Heathen World.

Ver. 4. Ye Adulterers and Adultereſſes, know ye not that the Friendſhip of this World (which ſtands in competition with, and indiſpoſeth you to believe and obey God's Will) is Enmity to God, (and ſo Idolatry, which in the Language of the Scripture is Adultery?) Whoſoever therefore will be (thus) a Friend of the World, is the Enemy of God (having renounced him to have Mammon for his Lord, Mat. 6. 24.)

Ver. 5. Do you think that the Scripture ſaith (Gr. ſpeaks) in vain (againſt this worldly-mindedneſs) the Spirit that dwelleth in us (Chriſtians,) luſteth (he) to Envy (as yours doth? ver. 2. Is he not rather the Spirit of Love and Goodneſs, engaging us to love all Men, and eſpecially our Chriſtian Brethren? 1 Pet. 1. 22.)

Ver. 6. But (ſo far is he from this Envy, that where he dwells) he giveth more Grace (or Favour,) wherefore he (or it, the Scripture) ſaith, God reſiſteth the proud, but giveth Grace (or ſheweth Favour) to the humble (Prov. 3. 34. ἢ δοκεῖτε ὅτι κενῶς ἡ γραφὴ λέγει, Do you think that the Scripture ſaith in vain, &c.) They who make this whole Verſe one Sentence, are obliged to ſhew where the Scripture hath theſe Words, The Spirit that dwelleth in us luſteth to Envy; which no Interpreter hath yet ſucceſsfully attempted. But in the Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe, which makes the whole to conſiſt of two Queſtions; this is needleſs. Now in favour of this Expoſition, let it be noted,

1. That nothing is more ordinary than for Particles to be repeated from the precedent Member. So Pſal. 9. 19. The needy ſhall not alway be forgotten, the expectation of the poor ſhall (not) periſh for ever. See Pſal. 38. 1. 44. 19. 1 Sam. 2. 3. Job 30. 25. 31. 20. Prov. 25. 27. 30. 3. So אם if Pſal. 139. 8. Prov. 6. 1. 9. 12. See Glaſſius de Elliptſi partic. l. 4. tr. 2. obſervat. 10. p. 721. So here the Particle ἢ may be repeated thus, Or doth the Spirit that is in you luſt to Envy? Though the Senſe be full only by reading the words by way of Interrogation. Note, 2dly, That not to ſpeak in vain, is not to do it without Cauſe or juſt Reaſon; as Ezek. 6. 10. And God, or the Scripture, is ſaid to ſpeak in vain to them who attend not to, or receive no benefit by his words, Jer. 8. 8. So then the Senſe runs thus; Doth the Scripture ſpeak without juſt cauſe againſt this worldly-mindedneſs? would it not have you attend to, and receive advantage by what it ſaith againſt it?

Μείζονα δὲ δίδωσι χάριν, but he giveth more Grace.] That חן and χάρις throughout the Scripture ſignifie Favour and Good-will, ſee Note on 2 Cor. 6. 1. And this Senſe the Oppoſition here requires, God being diſpleaſed with, and oppoſing himſelf to the Proud, but ſhewing Favour to the Humble, and cauſing them to find Favour among Men, Prov. 3. 34. What Monſieur Le Clerk here ſaith, that in thoſe times the Jews uſed to produce as out of Scripture, not only the ſenſe of places without regarding the words, but alſo a Jewiſh Tradition or Interpretation of Scripture, and ſo we are not to look for what is here ſaid in the Old Teſtament, is intolerable: for, is it fit to make an Apoſtle giving us thoſe Scriptures which are to be our Rule of Faith, ſpeak thus; Do you think the Scripture ſpeaks in vain what it ſpeaks not at all? and to call a Jewiſh Tradition the Scripture?

Ver. 7. (Be ye then humble, and) Submit your ſelves to (that) God (who giveth Grace to the humble:) reſiſt the Devil (the Author of thoſe Wars, Envyings, and Luſtings which are among you,) and (then) he will fly from you.

Ver. 8. Draw nigh to God (by Prayer, Humiliation, Repentance, and Obedience) and he will draw nigh to you (in mercy;) cleanſe your hands (from Rapine and Injuſtice) ye Sinners, and purifie your hearts (from the love of the World) ye double-minded (whoſe hearts are divided betwixt God and Mammon.)

Ἐγγίσατε τῷ Θεῷ, draw nigh to God.] The way of drawing nigh to God being now, under the Goſpel Diſpenſation, through Faith in Chriſt, and in his Blood, ſhed for the Propitiation of our Sins, we being made nigh to him through the Blood of Chriſt, Eph. 2. 13. and through the Introduction of that better Hope by which ἐγγίζομεν τῷ Θεῷ we draw nigh to God, Hebr. 7. 19. it being Chriſt alone by whom we have an Introduction to the Father through Faith in him, Eph. 2. 18. 3. 12. and who hath ſuffer'd for us that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3. 18. This may be look'd on as an Exhortation to the ἀπίστοις the unbelieving Jews to believe in Chriſt, and to the ὀλιγόψυχοι the wavering Jews (ſee Note on Chap. 1. ver. 8.) to cleave ſtedfaſtly to the Faith.

Καθαρίσατε χεῖρας, cleanſe your hands.] That the hands of the Jews, and eſpecially of the Zealots among them, were full of Blood and Rapine, we learn from (f) Joſephus, who makes very often ſad Complaints of the Murders and Rapines committed by them. (See Chap. 5. 4, 6.) And ſo this Exhortation muſt be very properly directed to them. True alſo is the Note of Eſtius here; Porro ſi jubentur homines emundare manus, & purificare corda, nec jubetur quid impoſſibile, conſequens eſt eos poſſe hæc præſtare.

Ver. 9. Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep; let your Laughter be turned to Mourning, and your Joy to Heavineſs.

Εἰς κατήφειαν.] For now the day of Vengeance upon the unbelieving and backſliding Jews approacheth, Luke 21. 22. Now the Coming of the Lord to execute Vengeance on them draweth near, Chap. 5. 8. when Wrath ſhall come upon them to the uttermoſt, Theſſ. 2. 16.

10. Humble your ſelves (therefore) in the ſight of the Lord (and under his mighty hand that is upon you, 1 Pet. 5. 6.) and he will exalt you (that he may exalt you ἐν καιρῷ in that ſeaſon of his Viſitation, as he did then his faithful Servants by a wonderful Deliverance, according to his Promiſe. See Note on Matth. 24. 31.)

Ver. 11. Speak not evil one of (or againſt) another, Brethren. He that ſpeaketh evil of (or againſt) his Brother, ſpeaketh evil of the Law, and judgeth the Law, (or ſpeaketh againſt the Law, as being evil or imperfect, in that it doth not command or condemn thoſe things which thou doſt command or condemn;) but if thou (take upon thee to) judge the Law, thou art not (in thy behaviour as) a Doer of the Law, but a Judge (of it.)

Ver. 12. (Whereas indeed) There is (only) one Lawgiver, who is able to ſave and to deſtroy; who (therefore) art thou that judgeſt another?

Μὴ καταλαλεῖτε.] For Explication of theſe Words, let it be noted, that the great Exception which both the Unbelieving Jews and the Judaizing Chriſtians among them had againſt the Believing Gentiles, was this, (g) That they obſerved not their Feaſts or Sabbaths, and that they were not circumciſed; whence they concluded they differ'd little from the Heathens. This was the thing for which the Chriſtian Fathers did contend againſt them; viz. That the Ancient Patriarchs (h) of old were acceptable to God, and conſequently the Chriſtians, and eſpecially the Converted Gentiles, might be acceptable to God without the Obſervation of theſe Feaſts, and Sabbaths, or of Circumciſion. Hence the Apoſtle is ſo concerned that they ſhould not judge one another on the account of Days, or Meats, Rom. 14. 4, 5, 6. Hence he inveighs againſt the Galatians, as being brought in Bondage by the Judaizers to the Obſervation of Circumciſion, Chap. 5. 3. and of Days, Months, Times, and Years, Chap. 4. 10. and warns his Coloſſians not to be induced to follow theſe Rudiments of the World, as being circumcis'd in Chriſt, Coloſſ. 2. 11. And ſaith, Let no Man judge you in reſpect of Feaſts, or new Moons, or of the Sabbaths, ver. 16. So that the Argument of the Apoſtle here ſeems to run thus. Let no Man ſpeak againſt his Chriſtian Brethren the Gentiles, for not obſerving theſe things; for, the Law it ſelf requiring theſe things not of the Gentiles that even dwelt among them, but only of the Jews, he that ſpeaks againſt them, and judgeth them for the Non-obſervation of theſe things, he in effect ſpeaks againſt, and judgeth this Law as deficient which required not theſe things. And thou who takeſt upon thee to ſay they cannot be ſaved, Act. 15. 1. and ſo judgeſt them to Deſtruction without the Obſervation of them, thou even takeſt upon thee the Office of this Great Lawgiver, who alone is able to ſave and to deſtroy, and who, by not requiring theſe things of the Gentiles, ſhews he will ſave them without them, and not deſtroy them for Neglect of them. So the Targum on Ezek. 13. 18. brings in God ſpeaking to the Falſe Prophets thus, Can you kill or make alive the Souls of my People? Others indeed refer this to the Law of Chriſtian Love, but that is ſtill ſtiled the Law of Chriſt, Gal. 6. 2. or the Law of Liberty, Chap. 2. 12. but never abſolutely the Law, as here; and therefore I prefer the former Interpretation.

Ver. 13. Go to now ye that (preſume to) ſay, to day or to morrow we will go into ſuch a City, and continue there a Year, and buy and ſell, and get Gain (as if both Life, and the Advantages of Life, depended wholly on your ſelves, and not at all on Divine Providence.)

14. Whereas ye (who ſpeak with ſuch confidence of the Future) know not what ſhall be on the morrow; for, what is your Life? it is even (as) a Vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vaniſheth away.

Ver. 15. (Thus you are wont to ſpeak) For that (Gr. whereas) ye ought to ſay, If the Lord will we ſhall live, and do this or that.

Ἐὰν ὁ Κύριος θελήσῃ, if the Lord will.] It was a Rule of Ben Syra, [Buxt. Flor. p. 4.] Let no Man ſay he will do any thing, unleſs he firſt ſay, if the Lord will. Who alſo adds, that one died before night for refuſing to add this. And when (*) Alcibiades had ſaid to Socrates, I will do ſo if you will; Socrates tells him he ought to have ſaid, ἐὰν ὁ θεὸς ἐθέλῃ, if God will: Not that we are obliged always to ſay thus, Rom. 15. 28. but only ſtill to own our Dependence on Divine Providence.

Ver. 16. But now you rejoyce in your Boaſtings (of the future;) all ſuch rejoycing is evil, (as being an aſſuming to your ſelves what belongs to God only, and ſo an evidence that you do not ſubject your own Will to the Will of God. For ſince this Life is ſo ſhort and uncertain, and thereby teacheth you to think humbly, and ſpeak modeſtly, and with due Dependence on the Divine Providence, with reſpect both to your Lives and future Actions, you, by thus pleaſing of your ſelves in theſe vain Boaſtings, and talking as if you were immortal, and independent upon Providence, are guilty of an evil Exultation, and vain Boaſting.)

Ver. 17. Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doth it not, to him it is Sin. (If after my Admonition to avoid this and other Crimes, you continue in them, you will be inexcuſably guilty of Sin, Joh. 15. 22. and the Guilt of it will abide upon you, Joh. 9. 41. as it will alſo in all other things done againſt Knowledge and the Convictions of your Conſcience; for in ſuch things the heart departs from, and rebels againſt the Lord: He that thus ſins deſpiſeth the Word of the Lord, and reproacheth him that commanded it, Num. 15. 30, 31.)

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. GO to now, ye rich men (of the Jewiſh Nation, you will have cauſe to) weep and howl for the miſeries that ſhall come (Gr. are coming) upon you.

Ἄγε νῦν, go to now.] This is only a form of Tranſition, Chap. 4. 13. and converting of Speech to any Perſon; as if he ſhould have ſaid, And now to ſpeak to you that are rich, I call upon you to weep, &c.

That this Prediction was exactly fulfill'd by the Slaughter and Spoiling of the Rich Jews throughout Galilee and Judea, (†) Joſephus will not ſuffer us to doubt. For he informs us that the Zealots ſpared none but thoſe who were πενομένοι διὰ τὸ χαῦν, poor and low in Fortune; and that they were ſo inſatiably rapacious, that they ſearch'd all the houſes of the Rich, killing the Men, and abuſing the Women. And that it alſo was fulfill'd touching thoſe of the Diſperſion, ſee the Preface, §. 5, 6.

Ver. 2. Your Riches are corrupted (or as things putrified by being kept too long) and your Garments (are become) moth-eaten. (They being laid up in your Wardrobes, and not uſed to cloath your naked Brother, ſhall be as uſeleſs to you as if they were devoured by the Moth.)

Ver. 3. Your Gold and Silver is canker'd (or eaten out with ruſt) and the ruſt of them ſhall be a witneſs againſt you (of your covetous and worldly Minds) and ſhall eat your Fleſh

(*) Plat. Alcib. 1. in fine. (†) De Bello Jud. l. 5. c. 20, 34. l. 4. c. 19.

as it were fire; ye have heaped Treaſure together for the laſt days, (Gr. it ſhall eat your Fleſh as fire, you have treaſured it up for the laſt days.)

It ſhall eat your Fleſh as fire, ὡς ἐχάταις ἡμέραις, in the laſt days.] As the Ruſt eats into Gold and Silver, ſo ſhall your Fleſh and Subſtance be eaten up as with Fire, as if you had treaſured up Fire in the midſt of it. For, 1ſt. This is a frequent Metaphor among the Prophets who often ſpeak of the fire eating up the Wicked, and devouring their Fleſh, Thou ſhalt make them as a fiery Oven in the time of thy Wrath, καὶ καταφάγεται αὐτοὺς πῦρ, and the fire ſhall eat them up, Pſalm 21. 9. The Light of Iſrael ſhall be for a fire, and his holy One for a flame, and it ſhall burn, καὶ φάγεται, and eat up his Thorns and Briars in one day, καὶ καταφάγεται ἀπὸ ψυχῆς ἕως σαρκῶν, and it ſhall eat up from the Soul to the Fleſh, Iſa. 10. 16, 17. Πῦρ τοὺς ὑπεναντίους ἔδεται, the fire ſhall eat up the Adverſaries, Chap. 27. 11. Behold the Name of the Lord cometh forth from far, burning with Anger, καὶ ἡ ὀργὴ τοῦ θυμοῦ ὡς πῦρ ἔδεται, and the Anger of his Fury ſhall eat as the fire, Chap. 30. 11. Behold I will make my Word in thy mouth fire, and this People wood, καὶ καταφάγεται αὐτούς, and it ſhall eat them up, Jer. 5. 14. They ſhall go out from one fire, καὶ πῦρ αὐτοὺς καταφάγεται, and another fire ſhall eat them up, Ezek. 15. 7. I will bring forth a fire from the midſt of thee, and the fire, καταφάγεταί σε, ſhall eat thee up. See Amos 5. 6.

2*dly*, This was punctually fulfilled in the Deſtruction of that Nation by their own Seditions, and the Roman Wars. For amongſt the Sicarii, and the Zealots, the Ring-leaders of all their Seditions, it was Crime enough to be Rich, and their inſatiable Avarice induced them ſtill to make, πρὸς πλουσίων οἴκων ἔξοδον, a ſearch into the Houſes of the Rich. For them to remain among theſe Tyrants was Deſtruction. (b) For by falſe Accuſations they were ſlain as Deſerters, for their Subſtance. Yea, both their Subſtance and their Fleſh were (c) devour'd by the Flames which burnt up the City and the Temple, and ſo conſumed both their dead Bodies and their Subſtance, and their Wardrobes; and that which remained became a prey to the Army of the Romans. See the like done in their Diſperſions, Preface §. 6.

Ver. 4. Behold, the Hire of the Labourers which have reaped down your Fields, which is of you kept back by Fraud, crieth; and the Cries of them that have reaped (and are thus defrauded of their Wages by you) are entred into the Ears of the Lord of Sabaoth.

Ὁ μισθὸς, the Hire.] The Precept in the Law touching this matter running thus, Thou ſhalt not defraud thy Neighbour——The Wages of him that is hired ſhall not abide with thee all night until the morning, Lev. 19. 13. This keeping of it back is truly ſtiled Fraud and Oppreſſion, and all Sins of that nature cry to Heaven for Vengeance on the fraudulent Oppreſſor. So the Cry of the Iſraelites under their Oppreſſion in the Land of Egypt came up to God, Exod. 2. 23. 3. 7. The Cry of the afflicted Widow and the Fatherleſs, Exod. 22. 23. The Cry of the Poor and the Afflicted, Job 34. 28. Pſalm 9. 12. The Cry of him that wants his Pledge to cover him, Exod. 22. 27. And the Cry of him whoſe Wages is kept back. Thou ſhalt not oppreſs an hired Servant that is poor and needy; at his day thou ſhalt give him his hire, neither ſhall the Sun go down upon it——leſt he cry againſt thee to the Lord, and it be Sin unto thee, Deut. 24. 14, 15.

Ver. 5. Ye have lived in pleaſure upon Earth, and been wanton, yea, have nouriſhed your Hearts as in (or for) a day of ſlaughter.

Ἐτρυφήσατε, καὶ ἐσπαταλήσατε, ye have lived in pleaſure, and been wanton.] The firſt word, ἐτρυφήσατε, ſay Criticks, refers to their luxurious Eating. The ſecond, ἐσπαταλήσατε, to their carnal Luſtings and Laſciviouſneſs, 1 Tim. 5. 6. Ezek. 16. 49. both which were Vices the Jews then were very ſubject to, eating and Drinking to exceſs in their Feaſts. See Note on 1 Cor. 11. 21. and were, ſaith (d) Tacitus, Projectiſſima ad libidinem gens, a Nation very prone to Luſt.

Ver. 6. Ye have condemned and killed the Juſt, and he doth not reſiſt you.

——Ἐφονεύσατε, &c.] Here Occumenius ſaith, Ἀναστρέφων τὸ ἐφονεύσατε δίκαιον οὐδὲ ἀντεῖπε ἀντέφησε; this is undoubtedly to be referred to Chriſt, who is emphatically ſtiled the Juſt one, Acts 3. 14. 7. 52. 22. 14. So (e) Juſtin Martyr, Ἀπεκτόνατε τὸν δίκαιον, ye have killed the Juſt one, and before him the Prophets. But againſt this Interpretation it is objected by Eſthius, 1. That the Apoſtle here ſpeaks by way of diſtinction to the Rich, who drag'd the Chriſtians before the Tribunals, whereas the Death of Chriſt is imputed to the Princes and Rulers of the Jews, and to the People in the General, Acts 3. 14. 7. 52. 13. 27, 28.

2. Be-

2. Becauſe 'tis ſaid in the preſent Tenſe, and he doth not reſiſt you, whereas had this been ſpoken of Chriſt it ſhould have been ſaid, he did not reſiſt you; and therefore Oecumenius doth acknowledge this is to be extended alſo to all theſe Juſt Men, St, Stephen and others who ſuffer'd in like manner from the Jews according to our Lord's Prediction, Matth. 24. 9. and St. Paul's Confeſſion, That before his Converſion he Perſecuted this way unto the Death, Acts 22 4. Hence this Paſſage is connected to the enſuing words directed to the Chriſtians in General by this Particle therefore.

Ver. 7. Be patient therefore, Brethren, unto the coming of our Lord (to avenge you of theſe Murtherers;) behold, the Husbandman waiteth for the precious Fruit of the Earth, and hath long patience for it till he receive the former and the latter Rain, (the firſt to make the Corn ſown, ſwell and grow up, the latter to make the Ear plump before Harveſt.)

The Husbandman waiteth, &c.] So the Targum of Jonathan, in 2 Sam. 23. 4. compareth thoſe who expect the Years of Conſolation, to the Husbandman, who in a Year of drought waiteth for Rain upon the Earth.

Ver. 8. Be ye alſo patient, ſtabliſh your Hearts (in expectation of this advent,) for the coming of the Lord is at hand.

Ἡ παρουσία τῦ κυρίυ ἤγγικε, the coming of the Lord is at hand.] He ſpeaks, ſaith (f) Oecumenius, of the coming of the Romans to captivate the Jews, which he calls the coming of our Lord, as St. John does, Chap. 21. 22. And this Expoſition is confirm'd, 1ſt. From the conſtant uſe of the like Phraſe, ἐγγὺς ἡμέρα Κυρίυ, the day of the Lord is at hand, Iſa. 13. 6. Ezek. 30. 3. Joel 1. 15. 2. 14. Obad. 15. Zeph. 1. 7, 14. from the Evils which he ſaith are coming on the Rich, ver. 1. and which then eſpecially came upon them. 2dly, From his ſaying this coming is at hand, and the Judge ſtandeth at the door, ver. 9. which in St. Peter's Phraſe is, τὸ τέλος ἤγγικε, the end is at hand, 1 Pet. 4. 7. which anſwer exactly to the words of Chriſt touching the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, then ſhall, τὸ τέλος, the end come, Matth. 24. 14. it is near, ἐπὶ θύραις, even at the door, ver. 33. Her Deſolation, ἤγγικε, draweth nigh, Luke 21. 20. See Note on Philip. 4. 5. And this was a true ground for Patience, and anſwers the Objection of Eſthius againſt this Expoſition.

Ver. 9. Grudge not (Gr. groan not) one againſt another, Brethren, (as Men impatient and deſiring Vengeance, uſe to do,) leſt ye be condemned, (as wanting in that Patience which ought to have its perfect Work in you, and in that Chriſtian Charity which requires you to pray for Mercy, and not to cry for Vengeance on your Enemies;) behold the Judge (who will plead your Cauſe againſt your perſecuting Brethren) ſtandeth at the door.

μὴ στενάζετε, groan not.] Theſe Groanings in the Scripture have a Voice and Cry, and God is ſaid to hear them. Thus the Children of Iſrael groaned by reaſon of their hard Bondage, καὶ ἐβόησαν, and their cry came up to God, Exod. 2. 23. and the Spirit is ſaid to intercede in Chriſt's Suffering Members with groans unuttered, Rom. 8. 26. Thus David prays, That God would hear the voice of his Groanings, and the Groaning of the Priſoners, Pſalm 102. 5, 20. Theſe Groanings, when they are only the natural Iſſues of an afflicted Soul, move God to pity, Judges 2. 18. and remember us in Mercy, Exod. 6. 5. but when they are the Fruits of Impatience under Troubles, and a deſire of Revenge upon our Enemies, they tend to our Condemnation; and the perſecuting Jews being of the ſame Stock with the converted Jews, their groaning againſt them is ſtiled Groaning againſt one another.

It is the Obſervation of (g) Juſtin, That the Converts among the Gentiles were not only more than thoſe among the Jews, and the Samaritans, but alſo that they were better Chriſtians, and more truly ſo, for theſe Jewiſh Converts were ſtill leavened with an expectation of a temporal Kingdom, and with expectations of Liberty from the Roman Yoke, and the Dominion over all Heathen Governours. Whence the Apoſtles do ſo frequently enjoin them to be ſubject to the Higher Powers, Rom. 13. 1. to be ſubject to Principalities and Powers, Tit. 3. 1. to be ſubject to every humane Ordinance, and not to uſe the Liberty to which they were called, as a Cloak of Maliciouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2. 13----16. Now theſe, as Dr. Hammond well obſerves, lived intermixed with the unconverted Jews and Zealots, who were ſtill grudging and contending againſt all that would not ſtand up for Liberty, and fight for this temporal Kingdom, accounting them (h) no better than the very Heathens upon that account, and theſe may be the Grudgers here intended.

Ver. 10. Take, my Brethren, the Prophets who have ſpoken (to you Jews) in the Name of the Lord, for an Example of ſuffering Afflictions, and of Patience, (i. e. of patient Suffering; for they had experience of cruel Mockings, and of Death, and yet they ſuf-

The Patience of Job.] Hence may we very probably conclude, that what is written in the Book of Job, is truly an Hiſtory of what happened to him, and not, as ſome conceive, a Parable or Fiction of a thing not truly done. For feigned things contain no ſerious Motives nor juſt Examples to Patience. 2. We find this Holy Man numbred with Noah and Daniel, as Perſons very prevalent in Prayer, Ezek. 14. 14, 20. as therefore Noah and Daniel were Perſons truly prevalent in their Supplications, Gen. 8. 21. Dan. 9. 23. ſo alſo Job muſt be, as he is repreſented, Chap. 42, 8, 10,

Ver. 12. But above all things ſwear not, neither by Heaven, nor by the Earth, nor by any other Oath, but let your yea be yea, and your nay nay, (i. e. let your Actions be agreeable to your Words. See Note on 2 Cor. 1. 17.) leſt ye fall into Condemnation.

Μὴ ὀμνύετε, ſwear not.] i. e. Let not your Afflictions move you to uſe raſh Oaths, as Men are wont to do when much provoked: That raſh Oaths are only forbidden here and Matth. 5. 34. See the Note there. The Oaths here forbid being ſuch as our Impatience under Sufferings, and our unbridled Paſſions do produce.

Ἵνα μὴ ὑπὸ κρίσιν πέσητε, that ye fall not into Condemnation.] Some Copies read, εἰς ὑπόκρισιν, into Hypocriſie; but, 1. This Reading is not found in many Copies. 2. The Apoſtle (i) ver. 9. puts them in mind of the Judge ſtanding at the Door, requiring them not to grudge againſt one another, leſt they be Condemned by him; 'tis therefore far more probable he ſpeaketh alſo here of Condemnation by the Judge. 3. To be falſe unto the Oath of God is Perjury in the proper ſenſe, for which God threatens he will not hold the Offender guiltleſs, but is not properly Hypocriſie. If therefore this had been the meaning of St. James, Swear not, leſt you be tempted to the violation of your Oaths, he ſhould have called that Perjury, and not Hypocriſie.

Ver. 13. Is any Man afflicted among you, let him pray (to God to alleviate and ſanctifie his Affliction;) is any merry, let him ſing (Praiſes to that God who hath given him this chearfulneſs of Spirit.)

Ver. 14. Is any Man ſick among you, let him call for the Elders of the Church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with Oil in the Name of the Lord.

Ver. 15. And the Prayer of Faith ſhall ſave the Sick, and the Lord (in Anſwer to this Prayer of Faith) ſhall raiſe him up; and if he hath committed (ſuch) Sins (as brought this Sickneſs on him) they ſhall be forgiven him (upon this Prayer of Faith.)

Προσκαλεσάσθω τοὺς Πρεσβυτέρους τῆς Ἐκκλησίας, the Elders of the Church.] That was the Office of the Presbyters, ἐπισκέπτεσθαι πάντας ἀδελφούς, to viſit all the ſick, we learn from the Epiſtle of Polycarp, ad Philip. §. 6. But that theſe Presbyters ſhould be Biſhops properly ſo called, as ſome conceive, ſeems not very probable; for then it muſt not only be the Office of the Biſhop perſonally to viſit the Sick, but the Duty of every ſick Perſon to ſend to him, and to no other. Yea, there muſt be more than one Biſhop in the Church of which the ſick Man is a Member, and he muſt be obliged to ſend to more, for the Text runs wholly in the Plural, let him call for the Elders of the Church, καὶ προσευξάσθωσαν, and let them (not one of them) pray over him, and therefore the ſick Man muſt be obliged by this Text to call for more than one of them, where more were to be had, as we know there were in the Primitive Conſtitution of the Church.

Anointing him with Oil.] This was agreeable to the Practice of the (p) Jews, who anointed the Sick, pro more, cuſtomarily, ſaith their Tradition, hence, though our Lord only commiſſioned his Diſciples to heal the Sick, Matth. 10. 8. Luke 9. 2. yet St. Mark informs us, that they added their uſual Ceremony in doing this, for they anointed many that were ſick with Oil, and healed them, Mark 6. 13. And St. James ſpeaking to the Elders of the Jews, bids them uſe this Unction in the Name of the Lord, as doubtleſs the Apoſtles did, as in caſting out of Devils, Luke 10. 17. ſo in healing the Sick, Acts 3. 16. 4, 10, 30. And this addition made the Cure miraculous.

Ἡ εὐχὴ τῆς πίστεως, and the Prayer of Faith ſhall ſave the ſick.] Among the χαρίσματα, or the miraculous and extraordinary Gifts vouchſafed at firſt to the Preachers of the Goſpel, and to the Rulers or Elders of the Churches, was the Gift of Faith, as in thoſe words, to another is given Faith by the ſame Spirit, 1 Cor. 12. 9. i. e. by a ſtrong impulſe of the Spirit, fully perſuading them that God would enable them to do this or that. This ſeems to be that Faith which is ſtiled, πίστις Θεοῦ, the Faith of God, to which even the removing of Mountains, or the performing things moſt difficult and extraordinary is promiſed, Mark 11. 22, 23. Matth. 21. 21. and of which the Apoſtle ſpeaks, ſaying, If I had all Faith ſo as to remove Mountains, 1 Cor. 13. 2. and by which they healed the Sick, even by Faith in his Name, Acts 3. 16. and therefore this is here promiſed, that where the Prayer of the Elders was attended with ſuch a Faith, it ſhould be ſtill ſucceſsful for the healing the Sick, or the raiſing him up again from the Bed of Sickneſs; for, σώσει, will ſave, is ἐγερεῖ, he will raiſe him up.

And if he hath committed Sins.] i. e. Such Sins for which God was pleaſed to inflict this bodily Diſeaſe upon him, as he did on the Members of the Church of Corinth for their diſorderly celebrating the Lord's Supper, for which cauſe, ſaith the Apoſtle, many are weak and ſickly among you, 1 Cor. 11. 30. they being thus chaſtned of the Lord. ver. 32. And where the Sickneſs is by way of Chaſtiſement, the healing it is a teſtimony of God's Forgiveneſs of it. Hence thy ſins be forgiven, is our Lord's uſual Expreſſion when he healed the Sick, Matth. 9. 2, 6, 7. See the Note there. According to thoſe Words of the Prophet Iſaiah, The Inhabitants ſhall not ſay they are ſick, the People ſhall be forgiven their Iniquity, Chap. 33. 24. Hence it is evident, that here is no Foundation for the Sacrament of Extreme Unction, called by the Roman Church the Sacrament of the dying, and adminiſtred for the Purgation of their Sins, when they ſeem paſt hopes of Recovery; for how can they gather a Sacrament of Extreme Unction from an Unction that is not Extreme, or a perpetual Ornance from an action that was not extraordinary and miraculous, and is long ſince ceaſed? How can they prove a Sacrament that is proper to dying Perſons, from a Rite uſed only upon Perſons who were not to die, but to be raiſed up from Sickneſs? or promiſe to him Forgiveneſs of his Sins, to whom they cannot promiſe that Recovery which was the token of it? Moreover, the things obſerv'd already afford us a ſufficient Anſwer to the Objections of Eſthius againſt our Expoſition, which are theſe:

Object. 1. Firſt, That the Grace of Miracles extended not to Spiritual Effects, as the Forgiveneſs of Sins, but Temporal.

Anſw. This is ſaid in that contradiction to our Lord, who doth ſo often Preface his miraculous Cures of the Sick with this Expreſſion, Thy Sins are forgiven thee, Matth. 9. 2. Nor was this Forgiveneſs ſo much a Spiritual Effect as Temporal, it being only the Remiſſion of a Temporal Puniſhment of Sin, viz. Sickneſs inflicted for it.

Obj. 2. Had the Apoſtle ſpoke of miraculous Cures, he would only have adviſed them to call thoſe who had the Gift of Healing, whether Presbyters or not, not all the Presbyters, and them only.

Anſw. He reaſonably adviſeth to call them, and them only to pray over the Sick, who were by Office appointed for that Work, and doth here only tell them what they might expect from it, when that miraculous Faith was raiſed in them, which often, in thoſe Times of Miracles, accompanied their Prayers.

Obj. 3. The Apoſtle ſpeaks of a ſick Chriſtian Brother to be anointed by a Faithful Presbyter, whereas the uſe of Miracles was chiefly for converting Infidels, and hence this Unction was not uſed towards Trophimus left at Miletum ſick, 2 Tim. 4. 20. or to Epaphroditus, ſick near unto Death, Philip. 2. 27.

Anſw. If it were not uſed by St. Paul to them, and eſpecially to Epaphroditus, 'tis certain that he knew nothing of this Sacrament. 2. Eſthius hath no cauſe to aſſert that of Miracles in General, which the Apoſtle ſaith only of the Gift of Tongues, that they were only for Believers; the Gift of Healing, for ought he knows to the contrary, might be ſtill exerciſed upon Believers, but only under the Conduct of the Spirit, raiſing up this miraculous Faith which aſſured them of it in reſpect to ſome, and not to others, as he ſaw fit. See Note on Philip. 2 27.

Obj. 4. That had the Apoſtle intended miraculous Healing, Oil had not been preſcribed, Chriſt having ſaid, they ſhould lay their hands on the ſick only, Mark 16. 18.

Anſw. One Ceremony excludes not the other; moreover laying on of Hands is there preſcribed in Preaching to the Gentiles, anointing with Oil here to the Jews as being cuſtomary in caſe of Sickneſs.

Obj. 5. All the other things delivered in this Epiſtle belong the Chriſtians of all Ages, this therefore muſt do ſo too.

Anſw. As if this hindred the Apoſtles, as they had occaſion, to give Rules touching the Spiritual Gifts proper to their own Times, that, when they ſpake of other Matters not to ceaſe, their Precepts reach unto all Times. St. Peter in his following Epiſtle hath one direction concerning thoſe Spiritual Gifts, 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11. though the other Precepts contained in that Epiſtle do concern all Ages.

Ver. 16. Confeſs (therefore) your ſins one to another, and pray for one another, that ye may be healed, the effectual fervent (Gr. the inſpired) Prayer of a Righteous Man availeth much.

Ver. 17. Elias was a Man ſubject to like Paſſions as we are, and he prayed earneſtly that it might not Rain, and it rained not upon the Earth by the ſpace of three Years and ſix Months.

Ver. 18. And he prayed again, and the Heaven gave Rain, and the Earth brought forth her Fruit.

Δέησις ἐνεργουμένη, the inſpired Prayer.] As they who were inwardly acted by an evil Spirit were ſtiled ἐνεργούμενοι, ſo they that were acted by the Holy Spirit, and inwardly moved by his Impulſes, were alſo ἐνεργούμενοι, in the good Senſe, and therefore it ſeems moſt proper to apply theſe Words not to the Prayer of every Righteous Perſon, but to the Prayer offer'd up by ſuch an extraordinary impulſe, not only from the force of this Expreſſion, but, 2dly, from the ſame thing here mentioned, as the ſubject of this Prayer, that our Sick Brother may be healed, which was to be done by the Prayer of Faith, ver. 15. 3dly, From the Example of Elias, for his Prayer was the Prayer of Faith in the ſenſe now mentioned, for he abſolutely foretold, and confirm'd it with an Oath, that there ſhould be no Rain thoſe Years, but according to his word, 1 Kings 18. 1. And his Prayer for Rain was upon God's Promiſe to ſend Rain upon the Earth, Chap. 19. 1.

Three Years and ſix Months.] So Luke 4. 35. when therefore it is ſaid, that Elijah came to Ahab in the third Year, and the Lord ſaid, I will ſend Rain upon the Earth. Note, that Elias tarried before a Year at the Brook Kerith, and then in the middle of the third Year came to Ahab.

Ver. 19. Brethren, if any of you do err from the Faith, and one convert him,

Ver. 20. Let him know that he who converteth the Sinner from the Error of his way, ſhall ſave a Soul from Death, and ſhall hide a multitude of Sins.

This ſeemeth to be meant not of the Sins of the Perſon thus converted, for the ſaving of his Soul includes the Remiſſion of his Sins, but of the Sins of him that converts him, i. e. this charitable Work ſhall be ſo pleaſing to God, as to prevail with him to cover many of his Sins.

THE PREFACE TO THE First Epiſtle of St. PETER.

CConcerning this Epiſtle, allow'd by the Church of all Ages to be the Genuine Work of the Apoſtle Peter, it may be enquir'd, 1. When, 2. Whence, 3. To whom, 4. On what Account it was written. And,

Queſt. 1. 1ſt. Whereas it is ordinarily affirm'd by the Romaniſts, that this Epiſtle was written in the Forty-fourth Year of Chriſt, as that Opinion ſeems to have been taken up by them in favour of their avowed Tenet that St. Peter was Twenty-Years in that See, and therefore he dying in the Year of our Lord 69. muſt have come thither in the Year 44. So is it eaſily confuted both from this Epiſtle, and by many other cogent Arguments.

1. From theſe words of this Epiſtle, Ch. 4. 8. πάντων ἤγγικε, the end of all things is at hand; that is, ſaith Dr. Hammond, who alſo follows this Opinion, the great fatal Deſtruction to the Obdurate Jews ſo often ſpoken of by Chriſt, and his Apoſtles, is now near at hand; which could not have been ſaid in the Forty-fourth Year of Chriſt, that is about Twenty-ſix Years before it happened, ſeeing the Apoſtle St. Paul in his Second Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians writ, ſaith the Reverend Dr. Hammond, A. D. 51. warneth the Theſſalonians not to be ſhaken by any Word or Epiſtle as coming from the Apoſtles, which intimated that the coming of the Lord was at hand, and ſo he muſt have contradicted St. Peter, had he delivered this poſitively Seven Years before. 2*dly*, the Apoſtle James hath the like Expreſſions, ſaying, ἡ παρουσία τοῦ Κυρίου ἤγγικε, the coming of the Lord draweth near, Chap. 5. 8. Behold the Judge ſtands, πρὸ τῶν θυρῶν, before the Door; whence Dr. Hammond, and Dr. Lightfoot well conclude, That this Epiſtle could not be written long before the Death of St. James, which happened in the Year 63. And this Argument concludes as ſtrongly for this Epiſtle's being indicted after the ſame time. Add to this that theſe Expreſſions, τέλος, and ἡ παρουσία τοῦ Κυρίου ἤγγικε, the end, the coming of the Lord is at hand, and, πρὸ τῶν θυρῶν, before the Door, are plainly taken from our Saviour's Words in his Prediction of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem; where alſo the Time is fixed by two remarkable Characters, 1. When you ſhall ſee Jeruſalem compaſſed about with Armies, then know ye, ὅτι ἤγγικεν ἡ ἐρήμωσις αὐτῆς, that her Deſolation draweth near, Luke 21. 20. That is, ſaith Dr. Hammond, when you ſee Jeruſalem beſieged by the Romans, then know the Deſtruction of the City is near. Now this happened not at all till the Twelfth of Nero, and the Sixty-ſixth Year of our Lord, when (a) Ceſtius beſieged Jeruſalem; it happened not, ſay the beſt Interpreters, according to the Words of the Evangeliſt, till the Year 68. when Veſpaſian coming thither, his Army (b) compaſſed the City round about. Theſe, ſaith St. Luke, are the days of Vengeance, when all things which are written ſhall be fulfilled, ver. 22. and then ſhall they ſee the Son of Man coming in the Clouds, ver. 27. Again, our Lord having foretold all the Signs of his coming, ἡ τὸ συντέλειαν, and of the end of the Jewiſh Age, adds, when you ſee all theſe things come to paſs, then know that this Deſolation, ἐγγὺς ἐστιν ἐπὶ θύραις, is nigh, even at the Door, Matth. 24. 33. Mark 13. 29. clearly ſhewing that Phraſe importeth ſtill a nearer approach of that great Deſolation.

2*dly*, That St. Peter was not at Rome, nor departed from Judea, till a long time after the Forty-fourth Year of Chriſt, is ſo evident from the Hiſtory of the Acts, and the Epiſtles of St. Paul, that he that runs may read it. For, That St. Luke in an Hiſtory deſign'd especially to record the Acts of St. Peter and St. Paul, should omit a matter of such vast Moment and Importance to the whole Christian World, happening within that very time in which he speaketh of St. Peter; that speaking of him Chap. 12. 17. He departed, and went to another place, he should not say as Bellarmin and Baronius, that place was Rome, but in flat Contradiction to them, that he went down from Judea to Cæsarea, and there abode, ver. 19. That he should tell us how Aquilla and Priscilla came from Italy, because Claudius had commanded that all the Jews should depart from Rome, but should not tell us, as they do, that St. Peter came thence to Jerusalem on the same account, and therefore was found present at the Council of Jerusalem about Six Years after, but speak of him there, as if he never had left Jerusalem; That in this Council he should urge against the Necessity of imposing Circumcision on the Gentiles, only the Example of Cornelius, and his Kinsmen, converted and not circumcised, and say not one word of the Church of Rome, the Seat of all Spiritual Power and Infallibility, and to which all other Churches were to veil and do Homage, converted by him in like manner, and free also from the Yoke of Circumcision; Nay, that he should not mention that ever he was there, in an History continued till the fifth Year of Nero, though he mentions his Travels to his Preaching, and abode at several other places; these sure are things sufficient to convince all unprejudiced Persons, that St. Peter was not then at Rome.

3dly, The same may strongly be concluded from the Epistles of St. Paul. For about the Year 57, saith Bishop Pearson, he writ his Epistle to the Romans, in which he spends the greatest part of one Chapter in saluting particular Persons that were there; but yet we find no Salutation to St. Peter. Who, had he been then at Rome, would doubtless have been mention'd in the first place; and yet in so large an Epistle, he neither is directly, nor indirectly taken notice of. Moreover, St. Paul himself, in the beginning, intimates his earnest desire to come thither, that he might impart unto them some spiritual Gifts, to the end they might be establish'd in the Faith; for which there could be no apparent Cause had the Apostle Peter been there so long before him. St. Paul himself soon after comes to Rome, which when the Brethren heard of, they came to meet him as far as Appii Forum, Act. 28. 15. but not a word of St. Peter either coming or sending to him. When he is come, he goes not to sojourn with, or so much as to salute St. Peter, which sure he would have done if he had been there, but dwells in his own hired House. Being come, he calls the chief of the Jews together, who desire to hear of him what he thought of the Sect of the Christians, they knowing this only of it, that it was everywhere spoken against, ver. 22. And what then had St. Peter, the Apostle of the Circumcision, been doing all this while among them? And how unlikely is it that there should be then, as (c) Dr. Hammond saith, a Church consisting much of the Jews residing there? And how reflecting on the supposed Labours of St. Peter among the Jews there, are the following words, ver. 26, 27, 28. that because they would not hear, or be converted, he would not leave them to St. Peter, but turn unto the Gentiles, who would hear. After his coming to Rome, he writes Epistles to several Churches, to the Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, and one to Philemon; in which two last we have sent from Rome the Salutations of Aristarchus, Marcus, Justus, Epaphras, Luke, and Demas, Colos. 4. 10---14. Philem. 23, 24. but not a word from St. Peter. In that to the Colossians, he tells them he had no other Helpers, or Fellow-workers unto the Kingdom of God among the Jews, which had been a Comfort to him, but Aristarchus, Marcus, and Justus, Chap. 4. 10, 11. which evidently excludes St. Peter. In his Epistle to Timothy he saith, that at his first Answer at Rome, all Men forsook him, 2 Tim. 4. 16. which we can hardly believe, had St. Peter been there. He adds, that only Luke was with him, that Crescens was gone to this place, Titus to that, and Tychicus was left at another. Strange therefore is it, that if St. Peter were then gone from Rome, St. Paul should take no notice of it. Was he a Person so inconsiderable, as not to deserve to be remembred? Or was he gone upon a sleeveless Errand, not worthy of the Notice of St. Paul? Or was he not rather one who being not at Rome, could give St. Paul no reason to take notice of him when he writ from thence. But this Subject is so fully handled, and the Hypothesis of Baronius so learnedly confuted by (d) Dr. Cave, that 'tis superfluous to insist longer on this Subject.

Quest. 2. To the Second Enquiry, Whence this Epistle was Indited? I have returned a sufficient Answer in the Note upon these words, Chap. 5. 13. The Church which is at Babylon saluteth you, by shewing that by Babylon Rome is to be understood; whence this Epistle must be therefore written. And then it must be written after the Persecution in the 10*th of* Nero, when neither Paul nor Peter were at Rome.

Quest. 3. That it was written to the Jews dispers'd through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia (minor) and Bithynia, the Inscription (e) shews; but that it must be also written either to the Gentiles proselyted to the Jewish Religion,

Religion, of whom ſee the Note on 1 Pet. 1. 1. or to the Converts of the twelve Tribes ſcatter'd among the Heathens, and there ſerving their Gods, according to the Threat denounced upon them Deut. 28. 36, 64. that they ſhould ſerve other Gods which neither they nor their Fathers had known, ſeems evident from theſe words, that they were deliver'd from their vain Converſation delivered to them from their Fathers, Chap. 1. 18. See the Note there, that in times paſt they were not the People, but now are the People of God; that they had not obtained mercy, but now had obtained mercy, Chap. 2. 10. which words were ſpoken of the Ten Tribes; Hoſ. 1. 10. 2. 23. and that the time paſt might ſuffice them to have done the Will of the Gentiles, when they walked in Laſciviouſneſs, Luſts, Exceſs of Wine, Revellings, Banquettings, and abominable Idolatries, Chap. 4. 3.

To imagine that the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking of the Diſperſion mention'd Acts 8. 1. is to ſpeak what is very improbable, they being diſperſed only into the Countries of Judea and Samaria, ſaith the Text there; nor is it ſaid that any of them travell'd any farther than Phœnice, Cyprus, and Antioch, Chap. 11. 19. Nor is it likely that many of them travell'd ſo far, the Churches of Judea and Samaria having Peace ſoon after this Diſperſion, Act. 9. 31. That any of them went to all, or any of the Places here mention'd by St. Peter, we have no reaſon to imagine, but that there was long before a great Diſperſion of the Jews throughout theſe Parts of Aſia. See the Note on Jam. 1. 1.

Laſtly, Upon what Account this Epiſtle was written, we may beſt learn from the Epiſtle it ſelf; which informs us, 1*ſt*. That it was written to encourage them to perſevere, and to continue conſtant under thoſe manifold Temptations, Chap. 1. 6. thoſe fiery Trials, Chap. 4. 12. and Perſecutions, Chap. 2, 3, 4, 5. they were then ſubject to. 2*dly*, To preſerve them from being concern'd in the Jewiſh Wars, or bearing any part in that Rebellion againſt Cæſar and his Officers, which was then beginning among the Jews, Chap. 2. from ver. 12. to the 23d, and Chap. 3. 16, 17, 18. And 3*dly*, To engage them to lead a Chriſtian Converſation, that ſo they might bring over others to the Chriſtian Faith, Chap. 2. 12. A Paraphrase with Annotations ON THE First Epistle of St. PETER.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. PETER an Apostle of Jesus Christ (writeth) to the Strangers scatter'd throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia (minor) and Bithynia.

Παρεπιδήμοις, to the Strangers.] He writes especially to the Dispersion of the Jews to whom the word Strangers or Foreigners here chiefly doth belong; but not them only, for he speaks to them also, Who in time past had walk'd according to the will of the Gentiles in abominable Idolatries, Chap. 4. 3. and of them who formerly were not the People of God, and had not found mercy; We therefore are to understand that among them were many devout Greeks and Proselytes of the Gentiles converted with them to the Christian Faith: Thus when St. Paul and Barnabas preached in a Synagogue of the Jews at Iconum a great multitude both of Jews and Greeks believed, Act. 14. 1. and Paul Preaching at Ephesus, and thereabout, two years, prevailed so, that all that dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus both Jews and Greeks, Act. 19. 10. See Chap. 17. 4, 12. 18. 4. In the Acts of the Apostles we read of Proselytes of all Nations. They were reckoned in the days of David and Solomon 153600 Persons, 2 Chron. 2. 17. In the days of Artaxarxes, we are told that πολλοὶ τῶν ἐθνῶν περιετέμνοντο, καὶ ἰουδάϊζον, many of the Heathens were circumcised, and turn'd Jews, Esth. 8. 17. And so it was also in the succeeding Ages; for Josephus informs us, that after the times of Antiochus Epiphanes, the Jews in Antioch, and other places, (a) always converting to their Worship, a Great many Greeks, made them as it were a part of themselves and at Damascus he saith they would have destroy'd the Jews among them, but that they feared their own Wives (b) who all except some few, were Converts to the Religion of the Jews.

Διασπορᾶς, of the Dispersion.] i. e. dispers'd through Pontus, &c. The Apostle speaks not of the Dispersion made by the Persecution mention'd Act. 8. 1. for that scattered the Christians only through Judæa, and Samaria, ibid. Nor were they afterwards dispersed farther by the malice of the Jews, but went themselves to preach the word, not in Asia, but in the parts of Syria in Phœnice, Cyprus, and Antioch, Act. 11. 19. Of their Dispersion thence into Asia we read not one word, but that there were before Great Dispersions of the Jews through the places here mentioned from the time of the Captivity under Salmanasser, we learn from Agrippa's Address to Caius where he informs him that they possess'd (c) most parts of Asia, to the outmost borders of Bithynia and Pontus.

Ver. 2. (That is to those of them who are) Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father through Sanctification of the Spirit unto Obedience and (to the) sprinkling of the Blood of Jesus, (wishing that) Grace to you and Peace be multiplied.

Ἐκλεκτοῖς, Elect.] i. e. to the converted Jews stiled the Elect Mat. 24. 22. See Note on Chap. 2. 9.

Κατὰ πρόγνωσιν, according to the foreknowledge of God.] Discovered in the Prophetical Writings which foretold of these Blessings to be conveyed to them by the Messiah, who also is said to be foreknown before the Foundations of the World; i. e. prophesied of from the beginning, Gen. 3. 15. but manifested in the last times for them, ver. 20.

Ἐν ἁγιασμῷ, through Sanctification of the Spirit.] The great Principle of all true Obedience; so ver. 22. having sanctified your Souls or Lives to the Obedience of the Truth through the Spirit.

Καὶ ῥαντισμὸν, and sprinkling of the Blood of Jesus.] By way of Obsignation of that Covenant by which we are engaged to that Obedience; for so it was in the Delivery of the Old Law. For upon reading of that Covenant in the Audience of all the People, and upon their professing, All that the Lord hath said we will do, and be obedient; Moses took the Blood, and sprinkled it upon the People, and said, Behold the Blood of the Covenant which the Lord hath made with you concerning all these words, Exod. 24. 7, 8. So Dr. Hammond. Or to that sprinkling of the Blood of Jesus Christ which cleanseth us from all Sin, 1 Joh. 1. 7. i. e. from all the sinful Imperfections which cleave to our Obedience, and by which the full Pardon of our past Sins is obtained, and we obtain an Entrance into the Holiest of all, Hebr. 10. 19, 20. and which procures for us not only Acceptance upon Earth, but an Inheritance in Heaven, Hebr. 9. 15. 12. 24.

Ver. 3. Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again into a lively (Gr. living) hope by the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

Ver. 4. (We being begotten by his Resurrection, as the first-fruits of ours, 1 Cor. 15. 20. 23.) to (the hope of) an inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in Heaven for you (Believers.)

Ὁ θεὸς καὶ πατὴρ, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.] Here, saith Schlictingius, as formerly the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob distinguished the one true God from any other, so now this Phrase distinguisheth him from Jesus Christ, whose God and Father he is called. But yet the Primitive Fathers thought otherwise; for they stiffly maintained, against the Gnosticks, who held there was another God above the God of Abraham, &c. or the God of the Jews, that (d) He was the God and Father of all, supra quem non est alius, and yet that Jesus Christ was God, as being in the Father from all Eternity, and receiving the Divine Nature from him.

Εἰς ἐλπίδα ζῶσαν, to a living Hope.] i. e. Either Hope that giveth Life, as ὕδωρ ζῶν living Water, Joh. 4. 10, 11, 14. ὁ ἄρτος ὁ ζῶν the living Bread which came down from Heaven, of which if a man eat, he shall live for ever, Joh. 6. 51. 7. 38. λόγια ζῶντα the living Oracles, Act. 7. 38. which if a Man observe, saith Moses, he shall live by them, Levit. 18 4. ὁδὸς ζῶσα a living way, Heb. 10. 20. as leading to Life eternal. And ζωὴς πηγαὶ living fountains of Waters, Rev. 7. 17. for by Hope we are saved, Rom. 8. 24. Or a Hope that makes us active and lively, joyful and comfortable in our Lives, rejoycing in hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 2. In which sense it is said of the Word of God, that it is ζῶν καὶ ἐνεργὴς living and active, Hebr. 4. 12. of the Members of Christ's spiritual House, that they are λίθοι ζῶντες, i. e. living Stones, 1 Pet. 2. 5. And we are bid to offer our Bodies, θυσίαν ζῶσαν, a living Sacrifice, Rom. 12. 1. Hence it seems to follow, that the Jews before had not this lively Hope, which our Lord's Resurrection ministers.

Ἀμίαντον, undefiled.] The Land in which Men who are Sinners dwell on Earth, is said to be defiled by their Sins. Lev. 18. 28. Num. 5. 3. 35, 34. Deut. 21. 23. Isa. 24. 5. Jer. 2. 7. 16. 18. Heaven, into which no unclean thing can enter, being the only Inheritance undefiled.

Ver. 5. Who are kept by the power of God through faith unto (the) Salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

Ἐν δυνάμει θεοῦ φρουρουμένους διὰ πίστεως, who are kept by the power of God through Faith.] Not that all who have true Faith are kept by the power of God, so as that they certainly shall continue in the Faith; but, that they shall be thus preserved, if they continue in the Faith rooted and setled, and are not removed from the hope of the Gospel, Col. 1. 23. If they keep the beginning of their confidence firm unto the end, Hebr. 3. 14.

Εἰς σωτηρίαν ἑτοίμην ἀποκαλυφθῆναι ἐν καιρῷ ἐσχάτῳ, the Salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.] i. e. Say some, the Deliverance ready to be vouchsafed to the Christians at the Destruction of the Church and Polity of Jerusalem, this being the Salvation then ready to be revealed. But this seems not very probable; 1. Because in this Salvation Christians are said to rejoyce greatly, or to exult for joy, Ver. 6. which it becomes not them to do for temporal but for spiritual Blessings. 2ly, Because 'tis the Salvation not of our Bodies but our Souls, even that Salvation which is the end of Faith, ver. 9. See the Note there. To the Argument produced for that sense from the words,

I Answer, 1. That though the last Times, and

Days in the Plural, do moſtly ſignifie the times of the Goſpel-Diſpenſation concurring with the laſt Times of the Jewiſh State; yet in the Singular, it often ſignifies the time of the Reſurrection, or the laſt Judgment, eſpecially when it is joyned with the Reſurrection of the Body mentioned here, ver. 3. So John 6. 39. I will raiſe him up, ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ ἡμέρᾳ in the laſt day. See ver. 40, 44, 45. Chap. 11. 24. I know that he ſhall riſe in the laſt day, and Chap. 12. 48. the word that I have ſpoken ſhall judge him in the laſt day.

2*ly.* As there is mention of a double Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt; one when he appeared as a Prophet to the World, ſtiled uſually φανέρωσις the manifeſtation of Jeſus Chriſt, another at the Day of Judgment, ſtiled ἀποκάλυψις the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Cor. 1. 7. the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt from Heaven, 2 Theſ. 1. 7. his Glorious Revelation, 1 Pet. 4. 13. and here emphatically the Revelation of Chriſt, ver. 7. 13. So is there a double Revelation of the Salvation promiſed in the Goſpel, one by the Preaching of the Goſpel which brought Life and Salvation to light, 2 Tim. 1. 10. and a farther Revelation of it to be made hereafter, when Chriſt who is our Life ſhall appear, Col. 3. 3, 4. 1 Joh. 3. 2. ſtiled the Glory ready to be revealed when the great Shepherd ſhall appear, 1 Pet. 5. 4. the Glory ready to be revealed at the Redemption of our Bodies, Rom. 8. 18, 23. to which this Paſſage may refer.

Ver. 6. Wherein (i. e. on the account of which) you Greatly rejoyce, though for a ſeaſon, if need be, ye are in heavineſs through manifold temptations.

Εἰ δέον ἐστί, if need be.] This is great conſolation under all the Afflictions of God's Servants, that they then only ſhall befall them when God ſees them needful for the promotion of his Glory, or for the furtherance of our Salvation, as when they tend to make us Partakers of his Holineſs, and to work in us the comfortable fruits of Righteouſneſs, Hebr. 12. 10, 11. or work for us an eternal and exceeding weight of Glory, 2 Cor. 4. 17. by conforming us to him in Sufferings to whom we ſhall be like in Glory, 1 Pet. 4. 13. Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11.

Ver. 7. That the trial of your faith being (which is) much more precious (and advantageous to you) than the trial of Gold that periſheth, though it be tryed by fire (or, though upon trial it endure the fire) might be found to your praiſe, honour, and Glory, at the appearance of Jeſus Chriſt (in Glory.)

Διὰ πυρὸς δοκιμαζομένου.] Proved to be Genuine by the Fire it endures, as your Faith is by patiently enduring fiery Trials. See Note on Chap. 4. 12.

Ver. 8. Whom, having not ſeen, ye love, in whom, though now you ſee him not, yet (Gr. not now ſeeing but) believing, ye rejoyce with joy unſpeakable and full of Glory.

Ὃν οὐκ εἰδότες.] If this reading be true, it is moſt proper to tranſlate the words thus, Whom having not known; if ὃν οὐκ ἰδόντες, as other Copies have it, and all the Verſions do tranſlate it, be the true reading then our Tranſlation is right alſo.

Ver. 9. Receiving the end of your Faith, even the Salvation of (your) Souls.

Σωτηρίαν ψυχῶν.] The preſervation of your Lives, ſo Dr. Hammond, but there is no ὑμῶν in the Greek, to Anſwer to the word your in the Engliſh, and the Salvation of Lives ſeems not ſo properly aſſigned as the end of our Faith, as the Salvation of Souls, as we may learn alſo from the following words.

Ver. 10. Of which Salvation the Prophets have enquired, and ſearched diligently, who prophefied of the Grace that ſhould come unto you (i. e. of the Grace to be brought unto us at the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, ver. 13. Mat. 13. 17.)

Ver. 11. Searching what, or what manner of time the Spirit of Chriſt which was in them did ſignifie, (or to what time he did relate,) when he teſtified, before hand the Sufferings of Chriſt (in Himſelf, and his Members) and the Glories that ſhould follow (them, Dan. 9. 24.)

Εἰς τίνα ἢ ποῖον καιρὸν.] The particle ἢ is oft redundant. See Nald. p. 66, 67. and p. 464. or it may here be rendred de, of what time, as 2 Cor. 12. 6. let no Man think εἰς ἐμὲ of me, more than he ought to think, Eph. 5. 32. I ſpeak εἰς Χριστὸν καὶ εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν of Chriſt and the Church, Act. 2. 25. David ſpake εἰς αὐτὸν of him. So Act. 25. 20. Hebr. 7. 14. εἰς ἣν φυλὴν of which Tribe.

Τὸ ἐν αὐτοῖς πνεῦμα Χριστοῦ the Spirit of Chriſt which was in them.] That is, ſay the Socinians, the Spirit in them which ſpake of Chriſt; as the Word of Life, and of Salvation, is the Word which ſpeaks of Life, and of Salvation. But in this ſenſe he might as well have been ſtiled the Spirit of Antichriſt, or the Falſe Prophets, becauſe he alſo ſpake of them. All the Ancients agree in the other Senſe, that Chriſt ſpake by his Spirit in the (e) Prophets, they being inſpired with his Grace, and taught by his Spirit, their words proceeded from the Divine Word moving them, and by him they propheſied; he ſpake in Iſaiah, in Elias and in the mouth of the Prophets. So the Fathers.

Ver. 12. To whom it was revealed; yet not unto themſelves, but unto us they did miniſter the (ſame) things which are now reproved, (or have been now declared) to you, by them who have preach'd the Goſpel to you, by the Holy Spirit ſent down from heaven, which things the Angels deſire to look into.

Ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ, by the Holy Spirit ſent down from Heaven.] Hence it is evident that the Apoſtles, in all thoſe Writings in which they declared the Goſpel of Chriſt were θεόπνευστοι Men aſſiſted by the Holy Ghoſt, and that they in preaching, and enditing the Goſpel were acted by the ſame Spirit who moved formerly the Prophets. See the General Preface to the Epiſtles.

Παρακύψαι, Angels deſire to look into.] And ſhall holy Prophets be ſo deſirous to know the time when theſe things ſhould happen, and holy Angels ſo diligent to look into theſe Glorious Revelations: and ſhall we to whom, and for whoſe happineſs this Goſpel was revealed, neglect not only to obtain, but even to know this Great Salvation? Some refer this to Dan. 8. 13.

Τὰ εἰς χριστὸν παθήματα, the Sufferings of Chriſt.] Not only in himſelf, but in his Members, and the Glories which ſhould be after as well to them, as to their Saviour, Rom. 8. 18. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. 1 Pet. 4. 13. as appears from ver. 13. where this Glory is ſtiled the Grace to be brought to us at the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 13. Wherefore Girding up the loins of your mind, be ſober (Gr. Vigilant,) and hope to the end, for the Grace that is to be brought (Gr. that is brought) to you at (by) the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, (who hath brought life and immortality to light by the Goſpel, 2 Tim. 1. 10.)

Note, that from this and the foregoing Verſe we have ſeveral Arguments, to prove theſe things relate not to the temporal Deliverance of Chriſtians from the Perſecutions of the Jews, but to their Deliverance from the guilt of Sin by the Blood of Chriſt, ver. 19. and that eternal Deliverance which is the the Object of the Chriſtians hope. For, 1ſt. that cannot properly be ſtiled the Grace which is to come to us by the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, that being the Grace which brings Salvation, Tit. 2. 11, 13. 2ly. That was not the thing which they who preached the Goſpel did ἀναγγέλλειν ἡμῖν, declare unto us; but as St. John informs us, they did ἀναγγέλλειν ζωὴν αἰώνιον, ſhew unto us eternal life, 1 John 1. 2. 3ly, They could not be the things the Angels did deſire to look into. 4ly, The motive to Perſeverance to the end is not a temporal Deliverance from the Jews, but a Spiritual and Eternal Deliverance, Rom. 8. 18. 2 Cor. 4. 17. Hebr. 10. 35, 36.

Ver. 14. As (it becometh) Children of obedience, not faſhioning your ſelves according to the former luſts (you practis'd) in your ignorance.

Ver. 15. But as he (God the Father, ver. 17.) who hath called you is holy, ſo be ye holy in all manner of converſation.

Ver. 16. Becauſe it is written (thus,) be ye holy for I (the Lord your God) am holy (Lev. 11. 44. 19. 2.)

Ἐγὼ ἅγιός εἰμι.] The Holineſs of God in Scripture, hath reſpect unto a double Object, viz. Sin; and ſo it doth import his perfect freedom from, his hatred of, and oppoſition to all Impiety. 1. His entire freedom from all Impurity, for God is light, ſaith the Apoſtle, and in him is no darkneſs at all, 1 Joh. 1. 5. He is a juſt God, and without iniquity, Deut. 32. 4. A God of purer Eyes than to behold evil, Hab. 1. 13. i. e. without the greateſt Deteſtation. 2ly, His perfect hatred of it; whence he is ſaid to loath, deteſt, and to abhor it, and the Workers of it; and it is ſtiled the abominable thing which his Soul hateth, Jer. 44. 4. And ſince God's Nature is immutable, his Holineſs unchangeable, he muſt for ever hate with a moſt perfect hatred whatſoever is unholy, and impure; and to ſuppoſe an Interruption in his Hatred of evil Doers, is to imagine he can ceaſe to be a pure and holy God. And, 3ly, From this Hatred naturally flows a juſt aſſurance of his Oppoſition to all Impiety and Unholineſs that he by no means will clear the Guilty, Exod. 34. 7. or let the Sinner always go unpuniſhed, Nah. 1. 2. And this ſeems to be the Import of the Holineſs of God we are here called to imitate, becauſe it ſtands in Oppoſition to the former luſts of their ignorance: or 2ly, God's Holineſs reſpects ſuch Perſons as are by Conſecration, or by Reſemblance of him, holy; and ſo it intimates his Great Affection to them, and Concernment for them.

Ver. 17. And if ye call upon the Father, who without reſpect of Perſons judgeth according to every mans works, paſs the time of your ſojourning here in fear (of condemnation from this impartial judge at that day)

Ἀπροσωπολήπτως.] i. e. without difference of Nations, whether Jew or Gentile, or without reſpect had to any mans Progenitors in the Great day of his Account, Act. 10. 34, 35. Rom. 2. 58. See Note on James 2. 1.

Ver. 18. For as much as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, (ſuch) as (are) Silver and Gold, (ſuch as the Jews brought up to Jeruſalem to buy their offerings,) from (the demerit of) your vain converſation received by tradition from your Elders (Gr. Forefathers;)

Ver. 19. But with the precious blood of Chriſt (who was delivered up to Death for you) as a lamb without blemiſh, and without ſpot.

Ἐκ τῆς ματαίας ὑμῶν ἀναστροφῆς, from your vain Converſation.] Two Expreſſions in this Chapter ſeem to intimate that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here not only to the native Jews but alſo to the converted Gentiles. 1ſt. His Exhortation to them not to faſhion themſelves according to their former luſts ἐν τῇ ἀγνοίᾳ ὑμῶν in your ignorance, which Phraſe in the New Teſtament hath ſtill relation to the times of Ignorance in which the Gentiles lay before the preaching of the Goſpel to them. So Act. 17. 30. τοὺς χρόνους τῆς ἀγνοίας, the times of ignorance God winked at, Eph. 4. 18. being darkned in your mind διὰ τὴν ἄγνοιαν, by the ignorance that is in you. 2ly, This of their Converſation received by tradition from their Foreſathers, for though the Scribes and Phariſees had delivered traditions to the People, which rendred the Worſhip of God vain, Mat. 15. 9. yet a vain Converſation received by Tradition from their Foreſathers, ſeems rather to reſpect the Converſation of the Heathens, ἀναστροφὴ being the word by which the Converſation of the Gentiles is deſigned, Epheſ. 2. 3. 4. 22. 2 Pet. 2. 7, 18. and μάταια here added to it determining the Converſation to the Worſhip of vain Gods, Act. 14. 15. Eph. 4. 17. Their Plea for their Religion and vain Worſhip being alſo this, that they received it from their Fathers. Their great Plea for it being this, they (f) were not to be moved by any perſwaſions from the Religion which they had receiv'd from their Foreſathers. But yet I confeſs theſe things may relate to the Gentile Proſelytes among the Jews which were very numerous. See Note on ver. 1.

Ὡς ἀμνοῦ ἀμώμου, a lamb without blemiſh.] Chriſt being perfect, and without ſpot of Sin, was typifyed by the Lamb offer'd daily for their Sins; and that Lamb being bought with the half Shekel, every one gave for the buying of the daily Sacrifice, Exod. 30. 14, 15, 16. and which was therefore ſtiled Keſeph Kippurim, the money of Expiations, and was ſent up to Jeruſalem from every City of Judea, and all the Provinces where the Jews liv'd, in Silver, and Gold, the Apoſtle may here allude to this when he ſaith, you were not redeem'd with Silver and Gold by which the daily Sacrifice was bought which made atonement for your Souls, but with the precious Blood of Jeſus, who ſhed his Blood for our Redemption from that Death which by our Sin we had contracted. Others refer this to the Paſchal Lamb, by the ſprinkling of whoſe Blood, they were delivered from Deſtruction when the firſt born of the Ægyptians periſhed, Exod. 12. 11, 17. Both theſe Lambs were to be perfect, and without Spot that they might be accepted, Exod. 12. 5. Lev. 22. 21.

Ver. 20. Who verily was foreordained (Gr. foreknown, i. e. deſigned as the Meſſiah) before the foundation of the world, but was manifeſted in theſe laſt times for you (i. ſakes.)

Προεγνωσμένου, foreknown.] The (g) Jews ſay, that 'When God created the World he 'held forth his hand under the Throne of 'Glory, and created the Soul of the Meſſiah, 'and his Company, and ſaid to him, wilt 'thou heal, and redeem my Sons after ſix 'thouſand years? He anſwered Yes. God 'ſaid to him, if ſo, wilt thou bear Chaſtiſe-'ments to expiate their Iniquity, according 'to what is written Iſa. 53. 4. Surely he bore our Griefs? He anſwered, I will endure them with joy. And to this Repreſentation of this Covenant made with the Meſſiah before the Creation of the World, it may be the Apoſtle here refers. See the Note on Eph. 1. 4. In the Stile of (h) Philo, he is ἀΐδιος λόγος, the eternal word, the firſt-born and the moſt ancient Son of the Father, by whom all the Species were framed. This therefore is according to the received opinion of the Jews.

Ver. 21. Who by (Faith in) him (thus riſen) do believe in God which raiſed him up from the dead, that your Faith and Hope (of a bleſſed Reſurrection) might be in God.

Πιστοὺς εἰς θεὸν, by him do believe in God.] Here the Socinians object thus, He by whom we believe in God, is not that God in whom we believe, for the means of faith can never be the object of it, but Chriſt is he by whom we believe in God, ergo, Chriſt is not God. To this I Anſwer, That Chriſt according to the Nature which dyed for us, and which was raiſed from the dead, is he by whom we believe in God, i. e. own him to be able to raiſe us alſo from the dead; and according to the ſame Nature we acknowledge him not to be God, but that hinders not his being God according to that Nature by which he had Power to, and did actually raiſe himſelf from the Dead, Joh. 10. 18. 2. 19.

But ſtill they object, that by him we believe in him that raiſed him from the dead, that our Faith and Hope might be in God, to wit, the Father; Faith therefore and Hope in Chriſt, is not Faith and Hope in God. Anſw. 1. It only follows hence that it is not Faith and Hope in God the Father; but 2ly, The Apo- ſtle here ſaith, that by believing in him who raiſed up Chriſt from the Dead we believe in God, becauſe we believe in that divine Power which can raiſe us alſo from the Dead; ſince therefore the Holy Scripture expreſly and frequently aſſerts that we ſhall be raiſed up from the dead by the voice of the Son of God, Joh. 5. 25, 28. and that becauſe as the Father hath life in himſelf, and ſo is able to give Life to the Dead, ſo hath he given to the Son to have life in himſelf, ver. 26. Seeing Chriſt often ſaith of him that believeth in him, I will raiſe him up at the laſt day, Joh. 6. 39, 40, 44, 54. for I am the reſurrection and the life, Joh. 11. 24, 25. Since the Apoſtle ſaith he hath dominion over the dead and over the living, Rom. 14. 9. that by him all men ſhall be made alive, 1 Cor. 15. 22. and that he will change our vile bodies into the likeneſs of his Glorious body according to the mighty power whereby he is able to ſubdue all things to himſelf, it rather follows hence that our Faith and Hope in Chriſt thus raiſing us from the Dead, as his Father did him, is Faith and Hope in God.

Ver. 22. Seeing ye have purified your Souls, in (by) obeying the truth through the Spirit, (by whom you are enabled to perform this Obedience,) to unfeigned love of the Brethren (which is one part of that Obedience,) ſee that you love (Gr. ye will love) one another from a pure heart fervently.

Ver. 23. Being born again not of corruptible ſeed (as is that from which you had your firſt Nativity, whence you alſo who are thus begotten are corruptible,) but of incorruptible, (as being born again) by the word of God which liveth, and abideth for ever.

Ver 24. For all fleſh is as Graſs, and all the glory of man as the flower of Graſs, (as then) the Graſs withereth and the flower of it falleth away, (ſo will it be with our Body of Fleſh.)

Ver. 25. But the word of the Lord (ſaith the Prophet, Iſa. 40. 8.) abideth for ever (in its ſelf as being of eternal Truth, and in its Effects upon us as nouriſhing us to Life eternal) and this is the word which by the Goſpel is preached to you.

Ἀλλὰ ἀφθάρτου, being born again of incorruptible ſeed.] Here is a farther Evidence, that the word of God is the ordinary means of our new Birth. For 'tis τὸ ῥῆμα τὸ εὐαγγελισθὲν, the word preached, (not any inward word infuſed) which is here ſtiled that incorruptible ſeed from which this new Birth is derived.

Διὰ λόγου ζῶντος θεοῦ, the word of God liveth.] This Epithete is aſcribed to the word of God, Hebr. 4. 12. and that this is not ſpoken of the living God, is evident, becauſe in the Greek it is not διὰ λόγου θεοῦ ζῶντος, but ζῶντος θεοῦ, i. e. not by the word of the living God but by the living word of God. 2ly, That it is to be underſtood of the word preached is clear, becauſe the Epithete living and abiding forever, agrees to the ſame thing. Now the Apoſtle ſaith it is the word preached which abideth for ever, and ſo the Prophet Iſaiah had ſaid before him. Chap. 40. 8. τὸ δὲ ῥῆμα τοῦ θεοῦ ἡμῶν μένει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. Wherefore laying aſide all malice, and all guile and hypocriſies, and envies, and all evil ſpeaking, (Vices to which the Jewiſh Nation was then very prone, and for which they are ſeverely taxed by their own Joſephus; See the parallel place Jam. 1. 21. and which are contrary to the great Chriſtian command of Love and obſtructive of the Word of Truth by which we are born again.)

Ver. 2. As new born Babes, deſire the ſincere milk of the word, that (as you were begotten, Chap. 1. 23. ſo) you may grow thereby (unto a perfect Man in Chriſt Jeſus, Eph. 4. 13.)

Τὸ λογικὸν γάλα.] The Milk which rational Creatures feed on; ſo λογικὴ λατρεία is the Service performed by Men of Reaſon, Rom. 12. 1. It ſeems to be the ſame in ſence with the ſame ingrafted word, Jam. 1. 21.

Ver. 3. If ſo be (εἴπερ ſince) ye have taſted that the Lord is gracious, (as having pardoned them who crucified him, and procured the favour of God to them. That εἴπερ ſignifies ſince, ſee Note on Eph. 3. 2.)

Ver. 4. To whom coming as to a living ſtone, diſallow'd (Gr. rejected) indeed of men, but choſen of God, and precious, Ἀποδεδοκιμασμένον, diſallowed or rejected of men.] i. e. Of the Jewiſh Sanhedrim, the Builders mentioned Pſal. 118. 22. So R. Solomoh Jarchi on thoſe words of Mich. 5. 2. out of thee ſhall come a Governour that ſhall rule my people Iſrael, i. e. the Meſſiah, the Son of David, ſhall come from thee, as it is written Pſal. 118. 22. the Stone which the Builders refuſed is become the head Stone in the Corner. And ſo our Lord expounds theſe words of the High Prieſts Scribes, and Phariſees, Mat. 21. 42, 45. Luk. 20. 17, 19. So Peter full of the Holy Ghoſt, Act. 4. 11.

Ver. 5. Ye alſo as lively (Gr. living) Stones, are built up a ſpiritual houſe, and are an holy Prieſthood, to offer up ſpiritual ſacrifices acceptable to God by Jeſus Chriſt.

Ὡς λίθοι ζῶντες, a living Stone ver. 4. living Stones.]

Stones.] The Chriſtian Church being not a Building made up of Materials without Life, as was the Temple of Jeruſalem, but a ſpiritual Building conſiſting of the Members of Chriſts Body living by the Spirit communicated from Chriſt their head, and the fountain of Life to them, Eph. 4. 16. Col. 2. 19. He who Communicates this Life to them is therefore ſtiled a living Stone, and they who receive it from him are alſo living Stones; and being by this Spirit thus fitly put together, compacted, and edified into one building, Rom. 14. 19. 1 Theſ. 5. 11. are ſaid to be built up a Spiritual Houſe.

Ἱεράτευμα ἅγιον, an holy Prieſthood.] The legal Sacrifices were to be offer'd by the Prieſts alone, and only in the Temple; accordingly the Chriſtian Church is here repreſented as God's Temple; the Praiſes they offer up to God in their Aſſemblies are ſtiled ſpiritual Sacrifices acceptable to God, through Jeſus Chriſt, Hebr. 13. 15. the Perſons who offer them an holy Prieſthood. See ver. 9.

Πνευματικὰς θυσίας, ſpiritual Sacrifices.] Thus Philo having ſaid, agreeably to the Pſalmiſt, that God delights not in Hecatombs, ſince the whole World is his, and he can want nothing, adds (a) that Men πῶς ἀεὶ σὺν ἀνάσῃ θυσίας ὑμνοις ἅμα καὶ ἰυμνήμασι τὸν σωτῆρα γεραίροντες, then offer the beſt Sacrifice when they honour their Benefactor and Saviour with Hymns. He adds, that the Altar for burnt offerings was made of ſtone, and placed in the Court before the Tabernacle, but the Altar of Incenſe was of Gold, and in the holy place within the Veil. Whence he infers, that as much as Gold is better than Stone, and the Holy Place more ſacred than the Court, (b) τοσούτῳ κρείττων ἡ διὰ τοῦ ὀνειδισμοῦ ἐυχαριστία ἢ διὰ τῶν αἱμάτων, ſo much is the Thankſgiving offer'd up with Incenſe better than that of Sacrifices. And laſtly, he ſaith, that the Fire always burning on the Altar was τὸ σύμβολον τῆς ἐυχαριστίας, (c) a Symbol of Thankſgiving. And this Thankſgiving ſent up to God, with the Oblation of Bread and Wine in the Euchariſt in Commemoration of our Saviour's Paſſion, and with Prayer for our Acceptance through this beloved, is by the Primitive Chriſtians ſtiled their ſpiritual Sacrifice, and that pure Incenſe which, according to the Prophet Malachi, chap. 1. 11. the Gentiles were to offer to God throughout the World.

Ver. 6. Wherefore it is contain'd in Scripture, Iſa. 28. 16. Behold I lay in Zion a chief corner-ſtone, elect, and precious; and he that believeth on him ſhall not be confounded (Gr. aſhamed.) (And it is alſo written in the ſame Scripture, Behold I lay in Zion a ſtone of ſtumbling, and a rock of offence, Iſa. 8. 14, 15. Rom. 9. 33.)

That both theſe Stones relate to the Meſſiah, ſee Voyſin in Rom. 9. 33. and Pug. Fid. part 2. c. 5. §. 2. p. 274.

Ver. 7. To you therefore that believe he is precious (Gr. ἡ τιμὴ, belongs the honour of being thus built upon the corner-ſtone to a ſpiritual houſe;) but to them who are diſobedient (belongs what is written, Pſal. 118. 22.) the ſtone which the Builders diſallowed the ſame is made the head of the corner.

Ver. 8. And (alſo what is written Iſa. 8. 14, 15.) a ſtone of ſtumbling, and a rock of offence (or falling,) even to them who ſtumble at the word being diſobedient, whereunto alſo they were appointed.

Εἰς ὃ καὶ ἐτέθησαν, whereunto alſo they were appointed.] That is, ſaith the Reverend Dr. Hammond, they that diſobey the Goſpel, that ſtand out obſtinately againſt it, were appointed by God to ſtumble and fall at that Stone, i. e. to be bruis'd, and ruin'd by that means, to be deſtroy'd among the Crucifiers of the Meſſiah, and condemn'd with them hereafter, it being juſt with God, that they who will not reform and amend at the preaching of the Goſpel, and ſo receive benefit by it, ſhould for their Obſtinacy be condemn'd, and ſo the worſe for it, Chriſt being ſent for the falling as well as the riſing of many in Iſrael, Luke 2. 34. and the Goſpel being a ſavour of death to them that periſh, 2 Cor. 2. 15, 16. And they being thoſe whom ἔθετο ὁ θεὸς εἰς ὀργὴν, God hath appointed for wrath, 1 Theſſ. 5. 9. And to be ſure it cannot ſignifie that God abſolutely ordained the unbelieving Jews εἰς ἀπείθειαν, for then the Diſobedience would be a compliance with the Divine Ordinance, or Will, and ſo could not deſerve the Name of Diſobedience; nor could this Diſobedience be objected to them as their Crime, unleſs Compliance with his Ordinance and Will be ſo, and it be a Fault to be ſuch as God by his immutable Counſel and Decree hath ordain'd we ſhould be, or that ſhould render Men criminal and obnoxious to Puniſhment, that they have not made void God's abſolute Decree, or done what that made it impoſſible for them to do. Wherefore this Paſſage cannot ſignifie that the unbelieving Jews were appointed to Diſobedience, but only that being diſobedient to the Goſpel ſo clearly revealed, and by ſo many Miracles and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt confirmed, they were appointed to the Puniſhment of that Diſobedience, to fall and periſh: for ſo the Hebrew נכשל, and the Greek σκῶμμα and σκάνδαλον import, viz. the Ruin and Fall of them who ſtumble at this Stone, as hath been proved Note on Rom. 14. 13. See Prov. 16. 19. Iſa. 8. 14, 15. Jer. 6. 21. Ezek. 3. 20. 21. 15. Zech. 12. 3. Matth. 21. 41. Luke 20. 18. So OEcumenius on the place, This is not ſpoken as if they were by God appointed to this; ὑβρία δὲ αἰτία ἀπωλείας ἦν τῷ πάντας ἀνθρώπους δίλογον σωθῆναι βεβούλεται. ἀλλὰ τοῖς ἑαυτὸν σεβομένοις ἀγαπητὸν ἔργον, καὶ ἃ ἀπείθεια ἐπακολούθησεν, καὶ οἷς τῶν σωθέντων ἑαυτὸν τάξιν ἐτίθησι. Or, 2dly, The Words may be thus construed to them who are disobedient, and through that Disobedience stumble at the Word, this other Character of the Stone belongs, of a Stone of stumbling, whereunto these Stones were put, one for Honour to the Believer, the other for a Stone of stumbling to the Unbeliever, and disobedient, for to both these Stones the Apostle Paul, Rom. 9. 33. and St. Peter here, do put this Preface, Behold, I lay in Zion a Stone. And this agrees with that of Simeon, Behold, the Child is placed for the fall and rising of many in Israel, Luke 2. 34.

Ver. 9. But ye (who are built upon him) are a chosen Generation, a Royal Priesthood, an holy Nation, a peculiar People, that ye should shew forth the Praises of him that hath called you out of Darkness into his marvellous light.

Τὰς ἀρετὰς, his Praises] or Glory, תְּהִלָּה, is so rendred by the Septuagint, Isa. 42. 8. I will not give my Glory to another, οὐδὲ τὰς ἀρετάς μου, nor my Praise to graven Images. And ver. 12. Let them give Glory to the Lord, τὰς ἀρετὰς αὐτοῦ ἀναγγειλάτωσαν, let them shew forth his Praises in the Islands. And Chap. 43. 21. he stiles Israel my Elect, as here my peculiar People τὰς ἀρετάς μου διηγεῖσθαι, to shew forth my Praise. See also Chap. 63. 7. Habb. 3. 3. Zech. 6. 13.

The Titles here given to the Christians, are the same which formerly were given to the whole Jewish Nation, and are accordingly to be interpreted.

Γένος ἐκλεκτὸν, a chosen or elected Nation.] Not only the righteous and obedient Persons among them, but the whole Nation of the Jews, are stiled the elect of God, throughout the old Testament; thus Deut. 4. 37. because he loved thy Fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, therefore ἐξελέξατο τὸ σπέρμα αὐτῶν μετ' αὐτὸν ὑμᾶς, he chose you their seed after them, and brought you out of Ægypt by his mighty power. Where it is evident that their whole Seed, even all that came out of Ægypt, were the elect, Deut. 7. 6, 7. Jehovah thy God hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people to himself, above all people that are on the face of the Earth. The Lord did not set his love upon you because you were more in number than any people, but because the Lord loved you, and because he would keep the oath which he had sworn to your Fathers, hath he brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bondmen. Where evident it is, 1st. That their being chosen before other Nations to be God's peculiar People, is their Election. 2ly, That all that were brought out of Ægypt were thus beloved, and thus elected. 3ly, That to these elect and chosen People God only promiseth to keep Covenant and Mercy, provided they would love him and obey him, and that he threatneth to destroy them and to repay them to their Face, if they neglected so to do. In the tenth Chapter, ver. 14, 15, 16. he speaks thus, The Lord hath a delight in thy Fathers to love them καὶ ἐξελέξατο, and he elected you their seed after them above all people; circumcise therefore the fore-skin of your hearts, and be no more stiff-necked. Where, again, evident it is, that the whole Seed of Abraham by Isaac, even the stiff-necked of them, were the beloved and elect of God. Chapter the 14. he saith to all to whom the following Precepts did belong, and therefore doubtless to all Israel, Thou art an holy people to the Lord thy God, καὶ σὲ ἐξελέξατο ὁ κύριος, and the Lord hath chosen thee out to be a peculiar people above all Nations.

And with this Notion of the Words accords the constant use of the same Phrase in all the Prophets, and sacred Writers of the Old Testament. Thus Solomon saith, 1 Kings 3. 8. Thy Servant is in the midst of thy people or ὃν ἐξελέξω which thou hast elected, a great people that cannot be numbred, nor counted for multitude, Psal. 105. 6. 43. In the Book of Psalms the Jews in general are stiled the seed of Israel his Servant, the Children of Jacob ἐκλεκτοὶ αὐτοῦ, his Elect. Psal. 135. 4. There doth he say ὁ Ἰακὼβ ἑαυτῷ ἐξελέξατο ὁ κύριος, the Lord hath chosen Jacob to himself, and Israel for his own inheritance, Psal. 106. 5. There doth he tell us, that the Lord brought forth his People with joy, καὶ τοὺς ἐκλεκτοὺς αὐτοῦ, and his elect with gladness. There he desires of God, χρηστότητα τοῦ ἐκλεκτοῦ the Good of his elect, to rejoyce in the gladness of his Nation, so that throughout the Psalms God's Servants, his People, his Nation, his Inheritance, and his Elect, are the same Persons.

In the Evangelical Prophet we read God speaking of Jacob ὃν ἐξελεξάμην whom I have elected, and Israel whom I have loved, Isa. 41. 8, 9. and to whom he speaks thus, Thou art my Child whom I have chosen, Chap. 43. 20, 21. There God declares he will make Waters in the Wilderness and Rivers in the Desarts, ποτίσαι τὸ γένος μου τὸ ἐκλεκτὸν to give Drink to my chosen Generation, my People whom I have chosen to shew forth my Praise, Chap. 45. 4. There we read of Jacob my Servant, and Israel mine Elect, Chap. 65. 9. and of a Mountain which his Elect shall inherit, and in which his Servants shall dwell.

In the Prophet Jeremy we find God is displeas'd with them who said, the two Families אשר בחר יהוה בהם whom the Lord had chosen, he hath even cast them off, Jer. 33. 24. The Prophet Ezekiel speaks of the Day when the Lord chose Israel, and lifted up his hand to the Seed of the House of Jacob, Ezek. 20. 5. The Prophet Zechariah stiles God, the Lord who hath chosen Jerusalem, Zech. 3. 2. And

Daniel

Daniel ſpeaks of a time when οἱ ἐκλεκτοὶ ἀυτῦ his Elect ſhould not be able to ſtand before their enemies, Dan. 11. 15.

And, to carry on this Phraſe even to the Times of the New Teſtament; In the Book of Eſther we are told of a Time in which τὸ ϛόμ ἐκλεκτὸν the choſen Generation ſhould have periſhed, Eſth. 16. 21. i. e. in which the wicked Haman deſigned to cut off the Jews. In the Book of Eccleſiaſticus we are informed that Joſhua was made great ἐπὶ σωτηρίᾳ ἐκλεκτῶν ἀυτῦ for ſaving the Elect of God, and taking vengeance on their Enemies that roſe up againſt them, Eccl. 46. 1. that he might ſet Iſrael in their Inheritance.

Thus have I traced this Phraſe throughout the whole Old Teſtament, and ſhew'd, that it belongs not to particular Perſons, but the whole Jewiſh Church and People in the General, to the Bad as well as to the Good among them, to them to whom God threatneth the worſt of Evils, as well as them to whom he promiſed the greateſt Bleſſings.

When in the New Teſtament this Phraſe is applied to the Jews, it plainly ſignifies as many of them as were converted to the Chriſtian Faith, though afterwards too many of them fell off from it, or brought not forth thoſe Fruits of Righteouſneſs which Chriſtianity required, and is applied to them all in general, and without diſtinction. And it is highly reaſonable to conceive it ſhould be ſo, for the Apoſtles writing to that Nation, who had been ſtill accuſtomed to this Notion of the Word, and were all ſtiled the Elect, they muſt be ſuppoſed to uſe the Words of the Old Teſtament in that ſenſe in which they always underſtood them: That the Apoſtle doth here ſo uſe the Word, is evident from this Conſideration, that the Holy Nation, the Peculiar People, the Royal Prieſthood, joined with it, are Expreſſions belonging primarily to that Nation, and from them derived to the Chriſtians. 2dly, That this Epiſtle is writ to the Elect, that is, the Strangers of the Diſperſion of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Aſia, and Bithynia, they all being ſtiled the Elect, i. e. ſuch as profeſſed Chriſtianity, and ſo were viſible Members of the Church of Chriſt, whereas too many of them were not ſo according to that Meaning of the Word Elect, which makes it to import Men abſolutely deſigned for eternal Happineſs, as this and the ſecond Epiſtle may inform us. 3dly, That the ſecond Epiſtle ſent to the ſame Perſons, writes only to them who had obtained like precious Faith with us, and ſo informs us that the Faithful and Elect are in St. Peter's Phraſe the ſame: and that this is the Notion of the Word in all the other places of the New Teſtament, ſee proved in the Notes upon them; and that it is apply'd to whole Churches, and ſcarce ever to any private individual Perſon in that ſenſe in which it hath ſo generally been uſed by ſome late Divines.

Βασίλειον ἱεράτευμα, a Royal Prieſthood.] Exod. 19. 6. A Kingdom of Prieſts: Kings and Prieſts, ſaith the Chaldee. And ſo St. John declares, that Chriſt hath made us Kings and Prieſts to God, Rev. 1. 6. 5. 10. Kings to reign with him, Chap. 20. 6. and Prieſts to offer up unto him our ſpiritual Sacrifices. See here ver. 5.

Ἔθνος ἅγιον, an Holy Nation.] i. e. a People ſeparated to God from all other Nations, and from their Idolatry and falſe or antiquated Worſhip, to ſerve him in an acceptable manner. On which account all Chriſtian Churches being called out of the World, and dedicated to the Service of God by Jeſus Chriſt, are in the Preface to St. Paul's Epiſtles ſtiled Saints. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 2.

Λαὸς εἰς περιποίησιν, a peculiar People.] A Treaſure, as the word Segullah ſignifies, a People in Covenant with God, and ſo become his Peculium, whom he will be careful to protect and preſerve, and to whom belong his peculiar Favours and Privileges.

Ver. 10. Who in times paſt were not the people, but now are the people of God; who had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

Οἱ ποτὲ οὐ λαός.] Theſe Words plainly relate to God's dealing with the Ten Tribes of Iſrael, when he had given them a Bill of Divorce, Jer. 3. 8. and ſent his Prophet Hoſea to ſay unto them, You are not my People, neither will I be your God, Hoſ. 1. 6, 9. And again, I will no more have mercy on the houſe of Iſrael, but will utterly caſt them away. And indeed, God having ſo expreſly ſaid that the Children of Judah and Iſrael ſhould be gathered together, and appoint themſelves one Head, that he would have mercy upon her who had not obtained mercy, and would ſay to them who were not his People thou art my People, Hoſ. 1. 11. 2. 23. and that they ſhould ſay thou art my God, and that the Houſe of Judah ſhould walk with the Houſe of Iſrael, I doubt not but that there was a conſiderable Return of the Ten Tribes, or at the leaſt a conſiderable Converſion of them in the places where they were: and though they being mixed with the Heathen, did many of them ſerve their Gods, as he threatned they ſhould, Deut. 28. 36, 64. and ſo may alſo be ſaid to be called from darkneſs unto this marvellous light; yet ſince the Apoſtle Paul applies this Paſſage to the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 25. I doubt not but that in the myſtical ſenſe it muſt relate to them alſo.

Ver. 11. Dearly beloved, I beſeech you as Strangers and Pilgrims (to) abſtain from fleſhly luſts which war againſt the Soul.

Ὡς παροίκους, as Strangers and Pilgrims.] They whoſe Citizenſhip is in Heaven, and whoſe Names are written in Heaven, Philip. 3. 20. Hebr. 12. 23. muſt be Pilgrims and Strangers upon Earth. See Note on Hebr. 11. 13.

Στρατεύονται,

στρατεύονται, war against the Soul.] For whereas the natural motion of that Spiritual Being is towards spiritual and heavenly things, these Lusts, saith OEcumenius, draw down and captivate the Soul to sensual and worldly things: as therefore Strangers and Pilgrims are not wont to be affected much with the Objects which they see in their Travels, so neither should we, who profess to be Pilgrims in this World, be much affected with sensual Objects.

Ver. 12. Having your Conversation honest (Gr. honourable) among the Gentiles, that whereas they speak evil of you as of evil doers, they may by your Good Works which they shall behold (be induced to) glorify God in the day of Visitation.

Καταλαλοῦσιν ὑμῶν, speak Evil of you as of evil doers.] Here OEcumenius gives this Relation from Irenæus Bishop of Lyons concerning the Martyrs, Sactus and Blandina; that the Heathens apprehending the Servants of some Christians, and compelling them to declare what Evil they knew of them, these Servants having heard from the Christians that the Holy Sacrament was the Body and Blood of Christ, and thinking that it was τῷ ὄντι, verily and substantially his Flesh and Blood, related this to these Enquirers, and they thinking ὡς αὐτόχρημα, that this was done in very deed by Christians, told this to other Heathens, and compell'd the Martyrs, Sactus and Blandina, by Torments to confess it. To which Blandina answered, How can they be guilty of such things, who by Exercise (i. e. through Temperance) permit not themselves to enjoy lawful Flesh.

Ἐν ἡμέρᾳ ἐπισκοπῆς, in the day of Visitation.] That is, when they afflict and persecute you, so ἐπισκοπὴ, and ἡμέρα ἐπισκοπῆς often signify in the Septuagint, Isa. 10. 3. What will you do, ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς, in the day of Visitation, when your Affliction shall come from far? Jer. 6. 15. ἐν καιρῷ ἐπισκοπῆς, in the time of their Visitation they shall perish, and again, Chap. 10. 15. Wisd. 3. 7. ἐν καιρῷ ἐπισκοπῆς, in the time of their Visitation they shall shine. Eccluſ. 2. 14. Woe to them who have lost Patience, what will they do, ὅταν ἐπισκέπτηται ὁ Κύριος, when the Lord visits. And Chap. 18. 20. Before the Judgment examine thy self, καὶ ἐν ὥρᾳ ἐπισκοπῆς, and in the hour of Visitation thou shalt find Propitiation.

Ver. 13. Submit your selves (Gr. be subject therefore) to every Ordinance of Man for the Lord's sake, whether it be to the King as Supreme.

Ver. 14. Or unto Governors as to them who are sent by him for the Punishment of evil doers, and for the Praise of them that do well.

Δι' αὐτοῦ, by him.] That is by God, saith Esthius, because these Governors were not always sent by Cæsar for these Good Ends, but it is sufficient that this was the general End of Government, to be for the Punishment of evil doers, &c. and therefore they in Charity must be supposed to be sent by Kings and Emperors for those Ends.

Ver. 15. For this is the Will of God (concerning you) that (so) with well doing you may put to silence the Ignorance of foolish Men. (i. e. of those Gentiles which estimating you by the turbulent Jews, are apt to represent you also, as ἔθνος δύσαρκτον καὶ δυσπειθὲς φύσει πρὸς τὴν Βασιλείαν, a People naturally averse from Subjection to Kings. Joseph. de Bello Jud. l. 2. c. 8. p. 782. F.

Ver. 16. As free men and (but) not using your Liberty for a Cloak of Maliciousness (as the Jews do,) but as (those who are) the Servants of God, (and so for Conscience towards him are subject to his Ordinance.)

Πᾶσαν ἀνθρωπίνην κτίσιν.] That the Gnostoicks pretended to any such Liberty as exempted them from Subjection to Superiors I find not in Church-History, but that the Jews to whom St. Peter writes, and especially the Zealots among them, were notorious for this Doctrine, and were practising it at the writing of this Epistle is evident. For,

1*st.* They held themselves obliged to own (d) God alone as their only Lord and Governor in Opposition to Cæsar, and all Kings which were not of their own Nation, and did not govern them by their own Laws, or his immediate Appointment.

2*dly.* They, many of them, rebell'd against the Romans, and against the Governors sent by them upon this very Pretence, That (e) they were a Free People, and ought to preserve their Liberty. And thus they used their Liberty for a Cloak of Maliciousness.

Ver. 17. Honour (therefore) all Men (even Heathens), love the Brotherhood, fear God, honour the King. (Who then was Nero the worst of Kings, and the Persecutor of Christians.)

Ver. 18. Servants (also) be subject to your Masters with all fear, not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward.

Οἱ οἰκέται, Servants be subject.] This also was a Lesson needful for the Jews, because Τῦτο γὰρ χάρις.] This will procure the Divine Favour and Reward. So what is, ποία ὑμῖν χάρις, What thank have you? Luke 6. 32, 33. is τίνα μισθὸν ἔχετε, What Reward have you? Matth. 5. 46. and in the following Verſe this Phraſe is rendred, this is acceptable.

Ver. 20. For what (Ground) of Glory is it (to you), if when ye be buffeted for your Faults, you do take it patiently? but if when ye do well, and (yet) ſuffer for it, ye do take it patiently, this is acceptable to God.

Note 1*ſt*. From comparing this and the preceding Verſe, that to ſuffer, V. 19. and to take our Sufferings patiently, V. 20. in the Scripture Import is the ſame thing.

2*ly*. That to do that which is truly acceptable to God, is alſo Matter of our Glory. See Note on 1 Cor. 9. 16. Jer. 9. 24. Rom. 2. 7, 10.

Ver. 21. (And it is alſo ſutable to their Profeſſion) For hereunto were ye called: becauſe Chriſt alſo (whoſe Followers ye profeſs to be) ſuffered for us, leaving us an Example, (both of well doing and patient ſuffering) that that ye ſhould follow his Steps:

Ver. 22. (For he was one) Who did no Sin, neither was Guile found in his Mouth, (and ſo he could not ſuffer for evil doing.)

Ver. 23. (And alſo one) Who when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he ſuffered he threatned not, but committed himſelf to him that judgeth Righteouſly, (and ſo was an Example of perfect Patience.

Ver. 24. Who (was not only to us an Example of Sufferings, but) his own ſelf bare our Sins in his own Body on the Tree, that we being dead to Sin, ſhould live unto Righteouſneſs, by whoſe Stripes ye were healed.

Ἀνήνεγκεν, bare our Sins.] If theſe Words be truly render'd, he bare our Sins, 'tis certain that an innocent Perſon can only bear them by bearing the Puniſhment due to them. And that this is the proper import of thoſe Words, τὰς ἁμαρτίας ἡμῶν ἀνήνεγκεν, is evident both from the Prophet's Expoſition of them, when he ſaith of the ſame Perſon, αὐτὸς ἁμαρτίας πόλλων ἀνήνεγκε, he bore the Sins of many, Iſa. 53. 12. and expounds this thus, διὰ τὰς ἀνομίας αὐτῶν παρεδόθη, he was delivered up to Death for their Iniquities; and from the uſual import of the Phraſe in the Old Teſtament, as when we read in the Book of Leviticus, Chap. 7. 18. He that eateth of the Peace-Offering in the third day it ſhall not be favourably accepted, τὴν ἁμαρτίαν λήψεται, he ſhall bear his Iniquity. And again, Thou ſhalt not hate thy Brother in thy Heart; thou ſhalt in any wiſe reprove him, καὶ οὐ λήψῃ δι' αὐτὸν ἁμαρτίαν, and not bear Sin for him, Lev. 19. 17. And in the Book of Numbers thus, Your Children ſhall wander in the Wilderneſs Forty Years, καὶ ἀνοίσουσι τὴν πορνείαν ὑμῶν, and ſhall bear your Whoredoms——Ye ſhall bear your Iniquities Forty Years, Numb. 14. 33, 44. When we hear the Prophet Jeremy complaining, Our Fathers have ſinned and are not, uſabalim; τὰ ἀνόμηματα αὐτῶν ὑπέχομεν, and we have born their Iniquities, Lam. 5. 7. When we hear God ſaying to Ezekiel, Lie thou upon thy left ſide, and lay the Iniquity of the Houſe of Iſrael upon it, according to the Number of the Days that thou ſhalt lie upon it, λήψῃ τὰς ἀνομίας αὐτῶν, thou ſhalt bear their Iniquities, Ezek. 4. 4, 5, 6. When it is farther ſaid, The Soul that ſinneth it ſhall die; the Son, οὐ λήψεται, ſhall not bear the Iniquity of the Father, neither ſhall the Father bear the Iniquity of the Son, Ezek. 18. 20. When we read ſo often in the Law of Moſes, that ſuch Perſons have been Guilty, and (f) ſhall bear their Iniquity, they ſhall die for it; and find ſo many Cautions there given to the Jews that they offend not in ſuch a Kind, (g) that they bear not Iniquity, and die; or, leaſt they bear Iniquity and die; in all theſe Places neither Socinians, or any other Perſons do fancy any other Import of theſe Words, but that by bearing of Iniquity, and Sin, is meant bearing the Puniſhment of Sin: And in theſe latter Places being puniſh'd with Death for it, when therefore the ſame Jews found it foretold of their Meſſiah, by their own Prophet, that he ſhould bear their Iniquity, that he ſhould bear the Sin of many, what could they underſtand by theſe Expreſſions but that he was to ſuffer the Puniſhment, and bear upon him the Burthen of their Sins. When the Apoſtle informs thoſe very Jews who were ſo well acquainted with the import of this Phraſe, that Chriſt was once offered, or given up to Death to bear the Sins of many; and when St. Peter writing to the ſame Jews, informs them, that he bare our Sins in his own Body on the Tree, how can we think otherwiſe than that they both apprehended, and that the Bleſſed Apoſtles did deſign to teach them, that he ſuffered this Death as the Puniſhment of their Iniquities? Let Mr. le Clerk continue if he please, to be confident that it is not so much the Expiation of Sins, as the Mortification of them that is here signified; whilst we poor Mortals rather think our Sins must be mortified in us, than on a Tree, and in our own Bodies, than in Christ's, or in the Sufferings of his Body; and that 'tis not very good Sense to say, he mortified our Sins, that we might die unto them.

Ver. 25. For ye were as Sheep going astray (from), but are now returned to the Shepherd and Bishop of your Souls.

These and the former Words are taken from Isa. 53. 7. where the Words are, We as Sheep have gone astray, and the Lord hath laid on him the Iniquity of us all. Hence are both Jews and Gentiles represented as lost Sheep, and Christ as the good Shepherd who goes after them, and brings them Home upon his Shoulders. See Isa. 40. 11. Ezek. 34. 23. Here then is a farther Confutation of the Socinian Gloss upon the former Verse, viz. That Christ took away our Sins by his own Body Crucified upon the Cross, procuring our Absolution from them by his Sufferings, (h) Not that He underwent the Punishment of our Transgressions, but because his voluntary Death prevail'd with God to give him Power to absolve his Servants at the last, and to reward them with eternal Glory. For were this the whole Import of the Words, why is it added, in plain Allusion to those emphatical Words of the Prophet Isaiah, He bare our Sins, the Chastisement of our Peace was upon him, and by his Stripes we are healed? Why is it so emphatically noted, That He who did no Sin, V. 22. yet bore our Sins? Doth not this lead us to this Sense, That He thus suffered not for his own, but for our Sins? Why is he said to take away our Sins in his own Body? Doth not that seem to intimate that the Punishment of our Sins was laid upon his Body? Why is he said to do this upon the Tree? Must not that intimate that what he did to take away our Sins was done upon the Cross? especially if we consider that the Cross was the Altar upon which he suffered, and that ἀνενεγκεῖν, ἀναφέρειν δὲ τὸ θυσιάσειν, to carry up upon the Altar, is the usual * Phrase for offering the Sin-Offering, or the Burnt-Offering upon the Altar. And so the Import of this whole Sentence seems to be this; He bore, or took away our Sins in his own Body offered upon the Altar for us. Moreover, if this be chiefly done after Christ's Resurrection, and the great Day of Recompence, and only by Christ's Death, as it prevail'd with God to give him Power then to absolve us from our Sins, why doth the Author to the Hebrews make such a plain Distinction, if not an Opposition, betwixt Christ's bearing our Sins, and his second Coming to give a final Absolution from them, saying, Heb. 9. 27, 28. Christ was once offered to bear the Sins of many, and to them that look for him, he will appear a second time, χωρὶς ἁμαρτίας, without a Sacrifice for Sin, unto Salvation? Crellius allows that χωρὶς ἁμαρτίας signifies, without a Sin-Offering; and doth it not hence follow, that his First Coming to bear our Sins was his coming with a Sin-Offering for them? Since then the Sin-Offering still suffered in the Sinner's stead, and bore the Punishment of his Iniquity, it follows that he who came to be a Sin-Offering for us, must come to suffer in our stead, and bear the Punishment of our Iniquities.

Lastly, Admit the Words may be translated thus, He took away our Sins, it is most reasonable so to interpret them as this Phrase is used in Scripture, when 'tis applied to the same Purpose. Now when it is there used of taking away Sin by a Sacrifice offered up to God for Sin, it always hath Relation to an Atonement made by the Sacrifice for that Iniquity; and that Sin-Offering is said to bear away the Iniquity, by taking it upon himself. So when 'tis said that the Sin-Offering is given, ἵνα ἀφέλῃ τὴν ἀμαρτίαν τῆς συναγωγῆς ἐξιλάσασθαι περὶ αὐτῶν ἔναντι Κυρίου, to take away the Iniquity of the Congregation, it is there said to do it by making an Atonement for them before the Lord, Lev. 10. 17. So it is said of the Scape Goat, That he shall bear away all their Iniquities; but then he must be presented before the Lord, τοῦ ἐξιλάσασθαι ἐπ' αὐτοῦ, to make Atonement with, or upon him, Lev. 16. 10. i. e. Aaron must confess their Iniquities upon his Head, and he shall bear upon him all their Iniquities, λήψεται ἐφ' ἑαυτοῦ τὰς ἀμαρτίας αὐτῶν, he shall take their Iniquities upon himself, and shall bear them away into the Wilderness. So Deut. 21. 9. Thou shalt take away innocent Blood from among you; but this is to be done by making an Atonement for the innocent Blood shed. When therefore it is said that Christ was manifested to take away Sin, 1 Joh. 3. 5. and that He took away our Sins on his own Body, and was offered to take away the Sins of many, Heb. 9. 28. is it not reasonable to suppose he did this by taking the Punishment of them upon himself, and making Atonement for them before God? especially if we consider that he is speaking to those Jews to whom these Phrases were familiar.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. (AND to proceed to the other Relations of Man and Wife) Likewiſe ye Wives, be in Subjection to your own Husbands, that if they (be ſuch as) obey not the Word, they alſo without the Word (i. e. without attending to the other Demonſtrations of the Truth of it) may be won (to the Faith) by the Converſation of the Wives:

Ver. 2. Whilſt they behold your Chaſt Converſation coupled with Fear.

Τὴν ἐν φόβῳ ἁγνὴν ἀναστροφὴν ὑμῶν.] i. e. That they obſerving that the Fear and Reverence of that God you ſerve produceth in you all due Subjection and Obedience to them, great Chaſtity and Freedom from all Suſpicion of Luſt, great Meekneſs and Quietneſs of Spirit in the Family, Sobriety in your Apparel, and Care of their Concerns, you may by theſe things commend to them, not only your own Perſons, but that Faith which produces in you theſe good Fruits.

Ver. 3. Whoſe Adorning, let it not be that outward Adorning, of plaiting the Hair, and wearing of Gold (Chains), or of putting on (gorgeous) Apparel.

Ver. 4. But let it be (that of) the hidden Man of the Heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the Ornament of a meek and quiet Spirit, which in the ſight of God is of great Price.

Ἐμπλοκῆς τριχῶν, not the outward Adorning, &c.] Theſe in the Words of (a) Clemens of Alexandria are, τὸ ἑταιρικὸν καλλώπισμα, the Ornament of Whores; and ſuch as demonſtrate τὸ ὑβριστὸν, καὶ ἁβρωδέστατον, their Arrogance, Softneſs, and Laſciviouſneſs; the Plaiting of the Hair was, ſaith he, a Sign of corrupt Women, (b) τὰς δὲ καὶ ἐμπλοκὰς τριχῶν ἑταιρικὰς; And they that uſe them, ſaith he, were ἑταιρικῶς κομώμενοι, attired like Whores. And as for the wearing of Gold, (c) Jamblichus in the Life of Pythagoras ſaith, τὸ χρυσὸν ἐλευθέραις μηδαμῶς φορεῖν, μόνον δὲ τὰς ἑταίρας, that no free Women wore Gold, but Whores only. The precious Apparel is the thing which all the Comedians mention as the Attire which ſuch Women ſought after, and gloried in. Theſe things therefore, when they are uſed as ſuch Marks of Diſtinction, are abſolutely forbid chaſt Women. But when they ceaſe to be ſo, they may be worn by Chriſtian Women, provided they do it without Pride, or much concern about them; and ſtill remembring that Gravity in Apparel is ſtill more honourable, and becoming Chriſtian Matrons; and that the Ornaments of the Mind, which are not ſubject to Corruption, are much to be preferred before them.

Ver. 5. For after this manner the holy Women alſo who truſted in God, adorn'd themſelves, (with Chaſtity and Subjection,) being in Subjection to their own Husbands;

Ver. 6. Even as Sarah obeyed Abraham (in token of that Subjection,) calling him Lord: whoſe Daughters ye are as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement. (i. e. And be not moved by your Fears to deny the Truth, as ſhe was, ἐφοβήθη γάρ, for ſhe was afraid, Gen. 18. 15.)

Ver. 7. Likewiſe alſo ye Husbands, dwell with them according to (the) Knowledge (of your Chriſtian Duty, which requires you to love and cleave to your Wives, forſaking all other, and to render them due Benevolence,) giving Honour (or Conjugal Affection) to the Wife as to the weaker Veſſel, (and ſo leſs able to contain, and more liable to Temptations,) and as being Heirs together of the Grace of Life; that your Prayers be not hindred (as they muſt be if you refuſe to cohabit with them.)

Οἱ ἄνδρες ὁμοίως.] I am very uncertain what is the true Senſe of theſe Words. The Reverend Dr. Hammond interprets them thus; 'Let 'the Husbands in like manner live conju-'gally with their Wives, as Chriſtianity re-'quires of them; giving them Maintenance, 'as Perſons leſs able to provide for them-'ſelves, and conſidering that they are by God's 'Appointment Co-partners with them of the 'good Things of this Life; that ſo they may 'not be diſturbed in their Prayers by their Di-'ſtractions and Sollicitudes for this World. Which Interpretation I ſhould acquieſce in, could I find that the Phraſe συγκληρόμοι τῆς χάριτος ζωῆς or ζώσης, being Heirs together of the Grace of Life, was ever uſed, only with reſpect unto the Good Things of this preſent Life: or that ἀκωλύτους τὰς προσευχὰς, ſignified only to be diſtracted in Prayers, and not rather to have them wholly hindred.

Others interpret them thus, Let the Husbands live with their Wives as Chriſtianity requires, not irritating or provoking them, Col. 3. 19. nor deſpiſing their Company; but giving Honour to them as moſt needing it, and as conſidering that they are equal to them in reſpect of Spirituals, that by their diſcontents, Diſpleaſure againſt, and Separation from one another, your Prayers be not hindred.

Others, as in the Paraphraſe, refer this to Conjugal Relation, and to Conjugal Duties; as all the Ancients who have ſpoken of theſe Words interpret them. Oecumenius ſaith, he thinks they are to be interpreted, περὶ τῆς γα-μετὰ γνώσεως, of the Conjugal Use of one another; and the Word συνοικοῦντες seems to plead for this Sense; but then I find not that the Word τιμὴ beareth any such Sense. Only to this it may be answered, That Origen seems to Point the Words thus; Let the Husband dwell with the Wife according to Knowledge, as being more infirm, giving Honour to them also, as being Heirs of the Grace of Life. And seeing συνοικεῖν signifies to Marry, or contract Matrimony, the Words may be thus paraphrased, Likewise ye Men, be ye joined in Marriage with the Women as you find them endued with the Knowledge of Christianity, they being the weaker Vessel, and so more subject without this Knowledge to miscarry: Giving Preference in your Choice to such as be Heirs together with you of the Grace of Life, that through Difference in Religion your Prayers be not cut off.

Ver. 8. Finally, be ye all of one Mind, (minding the same Things,) having Compassion one of another (under all your Afflictions), love as Brethren, be pitiful, (as being the internal Motive to) be Courteous, (that being an Effect of Love.)

Ver. 9. Not rendring Evil for Evil, or Railing for Railing, (things contrary to Love, as shewing Rancour in the Heart and Tongue): but contrariwise, Blessing; knowing that ye are thereunto called, (i. e. for this very End) that you might inherit a Blessing (and so by blessing, others will imitate your Gracious God, and show how willing you are the same Mercies may be conferred on others).

Ver. 10. For he that will love Life, (i. e. who is desirous of a quiet pleasant Life,) and (would) see good (i. e. prosperous) Days, let him refrain his Tongue from Evil (speaking, that so Men may refrain from speaking Evil of him again), and his Lips that they speak no Guile.

Ver. 11. Let him eschew Evil, and do Good; let him seek Peace, and ensue it. (That so Men may be disposed to speak Uprightly, and do Good to you, and live Peaceably with you, and you may live under the Protection of the Divine Providence.)

Ver. 12. For the Eyes of the Lord are over the Righteous, (to protect them from Evil), and his Ears are open to their Prayers: but the Face of the Lord is against them that do Evil, (to return it upon their own Heads.)

Ver. 13. And (this Deportment doth also naturally tend to preserve you from Evil, for) who is he that will (be so unnatural and ungrateful as to) harm you, if ye be Followers of that which is good (and obliging to them)?

Ver. 14. But if (it should so happen, that notwithstanding) ye (should) suffer for Righteousness sake, happy are ye; (Chap. 4. 14.) and (therefore) be not afraid of their Terror, (i. e. of what they threaten,) neither be ye troubled, (for what they can inflict upon you).

Ver. 15. But sanctifie the Lord God in your Hearts: and be ready always to give an Answer (or Account) to every Man that asketh you a Reason of the Hope that is in you, with Meekness and Fear.

Τὸν φόβον αὐτῶν μὴ φοβηθῆτε, fear not their Fear.] These and the following Words, Sanctifie the Lord God in your Hearts, are plainly taken from Isaiah 8. 12. and they there are an Exhortation not to fear the Assyrians, nor to be dismayed, as those Jews were, who out of Fear were desirous to confederate with them: and so accordingly they must here signifie, that Christians were not so to dread those by whom they suffered for the sake of Righteousness, not any that out of Fear conspired with them to avoid Persecution, as too many of the Jews did, Gal. 6. 12, 13.

Κύριον ἁγιάσατε, but sanctifie the Lord God in your Hearts.] This Phrase in Scripture seems to import these things:

1*st*, That we should always have upon our Spirits such an Holy Fear and Reverence of God as will prevail upon us to dread more his Displeasure, than any thing which we can suffer from the Hand of Man, Matth. 10. 28. and so enable us to stick close to our Duty, and to endeavour to secure his Favour, whatsoever we may suffer by so doing. So Isa. 8. 12, 13. Fear not their Fear; but sanctifie the Lord of Hosts himself: and let him be your Fear, and let him be your Dread. So Chap. 29. 23. They shall sanctifie the Holy One of Jacob, and shall fear the God of Israel.

2*ly*, To Sanctifie the Lord God in our Hearts, is from the Heart to own and to believe the Truth of all that God delivers by his Word and Promise: as when God saith to Moses and Aaron, Because ye believed me not to sanctifie me in the Eyes of the Children of Israel, therefore ye shall not bring this Congregation into the Land which I have given them, Numb. 20. 12. Hence the Apostle, having told the Christians he writeth to them of the Engagements God had made, that his Eyes should be over the Righteous, and his Ears open to their Prayers, and minded them of the Hope that was in them, requires them thus to sanctifie the Lord God in their Hearts.

3*ly*. This Phrase imports a firm Belief of his Almighty Power, which makes him able to protect his People against all their Enemies; and an Affiance in his Goodness and especial Providence towards them: Sanctifie the Lord God in your Hearts, and he shall be for a Sanctuary, Isaiah 8. 13. So Ezek. 36. 22, 23, 24.

4*ly*, To Sanctifie the Lord, is to acknowledge and believe his Justice, and that he is a God who will be sure to execute his Judgments on the Wicked, and more especially upon the Persecutors of his People. So when he executed his Judgments on Nadab and Abihu, Moses declares, This is the thing the Lord had ſpoken, I will be ſanctified in thoſe that come nigh me. So Numb. 20. 13. This is the Water of Meribah becauſe the Children of Iſrael contended with the Lord, and he was ſanctified in them, by puniſhing their Rebellion, ſaith the Targum. So God declares he would be ſanctified upon Sidon, which had been to the Houſe of Iſrael a pricking Briar, and a grieving Thorn, Ezek. 28. 24. And upon Gog, the great Enemy of Iſrael, Chap. 38. 3. So the Rabbins ſay, That when God doth Judgment, he ſanctifies himſelf before his Creatures; according to theſe Words of the Prophet Iſaiah, The Lord of Hoſts ſhall be exalted in Judgment, and God that is Holy ſhall be ſanctified in Righteouſneſs, Chap. 5. 16.

Πρὸς ἀπολογίαν.] This Apology for the Hope that was in them, ſeems rather ſuch as ſhould be made by Works, than Words, againſt them who accuſe the Profeſſors of it as evil doers, rather than againſt them who only doubt of the Truth of it. And

Ver. 16. Having (or retaining) a good Conſcience; that whereas they ſpeak evil of you as of evil doers, (and conſequently repreſent your Faith as inſtigating you to evil Practices,) they may be aſhamed (of ſuch falſe Accuſations,) when they behold your good Converſation in (the Faith of) Chriſt.

Ver. 17. (This care of retaining a good Concience is neceſſary, that you may have Comfort in your Sufferings, and be conformed to Chriſt by them.) For it is better, if the Will of God be ſo, (and he ſees fit to permit it,) that you ſuffer for well doing, than for evil doing.

Ver. 18. For Chriſt alſo hath once ſuffered for Sins, the Juſt for the Unjuſt, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the Fleſh, but quickned in the Spirit.

Περὶ ἁμαρτιῶν ἔπαθε, hath ſuffered for Sins.] Here note that Chriſt is not only ſaid to ſuffer for us, but to ſuffer for our Sins. Now was ever any Man ſaid to ſuffer for his own Sins, who did not ſuffer the Puniſhment of his Iniquity? Why therefore ſhould our Lord be ſaid to ſuffer for our Sins, if he did not ſome way ſuffer the Puniſhment of our Iniquity? Again, is not the Sin-Offering in the Old Teſtament ſtiled, above ſixty times, τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, and τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτιῶν, the Offering for Sin; when therefore the Oblation of our Lord is alſo called, τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, an Offering for Sin, Rom. 8. 3. when he is ſaid to ſuffer, περὶ ἁμαρτιῶν, for Sins, 2 Cor. 5. 21. what could the Jews, to whom the Apoſtle writes, conceive to be the proper import of theſe Words, but that he ſuffer'd to make Atonement for their Sins, as did all their Sin-Offerings, by ſuffering in their ſtead, the Puniſhment of their Iniquity? See the Notes on Rom. 8. 3. 2 Cor. 5. 21.

Ὁ δίκαιος ὑπὲρ ἀδίκων, the Juſt for the Unjuſt.] That is, ſaith (d) Schlichtingius, That the Unjuſt might not ſuffer Death, nor bear the Puniſhment of their Iniquities; for the Victim ſuffers leaſt the Guilty ſhould be puniſhed.

Ἵνα προσαγάγῃ, that he might bring us to God.] This Phraſe in all other places of the New Teſtament, where it is uſed with reſpect to Chriſt, imports his procuring to us Freedom of Acceſs to God, who by our Sins were formerly excluded from him, and baniſhed from his gracious Preſence. By him we have, ſaith the Apoſtle Paul, προσαγωγὴν εἰς τὸν πατέρα, Admiſſion to the Father; by him we do obtain παῤῥησίαν εἰς τὴν προσαγωγὴν, a Freedom of Acceſs to God with Confidence. Eph. 2. 18. 3. 12. This is obtained, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, by Virtue of his Blood; for we, who ſometimes were afar off, are by the Blood of Chriſt brought nigh unto him. We are brought nigh to him, ſaith St. Peter here, by his ſuffering for our Sins. Muſt not then we who were excluded and baniſh'd from him by our Sins, be brought nigh to and reconciled to him by the Blood of Chriſt, and by his Sufferings for us on the Croſs?

Ver. 19. By which (Spirit) alſo he went and preached to the Spirits in Priſon;

Ver. 20. Which ſometime were diſobedient, when once the long ſuffering of God waited in the Days of Noah, while the Ark was preparing, wherein few, that is eight Perſons, were ſaved by Water.

Τοῖς ἐν φυλακῇ πνεύμασι, to the Spirits in Priſon.] Or as other Copies read, πνεύματι, by which Spirit going he preached to thoſe in Priſon. For Explication of which Words, note,

1*ſt*, That by thoſe in Priſon we may underſtand the Gentile World in Bondage and Captivity to Sin and Satan, held in the Chains of their own Luſts, and in the Bonds of their Iniquity. For by this Phraſe the Evangelical Prophet doth thrice Expreſs the Preaching of the Goſpel by our Lord Chriſt: As in thoſe Words, I gave thee for a Covenant to the People, for a Light to the Gentiles, to open the blind Eyes, to bring ἐκ δεσμῶν δεδεμένους, ἐξ οἴκου φυλακῆς, the Priſoners out of Priſon, and them that ſit in Darkneſs out of the Priſon-houſe, Iſai. 42. 7. And again, I will give thee for a Light to the Gentiles, that thou mayeſt be my Salvation to the Ends of the Earth, that thou mayſt ſay, τοῖς ἐν δεσμοῖς, ἐξέλθατε, to the Priſoners, Go forth, Chap. 49. 9. And a third time, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, for he hath ſent me to proclaim Liberty to the Captives, and the opening of the Priſon to those that are bound. Accordingly Philo doth often represent Men brought in bondage to their Lusts (e), ὡς ἐν δεσμωτηρίῳ κατειργασμένην ἀνθρωπίνην ψυχήν, as Persons whose Souls are shut up in a Prison-house; and those who have overcome their Lusts and sinful Pleasures (f), ὥσπερ ἐξ εἱρκτῆς ἀπολελυσόσιν ἢ δεσμῶν εἰς ἐπιστῆσον διαφυγόν, as Persons who are come out of Prison, and have put off their Chains: adding, that God promiseth Liberty to the Souls that seek to him for it (g), ὃ μόνον λύσιν δεσμῶν ἢ ξύλου ἐκ ἀπορρυμένης εἱρκτῆς παρέχων, not only affording them freedom from their bonds, and an Exit from the Prison in which they were kept, but giving them provisions for their journey, and safe conduct. Now the Antidiluvians, who lived about the time of Noah, were ἐν φυλακῇ in prison upon a double Account: 1st, By reason of their bondage to Sin; for then all flesh had corrupted their way, their wickedness was great upon the earth, and every imagination of their heart was to do evil, and that continually, Gen. 6. 5, 6, 12. And 2dly, They were in Prison or ἐν φυλακῇ, as having from God received the Sentence of Destruction, if they repented not within a hundred and twenty years: according to these words, My Spirit shall not always strive with man for that he is flesh, yet his days shall be a hundred and twenty years, Gen. 6. 3. i. e. so long will I expect his Reformation before I bring the Flood upon them. Thus the long suffering of God waited for them in the days of Noah, expecting their Repentance, and keeping them as it were in Prison for the day of Slaughter, if they did not repent. During this time, and before, God sent unto them his Prophets, denouncing by his Spirit his Judgments against the Wicked; for to them Enoch, the seventh Prophet from Adam, prophesied, saying, The Lord cometh with his thousands of Angels to do judgment against all, and to reprove all the ungodly concerning all their ungodly works which they had wickedly committed, and concerning all their hard speeches which ungodly sinners had spoken against him, Jude 14, 15. And he sent also Noah to them, a Preacher of Righteousness, 2 Pet. 2. 5. who by preparing an Ark before them for his own Preservation, in obedience to the Oracle delivered to him, condemned the Old World, Heb. 11. 7. Thus did Christ, by his Spirit, preach to them in the days of Noah: and therefore the Antidiluvian Age is even by the Jews stiled the Age of the Holy Ghost; according to those words, My Spirit shall not always strive with man, that is, say Ainsworth and the Bishop of Ely, My Spirit in my Prophets Enoch and Noah, shall not be always chiding, and reproving, and thereby endeavouring to bring men to Repentance, but shall proceed to punish them. Now this Punishment being the drowning of the Old World, their Spirits have been ever since, Spirits kept in Prison, or reserv'd in chains of Darkness to the Judgment of the Great Day: for, by the consent of the Jewish Nation (h) The Generation of the Old World have no portion in the World to come, neither shall they stand up in Judgment; for it is said, My Spirit shall not always judge with Man. The Phrase my Spirit, saith Dr. Fuller, is never used of any other but the Spirit of God, and therefore must here be interpreted of the same Spirit.

Now from that time to our Saviour's Advent, God sent no Prophet to the whole Heathen World, no Person with Commission to preach to all Nations, or teach the Gospel to every Creature, but suffer'd them to walk in their own ways, Act. 14. 16. whence they are said to have been disobedient only once of old time, in the days of Noah.

Ver. 21. The like figure whereunto (Gr. the Anti-type of which Ark is that) Baptism (which now) saveth us, not (merely as it is) the putting away the filth of the Flesh, but (as it is) the Answer (or Stipulation) of a good conscience towards God (and the Salvation it works for us,) by (vertue of) the Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Δι' ἀναστάσεως Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, by the Resurrection of Jes. Chr.] Who died for our Sins, and rose again for our Justification, Rom. 4. 25. hath by his Resurrection begotten us to a lively hope of an inheritance incorruptible, 1 Pet. 1. 3, 4. is risen as the first-fruits of them that sleep, 1 Cor. 15. 20. and so hath assured us, that they who are Christ's shall also be raised by him to eternal Life, ver. 23. 2 Cor. 4. 14. 1 Thess. 4. 14. and who being risen, is now in Heaven promoting our Salvation, ver. 22. and preparing Mansions for us, Joh. 14. 2.

Ἐπερώτημα, the answer of a good Conscience.] Therefore, say the Anabaptists, Baptism cannot be salutary to those Infants who cannot make this answer of a good Conscience. To this I answer, that St. Paul also saith, that the true Circumcision before God, is not the outward Circumcision of the Flesh, but the internal Circumcision of the Heart and Spirit, Rom. 2. 29. But will any one hence argue, that the Jewish Infants, for want of this, were not to be admitted into Covenant with God by Circumcision? And yet the Argument is plainly parallel: the Answer of a good Conscience is required that Baptism may be salutary; therefore they only are to be baptized who can make this Answer. And the inward Circumcision of the Heart is required as the only acceptable Circumcision in the sight of God: therefore they only are to be circumciſed who have this inward Circumciſion of the Heart. The Jews did not admit Proſelytes to Circumciſion without this Anſwer of a good Conſcience; but yet they admitted their Infants to it without any ſuch thing. Why therefore may we not allow the Chriſtian Church, in the adminiſtration of Baptiſm, to obſerve the ſame Cuſtom, admitting the Children of their Proſelytes to Baptiſm, as they admitted them both to Circumciſion and Baptiſm.

Ver. 22. Who is (Gr. being) gone into heaven, and is at the right-hand of God, (there interceding for us, and inveſted with all Power to give eternal life to thoſe whom God hath given him, and who is able to ſave us to the uttermoſt who come unto God by him, Heb. 7. 25.) Angels and Authorities and Powers being made ſubject to him. (Who therefore will uſe the good Angels as miniſtring Spirits ſent forth to miniſter to them who are Heirs of Salvation, Heb. 1. 14. and will preſerve them from thoſe Authorities, and Powers, and evil Spirits, which oppoſe, and perſecute them, and ſeek their ruin.)

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. FOraſmuch then as Chriſt hath ſuffer'd for you in the Fleſh, arm your ſelves with the ſame mind (or reſolution to be conformed to him in his Sufferings, as being buried with him in Baptiſm, Rom. 6. 4. and ſo planted together with him in the likeneſs of his death, ver. 5. the old man being crucified with him that the body of Sin might be aboliſh'd, that henceforth we might not ſerve Sin), for he that is (thus) dead hath ceaſed from Sin,

Ver. 2. (Inſomuch) that he ſhould no longer live the reſt of his time in the fleſh (in obedience to the luſts of men ignorant of the Truth, 1 Pet. 1. 14.) but to the will of God (Rom. 6. 10, 11.)

Ver. 3. For the time paſt of our life may ſuffice us to have wrought the Will of the Gentiles, when we walked in laſciviouſneſs, (fleſhly) luſts, exceſs of wine, revellings, banquettings, and abominable Idolatries,

Ἀθεμίτοις εἰδωλολατρείαις,] i. e. In Idolatries joined with divers Abominations (i. e. with Drunkenneſs, Uncleanneſs, unnatural Cruelties to our own Children, Homicide.)

Note here, that this is an Evidence that this Epiſtle was directed not only to the Jewiſh Nation, but to the Gentile Converts.

Ver. 4. Wherein they think it ſtrange (Gr. wonder) that you run not with them to the ſame exceſs of riot, ſpeaking evil of you.

Ver. 5. Who ſhall give (an) account (of theſe Sins againſt Nature) to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead.

Ver. 6. For, for this cauſe was the Goſpel preached alſo to them that are dead (i. e. to the Gentile World, dead in Treſpaſſes and Sins,) that they might be judged (might judge, condemn, and oppoſe their former life led) according to men (not enlightned by the Goſpel,) in the fleſh, but (and might) live according to God in the ſpirit.

For Explication of theſe Words, Note,

1. That οἱ νεκροὶ the dead, in Scripture doth often ſignifie not thoſe who in a natural ſenſe are dead by diſſolution of the Soul and Body, but thoſe who are ſpiritually ſo, as being alienated from the life of God, and dead in treſpaſſes and ſins; as when the Apoſtle ſaith, The Widow that liveth in pleaſure is dead whilſt ſhe liveth, 1 Tim. 5. 6. And Chriſt unto the Church of Sardis, Thou haſt a name to live, and art dead, Rev. 3. 1. And when he ſpeaks to one of his Diſciples thus, Follow thou me, and let the dead bury their dead, Matth. 8. 22. This is a Phraſe ſo common with the Jews, that, as Maimonides informs us, they proverbially ſay (a) Impii etiam viventes vocantur mortui, the wicked are dead even whilſt they live: for he, ſaith (b) Philo, who lives a life of Sin τέθνηκε ἀνδίμωνα is dead as to a life of Happineſs; his Soul is dead, and even buried in his Luſts and Paſſions. And becauſe the whole Gentile World lay more eſpecially under theſe moſt unhappy circumſtances, whence the Apoſtle ſtiles them Sinners of the Gentiles, Gal. 2. 15. it was proverbially ſaid by the Jewiſh Doctors, Populi terrarum, i. e. Ethnici, non vivunt, the Heathens do not live; and they in Scripture are more peculiarly intended by that Phraſe. Hence the Apoſtle ſaith to the Epheſians and Coloſſians, Epheſ. 2. 1. Col. 2. 13. that they were νεκροὶ τοῖς παραπτώμασι dead in Treſpaſſes and Sins; and brings in God thus ſpeaking to the Gentiles, Awake thou that ſleepeſt, ariſe from the dead, and Chriſt ſhall give thee life, Epheſians 5. 14.

2. The Ends for which this Goſpel was revealed to theſe Gentiles thus ſpiritually dead, and buried in Senſuality, were theſe:

1. Ἵνα κριθῶσι κατὰ ἀνθρώπους σαρκὶ, that they might condemn, might ſtrive againſt, might mortifie thoſe ſenſual Deſires and carnal Appetites, which they indulged to whilſt they liv'd κατὰ ἀνθρώπους as natural Men, wanting the

Know-

Knowledge of God's Will, and the Aſſiſtance of his Grace and Spirit. This I conceive to be the genuine Import of the Greek: for, 1. The word Fleſh being here ſet in oppoſition to the Spirit, not of Man, but God; or at the leaſt to the renewed Spirit of Man, cannot be reaſonably thought to ſignifie that fleſhly Body which we bear about us, but rather that ſinful Fleſh which luſts againſt the Spirit, Gal. 5. 17. that Law of our Members which wars againſt the Law of our Minds, Rom. 7. 23. that φρόνημα τῆς σαρκὸς, or fleſhly Wiſdom which is not ſubject to the Law of God, Rom. 8. 7.

This being ſo, κριθῆναι τῇ σαρκὶ cannot be duly rendred to be condemn'd, judg'd, and puniſh'd in the Fleſh, that is, the Body, but to ſtrive with, to mortifie, and ſubdue the Fleſh, with its Affections and Luſts; which is the common import of the word κριθῆναι both in the Septuagint and the New Teſtament. So Job 9. 3. ἐὰν βούλῃ κριθῆναι αὐτῷ, if he will contend with God, he cannot anſwer him one of a thouſand. And Chap. 13. 19. Τίς ὅστις ὁ κρινόμενός, who is he that contendeth with me? Iſa. 43. 26. Put me in remembrance ἵνα κριθῶμεν, and let us plead together. Chap. 50. 8. He is near that juſtifieth me, τίς ὁ κρινόμενός μοι, who is he that contendeth with me. And Chap. 66. 16. ἐν πυρὶ κριθήσεται ὁ κύριος, by fire will the Lord plead with all fleſh. Hoſ. 2. 2. Κρίνεται μετὰ τῆς μητρὸς ὑμῶν, κρίνεται, plead with your Mother, plead. And Mich. 6. 1. Ariſe κρίνεται πρὸς τὰ ὄρη, contend againſt the Mountains. So alſo Matth. 5. 40. Θέλοντι σοι κριθῆναι is to him that will contend with thee, and Jude 9. τοῦ διαβόλου διακρινόμενος is contending with the Devil. And this I think ſufficient to juſtifie the rendring theſe words Actively, without referring to Glaſſius's Canon [L. 3. Tr. 3. Can. 24.] that Verbs Paſſive ſometimes ſignifie Actively.

Note 3dly, That the Phraſe κατ' ἄνθρωπον in the New Teſtament doth always ſignifie to live, ſpeak, or act after the manner of mere natural Men, not yet acquainted with the Mind of God, or not aſſiſted by his Spirit: as in thoſe Paſſages of the Apoſtle Paul, Speak I theſe things κατ' ἄνθρωπον, according to the Dictates of mere humane Wiſdom? ſaith not the Law the ſame alſo? 1 Cor. 9. 8. My Doctrine is not κατ' ἄνθρωπον, the product of man's Wiſdom, but I receiv'd it from the Revelation of Chriſt Jeſus, Gal. 1. 11. Κατ' ἄνθρωπον λέγω, I ſpeak what men would from the mere ſtrength of Reaſon argue, Rom. 3. 5. And again, κατ' ἄνθρωπον λέγω, I ſpeak what is acknowledg'd among men, that a man's teſtament is accounted ſacred, and no man addeth to it, or taketh from it, Gal. 3. 15. If I have fought with beaſts at Epheſus κατ' ἄνθρωπον, after the Heathen manner, what advantageth it me if the dead riſe not? 1 Cor. 15. 32. And laſtly, Whereas there are contentions among you, are you not carnal, and walk κατ' ἄνθρωπον as natural men? 1 Cor. 3. 3. not as men acted by the Spirit?

So that κριθῶσι κατ' ἄνθρωπον σαρκὶ is, to condemn their former Life led as natural men, or as mere Heathens in the Fleſh, or to ſtrive againſt that Fleſh which they indulg'd to in their Heathen ſtate; and to live unto God in the Spirit, which is the ſecond End for which the Goſpel was preach'd unto the Gentiles, is by the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit to live according to the Will, and the Example of an Holy God.

To this Interpretation of this Text the Context plainly ſeems to lead; for the Apoſtle's Argument runs thus: Chriſt having ſuffer'd for us in the fleſh, it doth become us alſo, in a ſpiritual ſenſe, to ſuffer in the Fleſh by the mortification of our fleſhly Luſts; that tho we ſtill live in the fleſh, we may not henceforth live unto the luſts of men, but to the Will of God, ver. 2. I ſay, the Chriſtian muſt no longer live after the Will of the Gentiles in Laſciviouſneſs, Luſts, &c. ver. 3. for which things Heathens will be obnoxious to God's juſt Diſpleaſure at the great day of their Accompts, ſince for this cauſe the Goſpel hath been preach'd unto them, that they might be engaged by it to condemn, and ſtrive againſt that fleſhly Converſation, in which they lived formerly, according to the Luſts of Men not yet acquainted with the Mind of God, and might henceforward live according to God in the Spirit.

Ver. 7. But the end of all things (belonging to the Jewiſh State mention'd Matt. 24. 6. Mark 13. 7. Luke 21. 9.) is at hand, be ye therefore ſober, and watch unto Prayer, (according to our Lord's advice in that caſe, Luk. 21. 34, 36.)

Τὸ τέλος ἤγγικε, the end of all things is at hand.] This Phraſe, and the Advice upon it, ſo exactly parallel to what our Lord had ſpoken, will not ſuffer us to doubt that the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking not of the End of the World, or of all things in general, which was not then, and ſeems not yet to be at hand, but only of the End of the Jewiſh Church and State, mention'd in the Enquiry of the Apoſtles, thus, Tell us when πάντα ταῦτα all theſe things ſhall be finiſh'd? Mark 13. 4. and in our Saviour's Anſwer, thus, This generation ſhall not paſs away ἕως ἂν πάντα γένηται till all things be fulfill'd, Luke 21. 32. that is, πάντα ταῦτα all theſe things, Matt. 24. 34. Mark 13. 30. And 'tis the Obſervation of Interpreters upon theſe words τοῖς πᾶσι γέγονα τὰ πάντα, I became all things to all men, 1 Cor. 9. 22. and πάντα μοι ἔξεστιν all things are lawful for me, Ch. 10. 23. that the word πάντα muſt be reſtrained to the ſubject matter.

Ver. 8. And above all things have fervent Charity among your ſelves, for Charity will cover the multitude of ſins, (which you may have been guilty of in the time of your Enmity to Chriſt and his Servants, or thoſe manifold Infirmities you may have committed in building Hay and Stubble on the Foundation, to your own great hazard, 1 Cor. 3. 12, 15. Or, it covers the Sins of others, preventing them by Patience, not taking notice of them when committed, and concealing them from others: To this ſenſe the words of the Wiſeman lead, Prov. 10. 12.)

Ver. 9. Uſe hoſpitality one towards another without grudging, (or murmuring that you beſtow your Charity on them who are not of your own Nation, or are not circumciſed, and obedient to the Law, as you think your ſelves obliged to be.)

Ver. 10. As every man hath received the gift (of the Spirit,) even ſo (let him) miniſter the ſame one to another, as becomes good Stewards of the manifold grace of God (to do.)

Ver. 11. If any man ſpeak (i. e. teach) let him ſpeak as (he is inſtructed from) the Oracles of God; if any man miniſter (as a Deacon) let him do it as of the ability that God giveth, that God in all things may be glorified through Jeſus Chriſt, to whom be praiſe and dominion (aſcribed) for ever and ever, Amen.

χάρισμα, the Gift.] That the Gift ſhould here ſignifie Wealth, I cannot think; for tho χάρις ſometimes bears that ſenſe, yet χάρισμα is never uſed to ſignifie Wealth, but always hath relation to the ſpiritual Gifts vouchſaf'd then to the Church of Chriſt. 2dly, Becauſe the ſpeaking as the Oracles of God ſeems plainly to be the ſame with Propheſying according to the Analogy of Faith mention'd Rom. 12. 6. and the miniſtring here with the διακονία there; both which are mention'd as ſpiritual Gifts according to the Grace given to them. See Note there, and on the helps mention'd 1 Cor. 12. 27.

Ver. 12. Beloved, think it not ſtrange concerning the fiery trial which is come to try you, (Gr. wonder not at the burning that is among you, and is befallen you for trial,) as though ſome ſtrange (and unexpected) thing (had) happened to you, (this being only that which was foretold by us, 1 Theſſ. 3. 4. to which you were appointed, and to which you were called, 1 Pet. 2. 21.)

Ver. 13. But rejoyce (in it rather) in as much as you are (thus made) partakers of (Sufferings reſembling) Chriſt's ſufferings, that (ſo) when his Glory ſhall be revealed, ye may (reſembling him then in Glory as you do now in Sufferings, Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12, &c.) be glad alſo with exceeding joy.

Τοῖς τῶ Χριστῶ παθήμασιν, or partakers of Chriſt's ſufferings.] Becauſe he looks upon the Sufferings of his Members as his own, Acts 9. 4. Coloſſ. 1. 24.

Ver. 14. (And) if (it ſo happen that) ye be reproached for the name of Chriſt, happy are ye (in ſuch Sufferings,) for the Spirit of Glory and of God reſts upon you; (ſo that though) on their part (who are Unbelievers) he (i. e. Chriſt) is evil ſpoken of, but (Gr. yet) on your part he is glorified.

Πνεῦμα τῆς δόξης, the ſpirit of Glory; or, as ſome Copies read τῆς δόξης καὶ δυνάμεως of Glory and Power] Is doubtleſs that Holy Spirit which attended the Preaching of the glorious Goſpel, and made it to be the Miniſtration of the Spirit ἐν δόξῃ in Glory, and by partaking of which Spirit, we Chriſtians are ſaid to be transformed from Glory to Glory, as by the Spirit of the Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 8, 9, 18. and who is alſo ſtiled πνεῦμα δυνάμεως the Spirit of Might, 2 Tim. 1. 7. and being promiſed, and given to thoſe who ſuffer'd for Chriſt's ſake to abide with them for ever, as their Comforter, and to help their Infirmities, Rom. 8. 26. 2 Tim. 1. 7, 8. muſt make them happy Sufferers, and being alſo that Spirit by which they were enabled to work many Miracles, and endued with extraordinary Gifts, Chriſt muſt be glorified by him, as he foretold he ſhould, Joh. 16. 14.

Ver. 15. But let (eſpecial care be taken that) none of you ſuffer as a Murtherer, or as a Thief, or as an Evil-doer, or as a buſie-body in other mens matters.

Ὡς φονεύς, &c.] Whoſoever reads Joſephus, will find there was the greateſt reaſon to give theſe Cautions to the Jewiſh Nation, which then prodigiouſly abounded with Thieves, were continually employ'd in murthering not only Heathens, but their own Brethren, were κακοποιοὶ, or as ſome Copies read κακῶν, to ſuch an high degree, that he ſaith they practis'd all manner of Injuſtice and Wickedneſs that was ever thought of or committed; and ἀλλοτριεπίσκοποι, Men who would have the government of other Mens Conſciences, and over-rule their Actions, eſpecially the Zealots.

Ver. 16. Yet if any man ſuffer as a Chriſtian, (i. e. only on that account) let him not be aſhamed, but let him glorifie God on that behalf.

Δοξαζέτω τὸν Θεὸν, let him glorifie God.] i. e. Let him give Glory to God, who enables him thus patiently to ſuffer for his ſake; or, let him be careful ſo to behave himſelf under his Sufferings, that he may glorifie God by them in the day of Viſitation, Chap. 2. 12. which day is now at hand.

Ver. 17. For the time is come that Judgment muſt (according to our Lord's Prediction, Matth. 24. 21, 22. Mark 13. 13. Luk. 21. 16, 17.) begin at the houſe of God: and if it firſt begin at us (believing Jews) what ſhall be the end of them that obey not the Goſpel of God?

Τὸ τέλος, the End.] Foretold by Chriſt of the unbelieving Jews. See Note on ver. 7.

Ver. 18. And if (ſome of) the Righteous ſcarcely be ſaved, (i. e. preſerved from this Burning, Ver. 12. being ſaved yet ſo as by Fire, 1 Cor. 3. 15.) where ſhall the Ungodly and the Sinner appear (in Safety from theſe dreadful Judgments which are coming on the Jewiſh Nation)? Prov. 11. 31.

Ver.

Ver. 19. Wherefore (ſeeing the Sufferings of Chriſtians then will be ſo little, in compariſon of thoſe which ſhall befal the Unbelievers, Ver. 17. 18. Seeing the Spirit of Glory and Power ſhall ſupport and comfort them under theſe Sufferings, Ver. 14. and Chriſt hath promiſed them Protection in that dreadful Day, and ſaid, he that endureth to the End ſhall be ſaved, Matth. 24. 12, 13.) let them that ſuffer according to the Will of God, commit the keeping of their Souls (i. e. their Lives) to him in well doing, as to a faithful Creator (who being their Creator, muſt be able to deliver them; and being Faithful, will not ſuffer them to be tempted above what they are able, 1 Cor. 10. 13.)

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. THE Elders which are among you, I exhort, who am alſo an Elder, and a Witneſs of the Sufferings of Jeſus Chriſt, and alſo (ſhall be) a partaker of the Glory which ſhall be revealed:

Ver. 2. Feed the Flock which is among you, taking (upon you) the overſight thereof, not by conſtraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but with a ready mind.

Ver. 3. Neither as being Lords over God's Heritage, but as Enſamples of the Flock.

Ver. 4. And when the great Shepherd ſhall appear, ye alſo ſhall appear with him in Glory, (and ſo receive a full and better Reward of your Labours than others aim at.)

πρεσβυτέρους τοὺς ἐν ὑμῖν, the Elders that are among you.] That is the Biſhops, ſaith Dr. Hammond, here and whereſoever the Word occurs in the New Teſtament; the Order of Presbyters being not yet in Being, but only afterwards appointed by St. John. For that the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking of Elders not by Age but Office, appeareth by his Exhortation directed to them to feed the Flock committed to their Charge, ver. 2. But this Notion ſeems not well conſiſtent with what others have diſcourſed upon this Subject: For,

1*ſt*, They who make the Biſhop, Prieſt or Elder, and Deacon, to be appointed as anſwering to the High-Prieſt, the Prieſts, and Levites, muſt ſuppoſe that all theſe three Orders were at firſt appointed; eſpecially in the Church of Jeruſalem, as being derived from their Platform. And ſo muſt all thoſe learned Men, who ſay the Church was modelled after the Manner of the Jewiſh Sanhedrim or Synagogue? for as to that, the Parallel muſt run between the Chief of the Sanhedrim, or of the Synagogue, the Elders and their Miniſterial Officers, and the Biſhop, Prieſts or Elders, and the Deacons; and if the middle Order had been wanting ſo long as is ſuppoſed, the Government of the Church would not have been formed after that Platform; which, as (a) Epiphanius and the Jews inform us, had theſe ſeveral Offices in it. The ſame may be ſaid of thoſe who make the Elders or Preſbyters to be anſwerable to the Seventy, appointed by Chriſt as inferior Officers under the Apoſtles, and make this an Argument of an Inequality betwixt Biſhops and Presbyters eſtabliſh'd in the Church by Chriſt.

2*ly*, Hence it muſt neceſſarily follow, that not only in the Times, but even in the Writings of the Apoſtles, the Names of Presbyters and Biſhops were ſo far confounded, that a Presbyter, in their Stile, did always ſignifie one that was properly a Biſhop: which yet the learned (b) Biſhop Pearſon, ſeems not to allow.

3*ly*, This ſeems to make the Work and Office of a Biſhop too great to be diſcharged by a ſingle Perſon, eſpecially in ſuch great Churches as that of Jeruſalem, where there were many Myriads of believing Jews, Acts 21. 20. For 'twas his Office, ſaith that Reverend Perſon, to be the Teacher of the whole Flock committed to him: Acts 20. 28. Ye that are Biſhops of the ſeveral Churches of Aſia, look to the Churches committed to your Truſt, to rule and order all the faithful Chriſtians under you. So the Paraphraſe. See the Paraphraſe and Note on Hebr. 13. 7, 17. Where he ſaith, That to teach, exhort, and confirm, and impoſe Hands, were all the Biſhop's Office in Judæa. He was to exerciſe the whole Diſcipline of the Church, by hearing all the Eccleſiaſtical Cauſes, inflicting Cenſures and receiving Penitents, ſee the Paraphraſe and Note on Titus 3. 10. He was to take the principal Care of the Poor, to receive, and diſtribute to them the Churches Stock. So here, The ſupreme Truſt and Charge of that, ſaith he, being always reſerved to the Apoſtles and Biſhops of the Church. Note F. on 1 Cor. 12. 28. I therefore think it better to admit of the ordinary Accep-

Not by conſtraint, but willingly; μὴ ἀναγκαστῶς, ἀλλ' ἑκουσίως.] Not as it were conſtrained to it by the dread of what you may ſuffer, the Woe impendent if you do not perform this Office; but voluntarily, and as a Free-Will-Offering to that God who hath loved you ſo much, and from a ready Mind to ſerve the Intereſt of Souls, as in thoſe Words of St. Paul, ἀνάγκη, a Neceſſity is laid upon me, and woe unto me if I preach not the Goſpel: but if, ἑκὼν, willingly I do this, I have a Reward, 1 Cor. 9. 16, 17.

Μηδὲ αἰσχροκερδῶς, not for filthy lucre.] As did the falſe Apoſtles and Judaizers, teaching things they ought not, for filthy lucre's ſake, Tit. 1. 11. thinking Gain Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 5.

Μηδ' ὡς κατακυριεύοντες τῶν κλήρων, not as Lords over God's Heritage.] Or as it might be render'd, of the Poſſeſſions of the Church. It was the Cuſtom then of many to ſell their Heritages, and give the Money to the Governors and Biſhops of the Church, to be diſtributed to the Uſe of the poor Chriſtians; and theſe Inheritances and Monies were ſtiled κλῆροι, both in the Scriptures and the beſt Greek Authors, uſing it for a Patrimony or Heritage obtain'd by Lot, as the Inheritance of the Jews was, Joſh. 12. 8. whence the Word κλῆρος is ſo often uſed in this Senſe through the Book of Joſhua and Judges. And ſo the Biſhops, to whoſe Hands it was committed, are here required not to act as if they were Lords, but only as Stewards of it; and ſo as to be Examples to others of Freedom from Avarice, and Diligence in relieving the Poor, Sick, and Needy.

Ver. 5. Likewiſe ye younger, ſubmit your ſelves unto the Elder (or Aged): yea all of you be ſubject to one another, (i. e. be as ready to do kind Offices to others, as if ye were ſubject to them. See Note on Phil. 2. 3.) and be ye cloathed with Humility; for God reſiſteth the Proud, and giveth Grace unto the Humble.

Ἐγκομβώσασθε, be ye cloathed with Humility.] The Word hath two Significations; it ſignifies a Frock put over the reſt of our Cloaths, and ſo imports that this Humility ſhould be viſible in us above all other Chriſtian Vertues, in our whole Converſation, our Words and Actions. 2*ly*, It ſignifies a Belt which girts about our Garments, and ſo imports that we ſhould tie it faſt unto us, and have thoſe Conſiderations always fixt upon our Spirits, which may ſtill keep us in an humble Frame of Soul.

Ver. 6. Humble your ſelves therefore under the mighty hand of God (now coming upon you, Chap. 4. 17.) that he may exalt you in due time.

Ταπεινώθητε.] That is, Submit with Patience to the Chaſtiſements ſent by his Powerful Hand upon you, that being truly ſenſible of the Divine Diſpleaſure, being afflicted and mourning for thoſe Sins which brought theſe Evils down upon you, and turning unto him that ſmites you, he may draw nigh to you, and in due ſeaſon work for you a Deliverance from this afflicted State. See this in the Place parallel to this, James 4. 7, 10.

Ver. 7. Caſting all your Care upon him (and committing your ſelves to the Conduct of his All-wiſe Providence, Chap. 4. 19.) for he careth for you.

Ver. 8. Be ſober, be vigilant, becauſe your Adverſary the Devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about ſeeking whom he may devour, (and by his Perſecutions, tempt to an Apoſtacy from the Faith, 1 Theſ. 3. 5. Rev. 2. 10.)

Ver. 9. Whom reſiſt ſtedfaſt in the Faith, knowing that the ſame Afflictions (which you now endure) are accompliſhed in your (Chriſtian) Brethren that are in the World. (See James 4. 7.)

Ver. 10. But (and) the God of all Grace who hath called us to eternal Glory by Chriſt Jeſus, after that ye have ſuffered a while, make you perfect (in Patience,) ſtabliſh, ſtrengthen, ſettle you.

Ver. 11. To him be Glory and Dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

Ver. 12. By Sylvanus a faithful Brother, as I ſuppoſe, I have written briefly, exhorting and teſtifying that this is the true Grace of God in which you (now) ſtand.

Ὡς λογίζομαι, as I ſuppoſe.] From theſe and many like Expreſſions uſed in the Epiſtles of the Apostles, it is evident that the Divine Affiatus by which the Holy Ghost assisted them to write, did not dictate the very Words, but only presided over them to preserve them from Error in writing, seeing the Holy Ghost could not say as I suppose; nor could St. Peter have used this Phrase, if the Divine Illumination had influenced and instructed him in this Matter.

Ver. 13. The Church that is at (Rome figuratively called) Babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you, and so doth Marcus my Son. (i. e. Who as a Son with his Father, hath served me in the Gospel, Phil. 2. 22.)

'Η ἐν Βαβυλῶνι, the Church in Babylon.] That Babylon is figuratively here put for Rome, is an Opinion so early delivered by (c) Papias, and which afterwards so generally obtain'd, as we learn from Eusebius, (d) St. Jerom and Oecumenius on this Place, that I subscribe to the Note at the end of this Epistle, that ἐγράφη ἀπὸ Ῥώμης, it was written from Rome, called also Babylon by the Author of the Revelations, Chap. 17. and the 18th. For the Apostle must at the writing of it be at (e) Rome figuratively, or at some City properly called Babylon. Now as it is uncertain whether St. Peter ever was at Babylon in Chaldea, or in Ægypt, and improbable that he ever made any considerable stay there, so is it very improbable he should do it so near his End. At Rome and Antioch, where he confessedly resided, Church-History is copious in giving an Account of his Successors in those Sees; but who can shew any thing of this Nature with reference to either of these Babylons? As to the Reason why Rome is covertly thus represented by the Name of Babylon, I cannot think with Oecumenius, it was so stiled, διὰ τὸ ἐπιφανὲς, because advanced to as great Eminency as Babylon had ever been, for then why should St. Peter have disguised the Matter? I rather think it was so stiled, either because it did resemble that City in its (f) Idolatry and Opposition to the Church of God; or rather because it was to be destroyed for ever, as the Prophets had foretold of Babylon; which, though the primitive Christians did believe, it was their Wisdom to conceal. Thus Jerom saith, that the Prophet Jeremiah covertly spake of Babylon, under the Name of (g) Sesack, that he might not incense the Babylonians against him, who besieged Jerusalem; and that the Apostle speaks of the Roman Empire under that Name of τὸ κατέχον, that which letteth, that he might not provoke them to persecute the Christians for speaking of the Roman Empire, which was by them esteemed (h) Imperium sine fine, or Eternal.

Ver. 14. Greet ye one another with a Kiss of Charity. Peace be with all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epiſtle of St. PETER.

Πέτρου τῦ Ἀποστόλου ἐπιστολὴ καθολικὴ δευτέρα, The Second Catholick Epiſtle of St. Peter.] That this Epiſtle alſo was written by the Apoſtle Peter, is evident beyond all juſt Exception. (1.) From the Inſcription of it, in which the Writer ſtiles himſelf, Simon Peter, a Servant and Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt; there being no other Apoſtle of that Name. Moreover, of this Apoſtle it is particularly noted in the Scripture, that he was Σίμων ὁ λεγόμενος Πέτρος, Simon called Peter, Matth. 4. 18. 10. 2. Σίμων ὁ ἐπικαλούμενος Πέτρος, Simon which was Sirnamed Peter, Acts 10. 18. 11. 13. He is ſtiled Simon Peter once by St. Luke, Chap. 5. 8. and by St. John the Evangeliſt ſeventeen times, Chap. 1. 41. 6. 8, 68. 13. 6, 9, 24, 36. 18. 10, 15, 25. 20. 2, 6. 21. 2, 3, 7, 11, 15. Whereas Symeon Biſhop of Jeruſalem, to whom Grotius aſcribes the writing of this Epiſtle, was neither Peter, nor Apoſtle. (2.) From a Concurrence of Circumſtances in it relating to St. Peter, and no other; as (1) When he ſays, He ſhortly muſt put off this Tabernacle, even as our Lord Jeſus Chriſt had ſhewed him, Chap. 1. 14. This well agrees to Simon Peter, to whom our Lord ſignified what Death he ſhould die, Joh. 21. 18, 19. And that this Death ſhould befall him before his coming to the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, Ver. 22. which was then at hand. See Note on 1 Pet. 4. 7. 2ly, He adds, that he was with him in the Holy Mount, when our Lord Jeſus was tranſfigured, and was an Eye-witneſs of his Majeſty, and heard thoſe Words, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed, Ver. 16, 17, 18. which he could hear only then, no ſuch Words being ſpoken, John 12. 28. to which Grotius would referr this Paſſage. Now at our Lord's Tranſfiguration, beſides St. Peter, were only preſent the two Sons of Zebedee, James and John, neither of which were ever thought of to be the Author of this Epiſtle. 3dly, This alſo may be gathered from theſe Words, Chap. 3. 1, 2. This Second Epiſtle, beloved, I write unto you; in which I ſtir up your ſincere Minds by way of remembrance: Ver. 2. That ye may be mindful of the Words which were ſpoken before by the Holy Prophets, and of the Commandment of us the Apoſtles of the Lord and Saviour. Whence it is manifeſt, 1ſt. That this Epiſtle was writ by an Apoſtle, and therefore not by Symeon Biſhop of Jeruſalem. 2dly, That it was writ by an Apoſtle who had before directed an Epiſtle to the ſame Perſons. Now though ſome of the Ancients doubted whether this Second Epiſtle were Canonical, yet (a) they all owned that it bore his Name and was aſcribed to him, and never, that we find, was aſcribed to any other Apoſtle; we therefore have juſt Reaſon to conclude, according to the Title of it, that it was alſo the Epiſtle of Simon Peter, the Apoſtle of our Lord, to whom both theſe Epiſtles expreſly are aſcribed by (b) Origen, who alſo adds, That Paul is called his Brother, by Peter the Apoſtle, which he is only in this Epiſtle. Being therefore written by an Apoſtle aſſiſted by the Holy Ghoſt ſent down from Heaven, 1 Pet. 1. 12. we cannot doubt of the Authority of this Epiſtle; for whereas Grotius, to avoid the Strength of this Argument, imagines that this Chapter contains a Second Epiſtle, and that the Firſt Epiſtle referred to, ended at the cloſe of the Second Chapter of that which is now called the Second Epiſtle He not only doth this without all Authority of any Ancient Verſions or Authors to countenance his Opinion, but againſt the Frame and the Contexture of Epiſtles, ſtles, which uſually begin with an Inſcription, which is not to be found in the third Chapter.

As for the time when this Epiſtle was indited, I lay down this as certain, againſt Grotius, from what hath been diſcours'd already, that it could not be written after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem; for St. Peter here ſaith, that he was ſhortly to put off his Tabernacle, or to die, whereas he was actually dead in the fourteenth year of Nero, that is, three years before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus. But that it was written but a little before his Death, may juſtly be concluded from his Declaration that he knew, either by Revelation, or by our Lord's Diſcourſe, that the time of his Death (c) was ſuddenly to follow, or was nigh at hand.

Of the Perſons to whom it was written, we are aſſured alſo from thoſe words, This Second Epiſtle, Beloved, I write unto you, they being a demonſtration that it was written to the very ſame Perſons to whom the firſt had been directed, viz. to the Converted Jews diſpers'd through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Aſia, and Bithynia, 1 Pet. 1. 1.

And laſtly, as for the occaſion of his writing, that plainly ſeems to have been double. 1*ſt. To arm the* Jews converted againſt that fiery trial which was then come upon them, and againſt that Apoſtacy from the Faith, that turning away from the holy Commandment, Chap. 2. 21. that falling from their own Stedfaſtneſs, Chap. 3. 17. to which they of that Nation were ſo prone: And evident it is, that the chief deſign of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews was to put a ſtop unto it: and many Paſſages in all the Catholick Epiſtles, not excepting the 2*d and* 3*d Epiſtles of St.* John, are evidently writ for the ſame purpoſe. And to warn them of, and to preſerve them from, the deſtructive Doctrines of thoſe Jewiſh Solifidians who held it unneceſſary to add unto their Faith Vertue. 2*dly, Of thoſe impure* Nicolaitans and Simonians, who turn'd the Grace of God into Laſciviouſneſs. Of whom ſee the Notes on the 2*d Chapter.* 3*dly, Of thoſe* Scoffers at the Promiſe of Chriſt's Coming, as if it were a Promiſe which never would be verified.

But then I am conſtrained to diſſent from the Opinion of the Reverend and the Judicious Dr. Hammond, and Dr. Lightfoot, who conceive that the Apoſtle doth not diſcourſe of our Lord's coming to the General Judgment in his 3*d Chapter, but only of his coming to execute his Judgments on the* Jews by the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem. For, not to inſiſt upon this Conſideration that this Opinion is wholly new, and contrary to the Judgment of all the Ancients, who own this Epiſtle, and have occaſion to make mention of theſe words, they all agreeing in this with OEcumenius, that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh ὁπὶ συντελείᾳ τῆ ἧ τῦ αἰῶνΘ of the End of the World, as is extremely evident

1. From theſe very words, ver. 7. But the Heavens and Earth which now are, by the ſame word are kept in ſtore reſerved to fire againſt the day of Judgment, and perdition of ungodly men. And ver. 10. But the day of the Lord will come as a Thief in the night in the which the Heavens ſhall paſs away with a great noiſe, and the Elements ſhall melt with fervent Heat; the Earth alſo, and the works that are therein, ſhall be burnt up. To interpret all theſe words only of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, is to turn them into Metaphor and Allegory; whereas St. Peter plainly ſays, that as the old World was deſtroy'd by Water, ſo ſhall the World that now is be deſtroy'd by fire. Here then, as one ſays truly, is no room for Allegories or Allegorical Expoſitions; for, as the Heavens and Earth were deſtroy'd by Water, ſo are they to be deſtroy'd by Fire: and if in the firſt place you underſtand the natural material World, you muſt alſo underſtand it in the ſecond; they are both Allegories, or neither.

2. Were the Apoſtle ſpeaking of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem which happen'd forty ſeven years after the Death of Chriſt, and was, according to our Lord's Prediction, to fall out whilſt ſome of them whom he ſpake to were yet living, what need was there of ſaying, one day with the Lord is as a thouſand years, &c. when he was ſpeaking, it ſeems, of that which he knew was to happen before four years were expired. And laſtly, the ſolemn Exhortation, Seeing then all theſe things ſhall be diſſolved, what manner of Perſons ought we to be in all holy Converſations and Godlineſſes, looking for, and haſtening to the Coming of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, that we may be found of him without ſpot, and blameleſs? This, I ſay, ſounds too high for the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, in which they of Pontus and Galatia could not be much concern'd; but 'tis an Exhortation very proper for thoſe who had the lively Idea of the Conflagration of the World, and the tremendous Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men, then ſet before them.

There is, I confeſs, a middle Opinion betwixt both theſe, which interprets the words of St. Peter in the 3*d Chapter, of the Judgment of the Great Whore, or the* Antichriſtian Church mention'd Rev. 17. 1. after which is to follow the New Heaven and New Earth promiſed to the Jews, and to be accompliſhed in the calling of them to the Chriſtian Faith, and the flowing in of all Nations to them. Concerning which, Note

1*ſt. That this Judgment, according to the Predictions both of the* Prophets in the Old, and of St. John in the New Teſtament, is to be executed upon her by fire. So Daniel 7. 11. The Beaſt was ſlain, and his Body deſtroyed, and given to the burning Flame: and ver. 26. The Judgment ſhall ſit, and they ſhall take away his Dominion, to conſume, and to deſtroy it to the end. Accordingly, in the Judgment of the Whore, ſhe ſhall be utterly burnt with fire, for ſtrong is the Lord that judgeth her. Rev. 17. 17. Rev. 18. 8, 9, 18.

(c) Ταχινή ἐστιν. 2 Pet. 3. 14.

Note 2dly, That it is uſual with the Prophets to repreſent God's Judgments on the Enemies of his Church and People, by the tragical Expreſſions of burning up the Earth, and diſſolving the Heavens. Thus of the Deſtruction of Babylon, which Name was writ upon the Forehead of the Great Whore, God ſpeaks thus; Behold, the day of the Lord cometh, cruel and with fierce wrath, to lay the Land deſolate, for the Stars of Heaven, and the Conſtellations, ſhall not give their Light, and the Sun ſhall be darkned in his going forth, and the Moon ſhall not give her Light, and I will make the Heavens to ſhake (or move away) and the Earth ſhall remove out of its place, Iſa. 13. 9, 10, 13. The Indignation of the Lord againſt the Idumæans, is repreſented in theſe dreadful words, The Mountains ſhall be melted with their Blood, and (d) all the Hoſt of Heaven ſhall be diſſolved, and the Heavens ſhall be rolled together as a Scroll and all their Hoſt ſhall fall down as a leaf falleth from the Vine, and as a falling Fig from the Fig-tree. Of the Deſtruction of Sennacherib and his People, God ſpeaketh thus; The Heavens ſhall vaniſh away like Smoak, the Earth ſhall wax old like a Garment, and they that dwell therein ſhall die in like manner. Iſa. 51. 6. See Deut. 32. 22. Jer. 4. 23, 24. Joel 2. 30. 3. 15. Here then we ſee all the Expreſſions uſed in the 3*d Chapter of St.* Peter uſed alſo by the Prophets when they ſpeak of the Deſolation of a Nation and People, and eſpecially of the Enemies of the Church; which is ſufficient to evince that the Apoſtle being himſelf a Jew, and writing to thoſe Jews who were accuſtomed to theſe Expreſſions, might thus ſet forth the Deſtruction of the Jewiſh Church and Nation, as ſome think he does, and by the new Heavens and new Earth in which dwelleth Righteouſneſs, that Chriſtian State which was to ſucceed it, or rather the great Deſtruction of the Beaſt, mention'd Revelations 17th and the 18th, and by the new Heavens and new Earth, that Glorious State of the Church which was to enſue by the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, and the flowing in of all Nations to them.

A Paraphraſe with Annotations ON THE Second Epiſtle of St. PETER.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. SImon Peter, a Servant and Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt (writing) to them that have obtain'd like precious Faith with us through the Righteouſneſs of God (by Faith, Rom. 1. 17.) and (the Sufferings) of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ τοῦ Θεοῦ, by the Righteouſneſs of God.] That this Phraſe ſignifies our Juſtification through Faith in the Death and Sufferings of Chriſt, the meritorious cauſe of it, ſee Note on Rom. 1. 17.

Ver. 2. (Wiſheth that) Grace and Peace (may) be multiplied (to you) through the knowledge of God, and of Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

Ver. 3. According as (it hath been with us already, for) his divine power hath given to us all things that pertain to Life and Godlineſs, (or, to the Life of Godlineſs,) through the knowledge of him that hath called us to (Gr. by) Glory and Vertue.

Διὰ δόξης καὶ ἀρετῆς, by Glory and Vertue.] i. e. Who hath call'd us with a glorious Calling, as being attended with the glorious Effuſion of the Holy Ghoſt, by reaſon of which the Revelation of the Goſpel is ſaid to be ἐν δόξῃ, or διὰ δόξης in, and with Glory, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 11. and ſhew'd his Power, Might, and Vertue, by the miraculous Operations with which it was confirm'd. For though Mr. le Clerk is poſitive that ἀρετὴ no where ſignifies δύναμις, yet in Heſychius we read thus, ἀρετὴ θεία δύναμις, Vertue, i. e. Divine Power: and Phavorinus ſaith it is Divine Power ἢ καὶ πόλεμου δύναμις, Strength for War, Fortitude, Dexterity in Wreſtling.

Ver. 4. Whereby are given to us exceeding great and precious promiſes, that by theſe ye may be partakers of the divine Nature, having eſcaped the corruption which is in the world through Luſt.

Δι' ὧν, by which] If the reading of other Manuſcripts δι' ὧν, obtain, the ſenſe runs plain and eaſie thus, by whom thus calling you are given great and precious Promiſes, Chriſt having brought Light and Immortality to light, 2 Tim. 1. 10. and eſtabliſh'd the New Covenant in better Promiſes, Hebr. 8. 6. But if we retain the common reading δι' ὃν by which, the ſenſe ſeems to run thus, By which two, the Effuſion of the Holy Ghoſt upon us, as the earneſt of them, and the miraculous Operations, as the confirmation of them, and of that Goſpel which contains them, are given to us great and precious Promiſes, or rather, by which God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, mention'd ver. 1. and 3, are given great and precious Promiſes, they being the Promiſes made by God the Father, 2 Cor. 7. 1. and by the Son, 1 Joh. 2. 25. and confirmed to us in and through Chriſt Jeſus, 2 Cor. 1. 20, 21.

Θείας φύσεως κοινωνοὶ, Partakers of the divine Nature.] Both (a) Philo and Joſephus repreſent them, who had the Gift of Prophecy as having πρὸς ψυχὰς θειάζους, a Soul inſpired by the Deity and by the Holy Spirit dwelling in them made divine. Thus (b) Joſephus ſaith of one Papius, renowned for his Wiſdom, and Foreknowledge of things to come, that he did θείας μετειληχέναι φύσεως partake of the divine Nature.

Ver. 5. And beſides this, (Gr. Καὶ αὐτὸ τοῦτο and for this cauſe) giving all diligence, add to your Faith Vertue, (or courage in the Profeſſion of it, and ſincerity in the Practice of thoſe things this Faith requires,) and to Vertue (an exact) Knowledge (of your Duty,) carefully abſtaining from thoſe ſenſual Affections, and diſorderly Paſſions, which obſtruct the performance of your Duty,) and to Temperance Patience, (under all the Sufferings which may affright you from it,) and to Patience Godlineſs, (that Fear of God which will reſtrain you from Sin, that Love of him which will conſtrain you to your Duty, that Conformity of Will which will cauſe your Mind to approve of, your Heart to affect and chuſe what is according to his Will, and your whole Man to be exerciſing it ſelf to Godlineſs.

Ver. 7. And to Godlineſs Brotherly-kindneſs, (i.e. Fervent Love to Chriſtians, as being Children of our Heavenly Father, and Fellow-members of Chriſt's Body,) and to Brotherly-kindneſs Charity (to all Men, as proceeding from the ſame Stock, having the ſame Nature, and being ſubject to the ſame Neceſſities.)

Καὶ αὐτὸ τοῦτο and for this cauſe, or as other Manuſcripts read, ὑμεῖς αὐτοὶ ſo ye.] Eſthius here probably conjectures, that the Senſe hitherto is pendent thus; As you have received from the Gift of God all things neceſſary to Life and Godlineſs, ſo do ye add, or for this cauſe add to your Faith Vertue, &c.

Ver. 8. For if theſe things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye ſhall neither be barren, (Gr. ſlothful,) nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Οὐκ ἀργοὺς, you will not be ſlothful] or negligent in the Concerns of God's Glory and your Soul's Welfare; for Sloth proceeds from want of Faith, or Courage, or Love, nor unfruitful, i. e. unprofitable to others, for that proceeds from want of Brotherly-Kindneſs or Charity.

Ver. 9. But (on the other hand) he that lacketh theſe things is blind, and cannot ſee afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old ſins, (by that Baptiſm in which he being waſhed from the Guilt of them, engaged to die to Sin, Rom. 6. 4.)

Τυφλός ἐστι, He is blind] for want of Knowledge, and blinded by his Paſſions and ſenſual Affections, and cannot ſee to the End and Deſign of Chriſtianity, and the Rewards of Faith and Patience, nor conſiders he the Obligations which lie upon him to depart from Iniquity.

Ver. 10. Wherefore (being called to this Faith) the rather Brethren, give diligence, (Gr. give the more diligence by practiſing theſe things,) to make your Calling and Election ſure; (i. e. to ſecure to your ſelves the Bleſſings of Chriſtianity to which God hath called you; and for which end he hath choſen you to be his People:) for if you do theſe things, you ſhall never fall, (or miſcarry eternally.)

Βεβαίαν ὑμῶν τὴν κλῆσιν ποιεῖσθε, to make your Calling and Election ſure.] Many Manuſcripts, and many of the Ancients, add διὰ τῶν καλῶν ἔργων by good works: and this the Text ſeems to require, for it immediately follows, if you do theſe things ye ſhall never fall, plainly declaring, that the making of their Calling and Election ſure depended on the doing thoſe works of Vertue, Temperance, Patience, Godlineſs, Brotherly-kindneſs, and Charity, mentioned before, and ſo was only a conditional Election upon their perſeverance in a Life of Holineſs.

Ver. 11. For ſo an entrance ſhall be miniſtred to you abundantly into the everlaſting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

Εἰς τὴν αἰώνιον βασιλείαν, into the everlaſting Kingdom.] As ζωὴ αἰώνιος is (c) everlaſting Life, αἰώνιος κληρονομία an everlaſting Inheritance, αἰώνιοι σκηναὶ everlaſting Tabernacles, οἰκία αἰώνιος an everlaſting Houſe, δόξα αἰώνιος everlaſting Glory, σωτηρία αἰώνιος everlaſting Salvation, ſo αἰώνιος βασιλεία is doubtleſs the everlaſting Kingdom prepared for Chriſt's faithful Servants, and not his vindictive Kingdom over the Jews, nor yet the Kingdom of Saints mentioned by Daniel as never to give place to any other Kingdom, they to whom the Apoſtle writ being to die long before the coming of that Kingdom.

Ver. 12. Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of theſe things, though you knew them (before,) and be eſtabliſh'd in the preſent truth, (viz. that the Practice of theſe Chriſtian Vertues is neceſſary to the making your Calling and Election ſure, and to your Entrance into Chriſt's heavenly Kingdom.)

Ver. 13. Yea I think it meet, as long as I am in this tabernacle (of the Body,) to ſtir you up (to the performance of your Duty,) by putting you (ſtill) in remembrance (of theſe things.)

Ἐν ὑπομνήσει, in remembrance.] For could we be eſtabliſh'd in the Belief of heavenly things, and have them ſtill in remembrance, we ſhould not flag in the Performance of our Duty.

Ver. 14. Knowing that ſhortly I muſt put off this tabernacle (by Martyrdom) even as our Lord Jeſus Chriſt hath ſhew'd me (John 21. 20.)

Ἐδήλωσέ μοι, hath ſhew'd me.] Declaring to him in a Viſion, ſay (d) Hegeſippus and (e) St. Ambroſe, that He muſt go again to Rome to be Crucified. Thus (f) St. Polycarp in a Viſion ſaw his Pillow, or Night-Cap, burning with Fire, a little before he was conſumed by the Flames: And St. Cyprian, by a Viſion, was admoniſhed of his Death, and of the Kind of Martyrdom he was to ſuffer. Pontius in vita Cyp. Ed. Oxon. p. 7.

Ver. 15. Moreover, I will endeavour (by leaving theſe Epiſtles, deſigned for that End) that you may be able after my deceaſe, to have theſe things always in Remembrance.

Τὴν τούτων μνήμην ποιεῖσθαι, to make a Remembrance of theſe things.] St. Peter therefore was not of the Opinion that Oral Tradition was a better Way than Writing, to preſerve the Memory of theſe Things, and that without Writing they might be able ſo to do. Accordingly (g) Ignatius, adviſing the Churches to ſtand faſt in the Tradition of the Apoſtles, thought it neceſſary, for the greater Security, to commit them to Writing. For, Saith (h) Origen, That which is delivered only by Mouth quickly vaniſheth, as having no certainty.

Ver. 16. For we have not followed cunningly deviſed Fables, when we made known to you the Power (given to our Lord Chriſt over all Flesh, that he might give eternal Life to them that believe, John 17. 2.) and (the) coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (to crown them with Glory,) but were Eye-Witneſſes of his Majeſty.

Ver. 17. For he received from God the Father, Honour and Glory, when there came ſuch a Voice from the excellent Glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed.

Ver. 18. And this Voice which came from Heaven we heard, when we were with him in the Holy Mount.

Τῆς δὲ μεγαλοπρεποῦς δόξης, from the magnificent Glory.] Some conſidering, that in all the three Evangeliſts the Transfiguration of our Lord is mentioned after he had ſpoken of the coming of the Son of Man in Glory, or in the Glory of the Father, think this Transfiguration was an Image of that glorious Kingdom he was to erect at the recalling of the Jews; and that St. Peter here refers to this when he ſaith, we made known to you the power and coming, or the illuſtrious coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; whence Moſes and Elias are here ſeen with him in Glory, and according to ſome Manuſcripts are ſaid to ſpeak of the δόξα, i. e. his Glory which was to be hereafter in Jeruſalem. But that Glory being not yet come, to what purpoſe ſhould the Apoſtle write to them of that Age, to give all Diligence to obtain an Entrance into that Kingdom? Or why doth he ſo generally promiſe an Entrance into it to them who were to die ſo long before? and were not at all, unleſs they died Martyrs, to enter into it; nor was it to be an Everlaſting, but only a Millennary Kingdom. Wherefore for Explication of the Words, obſerve concerning the Tranſiguration of our Lord, (1.) That when he was transfigured his Face did ſhine as the Sun, and his Garments were ſplendent, Matth. 17. 2. and this, ſaith Nazianzen, God did τὸ μέλλον μυσταγωγῶν, ſhewing what he was to be hereafter, and as an Introduction to that Glory in which he was to ſhine at the Right Hand of Majeſty in the Heavens, for to ſhine as the Sun, is a Phraſe expreſſing ſomething belonging to Celeſtial Majeſty, Matth. 13. 43. the white and ſplendid Garments being alſo proper to Kings and the Royal Miniſters of the Heavenly Court, Rev. 3. 4. And Hence when Chriſt is repreſented as the Firſt-born from the Dead, and the Prince of the Kings of the Earth, to whom Power and Glory belonged, he appears in Splendor, as the Sun ſhining in his Power, Rev. 1. 14, 15. And this is the Majeſty of Chriſt of which St. Peter, James and John were Eye-Witneſſes on the Mount.

2*dly*, Of the Teſtimony given to him; obſerve (1.) That it was, This is my beloved Son, i. e. This is he who is Heir of all things, Heb. 1. 2. and is ſat down at the right hand of Majeſty and Glory, Ver. 3. And therefore this is made a Proof of our Lord's Reſurrection and Exaltation to the higheſt Glory, that the Father ſaid to him, Thou art my Son, this Day have I begotten thee, Acts 13. 33. Hebr. 1. 5. 5. 5. This is he to whom the Father hath given to have Life in himſelf, John 5. 26. and ſo to raiſe the Dead, Ver. 24. and give eternal Life to them, John 17. 1, 2. Now all this being comprehended in this Teſtimony, ſhews the Truth of what St. Peter ſaid he had declared to them. Note (2*dly*.) That this Voice was given from the magnificent Glory, or bright Cloud which then appeared, and was the conſtant Symbol of the Divine Preſence; ſee Note on Phil. 2. 6. and ſo aſſured them this Teſtimony was given by the God of Truth. Note (3*dly*.) That this Teſtimony is delivered in the very Words ſpoken of that Prophet which ſhould come after Moſes, viz. A Prophet will the Lord your God raiſe unto you like to me, to him ſhall ye hearken, Deut. 18. 15. And ſo aſſured them that this beloved Son was that Prophet of whom Moſes ſpake. Note Laſtly, That theſe Words were directed not to Chriſt, but to thoſe that attended him, and bad them obſerve that God the Father here owned him as his only Son, in whom he is well pleaſed, and as the only Prophet whom they ought to hearken to.

Ver. 19. We have alſo a more ſure Word of Propheſie; whereto you do well that ye take heed, as to a Light that ſhineth in dark Places, until the Day dawn, and the Day Star ariſe in your Hearts.

Βεβαιότερον ἔχομεν τὸν προφητικὸν λόγον, a more ſure Word of Propheſie.] This is ſpoken in compariſon of the Apoſtle's Teſtimony, of what he heard, which to the Jews was not ſo certain and convincing, as was the Record of their own Prophets; whence the Apoſtles, both in diſputing with the unbelieving Jews, and writing to the Believers among them, confirm their Doctrines from the Writings of the Old Teſtament.

Καὶ φωσφόρος ἀνατείλῃ, &c. and the Day Star ariſe in your Hearts.] Some conſidering that Balaam Propheſies of the Meſſiah as a Star that was to come out of Jacob, by which Star, ſay the three Targums, Beriſchith Rabba, R. Moſes Hadarſon, and R. Iſaac, is meant the Meſſiah, compared to a Star, becauſe of the Splendor and Perennity of his Dominion and Kingdom, and who is ſtiled by St. John, ὁ ἀστὴρ λαμπρὸς, καὶ ὀρθρινὸς, the bright and morning Star, Rev. 22. 16. refer this to Chriſt's ſecond coming to convert the Jews, and ſet up the Kingdom of the Saints, Dan. 7. 27. ſaying, That the Apoſtle compares the intermediate Time in which Antichriſt was to reign, to the Night and Darkneſs, according as the Scripture uſeth to expreſs the times of Ignorance and Idolatry, Eph. 5. 8. 1 Theſ. 5. 4. See Note on Rom. 13. 12. And the Time of Chriſt's Advent to call all Iſrael, and to bring in with them the fulneſs of the Gentiles, to the Light diſſipating that Darkneſs; and doth here bid the Jewiſh Nation to attend to the Propheſies in the Old Teſtament touching this glorious Time, till it ſhould be accompliſhed upon them. But the Apoſtle writes not here to the unbelieving Jews, who are to be the only Subjects of that Calling; but to them who had obtained like pretious Faith with him. Moreover, That the Time from writing this Epiſtle till the Converſion of the Jews, which is not yet accompliſhed, ſhould be accounted as Darkneſs, or a Time in which the Light or Day appeared not, ſeems not ſutable to that Expreſſion of St. Paul, The Night is far ſpent, and the Day is at hand. See Note on Rom. 13. 12. Nor could he bid thoſe of that Age to expect till that Day Star ſhould ariſe in their Hearts, which to this very Day is not yet riſing. It therefore ſeems plain to me from theſe Words, tho' Dr. Hammond and others would interpret them to another Senſe, that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh this concerning ſome other Light that was to enlighten and affect their Hearts, and give them full Aſſurance that our Jeſus was the Son of God, the Prophet God had ſent into the World. Now this was done by the internal Gifts and Illuminations of the Holy Spirit vouchſafed to Believers; by which, ſaith the Apoſtle Paul, The Teſtimony of Chriſt, or which the Apoſtles gave of him, ἐβεβαιώθη ἐν ὑμῖν, was confirm'd in or upon them, 1 Cor. 1. 6. By which God did βεβαιῶν ἡμᾶς σὺν ὑμῖν εἰς Χριστὸν, confirm both the Apoſtles, and thoſe that believed in the Faith of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 1. 21, 22. 5. 5. So that the import of the Words ſeems to be this, till you your ſelves have thoſe Prophetick Gifts, by which you may be able from what you find in your ſelves, to know by the Spirit that Jeſus is the Chriſt, the Son of God, 1 Cor. 12. 3. and have that Unction of the Holy Ghoſt, by which you know all things, 1 John 2. 27. And have alſo the Scriptures of the New Teſtament committed to you, which contain a more perfect Light, Rom. 13. 14. And are endited alſo by the Holy Spirit ſent down from Heaven, 1 Pet. 1. 12. Like to this is that Expreſſion of (i) Philo, what Reaſon is in us, that is the Sun in the World, ἀμφὼ φωσφόροι ἰκάτερος, both being unto us as a Phoſphorus, the Sun giving Light to our Senſes, and Reaſon intellectual Raies to our Conceptions. And when φῶς ἐπιλάμπῃ τὸ θεῖον, the Divine Light ſhines upon us, that of our Reaſon ſets; and when that ſets, this ariſeth, ᾧ καὶ προφητικῷ γένει φιλεῖ τοῦτο συμβαίνειν, and ſo it was with the Prophets.

Ver. 20. Knowing this firſt, (as the Foundation of all you learn from the Prophetick Writings,) that no Propheſie of Scripture is of private Interpretation. (Gr. Of their own Incitation, Motion, or the Suggeſtion of their own private Spirits.)

Ver. 21. For Propheſie of old time came not by the will of Man: but Holy Men of old ſpake as they were moved by the Holy Ghoſt.

Οὐ θελήματι ἀνθρώπου ἠνέχθη.] i. e. Propheſie comes not from the Prophet's own Suggeſtion, but from the Inſpiration of the Holy Ghoſt. That this is the true Senſe of theſe Words appears, (1.) From the Apoſtle's own Interpretation; for not to be of the Prophet's own Incitation or Suggeſtion, Ver. 20. is not to come by the Will of Man, Ver. 21. i. e. not by human Reaſon, but by the Will of God, John 1. 13. (2*dly.*) From the Uſe of the Phraſe; for φέρειν according to Phavorinus and Suidas, is ὁρμὴ Acceſſion, or Incitation, or inſult; and the Word ἔνθεν added to it, muſt therefore ſignifie that Propheſie is not of private Impulſe or Incitation, whence the Expreſſion uſed by the true Prophets, is generally this, ἐπῆλθε δ' ἐμοὶ, the Spirit came upon me, Numb. 24. 2. 1 Sam. 10. 10. 2 Chron. 15. 1. 24. 20. And (3*dly.*) From the Nature of the Thing it ſelf, and the conſtant Opinion of the Jews about it, which was, as (k) Philo ſaith, that a Prophet ſpeaketh nothing of himſelf, but he is the Interpreter of God in what he ſpeaks, God ſpeaking in and by him. Whence to ſpeak of himſelf, or of his own Heart or Mind, is always made the Sign of a falſe Prophet, whom God had not ſent, Numb. 16. 28. 22. 18. 24. 13. Jer. 23. 16, 26. Ezek. 13. 17. Ridiculous therefore, and full of Ignorance is the Inference of Eſthius hence, that the Reformed and their Paſtors muſt not interpret the Scriptures according to their own Senſe or Judgments, which ſurely they may do as well as he, or any other Romiſh Commentator, who have nothing but their own private Senſe, for many Interpretations of the Scriptures they diſcourſe upon.

and

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. BUT there were falſe Prophets among the People, (in the former Ages of the Jewiſh Church,) as there ſhall be (hereafter) falſe Teachers among you, who privily ſhall bring in damnable Hereſies, (i. e. Doctrines tending to the Deſtruction of them that hold them, and) even denying the Lord that bought them, and (ſhall) bring upon themſelves ſwift Deſtruction.

Ψευδοδιδάσκαλοι, Falſe Teachers.] Concerning the Perſons chiefly concern'd in this Chapter, and in the parallel Epiſtle of St. Jude, I find three Opinions.

1. That of Dr. Lightfoot, who thinks theſe Chapters ſpeak chiefly of the Jews, i. e. of the Falſe Teachers of that Nation. The Second is,

2. That of the Ancients, who ſay expreſly, ἀρχὴν ἐνταῦθα ἔχει τῶν Νικολαϊτῶν αἱρέσεως, he begins to ſpeak of the Hereſie of the Nicolaitans. So Oecumenius. The third is,

3. That of the Reverend and Learned Dr. Hammond, and of the Ancients alſo, That the Apoſtles ſpeak theſe things touching the Gnoſticks. And this Opinion ſeems not much to differ from the Second: For the Ancient Fathers ſay, (a) The Gnoſticks ſprang from the Nicolaitans, and borrowed from them all their Filthineſs and Laſciviouſneſs. Moreover, the Apoſtle Peter ſpeaketh plainly of Falſe Teachers which were to be hereafter, for Ver. 1, 2, 3. he ſpeaks ſtill in the Future Tenſe, though both St. Jude in his Epiſtle, and St. Peter in the following Words, do plainly intimate that ſome of them were come already; ſo that in the Expoſition of this Chapter, and the Epiſtle to St. Jude, we have Reaſon to take in thoſe Heretricks who appeared after the writing theſe Epiſtles.

Nevertheleſs, becauſe the Falſe Apoſtles, and Falſe Teachers of the Jewiſh Nation, and the Nicolaitans were certainly then come, and we have expreſs and frequent Mention of them in the Epiſtles of St. Paul, and in the Revelation of St. John, and becauſe St. Peter ſpeaks of them in the Plural Number; therefore I ſhall apply the Words to all of them, giving the Preference to them in the Expoſition of theſe Words, who are expreſly mentioned in the Holy Scriptures.

Ἐν ὑμῖν ἔσονται ψευδοδιδάσκαλοι, there ſhall be falſe Teachers among you.] The Apoſtle writing to the Jews ſeems by theſe Words to intimate that theſe Falſe Teachers ſhould be among the Jewiſh Converts eſpecially, as being either Jews by Birth, or Proſelytes to that Religion, as was Nicolaus of Antioch, Acts 6. 5. but then their entring in among the Jewiſh Converts, Jud. 4. and being among them in their Feaſts of Charity, Ver. 12. their leaving the right way, 2 Pet. 2. 15. and their returning with the Dog to the Vomit, make it probable that they once profeſs'd the Chriſtian Faith, though after they revolted from it, or introduced ſuch Doctrines of Perdition, as fundamentally deſtroy'd the Faith which they profeſs'd.

Αἱρέσεις ἀπωλείας, damnable Hereſies.] Such as tended to the preſent Deſtruction, and future Damnation of them who taught, and who believ'd them. Thus the Doctrine of the Falſe Apoſtles among the Jews tended to the perverting of Souls, Acts 15. 24. To make Chriſt die in vain, Gal. 2. 21. And their Faith to profit them nothing, Gal. 5. 2. And Chriſt become of none Effect unto them, they being by them fallen from Grace, Ver. 5. and become Enemies to the Croſs of Chriſt, Phil. 3. 18.

The Hereſie of the Nicolaitans is ſtiled by (b) Epiphanius, an Hereſie which did ἑαυτὸν καὶ τοὺς πειθομένους ἀπολλύειν, deſtroy them that taught, and them that believed it. Yea, Chriſt himſelf declares his hatred of it, Rev. 2. 15. And the ſame all the Fathers ſay of the Gnoſtick Hereſie.

Τὸν ἀγορασάντα αὐτοὺς δεσπότην ἀρνούμενοι, denying the Lord that bought them.] Chriſt being never ſtiled δεσπότης in the New Teſtament; and St. Jude diſtinguiſhing this δεσπότης, or Maſter, from our Lord, it ſeems moſt reaſonable to interpret this of God the Father, who is ſaid to have bought the Jews, Is he not thy Father who hath bought thee? Deut. 32. 5. And the Chriſtians, Ye are bought with a Price, therefore glorifie God with your Souls and Bodies, which are his, 1 Cor. 6. 20. Hence alſo it is truly obſerved by Eſthius, That Chriſt died for them that periſh, and bring Deſtruction upon themſelves.

Ταχινὴν ἀπώλειαν, ſhall bring upon themſelves ſwift Deſtruction.] That the Apoſtatizing Jews did this, the Scripture every where informs us, and the Apoſtles frequently warn them of it. St. Paul doth it throughout the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, elſewhere ſpeaking of them as Men whoſe End is Deſtruction, Phil. 3. 19. On whom ſhould come ſwift Deſtruction, 1 Theſ. 5. 3. As being appointed for Wrath, Ver. 9. St. James, as of Men fatned for a Day of Slaughter, Chap. 5. 5. and that ſuddenly to come upon them, their Judge ſtanding at the Door, Ver. 9. Chriſt alſo threatens to them that held the Doctrine of the Nicolaitans that he would come againſt them ſwiftly, and fight againſt them with the Sword of his Mouth, Rev. 2. 16. That is, he would deſtroy them, Rev. 19. 15, 21. Accordingly Church Hiſtory informs us that they were extinct (c) λίαν ὀλίγῳ, in a very little time.

But I find nothing of any ſuch remarkable or ſwift Deſtruction which befel the Gnoſticks, in Church-Hiſtory; not one Word that any of them periſh'd at the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by the Roman Army, though doubtleſs their Iniquities would find them out. We rather read in the Church-Hiſtory, that they were never perſecuted by the Heathen Emperors; this being the Obſervation of the Fathers, that the (d) Simonians and the Menandrians were never perſecuted by the Heathens, their Fury being only poured out upon the Chriſtians. Nor could it probably be otherwiſe, ſeeing they made the Doctrine of the Croſs no part of their Religion; but (e) held it lawful in Times of Perſecution to deny the Faith, to avoid ſuffering for it, and counting Idolatry in ſuch Caſes a thing indifferent. Whence, ſaith Origen, they were never perſecuted at all.

Ver. 2. And many ſhall follow their pernicious ways, by reaſon of whom the way of Truth ſhall be evil ſpoken of.

Καὶ πολλοὶ, &c. many ſhall follow.] The Judaizers much infeſted the Chriſtian Church, and perverted many in the Church of Corinth, Galatia, Epheſus and Crete, we learn from St. Paul's Epiſtles; and that by Reaſon of the Jewiſh Zealots, who deſpiſed Dominions, and ſpake evil of Dignities, the way of Truth was evil ſpoken of, from 1 Pet. 2. 12. Indeed the Heathens ſeem to have made little or no Diſtinction betwixt the Jews and the Chriſtians that ſprang from them; but imputed all the Diſturbances they made to Chriſt, or to the Chriſtians. Hence Suetonius ſaith of Claudius, That (f) Judæos impulſore Chreſto aſſidue tumultuantes Roma expulit. He expel'd the Jews from Rome, as being frequently tumultuous through the Inſtigation of Chriſt. Of the Nicolaitans Epiphanius ſaith, That (g) Great was the Deceit which they brought upon Mankind. And (h) Clemens Alexandrinus profeſſeth to write againſt them, and the Gnoſticks, to remove the Scandal which they by their Doctrines might bring upon Chriſtianity: As Juſtin Martyr alſo hints. Yea, (i) Clemens adds, That from theſe Men who taught that Women ſhould be common, aroſe the greateſt Blaſphemy againſt the Name of Chriſt or Chriſtians.

Moreover, it is to be noted, that inſtead of ἀπωλείαις, many Copies read, ἀσελγείαις, their Laſcivious Ways; which reading may be confirmed from St. Jude, who begins his Deſcription of the ſame Perſons thus, They turn the Grace of God, εἰς ἀσέλγειαν, into Laſciviouſneſs, And the Character agrees in ſome meaſure to the Falſe Teachers among the Jews, who taught Fornication and Uncleanneſs. See Note on 1 Cor. 6. 13. Eph. 5. 6. Practiſed τὰ κρύπτα τῆς αἰσχύνης, the hidden things of Shame, 2 Cor. 4. 2. And gloried in their Shame, Phil. 3. 19. And whoſe Exhortation was ἐξ ἀκαθαρσίας, from Uncleanneſs, 1 Theſ. 2. 3. And many of whoſe Followers were guilty of Uncleanneſs, Fornication, ᾗ ἀσελγείᾳ and Laſciviouſneſs, 2 Cor. 12. 21. But this is more emphatically the Character of the Nicolaitans, and of the Gnoſticks, the Succeſſors of them, for they were, ſaith Oecumenius, ἀεὶ μὲν δόγματος ἀσεβίσαντες, ἀεὶ δὲ βίου ἀσελγήσαντες, moſt ungodly in their Principles, and moſt laſcivious in their Lives. Refert con-

Ver. 3. And through Covetouſneſs ſhall they with feigned words make merchandice of you, whoſe Judgment now of a long time lingreth not, and their Damnation ſlumbreth not.

See Note on Ver. 1. of this Chapter. Note alſo, that their Damnation is in the Greek their Deſtruction.

Καὶ πλεονεξίᾳ, through Covetouſneſs.] If πλεονεξία ſhould here and ver. 14. ſignifie Adultery, as 1 Theſſ. 4. 6. it ſeems to do, ſee Note there, and as Dr. Hammond thinks it doth here, there will be no difficulty in applying this to the Nicolaitans, as well as to the Gnoſticks, and falſe Teachers among the Jews, the Note on the 2d Verſe ſhewing that this emphatically belonged to them, and gave the title to that impure Sect. But becauſe they are accuſed, ver. 15. of following the way of Balaam who loved the wages of Unrighteouſneſs, and by St. Jude, ver. 11. of running greedily after the error of Balaam for reward, I think it better to admit of that Senſe which our Tranſlation giveth of the Word. And then to apply it at once to the falſe Teachers among the Jews, and to the Nicolaitans, it ſeems highly probable from the 6th, the 8th, and the 10th Chapters of the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, that the Apoſtle is there diſcourſing againſt the Nicolaitans. Now of theſe falſe Teachers he ſaith that they devoured the Corinthians, 2 Cor. 11. 20. St. Paul, in his 2d Epiſtle to Timothy, chap. 3. 6. ſpeaks of a ſort of Men who crept into houſes, leading captive ſilly Women, laden with Sins, and led away with divers Luſts; a Character which perfectly agrees to the Nicolaitans: And ſpeaking to Titus of the ſame Perſons, he ſaith, Chap. 1. 10, 11. they ſubverted whole houſes, teaching things which they ought not for filthy lucre ſake. Irenæus informs us of the (p) Valentinians, that they would not impart their Myſteries to all, but to them only who were able to pay great Sums for them. Whence the Pſeud (q) Ignatius ſtiles them, Covetous of what belongs to others, and violent Lovers of Riches.

Ver. 4. For if God ſpared not the Angels that ſinn'd, but caſt them down to Hell, and delivered them to chains of darkneſs to be reſerved unto Judgment.

Ταρταρώσας, caſting them down to Hell.] Tartarus, ſaith Phavorinus, is ἀὴρ ὑπόγαιος καὶ ἀνήλιος the ſubterreſtrial Air, where the Sun comes not. It ſignifies alſo, ſaith Suidas, τὸν ἀφανῆ καὶ ζόφον τόπον the place in the Clouds, or in the Air: hence τάρταρον ἠερόεντα and ζόφον ἠερόεντα in Homer, to intimate that Tartarus was the dark Air, as Crates in Stephanus ſaith. Theſe Angels being therefore before placed in the bright Regions of the heavenly Light, and being now confined to the dark Air, (whence Satan is called the Prince of the Power of the Air) are ſaid to be caſt down into Tartarus. And this ſuits with the Opinion both of the Heathens and the Jews, who held that the Air was full of Spirits or Dæmons, [ſee Note on Epheſ. 2. 2.] but chiefly of the Ancient Fathers, according to thoſe words of Jerom in his Comment on that Paſſage of St. Paul againſt ſpiritual Wickedneſſes ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις in cœleſtibus, that is, ſaith he, in the Air; (r) *For this is the Opinion of all the Doctors, that the Air, which divides between the Earth and Heaven, is full of contrary Powers. the Opinion of moſt of the Ancients, ſee Petavius De Angelis, l. 3. c. 4. Now hence it follows, that though the Devil and his Angels are at preſent for ever baniſh'd from the Divine Preſence, and ſo do ſuffer the Puniſhment of loſs of the beatifick Viſion now; though they are in the Language of Tertullian Prædamnati ad Judicii diem, condemn'd before hand to the tremendous day; Prædeſtinati ſupplicio ſempiterno, fore-ordain'd to eternal Puniſhment, ſaith St. Auſtin; reſervati in diem judicii, reſerv'd to the day of Judgment, ſay Origen and St. Peter here; or kept in chains of darkneſs to that day, ſaith St. Jude; and knowing and believing this, they cannot chuſe but tremble, and be fill'd with preſent Horror; yet is the Doctrine of Rupertus highly probable, That at preſent they are not ſuffering in the infernal Flames, but have their (t) Reſidence at preſent in the dark Air, whence at the day of Judgment they ſhall be precipitated into the Fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels.

1ſt. Becauſe this ſeems to have been the Opinion of all Antiquity for five whole Centuries together, as appears not only from their common Doctrine mention'd before, that they at preſent had their Habitation in the Air, but alſo from their expreſs words who ſpeak ſtill in the future of their infernal Puniſhments, ſaying, as (u) Juſtin Mart. that they ſhall be puniſh'd with eternal Fire, and that the Preſſures they now ſuffer from the Name of Jeſus is an Indication of their future Puniſhment in everlaſting Fire. This he confeſſeth μηΝπω τῦτο σεσῶξαι τὸν Θεὸν that God hath not yet done, but yet he ſaith, (w) Chriſt hath foretold that he and his Angels ſhall be caſt into the fire, and everlaſtingly tormented there. And (x) Tatianus ſaith of them, The Lord of all things ſuffers them to expatiate, inſult till the time of the Diſſolution of the World, and till the Judge comes. (y) Tertullian ſaith, that their deſperate Condition on the account of their being condemn'd before receives ſome comfort from the delay of their puniſhment. (z) Minucius Felix ſaith, that He foreknowing, trembles at the puniſhment appointed for him and thoſe that worſhip him. (a) Lactantius, that at the time of Judgment this Prince, with his Miniſters, will be laid hold on, and condemn'd to puniſhment.

3dly. This muſt be the Doctrine of thoſe Fathers who held that the Devil knew not that he ſhould be certainly condemned till our Lord's Advent, and therefore durſt not beſore Blaſpheme God; which was the Doctrine of (b) Juſtin Martyr, (c) Irenæus, (b) Euſebius and (d) Epiphanius; or, as (e) OEcumenius interprets him, He did not know it manifeſtly as being only obſcurely hinted by the Prophets but when Chriſt coming declared manifeſtly that everlaſting Fire was prepared for him and his Angels, he ceaſed not to practiſe his Wiles againſt the Saints. And this Doctrine they founded on theſe following Scriptures viz.

1. That Queſtion which theſe Devils put to Chriſt, Art thou come to torment us before the time? Concluding hence, that not the preſent Age, but the future, was the time when theſe evil Spirits were to be puniſh'd, as (f) Origen ſaith twice. They thought ſaith St. Jerom, ad judicandos ſe veniſſe, that Chriſt was come to judge them: ſaith Chryſoſtom, ὐκ ἀναμένου ὁ καιρὸς τ. κολάσεως, that he would not ſtay till the time of Puniſhment, i. e. the day of Judgment. Hence Maldonate, upon the place, admires at the great Conſent of the Ancients in this Opinion.

2. This

2. This, 2dly, they gathered from thoſe words of Chriſt, Depart ye wicked into the fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels. Whence they concluded with (h) S. Bernard, that the Sentence againſt them was determined, but was not yet paſt upon them, and that Non Diabolo ignis paratus, etſi nondum ille præcipitatus in ignem, The Fire was indeed prepared for the Devil, but he was not yet caſt into it; concluding, that was only to be done (i) at the end of the World, or at the day of the Great Judgment, or in the World to come.

But, 3dly, This they chiefly concluded from theſe words of (k) St. Peter and St. Jude, that they were reſerved unto the day of Judgment to be puniſhed. Nor is it eaſie to conceive a more natural Conſequence than this, They are reſerved unto the day of Judgment to be puniſh'd, therefore they are not puniſh'd yet with the Fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels.

And laſtly, This they gathered from the Revelations of St. John, who often ſaith, that (l) the old Serpent the Devil ſhall be caſt into the lake of fire and brimſtone at the day of judgment: to which theſe Sayings of St. Auſtin do refer.

Since then to torment the Devils at our Saviour's Advent, was to torment them before the time of Torment; ſeeing our Saviour when he ſhall paſs the final Sentence will only command the wicked to the Fire prepared for, not actually tormenting then, the Devil and his Angels, ſeeing they only are reſerved in Chains of darkneſs to the day of Judgment to be puniſh'd, and ſo the Sentence and the Execution of it is no more paſs'd upon them than upon the Priſoner that's kept in Chains for the Aſſizes; ſeeing the Devil is only ſaid to be then caſt into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone, when the Judge ſat upon the Throne, and all Men were judg'd according to their Works (m); there ſeems ſufficient Reaſon to aſſert, that even the Devils, and then much leſs wicked Perſons, ſhall not be tormented in the infernal Flames until the day of Judgment.

Ver. 5. And ſpared not the old world, but ſaved only Noah the eighth Perſon, a Preacher of Righteouſneſs, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly.

Οὐκ ἐφείσατο, and ſpared not the old world.] This inſtance agrees very exactly to thoſe Nicolaitans and Gnoſticks who had corrupted their ways, as they of the old World did, by taking to them what Women they pleaſed to enjoy, as far as appears, without any ſolemnity of Matrimony, Gen. 6. 2, 4. for it is only ſaid, that the Sons of God went in unto the Daughters of men; hence are theſe Giants ſaid to be οἱ ἐκπεπτωκότες, οἱ βίαιοι, violent men who by force invaded them. And alſo by Idolatry. See Ainſworth on Gen. 4. 26.

Ὄγδοον, the eighth perſon.] One would think from Adam, whereas indeed he rather was the tenth from Adam, Gen. 5. and ſo it is the eighth of them that were ſaved from the Deluge, 1 Pet. 3. 8. So Plutarch ſaith of Pelopidas, that he came εἰς οἰκίαν δωδέκατος, unto his houſe with eleven more, and Polybius of Dioneſidorus, that τρίτος ἐπανήξατο, he ſwam out with two more, ſo here Noah was ſaved with ſeven Perſons; ſo celebrated in Hiſtory, the Hill where the Ark reſted is called the Hill of the eighth or Themanim; and a Village by it bears the ſame Name. See Dr. Hammond on the place.

Ver. 6. And turning the Cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into Aſhes, condemn'd them with an overthrow, making them an example to them that afterwards ſhould live ungodly. (See Note on Jude 7.)

Ver. 7. And delivered juſt Lot vexed with the filthy converſation of the wicked.

Ver. 8. For that righteous man dwelling among them, in ſeeing and hearing (of them) vexed his Righteous ſoul from day to day with their unlawful deeds.

Note here, that true Piety renders the Sin of others not only offenſive to the Soul, but even to the Eyes and Ears of juſt perſons; according to that Expreſſion of the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 119. 158. I beheld the tranſgreſſors, and was grieved becauſe they kept not thy word.

Ver. 9. (Then may we reſt aſſured that) the Lord knoweth how to deliver the Godly out of Temptations (as he did Noah, and Lot,) and to reſerve the unjuſt unto the day of judgment to be puniſhed.

Οἶδε, The Lord Knoweth.] God's Knowledge here includes his Power and his Will. So Pſalm 1. Whatſoever the Righteous doth it ſhall proſper, for the Lord knoweth the way

Καὶ κυριότητος καταφρονοῦντας, and deſpiſe Governments.] The Note of Eſthius on the place is this, that we read not in Church-Hiſtory that the Gnoſticks deſpiſed Governments, but rather flatter'd them. What Dr. Hammond ſaith of their teaching Chriſtians to deſpiſe all Authority of Magiſtrates, or Maſters, is not proved by him; for he attempts not to prove that they were κυριότητος καταφρονητὰς Deſpiſers of Government; and his Attempt to prove that they taught Chriſtian Servants to deſpiſe their Maſters, from 1 Tim. 6. 2. hath been conſidered already. Nor do I find any thing of this Nature charg'd upon the Nicolaitans. But then it may be noted, that κυριότητες ἐν ὕψει Dominions and Glories, in the New Teſtament, doth often ſignifie the Angelical Powers; as, when Chriſt is ſaid to be exalted ὑπεράνω πάσης κυριότητος above all Dominion, Epheſ. 1. 21. and when κυριότητες are mention'd among the inviſible things of the Creation, Coloſſ. 1. 16. Accordingly ſome of the Fathers refer this to the (n) Angelical Powers; and this they do with great probability: for, 1. The Apoſtle Peter here aſſerts, that they blaſphem'd ἐν οἷς ἀγνοοῦσιν in things of which they had no knowledge: St. Jude, that they blaſphemed things that they knew not: which very well agrees with their bold Aſſertions touching the Angels, in which they did, as St. Paul ſaith, ἃ οὐχ ἑώρακεν ἐμβατεύων intrude into thoſe things they had not ſeen, Coloſſ. 2. 18. but cannot be ſo well applied to Civil Dignities, of which theſe Hereticks muſt have ſufficient Knowledge. 2. The Apoſtle adds, that whereas theſe Men did not tremble to blaſpheme theſe Dignities, the holy Angels ἐπὶ φέρουσι κατ' αὐτῶν βλάσφημον κρίσιν dare not uſe railing or blaſphemous words againſt them. Now they whom Michael and his good Angels durſt not blaſpheme, were, ſaith St. Jude, the Devil and his Angels, who are in Scripture ſtiled the Principalities, and Powers, and Rulers of the darkneſs of this World, Eph. 6. 12. And therefore they whom theſe Hereticks blaſphem'd muſt alſo be Angelick Dignities.

But againſt this it is objected, that we read not in Church-Hiſtory that the Hereſie of the Gnoſticks had any thing in it of particular opposition or defiance to the Angels, but on the contrary, the Æones noting the Angels make up a great part of their Dignity.

Anſ. This ſeems a great Miſtake; for both (o) St. Irenæus and (p) Epiphanius averr, that when they practis'd their moſt vile Impurities, they invok'd ſome of the Angels, to whom they did aſcribe that work, ſaying when they perform'd it, ὁ δεῖνα Ἄγγελε, παρέχω καὶ σὸν τὸ ἔργον· ὁ δεῖνα δέσποτα, σχολάζω σοι πρὸς τὴν λειτουργίαν O Angel, I am doing of thy Work, I am employed in thy Service; which ſure muſt be to blaſpheme theſe Dignities.

Moreover, it is evident that the Nicolaitans did alſo horribly blaſpheme them. For, 1ſt. They made the Angels to be the Off-ſpring of an (q) obſcene and filthy Aon, as both Tertullian and (r) Epiphanius inform us. 2dly, They add, that this (ſ) Mother appears in a beautiful form to Princes, and extracts their Seed from them with Pleaſure, that ſhe may recollect her Power or Vertue diſpers'd among many: And from this Hypotheſis, ſaith (t) Epiphanius, Nicholaus brought the myſtery of his Filthineſs into the World. They doing all their Villanies, I ſuppoſe, in imitation of her.

Ver. 11. Whereas Angels, which are greater in power and might (than evil Spirits,) bring not railing accuſations againſt them before the Lord. (See Note on Jude 9.)

of the things they underſtand not, (i. e. of the Angelical Powers whom they Blaſpheme, Ver. 10.) and ſhall utterly periſh in their Corruption.

This Verſe in St. Jude runs thus, But theſe ſpeak evil of the things they know not, but what they know naturally as brute Beaſts, in thoſe things they corrupt themſelves, Ver. 10. and therefore to make this Verſe parallel to it, it ſeems neceſſary to make the conſtruction run thus, ἐτοι δ, but theſe Blaſphemers of Dignities, ἐν οἷς ἀγνοῦσι βλασφημοῦντες, Blaſphemeing in Things of which they have no Knowledge, they ſhall periſh in their own Corruption; as do the natural brute Beaſts, made to be taken and deſtroyed; to whom they are, in this Practice of making (u) all Women common, like: and whoſe Example they plead in favour of their (x) common Whoredoms: Eſpecially the Followers of Carpocrates, and his Son Epiphanes. Making (y) the Marriage of one a Violation of the Community ordained by God, and exemplified in other living Creatures.

Ver. 12. And ſhall receive (Gr. receiving) (for this Deſtruction, Ver. 12.) the Reward of Unrighteouſneſs, as they that count it Pleaſure to riot in the day time: Spots they are and Blemiſhes, ſporting themſelves in their own Deceits, whilſt they feaſt with you.

Συνευωχούμενοι, when they feaſt with you.] Of theſe Feaſts ſee Note on Jude 12. And alſo Irenæus's Saying of Marcus and other Hereticks, That οὐδαμοῦ δεῖ τοῖς δείπνοις τῶν κλήρων ἔτοι παίζειν, they are always accuſtomed in thoſe Suppers which they make by Lot to play; or as the Latin hath it, Sortibus ludere, to play by Lot; I ſuppoſe what Woman they ſhould commit Lewdneſs with, or who ſhould provide the Supper; which being ended, there follow'd, as (b) Juſtin Martyr hints, the putting out of the Candle, and their promiſcuous Luſts, ſpeaking of the Marcionites; and (c) Clemens Alexandrinus of the Carpocratians.

Ver. 14. Having Eyes full of Adultery, that cannot ceaſe from Sin; beguiling unſtable Souls: an Heart they have exerciſed with covetous Practices; curſed Children:

Covetous Practices. See Note on Ver. 3.

Ver. 15. Which have forſaken the right Way, and are gone aſtray, following the Way of Balaam the Son of Boſor, who loved the Wages of Unrighteouſneſs: (and to obtain them counſelled Balak to entice God's People to commit Fornication with the Midianites, Numb. 31. 16. This in St. Jude runs thus, τῇ πλάνῃ τῦ Βαλαὰμ μισθῦ ἐξεχύθησαν, they ran forth into the Error of the Reward of Balaam, i. e. the Error which the Children of Iſrael committed through the Counſel which Balaam gave to Balak. To explain this, let it be noted;

2*dly*, That Balaam for this Reward, gave Counſel to Balak to entice the People of Iſrael to Idolatry and Fornication; this is hinted in thoſe Words, Come therefore I will adviſe thee, Numb. 24. 14. i. e. what to do to this People now, and what they will do to thee in the latter Days, So the Chaldee Paraphraſt upon this Place. I will counſel thee what thou ſhalt do to this People, that thou mayeſt make them to ſin; So the Jeruſalem Targum. This Counſel, ſaith Joſephus, was that Balaam told Balak upon his departure, that the only way to prevail upon this People would be to draw them into Sin; *and to that purpoſe he counſel'd him to tempt them with their Beautiful Women. 3*dly*, That this Counſel made them err in the Matter of Peor; and ſo not only to commit Fornication with the Women of Midian, 1 Cor. 10. 8. but alſo to commit Idolatry. Now this Baal Peor, ſaith St. Jerom and other Criticks, was Priapus, who was worſhiped by ſhewing of their Shame; to which thoſe Words of the Prophet Hoſea may refer, They ſet up Altars to Baal Phegor, and ſeparated themſelves to that Shame, Chap. 9. 10. And thoſe of Jeremiah, You have ſet up Altars to Shame, even Altars to burn Incenſe to Baal, Jer. 11. 13. And then as the ἐξεχύθησαν, They were diſperſed, or ran about after the Midianitiſh Women, anſwers to the Practice, of thoſe Men who crept into Houſes, leading captive ſilly Women; ſo the Matter of Baal Peor anſwers exactly to the execrable Villanies theſe Men committed cum Membris Pudoris.

Moreover, This Paſſage ſeems to confirm that Expoſition which refers what is here ſpoken, to the Nicolaitans. For St. John ſpeaks thus to the Church of Pergamus, I have a few things againſt thee, becauſe thou haſt there them that hold the Doctrine of Balaam, who (as he) taught Balak to caſt a Stumbling-block before the Children of Iſrael, to eat things ſacrificed to Idols, and to commit Fornication; ſo haſt thou alſo them that hold the Doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which I hate. Now the Church-Hiſtory informs us, this was the Doctrine of the Nicolaitans, that it was lawful to eat things offered to Idols, and to commit Fornication, as (d) Irenæus, St. Auſtin, and others teach.

Ver. 16. But was rebuked for his Iniquity: (for) the dumb Aſs ſpeaking with Man's Voice, forbad the Madneſs of the Prophet.

The Prophet.] That Balaam was indeed a Prophet of God, and well acquainted with his Revelations, the Hiſtory in the Book of Numbers will not ſuffer us to doubt; for thoſe Words, I cannot go beyond the Commandment of my God, to do Good or Evil, Numb. 22. 18. ſhew he was not unacquainted with the true God. See alſo Chap. 24. 4. Though after, through a covetous Deſire of Gain, he uſed Enchantments, the Madneſs of the Prophet appeared in this, that hearing the Aſs ſpeak, which argued the miraculous Aſſiſtance of God Enabling him ſo to do, he goes on in his mad Fury, and ſaith he would kill him.

Ver. 17. Theſe are Wells (Gr. Fountains) without Water, Clouds that are carried by a Tempeſt, (unprofitable for any Good, as Fountains without Water; and pernicious as Tempeſts, which blaſt and root up all before them) to whom the Miſt (Gr. the Blackneſs) of Darkneſs is reſerved for ever.

Ver. 18. For when they ſpeak great ſwelling Words of Vanity, they allure through the Luſts of the Fleſh, through much Wantonneſs, (or to Laſciviouſneſs) thoſe who were clean eſcaped from them that live in Error.

Ἐλεύθερίαν,

Ἐλευθερίαν, they promiſe them Liberty.] They promiſed them a double Liberty, (1ſt.) (k) A Liberty to do any thing they pleaſed without fear. (2dly.) A Liberty from the Eye and Hand of their Judge; as we learn from the ὑπέρογκα, ſwelling Words of Vanity, cited by Irenæus from them which are a full Comment on Ver. 18.

Ver. 20. For if after they have eſcaped the Pollutions of the World, through the Knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, they are again entangled therein, and overcome; the latter end is worſe with them than the beginning.

Ver. 21. For it had been better for them not to have known the way of Righteouſneſs, than after they have known it to turn from the holy Commandment delivered unto them. (Becauſe they ſin by Apoſtacy, againſt the Light received, and with Ingratitude to the Author of it.)

From Ver. 18, 20, 21. it ſeemeth to be ſtrongly argued, That they who were once truly Faithful, may totally and finally fall away. For, 1*ſt.* That the Perſons here mentioned were once truly Faithful, ſeems evident from this, 1. That they had once ὄντως, truly and entirely eſcaped from them that live in Error, Ver. 18. Being not then entangled with, not overcome by the Pollutions which are in the World, through Luſt; but having eſcaped them through the Knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus: That they turned from the holy Commandment in which they formerly had walked; That they were once waſh'd from that Mire to which they returned, Ver. 22. All which cannot be truly ſaid of Hypocritical Profeſſors, who were ſtill in the Gall of Bitterneſs, and the Bond of Iniquity.

That theſe Men after fell away totally and finally, we learn from theſe Expreſſions, That they were again allured to Wantonneſs, That they were again entangled, and overcome by the Pollutions which were in the World through Luſt, and therefore brought in Bondage; that they turned from the holy Command delivered to them; yea, with the Dog to the Vomit, and the waſh'd Sow to the wallowing in the Mire: and ſo far, as that it had been better for them not to have known the way of Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 22. But it hath happened to them according to the true Proverb, the Dog is turned to his own Vomit again, and the Sow that was waſh'd to her wallowing in the Mire.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. THIS Second Epiſtle, beloved I now write unto you; in (both) which I ſtir up your pure Minds by way of remembrance.

Τὴν εἰλικρινῆ διάνοιαν ὑμῶν, your ſincere Minds.] A ſincere deſire to know, and regard to the Truth, being once ſeated in the Mind and Heart, we ſhall readily embrace, and firmly retain the Truth delivered to us.

Ver. 2. That ye may be mindful of the Words which were before ſpoken by the holy Prophets, (of the Old Teſtament, Enoch, Jude 14. and Daniel, Chap. 12. 2. touching the Judgment of ungodly Men) and of the Commandment of us the Apoſtles of our Lord and Saviour, (or of the Commandment of the Apoſtles of our Lord and Saviour, as St. Jude, Ver. 17. that is, to expect patiently, and with unſhaken Faith that day, Heb. 10. 23, 35. 39. Jam. 1. 6. 5. 7, 11. 1 Pet. 1. 13. 4. 1.)

That theſe Words ſhould relate to that notable Deſtruction of the unbelieving Jews, ſeems not very probable; ſince the Believers are inſtructed to be mindful of theſe Commands, that they might be armed againſt the Scoffers mentioned Ver. 3. who ſaid, Where is the Promiſe of his Coming? Now that the thing Queſtioned by them, was not our Lord's coming to the Deſtruction of the Jews, but the Judgment of the World, is evident, it being ſtiled emphatically, ἡμέρα κρίσεως, the Day of Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men, Ver. 7, 10, 11, 12.

Ver. 3. Knowing this firſt, that (according to their Predictions) there ſhall come in the laſt Days Scoffers, walking after their own Luſts.

Since both St. Peter, and, as St. Jude tells us, the reſt of the Apoſtles were ſo careful to mind thoſe to whom they writ or Preached, of theſe Scoffers, we may conjecture that theſe Scoffers were then come; though in reſpect of the Prophecies concerning them, they were yet to come, whence Jude ſaith of them, theſe are they that ſeparate themſelves, &c. Ver. 8, 9.

Ἐμπαῖκται, Scoffers.] St. Jude ſeems to teach us that theſe Scoffers were the *Heretick*s mentioned in the former Chapter, viz. the

Simonians,

Simonians, who being Samaritans, held ſtill their old Hereſie, That (a) there ſhould be no Reſurrection of the Fleſh; and therefore walked after their own Luſts. For theſe of whom I have treated and am ſpeaking, are they of whom the Apoſtles did forewarn you, Ver. 17, 18.

Ver. 4. And ſaying, Where is the Promiſe of his coming (to judge the World, and raiſe his faithful Servants from the Dead)? for ſince the Fathers, (to whom theſe Promiſes were made) fell aſleep, all things continue as (they were) from the beginning of the Creation.

Ἀφ' ἧς, viz. ἡμέρας.] For from the Day that the Fathers, to whom this Promiſe of a Reſurrection and an Heavenly Country, Heb. 11. 16. is ſuppoſed to be made, and who foretold this Judgment to come upon the Wicked, Jude 14. have ſlept, we ſee no ſuch thing made good to them; nothing anſwering their Predictions, but all things continue as they were. That ἀφ' ἧς ſhould ſignifie except that, I find no Inſtance or Example.

Ver. 5. For this they willingly are ignorant of, (Gr. they that are of this Mind are ignorant) that by the Word of God the Heavens were of old, and the Earth ſtanding out of the Water, (viz. the dry Land) and in the Water, (viz. that part of it which is covered with the Sea.)

Ver. 6. Whereby the World that then was, being overflowed with Water, periſhed.

Λανθάνει γὰρ αὐτούς.] That is, They conſider not God's Power in making the World, which muſt enable him alſo to deſtroy it, if he pleaſe; and that by his Word the Earth was ſeparated from the Waters which covered it, and gathered into its Channels, ſo that the dry Land, which we call Earth, appeared; and that by theſe very Waters, deſcending partly from the Heavens, and partly from the great Deep, Gen. 7. 11. the Earth was again overwhelmed for the Sin of the Antediluvians, (Eight Perſons only being preſerved,) and ſo thoſe wicked Men which then lived, periſhed in their Wickedneſs; and ſo the Prophecy of Enoch was remarkably fulfill'd upon them.

Ver. 7. But the Heavens and Earth which now are, by the ſame Word are kept in ſtore, (being) reſerved unto Fire, againſt the Day of Judgment, and Perdition of Ungodly Men, (who, as the Antediluvians have been puniſhed by Water deſtroying the World then, ſhall be puniſhed by Fire deſtroying it again.)

Εἰς ἡμέραν κρίσεως.] From theſe Words it ſeems to follow (1*ſt.*) That the Day of Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men, and the Conflagration of the World muſt be contemporary; and that therefore new Heavens and new Earth, in the literal Senſe, muſt vainly be expected before that final Judgment of ungodly Men. (2*dly*,) That the Ungodly are not to be judged, or puniſhed by Fire, before the Conflagration of the World: for the Heaven and Earth that now are, are to be burnt up with that very Fire by which the Ungodly are to be deſtroy'd, they being left in the midſt of thoſe Flames, whilſt the Godly being ſnatch'd up into the Air above the reach of them, ſhall be for ever with the Lord, 1 Theſ. 4. 16. For the Wicked are reſerved unto the Day of Judgment to be puniſh'd, 2 Pet. 2. 9. That Fire in which they are to be tormented and deſtroyed, is reſerved to the ſame Day, Matth. 25. 41, 46. The fallen Angels, for whom the Fire is prepared, in which the Wicked ſhall be puniſhed, are reſerved to that Day, 2 Pet. 2. 4. Jude 6. And Laſtly, Sodom and Gomorrah, who periſh'd by Fire and Brimſtone, are ſet forth ὡς δεῖγμα, as an Example of that Puniſhment the Wicked ſhall ſuffer at that great Day of Retribution, 2 Pet. 2. 5. Jude 7. they are not therefore to be caſt into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone before that Day.

Ver. 8. But, (for farther Anſwer to this Queſtion) beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one Day is with the Lord as a thouſand Years, and a thouſand Years as one Day.

Χίλια ἔτη, a thouſand Years.] That is, tho' God defer his coming to this Judgment a thouſand Years or more, we muſt not think this long, for in reſpect of him whoſe Duration is Eternal, and ſo who ever lives to make good his Promiſes and Threats, a thouſand Years is as one Day. In like manner (b) Zoſimus in his Hiſtory produces a Prediction from the Sybills, or from one Phaellon, and then adds, Let none think that this Prophecy was of ſome other thing, becauſe it was fulfilled, μὴ χρόνῳ ἐκ ὀλίγῳ, a long time after, πᾶς γὰρ χρόνος τῷ Θεῷ βεβαίως ἀεὶ τὸ ὄντι, ᾗ ἐσομένῳ, for all time is ſhort to that God who ever is, and ever will be. Mr. Mede indeed ſaith, that theſe Words cannot be thus interpreted, becauſe the Queſtion is not whether the time in which they expected the coming of the Lord were long in reſpect of God, but only in reſpect of us, and ſo he would have the Words interpreted thus, The Day of Judgment ſpoken of ſhall be a thouſand Years. But (1*ſt.*) The Text ſaith not one day ſhall be a thouſand Years, but is as a thouſand Years; and that again not abſolutely, but only παρὰ Κυρίῳ, with reſpect to God. (2*dly*,) Here is no Queſtion mentioned touching the Length of

Time,

Time, either with respect to God, or us, but only touching the Truth of God's Promise, Ver. 4. And to this the Interpretation well agrees, that God's Promise may be true, and in his Time fulfilled, though he who ever lives to make it good, should defer it a thousand Years. And (3dly,) That this respects God's Promise, and not the length of the Day of Judgment, is evident from the ensuing Words.

Ver. 9. The Lord is not slack concerning his Promise, as some Men count slackness, (concluding thence that he hath changed his Purpose, or will not perform it,) but is (in this) long suffering to us-ward, not (being) willing that any should perish, but that all should come to Repentance.

μὴ βουλόμενός τινας ἀπολέσθαι, not being willing that any should perish.] Note here, that when it is said God would have all Men come to Repentance, 'tis certain that this Will relates to all to whom the Preaching of the Gospel is vouchsafed, to all whom in the Times of Ignorance God winked at, for now he commandeth them all every where to repent, Acts 17. 30. When therefore it is said, he is not willing any one should perish, he must be supposed to mean, he would have none to whom the Gospel is vouchsafed, to perish. Vain therefore here are the Descants of Estbius upon this Place, as V. G.

1*st*, When he says God would have none to perish, because he gives to all some general Means of Conversion to God, though they be not sufficient for that End, without those special Aids he will not give them. For certain it is, that he who wills not the Means necessary to bring them to Repentance, wills not that they should come to Repentance. And he that determines to withhold the Means, which, being with-held, they must perish, wills they should perish.

2*dly*, When he restrains this to the Elect, saying, God is not willing any of them should perish. For the Words are too general to admit of this Restriction, for they run thus. 1*st*. He would have all to come to Repentance; he would not that any should perish. 2*dly*, He is here speaking of the Day of Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men, and gives this Reason why it is deferr'd, viz. because God is long suffering, and would not any Man should perish. He therefore must in reason be supposed to speak of God's Long-suffering in the General.

3*dly*, When he adds, He would not any Man should Perish, because he excites good Men to pray they may repent, and so not perish. For if this Prayer be according to the Will of God, then must it also be his Will they should not perish. If it be not, they cannot thus pray in Faith, or with expectance to be heard; because they know, according to his Doctrine, they do not pray according to his Will: nor can God excite them thus to pray.

Ver. 10. But (though it be thus deferred for a time, yet) the Day of the Lord will come, as a Thief in the Night, (i. e. suddenly and unexpectedly to them, Luke 21. 34. 1 Thes. 5. 2, 3.) in the which the Heavens shall pass away with a great Noise, and the Elements shall melt with fervent Heat, the Earth also, and the Works that are therein shall be burnt up.

Ver. 11. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolv'd, (by Fire design'd to punish the Ungodly) what manner of Persons ought ye to be in all holy Conversation and Godliness;

Ver. 12. Looking for, and hasting to (prepare for) the coming of the Day of God, wherein the Heavens being on Fire shall be dissolved, and the Element shall melt with fervent Heat?

Στοιχεῖα δὲ καυσούμενα, and the Elements being burnt shall be dissolved.] That the Elements cannot be here taken in the common Sense, Mr. Mede proves well, because one of them is that Fire which is to consume these Elements; but that they signifie the Planets he proves from the Testimonies of (c) Justin Martyr, (d) Theophilus of Antioch, of Polycrates, and other Ancient Fathers. So ἐνέργεια στοιχείων, is the Influence of the Stars, Wisd. 7. 18. and στοιχεῖα ἐπουράνια, the Cœlestial Signs or Constellations, as Valesius proves (in his Notes upon these Words of Polycrates, Bishop of Ephesus; (e) Κατὰ τὴν Ἀσίαν μεγάλα στοιχεῖα κεκοίμηνται, in Asia great Lights are extinct,) out of Diogenes Laertius, and Epiphanius, and since the Planetary Bodies are found to be as much Earth as that we tread on, and borrow all their Light from the Irradiations of the Sun, I think there is no need of those Criticisms which turn παρελεύσονται, they shall pass away, into they shall be changed; and καυσούμενα λυθήσονται, they shall be dissolved being burnt, into they shall be refined; whereas if they be refined as Silver is by Fire, they must be dissolved as that is. Nor see I any Reason why we should prefer either an unusual, or Metaphorical, before the proper import of these Words.

Ver. 13.

Ver. 12. Neverthelefs, we expect (καινὸς δὲ οὐρανὸς καὶ γῆν προσδοκῶμεν, we alſo do expect) new Heavens and new Earth, according to his Promiſe, in which dwelleth Righteouſneſs.

Καινὸς οὐρανὸς, new heavens and new Earth.] That this cannot refer to the Millennium ſuppoſed to be promiſed in the Revelations of St. John, appears not only becauſe this Epiſtle was writ before the Revelations, which, ſaith (f) Irenæus, were ſeen ad finem Domitiani Imperii, about the end of the Reign of Domitian; whereas St. Peter ſuffered Martyrdom in the Reign of Nero: but alſo (1*ſt*,) Becauſe the Millennium of St. John is peculiar to the Martyrs, and thoſe who have ſuffered for the Cauſe of Chriſt; the new Heavens and Earth here mentioned, are the common Expectation of all Chriſtians, who upon this Account are admoniſhed to be found of him without ſpot, and unblameable, in Peace, Ver. 14. (2*dly*,) I grant that the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking of the Deſtruction not only of the ſublunary Heavens and Earth, but alſo of the Planetary Heavens, Ver. 12. by Fire: But this Conceſſion is ſo far from doing any Service to the Hypotheſis of the Millennium of St. John, that it doth perfectly deſtroy it; for this Conflagration of the World is Contemporary with the Day of Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men; and by that very Fire which conſumes the World, are they to periſh. See note on Ver. 7. So doth the Scripture conſtantly expreſs the Puniſhment of the Wicked, ſaying, That at the end of the World the Angels ſhall caſt them into a Furnace of Fire, Matth. 13. 28. And that Chriſt ſhall come in flaming Fire to take Vengeance on them, 2 Theſ. 1. 7, 8. Whereas the Millennium of St. John muſt be at an end before that Day, for after he had ſpoken of the firſt Reſurrection, and the Concluſion of the thouſand Years in which they were to reign who were then raiſed, and of the Inſurrection of Gog and Magog againſt them, I ſay after the Concluſion of thoſe Years, doth he introduce one ſitting on a great white Throne, and the Dead both ſmall and great ſtanding before him, and being judg'd out of thoſe things which were written in the Books, according to their Works, Rev. 20. 13, 14.

I alſo grant, that after the Apoſtle had ſpoken of the Conflagration of the World, he hath theſe Words, We alſo do expect new Heavens and new Earth; but then I add, that theſe Words are not to be rendred thus, Neverthelefs, after this violent Diſſolution of the World, we expect new Heavens and new Earth, which are to ſucceed them: But rather as Dr. More renders them, But before this Conflagration we expect them; or rather, But beſides this Conflagration, we expect new Heavens and a new Earth. As if the Apoſtle ſhould have ſaid, I hitherto have anſwered this Queſtion of theſe Scoffers, by ſhewing what ſubſtantial Mutations have been, and will be wrought upon the World by the Word of the Lord, and his coming to judge his People. This alſo I think fit to add in anſwer to them, That we Chriſtians expect the coming of the Lord to make ſuch a moral Change in the Affairs of the Church, as will amount to the new Creation of Heaven and Earth promiſed to the Jews, Iſa. 65. 16, 17, 18. So that theſe Scoffers have no cauſe to doubt of our Lord's coming in behalf of his faithful Servants, ſince he will come to raiſe his Church by the calling the Jewiſh Nation to the Faith, to ſuch a glorious State.

Nor is it to be wonder'd that the Apoſtle ſhould ſpeak of theſe two things together, in anſwer to that Queſtion, Where is the Promiſe of his coming? ſeeing the Jews thought them connected, expecting theſe new Heavens and new Earth at the coming of the Meſſiah and his coming at the end of the World, according to that Queſtion of the Diſciple's to our Lord, When is the time of thy coming, and of the end of the World? Matth. 24. 3. In the end of the World, ſaith R. Saadiah Gaon, there ſhall be to the Jews a World full of Joy and Exultation; ſo that their Heavens and Earth ſhall be as it were new, as it is ſaid Iſa. 65. 17. See this more fully in Mr. Mede, p. 535, 536, 537.

Κατὰ τὸ ἐπάγγελμα αὐτοῦ, according to his Promiſe.] This cannot relate, as I have proved, to St. John's Diſcourſe of theſe new Heavens, &c. for this farther Reaſon, That he ſpeaks of them only as in Viſion, not by way of Promiſe; it remains therefore that the new Heavens and new Earth promiſed by Iſaiah, be the thing here referr'd to. Now theſe new Heavens and new Earth are manifeſtly promiſed to the Jewiſh Nation, to whom alſo the Apoſtle here writes; nor can they poſſibly admit of any other Senſe, or be primarily accompliſh'd upon any other People; for God having ſaid by his Prophet, Behold I create new Heavens and a new Earth, immediately adds, Be ye (Jews) glad and rejoice for ever, in what I do create; for behold I create Jeruſalem a Rejoicing, and her People a Joy; and I will rejoice in Jeruſalem, and joy in my People. Now ſure this new Heaven and Earth promiſed to the Jews, muſt be created before the Conflagration of the World; that is, before the Jews be burnt to Aſhes, they being not like to be converted afterward.

St. John indeed ſpeaks of his new Heaven and Earth, after he had mentioned the Day of Judgment; but that he doth this by a Prolepſis is evident from this Conſideration, that after his whole Diſcourſe of theſe new Heavens and Earth, the new Jeruſalem coming down from Heaven, and of the Bride, and the Lamb's Wife, i.e. the Jews converted then to Chriſt, follow theſe Words, Behold I come quickly, and my Reward is with me, to render to every one according to his Works, Chap. 22. 13. Which Words contain a Repetition of what was ſaid Chap. 20. 13. to ſhew that what was mentioned there was not to be accompliſh'd till after the Appearance of the new Heavens and the new Earth.

Ver. 14. Wherefore, beloved, ſeeing that ye look for ſuch things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without ſpot, and blameleſs.

Ταῦτα προσδοκῶντες, expecting theſe things.] Theſe Words directed to the Jews then living, ſeem to prove, that in ſome inferiour Senſe this Promiſe of the new Heavens, &c. was to be made good in their Times. For why ſhould he exhort them to this Diligence on the Account of what ſhould only happen One thouſand ſeven hundred Years after they were dead? for he plainly ſpeaks to them to whom St. Paul had written, Ver. 16. and therefore to the Jews of that preſent Age.

Ver. 15. And account that the long-ſuffering of our Lord is deſigned for (the) Salvation (of you Jews); even as our beloved Paul, according to the (Spirit of) Wiſdom given unto him, hath written unto you. (In theſe Words, Rom. 2. 4. Deſpiſeſt thou the Riches of his Goodneſs and Long-ſuffering, not knowing that the Goodneſs of God leadeth thee to repentance? And more eſpecially in theſe, And ſo all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, &c. Rom. 11. 26. For God hath concluded them all in unbelief, that he might have Mercy upon all, Ver. 32. See the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Hebrews.)

Ver. 16. As alſo in all his Epiſtles, ſpeaking in them of theſe things: in which are ſome things hard to be underſtood, which they that are unlearned and unſtable wreſt, as they do alſo the other Scriptures, to their own Deſtruction.

Ὡς καὶ ἐν πάσαις ταῖς ἐπιστολαῖς, as alſo in all his Epiſtles.] I do not think it neceſſary ſo to underſtand theſe Words, as if the Apoſtle were ſaid to have ſpoken in all his Epiſtles, That the Long-ſuffering of God was deſigned for their Salvation; for I do not find any thing of that Nature in many of them, he ſpeaks indeed generally of Chriſt's coming to Judgment in them, but that ſeems not pertinent to the Text. I therefore give the Senſe of the Words thus, As alſo according to the ſame Wiſdom, he hath written in all his Epiſtles, ſpeaking in them of theſe things of which I am now diſcourſing, of the Day of the Lord's coming, and of the Preparation we ſhould make for it.

Ἐν αἷς, in which.] This cannot relate to the Epiſtles of St. Paul, becauſe the Word being of the Neuter Gender, cannot agree with ἐπιστολαι, Epiſtles, which is of the Feminine; but to thoſe things of which St. Peter had been diſcourſing in this Chapter, and which were ſo wreſted by the Unlearned and Unſtable, that ſome of them thought long before the writing of this Epiſtle, That the Day of the Lord was inſtant, 2 Theſ. 2. 2. and ſo became unſtable in the Faith, Ver. 15. Some ſaid, The Reſurrection was paſt already, and thereby overthrew the Faith of ſome, 2 Tim. 2. 18. Some wanting Patience to expect it longer, left the Aſſemblies of Chriſtians, Heb. 10. 25. And ſome queſtioned whether his Promiſe would be made good at all; as here Ver. 4, 9. The Reſurrection of the Fleſh being by ſome thought a thing abſurd, (g) who held it to be incapable of Salvation, and the Reſurrection of the ſame Body being by ſome look'd on as a thing impoſſible, and theſe ſeem to be the δυσνοητα here mentioned.

Ver. 17. Ye therefore, beloved, ſeeing ye know theſe things before, beware leſt ye alſo being led away with the Error of the (ſe) wicked (Scoffers), fall from your own Stedfaſtneſs.

Ver. 18. But (rather) grow in Grace, and in the Knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt: to him be Glory, both now and for ever. Amen.

Αὐξάνετε ἐν χάριτι, grow in Grace.] That Grace ſignifies generally in the New Teſtament, the Favour of God to us, ſee Note on 2 Cor. 6. 1.

(g) Carnis ſalutem negant, & regenerationem ejus ſpernunt, dicentes non eum capacem eſſe incorruptibilitatis. Iren. l. 3. c. 21.

THE PREFACE TO THE First General Epistle of St. JOHN.

CONcerning the Author of this Epistle, all Ages have agreed that it was St. John, the Apostle of our Lord and Saviour.

As for the time when it was written, some both Ancient and Modern Writers think his Epistles to be the last of his Works, and therefore to have been written in the last years of Domitian. But Dr. Hammond hath very well observed, that it must have been written some time before the Great Destruction which befel the Jews. 1. Because he speaks of the last hour as now at hand; which that it must be understood of the last times of the Jewish State, see Note on Chap. 2. 18. 2. Because he speaks of the Antichrist, Chap. 2. 18. and the False Prophets, Chap. 4. 1. which were then among them, or come into the World; such as Christ tells us were to be the immediate Forerunners of that Destruction, Matth. 24. 24. declaring that they went out from them of Judea, ver. 19.

3. It being written by an Apostle of the Circumcision, it is not doubted but it was written to the Jews, but that it was an Epistle to the Parthians, as (a) St. Austin, Possidonius in his Index, and Idacius contra Verim. avert, as I know nothing can be said against it, but that it only is asserted by Authors of a latter date, so if Parthia be taken for the whole Empire as 'twas enlarged by the Arsacidæ, it is a farther proof not only that this Epistle was written to the Jews, who, saith (b) Josephus, abounded in Babylon and Mesopotamia, and had there three famous Universities, one of them at Neerda mention'd by Josephus, but also that many of the ten Tribes were then converted, they being seated in Mesopotamia and Media, for the Text saith, that they were carried away into Assyria, and placed in Halah and in Habor by the River Gozan, and in the Cities of the Medes, 2 King. 17. 6. 18. 11. Now all these places, saith the learned (c) Bochart, are to be found thereabouts; and therefore St. John being an Apostle of the Circumcision, may well be supposed to have written to them, tho perhaps he was never there; as St. Paul writ some of his Epistles to Churches he had never seen.

Whence it was written, neither Scripture, nor any thing in Antiquity that I have met with, gives any ground for a conjecture.

The occasion of it seems to be, 1. To arm the Jewish Converts against those loose and pernicious Doctrines which had obtain'd among the Jews, viz. that Solifidian Doctrine of being righteous by Faith, that is, not fruitful in good Works, or without doing Righteousness, 1 Joh. 2. 29. 3. 7, 10. being Children of the Light without walking in the Light, Favourites of God without Obedience to his Laws, or Love to his Servants. 2ly, Against the Madness of their Zealots abounding every where among them, who thought their Zeal for God, and for his Law, would atone for their hatred of, and murther of their Brethren, and for all the other Sins which, saith Josephus, they did so greedily commit. See Note on Rom. 2. 1. and on

ver. 24. and on James 1. 26. And 3ly, To preſerve them ſtedfaſt in the Truth which they had heard from the beginning againſt thoſe Deceivers, Antichriſts, and Falſe Prophets, which were then among them, Chap. 2. 19, 26. Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3. and to continue them ſtedfaſt in the belief that Jeſus was the Chriſt the Son of God, Chap. 5.

And here, becauſe that Queſtion hath made ſo great a noiſe of late, Whether Salvation or Perdition depends upon believing or rejecting this one Propoſition, that Jeſus was the Meſſiah, as ſaith the Author of the Reaſonableneſs of Chriſtianity, p. 43. adding, p. 47. that all that was to be believed for Juſtification was no more but this ſingle Propoſition, that Jeſus of Nazareth was the Chriſt, or the Meſſiah; I ſhall endeavour briefly to ſtate, and to explain this matter, and ſo give farther light to thoſe words of this Epiſtle, Chap. 4. 2, 15. Chap. 5. 1, 5. which ſeem to ſay the ſame thing.

Whereas then this Author challenges all the Syſtematical Divines, p. 192. to ſhew that there was any other Doctrine, upon their Aſſent to which, or Diſbelief of it, Men were pronounced Believers or Unbelievers, and accordingly received into the Church of Chriſt as Members of his Body, as far as mere believing could make them ſo, or elſe kept out of it: This I ſhall undertake to ſhew,

1. From the expreſs words of Chriſt, who requires of all his Diſciples, in order to their admiſſion into the Church by Baptiſm, Faith in the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, Mat. 28. 19. ſaying, He that believeth (this) and is baptized, ſhall be ſaved; He that believeth not, ſhall be damn'd, Mark 16. 16. He adds with an Aſſeveration, Verily, verily, I ſay unto you, except you eat the fleſh of the Son of Man, and drink his blood, you have no life in you, Joh. 6. 53. clearly declaring the neceſſity of Faith in his Body given and his Blood ſhed for the remiſſion of Sins to Juſtification and Salvation, we being juſtified by his blood, and through faith in his blood, Rom. 3. 25. 5. 9.

2. From the plain Declarations of St. Paul, who among the firſt things he preach'd to the Corinthians, as things by the belief of which they ſhould be ſaved, mentions three Articles; firſt of all, That Chriſt died for our ſins according to the Scriptures, 1 Cor. 15. 1, 2, 3, 4. 2. That he was buried. And 3. That he roſe from the dead. In the ſame Chapter he plainly aſſerts the Neceſſity of the believing the Reſurrection of the Body, ver. 13, 32. Among the Foundations and firſt Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt from which all Chriſtians were to go on to Perfection, he reckons the Doctrines of Repentance, of Faith towards God, of Baptiſm, of laying on of hands (for the receiving of the Holy Ghoſt) of the Reſurrection of the Dead, and of eternal Judgment, Hebr. 6. 1, 2. Theſe therefore were then neceſſary to be believed by all Chriſtians. The Doctrine of the Sufficiency of Faith in Chriſt's Death for Juſtification without the works of the Law, is by the ſame Apoſtle declared to be ſo neceſſary, that he ſaith of them who gainſay'd it, Chriſt is become of no effect to you, ye are fallen from Grace, Gal. 5. 2, 4.

Moreover, it will be eaſie to account for the Practice of our Lord, and his Apoſtles, who inſiſt ſo much upon, and lay ſo great ſtreſs upon this one Article, if we conſider who they preached to, and how much was contained in, or neceſſarily depended upon the cordial Belief of this one Article.

1. Then, our Lord and his Apoſtles whilſt he was on Earth, preached only to the Jews, Matth. 10. 6. that is, to them to whom pertained the Adoption, the Glory, the Covenants, the Giving the Law, the Service of God, and the Promiſes, Romans 9. 4. and to whom were committed the Oracles of God, Romans 3. 2. i. e. thoſe Scriptures which were able to make them wiſe to Salvation, with faith in Chriſt Jeſus, 2 Timothy 3. 5. i. e. if they, to the belief of them, added Faith in Chriſt, they teaching them the Knowledge of the true God, and the way in which he would be worſhipped, and ſhewing them what was good, and what the Lord required of them. They alſo were writ by, and made frequent mention of the Spirit of God, of the New Covenant God would eſtabliſh with them, of the Sufferings of Chriſt, and of the Glory that ſhould follow, 1 Peter 1. 11. of his Prophetical, Prieſtly, and his Kingly Office, of an Emanuel that ſhould be born to them, whoſe Name ſhould be called Wonderful, Counſellor, the mighty God, the everlaſting Father, the Prince of Peace, Iſaiah 7. 1, 14. 9. 6. It is not therefore to be wonder'd that whilſt our Saviour was on Earth he only call'd them to Repentance, and Faith in the promiſed Meſſiah.

Moreover, St. Paul's Sermon Acts 13. was preached to the Children of the ſtock of Abraham, ver. 26. and yet he preacheth to them not only that Jeſus was the Chriſt, but alſo that he died, and roſe again, and that Remiſſion of Sins was to be obtain'd through his Name, and that by him all that believed were to be juſtified from all thoſe things from which they could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes, ver. 38, 39. And though we find him once diſputing in the School of one Tyrannus, we ſeldom find him preach any where but in a Jewiſh Synagogue. Others alſo preach'd to the ſame Perſons; for they that were diſperſed upon the Perſecution of St. Stephen preached to the Jews only, Acts 11. 19.

We have in the whole Acts of the Apoſtles mention only of four Perſons who were not Jews by birth to whom the Goſpel was thus preach'd; one of these was the Eunuch, who was before a Worshipper of God, and as is probably conjectured, of the Jews Religion; and therefore came up to Jerusalem to worship. St. Paul preacheth to Lydia in a Jewish Synagogue, Acts 16. 13, 14. and she was also one that worship'd God, and so in probability of the Jews Religion. The Centurion to whom St. Peter preach'd was one that feared God, wrought Righteousness, was much in Prayer and Alms, and yet St. Peter, before his Baptism, preaches to him and his friends, of the Word that God sent to the Children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ, declaring how he was anointed by God with the Holy Ghost, healed all that were oppressed of the Devil, suffered and rose again, that he was made Lord of all things, that he was ordain'd of God to be the Judge of the quick and the dead, and that through his Name whosoever believed in him should receive Remission of Sins, Act. 10. 36, 43. The only Heathen Family that St. Paul admits to Baptism, is the Jaylors; and he first Preaches to them the Word of the Lord, Acts 16. 32. i. e. say even the Socinians, he summarily expounded to them (d) who this Jesus, this Son of God, was, what Miracles he did, how he was crucified by the Jews, rais'd up again by God, taken up into Heaven, made Lord of all things; what Promises he had made, what Precepts he enjoin'd. I know this Author saith, that Preaching the Word was only Preaching that Jesus was the Messiah; but the Scriptures cited by him do not say so: for the Word mention'd Acts 10. 37. is the whole Word which God sent to the Children of Israel, preaching Peace by Jesus Christ. It is the word of the Gospel, Acts 15. 7. It contains the whole ministery of the Gospel, Acts 6. 4. All the Council of God being the Word of his Grace which was able to build them up, and give them an inheritance among them who were sanctified through faith in Christ, Act. 20. 27, 32. It cannot therefore be concluded from the Preaching of our Lord, or his Apostles, that they thought nothing more was necessary to be believ'd by Christians saving this one Article, that Jesus was the Christ.

2dly. The Belief of this Proposition that Christ is the Messiah, and the Son of God, may well be represented as the chief initiating Article of Christian Faith, because where it is heartily profess'd, it carries with it a Profession of believing all Christ's Sayings, and of obeying all his Precepts: and where it cordially is embraced, it produceth both this Faith and Practice. That Jesus is the Christ, as it is the principal Article of pure Faith, the most peculiar Doctrine of our Religion, as it stands opposed to that of Judaism; so doth it virtually comprehend all other Doctrines of moment in it, regarding either Faith or Practice. For to believe him to be the Christ, to believe him to be a Prophet sent from God to teach the way of life unto us, John 3. 34. even that Prophet which was to come into the world. Hence Christ applies these words to himself, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me because he hath anointed me to preach the Gospel, &c. Luke 4. 18. Now sure we are obliged to embrace as Truth whatsoever was taught by such a Prophet, and to obey all his Precepts upon pain of Destruction; for Whosoever will not hear this Prophet, shall be destroyed from the People, Acts 3. 23.

Again, To believe him to be the Christ, to believe him to be the Son of God, according to that Profession of St. Peter, Thou art Christ the Son of the living God, Matth. 16. 16. and the Enquiry of the High Priest, Art thou the Christ, the Son of God? Matth. 26. 63. Now this lays an Obligation upon us to hear, that is, obey him; according to those words of God, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, hear him, Matth. 17. 5. To believe him to be our Lord, and King, according to those words of the Angel, To you is born a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord, Luke 2. 11. and of Nathanael, Rabbi, thou art the Son of God, thou art the King of Israel. Now this Relation calls for Obedience; For why, saith our Saviour, call you me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I say, Luke 6. 46. and that on penalty of Ruin from him when he shall say, Bring these mine Enemies who would not I should reign over them, and slay them before me, Luke 19. 27. To own also Jesus who was called Christ, even that Jesus who was to save his People from their Sins, and a Saviour to give Repentance and Remission of Sins, Matth. 1. 21. Now upon such a King, and such a Saviour, we may securely rely for the Obtainment of all the Blessings and Rewards which he hath promised to the obedient. Hence we may learn, that it was highly reasonable that the Apostles should begin their Preaching with proving and persuading this Doctrine, that they should give such great Commendations, annex such excellent Privileges, offer such high Rewards to the hearty Belief of such a comprehensive Article, and should admit them to Baptism who profess'd it, since by that Baptism, saith this Author, pag. 196, 197. they own'd themselves the Subjects of this Jesus whom they believed to be their Messiah (i. e. the Prophet sent from God to teach them) and received for their Lord and King, and this was the solemn visible Act whereby they who believed him to be the Meſſiah, receiv'd him as their King, and profeſs'd Obedience to him, and ſo were admitted as Subjects into his Kingdom. For as every one who was circumciſed became a Debtor to obey the whole Law of Moſes, Gal. 5. 3. and therefore to believe it, ſo every Perſon baptized, being of Age, doth by that very Baptiſm profeſs to believe all the Doctrines, and obey the Precepts of the Holy Jeſus, into whoſe Name he is baptized. And therefore though St. John here ſays, He that confeſſeth that Jeſus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God, Chap. 4. 15. and Every one that believeth that Jeſus is the Chriſt is born of God, Chap. 5. 1. yet he requires of the ſame Perſons, in order to the ſame Ends, that they ſhould walk in the truth of the Goſpel, in Conformity to the Example of Chriſt, and to the Love of God, and in Obedience to his Commands, and adds, that he that is born of God ſinneth not, neither can ſin; clearly inſinuating, that this Propoſition, when cordially embraced, will produce a Faith and Practice anſwerable to it in our Lives.

A

Paraphrase with Annotations

ON THE

First Epistle General of St. JOHN.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. THAT which was from the beginning (of the Gospel Dispensation, that) which we have heard, which we have seen, (i. e. discerned as clearly as if we had seen it) with our Eyes, (that) which we have looked upon, and our Hands have (as it were) handled of the Word of Life, declare we to you.

Ver. 2. (Nor have you the least Reason to suspect our Testimony, either of this Life, or the Author and Procurer of it:) For the Life (we speak of) was manifested, (in the Author and the Promise of it,) and we have seen, (or known,) and bear witness (to it), and shew unto you that eternal Life which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us.

Ὁ ἦν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς.] This I here render, from the beginning of the Gospel Dispensation, because I find that is the constant import of the Phrase in this Apostle, and elsewhere, when it relates to what Christians had heard and seen, as here. In this Sense is that which you have heard, ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, used six times by our Apostle in these Epistles; viz. 1 Ep. Chap. 2. 7, 24. bis; Chap. 3. 11. Ep. 2. Ver. 6. So the Commandment which we have received, ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, 1 Ep. 2. 7. 2 Ep. Ver. 5. doth necessarily import, it being Christ's new Commandment of Love. So ἀπ' ἀρχῆς αὐτόπται, are they who from the beginning of Christ's Preaching were Witnesses of what he said and did, Luke 1. 2. And in this Sence Christ saith to his Disciples, you have been with me, ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, John 15. 27. Acts 1. 21.

Ὃ ἑωράκαμεν, which we have seen.] That is, in Scripture Phrase, said to be seen and look'd upon, which is as truly known and discerned by us, as if we had seen it. So the Jews are said to do the things which they have seen with their Father, John 8. 38. and to have seen the end of the Lord's Dealings with Job, James 5. 11. So we are said to see God, or not to see him, 1 John 3. 6. Ep. 3. 11. To see the Life here, Ver. 2. So also ψηλαφᾶν, when applied to Spiritual Things, is not to touch with the Hand, but to apprehend with the Mind, Acts 17. 27. I confess all these things are more properly true of the Word made Flesh, of whom the Apostles declared what they had heard from him, and seen of him, who saw his Glory, John 1. 14. and what one of them had touch'd. But then the λόγος agreeing only to the Divine Nature, a Metaphorical Sense must be allowed in seeing and handling that.

Τὸν ζωὴν τὸν αἰώνιον, ἥτις ἦν πρὸς τὸν πατέρα, that eternal Life which was with the Father.] Thus of our eternal Life the Apostle saith, it is hid with Christ in God, Col. 3. 3. And of the Evangelical Dispensation, That before the Revelation of it by Christ and his Apostles, it was a Mystery hid in God, Eph. 3. 9. But this also may be applied to the Divine λόγος, stiled by this Apostle, Life Eternal, Chap. 5. 20. who was in the Bosom of the Father, and was manifested to us, John 1. 18. Yet two things seem to favour the first Interpretation.

1*st*, That the Phrase here used, being not ἐν ἀρχῇ ἦν, he subsisted in the beginning of all things; but only ἀπ' ἀρχῆς ἦν, he was from the beginning: This Phrase excludes not his Creation, as the other seems to do. And as I have observed, it chiefly is applied by this Apostle, to the beginning of the Gospel Dispensation.

2. That though ὁ λόγος and ζωὴ, absolutely put, are spoken of Christ; yet ὁ λόγος τῆς ζωῆς is never used concerning the Person of Christ, but is expresly used of that Word by which eternal Life is manifested; as when we are bid to hold fast λόγον ζωῆς, the Word of

of Life, Phil. 2. 16. and when the Apostles are bid to teach τὰ ῥήματα τῆς ζωῆς, the Words of this Life, Acts 5. 20. See Acts 13. 26.

Ver. 3. That which we have seen and heard (of the Word of Life) declare we to you, that ye also may have fellowship with us (in the same Life): and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.

Note τῷ πατρὶ.] We being Heirs of God, Joint-Heirs with Christ, Rom. 8. 17. and being united to, and having Communion with the Father and the Son, by the Spirit of both dwelling in us, Joh. 14. 21, 23. Eph. 2. 21, 22. Rom. 8. 9, 11. And he being to us the Earnest of this Life, 2 Cor. 1. 22. 5. 5. Eph. 1. 13, 14. Who seals us up unto the Day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30.

Κοινωνίαν μεθ' ἡμῶν, Fellowship with us.] It doth not follow hence, as Estius imagines, that no Man can have Fellowship with God, who hath not Fellowship with the Church; (though that be doubtless true of Fellowship with the invisible Church, united to Christ by the Spirit, and so made an Habitation of God through the Spirit, and of Fellowship in Doctrine and Communion with the Church of the Apostles.) For as like precious Faith with us, is only such Faith as we have, 2 Pet. 2. 1. so here Fellowship with us, is only such Fellowship as we have.

Ver. 4. And these things we write unto you, that your Joy may be full, (i. e. That believing this Eternal Life, you may rejoice with Joy unspeakable, and full of Glory. 1 Pet. 1. 8, 9. For which Cause you must carefully attend to another Message he hath sent by us.)

Ver. 5. This then, (And this) is the Message we have heard from him, (i. e. from God by Jesus Christ,) and declare unto you, that God is Light, (a pure and spotless Spirit,) and in him is no darkness at all. (Nothing of Impurity or Iniquity in his Commands, which are all Holy, Rom. 7. 12. Or in his Actions, as in the Heathen Deities, he being Holy in all his Works.)

Ver. 6. (And therefore) If we say that we have Fellowship with him, and walk in Darkness, we lye, and do not (speak) the Truth.

Ver. 7. But if we walk in the Light, as he is in the Light, (endeavouring to be Holy, as he is Holy,) we have Fellowship one with another, and the Blood of Christ cleanseth us from all (those) Sins (which might obstruct our Communion with the Holy God, and our Attainment of the Life thus manifested to us.)

Ὡς αὐτός ἐστιν ἐν τῷ φωτί, as he is in the Light.] That this Metaphor of Light relates not to the Knowledge, or the Felicity, but to the Purity of the Divine Nature, appears 1*st*, from the Injunction to walk in the Light as he is in the Light; for we are not any where bid to resemble God in Knowledge, or in Happiness, but we are commanded to be holy as he is holy. 2*dly*, From the Darkness set in Opposition to it, which doth not refer so much to the Ignorance of Men, as to the Vices they practised in a State of Ignorance. See Note on Rom. 13. 12.

Κοινωνίαν ἔχομεν μετ' ἀλλήλων, we have Communion with one another.] Some Manuscripts read, μετ' αὐτοῦ, with him; which either is the true reading, or gives the true Sense of the other reading; i. e. We have Communion with God, and he with us, as is evident from Ver. 6. Moreover, The Apostle had said nothing before of our Communion with one another, but only of our Fellowship with God, Ver. 6. With the Father and the Son, Ver. 3. Which makes it reasonable to refer the Words to that Communion of which the Apostle so often speaketh in this Epistle. See Chap. 2. 5, 6, 24. Chap. 3. 24. Chap. 4. 12.

Τὸ αἷμα Ἰησοῦ, the Blood of Christ cleanseth us from all Sin.] This cannot well relate to that Effect of the Blood of Christ, which we call, Justification by Faith in his Blood, or the Remission of our past Sins by Virtue of our Faith in Christ's dying for us; for that follows immediately upon our Faith, and cannot require that an Habit of Purity, or of walking in the Light, should precede it, it therefore rather seemeth to refer to those sinful Infirmities and Defects, which in this State of Imperfection cleave to our best Actions, and even good Men are still subject to, and which do not deprive us of the Divine Favour, or of an Entrance into that new Jerusalem, into which nothing enters that is polluted or unclean; because in this new Covenant of Grace, establish'd in the Death of Christ, his Blood doth cleanse all faithful and sincere Christians from the Guilt of them.

Ver. 8. (And of this Expiation we have all need, for) If we say we have no Sin, (to be thus cleansed from,) we deceive our selves, and the Truth is not in us. (For in many things we offend all, Jam. 3. 2. And therefore are required to pray daily for the Remission of our Sins, and have even after our Regeneration, need of this Advocate for the Propitiation of our Sins, Chap. 2. 1, 2. See 1 Kings 8. 46. Eccles. 7. 21.)

Ver. 9. (But) If we confess (these) our Sins, he (who hath made this new Covenant in the Blood of Christ, that he will be merciful to our Iniquities, Heb. 8. 8.) is faithful (to his Promise,) and just to forgive us our Sins, (upon the Satisfaction made to his Justice by the Death of Christ,) and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

Ver. 10. (But) If we (continue to) say we have not sinned, (and therefore do not need this Expiation through the Blood of Christ,) we make him a Lyar, (who hath declared both in the Old and the New Testament, that all have ſinned and fallen ſhort of the Glory of God, Rom. 3. 23.) and the Truth is not in us.

Note, The Queſtion is of whom the Apoſtle ſpeaketh here, whether of ſincere Chriſtians after their Converſion to the Chriſtian Faith, or only of them conſidered before they entred on that State. That St. John here ſpeaks only of the latter, is argued from theſe Conſiderations:

1*ſt*. That the Apoſtle doth plainly teach the contrary to the firſt Expoſition, by ſaying, he that is born of God ſinneth not, Chap. 3. 9. 5. 18. But to this I ſhall return an anſwer in the Comment on thoſe Places.

2*dly*. That the Words run in the Preterperfect Tenſe, if we ſay, οὐχ ἡμαρτήκαμεν, we have not ſinned, whereas ſome ſingle Acts of leſſer Sins they were then ſtill ſubject to, to whom he ſpeaks.

Anſw. True; and therefore he adviſeth them to confeſs them, that they might obtain Forgiveneſs of them: Now Confeſſion of them muſt be after they have been committed.

3*dly*, Becauſe this Phraſe ἁμαρτίαν ἔχειν, to have Sin, is ſtill uſed of ſuch Sins as will condemn us at the laſt, Joh. 9. 41. 15. 22, 24. 19. 11.

Anſw. The Text cited from Chap. 19. 11. is impertinent; the other two may be taken abſolutely as to the Matter ſpoken of. They had been guilty of no Sin of Infidelity, if Chriſt had not come to them, or if he had not proved his Miſſion, Chap. 15. 22, 24. or if they had wanted Means to diſcern the Truth. Chap. 9. 41. Nor would their Sin of Infidelity have been condemning, had they confeſſed it and forſaken it.

Since then the Apoſtle was ſpeaking, Ver. 7. of them who walked in the Light, who had Communion with God, and who were cleanſed from the Guilt of Sin. And Ver. 8. goes on to add, If we ſay we have no Sin; it ſeems more probable, that he ſpeaks there at leaſt of the ſame Perſons.

Note alſo, That ſome of the Jews profeſſed to be (a) ἀναμάρτητοι πρὸς Θεὸν, ἢ μηδεμιᾷ ἁμαρτίᾳ ἑαλωκέναι, ſupple ἁμαρτίαι, free from all Sin and Offence againſt God; and of ſuch may the laſt Verſe be interpreted: They varying in this from the Doctrine of other Jews; ſee (b) Maimonides truly ſaith, Nullus homo datur poteſt qui non peccet, vel ignoranter in dogmate & ſententia aliqua amplectenda, aut qualitate eligenda quæ non eligenda eſt, vel contrariæ, aliorumque affectuum vehementiam & prædominationem.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. MY little Children, theſe things (concerning the Neceſſity of walking in the Light, and putting off the Deeds of Darkneſs) I write unto you, that ye ſin not, (i. e. That ye live not in any Courſe of Sin.) And if any Man (through the Infirmity of the Fleſh be overtaken with a) Sin, we (Chriſtians) have an Advocate with the Father, Jeſus Chriſt the Righteous, (the Juſt One in whom was no Sin, 1 Pet. 3. 18.)

Ver. 2 And he is the Propitiation for our Sins, and not for ours only, but for the Sins of the whole World.

Ἐάν τις ἁμάρτῃ, and if any Man ſin.] Tho' this is not to be interpreted of Sins of Infirmity only, yet ſince the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking of his little Children, whoſe paſt Sins were already forgiven them for his Name's ſake, Ver. 12, 15. and the Apoſtle would not encourage them in wilful or habitual Sins, I think, as it relates to them, it chiefly is to be referr'd to thoſe Sins of Ignorance, Weakneſs and Infirmity, which will be pardoned by the Tenour of the New Covenant, through Chriſt's Interceſſion.

Ἱλασμός ἐστι περὶ τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ἡμῶν, he is the Propitiation for our Sins.] In the Old Teſtament the Sin-Offering which made Atonement for a Treſpaſs, that it might be forgiven, is called κριὸς ἱλασμοῦ, the Ram of Atonement, Lev. 6. 6, 7. Numb. 5. 8. And that which in the Law is φέρειν, προσάγειν τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, to bring an Offering for Sin, is in Ezekiel προσφέρειν ἱλασμὸν, to bring an Atonement, or Propitiation, Ezek. 44. 27. When therefore it is ſaid here of Jeſus Chriſt, that he is ἱλασμὸς, the Propitiation for our Sins; and Chap. 4. 10. That God ſent him into the World to be ἱλασμὸν, the Propitiation for our Sins; have we not Reaſon to conclude he was ſo our Propitiation, as were all the Sin-Offerings of the Jews for them; viz. by ſuffering in our ſtead, to make Atonement for our Sins, and ſo to render God propitious to us in the Forgiveneſs of them? Moreover, Why is he ſtiled Jeſus Chriſt the Juſt, or Righteous, who made Propitiation for our Sins, if he intended not to intimate that the Juſt ſuffered inſtead of the Unjuſt, to make Atonement for their Sins?

To this Crellius replies, That δίκαιος ſhould be here rendred not the Juſt, but Faithful.

Anſw. This is to ſay, it muſt here ſignifie not what it ordinarily and truly ſignifies, but what it both improperly and rarely ſignifies, and when it is aſcribed to Chriſt, as here it is, it never signifies; for it is ascribed to him elsewhere ten times in the New Testament, Mat. 27. 24. Luke 23. 47. Acts 3. 14. 7. 52. 22. 14. 2 Tim. 4. 8. 1 Pet. 3. 18. Rev. 16. 5. and in those Places it doth always signifie that just or righteous Person; yea, in this very Chapter and the next, it is twice spoken of him, first in these Words, Ver. 29. If ye know that he is righteous, ye know that every one that doth Righteousness is born of him. And Chap. 3. 7. He that doth Righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous. Where it is evident that it retains its proper Sense: Why therefore, in the Place contested, should it import what, when it is applied to Christ it never signifies?

Object. And whereas Crellius objects, that the Apostle speaks of Christ here as of our Advocate in Heaven, where he doth not satisfie God, or suffer any Punishmmnt on our account.

Answ. I answer, That seeing Christ there intercedes by Virtue of his Blood shed to satisfie for our Offences, and of the Death he suffered as the Punishment of our Iniquities; the Parallel runs clearly thus, That as the Sacrifices of the Old Testament were slain, and the Blood shed, before it was brought to the Mercy-Seat, and yet the High-Priest made Atonement with it, when at his Entrance into the Holy Place, he offered up that Blood to God in his peculiar Presence; so though our Lord was slain, and shed his Blood on Earth, yet may he make Atonement in the Presence of God with it, by Virtue of the Sufferings he endured when his Blood was shed.

Περὶ ὅλου τοῦ κόσμου, for the Sins of the whole World.] That is, of all Men in general; for when he saith, he is the Propitiation for our Sins, sure he intends this Comfort to them all to whom he speaks, and means not that Christ was the Propitiation for some of their Sins only; for this would have left them all in doubt whether this Advocate, and this Propitiation did belong to them, but would have comforted none of them. When then he adds, he is the Propitiation not for our Sins only, but for the Sins of the whole World, he in like manner must extend this Phrase to all Men in the World.

Again, when he saith he is the Propitiation for our Sins, he doth not mean that he was so sufficiently, but not intentionally; for what Comfort would that afford them, that his Death was sufficient to procure the Pardon of their Sins, had God designed it for that End, unless they also knew that he intended it for their Propitiation: When therefore he proceeds to say, and not for ours only, but for the Sins of the whole World, he must mean also, that he was the Propitiation for their Sins, not only sufficiently, but also in his gracious Intention. And indeed otherwise it might as properly have been said of the fallen Angels, or the whole Host of Devils, he is the Propitiation for their Sins, as for the Sins of those who are not elected, seeing had God designed it for that End, Christ's Death, by reason of its intrinsick Value, might have been sufficient to procure Atonement for the Sins of fallen Angels. Lastly, The Import of these Words cannot be only this, He died, or is the Propitiation for the Sins of the Elect throughout the World. For 1st, The whole World, in Scripture, never signifies the Elect only, in opposition to the Wicked in the whole World; but in this very Epistle, and in these Words, We know that we are of God, and that the whole World lies in Wickedness, Chap. 5. 19. it plainly signifies the Wicked of the World, in opposition to the faithful Christian. 2dly, Would it not be strange, and alien from the Mind of Scripture, to say, The whole World is elected to Salvation, the whole World shall be justified by Christ, and sanctified by his Spirit dwelling in them, and obtain an happy Resurrection; and yet all this must be true of the whole World of the Elect: Why therefore is it no where equally affirmed of the whole World, as that Christ died, and is the Propitiation for the Sins of the whole World, if they be Words of equal Latitude and Truth? These Arguments are as strong against the Exposition of others, who say the Apostle means not only for the Sins of the Jews, but also of the Gentiles.

Ver. 3. And hereby (Gr. in this) we know that we know (Gr. have known) him, (truly and acceptably) if we keep his Commandments.

Note, It is a Rule in Divinity, That Verba notitiæ denotant affectum, adde & effectum. i. e. That when the Knowledge of God, or Christ, is put absolutely, it signifies a Knowledge which is fruitful in Love and Obedience, as the Effect of that Love and Knowledge. Whence they who disobey him, are still in Scripture said not to know God, 1 Sam. 2. 12. Hos. 5. 14. Jer. 2. 8. 9. 3. Tit. 1. 16. and here Ver. 4. And they that do what is acceptable and delightful to him, are said to know him, Jer. 22. 15, 16. 24. 7. 31. 33, 34. Hos. 2. 19, 20. Joh. 10. 4. Eph. 3. 19.

Moreover, 'Tis observable, that many of the Jews had an Apprehension that their Knowledge and Belief of the true God, would be sufficient for their Justification and Acceptance with him; whence they are represented as boasting in God, and in the Knowledge of his Will, Rom. 2. 17, 18. And expecting Justification on this account, That they believed there was one God, James 2. 19. And this might cause the Apostle to be so diligent in teaching them that the true Knowledge of God consisted in keeping his Commandments. And to add,

Ver. 4. He that saith I (have) know(n) him, and keepeth not his Commandments, is a Liar, and the truth is not in him. (He is a falſe Pretender to the Knowledge of God, for ſuch Perſons do in Words profeſs to know God, but in Works they deny him, being diſobedient, Tit. 1. 16. They likewiſe know not Jeſus Chriſt according to the Truth, Eph. 4. 21.)

Ver. 5. But whoſo keepeth his Commandments, in him verily is the Love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

Ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ Θεοῦ, the Love of God perfected.] The Love of God here may ſignifie either God's Love to us, as when 'tis ſaid, Who ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God which is (ſhewed to us) in Chriſt Jeſus, Rom. 8. 39. And that the Love of God is ſhed abroad in our Hearts, through the Spirit that he hath given us, Rom. 5. 5. See Jude 21. and then this Love is perfected in us by that Aſſurance the Holy Spirit giveth of it, and that humble confidence we have of it, becauſe we keep his Commandments, Chap. 3. 21, 22. So the Apoſtle ſeems to interpret this Perfection in Love, Chap. 4. 16, 17, 18. Or, 2*dly*, This Love may ſignifie our Love to God and Chriſt, as when Chriſt upbraids the Phariſees with the want of the Love of God, Luke 11. 42. And ſaith to the Jews, I know that you have not the Love of God in you, John 5. 42. And when Chriſt ſaith, He that hath my Commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me, and he that loveth me ſhall be loved of my Father, John 14. 21. And Ver. 23. If any Man love me he will keep my Word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him, and take up our abode with him. And this Love is perfected in us, by keeping his Commandments, becauſe that ſhews we are fully inſtructed in the Nature of that Love, which is one Senſe of Perfection. See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6. And it engages us to the ſincere Performance of our whole Duty to God, which is another Senſe of the Word Perfection: And hereby we know that we are in him, even by this Spirit, by which God abideth in us, Chap. 3. 24. And who ſheds abroad the Senſe of the Divine Love in our Hearts.

Note alſo, That hence we may paſs a certain eſtimate of neceſſary and Fundamental Doctrines; for if they be ſuch as are neceſſary to the Love of God to us, or to that Love of ours to him, which conſiſts in keeping his Commandments, they are Doctrines truly neceſſary to Salvation: If not, they cannot be ſo; becauſe we may truly love God, and abide in his Love, without the Knowledge of them.

Ver. 6. He that ſaith he abideth in him, (in Chriſt by the Spirit,) ought himſelf alſo ſo to walk, even as he walked.

For ſeeing we abide in God the Father and the Son, only by the Communion of the Spirit, Chap. 3. 24. 4. 13. whence he that is in Chriſt is one Spirit with him, 1 Cor. 6. 17. and he that hath not the Spirit of Chriſt is none of his, Rom. 8. 9. we that are animated with the ſame Spirit that was in Chriſt, as we are enabled, ſo alſo are we thereby engaged to walk after his Example, or to walk in the Light as he is in the Light, Chap. 1. 7.

Ver. 7. Brethren, I write no new Commandment unto you, (when I thus call upon you to walk in the Light as he is in the Light, or to walk as Chriſt walked,) but an old Commandment which you had from the beginning: (of Chriſt's Preaching, John 3. 21. 8. 12. 12. 35. ſee Note on Chap. 1. Ver. 1.) the Old Commandment is that Word which ye have heard from the beginning.

Οὐκ ἐντολὴν καινὴν, no new Commandment.] Moſt Interpreters conceive this relates to the Commandment of Chriſtian Love, that being the Commandment which they are ſaid to have heard from the beginning, Chap. 3. 11. and ſaid to be on that Account no new Commandment, Eph. 2. 5. and yet being ſtiled by Chriſt a new Commandment. John 13. 34. Nor are the Arguments of Epiſcopius againſt this Expoſition cogent. For whereas, Obj. 1. He objects that theſe Words ſeem to be ſpoken to remove the thoughts of ſome, that he was propounding a new Doctrine which they had not learned; whereas no Man who was acquainted with the Law of Moſes, or even with that of Nature, could think the Law of Charity was new.

Anſw. I anſwer, It is not the Law of Charity in general, which our Lord and his Apoſtle ſtile a new Commandment; but that of loving one another as he had loved us, John 13. 34, 35. And this might juſtly be look'd on as a new Commandment, it being a Commandment to lay down our Lives for the Brethren, Chap. 3. 16. And therefore a Commandment not contained in the Law of Nature, nor in that of Moſes.

Obj. 2. Whereas he adds that theſe Words, I write unto you, ſeem to reſpect not any thing that was to follow, but which was ſaid before, and to contain this Senſe, When I write this to you, I write nothing new.

Anſw. I anſwer, that it may be ſo; for having told us, That he that ſaith he abideth in Chriſt, ought alſo to walk as he walked; he may well be conceived to have an eſpecial Eye to the great Example of Love Chriſt ſhewed to Mankind, both in his Life and Death.

Yet his Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe ſeems alſo very probable, by reaſon of the following Words, Becauſe the Darkneſs is paſt, and the true Light now ſhineth; and therefore I ſhall have reſpect to both.

Ver. 8. Again, a new Commandment I write unto you; which thing is true in him, (who is the Author of it; for no ſuch Light ever came into the World before, and no ſuch Love was manifeſted to the World before,) and in you; (who before were Darkneſs, but are now Light light in the Lord, Eph. 5. 8. Children of the light, and of the day, 1 Thess. 5. 5. and to whom not long ago the light appeared, 2 Cor. 4. 6. and ye are taught of God to love one another, 1 Thess. 4. 9.) for (by your late receiving the Gospel) the (former) darkness (you were in) is past, and the true light now shineth (in, and upon you; wherefore the night of Ignorance and Darkness being far spent, and the day being nigh at hand, and shining more and more upon you, you are obliged to put off the works of darkness, and to put on the armour of light, Rom. 13. 12.)

Or thus: Again, (being now to speak to you of Christian Love) a new Commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him (for thus he speaks, A new Commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another as I have loved you, Joh. 13. 34.) and in you: because (it shews) the darkness (you were in whilst Jews, bearing affection only to them of their own Nation and Religion) is past, and the true light (of the Gospel) now shineth (upon you.)

The Ceremonials of the Law are sometimes called a Shadow, but never Darkness; and though the Alexandrian Manuscripts read and a Shadow, yet because all other Copies read and Darkness, and the following words ver. 9. and 11. shew that this is the true reading, and because it is so easie in short writing to mistake σκοτία for σκιά, the Interpretation of these words which depends upon that reading cannot be relied on.

Ver. 9. He that saith he is in the light (that he lives under the influences of the light of the Gospel, and walks according to it,) and (yet) hateth his Brother (wishing ill to him, and from that Disaffection doing ill Offices to him) is (whatever he professeth to the contrary,) in darkness until now. (But)

Ver. 10. He that loveth his Brother (as Christ loved us, being willing to do him all kind Offices which he is able, from Love to God, and as a Fellow-member of Christ's body,) abideth in the light, and there is no occasion of stumbling (Gr. no scandal) in him.

Σκάνδαλον ἐν αὐτῷ οὐκ ἔστιν.] i. e. There is nothing at which he will fall or stumble. So Psal. 119. 156. Great peace have they that love thy Law, καὶ οὐκ ἔστιν αὐτοῖς σκάνδαλον and they have no stumbling-block. The Labour of Love they must undergo, the Evils they may be exposed to, will not hinder them from doing the Duty they owe to God, and to their Brother for his sake; but they go on securely and chearfully in it, for perfect Love casts out Fear, Chap. 4. 18.

Ver. 11. But he that hateth his Brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because the darkness hath blinded his eyes. (Joh. 12. 35.)

Ἐν τῇ σκοτίᾳ ἐστὶν.] i. e. He lives in great ignorance of his Duty, and of the way to Life, as not guiding his Actions by that light of the Gospel which hath appeared to him.

Ver. 12. I write unto you little Children, because your sins are forgiven for his names sake.

Ver. 13. I write unto you Fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you young Men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. I write unto you little Children, because ye have known the Father.

Ver. 14. I have written unto you Fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you young Men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

Note, That these words may either relate to the foregoing, and then they are to be interpreted as Motives to walk in the Light, and as Christ walked, and in particular to walk in Christian Love, thus; I have written to you Children touching this Love, and walking in the Light, and after Christ's Example, because your Sins have been forgiven for his Name sake, and so in gratitude to him who hath procured the pardon of them, you ought to walk as he walk'd, and to love the Brethren: Ye also have known the Father, and had experience of his Love to you, and therefore stand obliged to imitate his Love to you, and to walk in the Light, that you may still have Fellowship with him.

I have written to you Fathers, because ye have known him in whom you believe from the Beginning; i. e. have long profess'd the Christian Faith, and so have better Knowledge of your Duty, have more Experience of the Comforts and Pleasures of the ways of God, and more Strength to walk in the Light, and more Experience of the Love of God, to engage you to an Imitation of it.

I have written to you young Men because ye are strong by virtue of the Word of God abiding in you, and by the Sword of the Spirit, and the Shield of Faith, have been enabled successfully to combat, and overcome that wicked one, who tempts you to the deeds of Darkness, and to Hatred of the Brethren, Chap. 3. 10.

If they relate to the words following, they must be an Exhortation to little Children to take off their Affections from the World, and place them upon God and Christ, on the account of the Love and Mercy shew'd to them by God the Father through Christ. To the Fathers so to do, because they have been so long dead to the World, and have had so long Experience of the Benefit of a prevailing Love to the Father, and the Son. To the young Men so to do, because they had overcome the wicked one, all whose Temptations arise from some Allurements or Affrightments of the World. Or lastly, The words may be extended to all he ſaith to them in this whole Epiſtle; and then both Expoſitions may take place.

Ver. 15. Love not the world, i.e. neither the men of the world (who will not own you, but hate, and perſecute you, Chap. 3. 1, 13. and who live in wickedneſs, Chap. 5. 19. ſo as to be conformed to their manners, Rom. 12. 2.) nor the things of the world, (the Pleaſures, Honours, or Enjoyments of them, ſo as to cleave to them, Matt. 6. 24. or to be unwilling to part with them for Chriſt's ſake, and to ſecure the favour of God, Matt. 19. 28.) for he that (thus) loveth the world, the love of the Father is not in him, (for ſeeing God is to be loved above all, he loves him not at all truly, who cleaves to any other thing in oppoſition to him, or hazards his Favour to ſecure it.)

Ver. 16. For all that is in (vogue or eſteem with the men of) the world, the luſts of the fleſh, (all voluptuous Enjoyments which tend to Senſuality and Intemperance, and making proviſion for the fleſh) the luſt of the eye, (the deſire of Gold, Silver, ſtately Houſes, rich Furniture, fair Gardens, which tend to gratifie the eye,) the pride of life, (the deſire of places of Dignity, high Titles, all the Honour, Glory, and Splendour of the World which tends to gratifie our Pride,) are not of the Father, (they are not Deſires excited by him, nor is it according to his Will, that we ſhould ſet our hearts upon them,) but are (the Deſires) of (the Men of) the world, (whoſe chief concern is, to gratifie theſe ſenſual Appetites.)

Ver. 17. And the world paſſeth away, and the (things which miniſter to the) luſts thereof; but he that doth the will of God abideth for ever.

Ver. 18. Little Children, it is the laſt time (or hour of the Jewiſh OEconomy,) and as ye have heard that Antichriſt ſhall (ſhortly) come, (ſo) even now are there many Antichriſts, (i.e. Oppoſers of Chriſt, and Denyers of him to be the Chriſt, ver. 22.) whereby ye may know that this is the laſt time.

Ὁ Ἀντίχριστος ἔρχεται. Antichriſt cometh.] To wit, then in the laſt hour, this being repreſented as the Character by which they might know that the laſt hour was now come. 'Tis manifeſt that the laſt hour cannot ſignifie the End of the World, or include the times of the laſt Judgment, but muſt be reſtrained to the laſt times of the Jewiſh State which only then were inſtant, or at hand.

2*dly*, The ὁ Ἀντίχριστος, Antichriſt, then in being, if it refer to any Nation, muſt be the Nation of the unbelieving Jews perſecuting and oppoſing Chriſtianity with their whole Might, and denying Jeſus to be the Chriſt or promiſed Meſſiah; and then the many Antichriſts here mention'd may be the falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers, who transform'd themſelves into Apoſtles of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 14, 15. who preach'd Chriſt not ſincerely, but out of contention, Philip. 1. 15. who as Jannes and Jambres withſtood Moſes, ſo alſo did reſiſt the Truth, 2 Tim. 3. 8. who were men of corrupt minds, and deſtitute of the Truth, 1 Tim. 6. 5.

Ver. 19. They went out from us (Chriſtians of Judea, Acts 15. 1. and from us the Apoſtles, Acts 15. 24.) but they were not of us (but were falſe Brethren, Gal. 2. 4. and falſe Apoſtles, 2 Cor. 11. 13.) for if they had been of us (conſpiring with us the Apoſtles and true Churches of Chriſt in the Doctrine and Truth of the Goſpel,) they would no doubt (Gr. μεμενήκεισαν ἂν they might have ſtill) continued with us (preaching that Doctrine which we teach,) but (they went out from us) that it might be made manifeſt that they were not all (Gr. that they all were not) of us.

Ὅτι οὐκ εἰσὶ πάντες, that they all were not of us.] So ver. 21. πᾶν ψεῦδος οὐκ no lye is of the Truth: οὐκ ἂν σωθείη πᾶσα σὰρξ, no fleſh ſhould be ſaved, Matt. 24. 22. οὐ δικαιωθήσεται πᾶσα σὰρξ no fleſh ſhall be juſtified, Rom. 3. 20. See Gen. 4. 15. Pſal. 143. 2. Luk. 1. 37.

Ἐξ ἡμῶν ἐξῆλθον, they went out from us] of Judea. For ſome, κατελθόντες ἀπὸ τῆς Ἰουδαίας, going out from Judea, taught the Brethren, that except they were circumciſed after the manner of Moſes, they could not be ſaved, Act. 15. 1. and from the Apoſtles; for ſo they ſpeak, we have heard that, τινὲς ἐξ ἡμῶν ἐξελθόντες, ſome going out from us, have troubled you with words perverting your ſouls, ſaying that ye ought to be circumciſed, and to keep the Law, ver. 24. The Perſons who taught theſe Doctrines are ſtiled ψευδάδελφοι falſe Brethren, Gal. 2. 4. ψευδαπόστολοι falſe Apoſtles, deceitful Workers, Miniſters of Satan, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 15. Dogs, Evil workers, the Conciſion, Philip. 3. 2. their Doctrine tended to the Subverſion of Souls, Acts 15. 24. to the corrupting, and turning the minds of men from the ſimplicity of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 10. 3. to hinder the truth of the Goſpel from continuing with them, Gal. 2. 5. to make Chriſt die in vain, ver. 21. to cauſe Chriſtians to fall from Grace, ſo that Chriſt ſhould profit them nothing, Gal. 5. 2, 4. So that they were Falſe Prophets, Falſe Apoſtles, and Antichriſts, in the worſt of Senſes; and by going out from the Apoſtles and the Churches of Judea to preach this deſtructive Doctrine to the Gentiles, which both the whole Church of Judea and the Apoſtles, aſſembled for that very purpoſe, flatly diſown'd and cenſured, it ſufficiently appeared that all the Preachers of theſe Doctrines ſo oppoſite to Chriſtianity, and deſtructive of it, were not of them. Theſe therefore, doubtleſs, were ſome of thoſe many Antichriſts which the Apoſtle ſpeaks of here as writing to the Jews; and they alſo divided and ſeparated themſelves from the Church, and became Hereticks under the name of of Cerinthians, Nazarenes, and Ebionites. Cerinthus spread his Heresie in (a) Asia, the Province of St. John, saith Theodoret; and was (b) Contemporary with the Apostles. Whence (c) the Church desired him to write against Cerinthus and the Ebionites; and (d) St. John left the Bath because Cerinthus the Enemy of the Truth was in it. Moreover, these words, they were not of us, cannot be interpreted of the Elect, but of the Church in general; for from them they went out, and with them might have remained, not from the Elect who are not visible, nor could they have remained with the Church of the Elect, who were never of them. 2*dly*, Their going out from them for a season was no certain Argument they were not of the Elect, since 'tis confessed they may fall totally, though not finally.

Ver. 20. But ye have an unction from the holy one, and ye know all things, (ye to whom I write; which shews he speaks not of the Christians in general, but of them in particular.)

Ἀπὸ τοῦ ἁγίου, from the holy one.] i. e. From Jesus Christ emphatically so called, Act. 3. 14. Apoc. 3. 7. But then that Unction is the holy Spirit which he hath given to them that believe. For he being anointed with the oyl of gladness above his fellows, Psal. 45. 7. anointed by God with the Holy Ghost, Acts 10. 38. this Grace is given to Christians according to the measure of the gift of Christ, Eph. 4. 7. and we all beholding, as in a glass, the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same likeness as by the Spirit of the Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 18. See the Note there.

Καὶ οἴδατε πάντα, and ye know all things] Belonging to the saving Truths of the Gospel, he being promised to teach them all things, Joh. 14. 26. and to lead them into all truth, Joh. 16. 13. So (e) OEcumenius; You have received in Baptism the Unction of the Holy Spirit, who leads you into all truth.

Ver. 21. I have not written to you, because you know not the truth, (i. e. to instruct you as Persons ignorant of it,) but because ye know it, and that no lye (utter'd by these Antichrists and false Prophets) is of (or hath any communion with) the truth (of the Gospel.)

Ver. 22. Who is a lyar, but he who denieth that Jesus is the Christ? (i. e. who so emphatically deserves that Title, seeing) he is Antichrist (by way of eminency) who denieth the Father and the Son.

Ver. 23. (And let not the Jewish Antichrists pretend this belongs not to them who know the Father, for) Whosoever denieth the Son (of God) the same hath not (the true knowledge of) the Father.

Ἀρνούμενος τὸν υἱὸν, that denieth the Father, or hath not the Father.] To deny the Father here, is not to deny him to be the true God, as the Heathens did, but (1.) To deny the truth of his testimony: for, He that believeth not the testimony which God hath given to his Son, hath made him a lyar, Chap. 5. 10. whereas he that receives his testimony, hath set to his seal that God is true, Joh. 3. 33. (2.) To deny the Doctrine of the Father, or which proceedeth from him; for, He whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God, Joh. 3. 34. Whence it is evident, that he who denieth the Son, cannot thus retain the true knowledge of the Father, because no man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son who is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him, Joh. 1. 18. He only hath done it; for no man knoweth the Father, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him, Matt. 11. 27. By him only can we come acceptably to the Father, so as to have life; for he is the way, the truth, and the life, Joh. 14. 6. And by him only are we taught how to worship the Father in spirit and in truth, Joh. 4. 23, 24. Hence Christ so often tells the Jews they therefore wanted the true Knowledge of the Father, because they knew not him, saying, Ye neither know me nor my Father; if ye had known me, ye would have known the Father also, Joh. 8. 19, and 55. 14. 7. and these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father nor me, Joh. 16. 3.

Ver. 24. Let that (Doctrine) abide in you which you have heard from the beginning (preached to you;) for if that which you have heard from the beginning shall remain (and bring forth its due fruits) in you, ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father, (united to them by the Spirit, who also will instruct you in the saving knowledge of them both, Joh. 14. 23. 6. 56.)

Ver. 25. And this is the promise which he hath promised us (who thus remain in him, viz.) eternal life.

For the fruit of the Spirit is life, Rom. 8. 6, 11, 13, 16, 17. Gal. 6. 8. and he is given as the earnest of our future inheritance, to seal us up to the day of redemption, 2 Cor. 1. 22. 5. 5. Eph. 1. 13, 14. 4. 30. And this Life he hath often promised to us, Joh. 5. 25,

Ver. 26. Theſe things have I written concerning them that deceive you, (i.e. who endeavour ſo to do:)

Ver. 27. But (this not out of abſolute neceſſity; as if through ignorance you could not otherwiſe be preſerved from their Seductions, ver. 21. for) the anointing which ye have received from him (who is your Head) abideth in (or among) you, and (ſo) you need not that any man ſhould teach you, but as the ſame anointing (i.e. the Spirit of Wiſdom and Knowledge) teacheth you of all things (neceſſary,) and (for) it is truth, and is no lye, and even as it hath taught you, ye ſhall abide in him.

Note. The Quakers and other Sectaries hence argue againſt the neceſſity of the Miniſterial Function, or any Teachers of the Word, it being here ſaid, you need not that any teach you, &c. And others ſay, This ſeems to make all Scripture, and all that the Apoſtle writ to them, needleſs. But for Anſwer to this Objection, I ſay,

1*ſt*, That it muſt be granted, that in thoſe times of the Effuſion of the Spirit, and his miraculous Gifts upon Believers, this Unction was promiſed to teach them all things neceſſary, who had then no other Rule of knowing what was ſo, but by the teaching of the Apoſtles and Prophets then among them, acted by this Spirit, and teaching in their Aſſemblies, and doing other publick Offices by this Afflatus, and by the Spirit of Wiſdom and Inſtruction then imparted to them, and hereby they were enabled to diſtinguiſh betwixt Pretenders to the Spirit, and thoſe who really were acted by him. See Note on Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3. and to know they dwell in Chriſt, becauſe he had thus given them of this Spirit, John 3. 24. 4. 13. Which things do certainly imply, that they who then had the Spirit, could certainly know they had it, and make an Argument of it to try the Doctrines and Spirits of others, and much more in themſelves; but now theſe ſenſible Indications, and extraordinary Gifts of the Spirit are long ſince ceaſed, and therefore now they are to be directed by thoſe Writings which were Endited for their perpetual Uſe, by Men aſſiſted with that Spirit, who led them into all Truth; and ſurely if in thoſe times when the Gifts of the Spirit were ſo generally vouchſafed, they were yet taught by Apoſtles, Prophets, Evangeliſts, Paſtors and Doctors, aſſiſted by the Spirit for that work, 'tis reaſonable to believe that now theſe Gifts are ceaſed, Believers ſhould be yet inſtructed by Paſtors and Doctors aſſiſted by the Scriptures indited by theſe Spiritual Men. And therefore,

2*dly*, It is obſervable that the Apoſtle doth not here abſolutely ſay, they need not any one ſhould teach them, but only that they need not any one ſhould teach them but as this Unction taught them. Now the Apoſtles having this Unction in the higheſt Meaſure, theſe Words cannot exclude their Teachings, or render them unneceſſary, but rather muſt confirm them as a ſtanding Rule to all Poſterity. Till then theſe Sectaries can ſhew that they have ſtill ſuch an immediate and an extraordinary Afflatus of the Holy Spirit, as was then vouchſafed to the Primitive Chriſtians, they cannot hence conclude the outward Miniſtery of the Word, by Paſtors and Doctors ſet apart for that Work, to be unneceſſary.

Ver. 28. And now, (ἐν τῷ, now therefore,) little Children, abide in him (in the Profeſſion and Practice of what he hath taught you,) that when he ſhall appear we may have Confidence, (of the Life promiſed to them that do ſo, Ver. 25.) and may not be aſhamed before him, (Gr. may not be put to ſhame by him, or go aſhamed from him) at his coming (to Judgment, Chap. 4. 17. as being judged by him unworthy of this Life, as we ſhall not be, if we be found doing Righteouſneſs; for)

Ver. 29. If we know that he is righteous, we know that every one that doth Righteouſneſs is born of him. (As being born again of the Spirit derived from him, and ſo become a Son of God, and an Heir of Life, Rom. 8. 14, 17. and by this Spirit ſealed up unto the Day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30.)

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. Behold what manner of Love the Father hath beſtowed upon us, that we ſhould be called the Sons of God: therefore the World knoweth us not, (i.e. doth not acknowledge and affect us Chriſtians,) becauſe it knew him not. (The Heathens being wholly ignorant of the true God, and the Jews not knowing him according to his Will, John 8. 55. 15. 21. 16. 3. And as he had diſcovered himſelf to them by his Son, 1 John 2. 23. And this may comfort you againſt the Perſecutions of the World, that 'tis their want of that ſaving Knowledge of the true God, which miniſters ſo great Advantage to you, which cauſes them to diſaffect you.)

Τίνα ὁσὴν.] The Jews were ſtiled the Children, and the Sons of God, becauſe they owned him as their God and Father, and entred into covenant to ſerve him; and ſo became an holy People to the Lord; and he had choſen them to be his People, Deut. 14. 1. So we are all the ſons of God through Faith in Chriſt

Christ Jesus Gal. 3. 26. Joh. 1. 12. The Land in which they dwelt is stiled the Lord's Land, Hos. 9. 3. And they as being his first-born, Ex. 4. 22. Have it given them for an inheritance; but we, as being in a more spiritual sense the Sons of God, are heirs of God, joynt heirs of Christ, as being those that shall reign with him in his heavenly Kingdom, Rom. 8. 17. See the Note there. They in that Land enjoyed the Majestick Presence of that God who dwelt among them: and therefore saith he, the Land is mine, Lev. 25. 23. We as his Sons shall be admitted to his celestial Presence, where we shall see him as he is, v. 2. The enjoyment of the Land was unto them a type of the Heavenly Canaan which the Faithful among them were to enjoy; and therefore they are represented as Strangers and Sojourners with him in it. Whence the Apostle tells them, that there remained yet a Rest for the people of God, Heb. 4. 9. And the Patriarchs are said to have confessed that they were Strangers, and Pilgrims upon earth, and thereby to declare that they desired, and sought a better Country, that is, an heavenly, and that upon this account God called himself their God, viz. the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, because he had prepared for them a City, Hebr. 11. 13, 16. Now because they in their own persons could not enjoy this heavenly Country without a Resurrection, hence the Evangelist informs us, that they were the Sons of God, τῆς ἀναστάσεως υἱοὶ ὄντες, as being Sons of the Resurrection; the Redemption of their Bodies from Corruption, and the ἀναβίωσις, Revivifence, of that which once died and saw Corruption, being the consequent of this υἱοθεσία, Adoption, or Sonship of God's Children; hence therefore doth our Saviour firmly prove the Resurrection from those words, I am the God of Abraham, &c. Matth. 22. 32. Luk. 20. 36, 37. And thus you see how great is the love of God in owning us as his Sons, and have also a just Comment on the following words.

Ver. 2. Beloved, now are we the Sons of God, and it doth not appear what we shall be (made farther Partakers of, as the compleat import of that Title): but this we know, that when he doth appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

Ἐὰν φανερωθῇ, when he doth appear.] Note here,

1*st*, That as the Hebrew Particle אם, so the Conjunction ἐὰν signifies as well when, or postquam, after that, as if. So Judg. 6. 3. ὅταν ἔσπειρεν, when Israel sowed, 1 Sam. 1. 22. ἐὰν ἀπογαλακτίσω, when I have weaned him. Prov. 3. 24. ἐὰν κοιτάσῃς, ἐὰν καθεύδῃς, when thou liest down thou shalt not be afraid. So Judg. 21. 21. Psal. 138. 7. Prov. 4. 12. See Nold Partic. p. 87. 89. So Joh. 12. 32. ἐὰν ὑψωθῶ, when I am lifted up. 13. 20. ἐὰν πέμψω, when I send. 14. 3. ἐὰν πορευθῶ, when I go away. &c. 16. 7. Note,

2*dly*, That this is spoken of Christ seems evident. First, From the Word φανερωθῇ, which is used of Christ, Ver. 5. and agrees properly to him alone. And Secondly, From the Phrase we shall be like him, viz. Who shall change our vile Bodies into the likeness of his glorious Body, Phil. 3. 21. And cause us to bear the Image of the Lord from Heaven, by being raised with glorious and incorruptible Bodies, 1 Cor. 15. 47, 49. And from the Words, We shall see him as he is; i. e. in his Glory; this being his Prayer, That they whom God had given him, might be with him and behold his Glory, John 17. 24.

Ver. 3. And every man that hath this hope in him, (of seeing him in Glory) doth purifie himself as he is pure. (In whom was no Sin, Ver. 5.)

Καθὼς ἐκεῖνός.] For he being manifested to take away our Sins, Ver. 5. and to destroy the Works of the Devil in us, Ver. 8. they who expect to be made like to him hereafter, must be so here in Purity and Righteousness. But then let it be noted,

1. That this Imitation doth not require our Likeness to him we are to imitate in the Manner or inward Principle of his Actions, but only in the Quality, and as far as Humane Frailty will permit us, in the Measure of them: For Instance, it is as necessary for God to be absolutely perfect in Holiness and Goodness, as to be God; and yet we must be holy as he is holy, and perfect as our Heavenly Father is perfect. And it is generally asserted in the Schools, That the Obedience and perfect Holiness of Christ, did necessarily result from the most intimate Union of the Divine and Humane Nature, and from that Grace of Unction which he received without measure; whereas our Holiness and Obedience must be Acts of Choice, and so our Holiness and Virtue will proceed not from an inward Principle which doth necessitate us to be good, but from the Choice of our own Wills; and yet we must walk as he walked, and must purifie our selves as he is pure.

2*dly*, This Imitation doth not require an absolute Equality, or full Proportion of our Actions to the Example set before us, this being not consistent with the Frailty of our humane Nature. For the Example here is that of the Holy Jesus, in whom was no Sin, and who performed perfect Obedience to the whole Law of God, whereas in many things we offend all, and our Obedience will be still imperfect in this Life. When therefore we are commanded to be holy and perfect as God is, to walk as Christ walked, and to purifie our selves as he is pure, 'tis sicut Similitudinis, non æqualitatis: i. e. The Word as, binds us not to equal them in Holiness and Perfection; but to bear such a Likeness to them in these Perfections, as may discover that we truly aim at being holy in all manner of Conversation, and heartily endeavour to continue ſo, through the whole Tenour of our Lives.

Vain then is that Objection of the Socinians, That were Chriſt truly God, we could not poſſibly expect, nor therefore would it be our Duty to imitate him; for ſeeing the Example of God himſelf is made the Matter of our Imitation, the Argument muſt equally conclude againſt the Deity of God the Father. In a Word, a Likeneſs to him as far as humane Frailty will permit, may be our Duty though he ſhould be God; a perfect Likeneſs to him who did no Sin, could never be our Duty, though he were but Man.

Ver. 4. Whoſoever committeth Sin, tranſgreſſeth alſo the Law: for Sin is the Tranſgreſſion of the Law.

Ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, he that committeth Sin.] i. e. Who lives in the Commiſſion of it, lives in an Oppoſition to the Law of God. For he is of the Devil, Ver. 8. He is not born of God, Ver. 9. Which could not be truly ſaid of him that is Guilty of any one Sin, or Violation of God's holy Law.

Ver. 5. And ye know that he (i. e. Chriſt, Ver. 3.) was manifeſted to take away our Sins; (and not only by Suffering to remove the Guilt of our paſt Sins, but alſo to purifie us from the Power and Dominion of it, that henceforth we might not ſerve Sin, Rom. 6. 6. that ἁμαρτίαις ἀποθανόντες, being freed from Sin we might live unto Righteouſneſs; 1 Pet. 2. 24.) and in him is no Sin, (and ſo our Likeneſs to him muſt conſiſt in ceaſing from it.)

Ver. 6. Whoſoever (therefore) abideth in him, ſinneth not: whoſoever (thus) ſinneth, hath not ſeen him, neither known him (as the Truth is in Jeſus, Eph. 4. 21.)

Ver. 7. Little Children let no Man deceive you, with Pretenſions that Faith without Works of Righteouſneſs will make you Righteous before God, for only) he that doth Righteouſneſs is Righteous, even as he (i. e. Chriſt) is Righteous (by doing the Will of his Father, John 15. 10.)

Ver. 8. He that committeth Sin, is of the Devil; for the Devil (thus) ſinneth from the beginning. To this End was the Son of God manifeſted (to the World), that he might deſtroy the Works of the Devil.

Ver. 9. Whoſoever is born of God, doth not commit Sin; for his Seed (the Word of God, Matth. 13. 1 Pet. 1. 23.) remaineth in him, and he cannot ſin, becauſe he is born of God.

Ἐκ Θεοῦ, of God.] By the Spirit and the Word, John 3. 6, 8. Jam. 1. 18. 1 Pet. 1. 23. That is, he is preſerved from, and hath his Heart framed into an hatred and loathing of Sin. 1. By the Holy Spirit, abiding in him as a new Principle of Life luſting againſt the Fleſh, ſo that we cannot do the Things which that would have us do, Gal. 5. 16, 17.

Ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, he that committeth Sin, Ver. 6, 8, 9.] i. e. He that lives or goes on in any way of Sin. That this is the true Import of this Phraſe in the Writings of this Apoſtle, will appear, (1ſt,) From the ſame Phraſe uſed in his Goſpel, πᾶς ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, Whoſoever committeth Sin, is the Servant of Sin, John 8. 34. Now to be the Servant of Sin, is plainly to continue, and to live in it, Rom. 6. 1, 2. To yield obedience to it in the luſtings of it, Ver. 12. For then Sin reigns in our mortal Bodies, Ibid. And we are Slaves and Subjects to it, then doth it κυριεύειν, Lord it over us, and we are δοῦλοι εἰς ὑπακοὴν, Servants to yield Obedience to it, Ver. 14, 16. Though the Conſcience may boggle at it, our Reaſon may condemn it, our Will be ſomewhat averſe to it, ſo that in obeying it we do the Evil we would not; yet if ἡττώμεθα ὑπ' αὐτοῦ, We are ſo entangled as to be overcome by it: We are Servants to Corruption, for of what a Man is overcome, to that is he brought in Bondage, 2 Pet. 2. 19, 20. If the Law of our Members leads us captive to the Law of Sin, Rom. 7. 23. So that we yield our Members Inſtruments of Unrighteouſneſs to Sin, we ſo commit Sin as to be the Servants of Sin. And he that is born of God, cannot (thus) ſin, becauſe by that new Birth he is made free from (the Service of) Sin, John 8. 36. And become a Servant to Righteouſneſs, Rom. 6. 18. He hath that Seed within him, which alienates his Mind and his Affections from Sin, and that Spirit which cauſes him to mortifie the Deeds of the Fleſh, Rom. 8. 13. To die to Sin and to live to God, Rom. 6. 10.

(2dly,) From thoſe Words, neither can Sin, for ſo he doth not do it, as he cannot do it. Now that doth not import that a good Man cannot be overtaken with a Fault, Gal. 6. 1. No, even thoſe little Children whoſe Sins are forgiven, and who have known the Father, may and will be obnoxious ſtill to ſome Infirmities, and Wandrings out of the Way, Chap. 2. 1. They may Sin not unto Death, and therefore may have ſtill the Spiritual Life remaining in them, Chap. 5. 16, 17, 18. But the true import of that (a) Phraſe is this, That he hath ſuch an inward Frame of Heart, such a Disposition of Spirit, as renders Sin exceeding odious and hateful to him; so that he cannot entertain the Thoughts of doing it, or a Temptation to commit it, without the utmost Detestation, and the greatest Horror, and so can very rarely, and only through Surprize, or want of due Deliberation, or thro' such violent Temptations as prevent or hinder his Consideration, be obnoxious to them; and when he comes to consider of such an Action, is presently condemning himself for it, bitterly repenting of it, and for the future watching most carefully against it. Thus they that are evil cannot speak good things, Matth. 12. 34. A good Tree cannot bring forth bad Fruit, Matth. 17. 18. The World cannot hate those that are of it, John 7. 7. The Jews could not hear Christ's Word, John 8. 43. Could not believe, John. 12. 39. The World could not receive the Spirit, John 14. 17. They that are in the Flesh cannot please God, Rom. 8. 7, 8. The natural Man cannot know the things of God, 1 Cor. 2. 14. The Church of Ephesus could not bear the Wicked, Rev. 2. 2.

(2dly,) From the Phrase, He that committeth Sin is of the Devil; for 'tis not he who committeth one or more Sins of Infirmity, for so did Christ's Disciples while they were with him; nor he who committeth one great Sin through the Power of a strong Temptation, of which he bitterly repents, and from which he returns to his Obedience; for thus did David and St. Peter, who yet were not then the Children of the Devil: but they who comply with the Lusts of Satan, and who will do them, John 8. 44.

The other Interpretations which are given of these Words, seem either vain and impertinent, or false and dangerous. And,

1. Vain is that Sense which some put upon these Words, viz. He that is born of God, non debet peccare, ought not to sin; or that it is absurd for him to sin; for the Apostle speaks not of what he ought not to do, but of what he doth not. Such is that also of those Fathers, who interpret this of him who is perfectly born of God, by a παλιγγενεσία, or a Resurrection from the Dead; for the Apostle speaks not of what he shall not do hereafter, but of what he doth not do at present.

2. False seems to be the Sense which Origen, St. Jerom, and Ambrose put upon the Words, That he that is born of God sinneth not, quamdiu renatus est, whilst he is born of God, because he ceaseth to be a Child of God when he sins; for this is not only confuted by the Example of David and St. Peter, whose Faith under that great Miscarriage failed not, Luke 22. 32. but by the Words of this Apostle, Little Children, if we sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the Righteous: and he is the Propitiation for our Sins, Chap. 2. 1. who yet is only the Advocate for the Sons of God. For the same Reason I cannot assent to that Exposition which saith, a Child of God cannot be guilty of any great or deliberate Crime, as Tertullian De Pudicitia, Cap. 19.

3. Dangerous is the Exposition of (b) St. Bernard, That they who are born of God sin not, Quia etiamsi peccent, peccata illis neutiquam imputentur, because their Sins will never be imputed to them. And of those who think it sufficient to say, He sins not without great reluctancy, or not willingly, the Evil that he doth being that which he would not do; for the Will of that Man, who after some Contest in his Soul, yields to the Commission of Sin, is more strongly enclined to sin, than to the avoiding of it; and so is not renewed. Nor doth the Apostle say, He that is born of God Sins not willingly, or without Renitency, but absolutely, He doth not commit Sin.

I conclude this Note with that of our Judicious (c) Gataker, He that is born of God sinneth not; that is, vitam à peccato immunem quantum potest sibi proponit, nec peccato unquam sponte dat operam; si aliquando præter animi propositum deliquerit, non in eodem persistit, sed errore agnito ad institutum vitæ pristinum, quamprimum quantumque potest, festinus revertitur.

Ver. 10. In this the Children of God are manifest, and the Children of the Devil. Whosoever doth not righteousness is not of God, neither (is) he (so) that loveth not his brother, (and so both these are children of the Devil.)

Ὁ μὴ ποιῶν δικαιοσύνην, that doth not righteousness.] That is, he that doth not from an heart studious of conformity to him who is righteous, v. 7. and in obedience to his law commanding us to live righteously, exercise himself in sincere endeavours of walking righteously through the general course of his Life, is not a Child of God, because he only is born of God, and hath the divine Nature in him, who thus doth righteousness, 1 Joh. 2. 29. And he who doth not in truth, and in Actions demonstrating the sincerity of his affection to his Brother, v. 18. shew his love to him, he hath no true Love to God, Chap. 4. 21. and so is not born of God, nor can he be the Child of God, since he obeys not his Commandments, Chap. 5. 1.

Ver. 11. For this is the message which ye heard from the beginning, (or from the first preaching of the Gospel,) that we should love one another, (from a pure heart fervently, 1 Pet. 1. 23. and as Christ hath loved us, Joh. 15. 12.)

Ver. 12. (And if we be not children of the

Ver. 13. (And) Marvel not, my Brethren, if (in like manner) the world (the Seed of Cain, who are alſo of that wicked one, Joh. 8. 44. 1 Joh. 5. 19.) hate you.

Ver. 14. We know that we have paſſed from death unto life (i. e. that we have obtained a right to eſcape Death eternal, and enjoy everlaſting Life, Joh. 5. 24.) becauſe we love the Brethren (in deed and truth, v. 18. for this is a ſign that we are tranſlated from darkneſs to light, Chap. 2. 10. and ſo are children of the light, yea that we are born of God, Chap. 4. 7. and therefore children and heirs of God, Rom. 8. 17.) he that loveth not his brother abideth in (the ſtate, and under the ſentence of) death (he is ſtill in the darkneſs of Sin and Ignorance, Chap. 2. 11. which will end in eternal darkneſs.)

Ver. 15. (For) Whoſoever hateth his brother is (in the diſpoſition of his Heart and the Conſtruction of God's Law) a murtherer, (Matth. 5. 21, 22.) and ye know that no murtherer (being ſo great and wilful a Violater of the Moral Law) hath eternal life abiding in him. (He therefore muſt be expoſed to Death eternal, till with holy David, by a deep and long Repentance, he is delivered from blood-guiltineſs.)

Ver. 16. Hereby perceive we the love of God (to us,) becauſe he (who was his beloved Son, at his command, Joh. 10. 18.) laid down his life for us, (i. e. for our Salvation and the propitiation of our Sins;) and we alſo ought (in imitation of this Example) to lay down our lives (i. e. expoſe them to the death) for (the ſalvation of) the brethren. (Going on in the proſecution of our duty, to win them to life eternal, though with the hazard, and even the loſs, of this temporal life.)

Ver. 17. But (if Love require us thus to part with even life for them, then) whoſoever hath this world's goods, and ſeeth his brother have need (of ſome of them,) and (yet) ſhutteth up his bowels of compaſſion from him, (not being moved out of compaſſion to his indigence to give him what he hath to ſpare,) how dwelleth the love of God in him?

Ver. 18. My little Children, let us not love in word or in tongue only, (Jam. 2. 16.) but in deed and in truth, (in true affection of heart, 1 Pet. 1. 22. and in ſincerity of action, Rom. 12. 9. by love ſerving one another, Gal. 5. 13. not pitying only, but relieving them according to their wants, and our ability to ſupply them.)

Ver. 19. And hereby we (may) know that we are of the truth, and ſhall aſſure our hearts before him.

Ἐκ τῆς ἀληθείας ἐσμὲν, we are of the truth.] i. e. We are rightly acquainted with, and truly live according to the Rules delivered in that Goſpel which is emphatically ſtiled the Truth. See Note on Rom. 2. 8. This is the Truth ſo often mention'd in theſe Epiſtles, 1 Joh. 1. 6, 8. 2. 4, 21. 4. 6. 2 Epiſt. ver. 1, 2, 3, 4. Epiſt. 3. 3, 4, 8, 12. and in the Goſpel Chap. 1. 14, 17. 3. 21. 4. 23, 24. 5. 33. 8. 32. 17. 17. 18. 37.

Καὶ πείσομεν τὰς καρδίας ἡμῶν, and ſhall perſuade our hearts.] viz. that we are ſo in the ſight of God.

Ver. 20. For if our heart (the inward witneſs of our Thoughts and Actions) condemn us (of want of Sincerity and Obedience to the Truth of the Goſpel) God is greater than our hearts (both in Holineſs to condemn) and (in Knowledge to perceive the evil of them, for he) knoweth all things.

Ver. 21. (Whereas) beloved if our hearts (after a diligent ſearch of them, and a comparing of our Actions with the Law of Liberty) condemn us not (of Inſincerity in our Obedience,) then have we (humble) confidence with God (in our Addreſſes.)

Ver. 22. And whatſoever we ask (according to his will, Joh. 5. 14.) we receive of him, becauſe we keep his Commandments, and do thoſe things which are pleaſing in his ſight.

Ver. 23. And he that keepeth his commandments dwelleth in him (i. e. in God) and he (God) in him, and hereby we know that he abideth in us by (the efficacious Gifts of) the ſpirit which he hath given us.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. BEloved, believe not every (pretender to the) Spirit (of God,) but try the Spirits, whether they be of God (or not,) because many false Prophets are gone out into the world, (pretending to be the Christ, or the Messiah promised to the Jews.)

Ver. 2. (And for your direction in this trial,) Hereby know ye the Spirit of God (from that of error;) every Spirit (i. e. person pretending to the Spirit of God, or of prophecy) which confesseth that Jesus Christ (Gr. Jesus Christ which) is come in the flesh, is of God.

Ver. 3. And every (pretender to the) Spirit which confesseth not that Jesus Christ (Gr. Jesus Christ which) is come in the flesh, is not of God; and this is that Spirit of Antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come, and even now already is it in the world.

Note, The Jews being then generally in expectation of their Messiah, were divided into two parts, a Remnant who believ'd that he was come already, and that our Jesus was the very Person promised under that Character, and a more prevailing part of them who rejected him, and looked for another. Now among these appeared many who took upon them to be the Messiah, or the Prophet promised by Moses like unto him, saying, Lo Christ is here, and lo he is there: (See the Note on Matt. 24. 24, 26.) And these declaring themselves Prophets, must also pretend to the Spirit of Prophecy, and do this as Josephus saith they did, ὑποκρινόμενοι δαιμονίῳ under the pretence of a divine Afflatus. These, saith the Apostle here, are Antichrists, i. e. Pretenders falsly to be Christ, in opposition to him who truly was so; nor could they belong to him, or truly confess him who was the word made flesh. Now the strength of this Argument depends on these Considerations, that the effusion of the Spirit promised in the times of the Messiah could only belong to them who owned and believed in the true Messiah, this being made one character of the true Messiah, that he should baptize them who believed in him, with the Holy Ghost, Mat. 3. 11. This promise of the Father, as the Holy Ghost is stiled, was to be sent by Christ, Luk. 24. 49. to his Disciples, Joh. 16. 7. 15. 26. to be sent in his name, Joh. 14. 26. And when he came, his office was to enable those who received him to testifie of Christ that he was indeed risen from the dead, and was the Christ, Joh. 15. 26. Act. 1. 8. 5. 32. and to convince the world of sin because they believed not in him, Joh. 16. 9. The condition of receiving him was Faith in Christ, Joh. 7. 37. Act. 2. 38, 39. And by his assistance did his Disciples prove that Jesus Christ who appeared to the Jews in flesh, and was crucified among them, was the Christ. He therefore who was made partaker of the χαρίσματα of the Holy Ghost must be one who believed in that Jesus who suffered in the flesh for us; and therefore they who denied this, could not be assisted by the Spirit who was only sent by him, and given to believers: whence the Apostle saith, That no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus Anathema, as these false Prophets who own'd him not must do, 1 Cor. 12. 3, and that no man could say that Jesus was the Christ but by the Holy Ghost: that is, he could not confess, and testifie to the World this Truth, but by the assistance of the Holy Ghost promised, and given to Believers for that end. See v. 6, 13, 14, 15.

Note therefore, that the Apostle is not here speaking of the trial of Doctrine, but of Spirits, nor of the Faith necessary to be believed to Salvation, but only of the Faith necessary to the reception of the Holy Ghost, that Unction which would teach them all things, 1 Joh. 2. 27.

Ver. 4. Ye (to whom he hath given this Spirit Chap. 3. 24.) are of God, little children, and have overcome them, (these Antichrists and false Prophets,) because greater is he (the Spirit) that is in you, than he (the Spirit) which is in the world.

Καὶ νενικήκατε.] The Doctrine which you preach and confirm by these Gifts and Distributions of the Holy Ghost, hath mightily prevailed over all the opposition which the unbelieving Jews, and their false Prophets, and false Apostles, make against it; because the Spirit which acts in them is only able to work by them, ψευδη σημεῖα, false, Counterfeit, and lying Wonders; whereas the Spirit that is in you enables you to confirm the Truth with real Miracles, and Signs, and divers Distributions of the Holy Ghost by which God beareth witness to the truth of that Doctrine which you preach, Hebr. 2. 4. Rom. 15. 19. 1 Thess. 1. 5.

Ver. 5. They (these Antichrists and False Prophets) are of the world, (setting up to be temporal Princes, and to give to the Jews dominion over the Heathen World,) and therefore speak they of the World, (i. e. of that temporal Dominion over the Heathens, which the Carnal Jews expect, when their Messiah doth appear,) and the world (he that is worldly-minded) heareth them.

Dominion over the Heathens.] That the hopes of this encourag'd some of them to set up for the Messiah, and others to fight, see the Testimonies of Josephus; Note on James 4. v. 1, 2, 3.

v. 1, 2, 3. And on this account they rejected the true Meſſiah becauſe his Kingdom was not of this world.

Ver. 6. We are of God (Deriving our Faith and Doctrine from that Jeſus who was a prophet ſent from God, and delivered his Doctrine in his name. As therefore he ſaid to the Jews then, ſo we his Diſciples ſay now) he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. (Joh. 8. 47. 6. 45.) hereby know we the Spirit of truth, and the Spirit of Error (ſee Note on v. 1, 2, 3.)

When the Romiſh Prelates have once proved they are of God, as the Apoſtles did, it will be time to conſider the inference of Eſtius from this place, that he that is of God muſt hear their Prelates, and their Church, and come to them to be reſolved of any doubt by them.

Ver. 7. Beloved let us (who are of God, v. 6.) love one another, for love is of God (the fruit of his good Spirit in us, Gal. 5. 22. 1 Pet. 1. 22.) and every one that loveth is born of God, (by the Spirit, Joh. 3. 5.) and (this reſemblance he hath to him, in love to mankind in general, and to thoſe he hath ſo highly loved in particular, v. 9, 10. ſhews that he) knoweth God (aright, becauſe he keepeth his Commandments, Chap. 2. 3, 4.)

Ver. 8. He that loveth not (his Brother) knoweth not (Gr. hath not known) God (aright,) for God is (the God of) love.

Ὁ θεὸς ἀγάπη ἐστίν, God is love.] The Apoſtle by theſe words intends not to expreſs what God is in his eſſence, or to ſay, as the Schools do, that he is Love eſſentially, and Love cauſaliter as being the Cauſe, or objectivè, as being the Object of our Love, but that he is ſo demonſtrative, and ἐνεργητικῶς, ſhewing great Philanthropy to Men in all his dealings with them, or his diſpenſations toward them: as appears from the two following Verſes.

Ver. 9. In this was manifeſted (the Greatneſs of) the love of God toward us, becauſe that God ſent his only begotten Son into the world, (and freely gave him up to the death, Rom. 8. 32.) that we might live through him.

Ver. 10. Herein is (the demonſtration of his) love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us (firſt, v. 19.) and ſent his Son to be the propitiation for our Sins, (which deſerved death, and ſo to fit us for eternal life.)

Ἐν τούτῳ ἐστὶν ἡ ἀγάπη.] Here the Apoſtle moſt lively doth expreſs the Freedom, and the Greatneſs of the love of God; the Freedom of it, in that he loved us firſt, when there was nothing in us to deſerve or move affection, but our Miſery; but many things which both deſerv'd, and might have mov'd him to the execution of his Wrath, we being Enemies to God by wicked works. The Greatneſs of it, 1. In the Perſon ſending, the great God of heaven who humbles himſelf even to behold what's done in heaven and earth; oh! therefore what is man that he ſhould be thus mindful of him? 2ly. The Perſon ſent, ὁ μονογενὴς his only begotten, ἴδιον υἱὸν his proper Son, Rom. 8. 32. for if to call God πατέρα ἴδιον, his proper Father, was to make himſelf equal to God, Joh. 5. 18. the Father himſelf by calling him his proper Son muſt equally exalt him. Hence even Epiſcopius here declares him to be ſo called, becauſe eſſentiam ſuam à Patre per veram Generationem accepiſſet, he had received his Eſſence from the Father by a true Generation: For it is certain that the Apoſtle is here extolling the Love of God to the higheſt pitch, and therefore muſt uſe this Phraſe the only begotten Son of God in the ſublimeſt ſenſe in which that word is uſed in the Scripture. 3dly. The Place whither he was ſent, into the world which lay in wickedneſs. 4thly, The Errand for which he was ſent, 1. To give up himſelf a Sacrifice for the Propitiation of our Sins. See Note on Chap. 2. v. 2. 2dly, To procure to us, who were dead in treſpaſſes and Sins, eternal life.

Ver. 11. Beloved, if God ſo loved us, we ought alſo to love one another.

Ver. 12. (And ſay not, that it is enough that you love God again, though you love not your Brother, ver. 20. for) No man hath ſeen God at any time, (as we daily ſee and converſe with our Brother, and therefore if we love not him whom we have ſeen, how can we love God whom we have not ſeen, ver. 20. but) if we love one another (after his Example, though we ſee him not we may be ſure that) God dwelleth in us (by his Spirit,) and (that) his love is perfected in us.

Τετελειωμένη ἐστὶν, his love is perfected in us.] He then loves us entirely, according to thoſe words of Chriſt, If any man keep my words my father will love him, and we will come unto him, and take up our abode with him, Joh. 14. 23. Or then is our love to him entire, becauſe then we love him ſo as to keep his commandments, Chap. 2. 5. and ſo as to follow that example of Love which he hath ſet us; and as he is, ſo are we in the world, ver. 17.

Ver. 13. Hereby we know that we dwell in him, and he in us, becauſe he hath given us of his Spirit, (who by his powerful Energies proves whoſe Spirit he is.)

Ver. 14. And (by the Spirit given to us according to his Promiſe) we have ſeen, (i.e. perceived,) and do teſtifie, that the Father hath ſent his Son to be the Saviour of the world. (See Note on ver. 3.)

Ver. 15. Whoſoever, (believing this our Teſtimony,) ſhall (from his heart believe and Rom. 10. 9, 19.) confeſs, that Jeſus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God (by the ſpirit of Adoption.)

For to as many as received him gave he power to become the Sons of God, even to them that that believe on his name, John 1. 12. And because we are Sons, God hath sent the spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying Abba Father, Gal. 4. 6. Only let it be noted, that this hearty Confession must be attended with a readiness to believe all that this Son of God hath taught us in his Father's name, for if he say the truth, why do we not believe him? Joh. 8. 46. and a firm purpose to obey his Commandments, for why call we him Lord, Lord, and do not the things that he saith? Luk. 6. 46.

Ver. 16. And we (by this Spirit) have known, and believed the love that God hath (shewed) to us, (in sending his Son to be the Saviour of the World. v. 10, 11, 14.) God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him, (v. 7.)

Ver. 17. Herein is our Love made perfect, (i.e. exactly corresponding to the divine Pattern and Command, Note on ver. 12. so) that we (who thus love) may have boldness in the day of judgment, because as he is, so are we in this world, (conforming our selves to the pattern of God's affection to mankind, and walking as Christ walked, Chap. 2. 6.)

Ver. 18. There is no fear (of failing at that day) in love (thus perfect,) but perfect love casteth out fear, for (that) fear (which takes away this boldness) hath torment in it, (torments the mind with dreadful Expectations, and) he that (thus) feareth is not made perfect in love.

Οὐκ ἔστι φόβος ἐν τῇ ἀγάπῃ, there is no fear in love.] Christ having so expressly promised a Come ye blessed to the charitable person, Matt. 25. 34, 35, 36. and the Apostle recommending it as the most excellent of Christian Graces, 1 Cor. 13. 13. and the fulfilling of the Law, Rom. 13. 8, 10. when this Love is made perfect in us, it may well give Boldness, and cast out fear of Condemnation in the day of Judgment.

Others expound the words thus; There is no fear of what we may lose or suffer, in (perfect) love (of our Brother,) but (such) Love casteth out (this) Fear, for fear (of what we may lose or suffer) hath torment in it: (And therefore) he that thus feareth is not made perfect in love (to him.)

Ver. 19. We love him, (and testifie this love to him by loving our Brother for his sake, after his Example, and in Obedience to his Command,) because he loved us first.

That is, Whosoever thus loves God, and shews it by loving thus his Brother, can challenge nothing on that account as due from God, it being God's preventing Love to him, which gave the rise to all the Love he bears to God, or to his Brother for his sake. If therefore any person be constrained by this Love to that Obedience which testifies the sincerity of his Affection to God, or to imitate his Love to us by servile Love to the Brethren, 'tis the divine Philanthropy which hath excited this Affection in him. Or if ἀγαπῶμεν be the Subjunctive Mood, the sense runs thus. Let the great Love of God to us, mentioned ver. 9, 10. provoke us to returns of Love to him, and to our Brethren for his sake, since we do hypocritically pretend to love him, if we do not shew it by fervent Charity towards his Children, and our Brethren: for,

Ver. 20. If any man say, I love God, and (yet) hateth his brother, he is a Lyar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen.

That is, If what we have more opportunity to do, and can perform with less difficulty, we do not do, how shall we perform what is more difficult? Now we have our Christian Brethren still in our view, they are the Object of our Senses, we daily converse with them, and their Wants and Miseries being the Objects of our Senses, must naturally move Compassion in us; and so it is less difficult to express our Love to them, than to that God whom we have not seen, and who is only present to our Minds by raised Meditations, which do not naturally occur to us, and which we cannot long continue, and so is more difficult than the Love of our Brother.

Ver. 21. And (he moreover shews, by his Disobedience to the Command of God, the want of true Affection to him; for) this Commandment have we from him, that he who loveth God love his Brother also.

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ, is born of God; and every one that loveth him that begat, loveth him also that is begotten of him, (as being by this new birth Partaker of the divine Nature, and created anew after the Image of God, Ephes. 4. 24. Colos. 3. 10.)

ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ γεγέννηται, is born of God.] The Jews gloried in this Title, that they were the Children of God, and had him for their Father, John 8. 41, 42, 54. they being called his Sons, Deut. 14. 1. 32. 19. Psal. 72. 15. and his first-born, Exod. 4. 22. The Apostle therefore here informs them, that this Relation would stand them in no stead unless they were born again of Water, and of the Spirit, John 3. 5. or baptized into the Name of Christ, and by that Faith had Power to become the Sons of God, John 1. 12. and also loved those Christians which were born of him, which the unbelieving Jews and the false Teachers among them were so far from doing, that they every where persecuted perſecuted the true Bellevers. See Note on Chap. 3. 1.

Ver. 2. (And this Note is reciprocal, for) By this we know that we love the Children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments, (when our affection to God prevails upon us, to do to them all acts of Charity he hath required, and by his Example recommended to us, 1 Joh. 3. 11, 23. 4. 21.)

Ver. 3. For this is (the genuine teſt of) the love of God, that we keep his Commandments, and his Commandments (to the true lover of him) are not grievous.

Βαρεῖαι οὐκ εἰσὶν, are not grievous.] Becauſe his Will is conformed to the Will of God, and ſo he only doth what he would do, and his Affections are chiefly placed upon him, and ſo he is then doing what he chuſeth and delighteth in, and it cannot be grievous to be employed as we would, and as we do delight to be; moreover, God's Commandments cannot be grievous to him.

Ver. 4. For whoſoever is born of God overcometh the World, (his Affections are taken from it and ſet upon his God, and ſo it cannot be grievous to him to part with it, or ſuffer the loſs of any worldly Good to ſecure the divine Favour;) and this is the Victory which overcometh the world, even our Faith (to wit, that Faith which is the Subſtance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen, Hebr. 11. 1. which gives us the Aſſurance of a better and a more enduring Subſtance, and ſo makes us take joyfully the ſpoiling of our Goods, Heb. 10. 34. and patiently endure thoſe light afflictions which are but for a ſeaſon, as knowing they work for us an exceeding and eternal weight of glory, 2 Cor. 4. 17.)

Ver. 5. Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jeſus is the Son of God? (and ſo the Author of eternal Salvation to all that obey him? for hence we know that we have eternal life, ver. 11, 12, 13.)

Ver. 6. This is he that came by (or with the teſtimony of) water and blood, not by water only, but by water and blood; and it is the Spirit that beareth witneſs, (and on his Teſtimony we may rely,) becauſe the Spirit is truth.

That came.] Viz. In the name of God, Mat. 21. 9. in his Father's name, Joh. 5. 43. See Mat. 11. 3. John 1. 9, 15. Mat. 21. 9.

Δι' ὕδατος, by water.] That is, with the teſtimony of Water, or the teſtimony given to him by St. John at his Baptiſm; for when John was baptizing he teſtified of him, ſaying, This is he that cometh after me, who was before me, John 1. 27, 28. He alſo declar'd that he came baptizing for this very end, that he might be made manifeſt to Iſrael, ver. 31. and teſtified ſaying, I ſaw the ſpirit deſcending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him: And I knew him not; but he that ſent me to baptize with Water, the ſame ſaid unto me, Upon whom thou ſhalt ſee the ſpirit deſcending and remaining on him, the ſame is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghoſt. And I ſaw, and bare record that this is the Son of God, ver. 32, 33, 34. Hence is he ſtiled a man ſent from God, who came for a witneſs, to bear witneſs of the Light, that all men through him might believe, ver. 6, 7, 8. Hence do St. John's Diſciples ſay to him, He to whom thou beareſt witneſs baptizeth, John 3. 26. And Chriſt himſelf appealeth to his Teſtimony, John 5. 32, 33. Now this Teſtimony could not be rejected by them, for all men held John as a Propbet. Nor durſt the Phariſees themſelves deny that his Teſtimony was from Heaven, Matt. 21. 25, 26.

Καὶ αἵματος, and blood.] For he died in Teſtimony of this Truth, and came into the World for this end, that he might bear witneſs to the truth, Joh. 18. 37. Whence he is ſaid to witneſs before Pontius Pilare a good Confeſſion, viz. That he was the Son of God, or Meſſiah, the King of the Jews, 1 Tim. 6. 13. This he alſo teſtified to the High Prieſt, Matt. 26. 63, 64. And for this Teſtimony was he condemned as worthy of death, ver. 66. For this they mock him at his Sufferings, that he ſaid he was the Son of God, Matt. 27. 43. Mark 15. 32. And at his Death he commends his Spirit to God as his Father, Luke 23. 36, 46. The Miracles which attended his Crucifixion were ſo great, that they forced the Jews, the Centurion, and thoſe that were with him, to confeſs truly this was the Son of God, Matt. 27. 54. and the whole multitude to ſmite their Breaſts, Luke 23. 48. In a word, the Spirit which aſſiſted the Baptiſt proclaimed him the Lamb of God who taketh away the Sins of the World, Joh. 1. 30. And that ſuppoſeth he was to offer up himſelf unto the Death, for the Propitiation of their Sins. Yea he himſelf doth frequently declare, that he was to be ſlain, Matth. 16. 21. to be delivered into the hands of men, and kill'd, Matt. 17. 22, 23. to be condemned to death, Matt. 20. 18, 19. and to riſe again the third day. That he was to be lifted up upon the Croſs, Joh. 3. 14. and that being thus lifted up, he would draw all men to him, John 12. 32. Now what Impoſtor would lay this as the Foundation of the Truth of all his Sayings, and all the hopes of any Bleſſings which were to be expected from him, that he ſhould be crucify'd, and die an ignominious and painful death? Or, What could tempt him thus to die who had no hopes to riſe again, if he were not the true Meſſiah, or the Son of God? How was it poſſible he ſhould be raiſed from the Dead, but by the mighty Power of God? And is it reaſonable to imagine that the God of Truth ſhould thus exert the Greatneſs of his Power in Confirmation of a Lye? That he ſhould work ſo great a Miracle in favour of a vile a vile Impoſtor falſly uſurping his Name? or give ſuch large Credentials to one who falſly did pretend to be a Prophet ſent from God, and to be honoured as his Son by all men.

Καὶ τὸ πνεῦμα ἐστι, &c. and 'tis the ſpirit that beareth witneſs.] Here it is to be noted, that the Witneſs in this Verſe is only ſtiled τὸ πνεῦμα, viz. that Spirit which enabled Chriſt to heal Diſeaſes, caſt out Devils, raiſe the Dead, and work all ſorts of Miracles, for Confirmation of his Miſſion; but in the 7th Verſe he is ſtiled τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα the Holy Ghoſt, which doth diſtinctly ſignifie the inward Gifts by which the Underſtanding is enlightned, and is enabled to perform things which by Nature it could not do without the immediate Workings of the Holy Ghoſt, as v. g. the Gifts of Wiſdom, Knowledge, Faith, Prophecy, diſcerning of Spirits, the Gift of Tongues, and the Interpretation of them. That there is ground for this Diſtinction, will appear from theſe Conſiderations:

1. Becauſe our Saviour, whilſt he was on Earth, gave to his Apoſtles and the Seventy Diſciples Power to heal the Sick, cleanſe the Lepers, raiſe the Dead, and caſt out Devils, Matt. 10. 8. Luk. 10. 9. And yet the Evangeliſt St. John informs us that the Holy Ghoſt was not yet, becauſe that Jeſus was not glorified, Joh. 7. 39. Our Saviour alſo tells his Diſciples, that the Holy Ghoſt would not come till he departed, John 16. 7. And St. Peter, that our Lord being exalted to the right hand of God, received the Promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 2. 33. The Holy Ghoſt muſt therefore ſignifie ſomething diſtinct from the power of working Miracles.

2. The Prophecy of Joel, which by S. Peter is mention'd as the Promiſe on which the Giving of the Holy Ghoſt was founded, is only a Promiſe of Viſions, Dreams, and Prophecies, but not of Miracles; and the Gifts of the Spirit, mention'd by the Prophet Iſaiah, are only thoſe of Wiſdom, Knowledge, Underſtanding, Counſel, Courage, Piety, and of the Fear of the Lord, no mention being made there of Signs and Wonders.

3. Becauſe throughout the Hiſtory of the Acts of the Apoſtles, where St. Luke hath occaſion to mention the Miracles which the Apoſtles and primitive Profeſſors did, he always uſes the words τέρατα, σημεῖα, δυνάμεις, Wonders, Signs, Powers; but where he ſpeaks of Perſons propheſying, or ſpeaking with Tongues, he doth as conſtantly aſcribe this to the Holy Ghoſt deſcending on them.

And laſtly, where the Scripture mentions theſe things together, it puts a manifeſt diſtinction betwixt Signs and Wonders, and the Gifts and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt. Thus God, ſaith the Apoſtle, bore witneſs to the Doctrine which they preach'd by Signs and Wonders, and divers Miracles, καὶ πνεύματος ἁγίου μερισμοῖς, and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, Hebr. 2. 4. See Rom. 15. 19. Galat. 3. 5.

The Spirit therefore bore witneſs to Chriſt on Earth by the enabling him to do ſo many mighty works in confirmation of his Miſſion, to heal all manner of Diſeaſes, Sickneſſes, and Maladies, to command the Wind and Seas to be obedient to him, to caſt out Devils, and to raiſe the dead, and by aſſiſting his Apoſtles and Diſciples to do theſe things in his name. For that not only his Diſciples, but even our Lord himſelf, did caſt out Devils by the Spirit of God, he himſelf expreſly teſtifies, Matt. 12. 28. and ſaith moreover, that in him was fulfilled that of Iſaiah, The ſpirit of the Lord is upon me, wherefore he hath anointed me to preach the Goſpel to the poor; he hath ſent me to heal the broken in heart, to preach deliverance to the Captives (to Sin and Satan,) and to give ſight to the blind, Luke 4. 18, 20. Hence St. Peter ſpeaks thus to Cornelius, and his Friends, You know how God anointed Jeſus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghoſt, and with Power, who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppreſſed of the Devil, Acts 10. 38. And to theſe works thus wrought by the aſſiſtance of the Spirit of God, our Lord doth frequently appeal as to a ſure Teſtimony that God had ſent him. For the works, ſaith he, that I do in my fathers name bear witneſs of me, John 10. 24. and 5. 36. yea they ſhew that the Father was in him, and he in the Father, Joh. 10. 37, 38. and 14. 10, 11.

Ver. 7. (The Law judges that ſufficiently proved which is confirmed by two or three witneſſes, Deut. 19. 15. That Jeſus is the Son of God, v. 5. is thus proved by witneſſes from Heaven, and on earth,) For there are three that bear witneſs (to this truth) in (and from) heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghoſt, and theſe three are one (as in Teſtimony, ſo in Eſſence.)

Τρεῖς εἰσιν οἱ μαρτυροῦντες ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ, there are three that bear witneſs in Heaven, &c.] I ſhall ſay nothing of the Diſpute whether this Verſe be Genuine or not, ſeeing the Learned Dr. Mills treats ſo copiouſly on that Subject in his Edition of the New Teſtament. I only note, that the places cited from Tertullian and St. Cyprian agree not exactly with the words of St. John, ſeeing they ſpeak de Patre Filio & Spiritu Sancto, not of the Father, the word, and the Holy Ghoſt. The Objections of Schlictingius againſt this Verſe are theſe, Obj. 1. That this Verſe, though it be introduced with ὅτι for, hath no coherence with the former Verſe.

Anſw. It coheres well with it thus, the witneſs of the Spirit ought in this matter to be received, becauſe he is the Spirit of Truth ſent from the Father, and the Son; for in the Teſtimony of this Holy Spirit ſent down from Heaven, is contained the witneſs of the Father, ther, and the Son alſo, ſo that we may truly ſay there be three that bear witneſs.

Obj. 2. But if ſo, the Teſtimony of the Father is included in the Teſtimony of the Holy Ghoſt.

Anſw. True. And by this theſe three Witneſſes become one in Teſtimony, and yet they differ as the perſon ſending, and the perſon ſent.

Obj. 3. The λόγος, or Word, is the Son of God; and therefore to ſay he teſtifies of the Son of God, is to make him teſtifie of himſelf.

Anſw. It is confeſs'd that the ſame Perſon is both the λόγος, and the Son of God, but the thing teſtified is not that Chriſt was the λόγος, or the Son of God by eternal Generation, or by his miraculous Conception, but that he was the Chriſt the promiſed Meſſiah, and in that ſenſe the Son of God; and to this the Divine Nature might give Teſtimony.

Ὁ πατήρ, the Father] Teſtified this at his Baptiſm by his Voice from Heaven, ſaying, This is my beloved Son, &c. Mat. 3. 17. and at his Transfiguration ſaying again, this is my beloved Son, hear him, Mat. 17. 5, 6. See Note on 2 Pet. 1. 14, 15, 16. and chiefly by ſending the Holy Ghoſt which he had promiſed in the times of the Meſſiah, aud who is therefore ſtiled the Promiſe of the Father, Luk. 24. 49. Act. 1. 4.

Ὁ λόγος, the Word.] Not only by appearing to St. Stephen, Act. 7. 56. and ſaying to Saul, I am Jeſus whom thou perſecuteſt, Acts 9. 5. but chiefly by ſhedding the Spirit on the Apoſtles, and other Believers, according to his Promiſe; for he being exalted to the right hand of God, and receiving from the Father the promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, hath, ſaith St. Peter, ſhed forth this which ye now ſee and hear; wherefore let all the Houſe of Iſrael know, that God hath made this Jeſus Lord, and Chriſt, Act. 2. 33, 36.

Τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα, the Holy Ghoſt.] The Power from on high they were to be endued with Luk. 24. 49. by falling down from Heaven upon his Diſciples, whence they were filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and ſpake with Tongues to Men of all Nations the wonderful things of God. Till his deſcent upon them, they were not to ſtir from Jeruſalem, as being not fitted for their work, Act. 1. 4. but when he was once given, then were they to appear as his Witneſſes, v. 8. And by the Holy Ghoſt thus given to them that believ'd, they proved, and bare witneſs that God had exalted Jeſus to his right hand to be a Prince, and a Saviour, Act. 5, 31, 32. And this our Lord, by his Omniſcience, foretold that he ſhould teſtifie of him, Joh. 15. 26. yea that at his coming he ſhould convince the world of Sin becauſe they believed not in him, of (his) righteouſneſs, becauſe he was gone to the Father, and of Judgment, becauſe the Prince of the World was judg'd, and caſt out of his Kingdom by him, Joh. 15. 9, 10, 11. Joh. 12. 31.

And thus 'tis eaſie to diſcern how theſe three are one in Teſtimony, becauſe both the Father, and the Son, give in their Teſtimony by the Holy Ghoſt; but then if theſe be three Witneſſes properly ſo called, they muſt be three Perſons, and more eſpecially the Holy Ghoſt by whom the other perſons do bear witneſs, muſt be ſo; and if his Teſtimony be alſo the Teſtimony of God the Father and the Word, he muſt be one in Eſſence with them: for if the Spirit be a Creature, how can his Teſtimony be formally the Teſtimony of God as it is ſtiled v. 9, 10.

Ver. 8. And there are three that bear witneſs on earth, the Spirit, the water, and the blood, and theſe three agree in one.

Εἰς τὸ ἕν εἰσιν, agree in one.] If by τὸ ἕν, v. 7. were meant no more than εἷς ἐν ἐσιν here, why did the Apoſtle change the words, ſince theſe three alſo are one in Teſtimony, as that imports this only, that they confirm this fundamental Truth, that Jeſus is the Chriſt the Son of God Eſpecially if we conſider what is inſinuated v. 6. that of theſe three the Spirit only beareth witneſs properly, the other by ſome action of the Spirit attending them, and by the Teſtimony of others of it; the Water by the Spirit's deſcending on Chriſt whilſt he was in the Water, and the Baptiſt's Teſtimony that by this ſign God had declared to him that he was the Chriſt; the Blood as it aſſures us that he who ſhed it died for the Truth.

Ver. 9. If we receive the witneſs of men (in theſe Caſes) the witneſs of God is greater (of more Validity and Certainty than that of men, he being neither liable to Ignorance, nor Falſhood; and if his Teſtimony be of ſuch force, we muſt believe that Jeſus is the Chriſt,) for this is the Teſtimony of God which he hath teſtified of his Son.

Εἰ τὴν μαρτυρίαν τῶν ἀνθρώπων λαμβάνομεν, if we receive the witneſs of men.] This is not ſo to be interpreted, as if the three Witneſſes on Earth related only to the Teſtimony of Men, and the three from Heaven only to the Teſtimony of God; and ſo the Apoſtle intended here to ſignifie we had greater reaſon to believe the Witneſſes in Heaven than thoſe on Earth; for, 1. The Teſtimony of the Spirit, and of the Holy Ghoſt, are of equal Certainty and Validity: and 2. John Baptiſt being ſent from God, Joh. 1. 6. and his Baptiſm being from Heaven, and not of Men, Matth. 21. 25. was alſo in effect the Teſtimony of God. The Import therefore of theſe words is rather this: If the Teſtimony of two or three Men be thought ſufficient to give Credit to any Matter in all Courts of Judicature, ſurely the Teſtimony of that God, v. 8. who cannot lye, or deceive us, muſt be of greater force and ſtrength to produce Faith in us.

Ver.

Ver. 10. He that believeth on the Son hath the witness in himself, (as having in himself that Spirit of God which gives this Testimony to Christ,) he that believeth not (this Testimony of) God hath made him a lyar, because he believeth not that record which God gave of his Son.

Ver. 11. And this is the (subject of this) record, that God hath given to us (Christians the promise of) eternal life, and that life is in his son, (he being the hope of glory, Col. 1. 27. this life being hid with Christ in God, Col. 3. 4. and he being our life, ibid. he being the Author and Procurer of it, and having power to confer it on us, Joh. 17. 2.)

Ver. 12. He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son hath not life. (For we are all the children of God through faith in Jesus Christ, Gal. 3. 26. and if children then heirs, Rom. 8. 17.)

Ver. 13. These things have I written to you that believe on the name of the Son of God, that ye may know ye have (by Promise a right to, and by the Spirit an earnest of) eternal life, and that ye may (more firmly) believe in the name of the Son of God.

Ver. 14. And this is the (farther) confidence that we have in (and through) him, that if we ask any thing (of God, Chap. 3. 21, 22.) according to his will, he heareth us, (according to Christ's Promise, Joh. 14. 13, 14. 15. 7, 16. 16. 23, 24.)

Ver. 15. And if we know that he heareth us whatever we (thus) ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him, Ch. 3. 22.

Ver. 16. If any man see his (sick) brother sin a sin which is not unto death, (i. e. for which God hath not peremptorily threatned, and required that he should die for it, as he did to them that were guilty of Murther, Gen. 9. 5, 6. Numb. 35. 30, 31. and for Idolatry, Deut. 17. 2, 3, 4, 5.) he shall ask (of God Restoration of his Life and Health,) and he shall give him life for them that sin not (thus) unto death. There is a sin unto death (of which God hath denounced that he that doth it shall die for it:) I do not say that he shall pray for it, (i. e. for deliverance of the person guilty of it from death.)

Ver. 17. All unrighteousness is sin, and there is a sin (of Unrighteousness against our Brother, which is) not unto death, (the Law requiring not that the guilty person should die for it, but only that he should bring his Offering, and make reparation for it.)

Ἁμαρτία πρὸς θάνατον, a sin unto death.] Note here, That the Phrase he shall give him life, cannot be reasonably interpreted of eternal Life, for that depends not on the Prayers of other Men, nor can they be certain that their Intercession shall prevail for it, since it belongs only to them who truly repent, and reform their Lives. 2. Because the Person to be pray'd for is one that hath not sinn'd unto death, i. e. hath not committed a Sin which renders him obnoxious to Death eternal. 3. They who interpret this Phrase a sin unto death, of a Sin on which eternal Death will certainly follow by the Decree of God, 1. Make the Duty here enjoin'd impracticable; for who can know when his Brother's Sin is thus to Death or not, who is acquainted with any such Decree of God? 2. They make the difference betwixt a Sin unto Death, and not to Death, to consist not in the nature of the Sins themselves, but in the Decree by God pass'd upon the Sinner. 3. They make the Apostle say, he dares not encourage them to pray for the Salvation of them who are at present in a state of Death and Condemnation, which is against the tenour of the Scripture. See Rom. 10. 1. The words if a man see his brother sin a sin not unto death, seem like to those of St. Paul, if he see him overtaken with a fault, Gal. 6. 1. i. e. with an act of Injustice against his Brother, to awaken him out of which Sin God hath inflicted Sickness on him, as he did on the Corinthians, 1 Cor. 11. 30. The words Let him ask and he shall give him life, seem parallel to those of St. James, The prayer of Faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up. See the Note on Jam. 5. 15. If this Interpretation will not stand good, consider, that after all the Miracles and Distributions of the Holy Ghost vouchsafed in confirmation of the Gospel, too many of the Jews Apostatized from the Profession of it, relapsing to their former Judaism. And this Apostacy may here be termed the sin unto death; it being also that which our Saviour represents as the Sin against the Holy Ghost which should not be forgiven, Mat. 12. 32. And they who commit it being Men, saith the Apostle, whom it is impossible to renew unto Repentance, Heb. 6. 4, 5, 6. and to whom there remaineth nothing but fearful looking for of judgment, Heb. 10. 26, 27. the Apostle might well add, I do not say that you shall pray for them.

Ver. 18. We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not, (thus Chap. 3. 15.) but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and the wicked one toucheth him not. (See Note on Chap. 3. 9.

Ver. 19. And we know that we are (begotten) of God, and (that) the whole world lieth still in wickedness.

Ἐν τῷ πονηρῷ.] In Satan, who worketh in the children of disobedience, Eph. 3. 2. and leads them captive at his will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. Whence by Faith in Christ we are said to be translated from the power of darkness, Col. 1. 13. from the power of Satan, Acts 26. 18. and recovered from the snare of the Devil.

Ver. 20. And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an understanding, that we may know him that is (the) true (God): and we are in him that is true, (even, or to wit) in his Son Jeſus Chriſt. This is the true God, and (in him is) eternal life.

Οὗτος ἐστιν ὁ ἀληθινὸς θεὸς, he is the true God.] That this is not ſpoken of Chriſt the Socinians endeavour to prove, becauſe the Article is here added to the word θεὸς God; which is never, ſay they, done when Chriſt is called God: But this is manifeſtly falſe, for Thomas ſaith expreſly of him, ὁ κύριός μου καὶ ὁ θεός μου my Lord and my God, Joh. 20. 28. and the Apoſtle, ὁ ὢν ἐπὶ πάντων θεὸς who is God over all, bleſſed for ever, Rom. 9. 5. We prove that this is ſpoken of Chriſt,

1. Becauſe the demonſtrative Pronoun οὗτος moſt appoſitely relates to that which immediately went before; now this is Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God.

To this the Socinians anſwer, That this is not always ſo; theſe Relatives often referring to what is (a) more remote: and ſo this οὗτος may refer to the true God going before. To this we reply,

1. That when this happens to be ſo, the neceſſity of referring it to what is more remote is evident from the Text, and neceſſary from the nature of the thing; as when 'tis ſaid Acts 4. 11. οὗτος this is the ſtone ſet at nought by you Builders, this cannot be referr'd to the Man that was made whole, ver. 10. and Acts 7. 19. οὗτος he dealt ſubtilly with our Nation, this cannot refer to Joſeph, but to the King of Egypt. So alſo Acts 10. 5, 6. 2 Theſſ. 2. 9. 2 Joh. 7. But here is no neceſſity of referring the Pronoun to any thing more remote, but on ſuppoſition that Chriſt is not truly God.

2. This never happens when the Pronoun relates to any thing that is ſpoken of profeſſedly, but only when the neareſt Antecedent is only mention'd accidentally, and by the bye. So Ep. 2. 7. Many Deceivers are gone out into the world who confeſs not that Jeſus is the Chriſt, οὗτος he is a Deceiver and an Anti-chriſt. Where, the Pronoun refers not to Chriſt, becauſe he is there mention'd only by accident, as being the object of the Errour of theſe Seducers: and ſo it is in all the other places cited. But here the Apoſtle is profeſſedly ſpeaking of Chriſt through the whole Verſe, and of the Father, only as we by Chriſt are taught to know him. And,

3. To refer this to the true God going before, makes the Apoſtle guilty of a Tautology, by ſaying, the true God, he is the true God.

2. Of the ſame Perſon it is here ſaid, He is the true God, and eternal life. Now eternal life is in this very Chapter thrice aſcribed to the Son as the Author of it, ver. 11, 12, 13. He is ſtiled ζωὴ life Joh. 1. 4. 5. 11. 14. 6. 17. 2. our life Col. 3. 4. Chriſt is here alſo ſtiled ὁ ἀληθινὸς the true, as alſo Rev. 3. 7. 19. 11. for otherwiſe the Greek ſhould have been ἵνωμεν that we may or might be, to anſwer to γινώσκομεν that we might know, and not ἐσμὲν we are in the true.

Ver. 21. (Having therefore this knowledge of the true God) Little Children, keep your ſelves from Idols (or falſe Gods,) Amen.

Ἀπὸ τῶν εἰδώλων, from the Idols, or falſe Gods of the Heathens, among whom you live: ſo 1 Theſſ. 1. 9. They turned ἀπὸ τῶν εἰδώλων from Idols to the true and living God; thus an Idol is nothing in the world, i. e. no true God, becauſe there is but one true God, 2 Cor. 8. 4. Thus to eat things offer'd to Idols συνειδήσει τοῦ εἰδώλου with conſcience of the Idol, is to eat it with apprehenſion that there was ſomewhat of Power or Vertue in the God to whom 'twas offer'd. Nevertheleſs, becauſe theſe falſe Gods were ſtill repreſented by, and worſhipped in their Images, and they were thought (b) neceſſary to the Worſhip of their Deities, therefore the Apoſtle uſeth here the word Idols, and equally forbids that way of worſhipping the true God.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epiſtle of St. JOHN.

THAT St. John the Apoſtle was the Author of the Firſt Epiſtle, is confeſſed by all the Ancients, and that the ſame Perſon was the Author of this Epiſtle, is evident from the exact Agreement of almoſt every Word of this with the former, except the Preface and Concluſion. For, 1ſt, Theſe Words in the Fifth Verſe, I write no new Commandment to you, but that which you have had from the beginning, that ye love one another, are the ſame with thoſe Ep. 1. Chap. 2. 8, 10. Chap. 3. 10.

2dly, Theſe Words in the Sixth Verſe, This is Love, that we walk after his Commandments, are the ſame with 1 Ep. 5. 3. and the following Words are in ſenſe the ſame with Chap. 4. 21.

3dly, Theſe Words in the Seventh Verſe, For many Deceivers are gone out into the World, who confeſs not that Jeſus Chriſt is come in the Fleſh; he is a Deceiver and an Antichriſt, are in ſenſe the ſame with 1 John 2. 18, 19, 26. Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3.

4thly, Theſe Words Ver. 9. He that tranſgreſſeth and abideth not in the Doctrine of Chriſt, hath not God; he that abideth in the Doctrine of Chriſt, hath the Father and the Son, are in Senſe the ſame with 1 John 23, 24.

5thly, Theſe Words, Ver. 12. That your Joy may be full, are expreſly found 1 John 1. 4.

Moreover, the Arguments which Grotius advances to the contrary, as Magna Argumenta, are of no Force againſt, but rather may be uſed as Confirmations of this Aſſertion, That St. John the Apoſtle was the Author of this Epiſtle. For whereas it is objected that Euſebius puts this and the following Epiſtle among the doubtful Epiſtles, leaving it uncertain whether they were written by the Apoſtle, or by John Biſhop of Epheſus, to whom they were aſcribed, ſaith St. Jerom, it is to be noted from Euſebius, that though by ſome they were doubted of, yet (a) were they known to many of the Ancients. Yea, This Second Epiſtle is cited twice by Irenæus, as the Genuine Epiſtle of St. John the Apoſtle and Diſciple of our Lord declaring that they who denied that Jeſus Chriſt was come in the Fleſh, were (b) Seducers and Antichriſts, Ver. 7th and the 8th, and they who bid the (c) Heretick good Speed, are Partakers of his Evil Deeds; which are the Words found, Ver. 10.

And in the Council of Carthage, held Anno Domini 256. (d) Aurelius cites the Tenth Verſe as the Words of St. John the Apoſtle of the Lord.

And (f) Epiphanius ſaith, That the Alogi, who rejected his Goſpel and Revelations, would perhaps reject his Epiſtles alſo. So that we have here the Teſtimony both of the Eaſt and of the Weſt, concerning the true Author of this Epiſtle, that it was John the Apoſtle and Diſciple of our Lord; which ſure muſt be Proof ſufficient againſt a bare Doubt, or the Silence of ſome Men about this Matter, of which Origen (g) ſpeaks. The other Arguments of Grotius are ſo fully anſwered by Dr. Hammond in his Preface to this Epiſtle, that 'tis ſuperfluous to ſay any thing more upon that Subject.

As for the Name Catholick, that alſo ſeems to be given to this and the following Epiſtle, not as being written to all in general, ſome of the Ancients conceiving this was written only to one Family, as was the other to one Perſon; but as (h) Cotelerius notes, becauſe they were admitted by many Churches, and read as Catholick Epiſtles.

A
Paraphraſe with Annotations
ON THE
Second Epiſtle of St. JOHN.

Ver. 1. THE Elder to the Elect Lady and her Children whom I love in the truth; and not only I, but alſo all that have known the truth.

Πρεσβύτερος, the Elder.] That the Apoſtle ſhould in this Epiſtle conceal his Name, as in the former he had done, is ſo far from being an Argument to conclude he was not the Author of it, that it proves rather the contrary, he being, as it is obſerved by Dr. Hammond, the only Apoſtle that affected to conceal his Name; and who, in his Goſpel ſcarce ever ſpeaks of himſelf without ſome Circumlocution.

That he ſhould call himſelf Elder, and not Apoſtle, as St. Peter alſo doth, is no more an Argument againſt the Apoſtleſhip of the one than of the other. The word Elder being a Name of Honour and Dignity belonging to the chief of their Tribes, agrees very well with the Office of the Apoſtles, ſet over the twelve Tribes of the Houſe of Iſrael. But if this Epiſtle was written before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, as is probably collected from that Caution given in it, ver. 7, 8. to beware of the Deceivers that were gone out into the world, that they might not loſe the things which they had wrought, The Apoſtle could not then be ſo aged when he writ it as he is generally thought to have been, though he might be then ſeventy years old, and therefore aged. See Note on Philemon, ver. 9.

Ἐκλεκτῇ κυρίᾳ, to the Elect Lady.] That the Apoſtle wrote this Epiſtle to a ſingle Perſon who was of honourable Deſcent, and therefore ſtiled Lady, will not follow from the mention of her Children, ver. 4. ſeeing that Phraſe is uſed both of the Members of the Jewiſh and the Chriſtian Church, Iſa. 54. 1. Gal. 4. 25, 27, 28, 31. nor from the words I hope to come to you, and ſpeak mouth to mouth; for ſo St. Paul did to the Church of Jeruſalem, when he declared to them what things God had wrought by him and Barnabas, Acts 15. 4. and ſo might St. John do to that or any other Church. It ſeems rather, from the words I have many things to write to you, and from the Children of the Elect Siſter, mention'd ver. 12, 13. that it ſhould be ſome Chriſtian Church. And then I think there is great reaſon to conjecture it muſt not be that of Epheſus, but ſome Jewiſh Church, and moſt probably that of Jeruſalem, the Mother of all Churches. For,

1. All the other Epiſtles, excepting that one to Gaius, which paſs under the name of Catholick, were written to the Jews; and ſo this probably muſt be ſo.

2. As other Churches are ſtiled Συνεκλεκτοὶ elected together with her, 1 Pet. 5. 13. So is the Church of the Jews ſtiled throughout the Old Teſtament the Elect, and the Converts of them in the New the Elect, Matth. 24. 22. and the Election, Rom. 11. 5, 7.

3. The Phraſe the word that ye have heard, the truth you have receiv'd ἀπ' ἀρχῆς from the beginning, ſeems moſt properly to agree to them to whom it was neceſſary that the word of God ſhould be firſt preached, Acts 13. 41.

4. This Church being that Church from whence the Word came out to all other Churches, who all received of her ſpiritual things, ſhe may on that account by the Apoſtle of the Circumciſion be well ſtiled κυρία, as being the Lady and Mother of all other Churches: and ſo we find that anciently both ſhe and her Biſhops were at firſt preferr'd before before other Biſhops and Churches; whence the (a) Emperour Juſtinus, in his Epiſtle to Pope Hormiſda, ſaith, that All Churches favour the Church of Jeruſalem, as being the Mother of all Churches.

Ver. 2. For the truths ſake which dwelleth in us, and ſhall be with us for ever.

Εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, for ever.] This ſeems to aſſert the Perpetuity and Indefectibility of the Church of God; for where the Truth of the Goſpel is for ever, there muſt be a Church for ever.

Ver. 3. Grace be with you, mercy and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Son of the Father in truth and love, (or the true and beloved Son of the Father.)

Ver. 4. I rejoyced greatly that I found (thoſe) of thy Children walking in the Truth, as we have receiv'd a Commandment from the Father.

Ἐν ἀληθείᾳ, in the Truth.] i. e. In the Doctrine of Chriſt, as the Father hath commanded, ſaying, This is my beloved Son, hear him, Mat. 17. 5.

Ver. 5. And now I beſeech thee, Lady, not as though I wrote a new Commandment, but that which we had from the beginning (of the Goſpel,) that we love one another. (See Note on 1 Joh. 2. 7.)

Ver. 6. And this is love, that we walk after his Commandment; (Chap. 5. 3.) and this is the Commandment, that as ye have heard from the beginning ye ſhould walk in it, (Chap. 2. 24. i. e. we ſhould continue walking according to the Truth of the Goſpel, which it concerns us now eſpecially to be careful of.)

Ver. 7. For many Deceivers are gone out into the world, who confeſs not that Jeſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh, (or Jeſus Chriſt coming in the fleſh.) This is a Deceiver, and an Antichriſt. (See Note on Chap. 2. 18, 22. Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3.)

Ἐρχόμενον ἐν σαρκὶ, coming in the fleſh.] It appears from the Epiſtles of Ignatius to the Church of Smyrna, that there were then Hereticks, or rather Infidels, who denied that Jeſus Chriſt had taken upon him true fleſh, ſaying, He (b) only had the appearance of it, and ſuffer'd only in appearance. And theſe are thought to have been the Followers of Simon Magus, who taking upon him to be Chriſt, ſaid, that (c) He appeared in Judea as a Man, not being ſo; and ſeem'd to ſuffer when he did not ſo. Saturninus, one of his Followers, taught that (d) Chriſt only appeared as a Man, and ſuffer'd in appearance only. But the Apoſtle here could not put in this Caution againſt him, becauſe he was not yet in being when this Epiſtle was endited. According to the other rendring of the words, denying Jeſus Chriſt who is come in the fleſh, they will ſignifie the ſame as denying him to be the Meſſiah, and ſo reſpect the unbelieving Jews, and be deſigned to eſtabliſh them in whom he writ, againſt that Apoſtacy which was then among the Jewiſh Converts.

Ver. 8. Look to your ſelves, that we loſe not the things that we have wrought, but that we may receive a full Reward.

Μισθὸν πλήρη, that we loſe not---a full reward.] Hence it follows, 1. That it is not only lawful, but is the duty of a Chriſtian to ſerve God with reſpect to the recompence of Reward. 2. That they who once walk'd in the Truth as they had receiv'd a Commandment, ver. 4. had Chriſtian Charity, ver. 5. even that Love which enabled them to walk according to God's Commandments, ver. 6. might loſe thoſe things which they had wrought.

Ver. 9. Whoſoever tranſgreſſeth, and abideth not in the Doctrine of Chriſt, hath not God: he that abideth in the Doctrine of Chriſt he hath both the Father and the Son.

Ὁ μένων ἐν τῇ διδαχῇ, he that abideth in the Doctrine of Chriſt.] Theſe words being in ſenſe the ſame with thoſe we find 1 John 2. 22, 23, 24. ſeem to ſhew that the Doctrine of Chriſt here mention'd is the fundamental Article that Jeſus is the Chriſt; and then the not abiding in it muſt be the Apoſtatizing from it to Judaiſm, which St. Paul, and the Apoſtles of the Circumciſion, ſo much laboured to prevent.

Ver. 10. If there come any unto you and bring not this Doctrine, receive him not into your houſe, neither bid him God ſpeed, (i. e. have no familiarity with him, and wiſh him no ſucceſs in his Enterprizes.)

Χαίρειν αὐτῷ μὴ λέγετε, bid him not God ſpeed.] This Precept ſeems to be taken from the Jews, who were forbid to ſay אשר (e) God ſpeed to a man that was excommunicated, or was doing any evil Action. Hence is it forbidden by their (f) Canons, to ſay God ſpeed

But yet this doth not forbid us to ſhew Humanity towards a diſtreſſed Heretick, (ſeeing he ceaſeth not to be of the number of thoſe whom we ſhould pity and pray for,) but only is a prohibition from doing any thing which imports a conſent to, or approbation of his evil Actions.

A Paraphraſe with Annotations ON THE Third Epiſtle of St. JOHN.

ΙΩΑ'ΝΝΟΥ τῆ 'Αποσόλυ ἐπισολὴ καθολικὴ τρίτη i. e. The Third Epiſtle General of the Apoſtle John.] That this Epiſtle was written by the Author of the Firſt and Second, and therefore by St. John the Apoſtle, appears by the Agreement of them in Words and Phraſes. For,

1*ſt*, The Elder, Ver. 1. I rejoiced greatly that thou walkeſt in the Truth, Ver. 3. He that doth Good is of God, he that doth Evil hath not ſeen God, Ver. 9. are the uſual Phraſes of the Firſt and Second Epiſtles.

2*dly*, Thoſe Words, I have no greater Joy than to hear that my Children walk in the Truth, are in Senſe the ſame with the Fourth Verſe of the Second Epiſtle. The Thirteenth and Fourteenth Verſes are in Words the ſame with the Twelfth Verſe of that Epiſtle.

3*dly*, Thoſe Words, Ver. 12. And we bear Witneſs, and ye know that our Witneſs is true, do Characterize this Apoſtle: For as they are Words of Confirmation, importing an Apoſtolical Authority; ſo are they twice uſed by this Apoſtle, John 19. 35. 21. 24. and by him only.

Ver. 1. The Elder to the beloved Gaius, whom I love in the Truth. (i. e. With great Sincerity.)

Gaius.] This Gaius who is here commended for his Charity to, and Entertainment both of the Brethren and Strangers, Ver. 5. and eſpecially of thoſe who went out from the Church of Jeruſalem to preach the Goſpel among the Gentiles, and who had given Teſtimony of his Love before the Church, ſeems to be Gaius of Corinth, ſtiled by St. Paul, Gaius my Hoſt, and of the whole Church, Rom. 16. 23. where there is Intimation of his Charity to the Brethren and to himſelf, given by St. Paul to thoſe at Rome, and ſo a Teſtimony of it, from one of them who went out to preach the Goſpel among the Gentiles, taking nothing of them. And indeed Paul and Barnabas went out upon this Errand firſt from Antioch, by the Direction of the Spirit, Acts 13. 4. Then from Jeruſalem, being ſent by that Church to Antioch, Acts 15. 30. And they went out ὑπὲρ ὀνόματος ἐκείνου, for the Name of Chriſt. Ver. 26. Taking nothing of the Gentiles. 1 Cor. 9. 5, 6. So did alſo Titus and Timothy, and all that were ſent by St. Paul to Achaia. 2 Cor. 12. 17, 18. So did they at Theſſalonica, 1 Theſ. 2. 9. And ſo did none of the reſt of the Apoſtles or Brethren of the Lord. 1 Cor. 9. 5, 6. So that we have no Ground from Scripture to refer this to any other. And whereas it is ſaid that Gaius of Corinth was the Convert of St. Paul, 1 Cor. 1. 14. whereas this Gaius is here ſtiled one of St. John's Children, and ſo muſt be ſuppoſed to have been the Convert of St. John: To this it may be anſwered, that St. John calls all to whom he writes, his Children, 1 John 2. 1, 12, 18, 28. 3. 7, 18. 5. 21. and ſo the Word Children ſignifies with him, no more than the Word Chriſtian Brethren, and Elders and Fathers being oft of the ſame import, he ſtiling himſelf an Elder, may well call them he writes to Children.

Ver. 2. Beloved, I wiſh above all things that thou mayeſt proſper and be in Health, (περὶ πάντων, in all things temporal,) even as thy Soul proſpereth in all things (ſpiritual).

Ver. 3. For I rejoiced greatly when the Brethren came (out of Judea,) and teſtified of the Truth (of the Goſpel) that is in thee, even as thou walkeſt in the Truth. (Confirming their Teſtimony by thy Converſation.)

Ver. 4. I have no greater Joy than to hear that my Children walk in the Truth.

Ἢ τούτων, than to hear.] This Conſtruction of the Conjunction ἵνα, ſaith Beruleius, is ſufficient to ſhew that this is the Epiſtle of St. John, it being almoſt peculiar to him to uſe this Conjunction for ὅτε, or ὅταν, or ἢ ἵνα, as John 15. 8. In this is my Father glorified, ἵνα, when you bring forth much Fruit. And Ver. 13. Greater Love than this hath no Man, i. e. ἵνα, than that a Man lay down his Life for the Brethren. Chap. 16. 2. The Time will come, ἵνα, when they will put you out of the Synagogues. And Ver. 32. The Hour cometh ἵνα, when you ſhall be ſcattered. See Note on 1 John 4. 17.

Ver. 5. Beloved, thou doeſt faithfully, (as becomes a faithful Chriſtian,) whatſoever thou doeſt to the Brethren, and to Strangers; (whom thou receiveſt into thy Houſe, Rom. 16. 23.)

Ver. 6. Who have born witneſs of thy Charity before the Church, whom if thou bring forward on their Journey after a Godly Sort, (i. e. with ſuch Charity and Care as becomes one who conſiders that he Performs theſe Things not to Men only, but to God and Chriſt, whoſe Miniſters they are,) thou ſhalt do well.

Ὃν προπέμψας ἀξίως τοῦ Θεοῦ, whom if thou bring forward as is worthy of God.] i. e. As it is fit to receive the Miniſters of God. So to receive Phœbe, ἀξίως τῶν ἁγίων, is to receive her as it becometh Chriſtians, to receive the Saints, Rom. 16. 2. The Word προπέμψας, is the Word ſtill uſed concerning them who are to be ſent forward in preaching the Goſpel, or in their Travels concerning the Affairs of the Church. See Acts 15. 3. 20. 38. 21. 5. Rom. 15. 24. 1 Cor. 16. 6, 11. 2 Cor. 1. 16. Tit. 3. 13.

Ver. 7. Becauſe that for his Name's ſake they went forth, (to preach the Goſpel, Acts 15. 26.) taking nothing of the Gentiles, (to whom they preached the Goſpel without Charge, 1 Cor. 9. 18.)

Ὑπὲρ γὰρ τοῦ ὀνόματος ἐξῆλθον, for his Name's ſake they went forth.] That is, ſaith one, they were expell'd, or caſt out; referring this to the Chriſtians, who by the Perſecution of the unbelieving Jews, were driven from Jeruſalem, Acts 8. 1. But, 1ſt, The Word ἐξῆλθον, they went forth, is only uſed in the forcible Senſe, when mention is made of Devils going forth from thoſe they poſſeſſed, at Chriſt's Command, and never of any Chriſtians expell'd from any Place for the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity. 2dly, The Apoſtle ſpeaks manifeſtly here of thoſe who went out as the Apoſtles and Miniſters of Chriſt to preach to the Gentiles, whereas they of the Diſperſion, mentioned Acts 8. 1. went out to avoid Perſecutions, and preached to the Jews only, not thinking it lawful to have converſe with, or preach to the Gentiles, Acts 11. 19.

Ver. 8. We therefore ought to receive ſuch, that we (Chriſtians who do not preach it,) may (yet) be Fellow-helpers to the Truth. (By helping them that do ſo.)

Ver. 9. I wrote to the Church, but Diotrephes, who loves to have the Preeminence, receiveth us not.

Ἔγραψα, I wrote.] I had written, ſo the Vulgar; I would have writ, ſo the Syriack; the Hebrews often uſe the Preteritum for the Pluſquam Perfectum; and Voſſius obſerves of the Aoriſt, that it is ſo called becauſe it is uſed ſometimes for the Perfect, and ſometimes for the Preterperfect Tenſe, and then ἔγραψα may be rendred, I had written. See Examples of this Nature, Note on 1 Cor. 5. 9. The Apoſtle then ſeems here to obviate an Objection why he writes to Gaius, a ſingle Perſon, and not to the whole Church; declaring that he would have writ to the Church, but then Diotrephes, and his Party, would have hindred the Effect of his Writing. Now who this Diotrephes was, is wholly uncertain: I ſee no ground for the Conjecture of Grotius, that he was a Gentile Convert, who would not admit thoſe Jews, who profeſſing Chriſtianity, ſtill obſerved the Rites of the Law, into the Chriſtian Aſſemblies. Eſtius on the contrary, conjectures that he was one of thoſe Jewiſh Zealots, who held it neceſſary, That even the Gentile Converts ſhould be Circumciſed and obſerve the Law, and rejected thoſe who had declared for the contrary; as we know from St. Paul and the Council at Jeruſalem, St. John had done; and that there were Men in Corinth and Galatia, who upon this Account oppoſed the Apoſtles, we learn from thoſe Epiſtles: But read not of any Gentile Converts, who would not receive the weak Jews, or be hoſpitable to them on the Account of their Obſervance of the Law, much leſs of any of them who oppoſed themſelves to the Apoſtles upon this Account. Moreover, the Subject of the Apoſtle's Writing being to exhort Chriſtians to receive them who had gone out to preach the Goſpel among the Gentiles, taking nothing of them, and all that did ſo, as far as we know any thing of them, being againſt theſe Impoſitions, the Apoſtle could not fear they ſhould not be received, becauſe Obſervers of the Law; but on the contrary, becauſe they were dead to the Law.

Ver. 10. Wherefore if I come, I will remember the Deeds which he doth, prating againſt us, (me and the other Apoſtles, who thought not fit to lay this Burthen on the believing Gentiles,) with malicious Words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himſelf receive the Brethren, but forbiddeth them that would, and caſteth them out of the Church. (As the Jews did the Uncircumcised out of their Society. See Note on James 2. 12.)

Τ. I will remember his Works.] Private Offences against our selves must be forgiven and forgotten, but when the Offence εἰς τὸν πλησίον ἁμάρτημα φέρει, is an Impediment to the Faith, and very prejudicial to the Church, it is to be opposed, and openly reproved.

Ver. 11. Beloved, follow not that which is Evil, (after the Example of Diotrephes,) but that which is Good, (as Demetrius doth, for) he that doth Good is of God, (who is Good to all,) he that doth Evil hath not seen God (1 John 3. 6, 10.)

Ver. 12. Demetrius hath a good Report of all Men, and of the Truth it self: yea, and we also bear Record (of him); and ye know that our Record is true. (Joh. 19. 35. 21. 24.)

Ver. 13. Having many things (which it would be profitable) to write, I would not with Ink and Pen write unto thee:

Ver. 14. But I trust I shall shortly see thee, and we shall speak Face to Face. Peace be to thee. Our Friends salute thee. Greet the Friends by Name.

THE PREFACE TO THE General Epiſtle of St. JUDE.

HAVING Proved, Note on Ver. 1. That Jude the Apoſtle was the Author of this Epiſtle, I have nothing more to add, by way of Preface to it, but the Words of the learned Dr. Leightfoot, which are theſe:

'As the Second Epiſtle of St. Peter, and 'this of Jude, are very near akin in Style, 'Matter, and Subject; ſo is it fairly conjectu- 'rable that they were not far removed in time, 'ſpeaking both of wicked Ones, and Wicked- 'neſs at the ſame Height and Ripeneſs. It 'may be Jude ſtands up in the Charge of his 'Brother James among the Circumciſion of Ju- 'dæa, and directs his Epiſtle to all thoſe who 'were ſanctified and preſerved in thoſe Apo-'ſtatizing Times, as his Brother had done 'to all the Twelve Tribes in general.

'In citing the Story of Michael the Arch-'Angel contending with the Devil about the 'Body of Moſes, Ver. 9. he doth but the 'ſame that St. Paul doth in naming Jannes and 'Jambres, 2 Tim. 3. 8. namely, alledge a Sto- 'ry which was current, and owned among 'the Nation, though there was no ſuch thing 'in Scripture; and ſo he argueth with them 'from their own Authors and Conceſſions: For 'among the Talmudiſts there ſeems to be ſome- 'thing like the Relicks of ſuch a Matter, viz. 'of Michael and the Angel of Death diſpu- 'ting, or diſcourſing about fetching away the 'Soul of Moſes.

'His alledging the Prophecy of Enoch, is 'an arguing of the very like Nature; as re- 'citing, and referring to ſome known and 'common Tradition that they had among them. 'To this purpoſe the Book Sepher Jeſher, an 'Hebrew Writer, ſpeaketh of Enoch after 'ſuch a Tenour; and in both theſe he uſeth 'their own Teſtimonies againſt themſelves, 'as if he ſhould have ſaid at large, Theſe 'Men ſpeak evil of Dignities, whereas they 'have, and own a Story for current, that even 'Michael the Arch-Angel did not ſpeak evil 'of the Devil, when he was ſtriving with him 'about the Body of Moſes. And whereas they 'ſhew and own a Prophecy of Enoch, of God 'coming in Judgment, theſe are the very Men 'to whom this Matter is to be applied. Which Words give a ſufficient Anſwer to the only Ob-jection made againſt the Authority of this Book; viz. That it cites Apocryphal Wri-tings.

A Paraphraſe with Annotations ON THE General Epiſtle of St. JUDE.

Ver. 1. JUDE the ſervant of Jeſus Chriſt, and brother of James, to them that are ſanctified by God the Father, and preſerved by Jeſus Chriſt, and called: (Gr. to the called who have been ſanctified by God the Father, and preſerved in (the faith of) Jeſus Chriſt.)

Ἀδελφὸς Ἰακώβου, the brother of James.] This Characteriſtick is ſufficient to aſſure us this Epiſtle can belong only to Jude the Apoſtle, diſtinguiſhed from Judas Iſcariot by this Title, that he was Judas the brother of James, Luk. 6. 16. and to confirm the Title given to this Epiſtle by the Ancients, The general Epiſtle of Jude the Apoſtle; this being a plain Demonſtration of the point. Grotius will have theſe words, the brother of James, to be the Addition of ſome Tranſcriber; but this being ſaid without any proof, lays the whole Scripture uncertain, ſince every Man may ſay, if that will be ſufficient without proof, that what he diſlikes is the Addition of ſome Tranſcriber. (a) Tertullian is poſitive that Enoch apud Judam Apoſtolum teſtimonium poſſidet, hath the teſtimony of Jude the Apoſtle to confirm his Prophecy; and among the Apoſtles of Chriſt, (b) Origen reckons Peter the Writer of two Epiſtles, and James, and Jude. That in this Epiſtle he doth not ſtyle himſelf an Apoſtle, can be no Argument to conclude he was not an Apoſtle, ſince the ſame Argument would prove that St. James, St. John, and even St. Paul, were no Apoſtles.

Ver. 2. Mercy, and Peace, and Love, to you be multiplied.

Ver. 3. Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common Faith, it was needful for me (Gr. I thought it neceſſary) to write unto you, and exhort you that you ſhould earneſtly contend for the faith which was once delivered to the Saints.

Τῇ ἅπαξ παραδοθείσῃ πίστει, the faith once delivered to the Saints.] Here, ſaith Eſthius, the Apoſtle inſinuates that which the Fathers teach, viz. That nothing can be added to the Faith becauſe it was delivered all at once as a Depoſitum, ſo to be kept that nothing ought to be added to it, or taken from it. Whence it is evident to a Demonſtration, that the new Articles added by the Trent Council to the Apoſtles Creed, can be no Articles of Chriſtian Faith, as being not delivered by Chriſt or his Apoſtles to the World, nor known unto the Chriſtians for many Ages after their Deceaſe.

Ver. 4. For there are certain men crept in unawares, (Gr. for certain men have entred, viz. into the Church,) who were before ordained to this condemnation, ungodly men, turning the grace of God into Laſciviouſneſs, and denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Πεγεγραμμένοι εἰς τοῦτο τὸ κρῖμα, before ordained to this condemnation.] Gr. Of whom it was before written that this ſhould be their Condemnation. For that this cannot be meant of any divine Ordination or Appointment of them to eternal Condemnation, is evident, 1. Becauſe it cannot be thought, without horrour, that God doth thus ordain Men to Perdition before they had a Being. 2. The Word κρῖμα here relates not unto Sin, but Puniſhment, the fruit of Sin. So Mark 12. 40. They ſhall receive περισσότερον κρῖμα greater puniſhment. Rom. 2. 3. Think'ſt thou this, oh man, that thou ſhalt avoid τὸ κρῖμα τοῦ Θεοῦ the judgment, or puniſhment, of God? Now God ordaineth none to Puniſhment but Sinners and ungodly Men, as theſe Perſons here are ſtyled. And, 3. Theſe were Men of whom it was before written, or propheſied, that they ſhould be condemned for their Wickedneſs;

for, v. 14. Enoch προεφήτευσε propheſied before to (or of) theſe men, ſaying, That God would come ἐν ἁγίαις μυριάσιν to do judgment upon all, and to reprove all the ungodly among them. And in the parallel place of St. Peter (2 Pet. 2. 3.) their Puniſhment is ſtyled τὸ κρῖμα ἔκπαλαι the puniſhment long ago denounced againſt them, viz. that they ſhould be reſerved unto the day of judgment to be puniſhed, ver. 9. that they ſhould periſh in their corruption, ver. 12. they being the Men to whom the blackneſs of darkneſs was reſerved for ever, ver. 13. And this is the very thing that both St. Peter from ver. 4. to the 13. and St. Jude from this Verſe to the 16th, ſet themſelves to prove. And this alſo is the import of the word προγέγραπται, Rom. 15. 4. ὅσα προεγράφη Whatſoever things were before written, were before written for our inſtruction. And Gal. 3. 1. See the Note there. He ſpeaks thus of them, ſaith (c) OEcumenius, becauſe St. Peter and St. Paul had before ſpoken of them, that in the laſt time there ſhould come ſuch Deceivers; and before them Chriſt himſelf, ſaying many ſhall come in my name and deceive many. And againſt this Interpretation of OEcumenius and Dr. Hammond there lies only this Objection, that the Judgment mention'd by Chriſt and his Apoſtles not long before, cannot ſo properly be called κρῖμα τὸ ἔκπαλαι the Judgment long ago denounced, nor could theſe ungodly men be ſtyled οἱ πάλαι προγεγραμμένοι the men propheſied of of old, on that account, ſo well as if this be refer'd to the Prophecy of Enoch, Jude 14. or to the words ſpoken before by the holy Prophets. 2 Pet. 3. 2. For ἔκπαλαι and πάλαι join'd with προγεγραμμένοι, ſeem plainly to import ſome ancient Time in which this Judgment was denounced againſt theſe ungodly men.

Μετατιθέντες, turning the Grace of God into Laſciviouſneſs.] This agrees exactly with the lewd Doctrine of the Nicolaitans mention'd Note on 2 Pet. 2. and as exactly with the Doctrine of Simon Magus, that they who believ'd in him and his Helena might freely do what they liſted, ſecundum enim ipſius Gratiam ſalvari, ſed non ſecundum operas juſtas, Men being to be ſaved by his Grace and not by good Works, Iren. l. 1. c. 20. Theodoret Hær. Fab. l. 1. c. 1.

Καὶ τὸν μόνον δεσπότην θεὸν καὶ κύριον ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἀρνούμενοι.] The words may be thus rendred, and denying Jeſus Chriſt our only Maſter, God, and Lord. And that they ought to be thus rendred, is argued, 1. Becauſe one Article only is put before all theſe words δεσπότης, θεὸς, καὶ; which ſhews they all belong to the ſame perſon. 2. Becauſe the perſon who is here δεσπότης θεὸς the only Maſter God, is by St. Peter, 2 Pet. 2. 1. ſtyled ὁ ἀγοράσας αὐτοὺς δεσπότης the Lord that bought them: now it is Chriſt that bought us with the price of his own blood. To the firſt of theſe Arguments Grotius and Woltzogenius anſwer, That it is common in Scripture to affix one and the ſame Article to divers perſons, and in particular to God the Father, and to Chriſt: as, v. g. No Fornicator or unclean perſon ſhall have any inheritance in the Kingdom τοῦ Χριστοῦ καὶ Θεοῦ of Chriſt and of God, Eph. 5. 5. I charge thee ἐνώπιον τοῦ Θεοῦ καὶ Κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ before God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Tim. 5. 21. which 2 Tim. 4. 1. is τοῦ Θεοῦ καὶ τοῦ Κυρίου. And 2 Pet. 1. 2. in the knowledge τοῦ Θεοῦ καὶ Ἰησοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν of God and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. See 1 Tim. 6. 13. To the ſecond Argument it may be anſwered, That in Scripture not only Chriſt, but the Father, is ſaid to have bought and purchaſed us, Acts 20. 28. 1 Cor. 6. 20. And that he is the Perſon intended by St. Peter, ſee the Note there. And ſeeing the word δεσπότης is never elſewhere aſcribed to Chriſt, I think our Verſion which puts the Comma after God, is without juſt exception. Note alſo, that Simon Magus denied both the God of Iſrael and Jeſus Chriſt, declaring that he himſelf was that (d) infinite Power which appeared to the Samaritans as the Father, and to the Jews as the Son of God; and ſo he and his Followers denied both the Father and the Son.

Ver. 5. I will therefore put you in remembrance, though you once knew this, how that the Lord having ſaved the people (of Iſrael, of whom you are a part,) out of the Land of Egypt, afterwards deſtroyed them that believed not.

Τοὺς μὴ πιστεύσαντας, them that believed not.] i. e. ſaith Grotius, thoſe that obeyed not; for ſuch ſhew they believe not at all, or not aright. But this Note is needleſs here; for the Scripture expreſly ſaith, they periſhed in the Wilderneſs becauſe they believed not in God, but tempted, i. e. diſtruſted, him ten times, Num. 14. 22. Pſal. 106. 24. And St. Paul, We ſee then they could not enter in becauſe of Unbelief, Hebr. 3. 18, 19. Hebr. 4. 2.

Ver. 6. And the Angels which kept not their firſt eſtate, but left their own habitation, he hath reſerved in everlaſting chains under darkneſs unto the judgment of the great day.

Μὴ τηρήσαντας τὴν ἑαυτῶν ἀρχὴν, not keeping their original eſtate, ἀλλὰ ἀπολιπόντας τὸ ἴδιον οἰκητήριον, but leaving their proper habitation.] That which we are to enjoy for ever, is in the ſtyle of Scripture called τὸ ἴδιον our own, that which is proper to us; that which we are to leave to others τὸ ἀλλότριον, as in thoſe words, If you have been unfaithful in that which is another man's, who will give you that which is your own, Luke 16. 12. Theſe Angels being therefore primarily deſigned to live for ever in the higheſt Heavens, the Regions of Light and Bliſs, they are here ſtyled their proper Habitation. See Note on 2 Pet. 2. 4.

Ver. 7. Even as Sodom and Gomorrha and the Cities about them, in like manner giving themſelves over to Fornication, and going after ſtrange (Gr. other) fleſh, are ſet forth for an example, ſuffering the vengeance of eternal fire.

Τὸν ὅμοιον τούτοις τρόπον ἐκπορνεύσασαι, fornicating then, and going after other fleſh, in like manner] as theſe do now. Of both theſe Crimes the Nicolaitans were notoriouſly guilty: for, 1. They held that Matrimony was a mere humane Inſtitution, that obliged no Man's Conſcience; and ſo did indiſcretè vivere, without making any difference betwixt one Woman and another. And, 2. They practiſed unnatural Luſts and Sodomitical Copulations; as may be proved from the Teſtimonies of (e) Irenæus, Clemens of Alexandria, the Conſtitutions of the Apoſtles, Epiphanius, and others.

Πρόκεινται δεῖγμα πυρὸς αἰωνίου δίκην ὑπέχουσαι, are ſet forth for an example, ſuffering the vengeance of eternal fire.] That this is ſpoken not of the Cities themſelves, but of the Inhabitants which dwell in them, i. e. of them who had given themſelves over to Fornication, and gone after ſtrange fleſh, is evident; but yet I conceive they are ſaid to ſuffer the vengeance of eternal Fire not becauſe their Souls are at preſent puniſhed in Hell Fire, but becauſe they and their Cities periſhed by that Fire from Heaven which brought a perpetual and irrepairable Deſtruction on them and their Cities. For, 1. We have proved, Note on 2 Pet. 2. 6. 3. 7. that even the Devils themſelves are not tormented at preſent in that infernal Fire, but only will be caſt into it at the day of Judgment; and therefore neither do the wicked Sodomites yet ſuffer in thoſe Flames. 2. I would admoniſh you, ſaith the Apoſtle, though you once knew this that Sodom and Gomorrah thus ſuffer'd the vengeance of eternal fire. Now from the Hiſtory of Geneſis, and the Writings of the Prophets, they might know that theſe Cities, and the Inhabitants of them, were overthrown εἰς αἰῶνα with a perpetual deſolation, Zeph. 2. 9. but they could not know from thence that their Souls were afterwards caſt into Hell Fire. 3. Τὸ δεῖγμα, an Example, is to be taken from ſomething viſible to, or knowable by all who were to be terrified by it, eſpecially when it is δεῖγμα προκείμενον an Example manifeſted, and propoſed: now ſuch was not the Puniſhment of their Souls in Hell Fire; but nothing was more known and celebrated among Authors Sacred and Profane, Jewiſh, Chriſtian, and Heathen Writers, than τὸ πῦρ καταβὰν ἐπὶ τὰς πενταπόλεως the Fire that fell down upon Pentapolis, or the five Cities of Sodom, they being mentioned ſtill in Scripture as the Cities which God overthrew with a perpetual Deſolation; in the Apocryphal Writings, the waſte Land that yet ſmoaketh, and the Plants bearing fruit that never come to ripeneſs, being, ſaith the Book of Wiſdom, μαρτύριον τῆς πονηρίας a teſtimony of their Wickedneſs, Wiſd. 10. 7. and of the divine Vengeance on them for it. The Author of the Hiſtory of the Maccabees ſaith, that God deſtroying them by fire and brimſtone, Macc. 3. 2. 5. παράδειγμα τοῖς μετέπειτα ἀνθρώποις ἀπέλιπον left them an Example to the Ages to come. (f) Philo ſaith, that the Cinders, Brimſtone, and Smoak, and the obſcure flame as it were of a Fire burning, yet appearing about Syria, are Memorials of the perpetual Evils which happen'd to them. (g) Joſephus adds, that the things which are ſaid of Sodom ἔτι νῦν ἀπὸ τῆς ὄψεως are confirm'd by ocular Inſpection, there being yet viſible ſome Relicks of the Fire coming down from Heaven, and the ſhadows of the five Cities. This Region, ſay (h) Clemens Romanus and other Chriſtian Writers, being condemn'd by Fire and Brimſtone, made it apparent that God reſerves the wicked for Puniſhment and Stripes. Even (i) Heathen Writers do confeſs, that 'twas traditionally received, that formerly there were fruitful Fields and large Cities which were afterwards conſumed by Thunder and Lightning. And, 4. This Senſe may farther be confirmed from the parallel place of St. Peter, who ſaith, that God reducing the Cities of Sodom and Gomorrah to aſhes, condemned (the Inhabitants of) them by that overthrow, purpoſing them for an Example of his vindictive Juſtice upon them who afterwards ſhould live ungodly: where plainly the τέφρωσις, the Reduction of thoſe Cities with their Inhabitants into Aſhes, or the burning them by Fire and Brimſtone falling down from

Heaven,

Heaven, is mentioned as the thing which placed them as an Example of God's Vengeance on the Ungodly to all future Ages; nor could any thing be a more fit Example of it; for ſince St. Peter hath informed us, That the Heavens and Earth that now are, are reſerved to Fire againſt the Day of Judgment and Deſtruction of ungodly Men, when the Earth and the Works that are therein ſhall be burnt up, what could be a more exact Emblem of that Day, when God will come in flaming Fire to take Vengeance on the Wicked, and leave them burning with the Earth for ever, than was this burning of the Cities and the Inhabitants of Sodom, by Fire and Brimſtone falling down from Heaven; nor is there any thing more common and familiar in Scripture, than to repreſent a thorow and irreparable Vaſtation, whoſe Effects and Signs ſhould be ſtill remaining, by the Word αἰώνιος, which we here render Eternal. I will ſet thee εἰς ἔρημον αἰώνιον, in Places deſolate, of Old, Ezek. 26. 20. I will deſtroy thee, and thou ſhalt be no more, εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, for ever, Ver. 21. I will make thee, ἐρημίαν αἰώνιον, a perpetual Deſolation, and thy Cities ſhall be built no more, Chap. 35. 9. See alſo Ezek. 36. 2. Iſa. 58. 12. They have cauſed them to ſtumble in their Ways, to make their Land deſolate, and συριγμὸν αἰώνιον, a perpetual Hiſſing, Jer. 18. 15, 16. I will bring upon you, ὀνειδισμὸν αἰώνιον, καὶ αἰτιαμὸν αἰώνιον, an everlaſting Reproach, and a perpetual Shame which ſhall not be forgotten, Jer. 23. 40. 25. 9. I will make the Land of the Chaldæans a perpetual Deſolation, θήσομαι αὐτὴν εἰς ἀφανισμὸν αἰώνιον, they ſhall ſleep, ὕπνον αἰώνιον, a perpetual Sleep, Jer. 51. 39. And this eſpecially is threatned, where the Deſtruction of a Nation or People is likened to the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah; thus Babylon ſhall be as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, οὐκ κατοικηθήσεται εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα χρόνον, it ſhall never be inhabited, Iſa. 13. 19, 20. And again Jer. 50. 40. The like is ſaid of Edom, Jer. 49. 17, 18. and of Moab, Surely Moab ſhall be as Sodom, and the Children of Ammon as Gomorrah, ἀφανισμὸν εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, a perpetual Deſolation, Zeph. 2. 9.

Ver. 8. Likewiſe alſo theſe filthy Dreamers defile the Fleſh, deſpiſe Dominion, and ſpeak evil of Dignities.

Οἱ ἐνυπνιαζόμενοι, theſe filthy Dreamers.] Theſe Dreamers of Dreams, or vain Imaginations, for I find not that the Word ἐνυπνιάζω bears any impure Senſe, as ἐνυπνιάζω ſometimes doth. The Apoſtle therefore ſeems to refer to their delirous Fancies of their filthy Æones, Prunice and Calacanth, which gave the riſe to all the Filthineſs the Nicolaitans committed; and after them the Gnoſticks and the Carpocratians. See the Note on 2 Pet. 2. 11. And therefore Clemens of Alexandria ſaith of theſe Nicolaitans, and their Succeſſors the Gnoſticks and the Carpocratians, That (i) St. Jude ſpeaks of them in theſe Words Prophetically, the Nicolaitans being only then in being, and the Gnoſticks and Carpocratians ſucceeding them.

Ver. 9. Yet Michael the Arch-Angel, when contending with the Devil, he diſputed about the Body of Moſes, durſt not bring againſt him a railing Accuſation, but ſaid, The Lord rebuke thee.

Περὶ τοῦ Μωσέως σώματος, about the Body of Moſes.] That the Body of the Jews, and their Service ſhould be here called the Body of Moſes, and that theſe Words are to be referred to Zach. 3. 1. ſeems not very probable; ſeeing in that Prophet there is no mention of Michael, or of the Body, or the Death of Moſes. Nor doth Onias ſpeak of the Body of Moſes, 2 Macc. 15. 12. but περὶ παντὸς Ἰουδαίων συστήματος, of the whole Jewiſh Nation. Moreover, That Moſes was buried not by the Jews, we learn from the Scripture, which ſaith, No Man knoweth of his Sepulchre unto this Day, Deut. 34. 6. and therefore (k) Philo ſaith, He was buried χερσὶν οὐ θνηταῖς, ἀλλ' ἀθανάτοις δυνάμεσιν, not by Men, but Angels, that there was an Altercation betwixt Michael the Arch-Angel, and Samael the Prince of Devils about the Death of Moſes, we learn from the (l) Traditions of the Jews, and 'tis moſt probable it was not only that his Sepulchre might be unknown, leaſt the Jews, who were prone to Idolatry, ſhould Worſhip him, but about the Aſcent of it into Heaven, he being taken away as Enoch and Elias were, and not dying the common Death of all Men, (which Satan contended he ought to do, (m) διὰ τὸν Αἰγύπτιον φόνον, for killing the Egyptian,) but diſappearing only. Hence the Jews ſay, Aſcendit ad miniſtrandum Excelſo, that he aſcended to miniſter to the Lord: And (n) Philo ſaith, God brought him πλησίον ἑαυτοῦ, ſaying to him, ſtand with me, and that by the Word of God, μετατεθῆναι, he was tranſlated, whence he was preſent with Elias at the Transfiguration of our Lord.

Ver. 12. Theſe are Spots in your Feaſts of Charity, when they feaſt with you, feeding themſelves without fear (of Intemperance, or eating things offered to Idols): Clouds they are without Water, carried about of Winds; Trees whoſe Fruit withereth, without Fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the Roots.

Σπιλάδες, Spots.] Σπίλας πέτρα τις, the Word ſignifies a Rock, ſaith Phavorinus. They are hollow Stones or Rocks in the Sea, againſt which Ships ſplit, ſay the Lexicons; Σπιλάδες τοῖς πλέουσιν ὀλέθριοι, ἀφροσδοκήτως ἐπιγενόμεναι, Rocks which are pernicious to Navigators, who fall upon them unawares; to which theſe Perſons are compared, becauſe ἀνέλπιστον κακὸν ἐπιφύονσι, they bring an unexpected Miſchief upon them that feaſt with them.

Ἐν ταῖς ἀγάπαις, in their Feaſts of Charity.] I ſee no Neceſſity of referring this to the Chriſtians Love-Feaſts, celebrated after the Holy Sacrament. It is obſerved by Dr. Lightfoot, Note on 1 Cor. 10. 16. that in the Evening of the Sabbath the Jews had their κοινωνία, or Communion, when the Inhabitants of the ſame City met together in a common Place to eat together; and that they had near to their Synagogues their Xenodochia, or Places where Strangers were entertained at the Publick Charge, and where they had their Dormitory, theſe ſurely were more likely Places for ſuch Perſons to come to, and play their Pranks in, than the Love-Feaſts of the Chriſtians.

Νεφέλαι ἄνυδροι, Clouds without Water, carried about with the Wind.] Such Clouds, ſaith Oecumenius, refreſh no Places with their Showers, for they have no Water in them; but they blacken and darken the Places over which they hang: Even ſo theſe Men diſtill the Waters of Life upon none; but blacken them with their filthy Practices, being moved to them by the impulſe of Satan, as theſe Clouds are moved by the Winds.

Φθινοπωρινὰ, Trees without Fruit, twice dead.] i. e. ſaith Oecumenius, By caſting their Fruit and their Leaves too, which give a Beauty to them. And ſomething like this, ſaith he, happens to theſe Men, who twice dye, caſting of their Fruit, διὰ τῆς πορνοφαγίας, and putting away the Beauty of a ſober Converſation, whence they are rooted up out of the Garden of the Church of God.

Κύματα ἄγρια, Raging Waves of the Sea.] To which, ſaith he, they are likened for the Inſtability of their Life, ἐν ᾗ ἐν τῇ ἰδιωτείᾳ διαγωγῇ· τοιοῦτος γὰρ ὁ πρὸς ὀργὴν τῶν Κυμάτων.

Whence that of Stephanus concerning Enoch, or Hannock, ἐδήδη ὃ χρησμὸς, ὅτι τότε τελευτήσαντος πάντες διαφθαρήσονται, there was an Oracle given out, that when he was dead all Men ſhould be deſtroyed.

Murmurers and Complainers.] I find nothing of this Nature applicable to the Nicolaitans and Gnoſticks, in Church-Hiſtory, only the Apoſtle having ſaid, Be ye not Idolaters nor Fornicators, with reſpect to them, 1 Cor. 10. 7, 8. adds, Neither be ye Murmurers; Ver. 10. And the Pſeud-Ignatius calls them, λυμαίνας, Malos Calumniatores, Ep. ad Trall. §11. But the Jews, of whom the Nicolaitans were a part, were notorious for their Complaints againſt the Providence which ſeemed to neglect, and deal ſo hardly with ſuch Zealots for God as they were, as you may ſee in Joſephus de Bello Jud. l. 7. c. 34. p. 990. B.

Τπέρογκα, Great ſwelling Words.] This Dr. Hammond refers to Simon Magus, exalting himſelf above all that is called God, and making himſelf God; but Τπέρογκα being only proud ſwelling Words, called by St. Peter in the parallel place, Τπέρογκα ματαιότητος, Swelling Words of Vanity, by which they allured through the Luſts of the Fleſh to Laſciviouſneſs, thoſe who were clean eſcaped from them that live in Error, 2 Pet. 2. 18. I think it may more probably refer to the Words relating to their Luſts, mentioned in the Note upon that Place.

Ὠφελείας χάριν, becauſe of Advantage.] See Note on 2 Pet. 2. 3, 14.

Ver. 17. But Beloved, remember ye the Words which were ſpoken before of (by) the Apoſtles of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt:

Ver. 18. How that they told you there ſhould be Mockers in the laſt time, who ſhould walk after their own ungodly Luſts. (See Note on 2 Pet. 3. 2, 3.)

Ver. 19. Theſe are they that ſeparate themſelves, ſenſual, having not the Spirit.

Οἱ ἀποδιορίζοντες ἑαυτούς, ſeparating themſelves.] Of the Jewiſh Zealots we read, that they ſeparated, and withdrew from all who were not circumciſed, Acts 11. 3. Gal. 2. 12. But of the Nicolaitans and Gnoſticks we read no ſuch thing; but rather, that they aſſembled with the Chriſtians in their Feaſts of Love, Ver. 12. 2 Pet. 2. 13. Ἀποδιορίζοντες, therefore as it reſpects them, may rather ſignifie that they diſtinguiſhed themſelves from others as more perfect, and as φύσει πνευματικοί, by Nature (p) Spiritual, ſtiling all other Chriſtians, ψυχικοί, Animal Men, which perhaps made the Apoſtle return this Character upon them, as being truly ſenſual Perſons.

Ver. 20. But ye Beloved, building up your ſelves in your moſt holy Faith, praying in the Holy Ghoſt.

Ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ, in the Holy Ghoſt.] The Holy Ghoſt in the New Teſtament, always ſignifies either the Perſon or ſome Afflatus or χάρισμα of the Spirit; and ſeeing the Perſon of the Holy Ghoſt cannot here well be underſtood, it ſeems to follow that the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh of that Gift of Prayer, which by the Holy Spirit was conferr'd upon them in their Publick Aſſemblies, and Chriſtian Exerciſes, where they prayed by the Spirit, 1 Cor. 14. 15. and ſpake to one another in Pſalms, and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, being filled with the Spirit, Eph. 5. 18, 19. Col. 3. 16. And ſo this Paſſage is interpreted by (q) Oecumenius and Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 21. Keep your ſelves in the Love of God, looking for the Mercy of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt unto eternal Life.

Ἑαυτοὺς τηρήσατε, keep your ſelves, &c.] Hence it is evident, That we are not ſo kept by the Power of God, but that ſomething muſt be done on our parts, to preſerve our ſelves in the Divine Favour.

Ver. 22. And of ſome have Compaſſion, making a difference, (betwixt the Beguilers thro' Subtilty, and the beguiled thro' Simplicity.)

Διακρινομένους, making, or putting a difference.] Diſcerning which of them are to be treated with this Mercy, which of them with ſharp reproof. That this is the true Senſe of the Word διακρινομένους, ſee Note on Rom. 14. 23. Oecumenius and ſome Manuſcripts read not ἐλεᾶτε, of ſome have Compaſſion, but

Ver. 23. And other ſave with Fear, pulling them out of the Fire, hating even the Garment ſpotted with the Fleſh.

Ἐσπιλωμένον χιτῶνα, hating even the Garment, &c.] To hate and fly the Garments ſpotted with the Fleſh, is only to hate every thing that doth defile, though in the leaſt degree, for ſo the leprous and unclean Garments did. This Text can therefore yield no Argument againſt the Uſe of our Ceremonies, till it be proved that there is ſome Defilement or Impurity in the Uſe of them.

The Introduction.

HAving employ'd some Thoughts upon the Mystery of the Conversion of the Jewish Nation, mention'd by St. Paul, Rom. 11. and comparing the glorious things he there says of it, with what the Prophets had foretold of the same thing in very high Expressions; I began to compare them with what was written in the Revelations concerning the New Jerusalem, the New Heavens, and New Earth, and the Bride of the Lamb made ready for a Marriage with him; and finding that this Bride was thought, by the best Commentators, to be the Jewish Church and Nation, Represented formerly by our Saviour as not having on her Wedding-Garment, Matth. 22. 12. not being ready to enter in with the Bridegroom, Chap. 25. 10. that the New Heavens and New Earth were the very Things promised to the Jews, that the New Jerusalem was described in the very words of the Prophets and Jewish Writers, speaking of that glorious State they expected towards the End of the World; I was strongly inclined to conceive this glorious Conversion which, S. Paul saith, shall be even to the Gentile, ζωὴ ἐκ νεκρῶν, life from the dead, Rom. 11. 15. and which is by the Prophets frequently represented as the ζωοποίησις, ἀνάστασις, i. e. the New Birth, Reviviscence, Resurrection of their Dead, Church, and Nation by the Messiah; so that ὁ θάνατος οὐκ ἔσται ἔτι Death should be no more, Rev. 21. 4. might be the very Resurrection intended by St. John, and the flourishing Condition and Union both of the Jewish and the Gentile Church thus raised from the Dead, and so continuing in Peace and Plenty, with a great Encrease of Knowledge, and of Righteousness, and a Return of the Primitive Purity of Doctrine, and of Manners, might be the Reign of the Saints on Earth a thousand Years, which the Apostle mentions: This naturally led me to a Discourse of the Millennium; which being framed according to this new Hypothesis, I shall now offer it to the Consideration of the Learned, in the following Method.

1. I shall state the true Millennium of the Ancients: shewing how far it was received, and by whom opposed in the four first Centuries, and what were the particular Opinions which then obtained concerning the Millennium; and how far the Modern Patrons of the Millenary State have discarded the Receiv'd Opinion of the Ancients who embrac'd that Doctrine.

2. I shall shew what Reason I have to conceive that this Millennium is to begin with the Conversion of the Jewish Nation; and doth indeed relate to the most happy State and flourishing Condition the Church of Christ shall at that time enjoy.

3. I shall attempt to Answer all that hath been offer'd to prove a proper and literal Resurrection of the Martyrs, and other Christian Sufferers, and Saints to Reign on earth a thousand years; considering the Pretences of them who place this Reign before the Conflagration of the World, as most of the Assertors of this Doctrine do; and of the Reverend Dr. Burnet, who makes it to begin after the Conflagration of the World. And,

4. I shall offer some Arguments against this Doctrine of the Millennium, or of the literal Resurrection of the Saints and Martyrs, to Reign on Earth a thousand years.

OF

CHAP. I.

That the Doctrine of the Millennium was never generally received in the Church of Chriſt, is proved, 1. From the Teſtimony of Juſtin Martyr and Irenæus, § I. Of Euſebius, Origen and Stephanus Gobarus, and the Diſtinction which then obtained betwixt the Allegoriſts and the Diſciples of the Letter, § II. An Anſwer to the Pretended Tradition of Papias, mentioned by Irenæus, § III. The Millennium of the Ancients differed from that which is now aſſerted by the moſt judicious of the modern Millennaries in Five Particulars: (1ſt,) The Ancients generally held, That the Temple, or City of Jeruſalem ſhould be new built. (2dly,) That all the Juſt were then to riſe, and not Martyrs only. (3dly,) That Jeſus Chriſt ſhould then Reign on Earth. (4thly,) That they ſhould fare Deliciouſly, and enjoy Corporal Delights. (5thly,) That they ſhould get Children; all which Things are denied by the Modern Millennaries, § IV. The Neceſſity of theſe Doctrines according to the Literal Scriptures cited for the Millennium, by thoſe Ancients who eſpouſed that Doctrine, § V. This Error of ſome of the Fathers, as to the Millennium, will not invalidate their Authority as to any thing delivered by them as Eye-Witneſſes, or which they deliver as the Practice of the Church of Chriſt in their Days, § VI.

THE Patrons of the Millennium do uſually ſay, Their Doctrine was both generally received in the Three Firſt Centuries, and was derived by Tradition from the Apoſtles; and that the firſt Man who oppos'd it was Dionyſius of Alexandria. In Oppoſition to this Pretence, I ſhall endeavour to make it appear,

I. That this Opinion was never generally received in the Church of Chriſt.

II. That there is no juſt Ground to think it was derived from the Apoſtles, but rather from a Miſtake of the Words of the Author of the Apocalypſe; or from the Notions of the Jews, and of the Sibylline Author. See L. 2, L. 3, L. 4.

III. That the new Patrons of the Millennium differ in many Things of Moment from the Ancient Aſſertors of it, and have indeed ſcarce any Suffrage of Antiquity for that Millennium which they do ſo ſtifly maintain. And,

§ I. That this Opinion was never generally received in the Church of Chriſt, appears ſufficiently from the Confeſſions and very Words of the Two firſt Aſſertors of it, whoſe Writings are ſtill extant; viz. Juſtin Martyr and Irenæus. I begin with Irenæus, becauſe his Words will juſtifie the ancient Reading of the Words of Juſtin Martyr, againſt the Criticiſm upon them, or rather the Corruption of them by (a) Mr. Mead and (b) Mr. Daille. Irenæus therefore ſpeaks thus, (c) I am not ignorant that ſome among us, who believe in divers Nations, and by various Works, and who believing do conſent with the Juſt, do yet endeavour, transferre hæc, Gr. Μεταφέρειν, to turn these things into Metaphors, or to carry them from their proper to an improper Sense, as Metaphors are wont to do: That this is his meaning is evident from these Words following, (d) But if some have attempted to allegorize these things, they have not been found in all things consistent with themselves, and may be convinced from the Words themselves. Again he complains, That (e) the Sentiments of some were carried away by the Discourses of the Hereticks; so that they were ignorant of the Appointments of God, and the Mystery of the Resurrection of the Just, and the Kingdom. Here then we may evidently discern Three Sorts of Men, 1. The Hereticks denying the Resurrection of the Flesh, and the Millennium. 2*dly*, The exactly Orthodox asserting both the Resurrection and the Kingdom of Christ upon Earth. 3*dly*, The Believers who consented with the Just, and yet endeavour'd to allegorize, and turn into Metaphor all those Scriptures he had produced for a proper Reign of Christ, and who had Sentiments rather agreeing with those Hereticks who denied, than those exactly Orthodox, who maintain'd this Reign of Christ on Earth. Now these being almost a Translation of the Words of Justin Martyr, they vindicate the reading of all the Manuscript Copies of that Writer, and exclude the Bold Criticism of Daille and Mr. Mead. (f) Tell me truly, says Trypho, Do you (Christians) indeed confess that Jerusalem shall be built again, and that your People shall be gathered together (there,) and rejoice with Christ, together with the Patriarchs, and Prophets, and those of our Nation, or those who are made Proselytes before the coming of your Christ, or before you expect your Christ shall come (to Judgment?) or do you only confess this, that thou mayest seem to overcome us in Questions?

Here you see that Justin Martyr did before ταῦτα ὁμολογῆν, confess these things, as he doth plainly, p. 243. where Trypho having put the Question thus, What! Do you say that none of us shall have any Inheritance in the Holy Mount of God? Justin Martyr replies, I say not so, but that the Gentiles who repent, and believe in Christ, shall inherit (it) with all the Patriarchs, and Prophets, and the Just which proceed from Jacob; and therefore he here answers thus, (g) I have before confessed that I and many others are of this Mind, that these things shall happen. But then again I have intimated to you, That many Christians of a pure and pious Judgment, do not own this. (I speak of Christians of a pure and pious Judgment,) for as for those who are called Christians, but indeed are Atheists, and ungodly, and Hereticks, I have told you already, that they teach things wholly blasphemous, atheistical, and absurd, (and therefore are not to come into the Account of Christians.) If therefore you have met with some of them who blaspheme the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and deny the Resurrection of the Dead, that confess not this, you are not to esteem them Christians, (or to take an estimate of the Doctrines of the Christians from them.) They indeed deny the Resurrection of the Flesh and the Millennium, (h) But I and all Christians who are exactly and in all things Orthodox, know there will be a Resurrection of the Flesh, and a Millennium in Jerusalem built, adorned, and enlarged. Here then, as in Irenæus, is a plain distinction of three sorts of Men, (1.) Of Hereticks, that were κατὰ πάντα βλάσφημοι, entirely Blasphemers of the God of Israel, and Denyers of the Resurrection of the Flesh, and consequently of the Millennium which supposed this Resurrection. 2*dly*, Of Christians who were κατὰ πάντα ὀρθογνώμονες, in all things Orthodox, who owned both the Resurrection of the Flesh, and the Millennium: and Justin Martyr being of this Opinion, and declaring here that he thought it a Doctrine delivered by God, it could not be expected that he should affirm of them that held it not, that they were of a right Opinion in all things. 3*dly*, Of many Christians of a pure and pious Judgment, who did not own this Millennium.

Object. But where, saith Mr. Daille, had he made mention before of any such? I answer with another Question, Where had he made mention before of the many who confessed the Millennium, as he here saith he had? Mr. Daille should have considered that Justin's

(d) Quoniam igitur transferuntur quorundam sententiæ ab Hæreticis sermonibus, & sunt ignorantes Dispositiones Dei, & Mysterium Justorum Resurrectionis, & Regni quodest principium incorruptelæ, per quod Regnum, qui digni fuerint, assuescunt capere Deum. L. 5. c. 32. p. 495.

(e) Et rursus, quoniam autem quidam ex his qui putantur rectè credidisse, supergrediuntur ordinem promotionis Justorum, & modos meditationis ad incorruptelam, ignorant Hæreticos sensus in se habentes, &c. C. 31.

Memory

Memory could not serve him to write down all he had discoursed with Trypho, or that he might not think that part of his Discourse necessary to be afterwards committed unto Writing; and then this Objection would not have seemed of force sufficient to have authorized him to change Justin's words, without any consent of Copies, into the direct contradictory words, and for Christians ἐ ὑγιεῖς γνώμης of a pure Judgment, to read Christians μὴ ἐ ὑγιεῖς γνώμης of an impure Judgment, since such bold Criticisms will evacuate both the Sense and Force of any Testimony.

§. II. 2*dly*, This is still farther evident from the Ancient Writers of the Church, who plainly tell us, that this was a particular Opinion of some Doctors of the Church, and never was received by all. It had its Rise, saith Eusebius, from Papias, a Man of slender Judgment; (i) But the Antiquity of the Man prevailed with many of the Ecclesiasticks to be of that Opinion, particularly with Irenæus, and if there were any other of the same Judgment with him. Now he that confesseth that most of the Ecclesiasticks were of that Opinion, plainly denies that all were of it. He that particularly speaks of Irenæus, adding if there were any other of the same Judgment, seems to intimate they were not many. Origen, in his Philocalia [c. 26. p. 99.] saith, they were only some that held this Doctrine, and that so clancularly that it had not yet come to the ears of the Heathens: and in his Prolegomena to the Canticles [f. 69. B.] that they were only Simpliciores quidam some of the simpler sort of Christians. Besides, of all the Fathers of the Christian Church, none hath spoken more severely, and more contemptibly of that Doctrine than Origen, who represents it as a wicked Doctrine, a Reproach to Christianity; the Heathens, saith he, having better Sentiments than these. He therefore being then the great Doctor of the Church, and continuing in great Authority amongst all Churchmen for above an hundred years; his Scholars being also the most celebrated Doctors of that Age, and one of them, viz. Dionysius Alexandrinus, undertaking to confute this Doctrine; and his Philocalia, where we find these severe Sayings, being a Collection of the two great Lights of the fourth Century, St. Basil and Gregory the Divine; it cannot be doubted but the Opinion then lost ground daily, and was generally decryed by the Learned of those Centuries. In a word, (k) Stephanus Gobarus, in his Account of Opinions in which the Fathers differed from each other, reckons this as the tenth, That the Just shall rise first, and live deliciously a thousand years, eating, drinking, and getting Children; and that there should be no precedence in the Resurrection, no millennary Delights, no Marriage then.

3*dly*, This will be more evident if it be consider'd, that as the Doctors of the Church were then of different Opinions, so were they then distinguished by different Names, as they who denied the Millennium, saith Irenæus, attempted to allegorize the places produced by others for it, so had they upon that account the name of Allegorists, and therefore Nepos, a Man, saith Eusebius, [l. 7. c. 24.] from Dionysius of Alexandria, otherwise Orthodox, but a Writer for the Millennium, styled his Book, Ἐλέγχου τῶν Ἀλληγορισῶν, or Refutation of the Allegorists.

Accordingly in (l) Origen, they who deny the Millennium, are Οἱ τροπολογοῦντες τὰ προφητικά, they who interpret the Sayings of the Prophets by a Trope, and they who assert it, are stiled Solius literæ discipuli, Disciples of the Letter of the Scripture only; the first saith he, assert Horum vim figuraliter intelligi debere, the Passages which they produce from Scripture ought to be figuratively understood; the others, saith he, understand the Scripture Judaico sensu, after the manner of the Jews. (m) Epiphanius speaking of the Millennium asserted by Apollinaris, saith, There is indeed a Millennium mentioned by St. John, but the most, and those pious Men, look upon those Words as true indeed, but to be taken in a spiritual sense.

And here it may deserve to be observed by the by, that the Primitive Fathers derived almost all their considerable Errors from the Jews, viz. That Angels had to do with Women, and begot Giants of them, That the World was to end soon after the coming of the Messiah, That Elias was in person to usher in his second Advent.

§ III. 2*dly*, As for the pretended Tradition from the Apostle John touching this Doctrine, it is only mentioned by Irenæus, as received from Papias, and the Words in which it is delivered are sufficient to demonstrate the incredibility, and the apparent folly of it: For these Elders pretend to have heard from St.

John, these Romantick Words, (o) 'The days 'shall come in which there shall be Vines 'which shall severally have ten thousand 'Branches, and every of these Branches shall 'have ten thousand lesser Branches, and every 'of these Branches shall have ten thousand 'Twigs, and every one of these Twigs shall 'have ten thousand clusters of Grapes, and in 'every one of these clusters shall be ten thou-'sand Grapes, and every one of these Grapes, 'being pressed, shall give twenty five Metretæ, '(that is, according to the mildest computati-'on, 275 Gallons) of Wine; and when one shall 'take hold of one of these sacred Bunches, a-'nother shall cry out, I am a better Bunch, 'take me, and by me bless the Lord; to omit what he says from the same Tradition of every Grain of Wheat, and of Apples, Seeds and Herbs. Now can any Man be so wholly bereft of sense, as to imagine this stuff could ever come out of the mouth of an Apostle? No certainly, he had it only from the converted Jews, in whose Writings some Learned Persons have informed me, the words cited by Irenæus from Papias, are yet to be found. As for Papias the only Voucher of this Tradition, Eusebius informs us, he was a man of a very slender Judgment, as the Story cited by Irenæus from the fourth Book of his Discourse may abundantly convince us, there being scarcely any things in the most infamous of Romish Legends, more fabulous than, as Eusebius truly saith, his traditional Relations were.

§. IV. 3*dly*, That the new Patrons of the Millennium differ in many things of moment from the Antients, and have indeed scarce any Suffrage of Antiquity for that Millennium they maintain, will be apparent from a just representation of the Millennium of the Antients: For,

1. The Ancient Millennaries generally held, that the Temple or the City of Jerusalem should be rebuilt, and that the Land of Judæa should be the habitation of those who were to Reign on Earth a thousand years. So Justin M. [Dial. cum Tryph. p. 243. c.] tells the Jews, that the believing Gentiles should then dwell Ἐν τῷ ὄρει τῷ ἁγίῳ in the holy Mount, and that they should then acknowledge him [p. 259. c.] Ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ τοπῷ ὅπ' Ἰερουσαλήμ, in the same place of Jerusalem where they had crucified him: He confesses also to Trypho, [p. 306. B. 307 B.] ἀνοικοδομῆσθαι τὸν τόπον Ἰερουσαλήμ, that the place of Jerusalem should be built, and that the Saints should spend a thousand years in Jerusalem, built, adorned and augmented, and that all Christians entirely Orthodox knew this would be so; and therefore they all, saith he, [p. 312. B.] expected, ἥ χείσειν ἐν Ἰερουσαλὴμ φανησθαι, Christ to appear in Jerusalem. (p) In the times of that Kingdom Jerusalem shall be built, saith Irenæus, and the Jews shall be restored to the Land he gave to their Fathers. (q) He (i. e. Christ) shall build the holy City, saith Lactantius, and there shall be the Reign of the Just for a thousand years. St. Barnaby is very positive, (r) that the very temple which was destroyed by their Enemies shall be rebuilt gloriously. They feign to themselves, saith Origen, (s) that the terrestrial Jerusalem shall be rebuilt with pretious Stones, and that the Aliens shall be their Servants to rebuild it. (t) Hence Dionysius of Alexandria in his Book writ against them, derides their Golden Jerusalem upon Earth, adorned with Jewels, and the restoration of the Temple. Whereas scarce any of our new Millennaries dare assert, that this shall be the place of the Habitation of the raised Saints, and one of them makes the whole Earth to become a Paradise for the Reception of them.

2*dly*, They held this Resurrection was not to be confined to the Martyrs only, but that all the Just were then to rise, and Reign with Christ; this Justin M. confesses touching all Christian People, all the believing Gentiles, and the just Progeny of Jacob in the forecited places. Irenæus frequently declares of the Just in general, that they shall arise to inherit the Promises. (u) Tertullian affirms, that some shall rise sooner, and some later, but that all the Just shall rise within the time of the Millennium. This Millennium, saith Lactantius, (w) belongs to all the Just which e- ver were from the beginning of the World. Whereas the Millennaries of this Age do generally, with Dr. Burnet, (x) say the first Reſurrection, and the Reign of Chriſt ſeem to be appropriated to the Martyrs, Rev. 20. 4.

Moreover, the Antients extend this Reign on Earth, not only to the Dead, but to the Juſt alſo who ſhall be then alive at this firſt Reſurrection; this being a neceſſary conſequent of the former Doctrine, that this Millennium belongs to all the Juſt. Thus Irenæus, amongſt thoſe who are to enjoy the Millennium, reckons (y) thoſe whom the Lord ſhall find in the fleſh expecting him from Heaven, who having ſuffered Tribulation, did nevertheleſs eſcape the hands of the Wicked. (z) Then they that are found living ſhall not die, ſaith Lactantius: Whereas 'tis inconſiſtent with the Hypotheſis of Dr. Burnet, that any of the Juſt ſhould be then living, ſince this Millennium only begins after the Conflagration of the World, and the burning of all things that are in it.

3*dly*, The Antients generally conſent in this, that Jeſus Chriſt ſhall then come down from Heaven, and be ſeen on Earth, and Reign there with his Servants. Papias, the firſt Aſſertor of this Doctrine, declares that (a) it ſhall be a Reign of Chriſt bodily upon Earth. Juſtin M. tells the Jews that they ſhould then ſee him whom they had pierced, and this in that very place of Jeruſalem where they had crucified him, that both they and Chriſtians ſhould then be gathered together, and rejoice with him. Victorinus ſaith, (b) this is that true Sabbath in quo Chriſtus cum electis ſuis regnaturus eſt, in which Chriſt is to Reign with his Elect; and Lactantius ſaith expreſly, That Mille annos inter homines verſabitur, he ſhall be converſant with Men a thouſand Years. (c) Irenæus ſeems not ſo clear as to this matter; yet he declares the Juſt ſhall Reign on Earth encreaſing by the Viſion of Chriſt; for ſaith he, Chriſt will be every where ſeen as Men are worthy to ſee him: That which ſeems moſt expreſly in him to relate to this Affair, is this, that diſcourſing of our Lord's Promiſe to drink new Wine with his Diſciples in the Kingdom of Heaven, he declares, (d) This cannot be done by him whilſt he remains in thoſe Celeſtial Regions. But Nepos was expreſs in this, That (e) after this Reſurrection the Kingdom of Chriſt was to be on Earth a thouſand years, and the Saints were to Reign with him in Pleaſures, or faring deliciouſly there; and therefore Dionyſius ſaith of him, and the Brethren that magnified his Book, That (f) they had no ſublime or magnificent thoughts of the glorious and divine Advent of our Lord, or of our Reſurrection, and our gathering together, and aſſimilation to Chriſt, but hoped then for little and mortal things, and ſuch as men now hope for in the Kingdom of God.

4*thly*, They all declare they ſhall then fare deliciouſly, and ſhall enjoy the richeſt Wines, and moſt delicious Fruits, build Houſes, plant Vineyards, and eat the Fruits of them: Thus Juſtin M. (g) underſtands thoſe Words of Eſaiah (ch. 65. 21.) of the Millennium, viz. they ſhall build Houſes, and inhabit them, and they ſhall plant Vineyards, and eat the Fruit of them. And Irenæus ſaith, (h) They ſhall have a Table prepared for them by God, who ſhall feed them with Dainties; adding, that the Promiſes he had cited, Creaturæ epulationem ſignificant, do ſignifie the Banquets they ſhould have upon the Creature: Hence doth he tell us of the prodigious Cluſters of Grapes, and Ears of Corn, the Vines and the Earth ſhall then bring forth. (i) The Earth, ſaith Lactantius, ſhall open its fertility, and of its own accord produce Fruits plentifully, the Rocks of the Mountains ſhall ſweat with Honey, Wines ſhall run down with Streams, and the Rivers flow like Milk. Of this Opinion doubtleſs was Tertullian in his Book de ſpe fidelium: And Nepos, who promiſed, ſaith Dionyſius of Alexandria, a thouſand Years of corporal Delights on Earth. Accordingly Gennadius ſaith,

(k) In the Divine Promises we believe nothing concerning Meat and Drink, as Irenæus, Tertullian, and Lactantius teach from their Author Papias, nor of the Reign a thousand Years with Christ on Earth after the Resurrection, and the Saints reigning deliciously with him, as Nepos taught. St. Austin therefore saith of this Opinion, (l) That it might be tolerable if they mentioned any spiritual Delights which the Saints might enjoy by Christs Presence; but since they affirm, that they who then rise shall enjoy carnal and immoderate Banquets of Meat and Drink without modesty, these things can only be believed by carnal Men. And because all this Plenty could not be procured and enjoyed, these Houses could not be built, nor these Vineyards planted, nor this Wine brought into the Fat, nor this Corn into the Barn, thresh'd, ground, and made fit for these new raised Inhabitants, without hands: The Antients have made Provision for this also, telling us, That they shall be (m) Κυριεύσοντες καὶ τῆς γῆς, such as shall lord it upon Earth; and therefore (n) Irenæus saith that which was spoken to Jacob, The Nations shall serve, and Princes shall bow down to thee, Gen. 27. 27, 28. Ad tempora Regni sine contradictione pertinet, quando regnabunt Justi surgentes a mortuis, without all contradiction belongs to this Millennary Kingdom. (o) The Nations shall not utterly be destroyed, saith Lactantius, but some of them shall be left to be triumphed over by the Just, and subjected to perpetual Slavery. (p) They think, saith Origen, that Aliens shall be given them to be Ministers of their Delights, who shall either serve at the Plow, or be their Masons, and Carpenters to build up their fallen City, and they suppose they shall have of their Provisions to eat, and have dominion over their Riches, so that they shall come and offer to them Gold and Frankincense, and pretious Stones. Dr. Burnet must either produce these servile Nations, as he hath done Gog or Magog, out of the Mud, or his Opinion must fall into it, unless he hopes to avoid this, by saying, that in this State it will be part of their Diversion and Entertainment to learn Mechanicks. p. 213.

And because Men can hardly do this whole business without Beasts, the Ancients have made Provision of them also, subjecting to them not only Sheep, and Goats, and Oxen or Bulls, but Wolves, and Bears, and Leopards, and Lions, which (q) with all other Animals, saith Irenæus, shall be then subject to Man. And that the Doctor may not be at a loss for the production of these Beasts, (r) Stephanus Gobarus informs him the Doctrine of the Antients was this, That the Just should rise first, Καὶ σὺν αὐτοῖς πάντα τὰ ζῶα, and all these living Creatures with them. Now the New Millennaries as they say little of these Slaves, and these Brute Beasts, who are so necessary for the enjoyment of the universal Plenty, and the Goods of Fortune prepared in this State, so are they shie of owning Futuras corporis voluptates & luxurias, such Luxuries and Bodily Pleasures, as Origen saith, (s) the Millennaries of his time did expect.

For, 5*thly*, In their Millennium they were not only to Feast and Junket it, but also to get Children. (t) The Virgins, saith Irenæus, shall rejoice in the Assemblies of the Young Men, and they that are left shall be multiplied upon Earth: Accordingly he speaks of some Believers whom God had prepared to multiply those who were left upon the Earth to be under the Kingdom of the Saints, and minister to this Jerusalem. They shall beget an infinite multitude, saith Lactantius, (u) and their Seed shall be holy: To their other Luxuries, saith Origen, (w) they add, Nuptiarum conventiones, & filiorum procreationes etiam post resurrectionem futuras, the Solemnities of Marriage, and the Procreation of Children even after the Resurrection: And again, (x) They think, saith He, that after the Resurrection, we shall eat, and drink cor- spiritual Meats, and shall use those conjugal Duties by which our Prayers are hindred, and which cannot be performed without some impurity: And a third time (x) they believe, That after the Resurrection we shall, according to the chief Promises of the Gospel, eat, and drink, and as some of them say, beget Children; these things, saith He, should they come to the Ears of Heathens, would lay a great imputation of Folly upon Christianity, since many Heathens have better Opinions than these are: So much are they mistaken who reckon Origen among the Patrons of the Millennium. Stephanus Gobarus gives us the Opinion of the Millennaries in these words, (y) The Just shall rise first, and for a thousand Years shall fare deliciously, eating, and drinking, and getting Children, and after this shall be the general Resurrection. Methodius is the only person who (z) denies they shall be thus employ'd after the Resurrection; and with him doubtless all our Modern Millennaries do agree, as knowing this unworthy to be the matter of a Gospel Promise.

§. V. Moreover, if we consider the Scriptures on which the Ancients grounded this Millennium, we shall perceive it necessary that all these Doctrines should be maintained by them. For,

1. That the Temple, or City of Jerusalem should be new built, and that the Land of Judea should be the Habitation of those who are to enjoy this New Heaven, and Earth, can never reasonably be denied by those who interpret the Sayings of the Prophets literally, since they so plainly, and so fully speak of a Mount Zion to be established upon the top of the Mountains, Isa. 2. 2. — 27. 13. — 56. 7. and of God's Promises to beautifie the place of his Sanctuary the House of his Glory, and to make the place of his Feet glorious, Ch. 60. 7, 13. and of all Nations flowing in to her, and being gathered to her, and of all Nations and Tongues coming to see her Glory, Isa. 60. 5. 66. 18. when God had brought them again into their own Land.

2*dly*, That this Resurrection must belong to all faithful Christians, and that they must all Reign with Christ on Earth will follow from the literal interpretation of those words of St. John, (a) Thou hast redeemed us to God by thy Blood out of every Kindred and Tongue, and People, and Nation, and hast made us to be Kings, and Priests to God, and we shall Reign on Earth, Rev. 5. 9, 10. For, according to the import of these words, if, as Dr. Burnet saith, they belong to the first Resurrection, all that have been redeemed by the Blood of Christ, must Reign on Earth. This follows also from those words, I saw the Souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the Word of God, and (of them) which had not worshipped the Beast, nor his Image, and which had not received his mark upon their Foreheads, nor upon their Hands, and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand Years, Rev. 20. 4. for, they who worshipped not the Beast, are all they whose Names were written in the Book of Life, Rev. 13. 8. 17. 8. This follows from St. Peter's New Heaven, and New Earth, if truly interpreted by Dr. Burnet of this Resurrection; for these, saith He, we Christians do expect, and therefore are concerned to be found of him without spot and blameless, 2 Pet. 3. 13, 14. This follows from the Words of St. Paul, if they belong to the Millennium, as he saith they do, for they introduce the whole Creation groaning to be delivered from the Bondage of Corruption into the glorious liberty of the Sons of God, and all that had the first Fruits of the Spirit, groaning for the Adoption, i. e. for the Redemption of their Bodies from Corruption, Rom. 8. 16, 23.

3*dly*, They must bring Christ from Heaven to Reign on Earth, who contend that this Reign is the very time of the restitution of all things, Acts 3. 21. for the Heavens are only to contain him till that time, and who infer this Reign of Christ from those Words, They that have part in the first Resurrection, shall be Priests of God, and of Christ, and shall Reign with him a thousand Years; for if they Reign on Earth without him, they do not Reign there with him. Moreover, if he continue still at the right hand of God, with what propriety is this Resurrection called, ἡ παρουσία, the presence, the appearance of our Lord, and that from Heaven.

4*thly*, That in this Millennium they must fare deliciously, drink precious Wines, and have those splendid Banquetings of which the Fathers often speak, must follow from the application of all those Passages to this State, which say, The meek shall inherit the Earth, that they shall drink new Wine with Christ in his Kingdom, that they shall receive (b) an hundred fold increase of Goods and Lands, that there shall be then a recompence of their Alms given, and their Feasts made for the Poor, and from all the Prophets say of the fruitfulness of the Earth, and of the temporal Blessings they shall then enjoy.

5*thly*, That the Nations shall then serve them, and even build up Jerusalem for them, cannot be denied by them who literally interpret those Words of the Prophets, The Sons of Strangers shall build up thy Walls, and their Kings shall minister to thee: The Sons also of them that afflicted thee, shall come bending unto thee, and they that despised thee shall bow themselves down at the soles of thy Feet: And the Nation and Kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish, Isa. 60. 10, 12, 13. And Strangers shall stand and feed your Flocks, and the Sons of the Alien shall be your Plowmen, and your Vine-dressers; ye shall eat the Riches of the Gentiles, and in their Glory shall you boast your selves, Ch. 61. 5. See also Ch. 49. 22, 23.] And,

6*thly*, That they shall have Wives and Children, and as Irenæus saith, shall be multiplied upon the Earth, must follow from the literal Exposition of our Saviour's Promise, That they who have lost, or forsaken Wife, or Children for his sake, shall receive an hundred fold; for Children cannot lawfully be begotten without Wives, and the use of the Marriage-bed: And lastly, whereas the Millennium of the Reverend Doctor Burnet is to begin after the Conflagration of the World, that of the Antients is still placed before it; we expect it, saith Justin Martyr, (c) before Christ's coming to Judgment. (d) After this, saith Tertullian, shall be the destruction of the World, and the Conflagration at the day of Judgment, and we shall be changed in a moment into an Angelical Substance. (e) God shall after this reign on Earth a thousand Years, renew the World, saith Lactantius.

It therefore deserves to be admired, that learned Men with so much confidence, make use of these Testimonies of Scripture, and these Authorities of the Fathers, to establish their Millennium, and yet so stiffly should deny the Consequences which flow so naturally from those Scriptures, and reject what these Antients so generally delivered as a part of that Doctrine. But to insist no longer on these things, hence I suppose it evident,

First, That the Doctrine of the Millennium was not the general Doctrine of the Primitive Church from the times of the Apostle to the Nicene Council, as Doctor Burnet hath asserted; for then it could have made no Schisms in the Church, as (f) Dionysius of Alexandria saith it did, declaring how fully he confuted it, and reconciled the Brethren that were contending about it, and prevailed upon Coracius the Author, and Ring-leader of this Doctrine, to own he was convinced of his Error, and promise he would no more embrace, or discourse of it to the people.

2*dly*, That the old Doctrine of the Millennium differed in many material Points from that which is asserted by the new Patrons of it.

§. VI. If any Man think it not safe to discover so much of the nakedness of the Fathers as I have done in this Chapter, I Answer:

First, That I think it more safe than to let it be confidently said and believed, that they were all Millennaries from the first to the fourth Century, seeing that shakes the Foundations of Episcopacy, and the Translation of the Sabbath to the Lord's Day, and other Constitutions derived from the Apostles.

2*dly*, I Answer, That this Mistake of the Fathers in a matter which they received from the Traditions, and Notions of the Jews, will not invalidate their Authority in any thing delivered by them as witnesses of what they saw with their own eyes, or declared to have been then the practice of the Church of Christ, nor will it affect their Testimony in any other Doctrine which they neither did or could receive, only on the Authority of the Jewish Doctors.

CHAP. II.

How far I differ from the Ancient and Modern Millennaries, and in what I agree with them; §. I. The Propoſition that the true Millennium is only a Reign of the Converted Jews, and of the Gentiles flowing in to them, Ibid. Where it is noted, 1. That all ſpiritual Bleſſings have been ſtill conveyed from the Jews to other Nations. 2. That there will be a glorious Converſion of the Jews to the Chriſtian Faith, §. II. That the Deſcription of this Converſion of the Jews made by their own Prophets and Writers, anſwers fully to the Millennium of St. John, which he ſpeaks of in the very words of the ſaid Prophets, §. III. The Characters which the Patrons of the Millennium give of thoſe times accord exactly with the Characters given by the Prophets of the Converſion of the Jews, §. IV. The Prophets ſeem to intimate that this Converſion ſhall be effected by a full influence of the Holy Ghoſt upon them, §. V. All the Paſſages cited to this Effect from the Jewiſh Writers ſpeak only of the Millennium, the Reſurrection, the New Heavens and Earth belonging to the Jewiſh Nation, §. VI.

HAving thus given you a juſt Account of the Millennium of the Ancients, and of the true Extent of that Opinion in the Primitive Ages of the Church; I proceed now to ſhew in what things I agree with the Aſſertors of that Doctrine, and how far I find my ſelf conſtrained by the force of Truth to differ from them.

§. I. I believe then, That after the Fall of Antichriſt there ſhall be ſuch a Glorious ſtate of the Church by the Converſion of the Jews to the Chriſtian Faith, as ſhall be to it Life from the Dead; that it ſhall then flouriſh in Peace and Plenty, in Righteouſneſs and Holineſs, and in a pious Off-ſpring; that then ſhall begin a glorious and undiſturbed Reign of Chriſt over both Jew and Gentile, to continue a thouſand years during the time of Satan's binding. And that as John the Baptiſt was Elias becauſe he came in the Spirit, and Power of Elias; ſo ſhall this be the Church of Martyrs, and of thoſe who had not received the Mark of the Beaſt, becauſe of their entire Freedom from all the Doctrines and Practices of the Antichriſtian Church, and becauſe the Spirit and Purity of the Times of the Primitive Martyrs ſhall return. And therefore,

1. I agree with the Patrons of the Millennium in this, That I believe Satan hath not yet been bound a thouſand years, nor will he be ſo bound till the time of the Calling of the Jews, and the time of St. John's Millennium.

2. I agree with them in this, That the true Millennium will not begin till the Fall of Antichriſt; nor will the Jews be Converted till that time, the Idolatry of the Roman Church being one great Obſtacle of their Converſion.

3. I agree both with the Modern and the Ancient Millennaries, That then ſhall be great Peace and Plenty, and great meaſures of Knowledge and of Righteouſneſs in the whole Church of God.

I therefore only differ from the Ancient Millennaries in three things.

1. In denying Chriſt's perſonal Reign upon Earth during this thouſand years; and in this both Dr. Burnet and Mr. Mead expreſly have renounc'd their Doctrine.

2. Though I dare not abſolutely deny what they all poſitively affirm, That the City of Jeruſalem ſhall be then rebuilt, and the Converted Jews ſhall return to it, becauſe this probably may be collected from thoſe words of Chriſt, Jeruſalem ſhall be trodden down till the time of the Gentiles is come in, Luk, 21. 24. and all the Prophets ſeem to declare the Jews ſhall then return to their own Land, Jer. 31. 38, 39, 40. yet do I confidently deny what Barnabas, and others of them, do contend for; viz. That the Temple of Jeruſalem ſhall be then built again: for this is contrary not only to the plain Declaration of St. John, who ſaith, I ſaw no Temple in this New Jeruſalem, Rev. 21. 22. whence I infer there is to be no Temple in any part of it, but to the whole Deſign of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, which is to ſhew the Diſſolution of the Temple Service for the weakneſs and unprofitableneſs of it; that the Jewiſh Tabernacle was only a Figure of the true and the more perfect Tabernacle which the Lord pitched, and not Man; the Jewiſh Sanctuary only a worldly Sanctuary, a Pattern, and a Figure of the heavenly one into which Chriſt our High Prieſt is enter'd, Hebr. 8. 2. 9. 2, 11, 23, 24. Now ſuch a Temple, ſuch a Sanctuary, and ſuch Service, cannot be ſutable to the moſt glorious and ſplendid times of the Chriſtian Church; and therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, The Lord God omnipotent, omnipotent, and the Lamb, shall be their Temple.

3. I differ both from the Ancient and the Modern Millennaries as far as they assert that this shall be a Reign of such Christians as have suffer'd under the Heathen Persecutors, or by the Rage of Antichrist; making it only a Reign of the Converted Jews and of the Gentiles then flowing in to them, and uniting into one Church with them. This I believe to be indeed the truth of this mistaken Doctrine, and therefore I shall set my self more fully to explain, and to confirm it. Let it be noted therefore,

§. II. 1. That as the Jews were the first Nation which were owned by God as his People, and therefore are styled his first-born, Exod. 4. 22. Israel his elect, Isa. 54. 4. the children of Jacob his chosen ones, 1 Chron. 16. 13. Psal. 105. 6. God having chosen them to be a peculiar treasure to himself above all the people of the earth, Exod. 19. 5. Deut. 7. 6. so all Nations of the World have ever since received the Word of God and the true Religion from the Jewish Nation, and Jerusalem hath been still the Mother of all other Churches. Before the Advent of our Lord and Saviour, to them alone, saith the Apostle Paul, belonged the Adoption, the Glory, and the Covenant, and the giving of the Law, and the Service of God, and the Promises, Rom. 9. 3. and none then could be joined to the Lord, Isa. 56. 3. and worship him aright, unless he join'd himself to the Jews, and became a Worshipper of the God of Israel, or a Member of that Church.

After Christ's coming in the Flesh, the Gospel was first sent to them, as being the Children of the Kingdom, Matth. 8. 12. our Lord exercised his Ministry only among them, whence he is styled the Minister of the Circumcision, Rom. 15. 8. and saith, he was not then sent to any but only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, Matth. 15. 24. And sending his Apostles, he forbids them, whilst he was on Earth, to go into the way of the Gentiles, or to enter into any City of Samaria, Matth. 10. 5. but saith to them, Go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. After his Ascension, they were charged to begin their Preaching at Jerusalem, Luke 24. 47. as accordingly they did, preaching the word to none but the Jews only, Acts 11. 19. Paul, the Apostle of the Gentiles, first offers his Ministry to them, preaching Christ in their Synagogues, as his manner was, Acts 9. 20. 13. 5. 14. 1. 17. 12, 17. 18. 4. and declaring it was necessary that the word of God should be first spoken to them, Acts 13. 46. the Gospel being the power of God to Salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, Rom. 2. 10. and that through their fall, and rejection of it, the Gospel came unto the Gentiles, Rom. 11. 28. the halt, lame, and blind, being called to this Feast, because those Guests first bidden refused to come, Luke 14. 21.

Note also, That notwithstanding the Infidelity of many of them, the first Church that ever received the Gospel, the Doctrine, the Sacraments of the New Testament, was the Jewish Church, Acts 2. 42. 47. All the Churches of the Gentiles received the Gospel from them, they being made partakers of their spiritual things, Rom. 15. 27. and the word of God coming out from them to other Churches, 1 Cor. 14. 36. they being all grafted into their good Olive tree. Hence, in the Primitive Times, the Church of Jerusalem had the pre-eminence above all other Churches; to her they went for the decision of their Controversies, Acts 15. and the Bishop of Jerusalem is therefore styled by the Ancients (a) the first Bishop, the Guide of Priests, the Top of the Heads, the Bishop, and Chief of the Apostles; and the Church of Jerusalem is said to be the Church cui omnes favorem impendunt quasi matri Christiani nominis, which all favoured as the Mother of Christians.

After the Fall of Antichrist, and before the second Coming of our Lord to Judgment, the Jews shall be converted, and become a most famous Church again. For this Mystery the Apostle hath revealed, that Blindness in part hath hapned to Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in, and so all Israel shall be saved, as it is written in the Prophet Isaiah, Chap. 59. 20. There shall come out of Zion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob; for this is my covenant with them, saith the Lord, when I shall take away their sins. These words are as a Key to the great things said by Isaiah touching the Jewish Nation, and teach us to interpret them of their glorious Conversion to the Christian Faith, and the gathering them out of every Kindred, and Tongue, and Nation, and People, that at the blowing of the great Trumpet they may come from the land of Assyria and Egypt, and may worship the Lord in the holy mount at Jerusalem, Isa. 27. 13. and they may fear the Lord from the West, and his glory from the rising of the Sun, Isa. 59. 19. This is that day when the Lord shall set his hand שנית a second time to recover the remnant of his people, and shall assemble the out-casts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth, Isa. 11. 11, 12. when he will so bring again the captivity of Jacob, and have mercy on the whole house of Israel, as to leave none of them any more there, nor hide his face any more from them, Ezek. 39. 25, 28, 29.

when he ſhall ſo plant them in their Land, that they ſhall no more be pulled up out of the Land that he hath given them, Amos 9. 14, 15. So Tobit ſaith, That when Πληρωθῶσιν οἱ καιροὶ τοῦ αἰῶνος, the times of the Age ſhall be accompliſhed, they ſhall return from all places of their Captivity, and build up Jeruſalem gloriouſly, and the Houſe of God ſhall be built in it gloriouſly; as the Prophets have ſpoken thereof, Tobit 14. 51, 6, 7. And when they ſhall be thus converted, and receive the Goſpel, then ſhall Salvation be again derived from them to the Gentiles, and they ſhall be the Means of converting ſuch of them as ſtill remain to be converted, and ſhall draw them to as great Purity and Zeal, and as great knowledge of the Truth as ever the Church enjoy'd: For, ſaith the Apoſtle, If the Fall of them be the Riches of the World, and the diminiſhing them the Riches of the Gentiles, how much more their Fulneſs? and if the caſting away of them be the reconciling of the World, what ſhall be the reconciling them but Life from the Dead, to the ſame World? Rom. 11. 12, 15. Of this the Prophets ſpeak very fully, ſaying, In that Day there ſhall be a Root of Jeſſe which ſhall ſtand for an Enſign to the People, and to it ſhall the Gentiles ſeek, and his Reſt ſhall be Glory, Iſa. 11. 11. Behold, ſaith God, I will then lift up my hands to the Gentiles, and ſet up my Standard to the People, and they ſhall bring thy Sons in their Arms, and thy Daughters ſhall be carried upon their Shoulders, and Kings ſhall be thy nurſing Fathers, and Queens thy nurſing Mothers; they ſhall bow down to thee with their Faces towards the Earth, and lick up the Duſt of thy Feet, Iſa. 49. 22, 23. Behold, thou ſhalt call a Nation that thou knoweſt not, and Nations that have not known thee, ſhall run unto thee, becauſe of the Lord thy God, and for the holy One of Iſrael, for he hath glorified thee, Iſa. 55. 5. The Lord God that gathereth the outcaſts of Iſrael, ſaith, Yet will I gather others to him beſides thoſe that are gathered to him, ch. 56. 8. And the Gentiles ſhall come to thy Light, and Kings to the brightneſs of thy Riſing, lift up thine Eyes round about, and ſee; all they gather themſelves together, they come to thee, thy Sons ſhall come from far, and thy Daughters ſhall be nurſed at thy ſide; the abundance of the Sea ſhall be converted unto thee, the forces of the Gentiles ſhall come to thee, ch. 60. 3, 4, 5. And the Sons of Strangers ſhall build up thy Walls, and their Kings ſhall miniſter unto thee; therefore thy Gates ſhall be open continually, they ſhall not be ſhut day or night, that men may bring unto thee the Forces of the Gentiles, and that their Kings may be brought. For the Nation and Kingdom that will not ſerve thee, ſhall periſh, and ſhall be utterly waſted, ver. 10, 11, 12. Thou ſhalt ſuck the Milk of the Gentiles, and ſhalt ſuck the Breaſts of Kings, ver. 16. Ye ſhall be named the Prieſts of the Lord; Men ſhall call you the Miniſters of our God, ch. 61. 6, 9. Ye ſhall eat the Riches of the Gentiles, and in their glory ſhall you boaſt your ſelves, ch. 62. 2. The Gentiles ſhall ſee thy righteouſneſs, and all Kings thy glory. Behold, I will extend Peace to her like a River, and the Glory of the Gentiles like a flowing Stream, ch. 66. 12. I will gather all Nations and Tongues, and they ſhall come and ſee my glory, ver. 18. And they ſhall bring all their Brethren for an offering to the Lord out of all Nations to my holy mountain Jeruſalem, and I will alſo take of them for Prieſts and for Levites, ſaith the Lord, ver. 20. 21, 22. For as the new Heavens, and the new Earth which I ſhall make, ſhall remain before me, ſaith the Lord, ſo ſhall their ſeed, and their Name remain. Many Nations, ſaith Tobit, ſhall come from far to the Name of the Lord God, with Gifts in their hands, even Gifts to the King of Heaven, when his Tabernacle ſhall be built again with Joy, and he ſhall make his Captives joyful in Jeruſalem; yea, all Nations ſhall turn, and fear the Lord God truly, chap. 13. 10, 11.

§. III. Now here 'tis eaſie to obſerve, how fully this Deſcription of the Converſion of the Jews by their Prophets, anſwers to the Millennium of St. John, who uſeth the very Words by which the Prophets had foretold their glorious Converſion, and ſaith, they ſhall be then accompliſhed. And,

Firſt, St. John ſpeaks of a Reviviſcence of the Church of the Primitive Martyrs that ſuffered for the Teſtimony of Jeſus, and for the Word of God, Rev 20. 4. See Chap. 3. §. I. and with them of all the Juſt. Now the very Words Ἀνάστασις and Ἔζησαν, uſed by St. John, are very frequently uſed by the Prophets to expreſs the glorious State of the Jewiſh Church; and by St. Paul, to ſignifie the flouriſhing Condition of the Gentiles then. St. John ſaith, They who enjoy this Millennium, ſhall be Prieſts to God and Chriſt, Rev. 20. 6. And the Prophet Iſaiah ſaith of the Converted Jews, Ye ſhall be named the Prieſts of the Lord; men ſhall call you the Miniſters of our God, ch. 6. 6. And of the Gentiles that come to them, I will take of them to be Prieſts and Levites, ch. 65. 20. This was the very thing promiſed to the Jewiſh Nation when God entred into Covenant with them, That they ſhould be a Kingdom of Prieſts, Ex. 19. 6. Βασίλειον Ἱεράτευμα, a kingly Prieſthood, ſaith the Septuagint, ממלכת כהנים i. e. Kings and Prieſts, ſaith the Targum. (a) This all Chriſtians are already made, ſaith St. Peter, 1 Pet. 2. 5. and St. John,

(a) Ἀρχιερατικὸν τὸ ἀληθινὸν γένος, γένος ἱσωθὲν τῷ θεῷ. Dial. cum Tryph. p. 334. 6.

Rev. 16. 5, 10. We are, saith Justin Martyr, truly Priests to God; it therefore may be expected we should be more eminently so in that glorious State of the Church.

2*dly*, St. John speaks of a new Heaven and a new Earth that he saw, saying, The former Heaven and Earth were passed away, Rev. 21. 1. and introduceth our Lord, saying, Behold, I make all things new, ver. 5. And the Prophet Isaiah introduceth God thus, speaking at the Conversion of the Jews, Behold, I create new Heavens and new Earth, and the former shall not be remembred nor come into my mind, Isa. 65. 17. And again, I have put my Word in thy mouth, that I may plant the Heavens, and lay the Foundations of the Earth, and say unto Zion, Thou art my People, ch. 51. 16. And, Thirdly, In the very Words of the Author of the Revelations, Behold, I make things new, ch. 43. 18, 19. Seeing then these new Heavens and new Earth must be contemporary with the Conversion of the Jews, sure they must be before the Conflagration of the World, i. e. before the Jewish Nation be consumed to Ashes, and therefore can be only a new Heaven and new Earth, in that moral sense in which Maimonides explains the Phrase, (b) when he says, It signifies, that God will place them in perpetual Joy, in lieu of their former Sorrow and Anxiety; so that the Memory of their former Sorrow shall no more remain.

I confess, there is this peculiarity in St. John's new Earth, that it is said of it, καὶ θάλασσα οὐκ ἔστιν ἔτι, and the Sea is not yet, because he had all along represented the Beast as ascending out of the Abyss, and sitting upon many Waters, which were the People, and Multitude, and Nations, and Tongues, that had submitted to her, Rev. 17. 1. --- 8. 15. Now because the Beast was utterly destroyed, and Satan was bound up for a thousand years, and Gog and Magog were not to be gathered till then, nor were the Armies of the Beast which were slain, to rise again till the thousand years were past, Rev. 19. 21. --- 20. 6. Therefore the Apostle saith, That in this new Earth the Sea was not yet.

3*dly*, St. John saith, I heard a great Voice from Heaven, saying, The tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and and they shall be his People, and God himself with them shall be their God, Rev. 21. 3. And Ezekiel the other Prophet, who by the Ancients is supposed to speak of the Millennium, saith in like manner, I will make a Covenant of Peace with them, and will place them, and multiply them, and will set my Sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore; my Tabernacle also shall be with them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my People, Ezek. 37. 26, 27.

4*thly*, St. John saith, God shall wipe away all Tears from their Eyes, and there shall be no more Death, neither Sorrow, nor Crying, neither shall there be any more Pain, for the former things are passed away, Rev. 21. 4. So also saith the Prophet Isaiah of Jerusalem, That after the former Heaven and Earth were passed away, the voice of Weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of Crying, Ch. 65. 19. That the Lord will wipe away Tears from all Faces, Ch. 25. 8. That they shall not Hunger, nor Thirst, neither shall the Heat nor Sun smite them, for he that hath mercy on them shall lead them, even by the Springs of Water shall he guide them, Ch. 49. 10. Which Words exactly answer to those of St. John. Rev. 7. 16, 17.

5*thly*, St. John saith, The Building of the Wall of the City was of Jasper, and the City was of pure Gold like unto clear Glass, and the Foundations of the Wall of the City were garnished with all manner of pretious Stones, Rev. 21. 18, 19. And Isaias saith, I will lay thy Stones with fair Colours, and thy Foundations with Saphires, and I will make thy Windows of Agats, and thy Gates of Carbuncles, and all thy Borders of pleasant Stones, Ch. 54. 11, 12. And Tobit saith, Jerusalem shall be built up with Saphires, and Emeralds, and pretious Stones; thy Walls, and Towers, and Battlements with pure Gold; and the Streets of Jerusalem shall be paved with Beril, Carbuncle, and Stones of Ophir, Ch. 13. 16, 17, 18.

6*thly*, St. John speaks of the Tree of Life planted there, and of a pure River of Water of Life proceeding out of the Throne of God, and of the Lamb, Rev. 22. 1, 2. And the Prophet Zachary speaks of Living Water going out of Jerusalem, Ch. 14. 8. And he that passeth under the name of Esdras, saith, They shall have the Tree of Life planted for an ornament of sweet savour; For unto you, saith he, is Paradise opened, the Tree of Life is planted, 2 Esdr. 2. 12.

7*thly*, St. John saith, There shall be no Night there, and they need no Candle, neither Light of the Sun, Chap. 22. 5. Isaias saith the same, Ch. 60. 19. And the Prophet Zachariah saith, It shall be one day which shall be known unto the Lord, not day nor night, and it shall come to pass that at the evening-time it shall be light, Ch. 14. 7.

Moreover, St. John so represents the Scene of things following the Fall of Antichrist, as plainly to inform us, That he is speaking of this glorious Conversion of the Jewish Nation, and God's marrying her again whom he had had formerly divorced; for as the Church of Christ is represented as the Israel of God, Gal. 6. 16. the Commonwealth of Israel, Eph. 2. 12. the Jerusalem which is above, Gal. 4. 26. the Celestial Jerusalem, Heb. 12. 22. So St. John represents the new Scene of things in the same Language, saying, I John saw the holy City, New Jerusalem, coming down from God out of Heaven, Rev. 21. 2. And again, He shewed me the great City, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of Heaven from God, ver. 10. Now that this great and holy City, this new Jerusalem, is the Jewish Church converted to God; the Characters he gives of it will not suffer us to doubt: For, First, He saith, The City had no need of the Sun, neither of the Moon to shine in it; for the Glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the Light thereof, Rev. 21. 23. So saith God of the Conversion of the Jews. They shall call the City of the Lord, the Zion, the holy one of Israel, Es. 60. 14. Thou shalt call thy Walls Salvation, and thy Gates praise; the Sun shall be no more thy Light by day, neither for Brightness shall the Moon give Light unto thee; but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting Light, and thy God thy Glory. He saith, The Gates of this City shall not be shut at all by day, neither shall there be any night there, and they shall bring the Glory, and Honour, Τὸν πλοῦτον, the substance of the Nations unto it, ver. 25, 26. Even as Isaias had said, Thy Gates shall be open continually, they shall not be shut day nor night, that men may bring unto thee the Wealth of the Gentiles, and that their Kings may be brought, Isa. 60. 11. Lastly, he saith, The Nations of them that are saved, shall walk in the Light of this City, and the Kings of the Earth do bring their Glory and Honour to it, ver. 24. which I have shewed to be the very thing foretold by the Prophets at the Conversion of the Jewish Nation.

Add to this, That he introduceth this holy City, this new Jerusalem, prepared as a Bride adorned for her Husband, Rev. 21. 2. and saith, Come hither, I will shew thee the Bride, the Lamb's Wife, ver. 9. 10. and then shews the great City, the holy Jerusalem; and ch. 19. 7, 8. he saith, He heard a Voice, saying, The Marriage of the Lamb is come, and his Wife hath made her self ready; and to her was granted, that she should be arrayed in fine Linnen, clean and white, for the fine Linnen is the Righteousness of the Saints. Now thus have the Prophets represented the Jewish Church, converted to God: Hence is she introduced, speaking thus, I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my Soul shall be joyful in my God; for he hath cloathed me with the garments of Salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of Righteousness, as a Bridegroom decketh himself with Ornaments, and as a Bride adorneth her self with Jewels, Isa. 61. 10. And again, Thou shalt no more be termed forsaken, neither shall thy Land any more be termed desolate, but thou shalt be called Hephzibah, and thy Land Beulah, for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy Land shall be married, ch. 62. 4. and ver. 5. For as a Young Man marrieth a Virgin, so shall thy Sons marry thee; and as the Bridegroom rejoiceth over the Bride, so shall thy God rejoice over thee.

§. IV. Add to this, that all the Characters which the Patrons of the Millennium give of those times, exactly accord with the Characters given by the Prophets of the Conversion of the Jews, and are many of them taken from the very Words of the Prophets, foretelling those times: For instance,

First, Indolence and Plenty, saith Dr. Burnet, [B. 4. c. 7. p. 183.] seem to be two Ingredients of this happy State. Accordingly the Prophets every where speak, how the riches of the Gentiles shall then flow in to them, Isa. 60. 5, 11. and they shall eat the riches of the Gentiles, ch. 61. 6. that there shall be then no Hunger nor Thirst, no Heat nor Sun to smite them, no Voice of Crying or Weeping. See Isa. 35. 10.

2dly, That it shall be a time of universal Peace and Freedom from War and Persecution, [Ib. p. 184.] and this he proves from the Words of the Prophets, declaring, That at the day, that time when God shall create new Heavens and new Earth, the Lamb and the Lion shall lie down together, and the sucking Child shall play with the Basilisk, and they shall not hurt in all my holy Mountain, as it is written, Es. 11. 6, 7, 8, 9. and ch. 65. 25. and saying, That the Nations shall beat their Swords into Plowshares, and their Spears into Pruning-hooks; Nation shall not lift up a Sword against Nation, neither shall they learn War any more, Is. 2. 4. Mich. 4. 3. as appears also from the Promises, That God will then make her Officers peace, Is. 60. 17. and will extend peace to her as a River, ch. 66. 12.

3dly, That it shall be a Kingdom of Righteousness, [Ibid.] Accordingly of this holy City Jerusalem, it is said, There shall no more come into thee, the uncircumcised and unclean, Isa. 52. 1. An high-way shall be there, and it shall be called the way of Holiness, the Unclean shall not pass over it, ch. 35. 8. which exactly answers to those Words of St. John, Into the holy City shall nothing enter that is polluted or unclean, Rev. 21. 27. And again, Thy people shall be all righteous, ch. 61. 21. See Zeph. 3. 9. Zach. 14. 20, 21.

Moreover this, saith he, [p. 185.] will be a State under a peculiar Presence and divine Conduct, because the Tabernacle of God will be with Men, and he will dwell with them; and this we see was promised at the Conversion of the Jewish Nation, Ezek. 37. 27.

The last Character, saith he, that belongs to this State, or rather to those that enjoy it, is this, that they are Kings and Priests unto God; and this also, we have shewed to be promised to the Converted Jews, Es. 61. 6. — 65. 20.

I add, That as the ancient Fathers generally held that the time would come when all Israel should be saved, and be converted to the Christian Faith; so did they as generally conceive that this should happen at the Close of the World (c), and about the time of our Saviour's second coming: and most of 'em speak of it as a branch of the Millennium.

So Justin M. says once and again, that (d) then the Jews shall see, and shall acknowledge him whom they have pierced; and he confesses to Trypho, (e) that Jerusalem shall be rebuilt, and that (f) Christians shall rejoyce with Christ together with the Patriarchs and Prophets, and with the Jews and their Proselites, i. e. the Nations then flowing in to them before the coming of our Lord. So (g) Irenæus declares, that then God will restore them to the Land which he had promised, and given to their Fathers, and they shall dwell in it in hope. And (h) Tertullian saith, that he will then own the Circumcision, Et Abrahæ gentem, cum ultimo venerit, acceptatione & benedictione dignabitur, and at his last coming will vouchsafe to accept, and bless the seed of Abraham. And this is suitable to the ancient Opinion of the (i) Jews, that in the end of the World there should be to them a world full of joy and exaltation, so that their Heaven and Earth should as it were be renewed, according to the words of Isaiah, Chap. 65. 17. So the Targum upon those words of Hosea, The Children of Israel shall seek the Lord their God, and David their King, and shall fear the Lord and his goodness in the latter days.

§. V. Nor is it to be wonder'd that there should be then such a glorious Conversion of them, and such a flowing in of the Nations to them, seeing the Prophets seem to intimate there shall be then a full Effusion of the Holy Ghost upon them, somewhat resembling that which was vouchsafed to the first Ages of Christianity. So the Prophet Isaiah speaks of the Desolation of the City ἕως ἂν ἔλθῃ ἐφ' ὑμᾶς πνεῦμα ἀφ' ὑψηλοῦ, until the Spirit be poured upon them from on high, Isa. 32. 15. which is the very Phrase in which our Lord promiseth the Spirit to his Apostles, Luke 24. 49. St. Paul proves their Conversion from those words of the Prophet Isaiah, The Deliverer shall come out of Zion, and shall turn away iniquity from Jacob: with which these are immediately connected, And this is my Covenant with them, saith the Lord, My Spirit that is upon thee, and my words which I have put into thy mouth, shall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy seed, nor out of the mouth of thy seeds seed from henceforth for ever, Chap. 59. 20, 21. And again, Chap. 44. 3. I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground; I will pour my Spirit upon thy seed, and my Blessing on thy off-spring. So Ezek. 36. 24. I will take you from among the Heathen, and gather you out of all countries, and will bring you into your own land. And ver. 27. I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my Statutes. And Ch. 39. 28, 29. I have gathered them unto their own land, and have left none of them any more there, neither will I hide my face any more from them, for I have poured out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord. And this seems plainly to be hinted in these words of St. Paul, 2 Cor. 3. 15, 16, 17. Even unto this day, when Moses is read, the veil is upon their heart. Nevertheless, when it shall turn to the Lord, the veil shall be taken away; for the Lord is (the giver of) that Spirit, or ὁ δὲ κύριος τὸ πνεῦμά ἐστιν where the Lord is, there is the Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is Liberty, from subjection to the Law, and from that veil which hinders them from turning to Christ.

To this Mr. Mead (pag. 761, 767.) conjectures there shall be added a Vision of Jesus Christ to them; for saith God by his Prophet Zachariah, Chap. 12. 10. I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the Spirit of Grace and of Supplications, and they shall look upon him whom they have pierced, and mourn for him. And Christ being ask'd, What shall be the sign of the End of the World, Matt. 24. 3. saith ver. 30. Then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in Heaven, and then shall all the Tribes of the Earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of Heaven, with Power and great Glory. He speaks to the Jews thus; Verily, I say unto you, yet a little while, and you shall not see me till you say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord, Matth. 23. 39.

Or that according to the ancient and general Doctrine both of Jew and Christian, they shall have an Elias sent to instruct them, a Deliverer ἕνεκεν Σιὼν for the sake of Sion, as the Septuagint, Isa. 59. 20. For, saith he, It may be fit to conceive magnificently of so great a work of God towards a People for whom he hath formerly shewed so many wonders; especially this being the greatest work of mercy and won- der that ever he did for them, far beyond the bringing them forth of Egypt, and leading them in the wilderneſs. And to this he refers theſe words of Eccleſiaſticus, Elias was ordained to turn the hearts of the father to the ſon, and to reſtore, κατασῆσαι, the Tribes of Jacob: Μακάριοι οἱ ἰδόντες σε, καὶ οἱ ἀγαπῶντες κεκοσμημένοι, καὶ γὰρ ἡμεῖς ζωῇ ζησόμεθα, Bleſſed are they that ſee thee, and are adorned with love, for we ſhall ſurely live, Eccluſ 48. 10, 11. Where note, that their Converſion is again repreſented by a new life, and by the very word uſed concerning the Souls of the Martyrs which were ſlain, Rev. 20. 4.

§ VI. Add to this, That as all the ancient Millenaries held that this Reign on Earth ſhould be at (k) Jeruſalem, and that the Jews converted then ſhould reign together with the Chriſtians; ſo all the Paſſages cited from Jewiſh Writers concerning the Millennium, ſpeak only of the Millennium of the Reſurrection, the new Heavens and new Earth the Jewiſh Nation ſhall enjoy. This is apparent from thoſe words on which the Midraſh Tehillim founds this Millennium, viz. Comfort us according to the days in which thou haſt afflicted us, Pſal. 90. 15. in Babylon, in Greece, in Rome. From the words cited by Galatinus, l. 12. c. 1. from R. Eliezer, ch. 34. As I live, ſaith the Lord, I will raiſe you in the time to come, in the Reſurrection of the dead, and I will gather you, with all Iſrael, into the land of Iſrael. From thoſe cited from R. Saadias on Dan. 7. 18. Becauſe the Jews rebelled againſt their Lord, their Kingdom ſhall be taken from them, and given to the four Monarchies who ſhall poſſeſs it in this World, and ſhall ſubdue and carry captive Iſrael till the age to come in which the Meſſiah ſhall reign. From the Targum on Hoſ. 14. 8. They ſhall be gathered from the midſt of their captivity; and on Pſal. 50. 4. From the Paſſage quoted by Galatinus, l. 11. c. 1. From the Book Beracoth, that Iſrael ſhall no more make mention of their departure out of Egypt in the age to come, in the days of the Meſſiah. And from the words cited by Mr. Mead, Luke 21. 24. The Jews ſhall be carried captives into all Nations till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled, and then ſhall they ſee the Son of Man coming in the clouds. From the words of Tobit cited by Mr. Mead, p. 579. Then the children of Iſrael ſhall go into a very long captivity, but the bleſſed God ſhall remember them, and gather them from the four corners of the earth. Accordingly Mr. Mead ſums up their Opinion thus, They expect their Forefathers, at leaſt ſuch as were juſt and holy, ſhould riſe in the beginning of the ſame Millennium, and reign in the Land of Iſrael with their Off-ſpring under the Meſſiah. And, ſaith he, I can hardly believe that all the ſmoak of Tradition could ariſe but from ſome fire of Truth anciently made known unto them. And this I freely grant, and do indeed ſuppoſe by aſſerting a Prediction of ſuch a general Call of the Jews near the cloſe of the World, as they ſtyled ζωπύρησις, a reviving, and a Reſurrection of them. But how comes this Tradition to relate to Chriſtian Martyrs beheaded for the name of Chriſt, or to be fulfilled in the Reſurrection of them only who are chiefly Chriſtians, not of the Jews, but of the Gentiles? Mr. Mead ſolves the matter thus, p. 604. Under the ſecond ſort of theſe Reigners I would in a particular reſpect underſtand the Nation of the Jews then converted to the Chriſtian Faith; who coming in toward the end of the day, may, above all others, be ſaid to be thoſe who had not worſhipped the Beaſt, nor his Image, nor had received his mark upon their foreheads or their hands. And thus will Truth prevail at laſt, but to the ruin of this literal Reſurrection: for how can they literally be ſaid to live again, and to have a part in the firſt Reſurrection, who were never ſlain for the Faith? and who are not to be converted, ſay their own Prophecies and Traditions, till God createth a new Heaven and a new Earth, and much leſs till the Fall of Babylon.

CHAP.

CHAP. III.

This Chapter contains an Answer to all the Arguments produc'd from Scripture, to prove this literal Resurrection of the Martyrs, and this Reign of them on Earth a thousand Years, viz. 1. To the chief Argument for this Opinion, from Rev. 20. 4, 5, 6. §. I. To 2 Pet. 3. from vers. 5. 13. §. II. To Heb. 25. compared with Chap. 1. 6. §. III. To Matth. 5. 5. The Meek shall inherit the Earth, §. IV. To Rom. 8. 19, 20. The Creature shall be delivered from the Bondage of Corruption into the glorious Liberty of the Sons of God, §. V. To Act. 3. 20. 21. The Heavens must receive him till the time of the restitution of all things, §. VI. To Matth. 19. 27, 28, 29. Ye that have followed me in the Regeneration, shall sit upon twelve Thrones, §. VII. And they shall receive an hundred fold now in this life. Ibid.

I Proceed now to the Arguments produced from Scripture for the Doctrine of the Millennium, to which I hope to return a clear and satisfactory Answer, beginning with those Words of the Revelations in which all the Assertors of this Doctrine place their Confidence. And they are these:

§. I. Arg. 1. And I saw Thrones, and they sat upon them, and Judgment was given to them: and I saw the Souls of them that were beheaded for the Witness of Jesus, and for the Word of God, and which had not worshipped the Beast, neither his Image, neither had re-received his Mark upon their Foreheads, or in their Hands, and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand Years, Rev. 20. 4.

But the rest of the Dead lived not again till the thousand Years were finished. This is the first Resurrection, vers. 5.

Blessed and holy is he who hath part in the first Resurrection: on such the second Death hath no power, but they shall be Priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand Years, vers. 6.

First, Here, say they, is mention of a First Resurrection, antecedent to the General Resurrection of the Just, who are not to live again till they who first rise have reigned a thousand Years on Earth.

2*dly*, This Resurrection, say they, is proper to those who were slain for the Testimony of Jesus, and the Word of God, and were not Worshippers of the Beast.

3*dly*, This Resurrection, say they, is not a metaphorical, but a proper Resurrection; for the Souls, i.e. the persons of them that were slain live again.

4*thly*. They do reign with Christ a thousand Years, and that Reign, say most of them, is to be upon Earth; therefore there is to be a Reign of those Martyrs who were slain for the Testimony of Jesus and the Word of God upon Earth a thousand Years.

Now in answer to this Argument, let it be noted:

Answ. 1. That it is not the Bodies, but the Souls of them that are beheaded who are said to live; now the word ψυχὰς, rendred Soul, occurs six times in this Book, this place excepted; and in all these places, it signifies either the Soul in separation, or distinction from the Body, or the living Soul; for, Chap. 6. 9. The Souls under the Altar, not only cry with a loud Voice, but they are clothed with white Robes, ver. 10, 11. which Expressions cannot be well applyed to Dead Bodies. Chap. 8. 9. The Κτίσματα ἔχοντα ψυχὰς, are the Creatures having Animal Souls by which they lived, Chap. 12. 11. It plainly signifies their Lives, i. e. the Souls by which Men live, Chap. 16. 3. It is expressly ἡ ψυχὴ ζῶσα, the Living Soul, Chap. 18. 13. It signifies the Lives of Men, or else the Souls of Men which they did hunt for, or devour, as Ezek. 13. 18, 20. --- 22. 25. and ver. 14th. Ἐπιθυμία τῆς ψυχῆς, is the desire not of the Body but the Soul; Why therefore must this Word be here supposed to signifie that dead Body in opposition to the Soul, which alone properly can be said to rise, and live again?

2*dly*, Let it be noted, that a proper and a literal Resurrection is never in the whole New Testament expressed, or represented to us by the living of the Soul, but always by the living, raising, or the resuscitation of the Dead, the raising of the Bodies of the Saints, of them that slept in the Dust, or in their Graves and Sepulchres, or who were buried in the Sea or in the Earth; if then the Holy Ghost here meant a literal and proper Resurrection, why doth he so much vary from the Terms he constantly doth use elsewhere, whenever he discourseth of such a Resurrection, and take up with the Terms so oft applied in Scripture to a Moral, and Metaphorical Resurrection? as we shall see hereafter.

Answ.

Answ. 2. 2*dly*, I grant that here is mention of a First Resurrection antecedent to the General and proper Resurrection, but then it plainly is a Resurrection in which all that are blessed and holy, and over whom the second Death hath no power, have a part, ver. 6. and they are all whose Names are written in the Book of Life, ver. 14, 15. It is a Resurrection of all who had not worshipped the Beast, ver. 4. and they are all the same Persons, Rev. 13. 8. It is a Resurrection of those who are made Kings and Priests to God and Christ, which all good Christians are, 1 Pet. 2. 5, 9. and therefore not of Martyrs only.

Again, It is a Resurrection before the Day of Judgment, and before the Sea, and Death, and the Grave deliver up their Dead, as the words following intimate, ver. 12, 13. viz. I saw the Dead, small and great stand before God, and the Books were opened; and another Book, which is the Book of Life, and the Dead were judged out of those things which were written in the Books, according to their Works. And the Sea gave up her Dead that were in it: and Death and Hades delivered up their Dead that were in them: and they were judged every Man according to his Works. Where note, that the Dead delivered up were all that were judged according to their Works. It also is a Resurrection before Christ's coming to render to every Man as his Works shall be; for this He after promiseth to do, Chap. 22. 12. whereas, according to the Doctrine of the Millennium, Christ had already given to them whom he had raised to reign with him on Earth, the Blessing promised to him that overcometh, Rev. 2. 26, 27. --- 3. 21. 5. 10.

3*dly*, The rest of the Dead that lived not again until the thousand Years were finished, are not the Just, but the Synagogue of Satan, Gog and Magog, ver. 8. for St. John, Chap. 19. represents the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, with the Armies which were in Heaven making War with the Kings of the Earth, and their Armies, and giving their Flesh to be meat unto them; in which War the Beast was taken, and the false Prophet, and cast alive into a lake of Fire, ver. 20. And then it follows thus, καὶ οἱ λοιποὶ, and the rest of them, who were gathered together to make War with this King of Kings were slain with the Sword that came out of his Mouth, and all the Fowls were filled with their Flesh, ver. 21. Now it being by the Pagan Emperors first, and by the Beast afterwards, That Satan, the great Dragon, made War with the Seed of the Woman which kept the Commandments of God, and had the Testimony of Jesus Christ, Rev. 12. 17. these Instruments of Satan being thus slain, and overcome by Christ, Satan is bound a thousand Years, i. e. He is so long disabled from persecuting and molesting the Church of Christ, and during this space She is raised up to her Primitive Purity, and flourisheth Gloriously, and so is represented, as having a Resurrection from the Dead: This thousand Years being ended, Satan is let loose again, and gathers again his Instruments, i. e. the Nations which are in the four quarters of the Earth, Gog and Magog to Battel, and they compass the Camp of the Saints, Rev. 20. 8, 9. And this is the living of the rest of the Dead again after the thousand Years was ended, ver. 5. for it is only οἱ λοιποὶ, the rest that were slain, Chap. 19. 21. that lived again; it is only those who had no share in the First Resurrection, and so were neither blessed nor holy, ver. 6. nor had their Names written in the Book of Life; and consequently those on whom the Second Death had place, which Death they suffered when Fire came down from Heaven and devour'd them, and they were cast into the Lake of Fire with the Devil, ver. 10, 15.

And that οἱ λοιποὶ the rest, Chap. 19. 21. and Chap. 20. 5. should signifie the same Persons, cannot seem strange, if we consider that only four Verses intervene betwixt them. And that they must be the same Persons, is evident from the connexion of the words, thus, the rest of the Dead lived not till the thousand Years of Satan's Binding and the Saints Reign was ended, ver. 5. And when those thousand Years were ended, Satan was loosed, and gathered them together against that Church of Christ, which had thus Reigned a thousand Years, ver. 7, 8, 9, 10.

And this interpretation of the rest of the Dead rising again, gives a clear Answer to the Objection of Mr. Mead, against the other Senses commonly imposed upon these Words, viz. That it would be a most harsh and violent Interpretation, to say the Dead, and the living again of the Dead, should not be taken in the same sense; for according to this Expostion, they are exactly taken in the same sense, the Dead Church living again in the same Metaphorical Sense, in which the rest of the Dead, the Enemies of the Church live again, at the end of the thousand Years when Satan is loosed, and gathers them to Battel against the Church.

4*thly*, The Souls of them who were slain for the Testimony of Jesus, and for the Word of God, are those Christians who were slain in the time of the Ten Persecutions, and the Souls of them who worshipped not the Beast, are those Christians who chose rather to die, or suffer Persecution, than to be guilty of Romish Idolatry: And they are said to live again as the Beast which had received τὴν πληγὴν θανάτου, the Wound of Death, and one of whose Heads was wounded to Death, ἔζησε, lived again, Rev. 13. 3, 12. viz. in the Succession of the Antichristian Beast, to him which exercised the power of the Heathen Emperors over the Earth, and reviv'd the Idolatry latry of the Heathen Empire. And as the two Witneſſes, when ſlain, are ſaid to live again, the ſpirit of life from God entring into them, Rev. 11. 7, 11. becauſe a ſucceſſion of Men of the ſame Faith, and the ſame oppoſition to the Beaſt, revive, and flouriſh after they were ſlain. Some here reply, that this was ſpoken of the two Churches, that they were ſlain, and lived again, not of the Suppoſita. But why then may not the words of St. John be ſpoken of the Church of Jew and Gentile then reviving, and not of the Suppoſita? Moreover, theſe two Witneſſes are ſaid to be ſlain, ver. 7. and their dead bodies to lie in the ſtreets of the great City, ver. 8. to be ſeen lying there three days and an half, and not to be ſuffer'd to be put into their Graves, ver. 9. and after three days and an half, the Spirit of God is ſaid to enter into them, to make them ſtand upon their feet, and live again. If therefore nothing of this be ſpoken of the Suppoſita, why ſhould thoſe words, I ſaw the ſouls of them who were beheaded for the witneſs of Jeſus, and they lived again, be ſpoken of the Suppoſita, and not of the Churches of the Converted Jews and Gentiles? this being the Prophetick Scheme by which the Scripture ſtill repreſents the glorious Reſtoration of God's Church and People. For,

1. The Reſtoration of the Church is ſometimes repreſented as a Reſurrection of it from the dead. So ſaith the Prophet Iſaiah, ἀναστήσονται οἱ νεκροί, thy dead ſhall ariſe, and be raiſed out of their tombs, Chap. 26. 19. So God ſpeaks to the Jewiſh Nation by Ezekiel, ſaying, I will open your graves, and cauſe you to come out of your graves, and bring you into the Land of Iſrael, Ezek. 37. 13, 14. The Prophet Hoſea ſpeaks thus, in three days ἀναστησόμεθα we ſhall riſe up again, and we ſhall live before him, Hoſ. 6. 2. And the Apoſtle ſpeaking of this very matter, viz. the Converſion of the Jews, ſaith, it ſhall be even to the Gentiles ζωὴ ἐκ νεκρῶν, as life from the dead. Rom. 11. 15. Here then is a Reſurrection of the Church of God agreeable to that which our Interpretation of this Paſſage of the Revelations doth import: nor is there any more reaſon to ſay the words of St. John reſpect the Suppoſita, and not the Churches, than to ſay the ſame of many of the places cited.

Moreover, the Scripture doth more frequently mention the Reſtoration of the Church, and her Return from a low, captive, and afflicted State, under the Metaphor of a new Life, a Life from the dead, a Reviviſcence of God's Church and People. Thus when God moved the Perſian Kings to let the Jews return to their own Land, he is by Ezra ſaid to give them ζωοποίησιν a Reviviſcence, Ezra 9. 9. The Pſalmiſt ſpeaking of himſelf as the Text, or of God's People alſo ſaith the Marginal Reading, uſeth theſe words, Thou which haſt ſhewed me great and ſore troubles, ſhalt quicken me (marg. us) again, and ſhalt bring me up again (* marg. us) from the depth of the Earth, Pſal. 71. 20. And the Church ſpeaketh thus to God, ζωώσεις thou wilt quicken us, and we will call upon thy name, Pſal. 80. 18. And again, Thou wilt return καὶ ζωώσεις ἡμᾶς and revive us, and thy people ſhall rejoyce in thee, Pſal. 85. 6. ζήσονται οἱ τεθνηκότες σου Thy dead men ſhall live, Iſa. 26. 19. ſay Symmachus and Theodotion. ζησόμεθα We ſhall live in his ſight, ſaith the Prophet Hoſea, Chap. 6. 2, 3. and Ch. 14. 17. They ſhall live with their Children and return again, ſaith the Prophet Zachary, Chap. 10. 8, 9. The Son of Syrach ſaith, at the coming of Elias, ζωῇ ζησόμεθα we ſhall live again, Chap. 48. 11. But the chief Seat of this Metaphor is in the 37th Chapter of Ezekiel, where God is introduced inquiring of the Jews in Babylon, εἰ ζήσονται can theſe Bones live, ver. 3. and promiſing to put into them πνεῦμα ζωῆς the breath of life, ver. 5. and ſaying, I will put my Spirit into you καὶ ζήσεσθε and ye ſhall live, and bidding the Prophet blow upon them καὶ ζωοποιήσουσι that they may live, ver. 9. and declaring, that when he had done ſo, breath entred into them, καὶ ἔζησαν and they lived again, and ſtood upon their feet, ver. 10. In all which places the very word which S. John uſeth to expreſs the firſt Reſurrection, is here uſed to expreſs the Return of the Church from her Obſcurity and Thraldom to a glorious ſtate. Why therefore may not the Word in St. John bear that ſenſe which it ſo often bears in the Prophetick Writings, and twice in the (a) New Teſtament, when ſpoken of the Gentiles? It hence at leaſt appears, that by this Interpretation I put no force upon the words, but do expound them in the familiar ſenſe in which they are ſtill uſed upon the like occaſion in the Prophetick Writings.

Now it is generally agreed by thoſe who own this Converſion of the Jews, that it is not to commence till after the Deſtruction of the Beaſt, or the Downfal of Antichriſt, mention'd Chap. 18. and therefore in the next Chapter he begins his Diſcourſe upon it, ſaying, Chap. 19. 7. The marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made her ſelf ready, i. e. ſhe who was formerly put away, and the door ſhut upon her becauſe ſhe was not (b) prepared for the Bridegroom's coming, Matth. 25. 10. was now to be married to God again. And Chap. 21. he reaſſumes this matter, and ſhews the Bride the Lamb's Wife in ſuch a deſcription, as will not ſuffer us to doubt ſhe is the Jewiſh Nation converted to the Chriſtian Faith: for, he calls her the Holy City, and the New Jeruſalem, and tells us in the very words of Isaiah; Chap. 60. 3, 10. that the Nations which shall be saved shall walk in the light of this City. He calleth her also the Bride to be married to the Lamb; which is the Description the Prophets make of this converted Nation, viz. as of a Bride adorned with her Jewels, and as one that is to be married to the Lord, Isa. 61. 10. 62. 4, 5. And he goes on in a continual Description of this New Jerusalem in the words of the Prophets Isaiah and Ezekiel speaking of the Conversion of the Jewish Nation. The City also coming down from Heaven, ver. 10. is the new Church of the converted Jews, said to come down from Heaven, according to the Hebrew Phrase, because of that divine Wisdom, and those spiritual Gifts and Graces with which she shall be adorned from Heaven: for as they were wont to say of one who treated of sublime heavenly things, that he did עלה לרקיע (a) ascend into Heaven, and spake as one who was admitted into the divine Councils, Deut. 30. 11, 12. Prov. 30. 3. and of those who heard these things that they were exalted to Heaven, Matth. 11. 23. so the pouring down of these Gifts and Blessings is represented as the opening of Heaven, and letting them down upon the Earth. Thus when S. John receives his Prophecy, he sees a door opened in Heaven, and hears a Voice saying come up hither, and I will shew thee what shall be hereafter, Rev. 4. 1. Where note, that the Voice he heard then was as the Voice of a Trumpet: and so the very same Voice he heard when he was in the Spirit, Rev. 1. 10. The two Witnesses also, when they live again, are called up into Heaven, Rev. 11. 11, 12. as being filled with heavenly Wisdom. And since the spiritual Gifts imparted to the Church are said to come from above, from the Father of lights, Jam. 1. 17. and they who were made Partakers of them to have tasted τ δωρεᾶς ἐπουρανίε of the heavenly gift; seeing the Church of Christ is the Jerusalem which is from above, Gal. 4. 26. the heavenly Jerusalem, Heb. 12. 22. it is no wonder that she is represented here as coming down from Heaven, when she was as it were to have a new Birth which is from above, Joh. 3. 3. and to be adorned with spiritual blessings in heavenly things in Christ Jesus, Eph. 1. 3. and to be reduced to her primitive lustre and purity; for then shall the purity of the Church return, and be as it was in the times of the first Martyrs for the Faith, and the Gospel shall be professed without any Antichristian mixture, as they who opposed the Beast endeavoured to preserve it: and thus shall these Martyrs and Opposers of the Beast live again.

A Reverend and Worthy Person, of more than ordinary Skill in matters of this nature, is of opinion;

1*st*, That the first Resurrection, here mention'd, will be a literal Resurrection of them that have lost their Lives for the Testimony of Christ, to enjoy eternal Life in Heaven a thousand years before the General Resurrection, as the Martyrs of the Old Testament arose with the Body of Christ, Matth. 27. 52. They shall reign, saith he, with Christ, not on Earth, but in Heaven, where Christ is, and shall be till he come to Judgment.

2*dly*, He is of Opinion, That not only the Martyrs shall then rise to heavenly Bliss, but that their Murtherers shall then also rise to eternal Punishment. Which he gathers from those words of Daniel, Chap. 12. 2. And many of them that sleep in the dust shall arise, some to everlasting Life, and some to everlasting Shame and Contempt. Now,

1*st*, Against the Doctrine of the first and second Resurrection, properly so called, I have offered some Arguments in the Annotations on 1 Cor. 15. and Chap. 4. §. 2. I therefore only farther note;

First, That St. Matthew speaks not one word of any Martyrs that arose after Christ's Resurrection, but only of the arising of some Saints that slept, and their going into the holy City, and appearing unto many; which seems rather to make it probable they were Saints who had lived in the Memory of those to whom they appeared, and were known.

2*dly*, St. Matthew doth not say as St. John doth, that many Souls lived, but that πολλα σώματα many Bodies of those that slept arose out of their Sepulchres: his words must therefore be understood of a proper Resurrection of the Bodies of the Saints; but it cannot be hence inferr'd that the words of St. John bear the same sense.

3*dly*, St. John doth not say his Martyrs shall reign with Christ a thousand years before the general Resurrection, but only, that they shall reign with Christ a thousand years; which seems an odd Expression when applied to them who are rais'd to reign for ever with him. Add to this, that after the Resurrection of St. John's Saints to reign with Christ a thousand years, Satan is loosed, and raises his Armies to fight against, and compass about τὴν παρεμβολὴν τ̃ ἁγίων the camp of the Saints, ver. 7, 8, 9. which fairly intimates that the Saints mentioned ver. 6. as Partakers of the first Resurrection, were still on Earth, and not reigning with Christ in Heaven.

Lastly, The second part of this Opinion seems to contradict many Scriptures which expressly teach that the time of the Punishment of the Wicked, shall be after the Sentence of Absolution hath been passed upon the Blessed, Matth. 25. 41, --- 46. when all the Good have gone into everlasting Life, John 5. 28, 29. at the day of Judgment, and when we shall appear before the Judgment-ſeat of Chriſt, Rom. 2. 8, 9, 16. 2 Cor. 5. 10. and that they who have perſecuted Chriſt's Members ſhall be puniſhed at the Revelation of Chriſt from Heaven, 2 Theſſ. 1. 6--9. at the Conflagration of the World, 2 Pet. 2. 9. 3. 7. at the day of Judgment, Jude 14, 15. when he cometh in the Clouds, Rev. 1. 7. and that the Crown of Glory ſhall be given to the Righteous at the ſame time. See Note on 2 Tim. 4. 8.

Obj. 2. Some refer to this Millennium thoſe words of Chriſt, Matth. 5. 5. Bleſſed are the meek, for they ſhall inherit the earth; ſaying, that neither David, nor our Saviour, could underſtand this otherwiſe than of a future State, becauſe it is not the meek, but the great ones of the World, that ſlice the Earth among them, and Court-flatterers that ſcramble for Preferment.

Anſw. But it is evident to a Demonſtration, that David did underſtand this of the preſent Earth, or of the Land of Canaan; for the Tenour of this whole 37th Pſalm is deſign'd to ſhew, that Wicked Men ſhall by God's Judgments ſuddenly periſh, whilſt Righteous Men lived eaſily and quietly in the Land of Canaan. So ver. 9. Evil doers ſhall be cut off, but they that wait upon the Lord they ſhall inherit the Earth; for yet a little while, and the wicked ſhall not be, but the meek ſhall inherit the Earth. They that are bleſſed of him ſhall inherit the Earth, and they that are curſed of him ſhall be rooted out. So ver. 34. Wait on the Lord, and keep his way, and he ſhall exalt thee τοῦ κληρονομῆσαι γῆν to inherit the Earth: when the wicked are deſtroyed thou ſhalt ſee it. See alſo ver. 14, 17, 19, 23, 24, 25, 29. 'Tis therefore unadviſedly ſaid, the Pſalmiſt could not underſtand this of the preſent Earth, and that upon a plain miſtake of the Import of the Phraſe; as if inheriting the Earth was enjoying a vaſt Fortune, or a great ſhare of temporal Enjoyments here, whereas the Comfort of this Life, as our Lord teacheth, Luke 12. 15. Conſiſteth not in the abundance of the things that we poſſeſs. The Phraſe rather imports, That Meekneſs is the beſt way to procure us a long and peaceable Life on Earth, Pſal. 34. 12, 14. 1 Pet. 3. 10. and that the meek Perſon ſhall ordinarily have the moſt ſure enjoyment of theſe things as far as they are needful; that he ſhall enjoy them with the greateſt Quiet and Tranquillity, without that Strife, Debate, Anxiety, and Trouble, which imbitter the Enjoyment of theſe things to others; and with the trueſt Comfort, Satisfaction, and Contentedneſs of Mind. For, as Chryſoſtom well obſerves upon the place, Becauſe the Jews had been oft taught this Leſſon in the Old Teſtament, our Saviour addreſſes himſelf to them in the Language they had been accuſtomed to; this Son of David repeateth and confirmeth to them the Promiſe made by David. And this I judge to be the moſt natural, and trueſt Expoſition of theſe Words.

Obj. 3. Our Saviour promiſes to his Diſciples and Followers, That for the Loſſes they ſhould ſuſtain here on his account, and for the ſake of his Goſpel, they ſhould receive there an hundredfold, and ſit upon Thrones with him judging the Tribes of Iſrael. The Words are theſe: And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay to you, that ye which have followed me in the Regeneration, when the Son of Man ſhall ſit on the Throne of his Glory, ye alſo ſhall ſit upon twelve Thrones, judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael, Matth. 19. 27, 28. Theſe Thrones muſt, in all Reaſon, be the ſame with the Thrones mentioned Dan. 7. 9. Apoc. 20. 4. and therefore mark the ſame time and ſtate. And ſeeing in thoſe places they plainly ſignifie the Millennial State, or the Kingdom of Chriſt and his Saints, they muſt here ſignifie the ſame in this Promiſe of our Saviour to his ſuffering Followers. And as to the word παλιγγενεσία, which is here tranſlated Regeneration, 'tis very well known that both the Greek Philoſophers and Greek Fathers uſe that word for the Renovation of the World, which is to be at, or before, the Millennial ſtate.

Anſw. In Anſwer to this Argument, I ſhall not take notice that what the Argument ſaith is promiſed to Chriſt's Diſciples and Followers in general, is indeed promiſed only to his twelve Apoſtles, to them who had then loſt all and followed him, Matth. 19. 17. to them who had continued with him in his Temptations, Luke 22. 28. The Thrones here mentioned therefore cannot be the Thrones ſpoken of in Daniel, and the Revelations; for theſe Thrones are peculiar to the twelve Apoſtles: thoſe in the Revelations are ſuppoſed to belong to all that have a ſhare in the firſt Reſurrection: the Apoſtles ſit upon theſe Thrones only to Judge the twelve Tribes of Iſrael; but they who ſit on the Thrones mention'd in the Revelations, are to Rule over the Nations, and Judge them, Rev. 2. 26, 27. 3. 21. 5. 10. 20. 4. 6. But,

2*dly*, I grant the παλιγγενεσία, or Regeneration here mentioned, may be referred to the Conſummation of the World, and to the new Heavens and Earth of which the Prophets ſpeak; but then I add, this παλιγγενεσία or new Birth, is only that of the Church of Chriſt, that ζωοποίησις or new Life, that ζωὴ ἐκ νεκρῶν Life from the dead, ſhe ſhall receive when all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, and the Fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhall flow in to them. For,

1*ſt*, The Perſons here to be judged are only the twelve Tribes of Iſrael, which makes it more than probable, that the whole Promiſe made to the Apoſtles reſpects their Government over theſe Tribes, coming in at the Cloſe of the World after the Fall of Antichriſt; and that not by a Reſurrection of their Perſons, but by a Reviviſcence of that Spirit which reſided in them, them, and of that Purity and Knowledge which they delivered to the World, and chiefly by Admiſſion of their Goſpel to be the Standard of their Faith, and the Direction of their Lives.

2dly, It hath been obſerv'd already, that the Delivery of the Jews from their former Captivities and Miſeries, is always repreſented as a ζωοποιησις, a giving of Life, and a Reſurrection to the Jews. And thus may thoſe words of St. John be primarily referr'd to them, viz. I ſaw Thrones, and they ſat upon them, and Judgment was given to them, Chap. 20. 4. though theſe things belong not to them only, but in general to him that overcometh, Chap. 2. 26, 27. 3. 1. Seeing then their Return from their Captivity is in this Style of the Prophets uſually repreſented as a παλιγγενεσία, a reviving, or new Life; Why may not the time of their moſt glorious Converſion, and Collection from all the Corners of the Earth, be by our Saviour here repreſented under that known Metaphor? And this Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation being by me placed in S. John's Epocha, viz. after the Deſtruction of the Beaſt, and the Death and Slaughter of the Armies of them that fought for him, or worſhipped his Image, and her converted Members being, in my opinion, the very Bride of the Lamb, which had made her ſelf ready, and, after a long Divorce, was now married to God again. I comply in this with all the Ancient Millenaries, and eſpecially with (b) Juſtin Martyr, when he ſaith, this παλιγγενεσία is the Myſtery of the Regeneration of all that expect Jeſus Chriſt to appear at Jeruſalem, ſpoken of by Iſaiah, Chap. 66. and that all Chriſtians entirely Orthodox expect to ſpend a thouſand years in Jeruſalem, as the Prophet Iſaiah hath foretold, ſaying, There ſhall be a new Heaven and new Earth. For as theſe things are ſpoken by a Prophet of the Jews, one ſent to ſpeak theſe things to them, ſo is it beyond diſpute that they chiefly and immediately concern that Nation, and her παλιγγενεσία new Birth of a numerous Off-ſpring after a long Barrenneſs, Chap. 66. 7, 8, 9. and her Exaltation to an high Eſtate of Excellence and Glory; and that ſo viſible to the Gentiles, that all Nations and Tongues ſhall ſee their Glory.

As for the following words, urged ſtifly by the ancient and ſome later Millenaries, viz. And every one that hath forſaken Houſe, or Brethren, or Siſter, or Father, or Mother, or Wife and Children, or Lands, for my Name's ſake, ſhall receive an hundredfold now in this time, Houſes, and Brothers, and Siſters, and Mothers, and Children, and Lands; and in the World to come, eternal Life. It is, in my Opinion, 1ſt, Very unreaſonable to interpret theſe words of Bleſſings to be conferr'd upon Men after the Reſurrection; for they that are thought worthy to be Sons of the Reſurrection, ſaith our Lord, neither marry, nor are given in marriage, Luke 20. 35. Whence therefore ſhould they have theſe Mothers, and theſe Children, not to add Wives an hundred fold? They are made like to the Angels at their Reſurrection; and what ſhould ſuch Angelical Perſons do with, what Advantage will they reap from an hundred Houſes, or a like Encreaſe of Land, on Earth?

If you reply, That theſe words of our Saviour relate not to the firſt Reſurrection, of which this Text, which ſpeaks of Wives and Children, is to be interpreted, but only to the ſecond and general Reſurrection; I Anſwer, That the words are general, and therefore muſt include all that are Sons of the Reſurrection. Moreover, By admitting this double Reſurrection, the firſt in which they that are raiſed might marry, or have Wives and Children, and the ſecond in which they could not, the Objection or Enquiry of the Sadducees is partly left unanſwered; for this Diſtinction doth ſuppoſe a Reſurrection, in which the ground of their Enquiry might take place.

2dly, This wonderful Encreaſe is promiſed νῦν at preſent, ἐν τῷ καιρῷ τούτῳ in this time of life, Mark 10. 30. Luke 18. 28. in oppoſition to what they ſhall receive in the Age to come. Now the Millennium is ſtill placed by Dr. B. in the Age to come after the Conflagration of the World; this Promiſe therefore cannot refer to his Millennium, nor yet to any other which begins after the Reſurrection of theſe Perſons, for that Time can with no propriety of Speech be ſaid to be now, nor can the Bleſſings then received be ſaid to be received in this life. Moreover, theſe Bleſſings are to be received μετὰ διωγμῶν with Perſecutions, it being the known Obſervation of Criticks and (c) Grammarians, that μετὰ with a Genitive Caſe ſignifies with, and denotes ἅμα τὸν χρόνον the ſame time, and only with an Accuſative Caſe ſignifies after, and denotes ὑστεροχρονίαν a following time; ſo that theſe Perſecutions muſt be contemporary with the Enjoyment of theſe Bleſſings, whereas a general Peace, and (d) freedom from all Perſecutions, is made a neceſſary Character of the Millennial State.

Laſtly, Theſe words afford an Argument againſt the Doctrine of the Millennium, becauſe, according to them, the only Bleſſing to be receiv'd ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι τῷ ἐρχομένῳ in the Age to come is life everlaſting, which Bleſſing is confin'd to Heaven, and not to be enjoyed on Earth, our Houſe eternal being in the Heavens, 2 Cor. 5. 1. and our inheritance eternal reſerved in the Heavens for us: and therefore they to whom the Promiſe is here made are not in the World to come to live a thouſand years on Earth, or to enjoy the temporal Bleſſings promiſed here, becauſe they are not to be enjoyed in the World to come, but now, in this preſent life, and becauſe the only Bleſſing promiſed in the World to come is not to be enjoy'd on Earth, but is reſerved in the Heavens for us, 1 Pet. 1. 4.

Obj. 4. St. Peter, in his Sermon to the Jews after our Saviour's Aſcenſion, tells them that he will come again, and that there will be then a Reſtitution of all things, ſuch as was promiſed by the Prophets. The Heavens, ſaith he, muſt receive him till the time of Reſtitution of all things which God hath ſpoken by the mouth of all his Prophets ſince the world began, Acts 3. 20, 21.

Anſw. I anſwer, That theſe words cannot be meant of a Reſtitution of all things to their former ſtate; for ſure 'tis very improper to ſay there will be a Reſtitution of all things to their former ſtate, which God hath ſpoken by the mouth of all his holy Prophets; for ſince theſe things relate to the Forerunner of our Lord Chriſt's coming in the Fleſh, his Life, Death, Reſurrection, and Aſcenſion, the preaching of the Goſpel to the Gentiles, the Reign of Antichriſt, the calling of the Jews, and the coming in of the Fullneſs of the Gentiles, theſe things may very well be ſaid to be exhibited, performed, accompliſhed, and conſummated; but I ſee not with what propriety or truth they can be ſaid to be reſtored to their former States, or be renewed, and therefore ἄχρι χρόνων ἀποκαταστάσεως πάντων is by the Syriack rendred until the fullneſs of the time of all things; by the Arabick, till the time in which all things ſhall be perfected, or finiſhed; by (e) Tertullian, Aduſque tempora exhibitionis omnium; by (f) Irenæus, Uſque ad tempus diſpoſitionis omnium, i. e. till the time of the exhibition, or diſpoſal of all things; by OEcumenius, till the time that all things do εἰς τέλος ἐλθεῖν come to an end: and for the confirmation of this Import of the word, we have the Suffrage of Heſychius and Phavorinus, that ἀποκατάστασις is τελείωσις the conſummation of a thing. Hence then I argue thus againſt this Doctrine. Since Chriſt is to continue in Heaven till the Completion, or Conſummation of all things ſpoken by the holy Prophets, if the Millennium were any of them, Chriſt muſt continue in Heaven till the Conſummation of that alſo, and therefore is not to come down from Heaven to reign on Earth till the Millennium be ended; nor can that be contemporary with our Lord's ſecond coming, which is from Heaven.

The Arguments produced in favour of this Millennium from Rom. 8. 19, 20, 21. from 2 Theſſ. 2. 1. from Hebr. 1. 6. and 2. 5. and from 2 Pet. 3. 8---12. are ſufficiently anſwered in the Notes upon thoſe places.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

This Chapter contains Arguments against the literal Reſurrection, and the Reign of Martyrs upon Earth a thouſand Years. Firſt, From the Inconſiſtency of it with the happy State of Souls departed, §. I. Secondly, From the accurate Deſcription of the Reſurrection in the Holy Scripture, without any mention of a firſt and ſecond Reſurrection, and with ſuch Deſcriptions of the Qualities of the Bodies raiſed, the efficient Cauſe, of the Time, Circumſtances, and Conſequents of it, which ſuit not with the Doctrine of the Millennium, §. II. Thirdly, From the Inconſiſtency of it with the Genius of the Chriſtian Faith, and the Nature of the Goſpel Promiſes, §. III.

HAVING thus ſhewed, That Scripture and Antiquity afford no ſure Foundation for this ſuppoſed Reſurrection of the Saints and Martyrs to reign with Chriſt on Earth a thouſand Years; I proceed now to ſhew the Inconſiſtence of this Doctrine, with many things delivered in the Holy Scripture. And,

§. I. Firſt, This Doctrine ſeems not well conſiſtent with the happy State of Souls departed, recorded in the Sacred Writings; for can it rationally be ſuppoſed, That thoſe Spirits of Juſt Men made perfect, which are now with Chriſt, Heb. 12. 23. and, being abſent from the Body, are preſent with the Lord, 2 Cor. 5. 8. Philip. 1. 23. ſhould leave thoſe bleſſed Manſions, or quit that happy State, to live on Earth again a thouſand Years? That they who are already entred into Reſt, Luke 23. 43. and who enjoy all the Delights and Satisfactions which Paradiſe it ſelf affords, ſhould quit this Station to enjoy Peace and Plenty upon Earth? Can they expect to be more righteous and holy, or to have more divine and heavenly Speculations, or better Company, or a more full Fruition of their Lord on Earth, than they enjoy'd in Paradiſe? If not, who can imagine, That God ſhould thus degrade them after ſo long enjoyment of thoſe happy Regions, or that they ſhould voluntarily quit theſe Manſions for any Temporal Enjoyments of the Body, any Meat or Drink, or Earthly Pleaſures, which they had formerly deny'd themſelves, and were even dead to whilſt they lived here, or for any Temporary Converſe upon the Earth in which they only lived as Pilgrims and Strangers, ſtill looking for a better Country, that is an heavenly? Heb. 11. 13, 16. And if this Change ſeems not conſiſtent with the State of happy Souls in general, much leſs will it comport with thoſe eſpecial Privileges and high Prerogatives ſuppoſed, by ſome Fathers, to belong unto the Souls of Martyrs, viz. that they do inſtantly receive their Crowns, and are admitted to a fuller Viſion, and a more intimate Enjoyment of the God of Heaven; for the higher their Advancement is, the greater muſt their Degradation be, when they return again to live on Earth. So that this Doctrine ſeems leaſt of all conſiſtent with the State of thoſe Chriſtian Sufferers, who are ſuppoſed to be very the Perſons for whom it chiefly was deſigned, and to whom it is chiefly promiſed.

Let us compare the Reſurrection mentioned by the Holy Scripture, with that ſuppoſed by the Millenaries, and we ſhall eaſily diſcern, That no Man reaſonably can deſire to enjoy the latter, who can be made partaker of the former.

They who believe the Reſurrection promiſed in Scripture, expect our Lord from Heaven to change their vile Bodies into the likeneſs of Chriſt's glorious Body, Philip. 3. 21. The Millenaries expect him to change, or to reſtore them into ſuch Bodies as ſhall be ſtill mortal, corruptible Bodies; for elſe, what need of Meat and Drink, what Pleaſure can they reap of all their Plenty? The firſt expect, this corruptible ſhould then put on Incorruption, this mortal put on Immortality, 1 Cor. 15. 53. The ſecond, That it ſhould do this only after a thouſand Years; for they ſuppoſe, [B. 4. c. 9. p. 206.] That Nature may be weak, and they may be deſirous to be diſſolved in the Millennial State. The firſt expect, That their diſhonourable Bodies ſhould be raiſed in Glory, ver. 43. The ſecond, That they be firſt raiſed with their diſhonourable Parts. The firſt, That the Body ſhould be raiſed a Spiritual and a Cæleſtial Body, bearing the Image of the Heavenly Adam, ver. 44. 48. The ſecond, That it be firſt raiſed an Earthly Body, bearing the Image of the Earthly Adam. And Oh! how inglorious, how deſpicable is the Reſurrection which theſe Men expect, compared with the Reſurrection promiſed in the Holy Scripture? How much more happy would the Saints and Martyrs be, could they immediately enjoy the Scripture Reſurrection, than than by enjoying that which the Millenaries have allotted to them? 'And why ſhould 'any one conceive they ſhould not do it? Is it 'becauſe there is a neceſſity they ſhould firſt 'live on Earth a Thouſand Years, (a) to pre-'pare them for Heaven, and eternal Glory; Ut 'paulatim aſſueſcant capere Deum, as Irenæus 'ſays, (b) That they may by degrees inlarge 'their Capacities, fit and accuſtom themſelves 'to receive God; or, as he ſays in another 'place, That they may become capable of the 'Glory of the Father, that is, capable of bear-'ing the Glory and Preſence of God? Sure, this is not for the Credit of the Martyrs, That they ſhould not be fit or capable to receive God, and enjoy the Glory of the Father, without imploying their Contemplations and Devotions upon Earth a Thouſand Years, when theſe holy Perſons who riſe not till the general Reſurrection ſhall from that time be for ever with the Lord, 1 Theſſ. 4. 17. and be immediately partakers of the Beatifick Viſion? Moreover, What is it that muſt be thus fitted, and capacitated by Contemplation to receive God, and to enjoy this Bleſſed Viſion? Is it not the Soul? And can ſhe not as well contemplate him under the Altar, or the Throne, or whilſt ſhe doth abide in Paradiſe? Is coming down from thoſe Cæleſtial Regions to this dull Earth, the way to elevate the Soul to Heaven? Will putting on a corruptible Body, a Body needing plenty of earthly things, and finding pleaſure in them, be the way to quicken and invigorate her heavenly Flights and Aſpirations? Or, is there no true (c) Friendſhip, no ingenuous Converſation to be had in Paradiſe, that the Soul muſt deſcend to Earth to enjoy it? Or, is it neceſſary, as (d) Tertullian, and (e) others argue, by way of retribution, That the Body which hath ſuffered, may be rewarded in like kind; i. e. that it may be now gratified with bodily Delights, the Pleaſures of the Throat and Palate, fine Cloaths, and innocent Diverſions here on Earth? As if a change of this vile Body into the likeneſs of Chriſt's glorious Body, were not a better, and far more glorious Reward of all its Sufferings.

Arg. 2. §. II. A ſecond Argument againſt this Doctrine, of a proper Reſurrection to reign with Chriſt a Thouſand Years on Earth, is taken from the accurate Deſcription of the Reſurrection contained in the Holy Scripture. For, Firſt, In all the Deſcriptions the Holy Ghoſt ſo largely gives us of the Reſurrection, and the future Judgment in the Evangeliſts, and the Epiſtles, there is no mention of a firſt and ſecond Reſurrection, or of any Prerogative of ſome Saints above others in it, or of any Precedence of any before others, as to the Reſurrection of their Bodies, which might have reaſonably been expected, had the Doctrine been then received, in ſome of thoſe places where the thing is ſo largely and critically diſcourſed on, as to inform us twice, That the Order of the Reſurrection ſhall be this, That the Dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt, 1 Theſſ. 4. 16, 17. and then, We that are alive ſhall be changed, and that Chriſt is raiſed as the firſt Fruits, and that afterwards they that are Chriſt's ſhall be raiſed at his coming: Here I confeſs, is mention made of an Order in the Reſurrection; for it is ſaid, In Chriſt ſhall all be made alive, every Man in his own Order, 1 Cor. 15. 23. but then the Order is expreſſed thus, Chriſt the firſt Fruits, afterward they that are Chriſt's. Whereas, according to the Millennial Hypotheſis, the Words ſhould rather have run thus; Chriſt the firſt Fruits, then the Martyrs, and a Thouſand Years after, the reſidue of the Juſt. In the Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians alſo, there is no Order of the Reſurrection of the Dead mentioned, but of them altogether; and without diſtinction it is ſaid, Them that ſleep in Chriſt, will God bring with him, and the Dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt.

In Anſwer to the Argument, we have been told, That (f) as Scripture ſpeaks of the Reſurrection in Groſs, without diſtinguiſhing firſt and ſecond, ſo it ſpeaks of the coming of our Saviour, without diſtinction of firſt and ſecond. But this is a great overſight; for the Scripture gives expreſs notice of Chriſt's coming εἰς δεύτερον, a ſecond time, for the Salvation of his Servants, Heb. 9. 28. and of his coming again, to receive them into thoſe Manſions he is gone to prepare for them, Joh. 14. 3. There being therefore equal reaſon to expect a like Diſtinction betwixt the firſt and ſecond Reſurrection, properly ſo called, the conſtant Silence of the Scriptures as to that matter, is no ſmall prejudice againſt that Hypotheſis which doth ſuppoſe a firſt and ſecond Reſurrection.

2dly, The Scripture in thoſe places containeth many things which ſeem moſt plainly inconſiſtent with that Doctrine; for either in thoſe places the Scripture ſpeaketh only of the ſecond Reſurrection excluſively of the firſt,

ſaſt, and then it is not true that Mr. Mead aſſerts, That the Day of Judgment, and the time of the Reſurrection, includes both the Millennium and the General Reſurrection; or, that the Scripture ſpeaks of the Reſurrection in the Groſs, without diſtinguiſhing betwixt the firſt and ſecond; for, if it ſpeaks only of the ſecond excluſively of the firſt, it muſt ſpeak of it diſtinctly from the firſt, or it muſt in thoſe places intend to ſpeak of both conjunctly and without diſtinction, and then what is ſaid in them muſt be applicable to them both, without diſtinction.

Whereas, the Scripture in thoſe places ſpeaketh many things: Firſt, As to the Nature of the Reſurrection, and the Qualities of the Bodies raiſed. 2dly, As to the efficient Cauſe of the Reſurrection, our Lord Jeſus. 3dly, As to the time of the Reſurrection. 4thly, As to the Circumſtances, and the immediate Conſequences of that Reſurrection, which are by no means applicable to the firſt, and the particular Reſurrection ſuppoſed by the Millenaries, but only to the general Reſurrection, which all Chriſtians own. And,

Firſt, That which the Scripture ſaith of the Nature and the Qualifications of the Bodies raiſed, is this, That they ſhall be raiſed Glorious, Spiritual, Immortal and Incorruptible Bodies; for then this Corruptible muſt put on Incorruption, and this Mortal muſt put on Immortality, 1 Cor 15. 52, 49. then ſhall we bear the Image of the heavenly Adam, or of that Lord from Heaven who ſhall change our vile Bodies into the likeneſs of his glorious Body, Philip. 3. 21. then ſhall we be cloathed upon with our Houſe from Heaven, and Death ſhall be ſwallowed up in Victory, 2 Cor. 5. 1, 4. Now, can a Body raiſed in Glory, i. e. in Clarity and in Splendor, ſhining like the Sun, and made like to Chriſt's glorious Body, and like unto the Angels, as they ſhall be, ſaith Chriſt, who are thought worthy of the Reſurrection, have any need of all the Plenty which Dr. Burnet hath prepared for it on Earth? Can it feed upon, or reliſh any of the Banquets God, ſaith Irenæus, and all the Ancient Milleneries hath prepared for it? Can a Body raiſed in Power, i. e. free from all Reſtiveneſs, all Pain and Laſſitude continue ſtill, as Dr. Burnet [B. 4. c. 9. p. 206.] makes the Bodies of his raiſed Millenaries to do, under ſuch Weakneſs of Nature as will not ſuffer them to continue long under ſtrong Paſſions, or intenſeneſs of Mind? Can a ſpiritual Body, free from Groſneſs and Ponderoſity, from needing Reſt, Sleep, Cloathing, Suſtenance, receive advantage from that Univerſal Plenty, [Ch. 7. p. 184. p. 186.] or need thoſe Goods of Fortune, that external Felicity, that Temporal Happineſs he hath provided for it upon Earth? Can theſe Men raiſed with immortal and incorruptible Bodies, which have already ſwallowed up Death in Victory, [p. 206.] wiſh to be diſſolved, as he ſaith they will? Can the Devil, when looſed, be ſo fooliſh, as to ſummon up his Armies to fight againſt, and kill them who are immortal, and can die no more? Can Gog and Magog, with all their numerous Hoſt, hope to prevail againſt them, or even dare to aſſault ſuch ſhining radiant Bodies as they then will have? In a word, Can ſuch Bodies need, or receive any farther Exaltation to fit them for Heaven, or for their Elevation into the Clouds, to be for ever with the Lord? If not, What ſhould they do? why ſhould they live a thouſand Years, after God hath thus fitted and prepared them for their Habitation in the higheſt Heavens? I therefore do imagine, That when the Patrons of this Millennial Reſurrection find themſelves thus preſſed, they will aſſign to their new raiſed Inhabitants of the Earth, a Body capable of enjoying the good things on Earth, and taking pleaſure in thoſe Goods of Fortune they have there provided for them, and leave their Bodies to be changed after the Millennium, into the likeneſs of Chriſt's glorious Body, and to ſuffer then another Change into Cæleſtial and Spiritual Bodies, tho' not another Reſurrection; and it ſeems neceſſary for them to admit of the forementioned Abſurdities, or to admit of this Hypotheſis; for when the Apoſtle ſaith, The Dead ſhall be raiſed incorruptible, and we ſhall be changed, their new raiſed Inhabitants muſt belong to the Dead, and ſo be raiſed incorruptible, and ſo incapable of thoſe earthly Goods they mention, as their Reward on Earth, or to the Living, and then they muſt be changed. And yet this ſhift is plainly contrary to the Account St. Paul hath given us of the Reſurrection of the Body; for he expreſly ſaith, That when this corruptible, weak, diſhonourable, earthy Body ſhall be raiſed, it ſhall be raiſed in Incorruption, Glory, Power, and be a Spiritual Body: That to the Natural ſucceeds the Spiritual Body, to the Earthy the Heavenly Body, 1 Cor. 15. 43, 44. To the Body bearing the Image of the Earthly, the Body bearing the Image of the Heavenly Adam: Whereas this ſhift muſt infer a Body raiſed not in Glory, or in Incorruption, not a ſpiritual and an heavenly Body, and ſo muſt make theſe Martyrs twice bear the Image of the earthy Adam, or at leaſt at their Reſurrection not to bear the Image of the heavenly. Again, They who are then alive, and ſhall be changed, ſaith the Apoſtle, are only thoſe who never ſlept in the Grave, ver. 51, 52. Now this cannot be true of Martyrs raiſed from the Dead, and ſo the Change here mentioned cannot belong to them.

2*dly*, This Doctrine seems inconsistent with what the Scripture most plainly hath delivered concerning our Lord Jesus, the efficient Cause, as well as the Exemplar, of the Resurrection of those that are Christ's; for he that is the Author of this Resurrection, is ὁ Κύριος ἐξ οὐρανοῦ, the Lord coming down from Heaven, to effect it, 1 Cor. 15. 47. our Lord descending down ἀπ' οὐρανοῦ from the Heavens; 1 Thess. 4. 16. the time when God shall give to those that have been persecuted and afflicted, Rest with the Apostles, who sure will have a share in the first Resurrection, is the time of the Revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ from Heaven, 2 Thess. 1. 7. The time of this Millennium, say the Patrons of it, is the time of the Restitution of all things. Now at that time, saith the Apostle Peter, our Jesus is to be sent down from the Heavens, Acts 3. 20, 21. they being only to contain him till that time. And one would think that if the Saints must reign with Christ on Earth a thousand years, he must be with them on the Earth; but this the Patrons of the Millennium will by no means own, but look upon it as a great Absurdity. For, that Christ should leave the right hand of his Father, to come and pass a thousand years here below, living upon earth in an heavenly Body; this I confess, saith Dr. Burnet (g), is a thing I never could digest. And (h) I dare not imagine, saith Mr. Mead, of this Presence of Christ in his Kingdom, that it should be a visible Converse upon Earth; for the Kingdom of Christ ever hath, and shall be, Regnum Cœlorum, a Kingdom whose Throne and Kingly Residence is in Heaven. Here then the Scripture-Account of the Resurrection, that it shall be effected by the Lord Jesus coming down from Heaven, and the Millennium of the Ancients, is at once rejected. For, as (i) Lactantius saith, the Son of God shall come, and be conversant among Men a thousand years, and rule them with a righteous Empire: he shall reign with them upon Earth. So was this the avowed Doctrine of all the ancient Millenaries; for they not only did assert his Reign on Earth, but assigned Jerusalem as the peculiar place of his Residence whilst he reigned upon it.

3*dly*, This Doctrine is still more evidently repugnant to the time assigned for the Resurrection of the Just; for they are to be raised, saith the Apostle, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump, 1 Cor. 15. 52. for the trumpet shall sound, and (then) the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we that are alive, and have not slept, shall be changed. For the Lord himself shall descend from Heaven with a shout, and with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first. Here we are taught that the dead in Christ, and so the Martyrs, shall not be raised till our Lord's Descent from Heaven, that then they shall be raised in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye; that, immediately upon their being raised, they that are then alive shall be changed. (k) St. Jerom therefore said, with good ground, that the Apostle by these words, cunctam primæ & secundæ Resurrectionis excludit fabulam, destroys the Fable of the first and second Resurrection, by asserting that the Resurrection of all that are dead in Christ, and sleep in him, shall be performed in a moment, and in the twinkling of an eye, at the sounding of the last Trump, and at the Shout, or Voice, of the last Angel: which leaves no room for a whole thousand years betwixt the first and second Resurrection, unless the Angel should be supposed to shout, or the Trump sound, a thousand years. The hour cometh, saith our Lord, John 5. 28. when all that are in the tombs shall hear my voice, and shall come forth. And sure that must be a long hour which lasteth a full thousand years. Again, there shall be pious Persons living and unchanged, when all the pious that were dead are raised; for the dead in Christ shall rise first, then we that are alive shall be changed, 1 Thess. 4. 16, 17. we that have not yet slept, saith the Apostle. Place now the Millennium after the Conflagration of the World, and all things in it, and where will you find these pious Men alive, or how will you preserve them from those Flames? (l) Dr. Burnet finds a great Difficulty, not common to all, as he imagines, but peculiar to his own Invention, of a Millennium after the Conflagration of the present Earth; viz. How Gog and Magog should get into this new Earth, the wicked being all consumed in those Flames. He is not hardy enough to say, that this is the Poetick Tale of the Gyants, though he ſaith (p. 219.) it hath great affinity with it. And therefore he produces theſe Men, according to the Philoſophy of Lucretius and Mr. Hobbs, (p. 220.) from the ſlime of the Earth, and the heat of the Sun, as Brute Creatures were at firſt: but whence come theſe pious Men that have not yet ſlept, into this new Earth, is a freſh Difficulty; and to this the Doctor hath yet nothing to ſay, for he either thought not of them, or was unwilling to take up with the Rabbinical Notion that they had Eagles wings given them to mount up into the Air whilſt the Earth was on fire.

Giants,

3dly. This Doctrine ſeems inconſiſtent with many Circumſtances of the Reſurrection mentioned in the Holy Scripture; for that ſpeaks conſtantly of the Reſurrection of all Saints, as of a Reſurrection not to a temporal Life on Earth, but to an eternal in the Heavens. They ſhall come forth out of their Tombs to the Reſurrection of Life, John 5. 28. He that ſeeth and believeth in me, He that eateth my fleſh hath eternal Life, and I will raiſe him up at the laſt day, Chap. 6. 54. That teaches us that when Chriſt comes again, they ſhall be received into the Heavenly Manſions prepared for them, Joh. 14. 2, 3. 17. 24. and ſhall be with him where he now is; that when Chriſt, who is their Life, ſhall appear, they ſhall appear with him in glory, Col. 3. 14. that when he doth appear, they ſhall be like him, and ſee him as he is. Whereas according to the Hypotheſis of the Millenaries, when Chriſt appears, and when he comes again, they who have been his choiceſt and moſt faithful Servants, ſhall not immediately be raiſed to eternal Life, but firſt to that Life which is but temporal; they ſhall not be received into Heavenly, but into Earthly Manſions; they ſhall not be glorified with him, appear with him in Glory, be like him in his Glory, or ſee him as he is, till they have ſpent a thouſand Years on Earth to fit them for thoſe bleſſed Manſions, and to prepare them for this Beatifick Viſion. Moreover, it is ſaid of all the Dead in Chriſt, of all that ſlept in Jeſus, that they ſhall be raiſed firſt, and that then immediately we that are alive ſhall be ſnatched up with them in clouds to meet the Lord in the Air, and then we ſhall be for ever with the Lord. Now if this be ſo, ſurely we cannot afterwards expect to live on Earth a thouſand Years; For as (m) Nyſſen puts the queſtion, τί δὲ χρεία τῆς κάτω ζωῆς ὁ μετὰ τοῦ Θεοῦ ζῶν εἰς ἀεὶ χρόνον ἐστίν, what need is there that they ſhould live below on earth, who hope thus to live in heaven, and to be ever with the Lord, eſpecially ſince theſe words plainly ſeem to ſpeak not of a temporal, but an eternal Life with Chriſt, not by enjoyment of him upon Earth, but by Tranſlation from it to Heaven? Again when the ſame Apoſtle ſaith, this I ſay, Brethren, that fleſh and blood ſhall not inherit the Kingdom of God, neither ſhall Corruption inherit Incorruption, 1 Cor. 15. 20. and thence concludes that the dead ſhall be raiſed incorruptible, and we ſhall be changed; does he not ſufficiently inſinuate that we ſhall be raiſed not to enjoy an Earthly but an Heavenly Kingdom; and that our raiſed Bodies being glorified, ſhall not conſiſt of Fleſh and Blood? And what then will they do with all that plenty, and that great affluence of the Goods of Fortune which the Millenaries do ſo highly value? In a word, the comfort which the Apoſtle gives the (n) Theſſalonians concerning their departed Friends who had ſuffered much Affliction, Perſecution, Tribulation, and doubtleſs many of them Death, for Chriſt's ſake, is only this, that they who remained alive ſhould not prevent them in the enjoyment of the Happineſs promiſed to the Body, but the dead in Chriſt ſhould riſe firſt, and then the living ſhould be changed; not this, that theſe ſufferers for the ſake of Chriſt ſhould riſe a thouſand Years before the reſt to Reign with Chriſt on Earth, which yet is by the Millenaries deemed great matter of their Conſolation, and ſo was very proper to have been mentioned here, had it been any Article of Chriſtian Faith.

Arg. 3. §. 3. 3dly. This Reign of Chriſtians upon Earth agrees not with the genius of Chriſtian Faith, or with the nature of Chriſtian Promiſes, or with that frame and temper of Spirit it requires from the Profeſſors of Chriſtianity. For,

1ſt. The Chriſtian is repreſented as one who is entirely dead to the World, and to the things of the World; one who is not to love it, or the things of it, who is to uſe it as if he uſed it not, as one whoſe Converſation is in Heaven, Philip. 3. 19. and it is made the Character of one who is an enemy to the Croſs of Chriſt, that he minds earthly things; whereas if this be a true Goſpel-promiſe made to Chriſtians for their Conſolation and Encouragement under the troubles of this preſent World, that they ſhall after this Life ended, live again on Earth a Life of Indolence, and Peace, and Plenty in the Enjoyment of the Goods of Fortune: If this be one great part of the Reward which God had promiſed to thoſe that ſuffer for his Name, ſure it becomes them to have their Minds and their Affections ſet upon it, to live in expectation of it, and to deſire to enjoy theſe Goods of Fortune, this Peace and Plenty upon Earth; and it would rather be the Character of thoſe who bear the Croſs in proſpect of theſe Bleſſings to mind earthly things. That, ſaith St. Paul, which makes the ſufferings of this preſent World ſo light unto us, is this conſideration, that we look not at the things which are ſeen, but which are not seen, not at things Temporal but Eternal 2 Cor. 4. 17, 18. even at an house not made with hands eternal in the Heavens, Chap. 5. 1. Whereas if this be one of the great and precious Promises contained in the Gospel, and made for the encouragement of Christians to suffer for Christ's sake they must then look not only at things Eternal, but things Temporal, or for a temporal House on Earth, as well as one eternal in the Heavens, for their supposed Reign on Earth will be but temporal.

Again, the Exhortation of our Lord in his admirable Sermon on the Mount runs thus, Lay not up for your selves treasures upon Earth, but lay up treasures in the Heaven, for where your treasure is, there will your hearts be also. Mat. 6. 19, 20, 21. And again, provide your selves bags that wax not old, a treasure in the Heavens that faileth not, Luk. 12. 33, 34. St. Paul exhorts all that are risen with Christ, to set their hearts, and their affections not on things on the earth, but on things above, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God, Col. 3. 1, 2, 3. and that because they are Dead with Christ unto these worldly things, and their Life in God is hid with Christ; so that when Christ, who is their life, shall appear, they shall appear with him in Glory. And yet if our Lord Christ in that very Sermon, as the Millenaries suppose, encouraged them to suffer with Patience and Meekness upon this Consideration that they should inherit the Earth, and had pronounced them blessed upon this account, surely they might have suffered upon this very prospect of laying up for themselves Treasures upon Earth in this Millennium, and might have had their Hearts and Affections placed upon them; for wherefore are they bid to lay up Treasures in the Heaven, and to set their Affections on things above, but because these are the Blessings promised as the reward of Christian Piety and Patience: If then these Blessings to be enjoyed on Earth after the Resurrection be one great part of the reward which God hath promised to the Piety and Patience of the Christian, what reason can be given why he should not see, and set his Heart upon them also? If it be so great a Privilege to have a part in the first Resurrection, to enjoy this Indolency, Peace, and Plenty upon Earth, that the Apostle stiles them blessed who have a part in it, should they not seek, and set their Hearts upon that very thing in which their Happiness consists? And yet the comfort which our Lord, and his Apostles do afford these Christian sufferers is only this, that great is their reward in heaven, Mat. 5. 12. Luke 6. 23. that when they are tried they shall receive a Crown of glory, Jam. 1. 12. and that they have in heaven a better, and more enduring substance, Heb. 10. 34. which as it placeth the Reward and Comfort of Christ's suffering Members not on Earth, but in the Heavens, and so gives us just reason to conclude our Lord, and his Apostles knew nothing of this Reign on Earth, or thought it no great matter of their consolation; so did it give occasion to the Antients to conclude thus, (o) If the inheritance of Martyrs be in heaven, their reign on earth can be no better than a fable.

Moreover, It is evident that all the antient Patrons of the Millennium held that Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and all the Patriarchs and Prophets were to be Sharers with the Christians in this reign on Earth, and that then would the promised Canaan be made good to them. Whereas the Apostle plainly tells us, that they expected no reward on Earth, nor did they mind that Canaan where they dwelt, but only waited for an heavenly Country; They confessed, saith the Apostle, that they were Strangers and Pilgrims upon Earth, that they were not mindful of that Country whence they came out, but sought a better Country, that is, an heavenly, Heb. 11. 13, 16. since then these holy Patriarchs, and choice Friends of of God, not only sought not after, but even disclaimed any Inheritance on Earth, seeing the only Country they did expect and look for, was an heavenly Country; seeing this only was the Inheritance God, as their God, provided for them, and therefore that only which they were to enjoy at their Resurrection, when they compleatly were to be made, and treated as the Sons of God: surely in vain must Christians hope for any Reign on Earth with them, who professing themselves Pilgrims and Strangers in it, declared they were not mindful of such an Habitation in the Land of Canaan, and who are at the Resurrection to be made like the Angels, and to enjoy not any earthly, but that heavenly Country, which God hath graciously prepared for them.

In a word, to fortel Times of Peace and Plenty to succeeding Ages, to raise the expectation of a People whose Backs are bowed down, and have been long enslaved and afflicted, is very suitable to this divine Oeconomy; but, to promise plenty, and the Goods of Fortune as the reward of Christian Piety and Patience, and let them know that if they suffer for the sake of Christ, he will be sure to raise them up to plentiful enjoyments of the Goods of Fortune, this is too mean, too much beneath the sublime Spirit of Christianity, to be one of her great and precious Promises.
